

REMAINS OF AUBYN CLARK AND OF NELSE NELSON ARE LAID TO REST WITH HIGHEST MILITARY HONORS

BODIES OF A. E. F. HEROES ARRIVE HERE TUESDAY MORNING FROM FRANCE AND ARE INTERRED IN CITIZENS' CEMETERY THAT AFTERNOON BY THE AMERICAN LEGION ASSISTED BY MEMBERS OF THE MASONIC FRATERNITY.

With the stately military ceremonies rendered by the American Legion, the remains of Aubyn E. Clark and Nelse E. Nelson were laid to rest in the Citizens' Cemetery Tuesday afternoon. The Masonic Fraternity, of which Aubyn Clark was a member rendered the last sad rites at his grave as well. The bodies arrived yesterday morning, and the remains of Aubyn Clark lay until the funeral at the home of his father, John Clark, while those of Nelse Nelson lay at the home of his uncle, M. E. Bell. The funeral services were conducted at the Methodist Church, with the concluding ceremonies at the cemetery.

The military escort formed on Kearney Street at two o'clock, and marched at the Clark home, receiving there the remains of Aubyn; thence proceeded to the Bell home where the other remains were received. The escort carried the bodies to the Methodist Church where a gathering that filled the entire church awaited. When the bodies had been placed, and the soldiers had taken their positions, the services were begun by the singing of "Abide With Me" by the choir. This was followed by a touching prayer by Rev. J. A. Smith. Rev. W. H. Foster, chaplain of the Legion Post, read the scripture lesson, and then sang a beautiful and appropriate solo.

The words then spoken by Capt. E. A. Simpson were touching in their beautiful tributes to the deceased heroes. While the captain related the enlistment and service of the boys, the audience sat hushed as the death that held those toward whom honor was done. Both of the boys enlisted in the service in June 1917; their first service being with the company that was formed here as a part of the 7th Texas Infantry. This was Company B. By presidential proclamation, the Texas Infantry was called into the federal service on August 5th. This company was sent to Camp Bowie on September 5th. On October 15th the 7th Texas Infantry and the 1st Oklahoma Infantry were combined to make the 142nd Infantry. This company then became Company H of that regiment.

During this time Aubyn Clark acted as supply sergeant, and at this post he was so efficient that, before he had been in Camp Bowie long, he was well known at regimental headquarters. Nelse Nelson likewise proved himself a soldier of the first class by meeting his duties unflinchingly, and not complaining at the hardships and privations.

One day, the captain related, orders came down concerning the recommendation of Aubyn Clark as regimental supply sergeant. Captain Simpson said that he signed the recommendation, although he had learned to depend on Clark as his right and his left hand man. The audience was touched as the captain related how that he hurried away from Aubyn, and was unable to restrain his emotion and broke down in tears. Aubyn followed and, upon seeing the emotions of the captain, tore up the recommendation and resolved to stay with the old company.

On July 11th, 1918, the men entrained for Hoboken New Jersey from where they sailed for France on the 18th of that month. On the very eve of sailing, the first sergeant became ill, and Aubyn Clark was made first sergeant. They landed at St. Nazaire France on the 31st of the same month. They received their first training there in the province of Aube. The captain had the closest attention of the audience while he related how that Nelson, while having a raging fever, uttered the very philosophy of his life when he said that he "could not kick." Shortly before the company went to the front, Aubyn Clark was ordered to report for examination and commission as a second lieutenant. He turned down the commission, saying that they were too close to the front lines for him to leave the boys. Then the hearsers sat with tears in their eyes as Captain Simpson related how that one night, the young bugler of the company, who was only sixteen years old, was lonesome and homesick and sought Aubyn as company. When the captain arrived there about four o'clock next morning, there the young lad lay sleeping on the arm of the manly Clark. Nelson was transfused from the 38th Division to the Rainbow Division at this time; and he left his companions declaring that he could hunt his German as well with one bunch as another.

Company H moved into the front line sector in the province of Marne on September 23rd; following this they entered the advanced area on October 3rd, and relieved the 74th Company of the 16th Marines. When the order came for the sending back of the first sergeant, the company cooks and mechanics, and ten percent of the men, Clark declared his entire unwillingness to go, saying that he was no better than any of the rest.

On the morning of October 7th, Company H occupied the assault lines; and on the following morning at five forty-five o'clock went over the top. They assaulted Mont Blanc and St. Etienne; and during the day drove back the Huns, fifteen hundred yards on a front of a mile.

Nelse Nelson with his company was assaulting the Huns when he received his fatal wound, dying immediately. Company H, in command of which was Captain Simpson, was advancing against the Bosche against a withering fire. After many guns had been silenced, one machine gun nest that was firing with deadly effect was discovered. Aubyn Clark and some companions went around in the effort to get behind the nest. Later they appeared almost behind the Germans. Aubyn crawled out of the bushes and was advancing to fire on the Bosche when he evidently turned to say something to his men or ask some question. Some keen-eyed German discovered him, opened fire with a machine gun, and seven bullets pierced his breast.

Thus was the story of the valorous services of these heroes concluded. Following the services at the church, the military escort moved to the Citizens' Cemetery where the usual three volleys were fired over the graves of each and "Taps" sounded and echoed. At the grave of Aubyn Clark, following the military honors, the Masons took charge and rendered the impressive burial services.

The floral offerings were gorgeous and so many of the flowers were there that the graves were steeped with them. The large procession representing the citizenship of the entire county spoke silently the high esteem in which the boys were held, and the great appreciation of their services and the love for them because of their heroic sacrifices. There is an example of that love that which there is no greater "that a man lay down his life for his brother." Their reward is the greatest that loving devotion can bestow. It is for Aubyn Clark that the local post of the American Legion is named. And their companions who knew them best know better than anyone else that they have found peace with their Creator Eternal.

DONLEY COUNTY CLUB BOY WINS STATE PREMIUM

JEFF TANNER, OF LELIA LAKE WINS STATEWIDE PRIZE AS WELL AS TRIP TO DALLAS FAIR WITH HIS FINE KAFFIR CORN.

Jeff Tanner, of the Lelia Lake Boys' Club, was the winner of the first prize over the entire state on his exhibit of kaffir corn. Jeff had the white blackkull kaffir, and one of the judges who has had much experience in judging kaffir, said that the exhibit of the local boy was the finest kaffir that he had ever seen at the Dallas Fair. The lad had won his trip to the Dallas Fair by his fine exhibit here at the County Fair.

Jeff is farming a little more than a mile east of Lelia Lake; and is seventeen years old, yet he goes at the work with the skill of a veteran. This is his first year in the club work, but he found it intensely interesting; in fact, missing only one club meeting throughout the year. What he learned he was anxious to apply.

Jeff, as well, won fourth place at the County Fair on the senior plant that he had raised. His ambition was not only to raise the hog, but to raise the feed with which to fatten the hog.

He not only received the trip to the Dallas Fair and saw the many valuable lessons on livestock and grain judging. He comes home resolved to work harder than ever at the club work.

MISS PATCHING HONORS FOOTBALL MEN SATURDAY

Miss Ruth Patching entertained Saturday evening in honor of the football team of Clarendon High and of the men from Quanah. Games were enjoyed until a late hour when a delightful luncheon, consisting of a salad course, hot chocolate, sandwiches, and Angels' food cake was served. The home was tastefully decorated in gold and blue, the high school colors. Some thirty-five guests were present, and the evening was a very delightful one for everyone.

EVIDENCES ARE THAT K. K. K. ARE ORGANIZED HERE

NOTE LEFT AT NEWS OFFICE MONDAY NIGHT DECLARES THAT THE SECRET ORGANIZATION IS NOW WATCHING IN CLARENDON.

A note left at the News office Monday night declares that the Ku Klux have completed their organization in Clarendon and will conduct a vigilance campaign. The letter contained a crisp twenty dollar bill with the directions that the money be used in buying two floral designs for the funerals of the Aubyn E. Clark and Ernest Nelson. One can not realize the haste with which the editor hastened to notify the florist if not here at the time of the reading of the message. When the florist was phoned in regard to the floral offerings, he straightway said that his orders were so numerous that he would not be able to fill further orders. The editor then slipped a bit of the information to the florist, and the reporter sitting clear across the office from the florist distinctly heard the florist's words as he said, "Yes sir, I can sure fill that order; how soon do you want the designs?"

The note received reads as follows:

To the Editor of the Clarendon News: You will please announce to the people of Donley County that we have organized here with 100 members. We have sworn anew our allegiance to our Country and our Flag. We hereby pledge our support to law and order and agree to assist our officers in putting down lawlessness in all its forms.

We believe in white supremacy and protection of womanhood. We are not organized to commit any unlawful act but there are some cases in Donley County that the law has been unable to reach, that will have our immediate attention—unless parties concerned mend their ways. We enclose herewith $20.00 which we will ask that you use in buying 2 floral designs for funerals of Aubyn E. Clark and Ernest N. Nelson, who fell on foreign fields of battle, while fighting to uphold the honor of this same flag, that we have sworn anew to defend. Please have these designs made with a flaming cross in center—as this is our sign.

PROJECTED MARKET FOR TEXAS MELON GROWERS

Those interested in the market for the Texas watermelons met in the Oriental Hotel at Dallas Wednesday of last week and formulated plans for a statewide marketing association. The plans call for the division of the state into districts, and the placing a market expert in each district during the melon season for that particular section of the state. Roy W. Hendrix, County Demonstrator for Donley county, was present and was placed on the committee for the drafting of by-laws and resolutions.

At present the watermelon market in this state is very unsatisfactory, and the purpose of the projected association is to relieve this condition by systematic marketing. Mr. Hendrix feels that Donley county is one of the greatest watermelon sections of the state, and that with the aid of this association, two hundred cars of melons from here could be placed on the market. The watermelons mature here later than in any other portion of the state; and should the plans of the association be perfected, as it seems that they will, the market expert would be here from about the fifteenth of August through September. This section of the country, according to the plans, will furnish the state of Texas with watermelons during that time.

The main headquarters of the association would be at Dallas, and from there the various sections of the state would be managed.

In the event that the projected association is formed, the farmers of the various counties will be given contracts to sign. Important features of the contracts are that they specify the kinds of melons, the number of acres, and the number of hills to the acre as well as the thinning and pruning of the vines that are required of the farmer in order to produce melons best fit for the market.

This will make more important than ever another of Donley's diversified crops. The class of watermelons that is grown here is as fine as is to be found anywhere, and with the added marketing facilities, the growing of this crop would assume great importance. An added advantage of this crop is that it matures commencing about the first of August and thus brings money into the county at a time when the other crops do not.

Further meetings were held after Mr. Hendrix left Dallas, and the note of confidence seems to assure the perfection of the association.

CLARENDON HIGH RUNS AWAY WITH QUANAH

Clearly demonstrating their superiority over their visitors, the Clarendon High School gridiron men defeated the Quanah High School gridiron men Saturday afternoon. The local boys were gone with their usual pep as soon as the first whistle sounded; and the game was never in doubt. Time and again they plowed through the opposing lines for phenomenal gains; and the game grew more interesting, although a conceded one, when some of the Clarendon men got away for as much as fifty-five yard runs.

The visitors showed that they were true sports when they stayed doggedly in the game after all hopes of winning were gone. They had a record of not a defeat until they played the local boys, and this victory gives more hopes that the local high school will be the pennant winner this year.

A good part of the praise for the work of the local team, although the whole team is an excellent one considered individually, is due to the line which averages more than one hundred and seventy pounds. So far against schools of only high school standing, this line has demonstrated its ability to hold all attacks, and, when on the offensive to pound the other line to pieces. The game was ably refereed by Frank Stocking.

RYAN FAVORS A PANHANDLE STATE FAIR

MANAGER OF DONLEY COUNTY FAIR SAYS THAT AS THE PANHANDLE FURNISHES THE DALLAS FAIR NOT TO GO SO FAR TO HAVE FAIR.

"It is time for the Panhandle Counties to have a fair of their own; and we should do that at Amarillo next fall," were the words of George Ryan in telling of the exhibits at the Dallas Fair. "Of course, I am too small to fight the Dallas Fair by myself; but, if the Panhandle counties will stick together, they can put over a fair that is unsurpassed in the state of Texas," Mr. Ryan continued. Mr. Ryan commented strongly on the fact that of the twenty-eight counties exhibiting at the Dallas Fair, nineteen were from the Panhandle and New Mexico, three of them being independent exhibits from New Mexico.

Mr. Ryan declared that as the Panhandle furnished as much of the State Fair as it does, that it might as well have its fair at closer range. Mr. Ryan expressed his confidence in the ability of the Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce to put on a real state fair in this part of Texas; and with the co-operation of western Oklahoma and New Mexico which it seems would be certain, a great tri-state fair that would be as good as any in the southwest could be held.

There was no doubt as to the quality of the exhibits from the Panhandle part of this state; for they were unsurpassed; and many of the counties felt that the award of the prizes this year, did not do justice to the Panhandle. Mr. Ryan in strong terms wired the facts to Frank R. Jamison, secretary-manager of the Panhandle-Plains Chamber of Commerce, and asked that steps be taken right now to assure the holding of a tri-state fair in Amarillo next year.

The quality of exhibits shown by the Panhandle counties makes them take confidence in themselves; and with the wonderful livestock exhibits that would supplement the agricultural exhibit, a tri-state fair would undoubtedly be successful.

Mrs. Nat G. Rollins, of Abilene, Conference President of the Women's Missionary Societies, was here last week visiting with Mrs. C. A. Burton and looking over the work in this district.

DIG POTATOES NOW ADVISE OF COUNTY AGENT

POTATOES INTENDED FOR STORAGE CAN BE BEST CURED FOR BY DIGGING SOON AFTER MATURITY SAYS HENDRIX.

Due to the difficulties that have recently been encountered with reference to the operation of the Dixie Curing Plant here, the farmers who have raised large quantities of potatoes this year have been wondering what to do with their potatoes. But with the clearing away of these obstacles, a market is expected for the potatoes. County Agent Roy W. Hendrix since his return from Dallas has been busy in his efforts to assist the farmers in saving their crops of potatoes. The following advice from him is timely, and he says:

"Potatoes intended for storage or shipping should be well matured, but when freezing weather is expected to occur, it is well to dig the potatoes just before the first killing frost. Even a light frost will injure sweet potatoes vines, but it does not materially injure the potatoes, however, if a freeze should come on them at this stage there is danger of the frozen sap passing down into the tubers causing them to decay with in a short time after harvesting.

"If your vines have been killed by frost, as most of them have, and it is impossible to dig them at once, cut the vines away and throw loose soil over the rows for protection from further cold. Do not neglect this important matter, as it might be the cause of your losing your entire potato crop."

HOME ECONOMICS WORK OF HIGH SCHOOL PRAISED

STATE INSPECTOR IS LAVISH IN PRAISE FOR WORK DONE HERE. FEDERAL AND STATE APPROPRIATIONS GRANTED IN FULL.

The report of the Home Economics work of the local high school made to the State Department of Education by Miss Jessie W. Harris, the state inspector of home economics departments, is altogether favorable and full of praise for the work done here. Miss Harris, in a letter to Superintendent Nelson, stated that she was very highly pleased with the way Clarendon is equipping the home economics department. The Board of Education, the superintendent, and the teacher are congratulated upon the character of work being done. Following is a part of the report of Miss Harris.

All classes are using satisfactory texts. Most noticeable improvements have been made in equipment. Every effort is being made to get all prescribed equipment, and it is practically all on hand. A fitting room and lockers have been provided. Books have also been ordered as required for reference work.

Clarendon is certainly united in doing her part toward establishing vocational home economics. The Board, the superintendent, and the teacher are all to be commended and congratulated.

Clarendon is fulfilling all conditions for subsidy this year and will receive the $850 applied for if the work continues on its present basis throughout the year.

DR. GRISWOLD TO BE INSTALLED AS PASTOR SUNDAY A. M.

Next Sunday morning at eleven o'clock, Dr. J. T. Griswold, recently assigned to this place will be introduced to his congregation and will preach his first sermon at the Methodist Church.

Dr. Griswold comes here from Lubbock where he served a most successful pastorate for the past three years. He has held high official position in the Northwest Texas Conference and is a man of broad experience and splendid gifts, and those who know him are much pleased that he has been sent to our city.

According to plans worked out by a committee appointed at the last meeting of the official board of the local church, a simple ceremony will be used in welcoming the new pastor to his charge and in turning over the prerogatives of pastor to Dr. Griswold next Sunday morning. The center section of the church will be reserved for the members of the boards of stewards, the board of trustees and the Sunday School superintendents. M. M. Noble, chairman of the board of stewards, will preside at the ceremony and has delegated the pleasant duty of introducing the pastor and bespeaking for him the co-operation and support of all branches of the official family of the church; to Tom F. Connolly, who is a member of both boards and who is also an assistant superintendent of the Sunday School. After this address and a response from Dr. Griswold, the usual order of worship will proceed.

Special music for the occasion has been prepared by the choir, featuring the hymn, Hayden's "Creation," as a voluntary and the anthem "Lead, Through the World Proclaim," just before the sermon. The organist will also play special numbers as voluntary, offertory and postlude.

If the fine weather continues it is expected that as near a full attendance of the entire membership of the church as possible will be present.

MANY OUT OF TOWN PEOPLE ATTEND FUNERALS OF SOLDIERS

The list of people from out of Clarendon who attended the funeral of the soldier heroes here Tuesday afternoon was a large one. Besides those mentioned in other parts of this paper were: Mrs. Nannie V. Mitchell, of Arlington, aunt of Aubyn Clark; C. E. Turner, of Mineral Wells; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Adamson, of Hedley; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clark, of Jefferson, brother of Aubyn Clark; Sgt. Ridgewater, of Jefferson Barracks; Lt. Merriis, of Hereford; and Capt. and Mrs. Nat

BARON AURIEMMA'S CONCERT IS GRAND ONE

METHODIST CHURCH FILLED TO OVERFLOWING SUNDAY EVENING TO WITNESS PERFORMANCE OF OPERATIC STAR.

The concert given by Baron James V. Auriemma, assisted by local musicians Sunday evening was one of the greatest ever heard in Clarendon. More than an hour before the beginning of the program, the church was crowded to capacity. Miss Beatrice Story, violinist, and Miss Anna Moores, lyric soprano, assisted in the concert. Mrs. Edythe Cameron was accompanist.

Baron Auriemma, after having made preface remarks as to the purpose of his singing over the United States, which purpose was to assist the Salvation Army in raising money, commenced his concert by the rendition of the Prologo from "Pagliacci." This wonderful composition gave him opportunity to demonstrate his dramatic ability as well as the wonderful range of his voice. His next number, "The Star" was less pretentious, but nevertheless rendered with the same understanding by the artist.

Miss Beatrice Story then played the "Souvenir" by Drda. The rendition of this number was nothing short of exquisite; her interpretation of the composition was pleasing, and the beauty of every note as it rang forth will long be remembered by those present.

This was followed by "Celeste Aida" by Signor Auriemma. In this composition with which Caruso has thrilled so many audiences, Baron Auriemma sang the high tenor notes with a power and beauty that is attained only by the artist. He followed this with a pleasing little number, "Good Night, Sweet Dreams."

The next number was the famous duet from Il Trovatore, "Home to Our Mountains." Signor Auriemma and Miss Anna Moores gave this number. Miss Moores has a voice of the smoothest type, and her singing was highly pleasing to the audience. Then followed "Sierra Sue" and Charles Cadman's "At Dawning."

Then blank checks and the collection plates were passed among the audience, and the collection amounted to more than $150, thus bringing the total of Clarendon's contribution almost to $500.

The number then rendered by Signor Auriemma is one of the most dramatic in all of the operas, the Arioso from "Pagliacci." In this the singer both laughs and cries, and it was a wonderful finish for the evening's concert. Other numbers were compositions of lesser note but rendered with the same power by the artist.

The drive for the Salvation Army in Donley county passed the five hundred mark, with the first of this week. Baron Auriemma left for Wellington where he commences his next drive.

Baron Auriemma was royally received, and his wonderful singing will long be remembered by Clarendon. He was equally complimentary to the musical ability of the citizens of Clarendon time and again declaring that if he were in Clarendon for two months, he would organize a grand opera troupe.

REV. McNEELY PASTOR CLARENDON CIRCUIT

Rev. J. J. McNeely, formerly of Floydada, has arrived here and is at work on the Clarendon Circuit which was created at the recent session of the Northwest Texas Conference at Amarillo. The charge includes Goodnight, Jericho, Alamared and Ashtola. Rev. McNeely is the first pastor of the circuit, and is going at the work with a vim that is sure to accomplish things.

The News editor is using a new typewriter this week, but hang it—the thinks don't come a bit freer or better.

Editor and Mrs. Fred Haskett of the Childress Index are receiving the congratulations of the craft over the arrival of a fine baby daughter at their home. Running a good semi-weekly and being daddy to a new daughter ought to keep Fred plenty busy for the winter, anyway.

One thing the investigation of the Gatesville reformatory affair has accomplished is that milk and sugar has been ordered provided for the use of the inmates. Better discipline can be maintained when the inmates of any school or prison are adequately fed. Give the boys plenty of good substantial food and there will be less insubordination.

The proposition that all fraternal orders be investigated seems to have given the congressional investigation committee into the affairs of the K Klux Klan a new angle on the matter, with the result that it was decided to drop the investigation. It is rumored that certain secret orders didn't care to be in on the wholesale investigation, hence their opposition. Speaking from past experience, it seems to us that the investigation business never gets anywhere, nor amounts to very much in the good old U. S. A.

For the first time in over three years Clarendon has a carnival in her city limits. During most of this period we have boasted that we were in the ranks of those many Panhandle cities where carnivals cannot come, but here they are in spite of the fact that the majority of our people believe that they are public nuisances and that they carry an influence against the best interests of our young people. The most expensive tax money that our city and county receives is the taxes collected from carnivals and traveling shows. Carnivals are worse because they stay longer.

Favorable weather for the past two weeks has brought the ginning season on in full blast and cotton is coming in as rapidly as ever seen in this country before. The market hasn't held up as high as the farmer and merchant had hoped but it is still a better price than was anticipated before the opening of the season and our people have much to be thankful for. In Donley County cotton is a money crop and will always be so considered and in spite of some opinions to the contrary The News doesn't believe that Donley County farmers will greatly increase their acreage in 1922. Such a course will make cotton unprofitable next year just like it has always done.

Ever since the time when the government surrendered to the railroad men under the terms of the Adamson law the public has been continually harried by repeated threats of a nationwide strike on the part of the unions who operated the roads. But the public mind has changed largely in the past two years, and now the general opinion is that the matter must reach a showdown sometime, somewhere. Freight rates must be lowered that every commodity may be lowered in price. There are hundreds of idle who would be glad to earn the wages that railroad men of all classes receive and The News believes now is the time to see who's boss in this nation. "Let 'em strike."

It seems that the Ku Klux Klan does things in a given section by schedule. This week three towns in the Panhandle got first official notification of the presence of the Klan in practically the same manner. Here in Clarendon The News was commanded to spend the enclosed money for floral designs of the Flaming Cross to be placed on the graves of the two soldiers brought back from France for reburial. We might say by way of parenthesis that we obeyed that command to the letter. At Childress the Klan sent the Confederate Veterans 150 to be used in sending some of their members to the reunion. At Vernon the mother of a small boy killed by an auto, was presented with $300 left at the Vernon Record office with full instructions on how to proceed. In the language of one of our citizens—"if that is the way the Klan does, it must be all right."

From the early season dope on the Clarendon College and Clarendon High School football teams, it appears that Clarendon is represented this year by the best aggregations of gridiron huskies that the town has ever had. The College has not been defeated by any team in Texas and bids fair to again win the championship of the Panhandle. The high school squad won its first game with the strong Quamah team with little effort by a score of fifty to zero. Strong, sportsmanly athletic teams of all kinds are great advertisements for any city or town and with the right sort of backing from the home city and county receives is the taxes collected from carnivals and traveling shows. Carnivals are worse because they stay longer.

The person who sent the telegram from Dallas to Amarillo concerning the alleged injustice done the west Texas exhibitors at the Dallas Fair, ought to come out in the open and assume full responsibility for the message and not let it fall on "Ryan, McCardell and Hendricks" of Donley County. There was politics played down at Dallas and while we don't doubt the injustice being done, when a middle Texas county with a mineral water exhibit and the east-off farm products of other counties score higher than those same counties, yet it would be a dirty trick for anybody, politics or no politics, to allow another to get the blame for a telegram signed by somebody else. It is presumed that the facts in the case will come out in another day or two. Meantime it might be well to state that Donley County is no quitter and never was a bad loser, but any west Texas county has the right and privilege to refuse to show on an East Texas score card.

Earnest effort has been put forth by local stockholders in one potato curing plant to offset the failure of the promoters to open the plant according to schedule. A dozen or more Clarendon business men made cash subscriptions to the plant more as a bonus than as a stock proposition, hoping thereby to foster a new industry and a new money crop for Donley county. The plant is one of the best in the state of Texas with a capacity of 40,000 bushels per season. The fine fall weather has been favorable to those who grew the potatoes and it is hoped that ways and means will yet be worked out for the operation of the plant. If the promotion stock can be squeezed out and the plant come into the hands of local people only, it will become one of the greatest assets Clarendon and Donley County possess. The News hopes to herald the glad tidings of definite action in the next issue.

Few men can deliver an eulogy well, but at the military funeral of Private Nelse E. Nelson and Sgt. Aubyn E. Clark, held here Tuesday afternoon, Capt. E. A. Simpson did it in such a manner as to earn special commendation. The basis of all effective public speaking is sincerity and this Capt. Simpson had in abundance on this occasion as both fallen heroes had been special friends of his, the latter having been his right hand in the routine of military duties. The tribute to their virtues, the recital of little incidents which mirrored the spirits of the dead, and his estimate of their manhood—all was effectively and dramatically told straight from the heart of "one who loved them." Those who heard Capt. Simpson will live many years and travel far before they hear his address equalled or eclipsed. Usually it is just once in a lifetime that one hears just such an eulogy so effective as to time, place and circumstance.

This writer heard two Clarendon men conversing the past week on the need of a brass band for our city. One of the men said that his observation was that people generally liked music, all right, but that they felt that music ought not to cost them anything. He was right—there are a great number of people who want good bands, who want paved streets, who want street lights, who want every city convenience, but who are never found among those who are willing to dig down and pay their own share of the cost of all these good things. The News has said repeatedly that Clarendon needed a good strong band, more than any other town in all this section; that it could not be had without a regular monthly outlay of money; that we were willing to pay our share of the cost. There are a number of citizens who feel the same way about it, but like Jigg's "Fazooch Club"—"there ain't enough members." Before Clarendon ever has a proper musical organization, a director must be hired, who will come here and train at least twenty beginners for at least six or eight months. At the end of that period there are some six or eight men here who play well, who could join in and give this city just such a capable band as so musical a city as Clarendon would be proud of. The fall is the time to begin a band, as the long winter evenings make for more regular and effective practice. If a director could be secured now and the organization begun then next summer the city would have the benefit of regular weekly concerts on the court house lawn—something to be desired in every refined community. How much are you in favor of a first-class amateur band for Clarendon?

Fred H. Lowe, of Dallas, arrived here Thursday evening for a visit with his father, W. T., and his brother, Sam Lowe, and their families. Little Miss Willie Maude Pratt, has been seriously ill the past week at the home of her grandfather, S. E. Atteberry. She is recovering nicely at this time.

MORE COUNTY FAIRS IN PANHANDLE NEXT YEAR

Reports from the County fairs held throughout West Texas and the Panhandle during the past month show these fairs to have been more largely attended than ever before. The number of exhibits shown and their quality likewise is said to have been better than ever. More counties in this vast territory held fairs this year than ever, and reports from others indicate that the number of fairs next year will be still greater. All of which will mean much for the agricultural and livestock development of that great empire. Nothing promotes agricultural development and livestock raising like the county fair, and the value to the state of its success can hardly be computed in dollars and cents. West Texas, the Plains country and the Panhandle region are fast coming into their own. Already the value of their crops is increasing enormously every year. There is no limit to their agricultural and livestock resources, and in the development of these the county fairs will be found to have played a leading part.—Fort Worth Star Telegram.

A COMPLETE HISTORY OF THIS COMMUNITY

Of course, the whole family eagerly reads the "Home Town Paper." The whole family wants to know the happenings of the community; wants to read the news about what the people they know for miles around are doing. The "Home Town Paper" is a complete history every year of you and your neighbors. It tells of the comings and goings, the births, the marriages, the joys and the sorrows—all the events that go to make up community life. History? Why, the average "Home Town Paper" contains at least TEN THOUSAND NAMES in the 52 weeks of a year! Just reflect a bit and realize what that means. If you sat down and read a voluminous history of the whole world from the birth of creation, you would not find that many names in it. And yet the "Home Town Paper" makes a regular yearly custom of printing ten thousand names and sometimes twice that number. The "Home Town Paper" is a sedative, a tonic to the nerves, a relief after hard work with hand or brains, an entertainment to you, your wife, your son and your daughter.—Hereford Brand.

TEXANS HELP FILL AUTO GYPSY CAMP IN MILE-HIGH CITY

Denver, Colo., October 10.—Gypsy motoring appeals to Texans, who have rolled up an attendance of 2,600 so far in Cleveland Park tent city, against 1,700 for last year's entire registration. And the 1921 season is not ended. Whole families are sleeping under the stars this accounts for the present standing of seventh among all the states, according to records at the city's camp grounds. Kansas is leading, with Nebraska second. An idea of the group auto travel, from Texas, is represented by the tourists Bureau. If all the canvas tops stretched so far this season had been put up at the same time, Texas people assembled would have equaled in population such places as Brady, Columbus, Gilmer and Seymour.

Cool Weather, Fires and Safe Flues

As a measure of safety, everyone who runs stoves this winter in their homes should make a close inspection of their flues and see that metal floor covering is placed under the stove. Also that metal ash receptacles are provided. It is much easier to prevent fires than to put one out. Regardless of the caution we may use in the matter of fire prevention there will occur fires and losses. The wise person will provide himself with insurance and protection. Fires are more numerous in winter than the summer, hence the necessity of protection. We represent old reliable Insurance Companies who pay their losses promptly. We guarantee you service and efficiency. Phone us and we will come out and inspect your risk and place a line of insurance on your property. We have safe investments for several thousand dollars individual money at attractive rates. See us now.

WORDS FROM THE WISE

For remedies of the ills which have afflicted the world since the war, people look anxiously and a little bit pitifully to the leaders and to the wise men, watching always for the word of hope or good advice which shall point the way out of international muddles. Interviews with the great of the earth are more eagerly sought and more widely read than ever before. Two wise men, of widely contrasted kinds, were quoted the other day in important statements. Our own Bernard Baruch, just returned from Europe tells us that the world is looking to the United States for leadership and for guidance even more than for financial assistance. But, he says, "There will be no return to what we call prosperity until we have peace, and it can hardly be said that we have peace now. That will not come until the German reparations question is definitely settled. There can be no stabilization of exchange until the world gets back to work. Peace and work! But how to secure them. In a more theoretical vein, but with equal wisdom, answers Viscount Bryce, in a lecture at Williams' college. Looking to the future rather than at the present, he says: "The prospect of improving the relations of states and peoples to one another depends on the possibility of improving human nature itself. A sound and wide view of national interests, teaching the peoples that they would gain more by the co-operation of communities than by their conflict, may do much to better those relations, but in the last resort the question is one of the normal progress of the individual men who compose the communities." Peace and hard work and individual morality—these are the curatives to be taken in as large doses as can be secured; and the last one, which really comes first, is within the reach of all.—Exchange.

operation of both. Farmers should not be tempted through the present price of cotton to increase the acreage. Diversified and intensified farming means more prosperous communities; therefore the sensible thing for farmers to do is to diversify their crops to the extent that they can feed themselves and their livestock from their own farms, making a surplus crop.

DUN'S SAYS BUSINESS IS SHOWING REVIVAL

Dun's Review for the present week is most hopeful in complexion and states emphatically that the major portion of its correspondents send information that building activities are being revived in a very real way. Attention is called to the fact that the correspondents make statement that the revival of the building industry is absorbing an appreciable percentage of the unemployed men, thus proving a doubt blessing to the various communities affected.—Amarillo News.

It Doesn't Pay

It doesn't pay to tackle the heels of a mule, fool with a loaded shotgun, or try to sweep back the sea with a broom. These are all foolhardy undertakings.

It DOES pay to have a bank account. You may be as busy as a mosquito in a bed room, but if you do not save some of your earnings you have wasted a lot of effort. Successful men learn this lesson early in life and open an account at the bank and put their money to work.

BOY'S SHOES

T. M. Little Co., shoes are to be desired because of the excellent all leather quality, and because our prices are always the lowest.

Biggest, broadest, most commanding selling event ever held in this section, to widen the circle of our acquaintance. We are pushing out into parts of all the adjoining counties for new customers. We are going to add 5,000 new customers to our list by January the first. This means 5,000 new friends for every customer is a friend.

We are offering you higher quality merchandise at a lower price than we have in years in other words we cut profits to the bone. However there is a lot of things over which we have no control, which will continue to keep prices higher than before the war. As long as railroads are permitted to charge the present day rates and as long as manufacturer labor continues abnormally high, we need not look for any greater reduction in price in view of the high wages still demanded by those in control. This store is doing everything it can possibly do to bring prices back to where they properly belong, and to prove it we invite you to our store. We will show you such low prices that will truly surprise you, giving you the best at the lowest possible price.

THE COLORADO TO GULF OFFICIAL INSPECTION TRIP

Dalhart, Texas, October 18, 1921
—The first official inspection of the Colorado-Gulf Highway in its entirety started at Denver at noon September 12th, and ended at Brownsville, September 29th. Included in the inspection party for a part or all of the trip were the following members of the executive committee: C. H. Walker, President; Judge Hugh L. Small, First vice-president; J. Allen Wykoff, second vice-president and Captain Bernard S. McMahan, Field Director. In addition to these members of the executive committee numerous friends of the Highway joined the party enroute for a part of the distance covered. Among this number were county judges, commissioners, mayors, chambers of commerce secretaries and committees, and state and county officials. At Denver, after being entertained by the Denver Automobile Club and the heads of a number of civic bodies, the party was conveyed for a distance by Mr. Gus Holmes, of the Park to Park Highway. At Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Dallas, Waco, Houston, Galveston, Corpus Christi and Brownsville, and at smaller places, the party was entertained by chambers of commerce, automobile clubs and civic bodies all of which realized with spontaneous concern the great importance of the organization represented by the members of the party. At Amarillo, Texas, the party was joined by Mr. Walter Irvin, President of the Panhandle Automotive Association, who rendered splendid service as far south as Wichita Falls, where the party was joined by Mr. C. H. Verschoyle, vice-president of the American Automobile Association, who accompanied the committee to Fort Worth. Leaving Fort Worth the party was accompanied by Hon. D. K. Martin, members of the Texas Highway Commission, Hon. Eugene S. Shannon, Manager of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce, Hon. John Roberts, Chairman of the Tarrant County Commissioners Court, and a piloting party from Alvarado. At Austin the party was joined by Hon. H. D. Mahaffey, Field Director of the Texas Automobile Association. At San Antonio there was included in the party, Major O. M. Powell, County engineer of Nueces County, who piloted on to Corpus Christi, and through whose courtesy the official car had the distinction of being the first automobile to pass over the new $300,000 causeway which Major Powell had just completed across the Nueces Bay to Corpus Christi.

The Committee feels indebted to numerous distinguished gentlemen for courtesies extended and services rendered. Although only the mere announcement of the trip had been made and the time and place schedule sent out, the receptions at all points were more cordial, and the trip more successfully carried out than could have been expected by any member of the Committee. The co-operation of all newspapers and all Chambers of Commerce was freely given, and the thousands of inches of front page publicity could not have been bought with money. Almost without exception the entire schedule was made on time, and delegations met the official party at nearly every stop and conveyed on to the next scheduled place, where crowds were assembled, frequently running into the hundreds and occasionally into the thousands. Numbers of times adjournment had to be taken to the open where addresses were made from improvised platforms. The numerous dinners and banquets that were spread were taken by the committee as an expression of appreciation of the importance of the work in which the association is engaged.

The objects of the trip were twofold: 1. To ascertain the physical condition of the Highway. 2. To talk with the people along the Highway about its importance and possibilities.

The trip had not proceeded far until it was learned that "good roads" speeches were unnecessary, and in a very few instances was it found appropriate to talk on this subject.

From a careful estimate made it is found that of the 1750 miles of Highway, 65 percent is a finished road with surface of concrete, asphalt, or gravel; 30 percent now under construction, and only 5 percent with no plans for improvement. This condition is in marked contrast with the highway in 1913 when such men as D. P. Talley, O. L. Williams and others were at the helm, in whose brain there originated the conception of a great highway leading from the Gulf Coast of Texas to the Mountains of Colorado, and at that time, were confronted with more than 1200 miles of sand and cow trails. In Texas especially did the Committee find a marvelous amount of construction in progress or in early contemplation, and the Committee feels that within a very few years every mile of the Colorado-Gulf Highway in Colorado, New Mexico and Texas will be a finished road.

At Brownsville, Texas, the Committee was joined by Consul Y. M. Vasquez of the Republic of Mexico, who, with the members of the Committee and Chamber of Commerce officials of Brownsville, proceeded across the border and at the bridge known as Puente del Espanado between Matamoras and Tampico, affixed to a tree the double head arrow of the Colorado-Gulf Highway, the first marker of an international highway ever placed below the Mexican Border and which, according to the Brownsville Herald, "heralds the future extension of the project to Mexico City via Tampico, which forms a highway link 30 miles shorter between New York and the capital of the lower Republic than any other route."

There is no longer any question in the minds of the Committee as to the interest along the Highway and the financial support that will be given the Association. The interest became most acute in south Texas along the Military Division as the further importance of the Highway is recognized as a military necessity when deep water comes to Corpus Christi and Brownsville, which seems an early prospect at one or both places.

The Colorado-Gulf as an all year route was stressed everywhere and frequently the meetings assumed the aspect of an informal conference when questions were propounded and answered as to agricultural and industrial conditions and answered as to agricultural and industrial conditions in different sections. The scenic beauty of the Highway, as well as its splendid travel conditions, was emphasized, and many thousands of tourists may be expected to travel it next season who heretofore have known nothing of "the scenic route from the Gulf to the Mountains."

Prof. G. T. Butler, wife and little daughter passed through this city Monday enroute from Memphis to Groom where Prof. Butler is the superintendent of the schools.

BASEBALL REPORT SENT ON A 34,000 MILE WIRE CIRCUIT

Polo Grounds, New York, Oct. 10.
—This Associated Press dispatch and the play by play story of the world's series are being transmitted instantaneously over 34,000 miles of telegraph wire. Dictated by a reporter to a single sending operator, the report is traveling at the rate of 186,000 miles a second, and is being copied throughout the country from Bangor, Maine, to Seattle, Washington, and Galveston, Texas, north to Ottawa, Ontario, and south to Havana, Cuba. This is the greatest single and unbroken telegraph circuit ever operated in the world. Baseball fans, hundreds of newspaper offices, and hundreds of thousands watching the bulletin boards receive the report of the game within a second of the actual play.

FORSYTH-HARRINGTON

Miss Ruth Harrington and T. H. Forsyth were united in marriage Wednesday of last week at St. Andrew's Church, Ft. Worth at nine thirty o'clock in the morning. Following the ceremony which was attended only by relatives and a few intimate friends, the happy couple left for Dallas for a short visit after which they will take their home at Gibson New Mexico.

The bride has a wide circle of friends here formed during her residence in Clarendon. Her musical accomplishments and her easiness have won her many favors. She is a graduate of Clarendon College and also a student of Chicago Musical College where she specialized in piano school music. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Harrington, familiar in the Panhandle. The groom is a prosperous young man engaged in the mining business in New Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Forsyth have the congratulations and best wishes of a large circle of friends for a long life attended by happiness and prosperity.

MCCARDRELL TELLS LUNCHEON CHEONITES OF EXHIBIT

The Tuesday luncheon consisted in the main part in the relation by Secretary McCardrell of the exhibit of Donley county at the Dallas Fair. The kaffir corn of Jeff Tanner took the first prize in the state, and the red kaffir corn that was in the Donley county exhibit was pronounced some of the best that had ever been seen at the State Fair; and yet, in the face of all this, on the score card for the Donley county exhibit the kaffir corn was marked blank. No one has ever been able to show how this could happen. Other counties that were exhibitors at the State Fair said that they were the only ones whom they feared would beat them.

Miss Olsen, of Kansas City, was also present at the luncheon in the interest of securing a chautauqua for Clarendon next summer. No action was taken on the matter.

WEST TEXAS C. OF C. ASKS FOR PART DONLEY COUNTY'S EXHIBIT

Secretary A. N. McCardrell, of the local chamber of commerce, has received a telegram, since his return from Dallas, from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce asking for the privilege of using part of the Donley County exhibit which is at Dallas for the West Texas exhibit at the Waco Cotton Palace. Mr. McCardrell wired them that they might do so if they labeled such parts as used as being from Donley county.

This is another proof of the quality of the Donley county offering of her products; and we are to be congratulated, although we were not allowed the state prize, that our agricultural offering was such that it is in demand at all of the state exhibitions.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR A COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, sniffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly. It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

A CORRECTION

In last week's issue of the News it was stated that Mrs. A. N. McCardrell had gone to Dallas to join her husband at the Dallas Fair. As a matter of fact, Mrs. McCardrell did not go to Dallas but to Wichita Falls where she visited with relatives until her husband returned from the Fair. The items as published was given to the News by friends; and evidently they were mistaken, and we gladly make the correction.

ALL DAY PROGRAM

The Mission Study program will begin at ten o'clock a. m. and close at 3:30 p. m., Oct. 26 at the Methodist Church. Special music and poppy, speech talks on the "After War Conditions in Six Leading Nations of the World," with special reference to mission fields. One hour from 12-1 will be given for lunch. Each woman is asked to bring one dish of something for the lunch. We want one hundred women present.

HELP YOUR LOCAL PAPER

Don't make fun of your local paper. It has possibilities of being as good as any in the country—and remember that it reflects the communities in which it is published, and it is the one product that goes to far places bearing the town trade-mark. It deserves the best you can give of active support and sympathetic understanding.

Give the editor news, whether it benefits you or not.

Don't ask him to print it on the front page and just the exact way you handed it in.

Don't worry lest the editor makes too much money. If he's prosperous, he'll be foolish enough to give his community a better paper; that's an editor's ambition—that's why he engages in the publicity business.

Tell him when he has a good paper. You are willing to congratulate your neighbor on a good sermon, and your merchant on an attractive window display. The editor is no less grateful for a word of praise.

Make it a point to visit the print shop and learn of its difficulties and complexities. At least that will give you a more charitable attitude. The paper should not be the product of the editor solely, but of all those who are interested in it as friends, contributors, readers or advertisers. —Southland Farmer.

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE

The Clarendon News' Americanization series

The sovereignty of the people is the basis of our system. With the people the power resides both theoretically and practically. The government is a determined, uncompromising democracy, administered immediately by the people, or by the people's responsible agents. In all the European treaties on political economy, and even in the state papers of the Holy Alliance, the welfare of the people is acknowledged to be the object of government. We believe so too; but as each man's interests are safest in his own keeping, so, in like manner, the interests of the people can be best guarded by themselves. If the institution of monarchy were neither tyrannical nor oppressive, it should at least be dispensed with as a costly superfluity.

We believe the sovereign power should reside equally among the people. We acknowledge no hereditary distinctions, and we confer on no man prerogatives of peculiar privileges. Even the best services rendered the state cannot destroy this original and essential equality. Legislation and justice are not hereditary offices; no one is born to power, no one handed into political greatness. Our government, as it rests for support on reason and our interests, needs no protection from a nobility; and the strength and ornament of the land consist in its industry and morality, its justice and intelligence.

The states of Europe are all intimately allied with the church and fortified by religious sanctions. We approve of the influence of the religious principle on public not less than on private life; but we hold religion to be an affair between each individual conscience and God, superior to all political institutions and independent of them. Christianity was neither introduced nor reformed by the civil power; and with us the modes of worship are in no wise prescribed by the state.

Thus, then, the people govern, and solely; it does not divide its power with an hierarchy, a nobility, or a king. The popular voice is all-powerful with us; this is our oracle, and this, we acknowledge, is the voice of God. Invention is solitary, but who shall judge its results? Inquiry may pursue truth apart, but who shall decide if truth be overtaken? There is no safe criterion of opinion but the careful exercise of the public judgment; and in the science of government, as elsewhere, the deliberate convictions of mankind, reasoning on the cause of their own happiness, their own wants and interests, are the surest revelations of political truth.

FACULTY AND SCHOOL BOARD ENJOY PICNIC

On Saturday and Sunday of last week the school teachers of Clarendon were guests of the Board of Education and their families at the usual annual outing. This year's festivities took the form of a trip to Paluduro Canyon. Cars met at the Central Ward school at one o'clock Saturday afternoon. Ways and means of travel were plentifully provided and everyone put on an appearance comfortably attired in hiking costume.

A truck of supplies that included tents, bedding and food sufficient for an infant army preceded the campers to the canyon early Saturday morning; and by the time the immigrants arrived, camp had been pitched and everyone was in ship shape order. The site of the camp was on a hill directly over the Canyon, formerly famed as an Indian village, and remains of which are still visible.

The campers arrived before sundown, and a great supper of fried chicken and many fruits was soon served. After dark a campfire was built high, and the whole party gathered round, puffed camp songs and gave yells. Songs were in order. Everyone was called upon to present a bit of vaudeville. Local talent shone forth, splendid artists presenting such interesting numbers as a buck-and-wing dance, a duet, entitled "How Dry I Am," a "Sweet Adeline" sob quartette and a one-act play, participated in by many revellers, called "gathering puts," a Virginia Reel open to everybody closed the night's dissipation, and all rolled up in blankets under a dying moon.

Breakfast was served at 6:30. From then until lunch the campers broke up into groups and took to the trail. The camp location was selected by Mr. John Martin, and thanks are due him for the gorgeous setting for such a holiday. A more beautiful spot for hiking could not be imagined.

Camp broke Sunday afternoon and everyone expressed himself as weary but happy. However, the enjoyment was not over. Mrs. J. T. Sims pleasantly surprised all by serving a late supper on her lawn after the return to Clarendon.

The present corps of teachers of the city schools have had various and many courtesies extended them at different times in their teaching experience, but never have they ever been the recipients of such hospitality, such generosity and such whole-souled co-operation and appreciation of their efforts as teachers as were extended them last Saturday and Sunday on their outing. The Board and their families never left a stone unturned in doing everything to make the occasion one of genuine pleasure and a howling good time during the whole stay. Everybody entered into the spirit of the trip and was leathe to leave the haunts where the hours had passed too quickly and where every minute had been one round of wending pleasure. If it were possible to have every wish gratified in after life, we'll never have another experience to compare in enjoyment and down right school boy fun with this treat from the School Board and their families.

Among those who enjoyed this wonderful outing were: J. T. Sims, President Board of Education; W. W. Taylor, Secretary, Board of Education; Fred Chamberlain, Bennett Kerbow, Fred Story, Odus Caraway, Jim Patman, members of the Board of Education; Mesdames J. T. Sims, W. W. Taylor, Bennett Kerbow, Frey Story, Odus Caraway, Jim Patman, Mr. John Martin, Misses Mildred Martin, Cassandra and Muffet Sims; Supt. and Mrs. Nelson, Misses Elizabeth Stevens, Frances and Mary Cooke, Lucy Aiken, Lone Reed, Clara Chrisman, Ollie Paul, Temple Harris, Sibyl Smallwood, Emily Rice, Margaret Martin, Minnie Cour, Messrs. F. L. White, Thos. H. McNeal, R. N. Sandlin; Fannie Florence and Nettie Sims, James and Evelyn Patman, Kelly and Mary Joe Chamberlain, Athlyn and Julia Taylor, Agnes Mary Frances and Julia Mae Caraway, Fannie Gussie Story, Lela Mae and Kenneth Kerbow, Leta Verna Martin and Gale Harper Nelson.

LONGHORN SEASON SCHEDULE COMPLETE NOW

VARSITY WILL PLAY OKLAHOMA SOONERS, OKLAHOMA A. & M. AND ALABAMA UNIVERSITY DURING SEASON.

Austin, Texas, October 15, 1921.—With one exception the football schedule of the University of Texas for next year is complete as follows: Austin College will be the first opponent of the Longhorns, the game will be played in Austin, September 29; followed by Phillips University, Austin, October 7; University of Alabama, Austin, October 28; Southwestern University, Austin, November 11. Out of town games include the usual Oklahoma A. & M. contest in Dallas during State Fair week, the game with Rice Institute in Houston November 4, University of Oklahoma at Norman, Ok., November 18. The Thanksgiving game with Texas A. & M. will be played in Austin. Announcement will be made later of the game for October 21.

Football is the only self-sustaining sport in the University, according to the financial report of the athletic council. Figures recently compiled show a total football receipts of $52,125.83 compared with expenditures of $26,149.51. Total receipts of the athletic council were $112,576.63, expenditures $109,797.41. Since the aim of the athletic department is to benefit the entire student body so far as possible, rather than to develop abnormally long certain lines, the fact that all sports with the one exception of football show a financial loss is not discouraging, it is stated.

Great enthusiasm is manifested by the freshmen football team this year. As good as last fall's freshman squad was, this year's material is better, according to Coach Clyde Littlefield. More than one-third of the freshmen are over six feet tall. They range to 6 feet 5 inches and all the way up to 230 pounds. To encourage and stimulate the freshmen two gold footballs are offered to members of the team this year—one for all-round lineman and the other to the best all-round back-field man. Coach Littlefield is giving one of the footballs and Morris Silver an Austin business man, is donating the other.

Interest in athletics is not confined to men students. Plans are being made for the girls in using the

WHY I BELIEVE IN THRIFT

The Y. and E. News, a trade journal published in Rochester, N. Y., awarded a prize of $15 to Mr. E. C. Branham for the best essay on "Why I Believe in Thrift."—Editorial note.

I believe in thrift, not as an optional virtue to be abstractly praised by the press and the individual, and its practice postponed until "a more convenient season," but as a great force for good, as absolute necessity to civilization.

Thrift, in common usage, is the systematic and regular saving and the judicious investment of a certain portion of one's earnings. It is not meanness; it is managing. "Thrift is the friend of man, a civilization builder. The practice of thrift gives an upward tendency to the life of the individual and to the life of the Nation; it sustains and preserves the highest welfare of the race."

It is an evidence of foresight, providence and plain common sense. The man who does not look ahead and provide for the morrow, in this respect, is on a par with the primitive savage.

Psychologists tell us that nearly all the actions of our life are governed by fixed habits. It is to our advantage to make these governing habits good and constructive ones. The habit of thrift, acquired while young, is one of the best and wisest habits known. Youth is unquestionably the proper time to form this habit, since it is much more difficult to save after the responsibilities of a family are acquired.

Thrift gives a man or woman self-respect, comfort and security. Self-respect, because the saver can pay as he goes, and avoid going into debt, with all its disastrous consequences. Comfort, in the form of more luxuries and conveniences for the home and educational advantages for the children, made possible by ready money. Security, because the thrifty man or woman can look into the future, with all its probabilities of sickness, accidents, business loss, and other forms of "hard luck," and, in the end, old age, which is inevitable, with confidence that the bank account, the accumulation of more productive years, will be sufficient to meet and tide over the emergency.

Thrift is easy. The able-bodied young person, with no responsibilities, who thinks it impossible to save, in all probability never tried it. Once started, it works almost automatically, as the saving habit is formed. It is simply a matter of breaking away from false standards of living, which have come about through the masses aping the example of a few very rich, and of foregoing a few selfish pleasures and amusements, incidentally releasing more time for self-improvement and things worth while. It is not miserliness; it is wise spending just as much as wise saving.

Thrift improves the quality of the individual. It denotes self-control. It is a proof that a man is not a slave to his own weakness and appetites, but is master of himself as well as of his finances.

Thrift makes national prosperity, since a nation prospers only as its citizens prosper. It is a duty which we owe to our country as well as to ourselves.—E. C. Branham, Rochester, N. Y.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF A LIFE

We want one hundred real farmers to buy and actually settle on 100 farms of the Spearman Farm Lands at Seagraves, Galves Co. Texas. To such men extra inducements are offered both as to price and terms. The best place on earth for a poor man or a man of moderate means to secure a home for himself and family. A postal card to W. A. SoRelle, gen. Agt., Ave C, Clarendon, Texas or to W. H. Steele, local agt., Room C, Santa Fe Bldg., Blythe, Texas will bring you a descriptive pamphlet giving full information concerning this country and plan of purchase. (46-c)

W. A. SoRelle was in Amarillo on business the last week.

THE FARM IS THE BEST SCHOOL IN THE WORLD

John H. Patterson, president of the National Cash Register Company of Dayton, Ohio, is so thoroughly convinced of the value of farm experience that the first question that is asked applicants for executive positions is, "Have you ever worked on a farm?" If the answer is the affirmative the next question is, "What did it teach you?"

Mr. Patterson declares that the farm is the best school in the world. He says that it teaches young men and women the three fundamental lessons for success—the value of hard work, what a dollar is worth, and how to be resourceful.

The present plant of the great company of which Mr. Patterson is head is located in what was once the slum district of Dayton. The children of the neighborhood annoyed the employees of the plant and went so far as to tear down the fences and break the window glasses. Mr. Patterson did not complain to the authorities or lose heart. He contended that the children needed some legitimate avenue for expending their energy.

So a community garden club was formed and prizes were offered for the best record for a season's crop. The Cash Register company donated the seeds and saw that the children had lots. The interest grew rapidly and it was not long until the effects spread to the homes and the entire district took on a decidedly different aspect. At the present time this part of Dayton is the select residence district and "Slidertown" is no more. The welfare work of the plant has expanded until at the present time scores of boys are sent to the farm each summer to learn the three lessons mentioned above. Prizes are given for the best essays recording the experiences of the young farmers. The big plant has become a center for agricultural meeting and the county fair bureau meets in the big assembly hall once a month. Motion pictures, lantern slides and charts are shown and nationally known speakers on agricultural topics are brought to Dayton. The girls are given experience in cooking, sewing, canning and other domestic subjects through various clubs.

"Farm work builds character, and makes for happiness and success," says Mr. Patterson. "Every boy and girl should spend some time each year on the farm. It is the greatest school in the world for it teaches the real fundamentals of success."

"The man who can work hard, and enjoy it while he is working; who is able to overcome difficulties and look ahead bigger and better things, is the man who is bound to succeed."

"The farm is the ideal place to learn these things. It teaches the homely truths of success and happiness and teaches them in such a way that they will never be forgotten."

"The more time our young people spend on the farm, the more they will learn which will help them later in life. The lessons of the farm are learned only by dint of hard work."

WORKING NOT WHINING ACCOMPLISHES THE TASK

We're a little bit spoiled children today. It isn't so much the stringency of the present that we detest; it's rather that yesterday's easy times are gone! We found it so delightful to travel ahead at first, second, and third that it's both disconcerting and provoking to find out that life has a reverse speed as well.

The slopes of life are always with us. Very seldom indeed do we climb to a summit to remain there. After enjoying the view and congratulating ourselves on the success of the climb we're quite sure to take the descent, are we not? A hill-top is a place for inspiration, for refreshing, but seldom a place for continued staying. We could never progress did we stay—we are already at the top.

Even descent may mean progress if we go down rightly. Digging our heels into the earth, protesting and scolding at every step, we shall find the going down doubly difficult. Accepting the situation going down as easily as may be, with our eyes fixed on other hilltops, we shall not so much mind the road. There are pleasures in the valleys also.

We've only just so much nerve force and strength at our command. That which we spend in worry and rebellion, and nothing takes more out of us than do these, we shall not have for living. What we cannot help, why worry about? That which we can change, why not use the force and effort for changing?

Foolish optimism? Impossible vaporing? By no means. Merely plain logic and common sense. Try it and see!—Danville Commercial News.

LIVE THROUGH SILLY SEASON

A man is old when he begins to be irritated by the folly of youth. The old man of, say, forty years, has little patience with boys and girls of sixteen. He is convinced that the girls are without sense and he is persuaded that they never will have any sense. No ideas illuminate their conversations. "I'll say he did," they will remark; or "I'll tell the world." Endless chatter; endless repetition of the slang phrases of the day; endless giggling. He forgives them, however, because of the luster in their eyes and the soft freshness of their cheeks.

The boys he cannot forgive. The boys are not beautiful; they are awkward and ungainly; their voices occasionally miss on one cylinder; they are filled with a desire to show off; they talk too much and say too little; they brag; they feel their biceps and wish to be wicked; they are proud of their new found vices, and strive to give the impression that they are bad guys and dangerous to fool with.

The old man is convinced that they will all go to the devil. He thinks they will all be hanged, and rather hopes they will. But they are not. Considering the variety and extent of the temptations our civilization offers, a surprisingly small number of boys grow up to be hanged. They have their silly season—their season of taking pride in things that are not wholly respectable—and then they settle down to become old men and criticize the next generation.

The father who is old loses sleep in the fear that his boy will not turn out all right. He forgets that he was that same kind of boy, and if he, having made a poor start, was able to become the wonderful creature he now is, what reason has he to believe that a son of his will fail to do as well? The saplings are green and worthless, but they all develop into seasoned timber if they are not cut down or denied an opportunity to develop.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

$14 TO MAIL ONE PAPER

The New York Times complains it has to pay $14 postage on a yearly subscription, or $2 more than its subscription price for each copy mailed to a subscriber in the eighth zone. It costs a Topika paper $4 a year for every copy it mails to New York. Publishers of papers, or of periodicals having more than just a local circulation, are hit hard by the heavy postage they now pay under zone postage, which applies to second class matter. For four years under the law there have been successive increases in second class postal rates, which reached their maximum July 1 this year. The law is having a bad effect on all publications, as it is tending to sectionalize them, making them narrower and more local. This was predicted when the law was being considered. In the meantime under the pressure of a stringent print paper shortage, much higher cost of materials and increased postage, hundreds of publications have gone out of existence. A few days ago McClure's Magazine, one of the most popular in America a few years ago, asked for a receiver.—Exchange.

DIFFERENT TYPES OF WHEAT

E. R. Humphrey, director of agriculture of the Board of City Development has made an extensive study of the various wheats that are adapted to the soil and climatic conditions of Potter and adjoining counties, and believes that Turkey Red wheat has proven the best commercial grain so far produced.

Mr. Humphrey bases his opinion on reports from several milling chemists and practical millers.

Particular attention in this survey was paid to the famous Kanred wheat, the result being that Colorado millers and farmers have commented on it unfavorably. It seems that Kanred wheat has a tendency to soften and to lose its body, while Turkey Red is a hard wheat, bakes well, and is subject to more severe weather and climatic conditions.

Mr. Humphrey urges, therefore, that the farmers of the vicinity and particularly in Potter county, sow for next year's wheat Turkey Red as a major seed, and be very careful as to the other wheat they plant, and especially with Kanred wheat.

Director Humphrey said that he recalled several months ago a statement by the county agent highly praising Kanred wheat for this county at which time he favored it as an experiment, and that this statement to the farmers is not in conflict with the instructions that have been given by the county agent but, as a result, as stated above, of a careful survey, bearing in mind the best interests of the farmers.

Mr. Humphrey is general manager of the Great West Mill and Elevator Company, and invites any farmer who is interested to visit the mill at which place they can advertise? It is not because they do not realize that everybody in the community knows them and what their lines of goods are. It is not that their friends are aware that they are doing business. That has nothing to do with it. The fact that a man or woman has opened a store for the sale of certain lines of goods does not mean that he is successful. Everyone in the community is aware of the fact, as in the same line of business. The fact that advertising creates a demand for the goods that the merchant has on the shelves. "OLDEST LIVING MAN" OBSERVES 123D BIRTHDAY

Hyden, Ky., Oct. 11.—"Uncle" John Shell, the world's oldest living human being, has just passed his 123d birthday at his home on Greasy Creek, Leslie County.

While in fairly good health, Shell seems gradually to be declining and this summer failed to take his customary trip out into the state, an annual custom heretofore. Shell says he was born in 1788, when Kentucky was part of Virginia.

He and his father, Samuel Shell, are the only ones left of the Shell family. Shell's memory is excellent and his sight fairly good. His hearing is slightly impaired.—St. Louis Club-Democrat.

SEE THE VALUE OF THE COUNTY AGENT

Those who saw the boys judging hogs in the recent show were impressed that they were learning something worth while. The talks made by Professor Mowery of the Lubbock high school and County Agent J. W. Jennings of Lubbock county, were sensible and valuable. Attending the Plainview livestock show were County Agents Jennings of Lubbock county, Ware of Swisher county, Wilson of Floyd and Professor Mowery, instructor in agriculture in the Lubbock high school. Counties on three sides of Plainview are finding a county agent a valuable thing for the people of the counties served. H. C. Ware of Swisher county is an energetic live-wire business man. He acts as secretary of the Tulla Chamber of Commerce, assists the county livestock association and is generally helpful to the farming people of his county. They wouldn't be without him. J. W. Jennings, a close relative of our own citizen, Dr. J. C. Anderson is the county agent in Lubbock county. The esteem his people hold him in and his continued employment in Lubbock county speaks for the good work he is doing. T. Scott Wilson was made county agent in Floyd county after a referendum vote petition circulated thruout the county to determine whether a county agent was wanted by the citizens. The farmers, practically to a man signed the petition and the opposition was among dealers who bought farm products and those who sold commodities which the county agent had assisted in buying co-operatively. Just what Professor Mowery is doing for the school boy and girls of Lubbock county as an instructor in agriculture in the high school can be done for the children of Plainview high school. The good work of the county agent can just as well be done in Hale county. The county agent plan is no experiment. Fostered by the Federal Government co-operatively the agent is selected. He must be acceptable to the commissioners' court of the county he will serve and only a portion of the expenses is borne by the county. The citizens of Hale and other counties are paying more than half what a county agent will cost in Federal and State taxes. We can pay the other half and have an agent, which makes it a fifty-cent-an-the-dollar proposition for us. We may help get something, we can pay $1000 more per annum and get the services of an agent. When the people of Hale county's farms will give the question of a county agent thoughtful consideration and will go into the details of the proposition we believe that there is scarcely a man in the county who will not favor the proposition.—Plainview Herald.

Those who have a county agent and have an opportunity to see just what good work they are doing grasp at once the benefits to be derived from the agent's work and for that reason it is clear to us that the work in general is a most commendable thing and every county should have an agent. We believe it is a good investment, and we are of the opinion that the county commissioners should put the department back on the payroll, in place of making individuals take care of the county's part of the work as they are doing this year. A good live county agent, such as we now have and a good live, competent home demonstration agent as we had two years previous add much to the educational advantages of our boys and girls and

STATE DEPARTMENT ISSUES RULES ON FREE TEXT BOOKS

Instructions concerning free State text books have come to the office of W. T. Link, county superintendent of schools, and contain specifications and suggestions that are foreign to the minds of many school trustees and others interested in education. Considerable controversy has arisen from time to time over certain rules concerning free text books and there has been a variance of opinion on these subjects.

One regulation in particular deals with the return of the old books to depositors. It specifies that all copies of languages and grammars used during the past two years, and American histories should be returned to the proper sources in order to receive credit. According to Mr. Link, it will only be necessary for trustees to furnish him with the number of these books, and it will not be necessary to supply the volumes themselves. By sending in the numbers the credit can be obtained.

Following are the most recent instructions on this phase of school work.

Instruction Concerning Books

1. All books for common school districts should be requisitioned from the county superintendent's depository, whether on original requisition or emergency orders.
2. The original requisitions of independent districts of 150 scholars or less may also be filled by the county superintendent, if the school desires it.
3. Emergency orders of all independent districts of 500 scholars or less should be sent to the county superintendent for filling.
4. All emergency orders must be signed by the president (chairman) of the school board. It is not required that they be made on the regular requisition forms.

Must Protect Books

1. All books must be covered either by home-made covers of heavy paper or by patent covers. If a pupil refuses to cover his books, they should be taken up until he is willing to comply with the rules.
2. It is advised that teachers make weekly or bi-monthly inspection of the books to see that they are being cared for properly.
3. Pupils should be required to learn the Good Citizenship Code found in the pamphlet, "Rules and Directives for the Care of the Books."
4. Books that have been handled by children suffering from a serious contagious disease should be burned. In addition to such diseases as scarlet fever and diphtheria, it should be added. Pupils suffering from any such disease should be at once excluded from school until full recovery. This is required by the health laws of the State.

Rules For Selling

1. Pupils may purchase their books if they desire, paying for new copies the retail price.
2. If pupils wish to buy used text books, a reduction of 25 percent of the retail price for each year used may be allowed. This reduction is based on the assumption that the life of a book is five years. The books have not been used long enough to verify this basis.

Fines and Damaged Books

the women of the homes of Lubbock and Lubbock county. The Avallanche is in favor of replacing both of these on the payroll of the county.—Lubbock Avalanche.

1. Books that come to pieces because of poor binding should not be charged against the pupils, but this Department should be notified of the names of such text, that we may hold the publishers to their contracts.

2. If a child is issued a book in good condition, and damages it to such an extent that it cannot be used again, he should be required to pay for the book, allowing a 20 percent reduction for each year used. The book remains the property of the State. If this ruling is strictly enforced, it will very soon teach the children respect for the State's property.

3. In case books are not too badly damaged for further use, but teachers feel that they are abused more than ordinary wear justifies, a small fine may be charged in proportion to the damage, for its wholesome effect upon the pupils in teaching them to care for their books.

4. Teachers are asked to use discretion in requiring pupils to pay for these that the health officer requires destroyed because of contagious diseases in the home where they are used or for those burned in the loss of a home by fire, or for those lost in other non-preventable accidents.

Must Keep Careful Tab

1. The law requires that money accruing from sales of texts, or from any other source, be sent in monthly to the Text Book Fund. A report on the number and kinds of books sold must accompany the money-order, made on our Form I and sworn to before a notary. This form does not include a list of the supplementary readers, as it was not anticipated that many of these would be sold.

2. The remittances and reports on Form I of both independent and common school districts should be made direct to this department. Copies of all reports should be kept on file by the schools, for they must be included in the annual report.

3. Each school must make an annual report on Form VI at the end of each session. Until this report has been made and a copy of it filed with the school board, the last month's salary vouchers should not be approved. One copy of the report of all independent districts should be sent to this office, and one copy of the common school districts and of those independent districts under the jurisdiction of the county superintendent, should be sent to the county superintendent.

4. Each school should preserve carefully all invoices, or receipts for books transferred to or from the school, as this information also must be given on the annual report.

Can Buy No More

1. No more books can be purchased from pupils, as the time limit under which these could be purchased expired on September 1st, 1921. The law makes no provision for the State's buying back from pupils books of the present adoption that they have bought.

VII. Return of Old Books to Depositors.

1. All copies of the languages and grammars used the past two years should be returned at once, to Ginn & Co., Dallas, Texas, with a list of the books and the name, district number and county of the school. All copies of Cousins and Hill's American History should be returned to Southern School Book Depository, Dallas, Texas. A list of both should be sent to this office on Form III. Every book returned means that much saved for the available School Fund.

2. No other texts should be returned to the depositories without first writing to this office. No texts should ever be sent to this office, as we do not keep a supply of books, and it is extra expense to send them on to Dallas, or to return them to the schools.

AIRPLANES OF LONG AGO

Now comes Dr. Isbal All Shah, a pundit of India, with a statement that in his country airplanes were familiarly known twenty-four centuries ago. Representations of them, he says, are found in rock sculptures dating back to 500 B. C. in Southern India.

Indeed (so he declares), "flying carriages" are spoken of in Brahmin books written even earlier than that. A stirring piece of literature, written about 500 B. C., tells how Rawun, King of Geylon, flew over an enemy army and dropped bombs causing many casualties. Eventually, he was slain, and his "flying carriage" fell into the hands of the Hindu chieftain Ramchander, who flew in it all the way from Geylon to his capital at Ajpudia in Northern India.

In the Mahabharata, one of the oldest of Brahmin classics, mention is made of the gift of a flying machine by a king to a brother monarch, as a token of friendship.

The bombs spoken of in the story of Rawun are called "explosive torches," which, the tale explains, were thrown down upon the heads of the enemy.

The method of making these primitive bombs is described in other ancient books. A pasteboard cylinder two feet long was filled with a mixture of charcoal, saltpeter and niter, to which nails and sharp pieces of glass were added. The fuse, of cocanut fiber, was ignited before the "torch" was thrown. When the flame from the fuse burned to the body of the bomb there was an explosion, terrifying to the enemy.

RED CROSS WORKING FOR HEALTHIER U. S.

How the American Red Cross guides thousands of persons to health is shown in a summary of the society's activities in the health field based upon the annual report for the last fiscal year. Through its Nursing Service, its Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick courses, nutrition classes, First Aid classes, Life-Saving classes and Health Centers and in numerous other ways designed to acquaint masses of citizens with proper methods of living, the Red Cross carried its message of health into all parts of the country.

The work of the Red Cross during the war in its traditional field of nursing, furnishing the military and naval establishments of the nation with 19,877 nurses, is well known. And there are today 37,787 nurses registered with the American Red Cross and subject to call in emergency. During the fiscal year, 1,561 Red Cross nurses were accepted for assignment to Government service, 388 by the Army and Navy and 1,163 by the United States Public Health Service.

In addition to the nurses enrolled by the Red Cross for Government service, the Red Cross itself employed a total of 1,348 public health nurses in the United States and Europe. By far the greatest number was employed in the United States, 1,257 while 81 were in foreign service.

Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick classes, giving thorough instruction in the proper care of the sick in instances where the illness is not so serious as to require professional nursing care, during the fiscal year numbered 5,173. A statistical picture of the Red Cross operations in this field follows:

New classes formed during year ----- 5,179
 Classes completed during year ----- 6,299
 New students enrolled ----- 101,068
 Students completing course ----- 73,432

What the Red Cross accomplished in giving proper instruction through its Nutrition Service is indicated by the following table:

New classes formed during year ----- 142
 Classes completed during year ----- 186
 New students enrolled ----- 2,341
 Students completing course ----- 2,013

In addition to the above, a total of 23,006 children were given instruction in the proper selection and preparation of foods.

Through its 260 Health Centers, the Red Cross reached 90,252 persons. In these Health Centers, 4,015 health lectures were given and 780 health exhibits held.

In the United States last year, 75,432 persons were killed and 3,500,000 injured in industrial accidents. To prevent this enormous waste the Red Cross held 5,100 first aid classes with a total of 104,000 students enrolled.

MULE POWER IS GAINING

Figures of the Texas Industrial Congress for six counties indicate that mule power is gaining in popularity on Texas farms. Information compiled by a census bureau shows that while the number of farm horses has decreased in the past ten years in Collin, Dallas, Bell, Delta, Falls and Ellis Counties the number of mules has increased.

In 1920 there were 11,264 mules in Bell County, compared with 10,683 in 1910 and 6,888 horses, compared with 10,097 in 1910. Collins County mules numbered 13,596 last year, compared with 11,943 ten years ago, and the horses were 7,797 compared with 11,114. Dallas County had 12,196 mules, compared with 10,120 ten years ago, and 6,786 horses compared with 11,072. In Delta County there were 4,526 mules, compared with 3,492 and 2,626 horses compared with 3,901.

Last year there were 16,028 mules in Ellis County, compared with 14,272 in 1910. The horses were 5,359 compared with 9,796. Falls County has 10,856 mules, compared with 8,551 ten years ago and 6,301 horses compared with 9,291.

It appears that mechanical power has not entirely displaced mules for farm work in Texas, as it has horses for general transportation service. In fact, the growth of agriculture in the State during the past ten years has been accompanied by an increase in the use of mules, the census figures show. However farm tractors are being used more generally throughout the State.

DONLEY COUNTY MELONS CONSIDERED EXCELLENT

Tuesday's issue of the Childress Index states that a car of watermelons had been received there recently from Clarendon. The comment was that "they were exceptionally good." This is the usual way that Donley county's products are received elsewhere, and is another example of this county's success at diversification.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time during the day or before retiring. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores of the skin, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus driving a cold from the system.

Try it the next time you suffer from a cold or the grip. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore safe and harmless.

RUB BACKACHE AND LUMBAGO RIGHT OUT

Rub Pain and Stiffness away with a small bottle of oil honest St. Jacobs Oil

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 35 cent bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating oil needs to be used only once. It takes the ache and pain right out of your back and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin. Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, and lame back misery so promptly!

RYAN EXPLAINS HIS POSITION ON PANHANDLE FAIR

There has been much space given in the public press within the past week to what was purported to have been given out by the undersigned with relation to alleged displeasure of certain exhibitors at the Dallas Fair in the manner in which prizes were awarded.

In answer to any and all such press notices, I hereby disclaim any personal action. I sent no telegrams, I was present at no meeting in the city of Dallas at which there was a discussion concerning the action of the persons having in charge the awarding of prizes.

I do stand in an unqualified position with reference to the establishment of an all Panhandle Fair and endorse everything accredited to me in that connection.

I heartily agree with the Amarillo News in its article Wednesday morning, October 19th in which certain parties disclaim having reposed authority in me to be their mouthpiece, because statements were not made to me nor wired by me to any individual or concern.

There was a determined expression on the part of many representatives from the Panhandle in favor of a Panhandle Fair at Amarillo for 1922.

The only reason for making this statement is to correct an injustice that has been done to me and not to retract that I am in favor of a fair in our own portion of the state. I am not now nor have I ever assumed censorship of the Dallas Fair. It is a wonderful institution. Individually I have some pronounced ideas with reference to the conduct of the business of that organization and as an individual I am within my jurisdiction in conversation to express my personal opinion, with due respect to other rights, by virtue of the constitution under which we live.

With only a desire to be a loyal citizen of the Panhandle and to contribute to its advancement without unjust controversial unpleasantnesses, I am

Sincerely,
 George A. Ryan.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our grateful thanks for the kindness shown us thru the last few hours we were allowed to spend with our loved ones. Such graceful deeds have helped to lighten the burden that we have had to bear, and especially do we thank each and every one for the beautiful floral offerings. May God's richest blessings be yours.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd, Miss Audrey Nelson.

Mrs. W. E. Davis left Saturday evening for Dallas and Gainesville where she will visit this week with relatives and friends.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

And you'll hear the last of it this time, unless it keeps ringing in your ears like it has in mine; yes, that Letter of James. When you get down into the bottom of it, it does sort of pinch in doesn't it? The last lesson on the letter will be given next Sunday morning in the morning sermon by the pastor. It'll do you good if you read and believe and heed.

Bible School at 9:45 a. m. Some of you folks that are staying out of the study at this hour-are going to break into it some of the days; but maybe it'll be too late for you to meet the opportunity that is knocking there right now. I tell 'em that ole ice is going to break and it will. And when it does,—what a splash YOU'LL make!

Morning service at 11 o'clock. Special music by the singers of the church.

Evening service at 7:30. Yep, we missed you last Sunday evening, but I knew where you were. Mid week service Wednesday 7:30. Come and get warm.

W. H. Foster, pastor.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to avail ourselves of this early opportunity of expressing our sincerest thanks to those many friends who came to us in our dark hour with words of sympathy and deeds of kindness. Especially do we desire to thank the American Legion and other orders who so generously provided floral wreaths and did what they could to alleviate our renewed sorrow in the reburlial of our son, brother and husband.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clark and family.

Mrs. Mattie B. Clark.

C. W. Lewis and wife returned the last week from Ft. Worth where they had been on a visit.
