THE HIGHWAY DESIGNATION IN DONLEY MUST BE SET TO RIGHTS

Last year a federal highway engineer surveyed the main highway through Donley County from East to West and made some drastic changes in the East end of the county, leaving the present route far to the north.

So long as we continue our present dirt road system in the county the new survey doesn't hurt anybody. The harm comes when Donley County people actually face the task of providing hard surfaced highways. Then we are forced to track the new survey or forfeit the state and federal aid, without which the roads could not be built.

The News has known of the troublesome survey for many months, but as there was no immediate prospect of building an improved road, gave it no publicity, as no good could come by the agitation.

However, the time has arrived when the situation should be aired thoroughly and plans laid to rectify the mistake—and as a patriotic citizen of Donley County, The News feels that the routing of the survey is a mistake. We do not mean to set ourselves up as authority on road engineering, or to declare that the engineer's recommendation is without merit or economy, but we do take the position that conditions in Donley County, where for thirty-five years, loyal and thrifty men and women have laid the foundation for today's civilization, are such that we can not afford the economy of the new route might offer, when it would seriously hamper the convenience and welfare of so many of those who have toiled and sacrificed through the years.

Donley County people, in any part of the county, will not fall in with a plan that would leave Giles, Hedley and Lelia Lake off the main highway. It would be grossly unfair and the spirit of justice and neighborliness cannot stand for it.

The time is now here when there must be a united effort on the part of Donley County people to get a new survey made which will coincide with the local conditions of our county and give us a highway designation that will be fair to us and our county interests.

Donley County must have a new highway redesignation. We must have it before any sort of a road improvement campaign is launched.

It is OUR problem and WE must face it.

Since the close of the Colorado-Gulf Highway convention in Clarendon, and the action of that body concerning the effort to divert travel by other routes, there has been a marked increase in the tourists along the C. to G. line. The Fort Worth bureau issued a bulletin warning against the effort to divert from our route, and the general newspaper publicity had immediate effect. There is only one logical route for Texas and Gulf States tourists to Colorado and the Northwest and that is the Colorado-to-Gulf Highway, which in a very few years will be paved from Denver to Brownsville. Tourists make a mistake to divert from the C. to G.

John Esten Cooke of the Rockdale Reporter says he esteems Harry Schwenker of the Brady Standard so highly that he has named his dog for him. There you are—what greater love hath man for another?

Clarendon bankers say there is a great deal more crops up over the county than appears from a casual survey from the highways. This is encouraging and gives us all reason to feel that Donley County will turn in another fair crop this fall.

How much better was the Fourth of July observed around Clarendon this year than in the old days, when whiskey, gambling and fighting was the order of celebration. The Spirit of this nation was never exemplified in coarse revelry. Patriotism is greater and nobler as we choose to express our reverence in soberness and happy social mingling Noise doesn't proclaim the nation any more than it does the man.

We heard a carpenter say this week that if all the building is done that is said to hinge on the coming of copious rains, Clarendon will be as large as Amarillo in six months. Of course that is a pleasantry, but our building program continues under adversity and is certain to expand under better conditions. Clarendon is the best residential city in the Southwest and nothing short of a continued and healthy growth may be expected.

Deskins Wells, editor of the Wellington Leader charges that the News man and Sam Braswell of the Clarendon News were the only members of the Texas Press Association to join Mrs. Wells in a glass of lemonade while in Juarez. We are surprised that Deck could even tell it was lemonade.—Canyon News.

We don't know about Deskins being able to identify lemonade in Juarez, but we do know that whereas he couldn't sing on the special train or at the convention, he certainly could sing a wicked tenor to "Sweet Adeline" over across the Rio Grande. Now!

Possibly there never was a Junior College launched with such general sympathy and good will as attends the opening of Clarendon's Junior College this fall. On every hand people are applauding Clarendon's undaunted spirit in providing a junior college in the face of the conditions under which she lost Clarendon College, the Methodist school which so long served this section of the state. A series of advertising trips for the new school begins this week under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce and Clarendon business men intend to see that the merits of the new school are noated through all the neighboring counties. The Clarendon Junior College under the state law will be worth much more to this town and this section than was the old institution. Dean Burton has the united support of our citizenship in making the Junior College fill the place that the trustees of the Clarendon Independent School District intended that it should fill.

Following the death of George Neu, president of the Texas Press Association, and the succession to the presidency of Ed Carlock of the Paducah Post, the executive committee of the organization selected by mail a new vice-president, to succeed Carlock. Sam E. Miller of the Mineral Well Index was named vice-president, and as he was a member of the executive committee, it was necessary to fill a vacancy there, the honor going to Emerson Edwards of the Troup Banner. This writer has a great deal of pride in the results of the premature elections, but they are as they would no doubt have been one year from now. For some time we have sought to see Ed Carlock president of the Association, we want to see Sam Miller president and his advance to the vice-presidency means that he will be elevated there next June at Texarkana. Emerson Edwards is the capable son of Henry Edwards, past president of the organization, and all applaud his recognition. The Texas Press Association will continue to prosper under the guidance of such men.

DISCOURAGED?

Probably the easiest thing in the world for most of us is to become discouraged.

It's inevitable that at one time or another we feel that our efforts are being wasted and that it isn't much use to try any longer.

Did you know that when Abraham Lincoln was 41 he wrote a letter to a friend declaring that his career seemed doomed to end in disappointment, and expressing discouragement in the strongest possible terms?

Not all of us, of course, can rise from our discouragement to what Lincoln did.

But it's worth remembering. It ought to help spur us on to new endeavor the next time we think we're out of luck.—Sand and Spray.

COLLEGE CATALOG IS READY FOR PUBLICATION

Copy was received the fore part of this week from H. T. Burton, Dean of the Clarendon Junior College for the first Catalog of the newly organized school. The booklet will be off the press in a short time and will contain all details of the school and will give information sufficient to meet the needs of any student who plans to attend the school. The opening date has been set for September 5th. A full corps of students is expected to be in attendance on the opening day.

INSTRUCTION IN HOME ECONOMICS ARE OBTAINED.

A four-year course in home economics leading to a baccalaureate degree may be obtained in every state, as well as in the District of Columbia, in Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippine Islands, and Porto Rico. In all, 239 universities, colleges, state teachers colleges, and normal schools offer four-year courses in home economics, according to reports received by the Interior Department, Bureau of Education, and published in Home Economics Circular No. 20. In the roll of states, Illinois leads with 18 institutions and Texas stands next with 14.

In addition, home-economics courses not leading to a degree may be taken in 228 universities and colleges and in 150 normal schools.

WHY SOME HENS LAY ONLY SIXTY EGGS

By F. W. Kazmeier, Bryan, Texas.

At first thought, this heading may appear a little out of line. No doubt some will say, why feed for summer eggs, when they are not bringing a good price on the market. If experience is worth anything then I have a right to write on this subject.

Fresh laid fertile eggs have already increased in price. We are getting 21 cents per dozen net. We are getting letters and phone calls for more fresh laid fertile eggs. In another month fresh laid fertile eggs will again demand a premium. However it is not necessary for us to figure on the future. The price we are getting now does enable us to make a good profit feeding our flock.

A Better Price.

The statement is sometimes made that the selling price of eggs is beyond the control of the producer. To a certain extent this is true, on the other hand, to a certain extent it is not true, because by producing a better product you can most certainly get a better price. In our experience we have been able to get twice as much for our quality eggs, as for our cull eggs. Quality in eggs always commands a premium. We have already said so much about producing quality eggs in previous articles we are not going to say any more at this time.

Reducing Production Costs.

One way to bring the figures on the right side of the ledger and out of the loss column into the profit column is by reducing production costs. At the present time of the year, a good poultryman, with a bred-to-lay strain of chickens, and a well-balanced ration should be able to produce a dozen of eggs at a feed cost of 8 cents per dozen and less. Good feeding, a good balanced ration will help make this possible.

Take for instance the average ration fed to the average flock of hens positively will not produce the best results. Many carefully conducted feeding tests have proven that rations made up of corn, oats, wheat and milo or kafir, will enable hens to lay only about 60 eggs in one year. The same hens, when fed the same combination of feeding stuffs, to which has been added about 8 per cent of high grade meat scraps or dried buttermilk, will double or triple their production. Purdue University in Bulletin 258 reports that White Leghorns fed on grains alone laid 57 eggs as compared to 165 for those which in addition to the grains were given all the liquid buttermilk they would drink. On this basis the use of milk reduced the feed cost of producing a dozen of eggs about half.

On another feed test, on a flock of White Rocks the addition of poultry mash increased the production per pullet from 48 to 130 eggs. It is true that adding the meat scraps to the ration increased the cost of the ration about 30 per cent, but the production was increased almost 300 per cent, hence the cost of production was actually decreased half.

Summer Feeding.

Some people deliberately cut down on the feeding of their flock in the summer, reasoning that on account of low price of eggs, they want the hens to take a rest, incidentally save on the feed bill, and in the fall and winter when eggs are high, they will get an increased number of eggs from the flock. I realize that the average person does not actually believe that, but they are only trying to justify their slipshod practice. I cannot possibly conceive that a thinking man or woman can honestly reason that way. Right here is a time when you can't fool the hens. Don't for a minute think that if you force a decreased egg production now that this fall and winter they will shell out an extra number. Just about the opposite is true. It is much easier to make money producing eggs at this time of the year than in the fall and winter. It is much easier to keep them laying in the fall and winter, where they were fed well enough to keep laying all through summer. This idea of cutting down on feed to reduce production and give the hens a rest in the summer is done, not to give the hens a rest, but to cut down on the feed bill. Anybody can starve a flock, cut down on the feed bill and save in that way, and then try to justify it by saying "Oh I want my hens to take a rest now, eggs are so cheap, that when eggs are high this fall and winter, they will shell them out in great numbers." As an excuse this may fill the bill wonderfully.

The wise man will feed his flock better in the summer than any other time, to increase the number of eggs so as to help overcome the difference due to a lower price. Don't worry about the flock wearing out laying eggs, if you do not give them a vacation. The chances are they will come into the fall in better condition than the other flock not fed a balanced ration.

Instead of cutting down on the feed, good feeders now are making a special effort to get their hens to consume more egg mash and less grains. A great many in addition to keeping the egg mash before them all the time, cutting down on the feeding of whole grains to induce a greater consumption of mash, also give one feeding of a moist egg mash on a day, preferably in the afternoons. They try every known means to get them to consume more egg mash, rather than less. Such flocks in the fall and winter will produce more eggs than the flocks allowed to take a rest in the summer by poor feeding.

INSTRUCTION IN AGRICULTURE BY ITINERANT TEACHERS

A course in vocational agriculture, to be given by traveling teachers in selected high schools in southwestern New York, has been projected for the session 1927-28 by the State School of Agriculture at Alfred in co-operation with boards of education of the local schools. The plan is designed primarily for schools where the number of farm boys in attendance may not justify employment of a full-time instructor, but where the experiment may develop sufficient interest in vocational agriculture to warrant establishment of a full-time course.

The State School of Agriculture at Alfred will employ competent teachers, provide necessary instructional equipment, and assume part of the expense of travel. Two 90-minute periods of instruction will be given each week throughout the school year, and pupils must undertake approved supervised practical work. Regents' credits will be granted.

PIER SCHOOL FOR DELICATE CHILDREN.

For children suffering from excessive malnutrition, or who have arrested or incipient tuberculosis, or who have even been exposed to that disease, Day Camp Manhattan is operated on East River Pier at the foot of One Hundred and Twelfth Street, New York City, as a part of Public School 102. It is maintained jointly by the board of education and the board of health of the city, and has a full-time staff of six teachers and five nurses, with a doctor in attendance for a part of each day. Until the opening of the pier school in the fall of 1925 an old boat was used for the purpose.

Pupils take the regular work for their grades, but have much individual attention. Three warm, nourishing meals are served daily. All pupils are examined at least once a term by the physician and an effort is made to see that each child who needs it receives special health care. Teeth of all children were recently cleaned by students from Columbia Dental College. Pupils sent to the pier school because of malnutrition are returned to regular schools on reaching normal physical condition, but children assigned because of health conditions are released only on order of the physician.

TAYLOR CONFECTIONERY DAMAGED BY FIRE MONDAY

Fire which started from an undetermined origin was discovered in Taylor's Confectionery late Monday night. The night watchman reported the fire after he had discovered the smoke pouring from a window in the back of the building. The fire was kept in the back of the building and little damage was done other than that done by water and smoke. Examination showed that some of the bottled paraphernalia around the fountain had been disturbed and that some loose silver had been taken from the cash register. A ladder was discovered at the back of the store and it is thought that the marauder might have gained entrance to the store by this means.

Mr. Morris Rosenfeld of Dallas, pioneer citizen and merchant of Clarendon, visited old friends here during last week end and spent the Fourth in Clarendon. Mr. Rosenfeld built the first dry goods store in Clarendon, moving with the rest of the town from Old Clarendon when the rail road was built to the present site. He was a prominent and popular citizen during the many years he was in business here, and has many friends here, especially among the "old timers", who were anxious to greet him on his recent visit.

As this is Mr. Rosenfeld's second visit to Clarendon since moving away he was naturally much amazed at the growth and progress of the town and the entire country. He expressed himself as being delighted with the size and the beauty of the town in which he feels a deep and abiding interest. Clarendon, he says, offers most of the advantages and few disadvantages of the large city. Those who have their homes in the beautiful town, among the hospitable people of Clarendon, should count themselves most fortunate, Mr. Rosenfeld thinks. He commented in glowing terms of the hospitality of the town. He was a guest at the annual Fourth of July picnic of the Country Club and there had the opportunity of visiting with many old and new friends.

During his short visit in the city, Mr. Rosenfeld was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank White. He left Tuesday noon for San Francisco.

MISS FANNIE FLORENCE SIMS ENTERTAINS AT STORY HOUR

Miss Fannie Florence Sims was the entertainer at the Pathfinder Story Hour Tuesday evening and told interesting animal and bird stories to the forty or more children in attendance. She varied the usual program a little by reading several nature poems, in addition to the stories, much to the delight

WHAT $2,000 MEANT TO LINDBERGH!

When Lindbergh won the support of his St. Louis backers he had more to offer than his fine qualifications for the New York-to-Paris hop. He showed them that he meant business by offering $2,000, his own savings, toward expenses. Who knows but what this was the deciding factor—this display of his supreme belief in himself? But where would he have been if he hadn't saved that $2,000. Your opportunity may depend on ready money some day—and a bank account with us will help you to accumulate it.

of her young audience. Mrs. J. D. Stocking acted as sponsor for the day and assisted in supervising the thirty minute play period in the school yard, which followed the story hour.

The Pathfinder Club, sponsors and managers of the much enjoyed story hour, extend a cordial invitation to all parents of children under twelve to either bring or send their children to the story hour. It is held each Tuesday evening at seven o'clock, on the grounds of the Central Ward School.

MISS MAE LUMPKIN'S HOSTESS TO BOOK CLUB

The 1926 Book Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Miss Mae Lumpkin for one of their best meetings of the summer. Mrs. Selden Bagby led the pleasing program of the day, which included two vocal solos by Mrs. Lloyd Stallings, a piano solo by Mrs. Charles H. Dean, Jr., and a reading by Miss Naomi Allison. An enjoyable feature of the afternoon's entertainment was the half hour spent in answering "Ask Me Another" questions.

Dainty refreshments which followed a pink and white color scheme were served at the close of the meeting. A profusion of garden flowers added to the charm of Miss Lumpkin's home. Special guests for the meeting were Miss Anna Moores and Katherine Patrick.

A marble-shooting tournament for boys will be one of the novel innovations at the Texas State Fair this fall. What boy is our local champion? He should enter the contest—and win it!

Entire poultry flocks have been destroyed by infestation of chicken lice and mites. They always retard the growth and decrease egg production. Fly-tox kills chicken lice and mites. Spray lightly under feathers of grown fowls, on walls and in nests of chicken houses. Do not spray baby chicks. Simple instructions on each bottle (blue label) for killing ALL house insects. Insist on Fly-Tox.

Star Parasite Remover

Dry Weather

More than any other agency known to man, demonstrates to a very great advantage the need for paint on all exposed surface. Walls will split and crack, where they would be protected and remain absolutely firm if they were covered with paint.

Our line of ready mixed paints is such that they may be used by anyone without a great deal of practice. Results are worth while and the appearance of the place is materially assisted by the application of even the first coat of paint.
