When Judge Fires opens district court here next Monday, he will be faced with an unusual amount of civil cases. Twenty-five civil suits, and six criminal cases, carried over from last term, are on the docket now according to the records of District Clerk Walker Lane.

Virgil Stalcup, now under a death sentence from Lubbock after being convicted for killing Bill Arthur, Sheriff of Dickens county, is charged with burglary in Donley county. He is alleged to have high-jacked a tobacco salesman near Hedley. Stalcup is in the death house at Huntsville.

H. L. Martin, charged with burglary in Donley county, has been in jail for some time here. He is also charged with murder accessory in Wellington. He is alleged to have burglarized the Lem Taylor ranch house last summer. He was picked up by Donley and Armstrong county officers a short time later, his partner escaping in his underwear from the same shack southeast of Claude, at the time.

AN ILLEGAL DUST STORM TUESDAY

As a high wind swept over Colorado, Kansas and a part of Oklahoma Tuesday, fine dust was shunted off to the Texas Panhandle where an otherwise balmy day was going along in the even tenor of its way.

Oodles of dust sifting through every 'crook and cranny' without wind served to produce another etheral anomaly, but hardly so fascinating as the meteorite of a month or more ago.

By some queer querk on the part of old dame nature, Silverton had a clear, sunny day void of dust, according to Mr. Smithy, mail carrier who left there about noon Tuesday. He stated that he met the dust area below the Caprock.

WOMENS' CLUB OBSERVES ANNUAL HERE THIS WEEK

Banquet Tonight Features One of Many Activities Of the Organization

"Opportunity" and "Economic Security for All" is the theme for the eighth annual National Business Women's Week, March 17-23, which the Clarendon Business & Professional Women's Club is observing in common with 1400 Clubs in the 48 States, Alaska and Hawaii.

From the President of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Mrs. Geline Mac Donald Bowman, comes this message: "It is appropriate indeed that 'Opportunity' is our watchword for National Business Women's Week. Certainly the members of the National Federation are making the most of the opportunities afforded by these stirring times, to develop sound leadership and intelligent fellowship.

Our members are enlarging their vision, stirring their thinking and energizing their idealism in seeking, as a unit, to promote social and economic well-being for all citizens of this Country, thru our Ten-Year Objective, a part of which is our platform for this year—'Economic Security for All.' A challenging answer to the needs of the hour."

Mayor J. W. Martin, has given official recognition to the Clarendon celebration by issuing a proclamation for the observance of National Business Women's Week.

The program of the local Business and Professional Women's Club was opened last week with an advertising campaign in one of our local papers. Thru the local merchants who assisted most generously the Club has raised funds

ENGINEER HAS SUGGESTIONS FOR FLOOD CONTROL

Plans Include Conserving Farms in Water Shed As Best Measure

In a letter to Mayor J. W. Martin, plans for flood control and soil conservation are set out by engineer W. J. Williams who inspected the work here last week.

J. M. Hill, vocational agriculture teacher in the high school, and secretary of the Chamber of Commerce is running the levels. Excerpts from Mr. Williams' letter are:

"I was well pleased with the progress which has been made, and Mr. Hill who is doing the engineering part, that is the levels instrument work on the ground, has the matter well in mind and will handle it satisfactorily.

"I also inspected the terracing that is being done and found the work being done well. Mr. Hill's practice of beginning at the top of the slope and making wide terraces, is the best way to do it.

"There are at least three ways that will control the floods that bother you.

"One is to make canals or conduits through or under the town which will carry the water without overflowing. This would be very expensive and result in allowing all the farms in the valley above town to finally erode until they would be abandoned and of course is not a satisfactory solution.

"The second way is as you are doing, to build dams that will hold the water back and feed it through

Garage Partnership Formed On East First Street

Various and sundry improvements are being made in and around the garage and filling station on East First street formerly operated by Henry Rape for some time.

B. L. Jenkins, Jr. has purchased a half interest in the firm from Mr. Rape. The improvements will enable the firm to render the auto-lists a "one stop service" that is being appreciated by the motoring public.

The firm advertises through the Leader asking that you give them a trial, feeling sure that they will be able to render that service that will secure at a portion of your business.

Father of Local Woman Dies At Ranch Home

James Monroe Scoggins, aged 62, died at 11:30 Tuesday at his ranch home about 15 miles south of Claude, where he had lived for some 30 years. He was the father of Mrs. Ernest Hunt of Clarendon.

Besides his widow, he is survived by one daughter and three sons.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. P. A. Russell at the Claude Baptist church Wednesday at 8 p. m.

SHERIFF INSISTS SHOTGUN METHOD MOST EFFECTIVE

Offers Reward and Advises Citizens to Protect Property

"Any law-abiding citizen is a deputy sheriff when he sees a law being violated" said Sheriff Pierce Tuesday. "All law violators may be arrested by an ordinary citizen when the offender is caught in the act", he said.

In addition to requesting that property owners use a shotgun on thieves at night, the Sheriff offers a reward for any information that will assist him in locating a thief.

The Sheriff is vexed because of the epidemic of thievery that broke out the last week. He expects to get them all, a part of the marauders already being rounded up.

Thursday night appears to have been an unlucky for a number of citizens. Twenty gallons of gasoline was taken at the Wes Linders home southwest of town.

On the Doshier farm, Walter Lowe was checked up on by the outlaws, and found to have two hogs in the form of cured meats sacked up. They took it all leaving Lowe two hams. They probably knew that Lowe liked his ham 'an egg' every morning. That's more consideration than most folks received.

Visiting the R. F. Foster place near Chamberlain the same night, the thieves consisting of two men took all the hog meat on the place. They were not only short on hog meat, but took three collars, two bridles and a pair of lines.

The same parties next visited the Knight dairy where they added to their collection, by taking a set of leather harness on which the name of "Kirtley" was stamped in several places. A saddle of the 'flowered' type with plenty of stamping was also taken. It is size 14 swell, 15 inch tree and has "J. T." stamped on back and cantle. The saddle was made in Dolby, Texas and is so stamped.

Blue String Gets Boys On Chicken Theft Charge

There is an old saying that "there is no strings on it", but this does not apply to chickens owned by Wm. Spitzer who resides on the south side of town.

Saturday night a number of "stringed" chickens were taken from the Spitzer place. Deputy Guy Wright took charge of the case and found the chickens had been sold by two boys at the McGowan cream station. McGowan had shipped the birds, but remembered the blue string.

The checks given the boys was cashed at the Piggly Wiggly next day. Now two boys have confessed. Harry Thomas, 18, is in jail in lieu of $1,000 bond to await the action of the grand jury. Kent Walls, 13, was given in charge of his father to await action in the juvenile court.

Brice Adult Class Presents Play at Chamberlain 22nd

A three-act comedy, "The Antics of Andrew", will be presented by the Adult Class of Brice at the Chamberlain school auditorium next Friday night beginning at 8 o'clock.

This interesting play will present many interesting features that produce laughs as grown-ups go through the various imitations of characters seldom seen in real life. A small charge will be made for admittance. Don't forget the date--March 22nd.

Former Clarendon Resident Buried Here Wednesday

Rev. E. D. Landreth, pastor of the First Methodist church, conducted funeral services for Mrs. Mary Beatrice Picture at the Buntin funeral home at 4 p. m. Wednesday.

Legion Play Goes to Hedley Saturday Night

Members of the cast in "A Bold Front" will appear in the spacious auditorium of the Hedley high school Saturday night. The show will begin at 7:45, and is being sponsored by Adamson-Lane Post of Hedley.

This play sponsored by the Legion boys of Aubyn E. Clark post here drew a big crowd at the College Auditorium last week. Thirty people are in the cast which includes dancing, singing in colorful costumes as well as the play in which eleven take a part.

The moderate price of admission coupled with the excellent presentation that will be made will no doubt bring out a big crowd that will please the Legion boys of Hedley. The play is really of that magnitude seldom seen of home talent.

Sheriff Pays Negro Cash For Information

Three sacks of corn were missing from the warehouse of the Clarendon Grain company though the door was locked. By paying a cash reward for information, Sheriff Pierce picked up a negro of 17 years who owned up that he got the corn.

The thief said he went in through a window, opened the door, took out the corn. Then went back in, locked the door and climbed out the window.

Giving his name as James Henry King, the colored youth is being held in jail wondering when the bond of $1,000 will be made, or what the grand jury will have to say about it next week.

RELIEF CANNING PLANT RECORDS MOST EXCELLENT

Out of a Total of 66,235 Cans, The Spoilage Is Less Than 2 Percent

The operation of the Donley county relief cannery under the capable direction of Mrs. J. M. Acord, which closed February 1, attained a record which places it among one of the leading Texas canneries during the period of operation.

A grand total of 66,235 cans of foods were put up during the four and one-half months of operation, which figures 13,247 cans per month, 552 cans per day, 69 cans per hour, or 1.9 cans per minute. According to the records compiled by the local relief office, the cost per can is 13 and 1-12 cents per can. The loss by spoilage is less than two percent.

The foods canned and the total number of cans is as follows:

Chili, 7538; steak, 4005; roast, 9712; liver, 49; soup stock, 4074; hash, 4967; hamburger, 6464; stew 3059; chicken, 64; liver paste, 55; head, 40; ribs, 27; backbone, 60; sausage, 266; hearts, 9; tongue, 6; ham hock, 12; pork chops, 15; egg plant, 25; okra, 210; corn, 144; tomatoes, 232; peas, 4,406; beans, 1,259; greens, 7,995; sweet potatoes, 2,208; turnips, 4,564; pumpkin, 1,494; citron, 1,407; hominy, 777; peaches, 255; pears, 412; apples, 435.

A sewing room is now being operated in the cannery building and will continue until garden products are ready for canning, at which time the cannery will be opened for operation.

Byron Alexander Opens Up Furniture Post

Often over the radio you hear them mention a "trading post." This, of course, has reference to the old-time pioneer supply houses of the west.

This week Byron Alexander opens a "furniture trading post" in the Moss building next door to the Leader office. He has two furniture stores in Fort Worth, and this store will be a branch. "I'm going to give the old home folks where I lived nearly 40 years, the best bargains they ever got," he says.

The firm is accepting many things in exchange for good furniture and other articles. Read the advertisement in the Leader this week. The store here was opened this Thursday morning.

LAW ENFORCEMENT GETS NEW DEAL.

The edict issuing from the office of Governor Allred demanding a strict enforcement of laws designed to protect the citizens of our state, is but typical of the man who believes that "anything worth doing at all, is worth doing well."

Governor Jimmie Allred tells his people that he needs help. This is also typical of the man who never compromised with a foe. He asks that "all law-abiding citizens of Texas back him up and demand that their local officers stop this wholesale flaunting of the law."

"Neither Adjutant General Nesbitt nor myself has any desire to send Rangers into any community," the Governor said, "but it is our duty to do so when local officers fail or refuse to enforce the law."

That lets local officers out from under any reflection, providing a duty is being performed.

The Governor's order is no respecter of person. Among the first places to feel the order that has lain practically dormant since the days of Governor Hogg was a fashionable gambling house of Galveston where Rangers rounded up and saw 23 blue bloods fined on the spot. Raids were made in Houston, San Antonio and in Austin, almost within the shadow of the capitol dome.

Dallas steps into the limelight after suddenly seeing the light of a new day. District Attorney R. L. Hurt hastens to announce that "no rangers are needed in Dallas." He injunctioned three drug stores and fourteen joints that were alleged to be selling liquor of that variety that causes the driver to disregard the power of the other variety in the gas tank of machines that have caused 37 deaths in Dallas since January 1st.

During the same week, federal agents rounded up narcotic peddlers, counterfeiterers and wholesale liquor dealers over the state.

Again quoting the Governor:

"The fact that the Rangers have started a simultaneous drive with federal authorities to rid this state of crime does not release local officers from their duties."

The statutes provide that any officer wilfully failing or refusing to discharge his duties may be removed from office by the Attorney General.

An impartial enforcement of laws begets approval of the masses. Even the underworld admires that quality that has almost become obsolete. Texas has faith in her Governor and his law enforcement body. Every law-abiding citizen will appreciate the first real governor Texas has had since the days of James Stephen Hogg. Luck to him—and his men on the firing line.

Credit System for Agriculture

The Farm Credit Administration provides a complete credit system for agriculture. The needs of the farm and ranch are different from the needs of business.

This is the first time in any country that a complete credit structure has been set up for the farm and ranch separate from the commercial credit structure.

It has greatly reduced the interest rates, and within sixteen months has refinanced and saved more than half a million farm homes.

In our own District, approximately 25 million dollars in farm credit loans have already been made, including about three million dollars in crop and feed loans.

Parallel to Business Structure

The farm credit system should completely parallel the business credit structure, and I have therefore introduced a measure giving the Intermediate Credit Banks, which are the discount banks for farm credit, the same reserve note issuing privilege which the Federal Reserve Banks now have.

This would be done on a perfectly sound basis.

The forty percent reserve would be provided, and the sixty percent farm and ranch paper would be used just as the commercial paper is now used for Federal Reserve notes.

This would do away with the necessity of selling tax-exempt bonds, and would substitute another method just as sound as the Federal Reserve notes—in fact, the same character of notes.

This plan would still further reduce the interest rates on all types of farm paper.

Purchase of Farm Homes

The bill also would encourage small farm home owners by providing loans in limited amounts at a low rate of interest. This provision would apply only to existing indebtedness and purchase money. Any time the borrower transfers to other than an actual farmer-owner, the interest rate would be increased automatically to the regular rate. This would prevent speculation. Many persons not otherwise able would thus be in a position to buy and pay for a home.

S. G. A. Jamson of Hedley had business here Tuesday.

Mrs. R. A. Chunn left Tuesday to visit a son in Dallas, and will visit a daughter at Abilene before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Mulkey returned home Saturday. They were accompanied by his nephew, Verde Morris who has been employed by the Home theatre at Rush Springs, Okla. He will become assistant manager and assist in the projecting room of the Pastime Theatre.

The New Deal Secretary of State

When Gerald C. Mann, Sulphur Springs boy whose name was sprinkled generously in Southwest sport pages in 1925-1927, was throwing passes, sweeping ends and tackling opposing backs for Southern Methodist University in Ray Morrison's colorful aerial circus, he ran the team.

Likewise as New Deal Secretary of State "Jerry" is head man of the show in that department. Like the capable field general that he was on the football field, Mann was quick to reorganize one of the State's most important governmental departments. Responsibility was divided, placed, work assigned, office policy (the public MUST be served promptly, accurately, courteously) decided, the reins completely taken over two days following inauguration. Secretary Mann and aides were in the saddle with but little lost motion. Confusion was reduced to a minimum.

Many were those who wanted jobs or who had friends who wanted jobs. Secretary Mann, like his good friend and chief, Governor Allred, saw them all. No one must be offended. No one was snubbed. To everyone in his office, Secretary Mann was and is courteous, kindly, firm. Inviting suggestions he reserves decisions for himself. No slaves has he in the Department of State but Secretary Mann is master.

Congenial with dignity, businesslike, friendly, is Secretary Mann. Punctual and alert, he

I HAVEN'T HAD A COLD IN FIVE YEARS

In the old days I used to dread the coming of Winter. I was always fighting colds—feeling about half alive—trying to work with my body aching and every nerve on edge. Then a friend told me about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets with their marvelous Vitamin A and D. I started to take them five years ago and I haven't had a cold since that time. McCoy's tablets put new life in folks; build up resistance so anyone can laugh at cold germs. They make weak, skinny people strong, steady-nerved and vigorous. They're wonderful! Get the genuine McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets from your druggist today. Don't waste money on imitations. Ask for McCoy's keeps many irons in the fire, watches them all. He does not smoke or drink. Nor does he keep late hours except on occasions of State. He keeps fit by playing handball with Governor Allred before office hours in Gregory gymnasium. Worried is he over how he will make ends meet, care for Mrs. Mann and two little Mans, pay high living costs of Austin on the meagre $2,000 per year paid him by Constitutional provision.

Devoted is he to his family. Mrs. Mann, an alumnus of Texas University is a native of Cumbly, Texas.

Following graduation at S. M. U. Secretary Mann studied law at Harvard for three years, received his degree. This venerable institution gave him a polish to which practical politics will doubtless add lustre. Interested in all sports but a fanatic over none he is constantly reminded by his friends of his former athletic prowess, his opinions sought on current sport events. Secretary Mann refused to consider professional football as a means of livelihood when offered a job on the New York Giants seven years ago by Dr. Harry A. March. Shortly after taking over the job as Secretary of State, Dr. Harry A. March, "father of professional football" was in Secretary Mann's office. He wanted to know why Mann had not answered his letter written seven years previously. Warm was Dr. March in his congratulations both on Mann's success and his choice of a field of work. He predicted a great future for the new Secretary.

Young but not impetuous Mann feels keenly the responsibility attendant with high official position. Idealistic, prophetic, he anticipates a remarkable industrial and agri-

TEMPLE OF TRUTH
By the Apostle

Headline in daily paper: "Dust storm whips Texas Panhandle!" Now dadgummit, who was the referee? Yeh, who is he and where?

It may be a little late, but the cow that jumped over the moon was not a cow at all. It was a F. E. R. A. steer that jumped over the moon when a CCC recruit tried to milk him.

They are telling one on the girl from the hick town who went down to the state university. After a few days, she wrote her parents that "we have a co-educational institution that forces the bright students to matriculate with pleasure, and both boys and girls use the same curriculum." The old man did not savvy the letter, and after talking it over with Ma he wired: "Kitty, come home at once." Two days passed and Kitty wired her old man thusly: "Curriculum fails to budge." Then the old man's anger knew no bounds calling for the following message from Kitty's sister: "Mother dangerously ill, father gone crazy, come at once."

Flattery is said to be soft soap. That is probably because soft soap is 90 percent lye.

For the life of me I can't see how the flavor of a cigarette would be made any better because some snooty woman endorsed it in a testimonial.

Dust seems to be the topic of the day. In fact one of the most perfect poems ever written has "Dust" for a title and appears in this issue. Then St. Patrick's day was a duster, too. Which reminds us that -----

A little ditty, a Shamrock pritty, And the both of them to say, May the saints protect you, the dust neglect you, On good St. Patrick's Day.

The reason some people are good is that they are just too blamed lazy to be bad.

Near the highway between Clovis and Vaughan there appeared a sign reading: "Are You Prepared to Meet Your God?" Then right under that is another line reading: "What Will You Do When You Die?" Then along came an enterprising salesman who painted the following: "Use Brown's Picric Compound for Burns!"

Of course it is just my ignorance, but I often wonder where the author of a book on etiquette got his information.

Why is it that so many men think they ought to make a crack-erjack evangelist just because they quit getting drunk and playing poker?

Kansas boasts of a navy. It consists of a small-sized ship that sails on the Missouri river. Texas also has a navy, but it is a hunk of cornbread floating around in a sea of good old sugar cane 'lasses. At that, we got 'em skinned.

A man can be pretty accurately measured by the size of the thing that makes him mad.

After all this holler about the women wearing our pants, smoking up our tobacco and stubbing her hair, we still got 'em skinned. A man can go to hell two or three times and yet beat back to respectability. But if a woman goes once--it's just goodbye, sister!

A small group of men were looking at the photo display in the Alderson studio show window Saturday when they fell to discussing the picture of a certain man. After several comments, one fellow finally won the dog when he said: "The old boy does not look natural because he has his hands in his own pockets!"

Mary had a little bar-- Which she hadn't daughter, Gov. Jimmie took the field, Now the Rangers got 'er. (P. S. Doctors claim that writing rhymes produces a condition of the mind as pneumonoultramicroscilicovolonokoniosis. No, you are mistaken if you think that is a new variety of alfalfa.)

A GOOD BANK
IS A SERVANT TO THE COMMUNITY

Stop and think what life in Clarendon would be like without a bank. You would have to carry around big amounts in cash instead of being able to pay bills by check.

But a good bank serves its community in other ways. Your banker has grown up with his fellow townspeople. He is civic minded. He knows his city and the men and women in it. In business dealings he generally knows whose judgment can be depended upon and whose is likely to be faulty. This knowledge helps him safeguard the community.

Sixteen Million Americans Have Read "When a Man's A Man"

Sixteen million Americans of all types and ages have read from cover to cover the fascinating Harold Bell Wright classic, "When A Man's A Man." From all indications, at least three times this number will enjoy the Fox Film adaptation of this masterpiece. It starts a two day engagement at the Pastime Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, March 27-28th, with George O'Brien in the starring role.

Universal appeal is what both book and picture possess. The stereotyped version of the West as peopled by desert rats lurking through the sage brush of the dry lands is abandoned; in place is a vibrant story of modern youth involved in a vital romance.

The setting is an Arizona ranch, to which comes a mysterious Easterner, short of money, obviously the gentleman, but silent on his past. He is befriended by a hardened Westerner, changes from playboy to a rugged "man's man," and finds himself in the dilemma of his lifetime when he realizes that his best friend and himself are rivals for the hand of the same girl.

Before turning to writing, Harold Bell Wright knew the typical American man and woman as few others knew him. Into "When A Man's A Man" he poured his rich knowledge of the West and of the conflicts and romance that arise, far from urban artificialities.

Around eGeorge O'Brien are featured Dorothy Wilson and Paul Kelly, in a cast composed of Harry Woods, Jimmy Butler, Richard Carlisle, Clarence Wilson and Edgar Norton. It is a lesser production, directed by Edward F. Cline.

Relief Commission Sponsors Home Gardens

Operation of a home garden project in Donley County will be started some time within the next ten days. Seed are to be furnished by the Texas Relief Commission and all clients who plan to have home gardens will furnish labor and plots. Seed are available in a limited variety only. Beans, onions, carrots, potatoes, radishes, all greens, black eyed and english peas, squash, okra and cucumbers are all that will be planted.

It is contemplated that through the operation of this project, relief clients will be able to raise a part of their subsistence through the summer months. All surplus vegetables will be processed in the local cannery on the regular toll basis, thus enabling the clients to preserve this food at no actual cost to themselves. This plan will also provide vegetables for those people who are unable to cultivate gardens and who have no land available for this purpose.

A Brace In Time Means Health And Happiness

Twenty thousand crippled children in Texas are holding out their hands and pitifully pleading for a chance for health and happiness. Thousands of them can be restored to health by surgical operations and the use of corrective and strengthening steel braces, specially devised by skilled physicians who give their services free of charge to this charitable cause.

L. B. German, shown in the picture, was a cripple himself once and has dedicated his life to the helping of crippled children. He is manager of the brace factory in a Dallas children's hospital and has made over 3,000 braces, mostly for children, in the past nine years.

Little Carol is shown here supervising the making of a brace for his leg by Mr. German. This brace must be so delicate that it will not allow the least jar to disturb the little boy's knee.

It is for such splendid work that the Texas Society for Crippled Children is seeking memberships. Every penny raised will go towards helping some unfortunate maimed child. Governor James V. Alford last week sent an official message to all Texans urging them to join this society and aid the poor handicapped little ones of the state. Funds are desperately needed at once.

Membership fees should be sent to Secretary A. H. Abbott, 304 Walton Building, Austin. Active membership is $2.00, contributing $5.00, Sustaining $25.00 and Life $500.

Value of Terracing Proven By Investigation

During the recent rain that occurred in the Panhandle, 19.3 per cent of the 1.05 inches measured at Goodwell, Oklahoma was wasted as runoff water from level and unterraced wheat plots, says Harley A. Daniel, acting director of the experiment station.

The data obtained at the station show that the terraced plots held all the water and forced it to soak into the ground at the depth of 15.6 inches, while on the adjacent unterraced area the moisture only penetrated to a depth of 8.3 inches, making a difference of 7.3 inches more moist soil available for plant use. On the terraced and contour listed plots that will be planted to row crops this spring, the moisture had penetrated to a depth of 17 inches, while on the listed plots not contoured the moisture had penetrated to only 10 inches. These data explain very clearly why terracing has increased the crop yields of grain at Goodwell, Oklahoma 32.8 per cent during the last 9 years.

Listing is a much better method of saving water than level cultivation, but if the field were terraced and contour listed, all the water would be saved from rains not exceeding 2 inches. In a contour listed field each furrow acts as an individual terraced, holding the water where it falls and distributing it evenly over the field. Instead of having 10 inches of moist soil from a 1.05-inch rain, the farmer will have 17 inches.

These are some of the principles that Mr. H. H. Fennel has applied in the wind erosion control project at Dalhart, Texas. Director Daniel visited the Dalhart project last week and he stated that where the land was terraced there was no blowing during the severe dust storms that occurred recently. The principles applied at this project are absolutely sound and the farmer who terraces his land and follows moisture conservation practices in the high plains will in the future be repaid for his work many many times, Daniel believes.

TEXAS HISTORY FROM MUSTY PAST TAKEN FROM BEXAR COUNTY ARCHIVES

(Note: This is one of a series of articles taken from the 300 special collections of family archives in the University of Texas library. The collections cover all periods of Texas history, from the earliest days of the Spanish missionaries in the province of Tejas, through the colonial era, to the present. This series of articles presents interesting excerpts from a number of these family collections, some chosen for their intrinsic significance in the development of the empire of Texas, others for their purely human interest in portraying personalities, economic conditions and social intercourse.)

SERIES II, No. 6

That religion is firmly imbedded in the foundation of every nation, State or colony, and in the hearts and lives of its people, is an accepted truism. The colony of Anglo-Americans who settled the territory of Texas under the leadership of Stephen F. Austin was no exception, it is clearly revealed in some of the letters members of the colony wrote to their relatives "back home," which now are deposited in the family archives collection of the University of Texas library. The fact that Austin was required to promise that his settlers would accept and support the Roman Catholic faith, and that this creed was embodied in the oath that each colonist was required to take, was doubtless rewarded with a great deal of dubity by families of other faiths. It remained, however, that this obligation was not enforced; so long as the colonists disported themselves properly their religious liberties were not curtailed in any way.

A letter in the Ingram collection of family correspondence in the University library, written by Ira Ingram to his uncle, Roswell Ingram, Fort Covington, Franklin County, New York, from Austin's Colony, May 29, 1830, is devoted almost in its entirety to a full and well-rounded essay on the religious situation in the colony. For this reason, it is quoted practically in full:

"As Col. Woodbury informs me that you are a zealous professor of the Christian religion, and as that class of citizens are generally very tenacious of privilege of 'religious liberty,' I will here dedicate a line or two, to the statement of facts on this subject," he wrote.

"The Roman Catholic, is the religion, and the established religion of this government—and every settler in the colonies is obliged to take an oath to support the constitution of the government which protects his life, liberty, and property, and guarantees to him the right of the pursuit of happiness—of course, the oath includes an obligation on the part of the settler in any part of the Mexican republic, to support the established religion. But the most important enquire is, what are the effects of this provision of the constitution, as developed in American Texas? The answer to this question is, that it exempts us entirely from the shameful strifes and animosities, too often the offspring of a well-meant zeal for the cause of true religion, and invariably the handmaid of intolerant fanaticism.

"We hear no ravings, we see no romps, or indecorous and indecent exhibitions under the cloak of a religious assemblage, either by night or by day; no sanctuaries are polluted by unholy intrusions and desires; for we have no sanctuaries but private ones, and here, all are perfectly free to worship as they please.

"This kind of worship is practiced in every family that desires to practice it, and might be common to every one in the country; for there is not a priest in this colony, nor an officer of government civil or military, with one exception, that is not elected, and elective by the people of this municipality. This officer, is the collector of the customs, lately appointed, and now settling among us.

"On the subject of the freedom of religion, and religious worship, there has never yet been any restraint to any settler, either by the government or by officers.

"Why, then, it will be natural for you to inquire, have we an established religion? The reply to this enquiry and it is the best of all good reasons because the Mexican nation at the adoption of the constitution of the general government, knew no religion but the one they adopted. I say the nation knew no other nor did they—but there were a few master spirits here, as well as in other countries where liberty has struggled to find a home, a few truly intelligent and liberal minded patriots who knew, and who appreciated too, the satisfactory influence of toleration. These spirits and these patriots, were obliged to concede something to the physical mass of the nation, to secure their political independence. This something was, their religion—Here was the mighty compromise—a nation freed from the bondage of centuries, on the cheap condition of being permitted to retain a name. Where is the patriot citizen and philanthropist, who does not exclaim, on hearing this, Victory!!

"Unless this point had been conceded to the prejudices of the populace at the adoption of the constitution, the revolution must inevitably have relapsed. To protect the nation against so dreadful a crisis, the convention which adopted the constitution, although as private individuals, they were to a man, in favour of toleration, in its broadest sense, they nevertheless thought the happiness of their country required of them the adoption of the Catholic religion, to the exclusion of every other—for this reason it was adopted; for this reason, the Roman Catholic Apostolic Religion was guaranteed to the nation by the fundamental law of the land. And is not this an insurmountable argument? What higher argument could be offered, for what we, and very many others deem a deformity in our political system, then, that the repose and tranquillity of seven millions of human beings, required it?

"Having taken no part myself in the events which paved the way for the glorious day when the cry of liberty and independence was echoed from every mountain, and along every valley of this extensive republic, I have no pretensions to any experimental knowledge respecting them. But my good or bad fortune, call it which you please, has made me the intimate friend and bosom companion of some who acted a conspicuous and patriot part throughout the great, and I might add, the purifying storm of the revolution. Some of these still hold and occupy, high and important trusts.

"From them, I have gleaned, from time to time, details of the history of days and hours that tried the head, and tested the heart of every real, and every pretended friend of the cause of freedom.

"From them, during the hours of relaxation from business, I have caught some knowledge of men, and of measures, in this new-born world, and have been taught to set an estimate, either just, or unjust, upon the motives which influenced the career of many of the distinguished sons of Mexico.

"And on the subject which I now perceive, is likely to engross your attention to the end of this letter, I have long since been fully persuaded, that, had I been a member of the convention which fashioned and adopted the constitution of the Mexican Government, I should have given it my vote, and my hearty support, in and out of doors. Yes, with all my prejudice in favour of religious freedom about me, and with all its imperfections clinging to it, I should have voted for the present constitution, persuaded that it was the best, all interests reconciled, and all predilections surrendered, that the circumstances of the time would permit.

"As to the American settlements in Texas, they have never been required to conform to the rites and ceremonies of the Catholic religion, or to those of any other; nor have they been prevented from worshipping, in any way they please.

"In short, the American who dreams even, of a community of his countrymen in bondage, either political or religious, knows but little of their true character. I see, however, we have nothing to complain of, we have nothing to fear—on the contrary, we have, and daily enjoy more to excite our deepest gratitude towards the government of our adopted country, than any other people on earth.

"We have received large donations of the most rich and productive lands on earth, in one of the mildest and most enviable climates of the habitable world, elect all our own officers, civil and military; are exempt from all taxes for the support of government, are eligible situated for prosecuting a commerce with all the nations of the earth, have live oak enough to rebuild all the shipping in the world, if it were sunk this moment, and already have the base of an American population planted here which never can be extirpated, to the last day."

each person in the population of the State. It cost Montana five times as much to keep an old person institution, as to pension him.

Wisconsin in 1911, provided for State Life Insurance, but little use was made the plan. In 1925, this State passed a Pension Law, which authorized each County to pay pensions, and to abandon the plan after a year if it wished. The County Judge decided what amount was proper and his decision was final. He may grant more than enough to make the pensioner's total income one dollar a day. The State pays a third of each pension. In the first year, six Counties accepted and one County revoked the acceptance.

In 1926, Kentucky passed a law like Wisconsin's, but the maximum pension which a Judge may fix is two hundred and fifty dollars a year. Beggars are excluded under this plan, as are persons able to earn $400.00 a year, annually having an income of $400.00, or owning property worth $2500.00.

In 1927, Colorado and Maryland passed similar laws, which excluded persons with more than $3000, or with someone legally responsible for supporting them.

While progress in the Federal Congress has been slow, much more has been accomplished in the States. During the last twenty years, nearly a score of states have appointed commissions to study the subject of Old Age Dependency and Pensions. Since 1914, thirty states have passed some kind of Old Age Pensions.

In thirteen states the pensionable age is set at seventy. Ten states grant pensions at the age of 65. North Dakota sets the age at sixty-eight, while in Alaska, the age is 65 for men and 60 for women. The maximum pensions allowed are $150 a year in North Dakota, $15 a month in Indiana, $250 a year in Kentucky, $25 per month in Delaware, Idaho, Montana, and Utah; $30 a month in Arizona, California, Colorado, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Nevada, New Jersey, Oregon, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming. In New Hampshire, the maximum is set at $7.50 per week. The Arkansas, New York, and Massachusetts Acts set no specific maximum, leaving the matter to the discretion of the Administration officials. Last year Iowa and Pennsylvania passed Old Age Pension plans.

THE GASTROPOD

There was a little gastropod
Sat on a blade of grass;
His ancestors sat there before
To watch the ages pass.

The Cambrian period came and went,
The monkey dropped his tail;
The archaeopteryx shed his teeth
But the snail remained the snail.

The eohippus changed his shape
'Til he became a horse,
But still pursued the gastropod
His gastropodous course.

Now all content he sits and thinks,
And sometimes only sits.
He'll be a snail when cosmos
Falls crumbling into bits.

So do not be a gastropod
And crawl the age through
While other creatures of the earth
All the evolving do.

But try to heed the cosmic urge:
Take lessons from the past,
And, not content to be a fish,
You'll be a man at last.

How Students Earn Money Supplied by Uncle Sam

Canyon, Texas, March 15.—Many of the 91 students receiving federal aid at the West Texas State Teachers College have proved to be skilled in their respective projects of work.

James Davis of Canyon and Elmo Scott of Bovina are working under the supervision of Dr. C. A. Pierle of the Chemistry Department on an experiment through which it is hoped to find the causes of brown tooth stain. They are working with the fluorine content of water, milk, and vegetables. Dental authorities and dietitians believe that tooth stain is closely connected with the green gaseous element fluorine. The results of the experiment will be reported in various medical journals.

Harry Hartzog of Clarendon and Wayne Miles of Conlen are working in the department of Archaeology. The boys are cleaning a number of skeletons of present day animals. This work, besides affording an opportunity to learn the technique of processing bones, according to Mr. C. S. Johnston, the instructor, will furnish classes in Archaeology a collection of specimens which would cost several hundred dollars if the department had to buy them.

Marian O'Brien, art student from Friona, is painting a group of pictures showing prehistoric animals in their natural habitats. Her picture will form a background for archaeological displays in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum.

Jack Sittin of Memphis is doing library research work for S. H. Condron, head of the department of government. He finds articles which are used in the course, Modern Government Problems which will be offered during the college summer session; and types them so they will be available to each student taking the course.

Six students work in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society Museum. They are: Sallie Mary Campbell of Sweetwater, Isla Mae Donald of Goodnight, Alleane Lynch of Enochs, Mary Elizabeth Gantt and Pollyanna Pitts of Canyon, and Mildred Windsor of Plainview. Included in their routine is cataloging documents, biographies, pictures, ledgers, record books, and letters found in the archives of the museum. They are making quantities of historical data easily accessible to the public.

An interesting example of this undertaking is the perusing and ment had to buy them.

The occupations of the FERA group are varied. A number of boys are carpenters, masons, and painters on college construction projects; several boys are waiters in the college cafeteria; a few workers serve as student assistants; some do secretarial work for college instructors; while others do janitor work.

The two hours the federal aid students work each day has made no material difference in the quality of their academic efforts, for they have maintained a higher scholastic rating than the whole college group so far.

Alton, Ill., March 16.—Alton's most "prominent" citizen, Robert Wadlow, the giant youngster who has baffled medical science with his phenomenal growth, has just celebrated his 17th birthday.

Te measured up to the following specifications: Height, 8 feet, 1 1/2 inches in his stocking feet; weight, approximately 390 pounds (no ordinary scales will measure his weight); shoe size 36. During the past year he has grown three inches.

Robert, now a senior at Alton High School, hopes to become a lawyer, and probably will enter Shurtleff College here. Aviation is his hobby.

Physicians attribute his extraordinary size to overactivity of the pituitary gland, a tiny endocrine gland at the base of the brain.

Mesdames W. C. Stewart, J. T. Warren, A. T. Cole, J. Perry King, M. E. Thornton, attended the funeral of Mr. Grundy at Memphis Sunday.

... use a spoon

It isn't what brand of laxative you take that's so important—it's the form. A liquid laxative can be taken in any required amount. If only a little is needed, you need never take a bit too much.

Doctors favor the easily measured liquid laxatives. Instead of any form that does not encourage variation from the fixed dose. A fixed dose may be an overdose for you—or your child.

Always remember this one thing about constipation: the secret of any real relief is reduced dosage.

Give the bowels only as much help as may be needed, and less help as the need grows less. You will find Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin an excellent aid in regulating the bowels. It contains senna and cascara (natural laxatives) and it will clear-up any bilious, sluggish condition without upset. Delightful taste, and pleasant action. Your druggist has it.

Trailer is Stolen From Near Goldston

Leaving a two-wheel trailer on the highway in front of his house Monday, W. C. Vveazey was surprised Tuesday morning when he got up and found the trailer missing.

The trailer was the property of "Prech" Goldston, and had been loaned as a neighborly act. The Sheriff traced it to 66 Highway, but must await further clues.

In discussing the matter, Sheriff Pierce gives it as his candid opinion that folks will have to be more careful with their property. "The 'good old days' appear to have vanished," he said, "when folks never locked up anything in this western country."

Cecil W. and Byron Alexander came up from Ft. Worth Wednesday on a matter of business.

ENGINEER HAS—

as fast as it can be carried by present canal through town, making the dams high in the middle so if they fall to hold all the water that comes, the flow will be around the ends of the dams and the damage not expensive to repair. This is the less expensive and also preserves the soil, but still allows "leeching" of the plant food from the soil. Government experts estimate that 21 times as much plant food is lost each year as is used.

"The third and ideal way would be to have all the land terraced making the terraces wide and heavy as is now being done in your work, then each farmer watch terraces for "leaks" and patch them as he would a hole in his roof.

"The combination of the last two methods, each protecting the weakness of the other, is the least expensive and will result in more prosperity for the farmers and their descendants.

"At the Spur Experiment Farm, two plats were compared, one with terraces which the water could not pass over and around, and one not terraced. The terraced plat made about twenty times as many pounds of grain as the other.

"The plan you are using, terracing and retarding dams together, is the best that can be done."

Clothes Cleaning Firm Adds New Equipment

The third unit has been added to the Shaver & Whitlock clothes cleaning equipment within recent months, the latest being a 1935 model Hoff-Man pressing machine. Mr. Shaver states that the new model machine will add the moisture to the article, and dry it eight times faster than any other machine, after the article is pressed. The three operations of alding moisture, pressing and drying is done in an instant.

An improved washer and a tumbler were added a few months ago. The members of the firm now feel that they are amply equipped to meet any customer requirement with dispatch.

Scion of British Rancher Visits Clarendon

Alfred Rowe, Jr., son of the founder of the Rowe ranch, and Patrick Devenish, both of London, England were in Clarendon Monday. Young Rowe was following the pioneer tracks of his father who founded the Rowe ranch in 1883.

The two boys arrived in New York City, as they expressed it a fortnight ago, purchased an old model Ford, and resolved to explore America going as far west as the Pacific coast, and expect to explore the Yellowstone Park.

The biggest sight to them are the sandstorms, never having had such an experience before coming to the southwest.

Mrs. Gladys Wilkerson and son Don returned home Tuesday from Floydada where she had been visiting relatives.

Mrs. Clifford Davis was able to be moved home Monday from the Adair hospital where she underwent a serious operation.

THE MILLING SANATORIUM

MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS

RELIEVES VICTIM OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

This is to certify that I took my little boy to Dr. H. H. Milling for infantile paralysis. The child was so limber that he could not hold his head up and his eyes crossed. It did not take Dr. Milling long before he had him walking and he also straightened his eyes.

Dr. Milling cured my boy sound and well. At present it is impossible to tell there was ever anything wrong with the child. Would advise every one to go to Dr. Milling and be cured.
