Hospital, Nursing Home At Seminar

Attendance Mandatory For Medicare, Medicaid

AIDS -- the most devastating disease to decimate mankind since the 'Plague' of the 1800's in Europe! What is AIDS and how do you handle it?

Some 70 employees of West Plains Medical Center and the Muleshoe Nursing Home attended two seminars on Wednesday to learn more about the disease and how to handle AIDS patients -- or possible AIDS patients with care.

The seminar was held in the Aggie Muster

Planned Here On Friday Night

Former students of Texas A&M University will assemble in Muleshoe on Friday, April 21, for the annual Texas Aggie Muster, announced chairman Nick Bamert.

The Muster activities will begin at 7 p.m. at the Bailey County Coliseum in Muleshoe, according to the chairman. Muster is open to all former students and their families, parents of students, and friends of Texas A&M.

Texas A&M is in its "Second Century of Greatness." During the last 100 years, Texas A&M has grown from a small Land Grant College to one of the leading research and educational institutions in the nation, Bamert reports.

Aggie Muster dates back to 1883, and has been held annually since. More than 400 Musters will be held around the world this year, Nick Bamert, chairman said, "wherever Texas A&M former students live or work."

During wars, Aggies mustered in foxholes, on the battlefield, aboard ships, in airplanes and in medical hospitals. In World War II, a Muster was held on Corregidor Island shortly before the Japanese captured it in 1942.

Every Muster ceremony is the same, Bamert reported. Texas Aggies pay their respects to all those who are absent because of death since the last Muster. When the names of the honored dead are called from the Muster Roll, a friend of the deceased answers "Here."

yellow dining room at the Nursing Home, conducted by Duncan MacKellar of the Texas Health Department.

John Chisholm, administrator of West Plains Medical Center, said the AIDS seminar was required by authorities as part of the criteria for qualifying for Medicare. In the next few months, WPMC will be applying for re-certification to again handle Medicare patients on an in-hospital basis.

He also said the seminars are a requirement to keep Medicaid, which benefits Nursing Home patients.

MacKellar said in a 40-county area served by the Texas Department of Health on the South Plains and in the Panhandle, 800,000 people reside at this time. Of this number, he said there are 52 confirmed cases of AIDS, though he said the TDH suspects a higher number, with unreported cases.

He also said the Lubbock TDH office carries the lowest case load in the region.

The seminar instructor said another 500-1,000 people are probably carrying the HIV virus which causes AIDS in this 40-county area, although they have not yet developed AIDS.

In showing a series of slides, vividly blown up to show white and red blood cells, and AIDS infected cells, MacKellar also showed pictures of monkeys.

It is only a theory, he said, but there is a 50-50 chance human AIDS was derived from Simian AIDS from monkeys in West Africa.

He also said the first AIDS was diagnosed in Paris in 1983, then a doctor in California isolated the virus and identified it for the first time in the U.S. in the winter of 1983.

However, from frozen blood samples, the AIDS virus was found from a 1959 sample in France, and the first in the U.S. was found in a frozen blood sample taken in 1970.

Theory -- and ONLY theory -- is that AIDS came by way of Zaire to Haiti to the United States.

Friona's Excel Plant Institutes Quality Improvement Program

By: Bill Ellis
Friona Star

Friona's Excel Corp. plant, the area's number one employer, has instigated a Quality Improvement Process, in order to assure that the products from the giant beef processing plant will be of the best possible quality.

Four Excel officials, Terry Wilkerson, Dick Weikert, Alec Gordon and Hector Villarreal, recently attended an instruction training school held in Chicago. The week's session prepared these men to teach the quality improvement to other Excel workers.

To begin with, all management and supervisory officials will be required to attend 20 hours of classroom instruction in the quality program, beginning on April 17.

"We are hoping to better serve our customers. Today's consumers are very well-educated, and are quality conscious. We felt we owed it to our customers to improve the quality of our product," said Excel plant manager Terry Wilkerson.

Excel's parent company, Cargill, began a Quality Education System late in 1988, after some of their officials completed an intense four-month training program at Phillip Crosby Associates in Winter Park, Fla.

At Excel's Friona Division, a Quality Improvement Team was formed in February of this year, and at the same time plant officials passed a "quality policy."

The policy statement is as follows: "We will safely produce and deliver defect-free products and services to our customers. Everyone will understand the requirements of their jobs and conform to those requirements at all times."

Plant Manager Wilkerson was elected as chairperson of the plant's Quality Improvement Team. Bill Peak was named administrator.

Other members of the team include Dick Weikert, quality education; Kenny Sherbon, measurements; Leonal Kilgore, price of quality; Alec Gordon, quality awareness; Bill Goettl, corrective action; and Hector Villarreal, recognition.

"This dedication to quality improvement is a commitment that Excel has made in order to improve our products and meet the needs of our customers. We feel that it is absolutely essential in order to survive in this competitive market," said Gordon.

"This dedication to quality

Congressman Seeking Plant Stress Funding

Texas Tech University educators and U. S. Representative Larry Combest (R-Texas) appeared before a House Appropriations subcommittee on Wednesday seeking initial funding for phase-one construction of the university's Plant Stress and Water Conservation Laboratory.

Combest's bill to construct the Plant Stress Laboratory on the Texas Tech campus was authorized by Congress last summer. Former President Ronald Reagan signed legislation authorizing the $27 million research facility in June of 1988.

On Wednesday, Combest, along with Dr. Sam E. Curl, Dean of the TTU College of Agricultural Sciences, and Dr. David Koppe, Chairman and Professor for the Department of Agronomy, Horticulture and Entomology, appeared before the House Subcommittee on Rural Development, Agriculture and Related Agencies to stress the need for the laboratory.

In introducing the panel to the subcommittee, Combest emphasized that Texas Tech has, for the past 10 years, "worked tirelessly to establish one of the best plant research centers in the nation. With 17 senior scientists presently on board, Texas Tech is poised and ready to move forward on what has become some of the most important plant research being conducted."

Combest stressed the importance of such research in light of the severe drought which damaged crops in several farmbelt states last year. "The continual change in our yearly weather patterns point to the fact that this research and this laboratory are needed now, especially as we move into 21st Century agriculture," Combest told the panel.

Dean Curl outlined past achievements of the research lab staff, which is currently working in a variety of buildings spread throughout the Texas Tech campus. Dr. Curl also pointed out the benefits which have been derived by producers all over the nation as a result of research completed at Texas Tech.

The subcommittee is expected to make a decision on funding the research laboratory by June.

MICROWAVE TIPS

One of the easiest things to prepare in a microwave is the meal's vegetable—or vegetables.

But it's often difficult not to overcook the outside if one gets the inside very tender and well done.

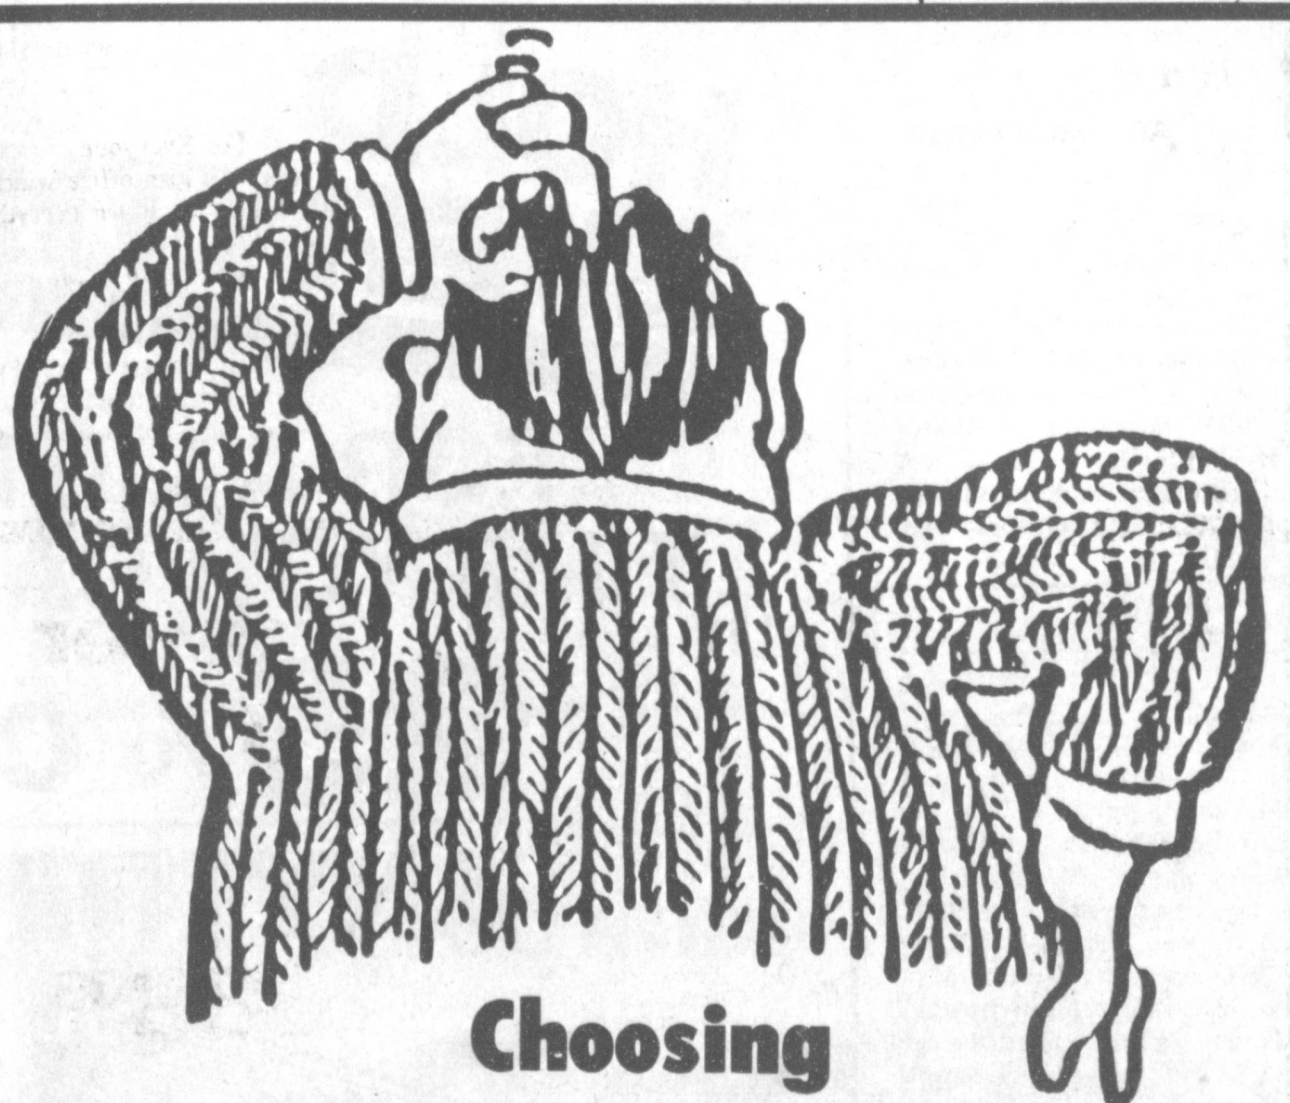

One tip is to allow vegetables cooked in the microwave to stand for some time after being removed from the oven. Another tip is to stir small loose vegetables, from outside to center, several times during microwaving.

The tax deadline is almost here.

Our experienced preparers are working extra hours through April 17. It's not too late to help you get the maximum refund you're entitled to. 224 W. 2nd Muleshoe, TX 272-3332

Jennyslippers To Participate In 13th Annual TV Auction

Sheryl Borden of Portales, N.M., an employee of KENW-TV, Portales, spoke at the Jennyslipper meeting Tuesday night. She explained about the 13th annual public auction scheduled the week of June 12-18. Kick off time is 8 p.m. Stating that KENW was the people's TV station, she asked the Jennyslippers to be a "support group" for the auction. She stated that when asking around Muleshoe what group would be the best to approach for this job she was told by everyone, without exception, the Jennyslippers.

"Lucky 13" Tele-Auction is an exciting six-day live television shopping extravaganza with nearly 500 businesses, artists, craftsmen and other individuals contributing goods and services," said Sheryl Borden. "These items are auctioned off and the proceeds used to purchase and broadcast quality programs like Sesame Street, McNeil/Lehrer Newshour, This Old House and Nova. Many donors also contribute cash to defray auction expenses. Our goal this year is to raise $75,000-but we need your help!" Originating live from the KENW studios in Portales, there will be more than 27 hours of bidding and buying."

The Jennyslippers voted to help with this auction and Ms. Borden invited as many Jennyslippers as possible to go to Portales Saturday and be the TV station's guest for lunch. On Monday, May 17 the Jennyslippers will be contacting the local merchants for commitments for items to be auctioned. These items will be picked up at a later date.

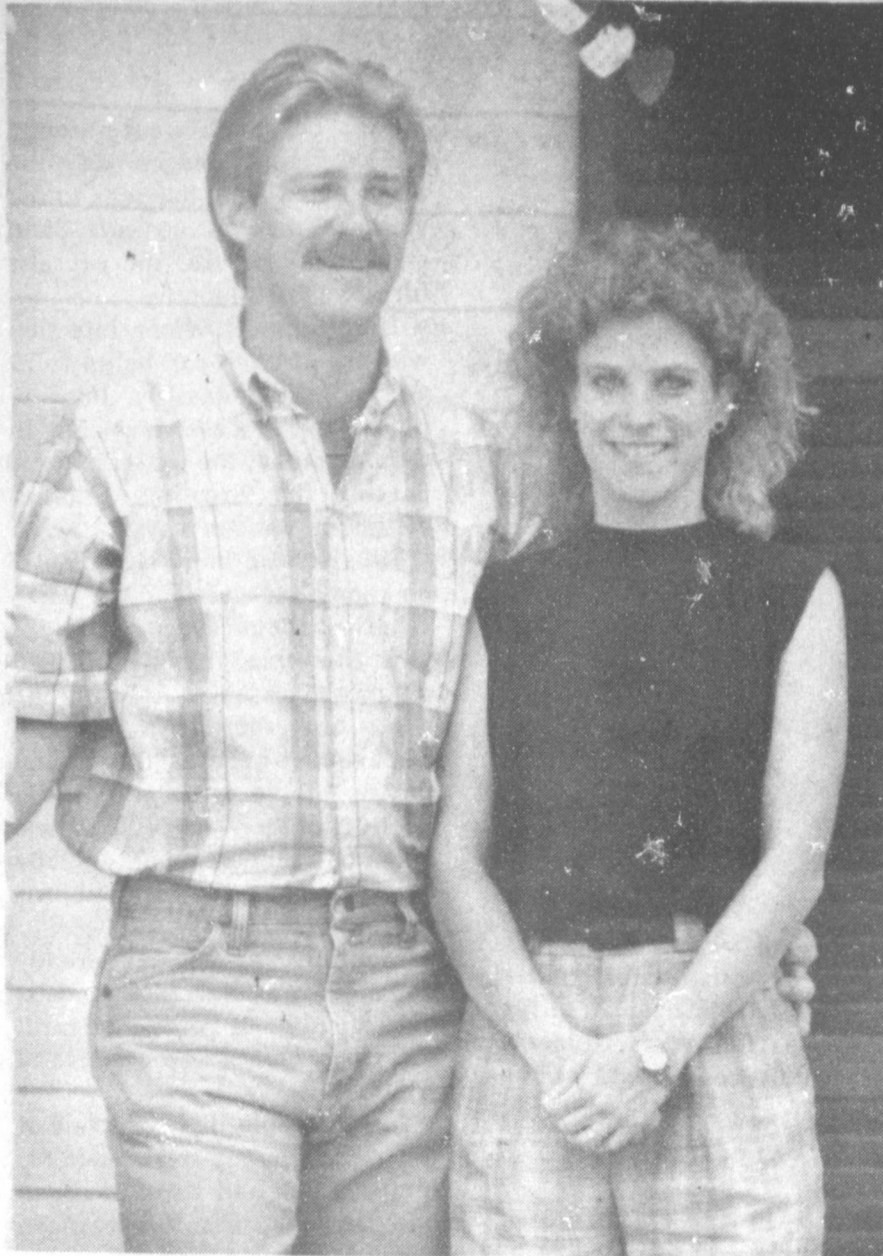

Welcome to the 50's was the theme of the quarterly night meeting, with members attending wearing their normal attire for the 1950's, blue jeans with rolled up legs, large shirts hanging out and noney tails.

No where but a Jennyslipper meeting can you find entertainment such as was enjoyed Tuesday night. The "Nifty 50's" Band, made up of Jennyslippers, Nelda Merriott, Billie Downing, Patsy Chance, Evelyn Peat and Ellen Ladd, provided the latest music. Was that Sandi Robinson, Jennyslipper president that did the reading? It was hard to tell, due to her fancy attire! Pat Langfitt and Audrey Langfitt presented a short skit for everyone's enjoyment.

Following refreshments, everyone's favorite in the 1950's, French fries and cokes, a short business meeting was held. It was reported that a total of $717 had been donated to date in the Bakeless Bake Sale, all proceeds will go to the Muleshoe Nursing Home.

The group voted to purchase a key ring and put the Jennyslipper logo on it to go in the Dity Bags for the tour group. They also voted to donate "Mule Shoe" games to the TV auction.

Billie Downing and Nelda Merriott drew the door prizes.

Bailey County 4-H'ers To Host Exchange Group

A group of Bailey County 4-H members are planning a cultural exchange trip with Fesseden, Wells County, North Dakota, this summer. The group of young people from North Dakota will be traveling to Muleshoe during the summer of 1990.

Many people may ask, "What is a county 4-H exchange?" An exchange program is a series of learning experiences in which a group of 4-H members from a county visit in the home of 4-H members in another geographical area and are visited by them in return. Exchange programs appeal to most teenaged 4-H members. These provide opportunities for travel, to make new friends, to explore expanding interests, to experience how others live, and to see other 4-H members in action. Exchange programs can be an important educational experience for 4-H teens.

There are several objectives for the 4-H exchange program. They include the following: 1. To develop a knowledge of other people and their way of life; 2. To gain a deeper insight into one's own values; 3. To grow in understanding and appreciation of others' heritage, customs, etc.; 4. To learn about other areas of our state and nation; 5. To create new and, perhaps, lasting friendships; 6. To gain new insight, leadership experiences and abilities; 7. To expand 4-H understanding beyond the local community or county to help meet youth's needs; and 8. To enrich individuals' lives.

Several groups of 4-H'ers from Bailey County have exchanged with other states in the past.

This year's group of Bailey County 4-H'ers is looking forward to a fun-filled exchange with North Dakota and some additional sight seeing and cultural enhancement in route.

The heart pumps blood through the labyrinth of 70,000 miles of blood vessels once a minute.

Lacy Morris, daughter of Glen Morris, was installed last week as an honorary member, while this writer was on his way to Denver.

Lacy, it is very good to have you as an honorary member, along with Jon Keith Turner and Chad Johnson. The Kiwanis Club is very proud to have you three young people with us. We hope that we can do as much for you as you do for us.

President Keith Turner called the meeting to order and the pledge to the flag was led by Kevin Harris, and Don Martin gave the invocation.

Guests were Randy Smith and Charles Martin, guests of Don Martin; Robby Clapp, son of Don Clapp, and Eddie Morris, guest and brother of Glen Morris. We welcome all of our guests and invite all of you back anytime.

Don Clapp had the program, a video on the "Grizzly Bear of the Northwest."

The film stated that cub bears must follow and imitate it's mother for at least three years to be able to survive. Eighty percent of the bear's food is vegetable and berries.

It stated that nearly anything could be food for the grizzly.

Some of the Kodiak grizzlies weigh as much as 1300 pounds.

It was a wonderful film -- maybe we can see the rest of it soon.

Sweetheart Justine Hanes said she would be gone next week to Houston in contest. Justine, we are all pulling for you -- see you in two weeks.

improvement is a commitment that Excel has made in order to improve our products and meet the needs of our customers. We feel that it is absolutely essential in order to survive in this competitive market," said Gordon.

Gordon indicated that the clerical employees, hourly management personnel and hourly production workers would begin attending the special quality classes beginning the week of July 10.

Mike Langridge, one of the Cargill officials involved in the four-month training program, said "Participants in the program typically begin the course very skeptical. But by the end of the week, everyone is very energetic and ready to resolve the quality problems of the world."

The quality improvement program is based on principles developed by Philip B. Crosby in his book, "Quality is Free."

"Doing things right the first time adds nothing to the cost of your product or service. Doing things wrong is what costs money," Crosby says.

The typical American corporation spends 15 to 20 percent of its attacks cells and went through the different stages of the disease and what happens to the victim. There is no cure, and once AIDS attacks, the average life span is 18 months.

Unfortunately, from infection with the virus, it can be up to 10 years, and possibly longer, before the disease develops. In the meantime, the victim may be passing the virus on to other victims in various ways.

He also said there is currently no known resistance to the AIDS virus and the recovery rate is '0.'

At this time, there are 88,000 diagnosed cases of AIDS in the U.S. but the Texas - Health Department believes this is just the tip of the iceberg -- it has been estimated that one to one and a half million people actually are carriers of the virus at this time.

MacKellar said it has already been proven that tuberculosis, once thought to become a 'rare' disease is on the rise because of AIDS.

In 1986, only three percent of the AIDS victims were females; in 1987, this had risen to seven percent; and it was 10 percent in 1988.

Once thought to be a 'homosexual' disease, there is a dramatic rise in the disease among heterosexual persons, cautioned MacKellar. The only way AIDS can be passed on is through sexual contact with an AIDS victim; exposure to blood, such as drug users, needle sharing, in isolated instances of transfusions of blood, plasma and occupational needlestick injury.

The one other way is from mother to child, before, during or after birth, if the mother is infected with the disease.

MacKellar said of 860 nurses who have had needlestick injuries from accidents with AIDS victims, only four have contracted the disease and 95 percent of all AIDS occurs in persons between the ages of 25-50.

He also said the AIDS virus is very fragile outside the body, and is easily killed with proper solutions, such as 1-10 solution of household bleach and water.

The instructor also said if AIDS were transmitted easily, family members who generally take care of, and live in close quarters with AIDS victims, would be the most susceptible, but they have '0' reports of AIDS acquired in this manner, except through family sexual contact.

You cannot get AIDS from mosquitos, hugging or hand holding, toilet seats, breathing the same air as AIDS victims, eating utensils or food, food services, such as waiters or waitresses, or in fact, any casual contact.

At the same time, the possibility of handling AIDS victims in the future creates more expense for the hospital and nursing home said Administrator Chisholm. Both the hospital and nursing home will be expected to purchase certain 'safety' items and materials, creating a new expense for the local hospital.

The nurses also have a list to follow routinely on the handling of all patients. Most are very simple, and are already being done, others will require additional equipment and care.

Dear Sir:

As a consultant for the Education Service Center, Region XVII, one of my duties is in the area of public awareness. Presently, my concern is for all parents to be aware of available services for handicapped children. These services are provided free of charge through your local school district.

Attached you will find a brief announcement which states information all parents should know. When type-set, it should occupy a space no larger than the ones shown. As our agency is non-profit, will your paper be able to run this announcement with no charge to us? If so, I understand that you cannot guarantee when or how often it is printed.

Any attempts on your part to help us spread this information throughout the region will be greatly appreciated. If even one child is located for services, the effort will be worthwhile.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,
Jan Killingsworth

EXENCIONES DE RESIDENCIA

PUEDEN REDUCIR LOS IMPUESTOS QUE PAGA POR SU CASA

Una exencion de residencia le ayuda a reducir los impuestos sobre la propiedad que tiene que pagar por su residencia reduciendo el valor que se utiliza como base para calcular sus impuestos. Por ejemplo, si su casa esta valorada eb $50,000 y usted recibe una exncion de residencia d- $5,000, usted va a pagar impuestos de residencia como si su valor fu-se de $45,000.

Usted puede recibir una exencion de residencia si usted era el dueno de su casa el primero de enero y la usaba como su residencia principal en la misma fecha. No importa si su residencia es una casa, un condominio o una casa remodelada.

Hay exenciones que cualquier persona que es dueno(a) de su residencia puede usar para rebajar sus impuestos escolares. Exenciones adicionales se ofrecen a duenos de residencia que estan incapacitados o tienen 65 anos o mas. Otras exenciones pueden ofrecerse a propietarios por distritos escolares, condados, ciudades y distritos escolares.

Bailey County Appraisal District
104 E. Ave. C 272-5501

Solicite todas las exenciones que usted puede recibir en la oficina local del distrito de valoracion en la direccion que se cita abajo.

Si usted recibio una exencion para su residencia actual en 1988, usted no necesita solicitar para 1989 a menos que el jefe de valoracion pida que haga una nueva solicitud.

Sin embargo, si usted cumplio 65 anos o quedo incapacitado antes del primero de enero haga una nueva solicitud para recibir exenciones adicionales.

Si usted no ha recibido una exencion para su residencia actual o si se cambio de casa haga una nueva solicitud para 1988.

Usted tiene que hacer su solicitud antes del 1 de mayo de 1989. Comuniquese con su distrito de valoracion antes de esa fecha si necesita mas tiempo para hacerla.

Para tener mas informacion usted puede recibir una copia gratis del folleto Los Derechos, Remedios y Responsabilidades del Contribuyente de Impuestos en la oficina del distrito de valoracion o puede pedirla del Consejo Estatal de Impuestos sobre la Propiedad (State Property Tax Board) en Austin.

From The Senate

By: Teel Bivins

Now that we are less than 45 days from the end of the session, things are really beginning to heat up. I am spending increasing amounts of time out of the office. With the number of bills on our intent calendar increasing each day, the Senate stays in session longer and longer to deal with the increasing number of bills. Also, committees on which I serve are having several lengthy meetings each week, as opposed to one meeting a week, as we did earlier in the session.

As a result, I am spending an increasing amount of time out of the office. As I have said before in this column, one of the biggest challenges of serving in the Senate is managing your time each and every day, minute to minute. That challenge becomes greater each day.

One of the frustrations of being out of the office so much is I am not able to see and visit with constituents from my district who happen to be in the capitol visiting, or have come to the capitol to talk to their elected representatives about specific pieces of legislation. For those of you who are planning to come to Austin to visit with me or with any other representative regarding legislation, I thought it would be beneficial to pass along some tips for effective lobbying.

First, to help me do my job, I have assembled what I consider to be an excellent staff. Their main job is to listen to you and your concerns and make sure that those are passed on to me. So, if I am unable to visit with you, please sit down and visit with one of my staff regarding your concern.

One thing I regard as possibly the most important aspect of lobbying is to put your concern in writing.

I often times joke with people and tell them that I am a brilliant person, but even I am sometimes unable to recall verbatim a conversation I had in my office two months earlier regarding a particular bill. But, if we could have your thoughts in writing, we can put that in the bill file and I can have the best information at my fingertips when I need it, either in committee or during debate on the Senate floor.

The main form of written communication that we receive in our office is, of course, letters. With regard to your letters, make sure that your address is on the letter. When addressing a piece of legislation, try always to give the bill number if you know it. Another very important point is to try to make your letters short and to the point.

With the 50 to 100 letters we receive each day, I simply don't have time to read three and four page single spaced typed letters.

One other point regarding letters is that they are more effective than telephone calls. We certainly attempt to log every phone call we get regarding legislation; however, it's far better to have in the file an actual letter, as opposed to a brief note that my staff took from a telephone conversation.

With regard to phone calls to our office, it is helpful to us if you would identify yourself and your hometown. Express to them your opinion and leave your telephone number and address, so that if I have questions, I have a way to get back in touch with you.

If you are interested in the status of a particular piece of legislation, even if you don't know the exact bill number, there is a toll free number that you can call, 1-800-252-9693. The legislative library operates this very useful service.

If you are coming to Austin and want to visit about a particular piece of legislation, it is best if you can make an appointment to visit with me. If that's not possible, I certainly want to encourage everyone to drop by; hopefully I'll be available.

I should point out here that often times we make an appointment a week or so in advance and on the day of the scheduled meeting, a committee chairman calls a hearing that conflicts with the appointment time. In that event, at the very least, I try to step out of the committee meeting to visit with folks, at least briefly, about their concerns.

Serving in the Texas Senate is like no other job that I know. The quality of the job that I do depends in part on me and my efforts, but it depends even more on you. If I am to be an effective legislator, I must know how you feel.

Your input is important and helpful.

12 Persons Killed While Hunting In '88

Hunter education officials said 12 persons were killed in hunting accidents in Texas during 1988, the same number of fatalities recorded the year before.

Steve Hall, hunter education coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said while the number of fatalities remained the same, the total number of hunting-related accidents dropped from 81 to 70.

Hall said the 10-19-year-old age group accounted for 24 of the reported accidents, or 34 percent of the total. Next was the 20-to29-year-old category with 19 accidents (27 percent).

Shotguns were involved in 34 of the accidents, rifles in 27 and handguns in eight. There were seven fatalities involving rifles, four with shotguns and one with a handgun.

Deer hunters had more accidents than those hunting other game. They had 21 accidents, followed by dove and quail hunters with 12 accidents each.

"As always, most of the reported accidents involving firearms or archery resulted from carelessness or ignoring the basic rules of hunter safety," said Hall. "Most of them could easily have been prevented."

All accidents are serious, Hall noted, but hunting actually is less dangerous than some other popular outdoor sports. "According to National Safety Council statistics, hunting averages 1.06 fatalities per 100,000 participants. Compare that to scuba diving at 4.5 deaths, hang gliding at 72.5 deaths per 100,000 sky divers," said Hall.

Hall pointed out that volunteer instructors and teachers across the state conduct the department's hunter education course. The course is mandatory starting Sept. 1, 1989 for those hunters born during the period Sept. 2, 1971 through Aug. 31, 1973. It focuses primarily on prevention of accidents as well as the enhancement of hunting and outdoor values, Hall said.

Hall reminds those hunters affected by law to carry proof of certification while hunting. Proof is not needed prior to purchase of a hunting license. For more information regarding hunter education requirements consult the department's Hunting Guide or call a department office or the Hunter Education Section in Austin at (512) 389-4999.

Near Record Deer Harvest Nated In 1988

The harvest of white-tailed deer in Texas during the past hunting season declined from 1987 levels, but still was the second highest ever recorded. Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials said hunters took an estimated 425,000 white-tailed deer during the 1988-89 season, compared to approximately 505,000 the year before. The department's big game harvest survey also indicated the turkey harvest of 38,700 was down 39 percent from 1987, while more deer harvest increased nine percent to 7,900 animals. The javelina harvest dropped 12 percent to 10,500. The whitetail buck harvest, at 229,000 animals, was down 13 percent from 1987, but the antlerless harvest set an all-time record at 218,000 animals. This year, an increase of deer harvest over 1987, antlerless deer, which also was an all-time record. Antlerless deer made up 51 percent of the total deer harvest, according to Brian Boydston, coordinator of technical programs for the department's Wildlife Division.

Unusually warm, windy weather during the first two weeks of the deer season may have accounted for the decline in the buck harvest, and also for a four percent decline in hunter numbers. "There were slightly fewer hunters, and they had to work a little harder to get their deer than they did the year before," said Bruce Gore, whitetail deer program leader. "I think the lower buck harvest and high antlerless harvest may indicate some hunters had difficulty finding bucks and took does instead."

The unseasonably warm weather and good corn crop in many areas, notably the Hill Country of Central Texas, apparently caused deer to move less during daylight hours, Gore explained.

Although hunter numbers declined, the total hunter days increased eight percent and was the highest ever at over 4.6 million. The average days hunted per hunter also was an all-time high at 8.6.

The increase in antlerless harvest varied widely among the various ecological areas. In the Edwards Plateau, where the antlerless harvest has been significant during the past several years, it declined 12 percent, at 94,400 animals. The harvest increased only three percent in South Texas, to some 443,000 animals.

Gore said major increases in the antlerless harvest also occurred in East Texas where some areas saw wider the antlerless system of bag limits for the first time. The antlerless system allows hunters to use tags from their hunting licenses on antlerless deer, rather than obtaining permits from landowners.

In the Rio Grande Valley the antlerless harvest increased 63 percent," Gore noted, "and in the nine counties where the antlerless bag limit was authorized for that region increased by six percent, while the buck harvest declined by 16 percent."

The Pineywoods region showed a similar pattern, with a total harvest of some 72,000 deer. The buck harvest, at 40,900 animals, represented a two percent decline while the antlerless total jumped by 55 percent to 31,200 animals.

Gore pointed out that while the total statewide harvest of almost a half-million deer is the highest of any state in the nation, the take still represents less than 15 percent of the estimated deer herd of approximately four million animals. "Even with the increased attention to the antlerless segment of the herd, deer populations still are higher than they should be in many areas," he said.

Life is too short to be wasted trying to imitate other people.

It's easy to find an excuse for delaying hard work.

It is wonderful to look back and reflect on the joys and problems of raising a family.

Remember Jane's first Christmas... and her first birthday... then there was the time she was so sick, and everyone was awake all night... How much we owe to God for his goodness to us! Yes... we should give thanks to the Lord, and seek his help in bringing up our children. Take your family to church regularly.

★ © Coleman Adr.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
