Air View of 'Temple of Justice'

A graphic conception of the scope and magnificence of the capital's new U. S. Supreme Court Building, in which the nation's nine eminent jurists are assembling for a momentous fall term, is imparted in this striking air view. At top can be seen the glistening plaza of white marble fronting the imposing edifice, which contains miles of marble-floored corridors. Each of the justices will have a suite of offices looking out on one of the four marble interior courts, pictured above, in which splashing fountains reflect dazzling white walls.

WOOD PERMITTED TO ACCEPT SENTENCE OF TEN YEAR PEN TERM

The Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin set aside the order of the trial court in Brown county granting a new trial to Stanley Wood and ruled Tuesday that he be allowed to accept sentence. Following Wood's conviction of murder of Fred Brown, Talpa ranchman, he was given a 10 year penal sentence by a trial jury here in June. His attorneys filed notice of appeal, but a new trial was granted by District Judge E. J. Miller upon motion of state attorneys.

Following granting of a new trial Wood's attorneys asked that he be allowed to withdraw his notice of appeal and accept sentence. The court refused to grant the request and the appeal was made.

Fred Brown was killed near Talpa, Coleman county, on the night of May 3. Wood was jointly charged with Louis Reis for the crime and was tried in Brown county on a change of venue from Coleman county. Reis was tried and convicted at Coleman during the September term of district court and given 25 years in the penitentiary for his part in the murder.

that a gracious God will lengthen the years of any and all and enable them to be present at the annual meetings of this organization on the first Saturday in October each year hereafter.

We wish also to express appreciation for the splendid meal furnished us by the Rotary Club today; as well as other entertainments furnished by the various bands, clubs and organizations of Brownwood and Bangs.

COMANCHE BUSINESS WOMEN ENTERTAINED BY LOCAL BPW CLUB

Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Comanche were entertained by the Brownwood organization at a Mexican dinner at Carnegie Library Tuesday night. Combined attendance of the two clubs was 90. Mrs. Velma De Benedetti, president of the Brownwood club, presided at the reception for the visitors which preceded the dinner and made the welcoming address. Response was by Miss Iva Hart, president of the visiting club. Dr. Mollie Armstrong acted as toastmistress, and Miss Willie Lee Box and Mrs. Edna Savage Saunders were hostesses.

Speakers on the program were Mrs. C. C. Worsham, Mrs. Alma Lyle and Dr. Armstrong. Musical numbers were given by Mrs. Karl Moore who played a selection on the accordion, and Mrs. Saunders, who was pianist for the occasion. Miss Gilda Edwards drew the prize in a drawing for a souvenir of the meeting.

Each visitor from Comanche introduced herself and told her business or profession.

ROWLAND TO DIRECT RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

Brown county Red Cross roll call will start November 12 with A. P. Rowland in charge as chairman. The committee of the Brown county chapter selected Mr. Rowland to succeed D. T. Strickland, who resigned, at a meeting held at Hotel Brownwood Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Frances Blackburn, representative of the Midwestern Branch of the Red Cross, St. Louis, met with the committee and assisted in making plans for the roll call.

COMPLAINTS FILED AGAINST T. P. & L. EMPLOYEES AS UTILITY CONTROVERSY WAXES WARMER

COMPLAINTS signed by R. O. Mathews have been issued against W. P. Murphy, district manager of Texas Power & Light Company, and several employees for alleged changing of poles and wires on certain streets of the city without a permit from the city. Mathews complained to city council that raising of poles and wires by T. P. & L. interferes with the stringing of his wires for Brownwood Public Service Company which must have a two foot clearance for the secondary wires and a one-foot clearance for primary wires.

The complaints were issued against Mr. Murphy and Todd White, John Gill, Oley Gill, Clay Chisholm and Dean Brinkley, T. P. & L. employees. It is expected that bonds will be perfected as soon as the complaints are presented. The offense charged is a misdemeanor and the violators may be fined from $10 to $100, each day's failure to comply with the law constituting a separate offense.

City Council at a called meeting Tuesday night instructed J. M. Bowman, city electrical inspector, to order Texas Power & Light Company to lower poles and wires that have been raised since Saturday. Copy of the order signed by Bowman is as follows: "To the Texas Power & Light Co., Brownwood, Texas.

"Gentlemen: "You are hereby instructed and commanded that you immediately lower all electric light poles and transmission wires, throughout the City of Brownwood, wherever the height of said poles and wires have been raised from their former levels and height, since Saturday, October 12th; lowering all of said poles and transmission wires, to the same levels and height theretofore used and occupied by said poles and wires.

"This order and demand is in accordance with the instructions of the City Council, and applies especially to the poles and wires raised by you along Fisk avenue in the said city and to any other streets and places in said city where the levels of your wiring and transmission lines has been raised within the last few days.

"You will please comply with this order immediately, and oblige." City Secretary F. E. Scott also was instructed by Council last night not to issue a permit to Texas Power & Light Company giving "them the right to set their poles or lines at a higher elevation than they are at present."

Mathews was ordered to stop work of stringing wire for Brownwood Public Service Company lines Monday by the Court of Civil Appeals at Austin which issued this order on request of T. P. & L. temporarily restraining Mathews from erecting additional poles or stringing more wires. He was ordered to appear at a hearing October 21 to show cause why a temporary injunction restraining him from further activity should not be granted.

OLD CATTLE BRAND REGISTER PROVES OF INTEREST; CARRIES ADVERTISEMENT OF BANNER

OF THE MANY interesting relics and mementos of Pioneers Day, exhibited at the Memorial Hall during the Tuesday program honoring Brown county pioneers, none attracted more attention than a book of Texas Cattle Brands, published in 1881. The book, of more than 100 pages, gave a complete register of the brands of that date, showing a picture of each brand, with description and name and address of the owner. The book was the property of John Williams of Grosvenor, himself a pioneer. It had been owned by his father.

The register apparently was printed in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and from announcements and advertisements, "that seemed to be the center of the livestock industry of that date. Numerous advertisements appeared in the register, intermingled with the pages of cattle brands. The one which attracted the most attention was that of the "Brown County Banner," this newspaper having a page advertisement in the booklet. The subscription price of the Banner was listed at $2 per year; $1 for six months, and the advertisement was worded as follows:

"The Brown County Banner, established 1876. Ed P. Mickel, Proprietor. The Banner is the Oldest, Largest and Best Newspaper on the Texas Frontier. It is published in the Celebrated Pecan Valley Farming Country, and is just the paper to give you reliable information in regard to the Farming and Stock Raising Interests of its section, Brownwood, Texas."

Another advertisement that attracted considerable attention from the Pioneers was that of A. J. McBride of Coleman, who advertised his services as a "Horse Hunter." Mr. McBride offered to hunt estrayed horses, stating that to this

Even Providence Can't Save Oats

These two stacks of oats ascending in flames prove that not even an act of Providence averts the government's crop allotment rule. Simon Stuckey of Hutchinson, Kan., had received payment for not raising wheat, but was allowed to grow oats to be cut for feed before they were ripe. Rain prevented cutting until after they had ripened, so Stuckey was ordered to refund wheat payments or burn his oats, on which he had been depending for feed.

FARM DEBT IS CUT SIX MILLION THROUGH ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM

A farm debt reduction of more than six million dollars has been brought about by the work of the fifteen committees who have been at work on farm debt adjustment activities in Oklahoma and Texas for the past eighteen months according to an announcement made this week by R. J. Murray, assistant director of Rural Resettlement for Texas and Oklahoma. Most of the scale-down has been accomplished through cancellation of delinquent interest or reduction in interest rates.

More than 38,000 farm families are receiving loans in these two states, under the Resettlement program, but debt adjustment work is not confined to them. "Now that the price of farm products is advancing, we may find that some mortgage holders may press for foreclosure where they were willing to leave the owner in charge while returns were not so good," Murray said.

When debt adjustment activities were about to be dropped by FERA on August 5, the National Grange and American Farm Bureau united to write President Roosevelt a letter in which they said "Activities of these committees have saved the fully 125,000 farm homes to their present owners." The program was transferred from FERA to the Resettlement Administration thirty days ago.

Murray stated that group meetings would be held throughout the region to explain the Farm Debt Adjustment program and the Revised Frazier-Lemke Amendment to the Bankruptcy Act.

ANTI-WAR PETITION SPONSORED IN BANGS

A petition has been signed by a large number of Bangs citizens stating they do not want the United States to enter another foreign war. Louis Garms who prepared the petition, has requested that the Banner publish it and that those who wish to sign the petition copy and sign it and send the copy to Mr. Garms or Rev. B. B. Edmiston at Bangs or to their Congressman or the President.

The petition: "We, the undersigned citizens of Brown county, Texas, respectfully memorialize Congress, to give due consideration at the proper time, to the question with reference to another war, that seems to be impending, judging from the world's war preparation at this time.

"That we, citizens of the United States, do not want to be involved in any war of aggression. We are ready to fight like wild cats for the protection of our homes and institutions, but are positively opposed to entering any war of aggression that would take us to any foreign shores."

DRIVE FOR MEMBERS OF COOPERATIVE TO END SATURDAY NIGHT

Membership drive for the Brownwood Cooperative Association will end Saturday night, and efforts are being made to contact all persons interested in attending the concert to be sponsored by the association before that time. The organization of the association, which plans to bring three concert artists to Brownwood during the coming season, was perfected and plans were made for the membership campaign at a banquet at Hotel Brownwood Monday night.

Miss Patricia O'Brien, campaign manager representing the Columbia Concerts Corporation of the Columbia Broadcasting System, explained the cooperative concert movement which enables the smaller cities to hear the best musical talent of the country. Other talks were made by J. Edward Johnson, president of the association, Rev. William H. Foster, Chester Harrison and Mesdames Norman Locks, Pearl McCulley and David S. Camp, Jr.

Only members of the association can attend the concert, so all interested persons are urged to become members before the drive ends Saturday night. A secretary's office has been established at Hotel Brownwood, telephone 680.

Completion of examining trial for F. E. Rafferty against whom charges of negligent homicide were filed last week is being delayed until a further investigation can be made of the case, according to County Attorney Conner Scott. The charges were filed following a wreck on highway 10 in which McCoy Kemp, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kemp, 1409 Hawkins street, received fatal injuries.

Mrs. Kemp was critically injured and another son, Eldridge Kemp, 9, is in a serious condition. Two other persons, Mrs. Fred Riddle and her small son, were slightly injured.

Mr. Rafferty's car crashed into the rear of the Kemp automobile when the four were pushing it along the pavement. Fred Riddle, driver of the car which was struck, signed the complaint which led to the filing of charges.

City Grants Gas Franchise To New Utility Company

Specified Rate Is 5 Cents Below Present Gas Rate; New Company Is Organized.

The Brownwood City Council moved one step nearer establishment of a franchise-granting record this week, when an ordinance granting a franchise to furnish natural gas to the city of Brownwood by the Middle South Utilities Companies was passed on second reading at a called meeting. Passage on first reading was Tuesday night, on second reading Wednesday morning. Previously this year the council has granted a light and power franchise to R. O. Mathews, and now in the process of passage is a new franchise to Mr. Mathews' company, correcting possible errors in the first. The gas franchise if passed finally, will be the third to be passed by the city during the year.

The Middle South Utilities is a new corporation, incorporated by C. A. Rogers, J. M. Bowman and S. C. Holloway.

The ordinance grants the company the rights to sell gas here for a period of twenty years and specifies that the rate shall be 30 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. The present Brownwood rate is 35 cents.

One of the gas companies operating here at present, the Natural Gas and Fuel Company, will be sold in bankruptcy at Little Rock, Arkansas, October 30, according to an announcement made by officials.

Mayor W. H. Thompson was authorized at the meeting Tuesday night to advertise for bids on lubricating oil to be used at the city water pumping station for the next year. He also was authorized to employ Davis and Darroch, local attorneys, to assist in defending the city in a suit for $11,100 damages brought by Mrs. Myrtle Connor in connection with the death of her 4-year-old son, who was struck by a city sanitary department truck July 16.

FUNDS ALLOCATED FOR HIGHWAY 10 WORK

Contracts for the work of paving of highway 10 from the Brown county line to Comanche will be let soon. Funds for the project have already been allocated by the State Highway Commission, according to information received by Chester Harrison, secretary of Brownwood Chamber of Commerce who appeared with a delegation of representatives of towns and cities on U. S. highway 67 to seek paving of a gap in the highway between Glen Rose and Stephenville.

The delegation learned that all available funds have been allocated, and the matter of paving the gap will be taken up with the Commission later.

INSTALLMENT TAX PAYMENT POPULAR

The plan inaugurated this year by the city tax department for allowing payment of delinquent taxes on a monthly installment basis is proving very successful. During September a total of $998.45 representing payments of 50 property owners was collected by Tax Collector H. H. Gresham and assistant Tax Collector Urban Smith. A number of other citizens have signed agreements to pay delinquent taxes in this way.

Under the plan a property owner who owes delinquent taxes may sign an agreement to pay the taxes in equal monthly installments and have interest and penalty on the past due taxes remitted. Mr. Smith is calling on taxpayers daily and asking them to cooperate in the plan.

PIONEER DAY RECALLS MANY MEMORIES OF HARDSHIPS OF THOSE WHO SETTLED COUNTY

HARDSHIPS and happiness of the Brown County Pioneers of 1876 were recalled by those who gathered in Brownwood Tuesday, October 15, to observe the first annual Pioneer Day, sponsored by the Brownwood Rotary Club. Many interesting events were recalled as the Pioneers gathered early for a day of speech-making, band playing, and story telling. Tribute was paid the pioneers by those who came later, taking up the work where the pioneers left off.

Stirring pages of history figured in the lives of those who came here in 1876. They arrived in this county in the Centennial Year of the signing of the Declaration of Independence of America. Their fathers or grandfathers had fought in the Revolutionary War. They arrived here in the fortieth year after the signing of the Declaration of Texas Independence and the battle of San Jacinto. Some of them at least were to become friends and associates with men or sons of men who had fought in the battle for Texas freedom. The principles of liberty, independence and justice were imbedded deep in their hearts.

The new citizens of 1876 became identified with Brown county in the year of the ratification of the present constitution of Texas. Those here in 1875 and before had had their part in the conventions and other proceedings that had given form to this constitution.

The citizens who became identified with Brown county in 1876 were then the new-comers, taking their places with the old-timers who had been here for ten to twenty years or less. They came from many states, blending into the pioneer stock that laid the foundations for the development and advancement of this section of Texas.

Not Far From Civil War.

They were only eleven years from the close of the Civil War. Fifteen years before, on February 23, 1861, the people of Brown county had gathered at the home of Welcome Williams Chandler to formally celebrate the birth of the Confederacy, according to Smith's "Frontier's Generation." Now they were again citizens of the United States of America, a part of the throbbing life of the Union. U. S. Grant was president of the United States. The illustrious Richard Coke was governor of Texas, resigning in December, 1876, to become United States Senator from Texas, and being succeeded in the governor's chair by the silver-tongued R. B. Hubbard. Coke succeeded Morgan C. Hamilton in the senate and the other senator from Texas was Samuel B. Maxey. Indian fights in Brown county were past but yet close enough at hand to be poignantly fresh in the minds of the citizens.

Were Then The New-Comers

Those who came to Texas and Brown county in 1876 were part of a great immigration movement. People of other states had become Texas conscious and the new empire of the Southwest was appealing to the imagination and the spirit of the people. Some saw adventure, and some saw attractive opportunities for building their home and fortunes in a new land.

In the decade including 1875 and 1876, in the ten years from 1870 to 1880, the population of Texas increased 773,176, an increase of 94.5 percent. In no decade since that time has the percentage of increase of population in the state been so great, notwithstanding the steady increase in population after 1880 raised Texas from rank of 11th among the states of the Union in that year to 5th in 1910, which position Texas still holds.

In the single decade from 1870 and 1880 Texas advanced from 19th to 11th place among the states in point of population.

On Threshold of Development.

The citizens of 1875 and 1876 were on the threshold of an era of rapid developments. The westward moving frontier was leaving them not only in the geographical center of the state, but also in the heart of a land in which agricultural, commercial activities were rapidly expanding and in which schools and churches were being established. Ten years hence they were to see the coming of the first railroad to Brownwood. And even in 1876 and 1877 they were to see the opening of the first bank and the establishing of the first flour mill here.

Just ahead of them was the construction of the present capitol at Austin, completed in 1886, which was for a good many years to hold its place as one of the tallest and largest buildings in the world. It was constructed to take the place of the building burned in 1881.

World Told of Texas Advantages

Central Texas counties had their enterprising citizens, including especially in this connection newspaper editors and real estate men who were directing the attention of people of other states to this particular section of Texas. "Frontier's Generation," the brief and interesting history of frontier days in Brown county by Tevis Clyde Smith, says: "In 1874 Major John Y. Rankin began to advertise Brown county land. In two years time he had gained the county a reputation and new inhabitants. Many families came here in '76; among them were the Clarys, the Steffens, the Taylors, the Allison and Brooke Smith."

And if sometime the conditions which had led the Texas enthusiasts to paint rosy pictures grew less rosy, the spirit in which the situation was met was but typical of the dauntlessness of the pioneer. Some old acquaintances recall the story of the late G. A. Beeman in the sister county of Comanche, who founded the Comanche Chief in 1872. Beeman's paper was being mailed to citizens in many states and the glories of Central Texas, and Comanche county in particular, to say the least, were never underestimated. Among other things, in his enthusiasm, he referred to Comanche county as a "well watered county."

A prospective citizen arrived in the midst of a rainless spell, when the ground was parched and the streams of the county were dry.

He took a look at the country and decided that what he longed most then to do was to see the editor whose descriptions of the country had induced him to come. Having made his way to Beeman, who smilingly acknowledged to being the editor, the man's ire burst into flame and he exclaimed, as if indicting a man of a great crime, "You said this was a well watered country!"

Beeman looked at him steadily, then with a twinkle in his eye said "My friend, you'll have to admit that I was right. It is a 'well' watered country. All the water in the country now is in the wells." The man's anger cooled, he laughed, and after further consideration he decided to become a citizen of that county.

Honors Bestowed Are Well Deserved.

The pioneers had their hardships and their good times. They laid the foundation for a great country. They have seen great developments and those who are yet with us share with the younger generation a pride in the Texas and Brown county of today. The honors paid them on the event of their celebration were well deserved.

Kreiser To Play In San Antonio On Thursday, Oct. 24

The forthcoming appearance of Fritz Kreiser, the master violinist, at Jefferson High School auditorium, San Antonio, on Thursday evening, October 24th, is attracting wide attention from the entire Southwest. Mail orders from points as far away as Brownsville to the South and Brownwood to the north indicate that the audience will be made up of an audience from a three hundred mile radius. The possibility that Kreiser will not be heard again in the Southwest for many seasons to come has doubtless stimulated the desire to attend the recital. The Friends of Music, Elizabeth A. Devoe, sponsor, which is sponsoring the event, has announced that out of town orders will be given the utmost consideration. Checks should be made out to Friends of Music and addressed to Elizabeth A. Devoe, sponsor, Box 331, Plaza Hotel, San Antonio.

Kreiser arrived in New York last Wednesday, October 2, in preparation for his opening recital at Carnegie Hall, New York, on October 12th. The San Antonio recital on October 24th will be one of his first on tour and promises the advantage of hearing the great artist before his long tour has tired him.

The program as usual will include two of the masterpieces of violin and piano sonata literature, with the reliable, Carl Lamson, at the piano as Mr. Kreiser's accompanist. Then will follow a long list of the lighter classics and many of the favorites from Kreiser's own pen.

The Kreiser tour will take him from coast to coast. This will be followed by several recitals in Mexico City in December, and then a tour of South America, which will be the beginning of a long itinerary which will take Mr. Kreiser to every point in the civilized world, where a concert hall is available. Because of these long tours already set for the next three years, the appearance at San Antonio on October 24th will be the last opportunity to hear him for a long time to come.

DANIEL BAKER TIES TWC; HOWARD PAYNE PLAYS HERE FRIDAY

Week-end football for the Brownwood teams got under way a day early this week, when Daniel Baker played Texas Wesleyan College Wednesday night.

After a slow moving first quarter, both teams picked up to go into action in the second period of the game. Daniel Baker scored first, midway of the third quarter, when Woodrow Red, Billie end, partially blocked a TWC pass, which fell into the arms of Coker, who was unmoisted in his run to the goal line.

The Rams came back with a rush, scoring a touchdown five minutes after the Daniel Baker score. Isabel kicked goal for the tying point.

The Howard Payne Yellow Jackets will play the only game scheduled to be played at Brownwood this week-end when they meet the Austin College Kangaroos here Friday night.

Lynn Clardy, captain and quarterback, will be out of play on account of injuries received in the Cisco game. Lineup for the tilt has not been announced.

The Hill Billies were defeated 13 to 6 in a hard fought battle with the Austin College Kangaroos at Sherman Friday night, making the second successive Texas Conference victory for the Austin College aggregation.

Members of the Brownwood Ministerial Alliance are conducting religious services at the camp each Tuesday night. Attendance and interest in these services is growing rapidly.

WORK AT STATE PARK NEARING COMPLETION

The work originally planned for the CCC camp at Lake Brownwood is nearly finished. The water system for the stone cabins has been completed, and the water has been turned on.

The veterans CCC camp in Brownwood has challenged Company 872 to play a soft ball tournament. Play will be started as soon as a schedule can be arranged.

Tennis and swimming are the most popular sports at the camp, and most of the boys in the camp are enrolled for work in the camp school night classes, now under direction of R. M. Herriott.

1936 FORD V-8 TO BE ON DISPLAY SATURDAY

First showing of the Ford V-8 for 1936 will be made Saturday, October 19, at the show rooms of Weatherby Motor Company, local Ford dealer.

Announcement of the new car has attracted considerable interest among motorists. An announcement from the Ford Motor Company regarding the new car says:

"Body lines which strike a new note in conservative streamlining, a new treatment of the interior and three important refinements in chassis engineering summarize the principal improvements in the 1936 car. There are no radical changes. The 85-horsepower V-8 engine, of which more than 2,000,000 are now on the road, is unaltered.

"Of the three principal chassis improvements, one — improved steering — is aimed at greater ease and safety of operation. Two others tend to greater comfort. The other is an improved transmission, using quiet helical gears in all the speeds, including reverse. A new front end treatment gives added distinction to the body lines.

"The hood is longer, extending gracefully over the attractive new radiator grille. With its vertical slots and more accentuated 'Vee' as well as its smoothly rounded lower edge which blends with the streamlined curve of the inner portion of the fenders, the new grille contributes a note of smartness which is distinctive and new.

"Fenders are streamlined, a wide flare giving them an imposing appearance. Louvers are of new design. Horns are recessed in the fender aprons back of small round grilles beneath the streamlined headlamp. The latter are relatively small and parabolic in section, finished in enamel to match the body color and set off by rustless steel rims.

"The welded steel body is low and wide, with flowing rear quarter lines. Finish is a Ford-developed baked enamel. The new steel wheels with 12 1/2 inch hub caps materially improve the appearance of the ensemble. Hub cap centers are of polished rustless steel.

Thirteen body types are available in the 1936 V-8, ten with de luxe appointments and three without.

The Legislative Session

The Texas Legislature this week began its second called session, with only one piece of major legislation before it at this time—working out an acceptable Old Age Pension program. Within the course of the legislative session, which will extend the constitutional 30 days, legislators will be tossed the other two major problems placed in their hands by the voters last summer: Liquor legislation and salaries for present county fee officers.

While the first session, ended this week, accomplished little, it possibly served the purpose of ironing out some of the problems which kept the legislators from agreement during the past thirty days, and should have cleared the decks for quicker action during the coming weeks on the three major problems.

Otherwise, the sum total of actual accomplishments of the first session can be summarized in one paragraph. It did pass and secure approval of the chain store tax bill. The bill, as it finally emerged from the legislative mill, was far from the measure recommended by Governor Allred, but that official has expressed satisfaction at its passage, and no doubt it is a step in the direction the Governor had indicated as the way out of the tax wilderness. As a matter of fact, the bill as finally passed is fraught with technical weaknesses which experts predict will assure it a difficult course through the courts, where it is expected to be taken by those whom it affects.

It is the popular thing, just now, to point with scorn to the apparent lack of work accomplished by the session which has just ended. To be true, little constructive legislation was enacted, and the cost to the taxpayers in proportion has been tremendous. On behalf of the members of the Legislature, however, let it be said that no session has ever wrestled with such difficult and controversial matters of legislation as pensions, liquor and county salaries. That there should be difficulty in reaching an amicable solution by any body of men on these three issues seems to be expected rather than decried. If the session just ended served to clear the path for an early agreement on these issues, then it will have accomplished much for the State, and its deliberations will not have been in vain.

Simultaneously come two announcements concerning the rapidly increasing and the alarming destruction of human lives and bodies through careless handling of automobiles. One is that inventors are perfecting an accident-proof automobile; the other, that the press of the nation is being called upon to assist in arousing public opinion to exile death from the highways. The first may be dismissed for the moment as a "noble experiment" for which we all wish the greatest of success but which promises little immediate relief. The second may be the way to assure some semblance of safety in motoring.

The call for the press to rally to the cause of safety was issued by Lynwood I. Noves, publisher of the Ironwood (Mich.) Globe, and president of the Inland Daily Press Association, in an address before that body this week.

The enormity of the unnecessary loss of life was strikingly emphasized by Mr. Noves when he pointed out that at the present rates of automobile deaths, a number equal to the entire population of Indianapolis, Kansas City or St. Paul is wiped out each decade. The rate of death is greater than that of any war in which this country has been engaged, he stated.

There were nearly 1,000,000 casualties in 1934 from automobile accidents, and 36,000 deaths. Taking Mr. Noves' gauge, that means that approximately three cities the size of Brownwood are destroyed each year through automobile accidents; the maimed approximate the total population of Houston, Dallas, San Antonio and Fort Worth, Texas' four largest cities, combined, each year. Considered from any standpoint, the total is appalling; but when you visualize the totals in terms of cities, the extent of the automobile carnage is sickening. The worst feature is that far from showing any trend toward improvement, figures for the first part of 1935 indicate that the destruction of life and property is mounting steadily.

More realistic journalism is suggested by Mr. Noves as a means of bringing the message home to automobile drivers. When an accident involves no one of our personal acquaintance, and merely is a recitation of names, the reader is inclined to pass it more or less lightly. This is especially true when newspapers have adopted the policy of sparing their readers the gruesome details of suffering and horrors. Publication of the uglier details would not be a happy procedure, but might accomplish Mr. Noves' objective of enabling drivers and pedestrians to realize and fear rather than court the dangers that beset those who ride and walk.

Interesting industrialists and business men now is the American Federation of Labor's drive for a 30-hour week. Industry generally is not unfavorable to the idea; business regards it rather doubtfully.

Whether the 30-hour week is practical or not, depends largely upon the field in which the laborer is engaged. Boiled down, it is a proposal, for the present at least, of getting more men to work, rather than improving the income of those now employed.

This feature is brought out strikingly by the United States News, which says "wages today are 2.2 per cent higher than in 1929; wages today are 21.8 per cent lower than in 1929. Strangely enough, both these statements are true."

The explanation is that the average workman gets more per hour for his services now than he did in 1929, but he gets less at the end of the week because he works fewer hours. In 1929, the average worker's weekly pay envelope contained $28.50; in 1930, $26, and now $22.28.

Everyone wants to see that pay envelope restored to its 1929 level or above it. The dissention is as to the proper way to get it there. The best way to do it, at the same time increasing employment, is the problem which must be solved. The 30-hour week may be the answer, but obviously, unless business can stand a higher hourly rate, immediate observance of the 30-hour week will result in decreased income.

100 PER CENT

Not long ago I visited a friend, the personnel director of a large eastern firm. Her observation was keen. The interest of my visit centered around her summation of the 100 per cent business woman.

"My job resembles a physician's," she said laughingly, "one look at the patient tells more than several reference letters." During her first interview she glimpses the individual's attitude toward life by what she calls "four success signals." They are:

- a. What is the poise of the head? b. Does she look as well going as coming? c. Does she use or abuse the king's English? d. Has she personality plus?

Posture was her first signal. Few people realize how self revealing posture is. The set of one's head on the shoulders bespeaks one's degree of ambition, or lack of it. A straight front look reflects one's self-confidence.

Appearance was second. Well-froomed does not imply extensively groomed. It implies, however, neatness, care in detail and cleanliness. Those who are careful, clever, and chic are "sartorially smarter" than some others who count figures into four columns for their year's wardrobe. More self-respect can be bought for 25 cents in a shoe shop, where heels are stretched, than any place in the wide world. This makes one look as well going as coming. Earrings and rouge can never reach as far in this matter of toilet, as a healthy well-kept skin.

The third was an unusually high hurdle—mental adequacy. My friend almost despairs at the linguistic paucity prevalent today, even among our college graduates. The English language and the "American slangage" are farther apart than the ocean wide.

The fourth and last X-ray test was the most subtle. "I have several ways of proving the innate refinement of my visitor," she said, "this I call personality plus. Absolute indifference to my telephone conversations brings her score one. I watch her emotional reactions and self-control when she discusses with me her hobbies."

These four success signals recall what Emerson said: "What you do speaks so loudly I cannot hear what you say!"

The Human Race Is Funny

(Houston Post)

Ever so often some Jeremiahal prophet comes along and foredooms the human race to early extinction. This time the prophet is President Cutten of Colgate university. Professor Cutten laments that the human race is doomed and it won't be long until we go the way of the great auk, the three-toed horse and the pterydactyl. Which, the way we feel today, is all right with us.

If it is of sufficient interest to you to move to learn why, it is because we are violating nature's laws of natural selection and the survival of the fittest. Let nature in the raw do its stuff—as if nature isn't raw enough as it is—and the world would quickly be rid of the unfit.

As it is we pamper the home sapiens, coddle them and keep them alive in spite of their unfitness and, as Dr. Cutten observes, the greatest sinners in this regard are the philanthropists and the doctors.

Dr. Cutten would correct that. In his world, the lame, the halt, the blind would be non-existent. It would be no place for such misfits as the grotesque-crippled Alexander Pope or the dwarfed Charles Steinmetz. The sightless John Milton would have had no sphere on Dr. Cutten's stout earth, nor would have Thomas A. Edison, who was stone deaf.

In a race of Tarzans like Johnny Weismuller invalids like the frail Shelley and Robert Louis Stevenson would be mercifully done away with so that a stronger breed could go about their Tarzanical breeding.

The list is practically limitless of the unfit who would have come under the Darwinian ban, among only a few being the great historian, Prescott, and the epileptic Julius Caesar would have got his long before he was set upon by Brutus.

Anyway, even Dr. Cutten realizes that human beings are incorrigibly addicted to caring for the alling and unfit. So it is fruitless to speculate on the weeding-out process. We are just going to continue resisting nature until the whole kit and kaboodle of the human race dies on the stem. Just a flock of sappy old sentimentalists, that's what we are.

Dickens—Mrs. T. D. Hale, yard demonstrator in the Prairie Chapel Home Demonstration Club of Dickens county, believes in grassed front yards.

"We have solid turf in our front yard," she said, "and it doesn't seem possible since we only put out the grass the latter part of March."

She kept putting soil over the runners or setting runners in the bare or thin places until the yard was completely covered. Bermuda grass was used.

"The grass has made the house much cooler this summer and it has kept sand and dust out," Mrs. Hale commented, "but best of all, the grass has made the yard an ideal place for the grandchildren to play."

Kingsville—If the seeds of the native evergreen shrub, mountain laurel, are planted soon after maturity, but before they have time to become hard and dry, they will sprout more quickly.

That is the opinion of Mrs. A. Foits, yard cooperorator of the Suburg Home Demonstration Club of Kleberg county.

"The seeds should be soaked a few days in water and then planted in tin buckets. When they come up as young sprouts, they can be taken care of through the summer and easily transplanted at the end of the year," Mrs. Foits said.

She explained that transplanting this shrub from the woods is often disappointing because small plants are hard to find and the root systems of the older plants are very limited.

Borth attributes much of his profit to the prices he receives for his infertile eggs. He claims that he has received about $20 more for the period by shipping cooperatively.

Jefferson—R. K. Brown of the Mims Chapel community of Marlino county reports that he has had good results from a few acres of pop corn which he tried this season. He sold $117 worth of pop corn off of five acres even though rains cut down the yields.

"For the amount of labor and other expenses," Brown said, "I consider pop corn a better money crop than cotton, and I expect to increase my acreage."

Mote says that he did not spend much time on his fruit trees this year, but since the income has come in, he is going to cultivate them next year. He also plans to prepare three acres more land for a young orchard.

AS IN THE BEGINNING (Texas Weekly)

Reading Eugene C. Barker's "Life of Stephen F. Austin" recently, we came upon a passage which is big with contemporary interest today. It tells of Austin's efforts to awaken the Mexican authorities to the importance of establishing a European market for Texas cotton from Mexican ports.

"His Principal hope of prosperity was in the exportation of cotton to Europe," says Barker, but he wanted to send it to Vera Cruz for transhipment abroad, instead of to New Orleans where the American tariff "operated as a discount against the price." And in presenting the matter to the Mexican leaders, Austin made the following argument: "England resented the Tariff of Abominations, was seeking cotton in Egypt and Brazil to enable it to retaliate by the exclusion of the American product, and would welcome the possibility of a new source of supply and do much to encourage and develop it." And that was more than a century ago.

THE GREATEST TRACTION TIRE EVER BUILT

For Muddy and Unimproved Roads

Just the tire you need for any kind of driving or hauling over unimproved roads. This tire pulls through mud—sand—gumbo—where ordinary tires even with chains would get stuck.

The deep, rugged non-skid tread is scientifically designed to give maximum traction and is self-cleaning. Because the tread design is continuous, the tire rides smoothly and gives even wear.

Come in and see this new tire today. Put a set on your car and truck and forget traction worries. You will find them the most economical investment you ever made.

Banner Occasion for Italian Troops Going to Africa

Are the Italian soldiers downhearted at the prospect of fighting the Ethiopians? This group says they aren't. Carrying banners (that below is a regimental emblem which has been decorated with a Jolly Roger, and that above shows Italia Selessie fleeing before an attack), singing and cheering lustily, they sailed with 3000 comrades from Naples.

Target for Italian Bombs

The cathedral of St. George, outside which troops are shown on duty, is one of the Addis Ababa landmarks in danger of destruction should Italian aviators bomb the Ethiopian capital. The cathedral is the chief seat of the Coptic Church, the state denomination.

Mobilization in Ethiopia Is No Empty Gesture

As the war drums rattle more than 1,000,000 warriors to the colors, this picture of Emperor Haile Selassie's army of ferocious fighters, Drees, NEA Service staff cameraman, indicates that mobilization of Ethiopia's forces is not just a gesture. Well trained and well armed, the Imperial Guards shown on the march are the mainstay of the emperor's army of ferocious fighters.

Italy's Big Guns Take Up Posts on Battlefield

The speedy advance of the Italian infantry and motorized units has made the movement of the big field artillery pieces over the inadequate Ethiopian roads one of the biggest military problems of the campaign. That it has been successfully solved is proved in this picture, rushed to civilization by plane from the Agawa front, showing artillerymen warping their gun into firing position.

Deserts Cause of Royal Kins

A deserter with 12,000 of his troops from the Ethiopian Haile Selassie Gussa is shown here at the time of his marriage to the daughter of Emperor Haile Selassie, with attendants holding torches over the wedding pair. The bride died about two years ago. Dispatches indicate that Gussa may be made head of a puppet government to be carved out of Ethiopia by Italy. He is said to have a claim to the Ethiopian throne, as a grandnephew of King John IV, who died in 1882.

Gunless Recruits Steel Selves for Hand-to-Hand Combat

Ready to pit cold steel and eagerness for battle against the hot shot and shell of Italy's invaders, loyal Ethiopians pour out of the hills and deserts in answer to Emperor Haile Selassie's mobilization call. And they are just as eager to get to the front. Here, largely unarmed save for daggers and snickersees which are concealed under their voluminous sheeting, you see a column rushing out of Addis Ababa toward the northern front to stem the tide of invasion.

Some of the V. A. boys have been absent the last few days picking cotton and harvesting feed so the classes have been running short in numbers. It is hoped that the boys will soon be back in school so they can keep up with their work. The pupils are busy trying to line up their projects for the next year's work. Most of the boys will have field projects while a few will have livestock projects. Sam Clark, Roy West and Wayne Russell Holamon have purchased gilt pigs for pig projects. Voyte Willett and Thurman Emfinger have purchased pigs this week for pork projects. The Freshmen V. A. boys are all at work on their applications for the degree of Green Hand and those ready will be initiated next week. In order to become a Green Hand a boy must make plans for his project programs, plan his supervised practice program, be able to recite from memory the Future Farmer Creed, pay his dues and receive a majority vote of the members present at a regular meeting of the chapter. ROY WEST, Reporter.

EARLY HISTORY OF TEXAS AS SHOWN FROM THE AUSTIN PAPERS

This is one of a series of special collections of the Austin papers in the University of Texas library. The collection covers all periods of the early history of the state, from the earliest days of the Spanish mission in the province of Texas through the colonial era.

Farragut will be equally ready to 'take in the tricks' and keep the same. This, I think, will be about the way of it—though circumstances may arise to precipitate events, out of, or in advance of the order, I have set forth.

But, be it as it may, the 15th of June, in my opinion, will prove to be the most incredulous Confederate that he hasn't one solitary, reasonable hope left him. Some about Hemstead have just heard of the Confiscation Act, and are in dread of its consequences. I was asked by an excellent citizen of the place if it didn't alarm me. I answered it did, about twelve or fifteen months ago, but that from long contemplation of same, I had become less nervous about it than he now seemed to be.

He replied that the act in question was but recently passed. I admitted the fact but added that myself and all other good Unionists had anticipated the same as a necessary consequence of the course adopted by the Southern States, to endure the election of a northern president for the purpose of an excuse for a most impotent, though sanguine attempt, to dissolve the American Union. He seemed to be astonished and remarked that he never had occurred in the reasoning of others that the measures of the Federal Government even in regard to slavery had become intolerably oppressive to the Southern portion thereof. I swiftly rejoined that he should have advocated and openly maintained that opinion to the last, then maybe others would have had courage to the same end. And this Confiscation Act that alarmed him so much could have had no terrors for any of his sort. Unfortunately he is a justice of the peace, and has in some way compromised himself by taking the oath as a magistrate to support the constitution and laws of the Confederacy. I advised him to keep quiet and it might be that some way of redemption would be opened unto him, and further observed that I felt sorry for a great majority of my friends about Hemstead; though very few of them had ever evinced much sympathy for me when it was supposed I was obliged to go under.

"In conclusion I may say that I thought I brought that man to his reflections, but I doubt if he will profit by them. I once told a gentleman who didn't care much for me that I had been at his kubbort loaded with a very valuable engine and searching for a roofing hull worth at least $50,000 and that I thought the same was in a sinking condition. He said 'You must be mistaken.' I left him and in three hours afterwards he found out, though too late, that I was right. If he had regarded my warning there was plenty of time to have saved both boat and cargo. I was only 23 years of age then and I made no outward exultation about the loss, but if you could have seen my internal delight at the sorrows he put on for the 'unexpected misfortune' you maybe would have scolded me for my sympathy and indifference to the troubles of others. The boat was called 'Daniel O'Connell' and the gentleman was named Joseph Riggs—and that same Riggs, if now alive, hates me with all his heart, and for nothing else.

"Doctor Clarke left here this morning for your place in hopes to find in Houston a cheaper substitute for the conscript cause than can be found in this region. He has less appetite for a personal engagement in the war than any man that I know of. Yet, he denounces most earnestly all other of similar stay-away-activeness. If he lived in Galveston he would not hesitate a moment about setting fire to his own and neighbor's house too. Then he'd burn up Houston, then Hempstead and finally this place if need be. Well I doubt it. The fact is I don't yet believe Galveston or Houston either will be burned up. Certainly the citizens have too much sense. If they have not I shall be very unwilling to admit any of them, however destitute, into our house—lest their duty might urge them to a similar course with our same.

"I have no doubt the ill-advised order of General Hebert to hold Galveston if possible will compel many a family to leave the island in utter destitution. For all such, my sympathies are working and it would afford us pleasure to aid them in whatever way we can. But when it comes to the enthusiastic, fanatical and sentimental sort who would rather destroy all they have and quarter upon their neighbors forever, than let the Federals have even temporary possession of their houses I would say let them shift for themselves in some dense forest, or some bald prairie. Then man that voluntarily destroys his own support has no claim on me, that I will acknowledge, for any part of mine. If military necessity or military oppression should unexpectedly create a demand on my hospitality, I am ready as any other man to do as I would be done by. But when anyone impoverishes himself and family merely to spite President Lincoln, it's another thing.

"That cotton article of the Bee I would regard as simply ridiculous, though evidently designed to operate against the interests of the Federal Government both at home and abroad. But I would consider him a shallow-pated fool who would be influenced or even interested in such a trashy production. As nothing new from Galveston is reported I presume things have not changed much, so far as the Federals are concerned, since this time last year. But judging from the editorial appearing in behalf of the citizens of that place, as well as from the dictum of the government to the respective county courts of the state in their regard a deal of unnecessary suffering and cruel destitution has been forced upon them of late. Can it be possible that the condition of things they seem anxious to inaugurate will actually occur within a few days? Will they burn their own city, retreat to Houston, burn that then go upon their friends in the country, eat, first and afterwards burn them out too? If such be their determination, God deliver us from our own countrymen. The Federals never could do half so bad.

"We are still gaining glorious victories, somewhere—I didn't notice the place, with a loss of from three to about 20 on our side from which we would infer that if luck and provisions and powder, etc., held out for 40 years we may overtake their victory against us at Shiloh, if you please. That is, if our interest on some be calculated. What enthusiasts we are to be so pleased with such small favors, that we cannot perceive the terrible misfortunes that precede, accompany and succeed these same. We boast that we can make our food and clothing in great abundance. This is all very well in time of peace but now we need some other things, just as bad, which we cannot produce. I mean guns and ammunition—these are essential to the war and if not supplied to us according to our wants we must go under. The supplies from abroad are too limited and too far apart to do any immediate good or to be relied upon in the future. Tomorrow we may have something by the Central down train, provided any honest passengers come through. When Brown came through, he says his fellow passengers lied like pickpockets."

Cast for Major Vote Drive Role

Claude G. Bowers, above, famed biographer and orator, is expected to play a leading role in the 1935 presidential campaign, taking a furlough from his duties as U. S. ambassador to Spain. An authority on the life and writings of Thomas Jefferson, he will uphold the Democrats' contention that they are following Jeffersonian doctrines in the New Deal.

Cottonwood

We are having some pretty weather now, but the wild geese tell us winter is on the way. Some are through picking cotton while others are just starting. Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Lewis and children and W. Watkins made a flying trip to Brownwood Saturday. Mrs. Lillie Brown of Burkett visited her daughter, Mrs. Homer Purcell, one night this week. Mr. John Barnes is moving out the Bruce Barkett place. Hope he doesn't watch the peach orchard too close next summer. Mr. and Mrs. Allen and Marie and O. E. visited Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mood Sunday. Several from this community attended the funeral of Frank Golsen at Burkett Sunday afternoon. Mr. Ellis Lewis visited W. Watkins Sunday evening. Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Lewis and operate against the interests of the Federal Government both at home and abroad. But I would consider him a shallow-pated fool who would be influenced or even interested in such a trashy production. As nothing new from Galveston is reported I presume things have not changed much, so far as the Federals are concerned, since this time last year. But judging from the editorial appearing in behalf of the citizens of that place, as well as from the dictum of the government to the respective county courts of the state in their regard a deal of unnecessary suffering and cruel destitution has been forced upon them of late. Can it be possible that the condition of things they seem anxious to inaugurate will actually occur within a few days? Will they burn their own city, retreat to Houston, burn that then go upon their friends in the country, eat, first and afterwards burn them out too? If such be their determination, God deliver us from our own countrymen. The Federals never could do half so bad.

A number of our citizens attended the circus at Brownwood Thursday. Mrs. L. Hallford is reported on the sick list at this writing. Mr. Singleton of Roswell, N. M., arrived last week for a visit in the home of his parents and other relatives. Jap Hallford made a business trip to Roby last week. Cal Fritz and family were guests in the home of their daughter and sister, Mrs. Henry Ryan, of Brownwood Thursday. Mrs. Alton Bonz of Sacramento, California, is a visitor in the home of her parents, Vernon French, and wife this week. Miss Billie Louise McKemie of Howard Payne College spent the week-end with home folks. Prof. C. D. Findley reports a nice increase in the school enrollment this week. Clyde Langloze and wife, V. K. Brooks, and wife and Walter Jones were visitors in the home of Kye Fritts and wife Friday evening. S. J. Cox and wife were Sunday guests in the home of their son, Dewey Cox and wife at Brooksmith. Mrs. Verla Maude Boyd from Santiago, California, is a guest in the home of her parents, Walter Brooks, and wife. Arthur Stevens of Beville is a guest of his brother, Otis Stevens, and wife. Rev. Edzar Owen filled his regular appointment at the school building Sunday afternoon.

PYROIL Increases POWER (Simply Add to Oil and Gas) Think of the power of plunging pistons... sufficient to move tons of rock up steep mountain grades. Yet the efficiency of pistons depends on the adequacy of the combustion chamber. Carbon-stuck valves, leaking rings, weaken the piston stroke and make motors lag and balk. PYROIL increases power in motors because it seals rings and keeps valves carbon-free. Simply added to regular gas and oil. Supplies constant lubrication to the entire motor head where withering heat kills ordinary lubricants. Actually builds lubrication into the metal. PYROIL deposits a patent-processed, heat-, wear- and dilution-proof element on all metal parts, building and constantly maintaining an actual self-lubricating surface. Bearings run freer, cooler. Power, endurance, are marvelously improved. Easily saves many times its small cost. Ask at your filling station or garage for further details. Try PYROIL today.

Discarded automobile tires are being accumulated by Rio Grande Valley citrus growers in Texas to save their crops from freezes. One grower who burned oil-soaked tires in his orchard this year will have approximately four times as much fruit as the average in the valley, thanks to his experiment. One tire saves four trees over about a four-hour freezing period, growers say.

an increase of 8725%
—a lot of money.

Cigarettes give a lot of pleasure to a lot of people.

More cigarettes are smoked today because more people know about them—they are better advertised.

But the main reason for the increase is that they are made better—made of better tobaccos; then again the tobaccos are blended—a blend of Domestic and Turkish tobaccos.

Chesterfield is made of mild, ripe tobaccos. Everything that science knows about is used in making it a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

We believe you will enjoy them.
