SINGERS WILL MEET SUNDAY AT MARTIN SCHOOL

Convention Sessions Begin At One O'clock With R. W. Alewine in Charge

The Donley County Singing convention will convene at the Martin school building six miles west of Clarendon at one o'clock Sunday, December 2nd. This is the second time the Martin community has been so favored.

Principal George Kavanaugh of the Martin school guaranteed no sandstorm at the last convention in order to get the meeting for his community.

A large crowd attended the last several sessions. Due to the accessibility of the Martin school on the main No. 5 highway and extra large crowd is expected.

Singers from several different counties attend these meetings, and community song leaders put on special displays of talent.

Mrs. Tidrow Finds Market For Quality Butter

Besides supplying the family demands at home, Mrs. A. E. Tidrow markets forty-five pounds of choice butter to regular customers in Clarendon every week. Eleven cows are being milked at this time.

In addition to the regular butter supply, Mr. and Mrs. Tidrow market a beef every Friday. They have no trouble in finding a market for choice young beef or butter of first quality, Mrs. Tidrow says.

Local Minister to Attend State B. T. S. Convention

Rev. J. Perry King, pastor of the First Baptist church, will leave here Thursday morning for Lubbock where he will attend the state B. T. S. convention from Thursday to Saturday.

He will be accompanied by Mrs. King and son John Burton who will visit friends and attend the convention.

FARMERS VOTE ON COTTON ACT DECEMBER 14TH

Compulsory Cotton Rule Is Put Squarely to Grower By Administration

Secretary Wallace has set December 14 as the date on which cotton farmers will vote on whether they wish compulsory control of cotton production under the Bankhead act to be continued next year.

"Are you in favor of continuing the Bankhead act for next year?" is the question on which Southern farmers will vote yes or no.

All eligible voters, defined in the Bankhead act as those "who have the legal or equitable right as owner, tenant, share cropper or otherwise to produce cotton," will be given an opportunity between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5 p. m. on that date to register their reaction to the experiment in compulsory control which has been in force since the past summer.

Under this plan each farmer was allotted a quota under the 10,460,000 bale national total which he was allowed to grow tax free. All cotton produced in excess of this amount was subject to a tax of 50 per cent.

Each voter will be handed a statement from Secretary Wallace with his ballot. Wallace will urge cotton farmers to "examine carefully all the facts and reach a decision based upon considered judgment as to whether the Bankhead act is needed to assure attainment of the objectives of the cotton adjustment program."

Local cotton committeemen in each district will have charge of the election, and will be allowed two clerks. Most of the elections in this county will be held at the central school building of each district.

ADULT WOMEN'S FERA CLASSES SHOW INCREASE

With a Small Beginning The Enrollment Has Reached Ninety-Two

The public is so unfamiliar with the idea of getting something worth while for nothing, the Donley county FERA home-making project was looked upon rather skeptically at first. Since it has been proven that there is no "catch," the classes have grown steadily with each meeting.

At the present time, there is an enrollment of ninety-two, and regular classes are conducted at Clarendon, Hudgins, Giles, Goldston and Ashtola.

Women are offered the opportunity of getting instruction in any phase of home work in which they might be interested, free of any cost. The teachers, Mrs. Earl Jones, and Misses Gladys Wright and Maude Crawford strive to bring to the classes the newest ideas in all-round, practical home-making.

At some time in the near future, an exhibit of rugs, homemade toys and other products of class work being done over the county, will be shown.

Earl Jones, who recently returned from the Federal teacher's training center at Austin, is the county supervisor of these and other adult classes for both men and women.

Lions Crippled Children's Fund Enriched by $53.65

At the Lions luncheon hour Tuesday, Boss Lion J. T. Pafman announced that the Birch entertainment had netted the Crippled Children's fund $53.65.

Earl Jones, guest of the Club, spoke on the Federal Workers Educational projects, and Clarendon's opportunity for having the first school of the kind in the Panhandle.

Rev. J. Perry King spoke on the subject of "Thanksgiving" and was followed by Judge A. T. Cole who spoke briefly on the same subject.

Homer Mulkey announced Dr. Collins refusal to accept any of the expense money raised to secure him as speaker for the Father-Son banquet. It was voted that $20 of the amount be used to purchase additional equipment for the boys recreational room, and the other $4.50 be kept in the Father-Son fund for next year.

Guests of the Club were Frank Fry, Earl Jones, E. O. Bone, H. S. Brady, Revs. E. D. Landreth and T. S. Barcus.

Overplus of Hog Production Given to Relief

During Saturday and Monday fifty shoats weighing from fifty to eighty pounds were turned over to the Relief Administrator. The porkers represented the overplus produced above the contract entered into by the growers with the government designed to curtail hog production.

The hog collection was supervised by the Donley County Corn-Hog Control Association. The producers had their choice of killing and wasting or giving the hogs to the relief office for the benefit of the needy. The needy will now become beneficiaries of the over production.

Rev. Reavis Will Preach At Lelia Lake Sunday

Announcement is made that Rev. Reavis will preach at the Methodist church at Lelia Lake Sunday morning, December 2 at the 11 o'clock hour, and again at night at 7:30.

Dick Allen Undergoes Very Serious Operation

G. E. (Dick) Allen is a patient at Adair hospital following a major operation for the removal of his gall bladder. He is said to be resting as well as could be expected at this time.

CHURCHES PLAN UNION SERVICES THANKSGIVING

Rev. E. D. Landreth Will Preach Thanksgiving Sermon Tomorrow

"Good Grounds for Gratitude" will be the subject of Rev. Landreth, new pastor of the First Methodist church, and who will preach the union Thanksgiving sermon at the First Baptist church Thursday morning at 10:30.

Preceding the sermon, a song and praise service will be heard.

Rev. W. E. Ferrell of the First Christian church will read scripture.

Rev. Robt. S. McKee, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will pronounce the invocation.

County judge S. W. Lowe will read the Thanksgiving proclamation.

Thanksgiving anthems will be sung by the Methodist choir under the direction of Sam Braswell.

All churches of the city having resident pastors will cooperate. An offering will likely be taken for the benefit of charitable service to be rendered as is the custom.

Mosley to Cry Auction Sale Near Lelia Lake

An auction sale will be held on the F. F. Dunkle farm near Lelia Lake Wednesday of next week. J. F. Hill is disposing of his live stock and implements.

M. W. Mosley will cry the sale. Mr. Mosley some years ago made a profession of auctioneer work, and states that he will again take up that line. "I believe I can get the high dollar and guarantee my work," Mr. Mosley stated Monday when asked about encouraging more auction sales in this section as a means of benefitting all parties concerned.

TAX DEADLINE DRAWS NEARER ON SPLIT-PAY PLAN

First Half of 1934 Levy Due Friday, Warns Tax Office Head Tuesday

This is the last week for payment of 1934 state and county taxes, and perhaps the busiest week in the office of tax collector M. W. Mosley for several months.

Taxpayers must pay the first half of their 1934 taxes by Friday night, or the entire amount of their taxes must be paid by January 30th. By paying half of the tax now, the other half payment may be legally deferred until June 30th.

The last legislature passed a law setting up new discounts for prompt payments of taxes, but this law does not become effective until the first of October next year, and does not apply on taxes due now. Neither does the penalty remission bill on delinquent taxes apply now, according to tax authorities.

Cotton Adjuster Addresses Farmers at Chamberlain

R. C. Land, cotton adjuster for this county spoke to the farmers at the Chamberlain school Monday evening and explained in detail the aBnkhead bill. About thirty farmers were present.

Similar meetings are being held in each of the cotton-growing regions of the nation this week under the direction of the Department of Agriculture.

There is about twelve communities in which these meetings are being held in Donley county this week. The purpose of the meetings is to give the farmers information that they more intelligently vote on the aBnkhead plan on December 14th.

NIGHT CLASSES TO BE ARRANGED FOR THE ADULTS

Earl Jones Will Supervise All FERA Night Classes Over The Panhandle

Returning from Austin Sunday where he had been in special training for several weeks, Earl Jones assumed his duties as county supervisor of FERA school work in Donley county.

Classes will be conducted at night for pupils from 16 years of age up who cannot otherwise attend school. Pupils will select subjects and the round table discussion method will be employed. Mathematics will not be taught in any of the classes, according to Mr. Jones.

Four teachers are now employed in the work and seven more will be added with a short time. The allotment of FERA teachers for this county has been limited to twenty-five.

Classes in Clarendon will be conducted in the Latson building.

In addition to his work in this county, Mr. Jones has been delegated to organize FERA night classes over the entire Panhandle.

Joint Thanksgiving Dinner At Christian Church

The members of the First Christian church are going to have a joint Thanksgiving dinner Thursday in the dining room in the basement.

The dinner will be served "family style," and all members and friends are invited to be present bringing a covered dish. Plenty of fellowship and wholesome spirit of christian neighborliness. Dinner will be served at one o'clock.

A special program is being arranged for this special occasion.

CLARENDON WILL ENTERTAIN 18TH LEGIONAIRE MEN

More Than 400 Hundred Are Expected to Gather Here December 8-9th

Aubyn E. Clark Post of the American Legion will be host to the Legionists of the 18th District for two days. Plans are already being made to cover every feature for the success of the affair.

Van W. Stewart, newspaper publisher of Perryton, as commander of the 18th district will be in charge of the business session. The Aubyn E. Clark Post has secured the backing of the Clarendon chamber of commerce and business men to make this convention the most successful in the history of the organization.

According to Clyde Price, commander of the Clarendon post, Dr. J. A. Hill, president of the West Texas State Teacher's college at Canyon, will be the principal speaker at the joint meeting Sunday morning, December 9, at 10:14 a. m.

Some of the prominent persons in the American Legion and the Auxiliary to be present and take part in the convention are Miller Ainsworth, state commander, of Luling; Fred Young, state adjutant, of Amarillo; George Groom, national committeeman, of Amarillo; Mrs. W. J. Danforth, department president of State Auxiliary, of Fort Worth; Mrs. Will Benton, department rehabilitation chairman, of Amarillo; Mrs. Floyd Sloan, 18th district chairman, of Amarillo, and Mrs. Van W. Stewart, department chairman of child welfare of Perryton.

A parade of bands, a drum and bugle corps, and various stunts will be held the opening day, and the visitors will be entertained with a barbecue Sunday noon of the convention, according to P. B. Gentry, chairman of the entertainment committee.

G. Lester Boykin, secretary of the Clarendon chamber of commerce, is chairman of the arrangements committee.

Sunnyview Community Meet And Pie Sales Enjoyed

The patrons of Sunnyview school further promoted interest in regard to building repair and improvement. County Superintendent, Baker explained possibilities for improvement to which that school is duly entitled.

After discussions, G. M. Allen, in efficient capacity of auctioneer, sold 25 pies. Mrs. S. T. Clayton and Mrs. John Naylor prepared cakes as premium donated to the ugly woman and handsome man. Contest of votes ran heated to give Mrs. J. T. Lamberson and H. L. Riley each a majority of votes.

Receipts netted $24.43 which the school appreciated from loyal support and interest shown by patrons.

The school will observe 2 days during Thanksgiving.

Local Teachers to Attend State Convention

At least four teachers in the local schools will attend the State Teachers Convention and Junior College Association at Galveston this week. They are H. T. Burton, McHenry Lane, R. E. Drennon and E. O. Bone. They left today and will make the trip by auto.

Besides national speakers to appear on the program, governor-elect James V. Allred will speak, as well as several leading teachers of the state.

Skyrockets Play Bronchos Here Today

Wellington's celebrated Skyrockets are here today (Wednesday) playing the renowned Bronchos. The game was called at 3:30 at College Park.

The Skyrockets in a game with Memphis' Cyclones escaped with a slight defeat of only 12-0 for sectional honors. The Bronchos in a game with the Cyclones were defeated 41-6.

"JUDGE PRIEST" OFFERS WILL HIS FINEST ROLE YET

Heart Interest Vies With Laughs and Thrills In Fox Picture

Will Rogers, "whose soul is America," as someone has pointed out, "discovers" still another quarter of our land in the new Fox film, "Judge Priest," which will open at the Pastime Theatre, Sunday, December 2, and Monday and Tuesday 3 and 4th.—and in so doing gives to the screen one of his greatest performances.

A sleepy Kentucky town of the early nineties supplies the background for the newest Rogers vehicle fashioned from the famous Irvin S. Cobb stories of the small town judge and his Civil War cronies. The film gives Rogers probably the finest opportunity of his screen career.

Richer in flavor even than the shrewd Yankee horse trader of "David Harum," the Iowa farmer of "State Fair" or the wise and patient westerner of "They Had to See Paris," the drawing but quick-witted southern jurist is a memorable addition to the Rogers gallery of "Representative Americans."

Cyclones and Bullfighters At Memphis Thursday

Memphis will see its first district championship football in half a dozen years when the air-minded Cyclones of that city go against the Matador Bullfighters at Fair Park stadium there Thanksgiving Day.

Several local parties plan on going down for the game in the afternoon. Others who cannot get a ticket to the game at Amarillo due to tickets all being sold far ahead, will be content with the second best game in the Panhandle at Memphis.

Cotton Ginning Report Up To November 14th

There were 5,148 bales of cotton ginned in Donley county prior to November 14, 1934, as compared with 12,067 bales ginned to Nov. 14, 1933. This information is reported by Tom A. Ballew of Memphis collector of cotton statistics reporting for the Department of Commerce.

HIGHWAY BIDS ARE ACCEPTED BY STATE OFFICE

National Recovery Projects Let in Donley Total $145,167

Bids were accepted for $2,032,020 on Federal emergency and state highway construction by the State Highway Commission at Austin Monday.

The contracts let in Donley county are classified as national recovery projects designed to give employment to those in need of employment within the county. Local labor will be employed, it is said, so far as possible. Skilled labor will necessarily come from outside the county in a large measure.

The McKnight company of Amarillo was awarded the grade and drainage contract on Highway 5 from the end of the street pavement on East First street in Clarendon to Hedley, a distance of approximately 13 miles. The bid is given at $54,901.

Bridge work east and west of Lelia Lake and over Bell creek was awarded Oran Spear of Alvord for $21,220.

T. M. Brown and Son of Brownwood was awarded grade and drainage contract on Highway 5 from Hedley to Hall county line, a distance of approximately 11 miles. The bid was $69,046.

Work on these projects is expected to begin just as soon as machinery and other supplies can be shipped to the place of operations.

THANKSGIVING DAY PROCLAMATION

Surely every citizen of our city and community can find abundant causes for thanksgiving in the material blessings bestowed. Famine has shadowed and does shadow many parts of our land while our harvests have been fairly plentiful. Let Clarendon, this once turn away from the low and perishing things of the world and let radiate from every human heart the higher, nobler, and the more worthwhile things of life. Recognize the Divine government, and in the language of our own enthusiastic, energetic, wide awake President, "rededicate and reconsecrate" ourselves to the task of making the world a better place in which to live.

Therefore, I, as Mayor of the City of Clarendon respectfully request our citizens to observe Thursday, November 29th., 1934 as a holiday, and ask our business men to close their shops and houses for observance of this holiday, and ask the Almighty God for his providential prosperity and care through another year.

J. W. MARTIN, Mayor.

CRITICISM—GOOD AND BAD.

Since the publication of the Borah editorial last week, this editor has been criticised to a limited extent and classed as a knocker by a limited few. So long as the truth alone is printed, and it is to public interest to learn the truth, the writer has no apology to offer.

This editor has all along contended that constructive criticism is as essential as a safety valve on a steam boiler even though the criticism may cause a complete blow-up. Occasionally a newspaper is classed as a knocker when it calls attention to matters that might lead to serious consequences. No man or set of men is infallible and we are all subject to making mistakes, some of them serious. It takes a real man to acknowledge a mistake and to make retribution. On the other hand, constructive criticism many times avoids costly embarrassment and should be accepted in the same spirit in which it is given.

If all newspapers were honest with their readers, and gave them the honest information to which they are entitled, there would arise in the nation a far more honest administration in every governmental branch. Honest officials would get their just reward in the proper publicity, and the other kind would get what they deserve even though it might be the last thing they wanted or expected.

NRA PUBLISHER'S CODE IN QUESTION.

Efforts of the NRA to collect assessed code fees from the publishers of a rural weekly in Idaho threatens to become the basis for a national legal battle over the Blue Eagle.

The Idaho publishers—the Boise Valley Herald in Middleton, Idaho—not only refused to join the NRA, but ridiculed its purposes, caricatured the Blue Eagle and defied the NRA to prosecute them in the courts. The publishers called the NRA "institutionalized racketeering."

Louis A. Boas, chairman of the Idaho code authority, has demanded payment of the assessment fees and threatened federal prosecution.

The case, if it gets into the courts, will attract national attention. For one thing, it will be the first time the NRA has attempted to punish a newspaper publisher for defying it. For another, it will involve every constitutional issue raised by the NRA and the case, undoubtedly, will go to the United States Supreme Court for final decision.

The newspaper publishers made this plain by refusing to pay the fee:

"We did not at any time sign any agreement or contract of any kind or nature, that was connected with the code or with the NRA; instead of putting up the Blue Eagle as an emblem of our compliance, we caricatured it and thereby challenged the onus and disfavor and the penalty of popular boycott, that was officially invoked as punishment for those who were conscientious objectors against a regimentation that they regard as both expensive and stupid.

"We make no pretense of asking to just what extent this NRA thing is a statutory mandate and to just what extent it is a personal contract and we are not sure that anyone else knows. It seems to us that inasmuch as those who signed a certain document and thereby pledged their compliance and received and made use of the emblem that advertised their compliance, that any reasonable interpretation would hold that those who then and continuously thereafter openly and above board defied and lampooned the proposition, and who suffered the boycott thus challenged, can not nor at any other time be reasonably forced to pay for a value they did not receive.

"This is our position. We are painfully aware that we are not financially able to fight this thing through the courts, but as Wendell Phillips, a revolutionist of a former day, said: 'It is the glory of free men that they trample unjust laws under their feet,' we put the matter of using the pressure of the courts squarely up to the NRA."

All cases of code violation in Texas have failed of prosecution where the alleged "violation" refused to plead guilty and proposed a court fight. In the federal courts of Judge Atwell of Dallas, Judge McMillan of San Antonio and Judge Bryan of Sherman, a few have entered pleas of guilty possibly, but the courts have refused to handle the cases if resistance is offered by the accused.

A general change-up in the codes is expected within the near future according to information coming out of Washington. Possibly the codes will be done away with entirely. What plan will be used instead of the code, has not been divulged.

SON'S LETTER TO DEAD FATHER

The following letter, the authorship of which is unknown, has been going the rounds of the Masonic press. Every boy should read and after reading not pass it up as the vapors of some "old fool."

Dear Dad: I am writing this to you though you have been dead 30 years. From your seat in the Place Beyond I hope you can see these lines. I feel I must say some things to you, things I didn't know when I was a boy in your house, and things I was too stupid to say.

It's only now, after passing through the long, hard school of years; only now, when my own hair is gray, that I understand how you felt.

It must have been a bitter trial to you. I was such an ass, I believed my own petty wisdom and I know now how ridiculous it was compared to that calm, ripe, wholesome wisdom of yours.

Most of all, I want to confess my worst sin against you. It was the feeling I had that you "did not understand."

When I look back over it now, I know that you did understand. You understood me better than I did myself. Your wisdom flowed around mine like the ocean around an island.

And how patient you were with me! How full of long-suffering and kindness. And how pathetic it now comes home to me, were your efforts to get close to me, to win my confidence, to be my pal!

I wouldn't let you. I couldn't! What was it held me aloof? I don't know. But it was tragic—that wall that rises between a boy and his father, and their frantic attempts to see through it and climb over it.

I wish you were here now, across the table from me, just for an hour so that I could tell you now there's no wall any more; I understand you now, Dad, and God! how I love you and wish I could go back to be your boy again.

I know now how I could make you happy every day, I know how you felt. Well, it won't be long, Dad, till I am over, and I believe you'll be the first to take me by the hand and help me up the further slope. And I'll put in the first thousand years or so making you realize that not one pang of yearning you spent on me was wasted.

It took a good many years for this prodigal son—and all sons are in a measure prodigal—to come to himself, but I've come. I see it all now.

I know the richest, most priceless thing on earth, and the least understood, is that mighty love and tenderness and craving to help which a father feels toward his boy, for I have a boy of my own. And it is he that makes me want to go back to you and get down on my knees to you. Up there somewhere in the Silence, hear me, Dad, and believe me.

GOOD BANKING BENEFITS THE ENTIRE COMMUNITY

A very large part of the wealth of any community is entrusted to or handed through its banks. For that reason the security and dispatch that obtains in the varied business transactions of its citizens, is measured by the safety of the community's financial institutions and the character of the services they render.

Even those who are not bank depositors are affected by policies of bank management, and that is why a soundly managed bank receives the support of constructive public opinion. While the primary obligation of the Farmers State Bank is to its own depositors, it serves Clarendon and vicinity by providing good banking facilities to all who can make use of them.

TEMPLE OF TRUTH
By the Apostle

Recalling Will Rogers marriage to Betty Blake at Rogers, Arkansas 26 years ago on the 25th of this month, also recalls that Will still is in pictures and every one he makes is a bit better than the one before.

His "Judge Priest", picturing olden times in the Old South, is said to be his best yet. This picture will be shown at the Pastime here for three days—Sunday, Monday and Tuesday—December 2, 3 and 4th. I'm not much of a show fiend, but these Will Rogers pictures gets us all out because every man, woman and kid likes old Will. See "Judge Priest" in Confederate days.

The illiteracy of Jack county was explained by A. N. Wood, a resident of old Jack for 52 years, and who was forced to leave there when it was learned that he could read a sign board. He came west and got pretty well up in the world even to joining Tom Connally in a golf game with two social register ladies in Amarillo recently. Both the "green country boys" who went to town to play, were beaten.

Now back to the educational status of old Jack. When the settlement of the old southwest began, the immigrants from the east followed a road into Red River county and on to where Jack county is now located. There the road forked and the left sign pointed to Van Zandt county. The right wing pointed to the fort where Albany in Shakelford county is now located.

Golfer A. N. Wood said he had been told by many an old timer that "them as couldn't read or write just stopped there" and formed a county named after the only animal in the train other than oxen.

W. P. Cagle, who resided in the Wise end of Jack along in the 90's, met up with old-timers who told him of an effort on the part of missionaries in the late 80's to bring enlightenment to that black jack belt in and around Ed Bull's newly discovered "Devil's Den."

As Mr. Cagle told the writer recently, the missionaries interested a crew of men who cut logs in July and constructed a school building for the opening term in October at the close of the squirrel season. "Well sir, the woodpeckers found the worms in the logs cut after the sap rose, and literally picked that school house to pieces," Mr. Cagle says.

There used to be a saying that "one-half the world does not know how the other half lives," but that is changed now. The other half lives off the government.

According to a soap ad in a popular magazine, a man sat in a brand new car for a week and "nary a gal noticed him." He changed to - - - soap the 8th day and they almost mobbed him when they found a change in the odor.

Newly-weds may find a decline in "wooling," but the "biling" keeps right on the first of the month.

A red mark on the "dog ear" on the front page is an invitation to pay up. The red mark was adapted to save expense. If the Leader owed you, you would probably not fool with a red mark—you'd "come in" and collect. It costs a lot of money to get out a paper worth while, and the more prompt the payments are made, the better the paper will be. Some who have hit it pretty hard, come in and pay all they can from time to time and do not miss the price at all.

Then if you want a daily paper, or want to renew your daily paper sub, look at the rates in the daily paper ad in last issue and this one. We are willing to give you a cut so that you will profit from the commission rather than we.

The old folks' pension idea is gaining ground all over the nation. When Congress meets there will be a deluge of letters and telegrams land besides gobs of petitions. Those who do not favor the idea will be in a hard place when they realize that the folks back home in the big majority want it. Right along with the old age pension will be the payment of the soldier. The deferred payments should have been paid long ago, but it will come in handy right now. No other two things could be studied out, that would put as much money in circulation where it is needed most. I favor the payment of both at the quickest possible moment.

Then there is the story of the 'pome' maker whose wife went on a visit. When he sat down at his portable, this is the way she ran: My wife ish on her vacashun My wife's awieuf srr a weke My wifa us in her vakyton Wgile these keps are sleej

CENTENNIAL NEWS

Fort Davis, Texas.—Delegates from Pecos, Marfa, Alpine and Fort Davis attended a meeting here, at which was formed the Trans-Pecos Sub-Centennial Association, which will father a regional secondary Centennial for 1936, similar to the celebrations being planned for San Antonio, Houston, Goliad, Brenham, Nacogdoches, Huntsville, Gonzales, Galveston and other cities. Jack Hawkins, Pecos editor, was made President and Marvin Hunter, Jr., Fort Davis editor, Secretary.

It is proposed that every town west of the Pecos shall participate in staging at the old fort here a celebration that will present the resources of the various towns and counties, their historical aspects, their color and romance, their cattle and their advantages as home-making places.

Angleton, Texas.—At West Columbia is the former Texas State Capitol, a building from which came the rules and orders, governing the affairs of Texas. Stephen F. Austin's home, Peach Point Plantation, is a spacious white-pillared house surrounded by broad lawns and lovely gardens. These two sites, the Centennial Advisory Board of Brazoria County plans to restore as this county's part in the celebration being planned for the Texas Centennial year of 1936 at San Antonio, Houston, Goliad, Brenham, Nacogdoches, Huntsville, Gonzales, Galveston, Dallas and other cities.

The program, decided upon at a meeting here, calls for the rebuilding and replacing of these historic structures to the smallest detail. Even after 1936, it will be sought to have them maintained by the State the old capitol as a historic shrine and Peach Point Plantation as a State Park.

"Give Her" This Novel Pillow

This is not "the house that Jack built." It is a sofa-pillow which is made of linen cut in the outline of a house, the windows, doors, cornices, etc., detailed with a combination of fast-dye print and hand-embroidery, the latter lavishly used in working the flowers. Who can say "there's nothing new under the sun"? You will be wanting to embroider several cushions before Christmas, so get busy, for "tempus fugit."

Chamberlain Singers Meet And Elect Officers

The Chamberlain Singing Society met at the school building Sunday afternoon in a regular semi-monthly meeting. G. G. Reeves presided.

At the conclusion of the singing the regular annual election was held. W. Earthman was elected president; E. V. Cooper vice president; Wilfred Hott secretary. J. Estes and Frank Reid were elected delegates.

The Chamberlain community is said to have one of the very best singing groups in the county at each of the county conventions. Quite a bit of latent talent was developed among the younger folks in the singing school conducted there by Mr. Earthman last summer.

School Report Cards Given Out This Week

The report cards of the Senior High school, the Junior High and the Seventh Ward school are being given out Wednesday of this week. Parents are being asked to carefully look over the report cards, and if they find a pupil's grade or grades unsatisfactory, try to find out what is wrong.

Each pupil will receive a report card, and there is no reason why that report card should not be taken home for the inspection of the parent or guardian, school authorities say.

"Parents and guardians are urged to cooperate with the teachers in this matter because it may mean success for your boy or girl", R. E. Drennon, principal of the High School says.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Intermediate Y. P. Society, 6:30 p. m.

Evening Service, 7:30 p. m. Church History, "The Renaissance."

Woman's Auxiliary Business Meeting, Wednesday, 3 p. m.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Large congregations greeted the new pastor at both the services last Sunday, and we were pleased with the splendid reception given the pastor and his family, and with the general good spirit that prevails in the Church. We hope that more and more of the members of the Church, together with others who will worship with us, may find their way to the place of worship next Sunday. No sermon subjects are being announced this week, but we shall try to exalt Christ and proclaim a Gospel that will be helpful to all.

Sunday School at 9:45. Morning Worship—11 o'clock. Leagues—6:15 p. m. Evening Worship—7 o'clock. E. D. Landreth, pastor.

 There was a fair attendance at Sunday school Sunday morning. The following were Sunday guests in the William Jordan home

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Owens of Denver Col., Mr. and Mrs. Ira Evans and daughter of Fordice Ark., Robert Easterling and lady, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Easterling, J. T. and Claude Easterling and their wives and Virgel Jordan and family all of the Martin Community.

Ben Hill of Clarendon attended to business here Monday. He and Claude Mixon motored to Shamrock.
 Mrs. Walter Goldston is taking medical treatment at Amarillo.
 Y. E. McAdams who planted a wheat crop near Dumas moved his family back here last week.
 Our sick list consists of a sick baby in the McAnear home, R. V. Hatley and Mrs. John Rhodes.
 Buck Hill and lady moved from Lella Lake to this community last week.
 The ladies club met last Friday in the home of Mrs. Wilson Gray.

 Neely Veasy has a bad case of an ingrowing grouch. It was contracted by the terrific battery of a he sheep. It seems that Neely had attempted to transfer a bunch of wool growers from one pasture to another and they were all willing for the change except one. Neely thinks he was that famous ram owned by Collins, for the said sheep had a head of his own, and from the looks of the torn up ground and twisted mesquite brush, to say nothing of the appearance of Neely that lamb certainly knew how to use his head. Well after the smoke had cleared away and the dust settled, Neely emerged from the battle as second best, hence the grouch. However, he should not be discouraged, for all he lost was six bits worth of hide, a pair of trousers and his religion.
 Thursday of last week Ashtola's basketball girls took the short end of a one sided basketball game played here. Monday of this week, Miss Waters took her girls to Ashtola and won 17-6 in a basketball game. Lorine Reynolds is captain of the team.

ment. On this day we renew our loyalty and express our gratitude to the beneficent Father for another year of providential prosperity and care. Abundant causes for thanksgiving are found in the material blessings bestowed. While famine has shadowed some lands, and does shadow some parts of our own country, our harvests have been comparatively good. No malignant plague has scourged our people; no great catastrophe in nature has fallen upon us. Surely we ought to let the golden gate of speech swing wide open and be vocal with the music and praise of thanksgiving. Too many of us have lockjaw when prayer and praise are in order.
 Loftier than all other benefits are the spiritual blessings bestowed by the Divine One on our churches this year. It has been a good year with all our churches. We are joining in a community wide service Thursday morning at ten thirty at the Baptist Church to carry out the scriptural admonition given by David in the one hundredth Psalm: "Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into his courts with praise; be thankful unto him and bless his name. For the Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and his truth endureth to all generations."

 We have been studying the lives of some noted writers whose birth-days are in this month, namely, Robert Louis Stevenson and Louisa Mae Alcott.

Louise Skinner is the youngest pupil in our room and she still speaks in "baby language" now and then, especially when she becomes a little perplexed. The other day she was having difficulty with some of her work and she piped out, "Well, Miss Baley, I know where 'em is, but I just can't learn what 'em are."
 The fifth and sixth grade are studying about Robert Weir, a famous artist. His picture, "The Embarkation of the Pilgrims," shows men and women on the boat, "Speedwell," as they are leaving Holland.

 This is Thanksgiving week again, and I want to join with the President, the Governors of the different states, and the Mayors of the many cities and towns, in calling the peoples attention to that great grace gratitude which ought to radiate from every human heart.
 This is not a new day nor a new doctrine, but a duty which has been sadly neglected by all people. The acknowledgment of favors received is not only kind and courteous, but just and honorable. On November the eleventh, to the delight of all of our hearts, we love and honor, and praise, and thank the soldiers who fought for us in the World War. Shall we do less on Thanksgiving Day for Him who is the author and finisher of our faith and the giver of all good gifts to men?

"Sam Bass Was Entertained"

By MARY WHATLEY DUNBAR
Mineral Wells Index

Late one spring in the year 1818 two gentlemen, well attired, rode up horseback to the Perry Roe Ranch on Dotson Prairie, seven miles west of Palo Pinto, and asked if they might find shelter for the night. Only the women folks were at home, and they felt a timidity in taking in any strangers for the night, especially as there were no other houses for ten or twelve miles away. The men folks of the house were gone. They with other settlers were over in Slaughter Valley building a church for Rev. G. W. Slaughter, pioneer preacher of West Texas. There were three women at home, Mrs. Mahala Roe, widow, and her two young married daughters, Mrs. Byron Maddox and Mrs. R. W. Maddox.

As the men seemed unusually pleasant, and complained of fatigue from a hard day's ride, the kind ladies, with hospitality ever foremost, consented to keep them for the night. "Our men folks are gone, and we take it for granted that you are gentlemen," said Mrs. Roe.

The men seemed relieved and glad that their journey for the day was over. They dismounted, took their horses to the barn, and returning to the ranch house, ate with pleasure the simple supper placed before them on the kitchen table. After the meal was over, an hour or so was spent in interesting conversation, the young matrons telling the strangers of the social life in and around the small town of Palo Pinto—singing, dances, campmeetings, etc. The two young men were interesting talkers, too, and the evening swiftly sped by.

When it was time to retire, the mother showed the guests to the spare bedroom. The coal oil lamp was lit on the old-fashioned dresser, the snow-white coverlet turned down on the comfortable bed. The gentlemen wished a pleasant nite's sleep.

The three women stood in the door and looked down the lonely road over which their men might return, after bidding the two men good night. But there was no sound of creaking wagon and horses' hoofs. The night was very dark, there was no moon. Glittering stars twinkled in the sky. A wolf yapped somewhere in the near distance.

Of course the men were gentlemen—but what if they were not? What if they should try to rob them, or harm them during the night? Knowing that their men folks would not return, the three defenseless women became unduly frightened. A trip was made in trio to the woodpile, where the sharp axe was pulled out of a log, and carried carefully back to the house. Passing a shed, the dim outline of the garden hoe came into sight, and one of the young women picked it up as an added defense. Returning to the house, they took the shot gun down from over the door. They could use this in a case of necessity. All of them had shot wolves and rattlesnakes at some time or other.

To their chargin the gun was empty, and the extra powder was kept in a small trunk in the spare bed room where the strangers were to sleep for the night. How could they have the nerve to go in there for it? But nerves were the least of pioneer women's worries in those days, and the mother did not hesitate. She walked to their door and knocked. They knew the men had not retired because they could still hear their boots clinking over the bare wooden floor. There was a slight hesitancy before her knock was answered. "Then 'Come' one of them said.

The mother entered the room and her two daughters stood in the doorway behind her. All of them were horrified at what they saw. The bed was an armory. To the three frightened women it seemed to be covered with guns, of all kinds, while several daggers and Bowie knives made the display look more dangerous.

"I think as gentlemen, you should turn those weapons over to us for the night," said the mother. "You know that we are three unprotected women, that our men folks are gone."

"We would like to grant your request, Mrs. Roe," said the tallest and best looking one of the two strangers, "but for our own safety we cannot do it. We would not be surprised at any moment to be overtaken by some of our enemies, and to be caught in such a circumstance, without arms, would mean certain death. However, rest assured no harm will come to you."

This statement only added to the women's nervousness. Who were the men anyway, and who did they expect to overtake them. What if there should be a pitched battle in their own home. These and many more similar thoughts flashed through their minds. But ceasing to argue further, Mrs. Roe went to the small trunk and got extra powder for her gun. At this action the men seemed as much surprised as the ladies had been at their display of guns.

With the loaded gun, the garden hoe and the axe the three women sat the long night out, and never was a faint streak of dawn more welcomed in the eastern sky.

The men appeared restless at breakfast, and seemed anxious to be away. As soon as they had eaten, they went to the barn and saddled their horses. Then returning to the ranch house they graciously thanked the ladies for their kind hospitality in feeding and keeping them for the night. Despite her refusal to take money for the extended courtesy to the strangers, they forced a ten-dollar gold piece into Mrs. Roe's hand and turning their horses galloped to the west toward a gap in the mountains, known as Metca's Gap. As they rode away the women heard the taller man say to his comrade, "We've got to keep a skinned eye as we go through that gap."

"There's some mystery about those men," Mrs. Roe said to her two daughters, as they watched the two men ride off into the distance. "The ordinary man doesn't carry an armory around with him, and what enemies were they expecting to overtake them?"

The two young women only sighed. They were young, the two strangers were young and handsome, well-dressed, interesting talkers. It has been a pleasant experience having them as guests and the mystery surrounding them was tinged with romance.

One can imagine the horror of the three women later on in the day when their men folks returned bringing with them the exciting news that Sam Bass, the notorious outlaw and desperado, and his men were in the county, and that they had that very day had a shooting scrape with officers 13 miles of Caddo, on the Palo Pinto road. The gang had finally retreated and fled toward the mountains, where being familiar with the country, they had evaded the officers. Bass and one of his associates had passed through Palo Pinto the night before. Evidently they were on their way to meet the rest of the gang in the mountains, who had already arrived ahead of them over a different trail.

From descriptions given by their husbands, the women realized that they had entertained the famous Bass, and one of his pals, the night before. The tallest stranger, in the grey suit, who had refused to give up their guns had been Bass, and no doubt the ten-dollar gold piece he had paid so lavishly for their keep over the night, was one of those stolen in the robbery of the Union Pacific Express at Agallala Station, Nebraska.

Many legends of buried treasure add their bits of romance to the wild rugged beauty of Sam Bass Canyon on Ioni Creek where the outlaws camped while in Palo Pinto county. But despite the efforts of many treasure seekers, nothing of value has ever been found. An odd sandstone rock, now owned by Joe Taylor of Palo Pinto, was found in the canyon which is thought to have been a marker for buried treasure, supposedly hidden by Bass and his pals while in seclusion there. Whether it served this purpose or not will never be known, and the distinct writing and carvings upon its face are still as much a mystery as ever. The stone was found near the old camp site between two large rocks, and was surely placed there for some purpose.

The Sam Bass room still stands in the old ranch house, now owned by Roy Hittson, where he spent the night so long ago. Mrs. Byron Maddox, now an old lady, and the only surviving one of the three women who entertained him, resides in Palo Pinto. Many times has she told the story of that memorable night to her grandchildren—a story which never grows old.

have been inaugurated at a joint session of the legislature at noon.

The inauguration and the inaugural reception are expected to bring to Austin thousands of Texans as citizens, friends and leaders of the campaign that made Alired and Woodul the victors.

There will be three distinct dances, probably four, going on at the same time during the inaugural celebration. The inaugural ball committee is making tentative plans for the principal reception and a glamorous ball at Gregory Gymnasium, and for "junior" receptions and equally brilliant balls in the two largest downtown hotels; then either the Student Union building on the university campus, or the capitol building, is planned to be used for still another party.

The event will be the most brilliant of Austin's social events of the year, but the celebration will be planned on a scale and on lines to make it thoroughly democratic, and bring into participation the "plain people," as well as those who wear tuxedos with accustomed skill.

"What is Baptism?" Part IV.

In Acts 8:36-39 we studied the case of Phillip and the eunuch, that he immersed him. We have learned that in baptism, water is used, that both the preacher and the candidate goes down into the water, and comes up out of the water. But we want to be convinced beyond even the shadow of doubt; because knowing that baptism is for remission of sins, we want to be sure that we are really baptized.

In Acts 9:18; 10:48; 16:33; 18:8, we learn that all who came into the church under the preaching of the apostles, had to first submit to the ordinance of baptism. In the case of Cornelius and his household, those who were baptized had previously spoken with tongues and magnified God. In the case of Lydia and her household, those who were baptized were old enough to believe and rejoice. This substantiates our understanding that no one is eligible for baptism who is not old enough to believe and repent.

Next we read, Acts 19:1-5. John's baptism was administered on condition of repentance looking forward to the remission of sins. John's baptism could not have been for the remission of sins, because remission of sins depends upon the shedding of the blood of Christ, which would take place a year or so later on. It was looking forward unto remission of sins. Hence those who Paul found at Ephesus, who had been baptized by John, upon a better knowledge of the Way, had to be re-baptized into Christ. (Acts 18:24-28. The case of Apollos was similar.)

Romans 6:3-5. This passage tell us of the specific action. Here we have baptism spoken of as a burial. It is an institution that symbolizes the death, burial and resurrection of Christ. Baptism is a burial with Christ, followed by a resurrection, by which the old man of sin dies and a new creature in Jesus Christ arises, by the power of God from the watery grave. Very plain indeed. If baptism is a burial, followed by a resurrection,

Two Ways to Sell Corn on the Hoof-

This hog Received corn alone.
Required 12 bushels of corn to make 100 lbs. of gain.
Returned 33c per bu. at $4.00 per cwt. for hogs.

This hog Received a blended protein supplement along with the corn.
Required 5 1/2 bu. of corn and 50 lbs. blended supplement for 100 lbs. of gain.
Returned 53c for corn at $4.00 per cwt. for hogs, even after allowing $2.50 per cwt. for protein supplement.

Required more labor, ran greater disease risk, was less thrifty and reached later market.

Took less labor, ran less disease risk, was thrifty and ready for earlier and higher market.

MAKE YOUR GRAIN FEED FARTHER

Even with the price of hogs and the price of corn as low as they were the past year, numerous controlled feed lot tests have shown that corn alone is the most expensive way to grow and fatten a hog. About twelve bushels of corn are required to produce 100 pounds of pork when fed without a protein supplement to hogs in a dry lot. If hogs are $4 a hundred pounds, that means 33 cents a bushel for corn, allowing nothing for labor and other costs.

miscellaneous lot of building material. Likewise, nature builds the pig's body according to a definite plan. But man often supplies merely a miscellaneous lot of material. The result is waste of excess of needs, and failure of construction or growth to proceed at the maximum rate because of a deficiency of other materials.

Long ago it became known that corn was deficient in protein. Tankage which is very high in protein became the most popular protein supplement to be fed to hogs along with corn. But, tankage also was found to have shortcomings. In the last ten years good hog feeders have learned through work at the agricultural experiment stations and at the Purina Experimental Farm at Gray Summit, Mo., that a variety of proteins will produce better results than will tankage alone.

To find out the most efficient combination of protein sources, the workers at the Purina Experimental Farm inquired at the only reliable source for an answer—the hogs themselves. Over 8,000 hogs have been asked by Purina Research workers, "What do you need in your ration to make more money for hog owners?"

Now a new forward step has been taken, that of blending. All proteins are not alike and the hog does not make equally good use of all kinds. In a properly blended supplement the different protein building materials for muscle and bone are supplied in such proportions that there is less waste of protein and the amount of feed to put on 100 pounds of pork is reduced. The feed goes farther.

The hogs gave the answer in terms easy to understand. While twelve bushels of corn when fed alone are required to make 100 pounds of gain in weight, with a properly blended protein supplement, 100 pounds of gain can be made from 50 pounds of supplement and slightly over five bushels of corn. Fifty pounds of the supplement, therefore, saves better than six bushels of corn.

The bill of materials for a house differs from that required to build a barn. Neither a house or a barn could be built efficiently in accordance with a definite plan from a

Besides making grain feed farther the blended protein supplement also saves labor and reduces risk by shortening the time from birth to market and it makes possible getting the pigs on the earlier markets during the fall and the spring when prices are usually higher than later.

"Making grain feed farther is highly important this year," say the Purina Research men, "because of the shortage of feed crops and the desire of every feeder to make his own grains last through the feeding period."

the specific action can be nothing more nor less than immersion. No one can be sure that he is baptised until he has been immersed. (More next week)

"LAWLESS LANGUAGE"

Somebody sends this from the Bath Weekly Chronicle and Herald issue of recent date, titled "Our Lawless Language":
We'll begin with a box and the plural is boxes;
But the plural of ox should never be oxes;
One fowl is a goose but the plural is geese;
But the plural of mouse should never be meese;
On the contrary for mouse the plural is mice
But the plural of house is houses not hicc.
As the plural for men is always called men,
Why should not the plural of pan be called pen?
Then one may be that and three may be those,
Yet hat in the plural should never be hose.
Then the masculine pronouns are he, his and him.
But imagine the feminine, she, shis and shim.
So English, I fancy, you all will agree,
Is the strangest language you ever did see.

Will Rogers Finds Time For Half A Dozen Jobs In His Amazing Hollywood Existence

Will Rogers has achieved the impossible: he can maintain privacy in a goldfish bowl. In spite of the half dozen jobs and other pursuits that occupy his time, he still manages to live a sane, normal life. Easily one of the most popular men in the United States, he finds plenty of time to be with his family at his Santa Monica Canyon ranch. The answer probably is that he doesn't waste time. It takes him not more than five minutes to write his daily newspaper paragraph and perhaps an hour to do a weekly feature. Most of his dialogue in screen scenes he makes up as he goes along. Certainly no one ever caught him taking a script home to study. His large correspondence is chiefly the job of a secretary who has an office in Beverly Hills. He goes to no parties; his social life is a minus one; his public appearances are pretty well confined to those made for charity. At the time he was making

Voluntary Payments of Leader Subs Attests Approval of Its Popularity

No one individual could make claim for any success the Leader may have had through the years. Not one set of people, faction, clique or "ring" has had anything to do with it as such. On the other hand, men, women and children in practically every walk of life have had a hand in the making of the Donley County Leader as it is today.

Every week several have a share in that issue. Some times this number will run up to more than two dozen. Some write articles, another contributes a sermonette, church notice, local item or an advertisement. So many things go into the making of a newspaper that the task is far too great for a mere few to attempt.

In having the cooperation of people over Donley county, the Leader has continued to grow, expand and serve an ever-increasing family of readers. The management has always tried to neighbor with the folks. No cause even in the remotest rural section has lacked for a champion since the Leader held up their banner, told the other sections of their community happenings and, in many instances, was credited with gathering a large crowd to a pie supper.

Pie suppers are important in that they may be made to serve a noble purpose. If selling pies will make for better school equipment and better educational opportunities, it is just as important, or even more so to that community than the building of Boulder Dam costing untold millions.

We want to feel that we have helped every good cause within the trade territory where the Leader has a big circulation.

We are deeply interested in your churches, your schools, your community life in general. We shall esteem it a privilege to aid you in any manner within our power.

Our readers help greatly to make the Leader. Here is a list printed who have voluntarily paid for the Leader. Some are new but the majority are renewals. Look at the date on your paper. If you are about to get behind with your payment, kindly send or bring in the $1.50. It does not mean much

FATHERS-SONS AFFAIR GETS OUT RECORD CROWD

Late Arrivals Turned Away After 216 Admitted To Banquet Room

The twelfth annual Fathers-Sons banquet Monday night is said to have broken all records in attendance. Many claim the program is the best yet. Dr. B. F. Collins is said to have been the magnet that drew the monster attendance.

Dr. Collins became a hero in the eyes of many of our citizens last August when he, with a number of other doctors and nurses came to the rescue of our Boy Scout troop and their escorts when ptomaine poisoning attacked them on a hillside at night near the Verdigris river near Claremore. The Doctor was a special guest making the trip at his own expense.

Dr. and Mrs. Collins arrived early Monday and at once became the center of attraction. Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Speed opened their home to them and a "open house" reception was held from 4 to 6 Monday afternoon giving the mothers an opportunity of meeting the benefactor of their sons and husbands to whom he administered aid when misfortune overtook the Chicago Fair visitors on their return home.

As the principal speaker at the banquet, Dr. Collins chose to speak on generalities. His remarks were listened to with rapt attention during the time he occupied the floor for more than an hour. Expressions of appreciation were attested by the noisy applause at the close.

The program outlined in the Leader last week was closely followed. Judge Lowe spoke for the fathers and Nicky Stewart responded for the sons.

The orchestra dispensed music at intervals. Messrs. Earthman, Wilfred Hott and Vernon and Frank Reed favored with a quartet. Bobbie Leathers displayed remarkable skill at the piano.

E. O. Bone, a local teacher, captured the old timers when he sang "Home on the Range." His second number was "Laddie," a Scotch song.

Dr. B. L. Jenkins presented to Dr. Collins a beautiful pen and pencil set as a token of appreciation from his patients and Clarendon friends.

Dr. Collins made a "hit" with his listeners when he paid a sincere compliment to Mr. Frank Whitlock for his noble efforts in aiding the poison victims. Mr. Whitlock was in charge of the Scouts, and although the sickest one of the lot, staid on the job until removed to the hospital for the night. "You can trust your boys with my friend Whitlock anytime, anywhere, in any place with every assurance that they will be carefully looked after," Dr. Collins said.

Mr. L. W. Chase, father of A. L. Chase honored as the oldest man present on this and several similar occasions, made one of the very best talks of the evening it is said. Mr. Chase stated that he was "87 years young." He gave an interesting account of the highlights of his busy life for the benefit of the sons present.

The youngest father present was "Snooks" Andis. Asa O. Yates was credited with having the greatest number of sons present, five in number.

Clifford Wallace Williams was the youngest son present, being accompanied by his father, Ted E. Williams and an older brother. He amused himself a part of the time by playing under the table oblivious of the noisy fete going on around him.

Ben Andis drew honors for being the youngest grandfather present, and T. W. Welch for being the oldest father with the youngest son.

Officers elected for the next banquet are: president, Ardis Patman; vice president, Sam Braswell Jr.; Directors, Sloan Baker, W. J. (Bill) Greene, Jimmie Bourland and Rufus White.

As toastmaster, President Harrison Simpson acquitted himself nobly though he warned his crowd in advance that he had no special talent for "broadcast" methods of entertaining while under a severe strain.

The ladies of the Christian church served the 'feed.' In this connection, two things stand out most prominently in the recollection of every man and boy present. These two things are quality and quantity. These good women never disappoint, and with each succeeding year, find themselves more in favor. The fondest recollection of every one present will likely be the wonderful food served. Men and boys just naturally like to be well fed.

NEW-BORN BOY IS FOUND SUNDAY UNDER A HOUSE

Identity of Either Parent Is Unknown. Several Want to Adopt It

A tiny, newly-born baby boy, motherless and fatherless, is in the Memphis Hospital today awaiting someone to adopt him and provide him with a home.

The babe was found naked and almost dead underneath the house of R. D. Starkey, at 517 North Fifth street in Memphis at about 2 o'clock Sunday morning, less than a half hour after its birth, physicians said later.

Delmer Starkey discovered the baby after its wallings had attracted his attention just after he had gone to bed. He had just gone home from Cudd Bros. filling station where he is employed as a taxi driver, when he was first attracted by the baby's wallings. Thinking that it was a cat, he retired, but when the crying continued, went to investigate.

Starkey declared that he found the baby naked lying in a pool of blood on the north side of the home, about six inches underneath the house. He immediately notified officers who took the child to the Memphis Hospital for medical attention.

Officers Lindsey Hill, Fee Posey and G. C. Baskerville who were summoned declared there were no footprints or other evidence as to who the parents of the child might be. Possible charges of attempted murder and negligent homicide may be filed against either or both of the parents, if discovered, they said.

R. D. Starkey and family, who were at home at the time, declared that they heard nothing unusual about the time the baby was discovered. Mr. Starkey, however, added that he "heard a noise about 1 o'clock that sounded like a woman crying, but thought nothing of it."

When the baby was carried to the hospital, it was almost frozen to death and was suffering from lack of medical attention, as well as exposure, according to attending physicians. When given the proper attention, however, the baby rallied and this morning was reported as "doing just fine."

Those who have seen the child declare that he is perfectly formed and a "very pretty baby." He weighed five pounds Sunday afternoon.

Almost a dozen people have already inquired about adopting the child, attending doctors said. They have advised against moving the baby for 10 days or two weeks, and by that time it is expected that someone will have made formal application for adoption.

Motorist Exploded!

When you have accepted your car from a garage after a repair job has been done, how often have you been disappointed. You have heard the expression, "I exploded." Some men almost explode at the charges, but oftener at the quality of job they get.

We make a close estimate of the cost of the repair job so that the owner will know in advance what he is expected to pay. Then we guarantee the job to stand up after we turn the car back to the owner. We even keep up with it for several days to see that the customer is satisfied.

We have skilled mechanics—plenty of machinery for doing a good job—know you will be satisfied and send us more business. Bring in your car now—today. The charges will be within your means and we need you for a booster.
