Bum Disinfectants.

Despite the fact that indications of oil has been freely used, a number of the inhabitants of the State Capitol appear to have broken out with well-defined symptoms of "ma-beatus" in a malignant form.

Roosevelt to Win.

Radio reports of the Literary Digest poll of votes would indicate that Roosevelt will beat Hoover badly even in the yankee states. Maine has already shown her hand. So many hate Hoover that they will vote for Roosevelt on faith.

Hoover had Robert Allen, Washington correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor fired because the article, "Washington Merry-go-Round" displeased him. John Carter of the state department was summarily fired for being the author of "What We Are About to Receive."

Cheesey.

The Wellington Leader reports the results of the efforts of the Rolla demonstration club of Collingsworth as being 117 pounds of cheese, to say nothing of 4,206 quarts of vegetables.

Being made at home for home use, this cheese is no doubt of the edible variety rather than commercial. To compete with the average commercial product, the cheese would have to be made from rotten milk with a large percentage of paraffine or tallow. Anyway, we would like to purchase a generous supply of that home-made product feeling secure in the quality test given it by the good ladies of Rolla

Hit The Bull's Eye.

Former Senator James W. Wadsworth, part owner and one time manager of the famous J A ranch near here, decries the tremendous burden of taxation now being carried by the people of this nation, lays down the following four principles:

- 1, Immediate reduction of 25 percent of the operating cost of government; 2, the withdrawal of government competition with private interests; 3, the abolition of all activities by the government which are not essentially governmental; 4, cessation of federal aid to enterprises not strictly federal in their nature.

Reformation.

A few years ago, or for many years as for that, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce urged citizens to vote bonds—any kind of bonds just so they voted 'em. Highway and municipal bonds were especially favorites.

The Chamber must have a more sensible bunch of men at the helm now. They not only do not advocate bond issues, but are positively against the idea.

Since we are to vote upon a proposed constitutional amendment this November to determine if the taxpayers of this state shall "sluff off" a few million on a Texas Centennial at San Antonio in 1936. In other words, celebrate the fact that the state has managed to get along a hundred years.

There is a lot of sentiment wrapped up in the Centennial movement when we stop to think of those grand characters who carved a state out of Mexico. Instead of spending so much money for buildings in "one" town, why not construct highways giving each part of the state equal recognition, and name these highways after the noted characters of early Texas history?

Queer Human Animals.

Benevolent human beings donate freely to a rescue home to reclaim vice, but don't give a rap for protecting virtue. Others refuse to contribute to a "good fellow" fund or United Charities, but shower flowers on the dead. There is more interest taken in a pompous funeral than in sustaining life.

Men and women discuss disease and "swap ailments by the hour," but are not at all interested in promoting health. Some are said to actually enjoy ill health that they might have a choice subject on tap for instant discussion in what is usually a vain attempt to elicit sympathy.

Millions of dollars are spent by the government to repair wrong in prosecuting young criminals rather than teaching them to do right through education in trade schools. Criminals come from the idle class as a rule. Prisons do not reform. The period of protection comes during the formative age in training boys and girls to become self supporting, rather than have their time taken up with a lot of nonsense in our public schools as it is today.

Phoney Politicians.

In order to keep the folks stirred up in Louisiana, they have Long and anti-Long scrap on twelve months in the year. In Mississippi, it is Bilbo and anti-Bilbo. Old Alabama gets along pretty well with her governors, but that Heflin and anti-Heflin fight still persists.

Not to be outdone by her sister states, Texas has Ferguson and anti-Ferguson. It is not that leaders of either side have so much interest in the welfare of the state, as they have a deep-seated desire to either put the "outs" in or the "ins" out, depending on which side has possession of the state offices.

Little interest is taken in selecting proper material for our state legislature, which is of far more importance than the office of governor. But then the Legislature has no appointive powers as compared with that of the governor. Members of the Legislature appoint a few flunkies around the state capitol, while the governor has a long list of appointments and a "standing army" standing at the pie counter eternally begging for something. Were this not a fact, there would be little said about the present governor's episode. State interests? Bah!! It's pie they want.

Soldier Days—And Now.

Do you remember back in April of 1917 when this nation entered the great World War? Do you remember that it was upon the tongue of the nation "nothing too good for our boys" as we saw them forced into the maelstrom which they did not create and in which they had no share in dictating the peace terms?

Do you remember how our common citizens took on a resurrected glory of patriotism; the men giving freely of their money "till it hurt," and the noble women working early and late making those things that would bring comfort and cheer to our boys "over there?" Of course you do!

Only recently one of those soldier boys of '18 made the race for county superintendent of schools of this county. In a race of three, he won by an overwhelming majority. There was aught said against his good name—or his opponents. His ability, character and reputation is unquestioned.

The strain on him in making that race forced him to enter a government hospital especially designed to mend the human machines that made it possible for the favored few to find a market for war material and supplies back in 1918.

Since entering that hospital, a petition has been circulated seeking the abolishment of the office to which he was overwhelmingly nominated in July. He's on his back recuperating from an operation in an Oklahoma government hospital. His wife and babies are at home near Giles. During these depressive times, it was cheaper for them to remain at home, though they would have preferred to be nearer him.

Due to his illness, he has not been informed of the actions of those who so far forgot themselves as to take action against the interests of a deserving man who supports one of our most highly respected families—his wife and babies that mean all the world to him. It would have been no more right had he never seen service, or if he had no family as for that matter.

Those who sponsored the petition asking for the abolishment of the office are said to have done so that the taxpayers might pay the bill through a general fund rather than a school fund. Did these same parties voice a protest when this newspaper pointed out a waste of tax money some months ago? No! Is their actions based upon principle or politics?

The ex-service man entered the battle in 1918 under the delusion of "saving the world for democracy." Today he battles for an existence. He deserves no special favors—asks none. But he is deserving of a square deal just like any other ordinary human being.

Dr. C. Frank Brown and family of Dallas are visiting in the home of Dr. and Mrs. O. L. Jenkins. The doctors were classmates at the state medical college at Galveston several years ago.

EDUCATIONAL DIGEST

Education is as necessary to the life of a democracy as are food, clothing, and shelter to the health and life of the individual citizen. —Texas Outlook

Children must be first, because in the words of Mr. J. E. Moore, the editor of the National Education Association Journal, "They are the torch-bearers of civilization. We must put the children first and keep them first, knowing that it is they who must carry the torch tomorrow, if civilization is to march forward." "The real spirit of America is that of honesty and willingness to fulfill every trust given into the care of man. America must recognize the right of the child, pay the interest on her baby bonds owned by childhood, and keep the schools at their best. Because children are our greatest national treasure we must keep them first. —C. C. Mitchell, Texarkana.

Thomas Jefferson said: "If a nation expects to be both ignorant and free in a state of civilization it expects what never was and never will be."

Texas gave as one of her reasons for declaring her independence from Mexico, that Mexico had failed to establish a system of Free Public Education.

Education is a function of the state. Public education is the foundation upon which the democratic state is built. The perpetuity of our form of government and the improvement of our society rest alike upon the work which is done in the public school system. —Prepared by B. B. Lawson, Texarkana.

"A fool and his money are soon parted," is an old saying that emphasizes the fact that ignorant humanity cannot compete successfully with those who are well informed, educated, trained. —Texas Outlook.

A community is no better than its schools. Hurt the schools and you hurt everything. —Texas Outlook.

SOUTHERNERS WHO MADE HOMES IN SOUTH AMERICA

Most of the southern sympathizers who moved to South America after the Civil war settled in a few colonies, chief of which were Para, Espiritu Santo and Sao Paulo. One of these in the province of Para was situated at the mouth of the Tapajos river. Many of these settlers eventually returned to the United States. There were a few however, who remained and who were apparently successful. A larger and more prosperous colony of southern exiles was situated 300 miles north of Rio De Janeiro in the province of Espiritu Santo.

However, the largest number of Confederate settlements were made in Sao Paulo and it is believed that ultimately these settlements were the most prosperous. The colony at Santa Barbara in Sao Paulo was so successful that even in 1927 and probably today there were several traces of its existence. It was known as the Villa Americana, but nearly all persons of North American birth or lineage have moved to cities or purchased plantations in the rural districts. TEMPLE OF TRUTH
By the Apostle

Have you a little fairy in your home? (With apologies to soap.) I mean do any of your boys take home economics. That is the department in the public school where they teach them how to cook, sew and wash dishes. There ain't any other subjects by which a boy can make credits, and credits is what counts. There is one thing to a certainty, my boy taking home ec. just as well make up his mind that he can practice washing dishes in his mother's kitchen.

Do you ever stop to think about the days long ago when you got things all rounded up for winter? It was a great day—and part of the night. Fat turkeys for special occasions. Plenty of canned stuff in the cellar. Sweet 'taters in the hill. Molasses by the barrel. Hams cured up just right and plenty of egg factories in the barn lot. Peanuts and popcorn sacked ready for the onslaught.

Going out to the barn, there were big cribs of corn. Oats in the granary. Stacks of feed. Cotton seed in the bin. The barn loft was

The above was not written to tantalize any of you older folks. It was simply to refreshen your memory. Young folks of today know Esquimaux pie, but when winter comes, they are blown up. Poor kids! They have to live out of a paper sack, eat stuff made of trash and flavored to disguise its source. They get no peanuts except the hulls made into a breakfast food.

Well, well, the women are becoming reconciled now after the kids going off to school. The first two weeks in September is a hard old go in many a home on account of the boys and girls going away to school. Some of them come back and settle down after their school days, while others drift away and seldom ever visit the old home again. This paper goes to a large number who are in school now. When you read this, write the homefolks a long letter. It may be filled with little every day nonsense affairs, but the home folks will appreciate it just the same. If you have a mother, write

Theme: "THE TEMPLE BUILT BY GOD, THE HOUSE IN WHICH I LIVE."

XI. "THE THINKING MACHINE OF THE HOUSE, THE MIND."
Text: Matt. 22:37

You don't know much about your brain, do you? You have a brain within your skull. The brain is difficult to describe. It is a soft, pulpy, mass, and is linked to the nerves and joined to the spinal cord. I wish I could tell you more about it, for it is within your brain, that God has given you the power to think, to love, to remember, the ability to reason and to learn.

The mind is that part of you that thinks. It is something like the soul. It cannot be handled or looked at. You can spoil your mind or you can train it. It is the thinking part of you and with your soul will live forever.

Your mind is ever ready to respond to good or evil. When you go to school, or out into life, it is possible to go into good or bad company. Your school days may be blessed by good companions, or they may be spoiled by bad influence. Your parents watch those days most carefully. Little evils will spoil your life. They say if a mainspring of a watch has never been near a magnet you can never trust that watch again, until it has a new mainspring. It is so with your mind. An evil influence may spoil your whole life.

If your mind is the part of you that thinks, what is it you do think? If your mind is that part of you that admires, what is it that you do admire? If your mind has to do with your affections, what is it you love?

There is a passage of Scripture that I would like for you to commit to memory. "Whatever things are true, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue and if there be any praise, think on these things."

The Apostle Paul, advises us to set our "affections" (mind) on things above. If we think on good things we will be inspired to do good deeds. Evil thoughts leads to evil deeds. So think on good things.

To help you in your thinking along this line we will bring two lessons next Lord's Day. At the morning hour, our subject will be: "God's Great Service Station." At the evening hour a special sermon will be delivered on: "What the Christian Church Believes. We invite you to be present.

Fall Fashions—1932 vs. Gay 90's

FASHION news reports from style centers pertaining to the new autumn mode say that the cigarette silhouette is to rule in new fall frocks for the modern miss, with the full sleeve created to accentuate the cigarette silhouette.

As this study in styles indicates, a full sleeve is just as full of shirred textile under one name as another. The Victorian vamp of the gay 90's was proud of her leg o' mutton sleeves and this autumn Miss America of 1932 will simply dote on the dolman sleeve. The dolman sleeve is in fact a healthy juvenile balloon sleeve well on its way to full-blown maturity.

Of course, forty years ago, when the leg o' mutton sleeve was all the rage, cigarette would never have been mentioned in connection with styles. The belies of that era did not smoke since the raw tobaccos used in making old fashioned cigarettes did not have the mildness which the toasting process gives to the modern cigarette which Miss America of 1932 prefers. But the descriptive term seems applied quite naturally to the modern straight and youthful silhouette which is inspiring the fall mode.

The dolman sleeve in its design permits the style creators to narrow the bodice lines by crowding the shirred sleeve-top in toward the center of both front and back, thus giving the effect of an eight-inch wide front and back and creating the straight line essential in the cigarette silhouette.

ers, H. H. King, and the honoree, Mrs. Earl Alderson, and Misses Loyma Taylor, Eula Bess Hill, Vera Garland, Nan Potter, and the hostesses.

Mrs. S. R. Tomlinson was hostess to the Lelia Lake Study club Tuesday afternoon. The subject was, "The Romance of Art Pottery", led by Mrs. Will Kennedy and assisted by Mrs. Albert Tomlinson and Mrs. J. A. Thompson. A very interesting exhibit of Van Briggie Art Pottery, prepared by this famous maker of pottery which is at the foot of Pikes Peak, was shown in connection with the lesson.

Lowe Makes Denial in Printed Highway Statements

Sept. 19, 1932.
Mr. J. C. Estlack, Clarendon, Texas.
Dear Sir:-

In your publication of last week an error existed in your write up of Highway discussion. I do not think the error amounts to much but to some it might be misleading and I would be very glad to have it corrected, that is as to a statement that I was reported to have made.

It was stated that I made the statement that I was in favor of highway construction when the people were able to pay for it and that in my opinion they were now able to pay for it. This statement was in error as I made no such statement.

If you will make this correction I shall be very much obliged to you as I am sure it was an oversight or a misunderstanding.

Very Resp.
S. W. Lowe

A BABY'S RATTLE 5000 YEARS OLD

Tel-Asmar, Irak. I have just been playing with a baby's rattle, a little toy, shaped roughly in the form of a sheep, made of hardened clay, with small stones rattling in its inside. As rattles go, it is a crude affair—but then it was made for some small child who lived near the River Diala about 3000 years B. C.

Here on the Diala Plain, where excavations have been carried out in recent months at Tel-Asmar fifty miles northeast of Bagdad, by the Chicago Oriental Institute, lie the remains of the ancient city of Ashnunak. It has been known for many years, from historical records, that such a town existed as the capital of a once flourishing state, and you can now discover a series of eight ancient palaces, one on top of the other.

Hence the baby's rattle, though fascinating, is of far less importance than the deductions to be drawn from it. It is a fallacy to think that the purpose of archaeology is to amass collections of antiquities. It is nothing of the sort. What the diggers are looking for is historical data—inscriptions, pottery, tools, whatever it may be—which will enable them to rewrite the history of these ancient civilizations that existed before written records became general. The discovery, therefore, of objects of secondary importance. Many valuable discoveries have been made without unearthing antiquities of any great intrinsic value.

Out for Season

The blackest of gloom pervaded Aggieland at College Station, Texas, when it was learned that Charlie Malone, above, all-Southwest conference end, will probably be out for the football season because of an injured knee.

It was the fate of Ashnunak and its sister cities in the Diala Plain to be employed by the kings of the Elamites as a spearhead against Babylon. Geographically, Ashnunak was the central point of a triangle, comprising the Elamite civilization to the east, the Akkadian to the north, and the Babylonian and Sumerian to the southwest and south.

Culturally, the site shows traces of all three influences, especially in the lower layers. Militarily, Ashnunak was closely tied to Susa, the modern Shush in Eouth Persia and represented the thrust of the

New Texas Oil Field on Big Thicket's Edge

Here is a new oil well which definitely opens an entirely new field at the edge of the big thicket at Hook's Switch, Hardin county, 18 miles north of Beaumont. It is the Republic Production company and Houston Oil company's Ariola No. 1. The well is producing 5000 barrels daily of 40 gravity oil from a depth of around 4000 feet. Two other wells are already being drilled in the area. Five major oil companies are leasing land in the vicinity.

Tarleton Cow Achieves Medal of Merit

Nancy's Katy Lee, owned by John Tarleton Agricultural college at Amarillo, Texas, is the first Texas Jersey under five years of age to receive Medal of Merit rank with the American Jersey Cattle club, and the third cow in Texas to qualify for this honor. Katy Lee's record was 747.91 pounds of butter fat during the 205 day test.

East against the West, which was apparent even when history was dawning.

What the excavators have found at Tel-Asmar is the site of the complete city, although only a part of it has been uncovered. They have now opened up the central courtyard of the Royal Palace—or rather of the series of royal palaces. These can clearly be traced, one of them having been completely and systematically burned out. The city as it existed at that time must have been burned to the ground in some great military disaster, and it was not until some time later that the new buildings began to spring up.

One curious feature of these palaces is the complete system of drainage which they all show. The drains are the exact counterpart of the big water hubs which are still used in Irak. The strangest thing about them is that the same system is to be observed in every layer, for the engineers in those days, in palace after palace, built them in the same place.

It is not as if the architects and builders of any one palace knew the constructional details of the ruins on which they were building. One sees, for example, an excellently preserved flight of bituminized steps. This stairway, about three yards wide and in an excellent state of preservation, runs up, as it appears, to a blank wall. What happened was that when this wall was built, its builders were unaware of the existence of the stairway, which was covered by debris and sand. The excavator, however, sees all these different stages simultaneously, with the result that this stairway seems absolutely meaningless, leading as it does from nowhere merely to the face of a wall. But there are generations of men between the two.

The range of buildings covers a period of approximately 500 years, from about 200 to 1900 B. C. In those days the plain of the Diala was thickly populated. Many of the houses uncovered in the poorer parts of the city were nothing but slums—that is clear from the small size of the rooms and the way in which these houses are huddled together. A good deal of space was taken up by palaces and temples, but the ordinary people crowded together in small houses, probably not enjoying very much comfort.

Fortunately this site has not been spoiled very much in the past the priceless heritage of civilization.

So far as concerns the actual objects that are discovered in Irak, half of these go to the Irak National Museum and the other half to the universities or institutions financing the expeditions. The real value of the work, however, lies in the deductions that are drawn before these finds are removed from the surroundings in which they have lain all these centuries.

Since the panic struck us in 1929, every one has been hard hit for actual cash. Newspapers have "carried on" under an immense strain. The Leader has not been reduced in size or quality through these many, many months of hardship.

When you were handicapped for the price, we came to your rescue and traded with you accepting those articles you could spare best. It was our intention to convince you of our faith in you and our country.

We have carried the load through part of 1929, 1930, 1931 and this far into 1932 without a protest. Good and well. We feel at this time that our many reader friends are willing to help us by paying for the Leader in cash at the rate of only

We have over that sum scattered over the county held in trust by our loyal supporters. Won't you make an extra effort to pay us that DOLLAR within the next month? We would be glad to do as much for you any time.

If you are paid up to date, a dollar will extend your subscription another year. We are making this appeal to you rather than drop your name from the list. CHEVROLET TRUCK MEETS DEMANDS

Detroit, Mich. A new company now leads in the manufacture and sale of trucks, with the ascendancy of the Chevrolet Motor Company to first place in commercial car registrations recently completed for the first six months of this year.

This company, which has steadily forged ahead of all automotive manufactures in volume, now holds first place in both commercial and passenger car popularity.

Commercial registrations reveal that in the first six months of this year Chevrolet titled 36,049 trucks as against 100,564 units for the industry, or 35.8 per cent of the total. The second leading make registered 33,492 trucks or 33.3 per cent of the total, which represents the output of 33 trucks manufactures.

The percentage of total business obtained by Chevrolet in the first half of the year is the highest the company ever received during normal relative conditions in the industry. In the first half of 1928 Chevrolet got 44 per cent of the total, but in that period the dealer organization of a leading competitor was not supplied with its full quota of new trucks.

This year's performance of 35.8 per cent of the total compares with 30.7 last year, with 30.1 in 1930

30.4 in 1929, and with 24.6 in 1927 when the company was first making progress in the volume truck field.

while obtaining 35 per cent of total truck business, Chevrolet also titled 33.0 per cent of all passenger cars registered in the United States as against 17 per cent for its nearest competitor, and less than ten per cent for the third leading make.

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Merchant, grandad Merchant and Silas Franklin spent the week end on their ranch near Borger.
