There is reassurance in the plainly evident concern of the administration at Washington that "national recovery" shall not mean recovery for one class and distress for another.

Farmer, wage earner and consumer are being considered in the plans for national recovery. Higher prices for the farmer's products can not last long unless the purchasing power of the consumer rises. The wage earner's plight will be worse if his necessities cost more and his wage remains the same. Hence the need of the Farm Adjustment Act for the support of the Industrial Recovery Act. Neither can succeed without the other.

Inevitably there must be somewhat of a "lag" between the adjustment of farm prices upward and of purchasing power upward. There is imperative need that the people, all of them, see the certainty of a little delay in the upward trend of wages—which is only another way of saying purchasing power.

The administration is moving with astonishing rapidity toward increasing wages. One after another, the major industries are falling into step with announcements of higher wage scales. Cut-throat competition will soon be a thing of the past. There are those who can not believe that such a thing is possible. But sound thinking insists that the man who wants to give his employees a square deal should be prevented by unfair practices of competitors. That is what has been happening. It is on the way out. The "new deal" promises greater things than the author of the phrase dreamed of.

It begins to appear, according to news from Washington, that very little of the three and one-third billion dollars provided by the National Recovery Act is going to be allotted to the thousands of cities and towns which are clamoring for their part of it. The truth is that the majority of the projects for which aid is being asked would not otherwise be under consideration. Most of the askings originated in a feeling that "we are going to have to pay our part of the cost of this Christmas tree anyway, so we had just as well be getting our part of it." Which is well enough if the government does indeed make a Christmas tree out of the scheme.

But most of us honestly doubt the wisdom of the greater part of the projects for which government aid is being asked. The money will have to be paid back in some way, which means taxes of one kind or another. Putting 15,000,000 unemployed persons back to work can not be done successfully by advancing government money for local projects which do not promise revenues that would make their financing possible under ordinary business methods. It would be far better to use the same money in putting families on small farms where they could become self-sustaining, and where they would once more get into the purchasing power class.

The small farmer is not a so-called "commercial farmer." What he is able to produce on small-scale farming would provide him with $200 to $500 in cash above what his family and his livestock would consume. Actual experiment in that direction has shown that $400 will put a family on a farm and finance its start toward sustaining itself. Two billion dollars would put 5,000,000 families on as many farms, take them out of the unemployed class and set them on the way to independence. And the two billion dollars would be repaid in time by the rehabilitated families, whose purchasing power would come into the picture in a positive way in due time.

LOCAL OPTION ELECTION IS PROSPECT

As this is being written a petition is being circulated among the voters asking the Commissioners' Court to order county local option election to be held August 26, coincident with the state election on the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The position of The News on the prohibition question is doubtless well understood by its readers. Both editorially and personally it is opposed to the legalizing of beer or any so-called "hard" liquor. We can not see any hope for better control of the sale of alcoholic beverages by the repeal of the existing law without at the same time setting up a means of better control.

The repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, as proposed, does not offer to do anything except wipe out the law and collect taxes for all liquor sold legally. Those who have fought a lifetime for the present liquor law feel that its proposed repeal should have offered a definite plan for the control which repeal advocates assure them "will be made

"I SEE by the PAPERS"

Bits of news and editorial thought from nearby papers

Canyon News: These are funny times. The government cuts its own forces, and salaries of its workers, the same as every one else; the government asks industries to take on more men and to increase wages; the government recruits 250,000 men for the reforestation army. Firing men, putting them on the street, and then rehiring them in some other sort of jobs is the order of the day.

Wellington Leader: It is reported that among 298 young men and women who took civil service examination in New York recently all but three failed in spelling.

This is not surprising to those who have occasion to observe the spelling of the average high school graduate, or even that of some college men and women. Why our schools do not give more attention to spelling is an unsolved mystery. Hundreds of hours are devoted to subjects which a pupil never thinks of after leaving school, yet the art of spelling, which must be practiced every day of his life, is given scanty consideration.

Whatever the result of the repeal efforts may be, The News believes that the majority of the voters of Donley county will protect the dry Donley county that was here before the Eighteenth Amendment was passed, and which has been dry for nearly one-third of a century.

It does not believe that the business revenues from the legal sale of beer, wine or whiskey will be placed above the protection of weak-willed adults and the younger life of Donley county from the evils of the open sale of 3.2 beer and harder liquors. Tax revenue and the right of the individual to obtain whatever he wishes to buy for his own consumption are emphasized objects of those who want a "wet" Donley county.

Differences of opinion are sure to arise in a local option election. But it is the height of folly for either "dry" or "wet" to get angry over opinions. Views are not changed that way, but friends can easily become enemies. The News earnestly hopes that bitterness will be kept out of the campaign if an election is ordered. We must live together afterward. Don't permit an argument to get too heated, no matter how strong your dry or wet convictions may be.

Perhaps it is thought that everyone should be permitted to develop originality. If so, the plan works well. Few show greater originality in any respect than in spelling.

Lynn County News: They say that we must repeal the Eighteenth Amendment and bring back the legalized liquor traffic in order that the Government may get the revenue. Here is what the Bible says on the subject: "Better is a little with righte ousness than great revenues without right."—Prov. 16:8.

Pampa Daily News: We had got pretty close to the jumping off place, last March. The situation called for drastic measures; the temper of the country was, and still is, ready to support measures even more radical than those which have been adopted. The financiers and rich industrialists who are beginning to grumble about these new restrictions on individual enterprise and the profit motive ought to thank their lucky stars that the program is as comparative as it is.

Hard as it may be, this new set-up has simply got to work. It may look radical, to eyes still focused on 1929; but the one certainty in an uncertain world is that its radicalism won't be a patch on the radicalism of the program that will be adopted if this program fails. The dangerous man today is the man who puts obstacles in the way of this scheme.

Your ELECTRIC Rate is What You Make it

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

PROFIT By the Bargains We Offer . . .

Electricity is not a commodity . . . but a service. It is a magic force which appliances transform into constructive energy. Electricity cooks meals, heats water, refrigerates food, lights homes, cleans carpets and furniture, washes clothes, produces beautiful radio programs . . . and does all these important jobs better than any other method!

You can earn bargain electric rates by enjoying more of the "Electrical Servants" you have always wanted. You pay a great deal less per unit for electricity to operate a range, refrigerator, water heater or other money-saving appliances than you pay if you limit your use to lighting only. Many of our customers have reduced their average rate 50 per cent or more by enjoying a modern, electrified home.

NOW IS THE TIME to make your home modern! Our rates make the use of appliances truly economical, and present easy terms permit you to enjoy appliances while you pay! Investigate . . . TODAY!

DR. JOHN SHAWVER TO PRACTICE AT ST. JO

From the Baylor County News, at Seymour, we learn that Dr. John R. Shawver has moved from Wichita Falls to St. Jo, in Montague county, where he will establish a private practice. He had been connected with the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital.

Dr. Shawver is the son of Mrs. Lona Shawver, both of whom formerly lived in Clarendon. The Seymour paper expressed keen regret among Seymour people that Dr. Shawver had changed his original plan to establish himself in his home town, where Mrs. Shawver makes her home.

Mrs. Ed R. Bentley of Lakeland, Fla., formerly Miss Edith Bryan, is expected to arrive at Amarillo this week for a visit with her parents and sisters there and with her brother, Allen, of this city.

A New Deal For Liver Sufferers

Don't be misled any longer. Calomel, cathartics, mineral waters, laxatives, pills, Laro's, powders, etc., have no effect whatever on the liver. There are only two generally recognized substances which actually cause a sluggish liver to increase its production of bile. Sargol Soft Mass 1 contains both of them. You will feel the strong purgative effect of only one of your drugs. Sargol Soft Mass 1. Atlanta, Georgia.

Library Notes

By MRS. C. A. BURTON
Texas is proud of her literary daughter, Ruth Cross. As a state, we are still too young to have produced many literary celebrities. But for some years Ruth Cross has held a very desirable place with the reading public, and she is very loyal to her native state. The setting of her stories is always Texas, with her great black land farms of corn and cotton and her broad prairies with their harvests of golden grain. And central in each is Law's Chapel, Ruth Cross's home community in Lamar Co. Not always have the people in that community appreciated her characterizations—and they are overdrawn and sometimes crude. Yet as we think about them, we realize we have always known some of them—they have been our neighbors—and we find ourselves admiring her ability to picture human nature with all its foibles and crudities as well as with its fine splendid qualities. "The Big Road" is the latest Ruth Cross book in our library, and the story runs true to her type so far. "The Big Road" passes through Law's Chapel, on through the Panhandle to Amarillo, and on and on to the far West, and we see the covered wagons as they trek westward with their living freight—"children bare-legged, brown as dried cotton bolls, white-headed as the fleecy staple which popped out of the bolls under the blazing August suns. The baby and next to the baby were tucked into the spring seat in front with the father and mother; the rest stowed at random among the bedsteads and splint bottom chairs." Realistic? Does she take you back to exactly such pictures which you have seen—or perhaps been a part of?

Hector Strawn is the typical land owner—obsessed with a passion for accumulating land and who is willing to sacrifice all the comforts of life for it. In strong contrast is Althea Strawn, his wife who loves beauty in every form, to whom music is a passion, and who strives with all her woman's strength to put these ideals into the lives of their two children, David and Noney, in spite of the father's hard materialism. True to the Old South are the pictures of Aunt Docie and Aunt Magsie, the ancient negroes who can cook as only the old Southern negroes could and who gave undivided loyalty to their "white folks" and unbounded devotion to the white children who were their especial charge. Almost every community has its prototype of Dr. Jo and Hannah Lumpkin, the one the family doctor, the other the self-constituted neighborhood nurse, both of whom minister to souls as well as bodies, and who share the secrets of lives as revealed only to God and to them. Old Jasper Laws, for whom Laws Chapel is named, is the self-constituted "aristocrat" of the community, while his granddaughter, Linda Holden, is the acknowledged beauty. The happiest home in the community is that of Peter Hansel, the old German farmer with his great brood of boys and girls; the unhappy that of Hector Strawn while David is secretly pouring Hector's passion for land and ever more land.

The story chronicles the advent of the boll weevil and the automobile. Hector Strawn is determined to tie David to the land, while David is secretly pouring out his soul in the music practiced on Dr. Jo's piano because his father absolutely will not allow one in his own home. Noney has grown into a shy frightened girl of sixteen, denied the gratification of every longing of a girl's heart, and she ends the conflict by eloping with the hired man, Matt Scoggins, and going with him to the plains near Amarillo, from which place they get the mail about once a month and when she listens to him talk "cattle, cattle, nothing but cattle and the money he means to make out of them." But ere the story closes, we find them in Ft. Worth where they have gone to educate their children after oil has made them independent. The whole setting is Texas. Dallas is then, as now, the Metropolitan of Texas and often in the story. The human interest is rather intense—the struggle between greed and materialism on one hand, and ideals of beauty and happiness on the other. The lessons of life are gradually learned—with many compromises and much useless sacrifice—and the ending is very true to life, a mixture of sorrow and joy. We find those who travel the "Big Road" very human. Besides this we have Ruth Cross's "Golden Cocoon" and "Enchantment." Now a little that is personal to Clarendon. In June we checked out 1406 books. Doesn't that show that our people appreciate the library? and are using it?

"THE SINNER'S SAVIOR"

Text: "Jesus of Nazareth passeth by."—Luke 18: 37.
There are many incidents in the Bible, that reveals the great love of Christ for lost and despairing souls, but none that reveals it more tenderly than the scene of the Jericho road, where He meets the poor blind beggar, and touched by his condition, pauses on the journey to heal him.

1. The blind man's condition is a type of the sinner's. He was blind. All the beauties of God's creation was closed to him. There are two world's, a physical and a spiritual. As this man was blind to the physical, so the sinner of today is blind to the spiritual. He knows not the joy of pardon, and doubts its reality. "The natural heart" receiveth not the things of the kingdom. He was helpless. "Had suffered many things of many physicians. He had lost faith in external remedies, but as he hears of Jesus he is filled with emotion and hope and cries out for help. Jesus is the Great Physician of today and if the sinner would cry out to Him and accept His remedy he will find a sure cure for the timentals of sin.

2. The blind man placed himself in Christ's way. Difficulties were before him and the crowd tried to keep him back, but he allowed none of these things to hinder him. To the sinner of today who would find Jesus, there are many difficulties in the way, and many hindering causes, but to the person who "would see Jesus" the hindering causes can and will be overcome. Nothing should stand between us and eternal Salvation. The blind man surrendered himself to Christ, was willing to trust his case in the hands of the Master. If he had any pre-conceived notions as to how the healing would be conducted, he cast them aside and trust in Christ's judgment and power. To find salvation we must trust and obey Christ. He improved his opportunity. Had he not been healed then he never would have been healed. This was Christ's last trip to Jerusalem. Today may be your last opportunity to secure the services of the Great Physician, use it while you may. "Jesus of Nazareth passeth by."

To help you find the Great Physician, we will bring two lessons next Lord's Day. In the morning, "The Ideal Church." In the evening, "The Sinner's Peril." Both lessons are of vital importance to every one, come hear them.—W. E. Ferrell, Minister, First Christian Church, Clarendon, Texas.

F. C. Simpson of Chicago, charged with being drunk in church pleaded guilty saying, "If I hadn't been drunk I wouldn't have been in church."

"TREE ARMY" SOLDIER WRITES "886TH PSALM"
The author of the following "886th Psalm," who is one of the "tree army" station at C. C. Camp No. 886, at Saratoga, Wyoming, where some Donley county boys are at work, is unknown. The "psalm" was published recently by the Wichita Falls Daily Times, to whom it was sent by four Wichita county boys. The "886th Psalm" follows:
Roosevelt's my shepherd; I shall not want; He maketh me to lie down on straw mattresses; He leadeth me inside a mess hall; He restoreth to me a job; He leadeth me in the paths of reforestation for his country's sake; Yes, though I walk through the valley Of the shadow of the poison oak And poison ivy I will fear no evil; For he art for me; His blankets and O. D. uniforms, they comfort me; He prepareth a new saw and an axe before me in the forest; Presence of my commanding officers; He anointed my mind with discipline; My shoes runneth over from marching; Surely beans and employment will follow me; All the days of Roosevelt's administration; And I shall dwell in a tent forever.

WILL USE ROAD MACHINERY FOR PLACER GOLD MINING
More than one hundred tons of machinery and equipment for placer gold mining is being assembled at Childress for shipment to Boise, Idaho, according to the Childress County News. It will be used on a formation about 26 miles from the nearest railroad point. Heavy road machinery belonging to the Whitham Construction Company, which was used in building much of Childress county's system of concrete roads, is being converted into placer gold mining machinery. The big gravel washing machine, crane and drag-line, with caterpillar power plant and conveying equipment, will be used in connection with a steel car, approximately 70 feet long and 12 feet wide. The big steel car was made at Childress and will require three railroad flat cars to carry it to Idaho. The placer gold mining under taking will be in charge of L. C. Whitham and H. F. McFarland of the Whitham company. They expect to ship the equipment this week.

WEAR YOUR COAT AND YOU'LL BUY ICE CREAM
The "steadies" among those who attend the services at First Baptist church are attending in their shirt-sleeves now-a-days. Even the pastor preaches minus his usual coat. How come? Well, those who wear coats have to chip in on an ice-cream fund. Rumor hath it that W. A. Masie has so engineered the scheme that he is the chief beneficiary—and does he love his ice cream! Be the rumor true or untrue, the Baptist brethren say they are enjoying the coatless services immensely.

NOTHING BUT LOVE?
George Lester skipped from Michigan four years ago to avoid paying alimony. Neglecting to change his name, and also forgetting the long reach of radio, he asked a Tennessee station to play "I Can't Give You Anything But Love," which was done after due announcement of the name of the requester. His wife was listening in, and now George is going back to give love or whatever the judge thinks is right.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

Where Advertisers Spent Money In 1932

NEW YORK.—Newspapers received 59 per cent of the total appropriation for advertising of 432 companies in 1932, according to a survey by the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' association. Newspapers were the preferred medium in nineteen out of thirty leading trade groups, the survey showed. The total amount spent for newspaper advertising was $116,200,000, compared with $52,301,139 allotted to magazines and $25,321,984 to radio. The percentage of advertising appropriations of various lines for newspaper space was disclosed as follows:
Automobiles and trucks, 82.4; gasoline and motor oils, 74.2; druggists' sundries, 65.2; financial, 68.3; soft drinks, 63.8; railroads, 62.7; steamships, 83.8; clothing and shoes, 87 per cent. Of the advertising budgets of sixty-two national food manufacturers, 45 per cent went for newspaper space, 34.7 per cent to magazines, and 19.3 per cent to radio.—Publishers Auxiliary.

Saratoga, Wyoming Company 886, CCC.

Dear Editor:

We are writing you from the wild and woolly hills of Wyoming. I will tell you what our work consists of. We get up in the morning and the first thing is roll call and then breakfast.

Then we go out on the job. We cut down dead trees, saw them up and pick up all the brush and burn it.

We have church on Sunday morning. The way we go to church, we line four abreast and march down the road to some

New Deal For Flat Pocketbooks Whose Owners Want An Education

CANYON, July 19.—Not all the New Deals are being planned by the United States Government; the West Texas State Teachers College has proclaimed arrangements which will make it a real opportunity school for eager boys and girls who want to go to college this fall.

When the college opens this fall it will be upon the semester basis, that is, two terms of eighteen weeks each instead of three terms of twelve weeks each. But this does not mean that $25.00 tuition must be produced on September 19, for the first semester will be split into two equal parts, each complete in itself.

Not stopping here, the College has also arranged so that students who want private instruction in piano, violin, voice or band instruments can get it, paying in small amounts monthly.

big pine tree and there we have church services and when church is over we march back to camp.

The other night we had been listening to the radio. The station was Amarillo.

tion in piano, violin, voice or band instruments can get it, paying in small amounts monthly.

If the boy or girl does not have this much money he may get semi-private instruction in a group of not more than six, with weekly individual attention at the nominal cost of $6.00 for 18 weeks.

Co-operative Living for Collegians

School students have to eat and eating costs money. Money being scarce in Texas today, the college has converted Randall Hall, girls' dormitory, into a co-operative home where at least eighty ambitious girls can live together, doing their own work for a charge tentatively set at $14.00 per month.

A member of the college staff will live in the co-operative home, go bargain hunting for supplies that must be purchased, plan menus, see that each girl does her share of the work and that all have the good times which are a part of college life.

Changes the Result of Summer's Planning

For three months, President J. A. Hill and a committee of his faculty have been scratching their heads, trying to devise ways to save boys and girls who have no work, and whose high hopes are rapidly giving away to black despair.

BIDS ARE ASKED FOR CITY MAIL MESSENGER

Notices have been posted by the Clarendon postoffice asking for bids on carrying mail between the postoffice and the railroad depot.

Interested parties are requested to ask Postmaster Chas. H. Bugbee for information.

to a future which offers no immediate promise of employment and no chance for education to help them live in this strangely changed world.

The plans which can now be announced are not expected to be the end of the campaign to revive opportunity for the youth of Northwest Texas.

It is confidently expected that the new arrangements will bring a large college attendance this fall, and thus the traditional service which has been characteristic of the West Texas State Teachers College since it was planted on the Plains in 1910 will be continued.

Radie Britain's "Heroic Poem" Wins Acclaim Of Chicago Music Critics

United praise was accorded Radie Britain, former Clarendon girl, by Chicago music critics on the occasion of the performance of her composition, "Heroic Poem," at the opening concert of the Chicago Philharmonic Orchestra, Richard Czerwonky, conductor.

Herman Devries, music critic of the Chicago American, wrote of Miss Britain's work in high enthusiasm, saying, "The opening concert was a most auspicious one, having as its high point a novelty, the 'Heroic Poem,' by the Chicago composer, Radie Britain. This work, which won a prize at the Hollywood Bowl and was performed at Rochester, N. Y., under the direction of Howard Hanson, is dedicated to Charles A. Lindbergh.

"Miss Britain has done a most brilliant piece of atmospheric writing. Without reference to any program notes (and indeed there were none last night) one can sense the mystery of the start in the darkness and fog, the drama of the heroic plunge into the unknown and the turmoil and furor and confusion of the descent at the flying field of Le Bourget.

this sure and practiced fashion. But the work is not simply a collection of startling descriptive effects. It is called Heroic Poem and that is what it is. Above everything, Miss Britain makes us feel the courage and heroism that it took to make that pioneer flight alone."

Edward Moore, another critic whose opinion is highly valued, wrote: "The feature composition was Miss Britain's work on the Lindbergh flight, which was new here. She is a talented composer with a gift for melody and the further gift of being able to develop it so interesting a manner that one's attention was easily diverted from the thought of a flight across the ocean to the music for its own sake.

Daughter of E. C. Britain, ranchman, who lived here until about sixteen years ago, Mrs. Radie Britain Moeller is remembered here, by all who know her, for her charming personality, lovable disposition, high ideals of character and the musical ability which, in her earlier years, gave promise of the fruition to which it has now attained in such rich measure. Her Clarendon friends are watching with deep interest her advancement in the musical world.

TIRE PRICES Going Higher BUY TODAY AND SAVE

Table listing Firestone tire prices for various models and sizes, such as Ford Chev., Buick, Nash, etc.

EVERY FIBER EVERY CORD EVERY PLY IS BLOWOUT PROTECTED BY Gum-Dipping

BLOWOUTS are caused by frictional heat generated in the fibers of the cotton cords in a tire. Firestone is the only tire built with every cotton fiber saturated and coated with pure rubber—to prevent destructive heat.

Rubber has gone up 242%, cotton 115%—substantial tire price increases must follow. We will give you an attractive allowance for your old tires on new Firestone High Speed Tires.

Cotton Program—

offers from Washington, according to County Agent T. R. Brown, who received a telegram today from the Department that permit blanks should reach Clarendon Friday.

These permit blanks may be issued to farmers by the county committee on all offers approved by them without waiting for notices from Washington, as was first planned. This emergency permit plan will enable farmers to plow under their cotton much quicker and take advantage of moisture now in the ground for planting feed crops.

Receipt of payment checks by the farmers will be greatly speeded up by the change in the plan. It should be understood, that no farmer should plow up any of his cotton until he has secured an emergency permit from his committee.

Wheat Acreage Reduction
Since Donley county produces over 100,000 bushels of wheat annually, District Agent Jno. R. Edmonds gave assurance today that the county would be included in the wheat acreage reduction campaign to start early in Aug. Details as to the plan will be published in The News as they are released by the secretary of Agriculture.

Committee Gratified
The county committee, composed of J. G. McDougal, E. S. Ballew and G. L. Boykin, is elated over the outcome of the campaign, whose success they attribute to the faithful and intelligent work of the local committee men.

A tremendous amount of work was done by the county committee and their office helpers in carefully checking the three copies of each farmer's contract offer, tabulating all figures on copies of each farmer's contract offer, tabulating all figures on report sheets and totaling them for transfer to the recapitulation sheets.

At the close of each day all contract offers, which had been finished with, were mailed to Washington, D. C.

Many Homes—

finished basement. It is being built on the site of the former home.

Roy Ingram, who recently purchased a residence on West Fourth street, is having new built-in cabinet work installed and refinishing the interior.

The Episcopal church has been re-roofed, new siding has been put on the west end and needed repairs made on the inside and outside of the building. The church will also have a new outside paint job, restoring it to its former attractiveness.

Fitzgerald Gin had his needed repairs made on its plant.

Whitfield Carhart has had his residence repainted completely on the outside.

Walter Clifford has had his recently purchased home in southwest Clarendon refinished on the inside.

Mrs. W. T. Clifford's home was remodeled and refinished on the inside, making two apartments of it. The new apartment is understood to have been leased.

U. J. Boston, who recently purchased the M. M. Noble home, has had it completely remodeled by Watters and McCrary. It has a new roof, new hardwood floors, new cement porch, all inside walls and ceilings refinished, and the bathroom was modernized with a new built-in bath and new lavatory. The latter work was done by the W. C. Stewart Plumbing company.

The C. R. Skinner home has been re-roofed and the interior re-papered.

W. D. Van Eaton has had a new roof put on his home.

Mrs. Curtis Thompson's home has been re-roofed, and with its refinished stucco exterior is very attractive.

The A. H. Baker home has been re-roofed, as has Mrs. Betty Hanning's home also.

Miss Jessie Ingram repainted her father's home, inside and outside, laid new porch floors and rebuilt the barn.

The front of the Pastime Drug has been repainted, also Lee's Cafe.

The Frank Thomas residence has been repaired and remodelled on the inside.

One of Mrs. Eva Rhodie's rental homes is having the kitchen repapered and some new built-in cabinet work.

W. T. Link has just completed a new double garage at his home.

J. R. Bartlett had his residence repapered and refinished throughout before moving his family back from Childress.

The parsonage of the First Christian Church recently had a new roof put on it.

Farm homes which have been repaired or remodeled include houses on the J. M. Stephens farm and on Mrs. Molly Gray's farm.

It is probable that other homes have been "rehabilitated" recently about which The News did not learn, but the number listed indicates a revival of repairs and remodeling which will assume much larger proportions once money begins to be less scarce than it has been. The circulation of highway construction funds, cotton acreage reduction payments and the normal fall crop money will put new life into the economic body which has been starved to a distressing extent in Donley County.

Motor Freight Line Opens Office Here

Miller and Miller Motor Freight announces this week the establishment of a permanent office and warehouse in Clarendon, located across the street south of the Homell One-Stop service station.

They have secured the services of G. F. Lane as local agent. Mr. Lane has had extensive experience in handling motor freight, conducting a truck line here continuously since 1923. His new connection will not affect the trucking service which he has been conducting, but he will look after the interests of Miller and Miller, handling all shipments entrusted to them. They operate a licensed and bonded truck line
