Speaking of Women---

Irvin Cobb points out that feminine shopping does not necessarily imply buying. It means hard work for everyone concerned—but seldom results in a transaction involving money.

As a country minister once declared: "King Solomon said, and I partially agree with him—" We only partially agree with Mr. Cobb on this subject.

It is true there are still some aimless shoppers left. But they are in the minority. Today most women—as well as most men—are well-informed buyers, with a sound basis for comparing stores and values. By buying goods of recognized merit they save themselves the throes of old-time "shopping trips" and at the same time get a better and bigger money's worth.

Most women read the advertisements that appear every week in their newspapers. They make a practice of keeping strictly up-to-snuff on new developments, innovations and improvements. They know just where to go for "this" and who in town keeps "that."

When they shop they generally know just what they want, where to find it, and how much to pay. Their knowledge saves them endless trotting, wearisome questioning and haggling.

The advertisements have taken the "hop" out of shopping.

Isn't that worth while?

THE BRITISH CONSTITUTION

The Clarendon News' Americanization series

Our American Constitution has derived more from the English constitution and charters than from any other one source. We are heirs to all that is best in English life and letters. There is a brotherhood of common beliefs that binds the two nations as no treaties or agreements ever could. It is with a feeling of profound gratitude and pride, therefore, that we acknowledge our kinship to the great minds of England, and the debt we owe them.

Regarding the English form of Government, it is interesting to note that about 1711, Joseph Addison wrote as follows:

I look upon it as a peculiar business that were I to choose of what religion I would be, and under what government I would live, I would most certainly give the preference to that form of religion and government which is established in my own country. In this point I think I am determined by reason and conviction; but if I shall be told that I am actuated by prejudice, I am sure it is a honest prejudice that arises from the love of my country, and therefore such an one as I will always indulge.

That form of government appears to me the most reasonable, which is most conformable to the equality we find in human nature, provided it be consistent with public peace and tranquility. This is what may properly be called liberty, which exempts one man from subjection to another, so far as the other and economy of government will permit.

Liberty should reach every individual as a people, as they all share one common nature; if they

BANKERS PROVE VALUE OF COURTESY

Many excellent reasons have been given for the practice and spread of courtesy, but it has remained for Fred Kelly, a writer in the Nation's Business to find a relation between the disappearance of the pickpockets and the modern business courtesy. Briefly, he finds that bank courtesy has increased so greatly with a willingness to accommodate small depositors, that people are becoming more and more accustomed to putting their money in the bank and paying by check; therefore carrying so little cash about with them that pickpockets find little chance to pursue their shiftily ways profitably.

Mr. Kelly says: "Police authorities know that pocket-picking is practically an extinct form of endeavor. A crude worker may still occasionally try to lift a watch at a county fair, but, generally speaking, this brand of thievery is no more. It has gone the way of buffalo lap robes, pug dogs, Sunday baggy rides, beef-steak for breakfast and torchlight processions. Why? Because pocket picking is no longer a gainful occupation."

What has brought about the change? The attitude of the banks. They cater more than ever before to the small depositor. If a man wishes to open an account and start off with $2.50 or even less, he receives the same consideration that would be accorded the customer depositing thousands. Only a few years ago, a person with small savings looked upon bankers as a crusty lot and kept away from such institutions, for fear of being insulted. Today, even the majority of the safety-deposit boxes are held by persons of comparatively small means. Banks have simply followed the changed attitude of business in general. All business has been growing more courteous every year. And this spread of courtesy is the basis why pickpockets are now rarely ever heard of.—Fort Worth Record.

How to Kill Antelope From Horseback

There is nothing more interesting or exciting, to the experienced hunter, than shooting antelope from horseback; especially when he has a good gun and is mounted upon a well trained horse. The hunter must get within two or three hundred yards of the antelope before they start running. He then starts his horse at full speed directly toward the antelope, and when he gets within one hundred and fifty yards of them, he should begin turning his horse to the left or the right of the running antelope. The direction he is going to turn depends upon the shoulder he shoots from. If he shoots from his right shoulder, then he must turn his horse to the right. The antelope, from some cause unknown to me, never fails to try and pass in front of the running horse. The rider keeps turning his horse away from the antelope, and the antelope, true to his instinct, keeps trying to pass around in front of the horse. This soon causes the horse and antelope to be running in a circle, with the antelope on the outside and still trying to pass around and in front of the horse; which in a short time will cause the horse and antelope to be running side by side. The hunter then takes his rifle in his teeth or in his left hand, and raises himself in his stirrups. This frees him from the jar of shock of the running horse, and gives the rider both hands free to handle his gun which he should now use with deadly effect.—Exchange.

THE COUNTRY EDITOR
The editor of the News has rounded out thirty-four years of continuous work in the printing office, except for the time spent in going through high school, and during that time he worked afternoons and Saturdays to learn the business. For more than twenty-five years he has owned and operated a newspaper of his own. He loves the business and never expects to quit it. He hopes, that when he dies, he will still be "in harness," and at work.

Many have written about the trials and tribulations of the country editor, and he has many, but few have written about his joys. He stands ahead of the preacher, the lawyer and the public speaker, because he never talks to empty benches, but speaks to thousands in the homes where his paper goes. The News has an audience of more than 7,500 readers every issue it sends out. He never makes impromptu speeches, which generally disgust the audience, but writes with deliberation and premeditation, and what he says carries much more weight than the spoken word.

The preacher's influence for good seldom reaches much further than his audience, while the editor's field for good reaches to all the congregations of the county. The lawyer makes a great speech in the court house and only one or two hundred people hear him, but when the editor writes a good editorial, it is copied by the various newspapers of the state.

The editor distributes more flowers than a florist and he asks nothing in return for them but thanks. The editor has an opportunity to do the individual citizen a service and he never hesitates to do it if consistent with his obligations to the public. The editor has the greatest opportunity to convert men and women to his way of thinking on public questions. As the lighthouse on the shore warns the ships from the rocks, the editor can warn the public from frauds and fakers. The editor has the greatest opportunity to protect society from evil by standing for the law and creating public sentiment for it, and this the News does at all seasons.

The editor never tires of boosting his town and county, and if both do not grow it is not his fault. He helps the deserving young men with words of commendation and restrains the old by words of warning. His field of usefulness is broader than any one else in the community, and if he does not get any returns for his efforts for settlement, he has a sufficient return for them but thanks.

What has brought about the change? The attitude of the banks. They cater more than ever before to the small depositor. If a man wishes to open an account and start off with $2.50 or even less, he receives the same consideration that would be accorded the customer depositing thousands. Only a few years ago, a person with small savings looked upon bankers as a crusty lot and kept away from such institutions, for fear of being insulted. LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR
Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

AN AWFUL POUNDING

When we arrived home last evening from the Howard picnic, there were some ladies sitting on our front porch, later men and women began to drive up to the front porch and stop, they would get right out of their car and come in without a word, I did not know but the K. K. K. were after me. They sat and chatted awhile, got up, went to their cars without saying good bye, they began to pull something out of the cars, I wondered what was going to happen next, hens, frying chicken began to squall, I said mercy me what does all that mean, here they came back toward the house, they had chicken, fruit in jars, vegetables, watermelons, cantalopes, meal, lard to season the chicken and vegetables, it seemed for awhile that the preacher was going to have to make arrangements for some larger clothes.

It was the young people from the Martin community, a few of the older ones came along. When one of the company told the preacher good bye, they left some silver in his hand, (we had an awful good dinner today) the preacher is almost too full now for utterance. Blessings be upon them. Other congregations might take a hint from this and make their preachers heart glad. J. A. Smith. Reported.

VISITING SHRINERS DEFEATED IN UNEVEN GAME

The Pampa Shriners' baseball team was defeated by the local shrine team Tuesday afternoon in a one-sided game the score of which was 34 to 4. Preparations had been made for entertaining the visitors at the Tuesday luncheon, but they arrived a little bit late for that, but they were nevertheless fed by Mrs. White. Following the game, the visitors were conducted to the Masonic hall where a reception and eats provided by the shrine club awaited them. The visitors departed for their homes about eight o'clock in the evening. Owing to the shortness of the time for advertising the game, the attendance was small. The batteries for the local team were Buntin and Dyer; the batteries for the visitors, Merrill and Davis.

MISS GREEN RETURNS FROM MUSIC STUDIES IN AMARILLO

J. B. McClelland and wife returned Sunday evening to their home in this city after a visit with their daughter Mrs. Henry Dodge and in Oklahoma City.

WATSON RETURNS FROM CENTRAL TEXAS TRIP

O. C. Watson returned Tuesday from an extended trip through central Texas. Mr. Watson first went to Dallas where he attended business. Thence he visited relatives at Sanger. Mr. Watson, in speaking at the luncheon Tuesday, said that the startling fact was that many portions of that country, if they wanted, could not hold an agricultural fair because they do not have the crops. Much of the country is left barren by the drouth. Mr. Watson said: "It makes a fellow feel good to get back to a good country."

MRS. McALLISTER HONOREE

Last Monday afternoon the Kill Kare Klub complimented Mrs. Claude McAllister with a delightful swimming party on Kelly creek. At six o'clock the husbands of the club arrived and after enjoying a brisk swim everyone did justice to a delicious picnic lunch.

THE DROUTH'S BY-PRODUCT

It would somewhat dilute the feeling of pessimism which has probably come to many of us in reading the weather and crop reports in The News to turn from them to the market reports. By doing so we should see that the cotton market has been acting in a way to offset a good deal of the damage that has resulted from the way in which the weather has been acting. During August, in other words, the price of cotton has advanced to the equivalent of something like $15 a bale. Furthermore, its conduct during the last four or five days strongly indicates that the price has by no means ended the climb from 10.90c, which was the quoted price of middling in the Dallas area on the first business day of the month now so nearly closed.

The State Department of Agriculture a few days ago estimated this year's Texas crop at about 1,500,000 bales. That would make it much less than half a normal crop. But most men will probably incline toward the notion that the Department of Agriculture has pictured a dark prospect in colors too dark, and toward the notion that the return will be much nearer 2,000,000 than 1,500,000 bales. A two-million-bale crop selling at 14.25c for middling, which was the quotation last Saturday, probably would not bring a cash return as great as would the larger crop we had in prospect Aug. 1 at the lower price prevailing at that time. It would not, certainly, if the prospective crop at that time was more than 3,000,000 bales. But if it was only that, the present price gives a crop of 2,000,000 bales a value not greatly less than the price on Aug. 2 would have given to a crop of 3,000,000 bales. It is to be kept in mind, too, in calculating the damage from the drouth that we have some millions of bales left over from last year, the value of which has been enhanced by the distressing and well-nigh intolerable weather which, among its other consequences, has raised the price of cotton more than three cents a pound. It is worthy of remark, too, that in doing this it has brought much relief to many banks.

These facts make the mitigating circumstance which can be found in almost every adversity, and even calamity, if it is looked for diligently. It is not meant to suggest that we are better off, or as well off, with the smaller crop now in prospect than we should have been with the much larger one in prospect a month or six weeks ago. If the drouth has only reduced the size of the State's total crop, it has robbed many farmers of the whole crop that; a month ago, they had in prospect. Such, of course, are not indemnified by the advance in price which has resulted as a consequence of the drouth. But looked at from the standpoint of the interest of the State as a community, it will be seen that, for the destruction it has done, the drouth has made a recompense which leaves us with little reason for the lamentations that have been heard.—Dallas News.

MRS. BRUMLEY HOSTESS TO KILL KARE KLUB

There was an all day battle last Friday out at the handsome country home of Mrs. H. C. Brumley when the Kill Kare Klub of Clarendon, twenty-five strong assembled to lay seige to Kare of any description.

The modern weapons of women's warfare such as embroidery needles knitting needles and crochet hooks were successfully used and after three hours battle in the forenoon the results showed a beautiful array of doilies, luncheon cloths, napkins, and center pieces and many more beautiful pieces of hand work with which the feminine heart loves so well to adorn her home.

The delightful hostess, Mrs. Brumley then invited the ladies into the dining room where the dining table fairly groaned with its heavy load of fried chicken, cream gravy, cream potatoes, vegetables salad, corn on the cob and corn off the cob, ice tea, watermelon and many other edibles that satisfy the appetites of the successful warrior. At this stage of the battle the onslaught was terrific and only a mass of bones and rinds were left to tell the tale.

To say that the Klub enjoyed the day and especially Mrs. Brumley's hospitality would be saying it mild, the thought of this day will for years to come revive pleasant memories to the Kill Kare Klub. By Reporter.

COLLEGE OF INDUSTRIAL ARTS

(State College for Women)
DENTON, TEXAS

The College of Industrial Arts offers the following advantages to Texas girls: (1) a pleasant, healthful, and accessible location in the State of Texas, (2) an unimpeachable moral and religious environment, (3) freedom from distracting internal and external influences which tend to lower the morale of the student body and the value of the work of the College, (4) a standard of living that discourages extravagance, and promotes a democratic spirit in keeping with sound economy and with the best American traditions, (5) courses of study that combine sound culture and accomplishment with preparation for practical, useful living; that chiefly keep in view the needs of the present and the future; and that are flexible enough to allow, within safe limits, conformity with the aptitudes and inclinations of the individual student, (6) a faculty of college and university trained specialists—men and women of maturity, scholarship and demonstrated teaching ability, (7) an administrative system that develops initiative, resourcefulness, and self-control on the part of its students, and fosters the highest ideals of character and conduct.

It is a College of the first-class and gives literary, technical, and vocational training of the best quality, designed to develop mental discipline, social culture, spiritual vision, and efficiency. It confers the degrees of bachelor of arts, bachelor of science, bachelor of music, bachelor of business administration, and bachelor of literary interpretation; awards vocational diplomas and certificates, and issues teachers' State certificates.

The next session of the College opens Tuesday, September 20, 1921. For further information or for the latest catalogue, address F. M. Bralley, LL. D., President, College of Industrial Arts, Denton, Texas.

INDUSTRIOUS BOYS SELL MANY MELONS

A method of increasing their financial rating and at the same time of advertising Donley's fine water-melon crop is, used by several industrious boys of this city when they meet the trains and sell melons to the passengers and crews. The boys do not tarry in their business, but they go up and down the trains and call to the passengers and train-men to buy a water melon. Their prices depend on how near the train is to pulling out.

To Ford Owners:

Who made it possible for you to get any piece about a Ford car on a moments notice? Does service like this mean anything to you? Suppose we did not carry a ten thousand dollar stock of Ford and Fordson parts right here in Clarendon? You would have to wait for parts to be ordered and would lose from 5 to 30 days use of your car every time you had a break down. This is worth your consideration when thinking of buying a car and having one repaired. Bring it here where we have genuine Ford parts, expert Ford workmen and all the latest machinery and tools for doing Ford work. We have been selected by the Ford Motor Co., as their authorized sales and service agent for Donley county because we are better equipped to take care of Ford cars. They require that we carry nothing but genuine Ford parts, work on Ford cars only and keep competent mechanics. There are lots of counterfeit parts being put into Ford cars in this county and the reason is that the dealer who sells them to you paid less for them than genuine Ford parts would cost because they are made of cheap material and will not last. There is just one way of being sure of getting genuine Ford parts put into your car and that is to bring it to the Authorized Service Station for Ford cars, you will find our charges very reasonable considering the class of work we give you. Some fellows talk about how cheap they can do a job. We try to see how good we can do a job—not how cheap. Bring your next repair job here. Where we have the parts, the machinery and the mechanics and to a business concern that doesn't change hands every change of the moon. We have been giving you continuous service now for over 5 years.
