Clarendon Gets 15 Percent Fire Credit

Raymond Mauk, state fire insurance commissioner, last Friday announced fire insurance rate credits and penalties for additional cities and towns, based on fire records of the past three years.

Credits or penalties will be effective on policies written from March 1 to February 29, 1936.

Cities of the Panhandle granted the maximum 15 percent credit were Pampa, Clarendon and Claude. Nine percent credit, Canyon; neutral, Childress.

Last year Clarendon had a 6 percent credit, and the granting of the maximum 15 percent credit is attributed to the low fire losses in the city the past year, which is a remarkable record.

J. C. EX-STUDENTS TO GATHER AGAIN

EXES AND STUDENTS TO FRATERNIZE AT ANNUAL EVENT HERE

Dean R. E. Drennan has been chosen to address the student body and ex-students at the annual Junior College Banquet to be given this year on March 1st in the parlors of the First Baptist Church. Dean Drennan, well-known as an entertaining speaker, will entertain as well as inform the students and exes when he relates the history of the Clarendon Junior College, his subject for the evening.

Following a suggestion of W. A. Clark, Jr., last year, the organization was made one for ex-students as well as students. Dean Drennan expresses his desire to continue this practice, as was voted last year by those who attended the banquet, and all exes of Clarendon Junior College are cordially invited to attend.

The program committee, composed of Wanda Mayfield, Wilma Dee Smith, and F. L. Behrens, have arranged an interesting program, on which both students and ex-students will take part. Robert McKee, president of the College Sophomore class, will serve in the capacity of toastmaster for the occasion.

Aside from the principal address of the evening, the highlight on the program will be musical selections rendered by the ever-popular student trio, composed of Misses Hulda Jo Cauthen, Wilma Dee Smith and Louise Smith.

Mary Frances Powell will toast the Sophomores, while Bob Word, a high school senior, will propose a toast to the college freshmen. A toast to the high school seniors will be given by Bill Walker while Robert Dillard, ex-student, will in turn toast the entire student body. The faculty will receive a toast from Cynthia Mae Eilers.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church will serve the meal and promise a delicious menu. Tickets will sell for sixty cents each.

QUANAH WILL BE GREENBELT SITE

DATES FOR ANNUAL ASSOCIATION GOLF TOURNAMENT WILL BE MAY 20-23

Quanah was selected as the site of the 1935 Greenbelt golf tournament and May 20-21-22-23 were selected as dates for the meet by the board of directors of the association in the annual winter meeting at Childress Sunday. Quanah's bid was unanimously accepted. Representatives of eight clubs attended the meeting. The directors discussed other matters relating to the tournament and voted to dispense with the senior division of the tournament, and equally divide the awards among the four flights of the tournament, and revise entertainment plans. Lack on interest in the senior division was reported and the directors voted to do away with the division for this year as an experiment. They agreed to more equally divide the awards so that "dubs" will be afforded the opportunity to win prizes of the same value as the top players. It was decided to have no bar-

REAPING AMONG THE YOUNGER SET

There is nothing new about observing and reading of the terrible harvest in death, punishment and despair coming to older men and women as a logical result of sin, crime and carelessness, but it is a bit unusual to have the swift picture of retribution of the sins of the younger set brought powerfully home to those of refined and reputed homes, such as is the case in the Kennemer trial at Tulsa.

Many older people, and most young people are winking at the fast and dissolute life as practiced in a greater or less degree in our larger cities, even down to our smaller towns, and yet here is an irrefutable and inescapable proof of what it leads to. In its train follows fast the reapings of illness, despair, suicide, loss of honor and virtue, murder.

If the young people indulge in entertainment and so-called pleasures which lead certainly to social sins and crime, how can they expect to escape the logical rewards and punishments which come daily to their elders who travel similar paths?

Indulgence and lack of discipline is becoming so prevalent among young people today, that reapings appear to be coming twice as rapidly as a few years back. How terrible when the reapings come to men and women of any age—especially the young!

"CONSERVATIVES" EMIT A HOWL

Since time immemorial it has been the fashion for self-styled "conservatives" in the matter of public morals to rail out at those who see clearly the picture of human wreckage wrought by liquor, gambling and like evils, and call them "extremists", "witch burners", "zealots", and other terms uttered in derision.

Following Governor Allred's strong indictment of the evils of legalized gambling in his message asking the repeal of the pari-mutuel race track gambling law, those fellows who stand always for money instead of citizenship, revenue instead of morals, rose up and began to say that he was an "extremist", that his message was an "over-emphasis" of the evils involved, and some damned his administration henceforth because of his stand on this momentous moral issue.

Good citizens applaud Governor Allred in his demands for divorcing Texas from such wide-spread evil which threatens to engulf our wealth and our character, and will back him unstintedly in his standards of righteous, unsullied government.

ADVERTISING FOR RESULTS

One of the greatest tributes recently paid to advertising in local weekly and small daily papers is the change of policy by the Del Monte food products company. For a great many years they were sold on national magazine and billboard advertising but in more recent experiments in local advertising they have found that the closer range advertising brings them in so much better touch with the housewife that they have cancelled their magazine and billboard budgets and are now spending their entire advertising appropriation, which is a large sum, with the local weekly and small town daily newspapers.

Here in Clarendon the policy is being extensively used and is another striking illustration of the growing potency of Clarendon News advertising—the kind that pays dividends as an investment.

CRIME MORE EXPENSIVE THAN RELIEF

Recent statistics show that crime is costing the United States annually upwards of twelve billion dollars—more than the entire annual cost of the relief program.

How foolish we are to seek to legalize and foster the liquor business, the gambling racket, and all those attendant evils which are responsible for the greatest bulk of the twelve billions crime bill.

GOOD ADVICE TO ALL CHILDREN

Up in Oregon the sheriff of one of the major counties has had issued cards for distribution among children. They carry point in any state and it may be recommended that attention of children hereabouts be called to the following copy:

- 1—Don't ever ride with strangers.
- 2—Always walk on the left hand side of the road, and get clear off the road when you meet an automobile. Give them plenty of room.
- 3—Don't ever cross a road or highway until you are sure there are no cars coming from either direction.
- 4—Don't attempt to cross an intersection until you are certain that there is plenty of time.
- 5—If you see an accident go for help quickly.
- 6—Keep clear of the wreck. Let grown people give aid to the injured.

While the sheriff is doing this good work in the interest of the smaller citizens, the Oregonian of Portland suggests that he might get out another card directed to adults and that it read:

- 1—Don't ever pick up strangers.
- 2—Always drive on the right hand side of the road, and when you meet a pedestrian give him plenty of room.
- 3—Maintain a look-out for persons crossing the road.
- 4—Have your car under control when entering an intersection, and recognize the right of pedestrians to cross ahead of you.
- 5—If you see an accident, offer help.
- 6—If you cannot be helpful, leave the wreck. Don't block the highway out of curiosity.

With one or two exceptions the points in each apply to the grown-ups as well as the children. It will hurt no one to read what the Oregon sheriff has to say, and what the Oregonian thinks he might add.—Tribune, Oakland, California.

SCIENTIFIC AND FEASIBLE

Some folks are inclined to laugh at the idea advanced for building dams in the Panhandle for the purpose of better flood control, as well as improving the moisture in this section. From a scientific standpoint the idea is entirely feasible, and if it had been put into execution back in the good old days when land owners had money for improvement, the great drouth would not have been so severe. The only successful method of starting flood control is to start a series of dams back at the headwaters, and hold as much water as possible in each of the series of dams which may be a mile or so apart. When there is plenty of rain, there is no use for the water, but when the drouth hits, as this section has gone through during the past five years, then all farmers wish there was some surface water available for irrigation. There will be no method of making folks do this, but the idea is a good one for discussion, and some will fall into the idea.—Canyon News.

LIBRARY NOTES
(By Mrs. C. A. Burton)

Recently an author of considerable note was a visitor in Dallas to deliver his lecture on "The Jew and the World." This was Ludwig Lewisohn, who is given a place in Living Authors, published in 1932. He was born in Berlin in 1882. He was of Jewish unmixed blood and descent who had lived for generations in the North and Northeast of Germany. But he says, "All the members of my family seemed to feel that they were Germans first and Jews afterward." While a little lad in school he says of himself that he was hopelessly stupid at figures, and liked best the class in "religion." His parents might easily have had him excused from that class since they were Jews, but they were liberal.

When Lewisohn was eight years old his father failed financially, and suffered a physical breakdown as a result. Then the family came to America, settling first in a small town in South Carolina, and later moving to Charleston. Ludwig had begun to write verses in Germany at ten, and while in high school in Charleston, he decided on a literary career, determining to become a professor of literature. He gave up speaking German at home, and began reading English classics, especially Dickens and Macaulay. "At the age of fifteen," he says, "I was an American, a Southerner and a Christian." A Charleston newspaper printed his verses as well as his articles and book reviews.

He graduated from high school at fifteen, and then took his A. B. and A. M. degrees in the College of Charleston—the latter in 1901. Up to this time he had been subject to little discrimination because of his race, but he received a blow when his college crowd formed a Greek letter fraternity and left him out. And the second blow came when, after having taken his A. M. degree in Columbia, he failed to get a teaching job because he was a Jew.

Then he served on the editorial staff of Doubleday, Page and Co., married, and wrote for magazines, living in New York all the while he was training himself to be a novelist, and his first novel, "The Broken Snare," was published in 1908. A few years' work as instructor in German followed in the Universities of Wisconsin and Ohio. Editorial work on "The Nation" followed this during which time another novel, "Don Juan," was written. This is based on his own marital experiences, and was written in twenty-nine days, after repeated urgings by his publishers.

In 1924 Lewisohn went to Europe, and on to the New East to study the Jewish problem. By this time he had identified himself unmistakably with his native race. While abroad he found leisure for writing, and during his ten years residence in Paris he did the larger part of his voluminous literary work. He has but recently returned to America, and says it is good to be at home again. When asked while in Dallas what he was working on now, he answered that he was doing no literary work now—that it was not possible while traveling on a heavy lecture circuit. In this country it is unusual to find a novelist of the Jewish race, especially a man who is so identified with his race that he is trying to interpret this race to the world. "Don Juan" is the only volume by Lewisohn which we have on our shelves. It is a very unusual story—one of conatral interest.

Some time ago we told you that we had a copy of E. W. Howe's "The Story of a Country Town" in the library. This week you will have noticed that there is being a special sale of this book in Amarillo and vicinity. The author is the father of our neighboring town editor, and is considered the dean of American Journalists.

The book was written by Mr. Howe in 1880. Failing to secure a publisher, he printed it in the back room of his own little newspaper office in Atchison, Kansas. Nebraska Country-side during pioneer days—the story of the pioneer Americans who settled the barren prairies of the middle West, and founded the small towns which are our peculiar heritage. The book has grown more popular through the passing years.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Norwood and daughter, Elise, visited Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Finklea of Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bourland and children of Quail visited friends and relatives in Clarendon Sunday.

Heavy Whitlock and George Wayne Estlack spent Sunday in Sherman county.

Miss Helen Baley, who teaches in the Windy Valley community spent Saturday in town.

CANYON MUSEUM HAS ADAIR PICTURE

HUNG FOR YEARS IN LONDON; RECALLS EARLY HISTORY OF JA RANCH.

Canyon.—Among the most recent acquisitions of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum is a portrait of Mrs. Cordelia Adair, whose name has been identified with the Panhandle and the JA Ranch since 1877. The portrait of Mrs. Adair is almost life-size and hangs in the Mary E. Hudspeth Art gallery between oil paintings of her husband, John George Adair, and Colonel Charles Goodnight, who was their friend and business associate for many years.

The oil painting was sent to the museum from London, England, where it had hung for many years in Mrs. Adair's home at 11 Portman Square, where, according to her grandson, M. H. W. Ritchie, of London and Dallas, "she entertained during a number of years, almost every celebrity of this country and Europe." It was painted in 1894 by E. Tofano, a young Italian artist who went to London with his reputation already made and was soon very popular as a portrait painter. According to the grandson, this portrait marks the highest point of his artistic achievement for he died after its completion. The frame of the picture has been greatly admired and is a fine example of the carving in vogue during the period.

In a letter to Professor L. F. Sheffy, secretary of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society, Mr. Ritchie writes: "The Ritchie family are glad to make this loan to what I consider a most praiseworthy institution—your museum. I had heard a good deal of good about the museum before I saw the building and the collections; however, the actual acquaintance with it very far surpasses my previous impressions."

Cornelia Wadsworth Adair was born of pioneers, for she was of the family of Wadsworths who left the Massachusetts colony and moved into Connecticut to establish the town of Hartford. She was born in 1837 and in 1857 became the wife of H. Montgomery Ritchie of Boston, the grandfather of the donors of the portrait. Her first husband died in 1864 and in 1869 she married John George Adair, a Scotch-Irish broker, who was a pioneer in spirit.

At that time it was a popular amusement of society people, both men and women, to come West on hunting trips into the country that had lately been crossed by the Union Pacific. In 1874 the Adairs came on such a trip, hoping to kill many buffalo.

General Phil Sheridan was commander of the U. S. Army station on the frontier, and he insisted upon a cavalry escort for the Adair party. Mrs. Adair thought this unnecessary, to which he replied, "You may not want them, but if you do, you will want them like Hell."

Before starting they were told of "Sheridan's Roost," a place where the general and his staff killed 63 wild turkeys in an hour's time, and Mrs. Adair hoped to kill a wild turkey.

On the South Platte River, Chief Two Lance of the Sioux and his lesser chiefs, Fire Lightning and High Bear, treated the hunting party to a feast of boiled beans, cooked meat, and cans of tea and coffee.

The buffalo hunt ended almost disastrously, for Adair accidentally shot his own horse and was injured as his mount fell beneath him, and one of the cavalymen was seriously hurt when his horse fell with him. Buffalo were already thinned out except in the Texas Panhandle, which the party dared not enter because of the danger from the Comanches.

The Adairs liked the West, and in 1875, John George Adair transferred his American business to Denver, and in 1876 met Col. Charles Goodnight, and soon entered a business relation which was to result in the settlement of the Panhandle and the development of one of the finest ranches, the JA.

In 1885 Adair died, and Cornelia Adair, whose address was then given at Rathdair, Ireland, entered into business partnership with Col. Goodnight.

1,718 calves carrying the JJ brand; the main herd, branded JA, was largest in 1888 with 60,759 grown cattle and 12,654 calves. When the Goodnight-Adair partnership was dissolved, there were 101,023 cattle to be divided.

Since that time the JA Ranch has gradually decreased in acreage by selling the lands and by the coming of settlers to school and railroad lands which the ranch used.

During all the years following her husband's death until her own, Mrs. Adair made frequent trips from England to the Panhandle. T. D. Hobart, of Pampa, said of her: "She is a remarkable woman and did a great deal of entertaining in her younger days, having as her guest the late King Edward, Lord Kitchener and others of that class. On the other hand she seemed happier at the ranch than at any other place."

"She was always thinking of someone else. If any of the men were sick, or any of their families, she wanted something done about it at once. Those old cowboys who had been with her for years would have gone through fire for her if necessary."

Her family also appreciates what Mrs. Adair did for the Panhandle, for her grandson says: "Since my brother and I have been in this country, we realize more than ever the part our grandmother played in the awakening and development of the Panhandle, and the great esteem with which her memory is still regarded by those who met her. We, too, have completely lost our hearts to the Panhandle and the ranch—it is our hope that we may have the opportunity of carrying on our grandmother's tradition."

Many who have seen the portrait in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum will remember that Mrs. Adair gave to Clarendon a hospital, a Y. M. C. A. building which is now used as a Community Center, and equipment and endowment of the hospital, in addition to personal philanthropies of many kinds of which the public had no knowledge.

The picture may be seen on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Sundays from 2 to 6 when the Museum is open to the public.

WINDY VALLEY SCHOOL NEWS

We are all glad to have Miss Baley with us again. She came back to school last Tuesday, Feb. 12.

Last Friday night, Feb. 15, a number of pupils surprised Mr. Jackson with a birthday party. Mrs. Jackson had to tell him that Mr. Baker was coming to keep him at home. We played many delightful games. They were "California unknown," "Say do you love me," "What are we to be," "Jig Saw puzzles," "Pitching hearts," and "Rolling love." After these games cake and ice cream was served to Misses Leola and Opal Hudson, Jenny Jewel Nichols, Alvis Darnell, Lavonia Swinney, Robbie Lee Russell, and Jo Nell Stogner. Messers Everett Nichols, J. I. Russell, Pete Giles, Troy Walker, Wallace Riffe, Jack Simmons, Roy Britt, and host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson.

The Windy Valley basketball boys played Chamberlain Monday, Feb. 18. The Juniors and Seniors of Windy Valley were defeated by a small score. We are going to Chamberlain Wednesday, Feb. 20, to play ball. We hope to have the pleasure of beating them.

Friday, Feb. 22, the Windy Valley boys will go to Hedley to enter the County Basketball Tournament. They will play Bray Junior boys at 3:30 and Ashtola Senior boys at 6:30. We hope to win the County Tournament this time.

We did not take a half holiday for Valentine, because Mr. Jackson said we would have too many for the last coming three months.

At the last recess Miss Baley came in Mr. Jackson's room and wrote on the board, "Seventh grade, come in my room after school." All the seventh graders thought it was about History, for she teaches their History. She gave them some cookies cut into the shape of hearts.

The county superintendent, Mr. Baker, came to see us last Wednesday, Feb. 13. We were sure proud to see him. He brought us some new song books and magazines. Mr. Baker gave us a very nice talk, which we all appreciated. We all hope he will come back soon.

Friday, March 1, all the boys and girls are going to Clarendon to fix the booth for Windy Valley. We will use Saturday, March 2, to represent Windy Valley. We will go to the Methodist Church at 10:30 to sing. We have picked two leaders from here to help lead the singing.

Intermediate Incidents
We all enjoyed the party that we had before our Valentine boxes were opened. Mrs. Batson's pupils came to see us and we all dressed up for the party. We wore little paper caps with Valentines on them, and some of us had a mighty hard time trying to keep them on. Those who visited us were Mrs. Riffe, Norma Jean Riffe, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. Johnson, Claudine Johnson, and Margie Ruth Drake. We hope they will come again soon.

Prizes in reading were given to Mary Ruth Walker, Dorothy Jean Young, Ethel Skinner and Robie Lee Russell. Mary Ruth and Dorothy Jean are both in the fifth grade. They tied this month and they are going to try to do the same thing again next month.

We have memorized the pledge to the flag. When we say it we stand and place our right hand over our heart.

The fifth grade students are making a salt map of South America. They are putting the different countries on the map and coloring them with scraps of crepe paper.

These articles were suggested by Dorothy Jean Young, Ethel Skinner, Louise Skinner and Lavonia Swinney.

Primary Room
We are studying about George Washington this week. We have written a story about his life.

We have cut silhouettes of him and learned a song about him. Ara Paulk won the permanent this month and Mason Cole got the haircut for making the highest grades.

Mrs. Batson asked U. G. how much nothing and nothing was and he said "zero."

Romaine said, "Come on, let's go to the Autumn-an-tory. The other day U. G. was having some trouble with his writing and Dorothy Jane and Pearl had been trying to help him. Later Mrs. Batson told him to get busy and he said disgustedly, "Well, I can't do my writing 'cause Dorothy Jane and Pearl have got me all mad and bumbled."

We had a Valentine party in Miss Baley's room last Thursday afternoon. We had Valentine hats to wear and Mrs. Batson gave us suckers dressed as the Queen of Hearts.

Mrs. Jack Killough went to Amarillo Saturday where she spent several days receiving medical attention.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Thompson of Memphis spent Sunday in Clarendon visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Thompson.

Mrs. Lon Rundell and son, Haskell Kemp, spent Monday in Pampa.

George Carter spent the weekend in Memphis.

LITTLE-KNOWN FACTS ABOUT WASHINGTON

(By Bonnie Hardin)

Annually we try to discover new interesting facts concerning Washington's interesting life, and recently an article titled "Forgotten Facts About Washington" in the Ladies Home Journal was found.

George Washington was a very romantic type of person who could not resist a beautiful face, although "debunkers" are now trying to destroy the legend, it is true that his proposals of marriage were refused by several women.

After an acquaintance of two days with a New York coquette, Washington proposed to her but was repulsed for a wealthier gentleman.

General Washington was very thoughtful and considerate of his wife, and she was his constant companion when he traveled.

At her death she was acclaimed the most travelled woman in the country. They were both very fond of dancing and cards and always enjoyed the company of gray young people.

The first president possessed an irritable temper but continually struggled to control his wrath. When he became angry, he would swear terribly, but his anger invariably passed quickly.

We are reminded of Washington as the man who could not lie, but he often outrageously exaggerated a fact until it became a "whopper."

A couple of weeks ago some rather difficult character sketches were inserted in the school paper, and the editors neglected to identify them in the following issue.

Washington's outstanding trait among many extraordinary good ones was that he was a hard worker. He arose early and retired at ten o'clock when possible.

No. 1. is a Senior boy, curly-haired, thin, and tending toward tallness. He plays tennis often and is becoming an expert in the game.

No. 2. She is a college Freshman, living a short distance out of town. She has attended Clarendon schools most of her life, and she has always made excellent grades.

No. 3. He is a college Freshman, he likes coffee and drinks lots of it, he is generous when he has money, and he talks with a slow, southern drawl.

No. 4. She is a quiet, smiling little girl in the ninth grade. Her school hobby is home economics, in which she is a star pupil.

Mr. Drennan has arranged for our college to be advertised in the surrounding territory by appointing a committee to make a suitable program with college students participating.

Washington declared the mosquitoes could "bite through the thickest cowhide boot."

WORDS SPELLED WITH STUDENT'S INITIALS

Initials that spell words are lucky, so they say, so a campaign of middle names has been launched by reporters.

Putting Allen Patman's initials together we get "cap." Allen must think this word charm a hoodoo, because he never wears anything on his head but hair.

Very Personal

And it still goes on—this discussion of the Junior-Senior banquet. Those who have a part on the program are rushing around in fever heat trying frantically to learn their speeches, music, and readings.

JACK DRAFFEN MAKES STATE U HONOR ROLL

Jack Draffen, son of Mrs. Eva Draffen of this city and graduate of Clarendon High School and Clarendon Junior College, received the distinction of meriting the first semester honor roll for the Texas University school of engineering.

Due to popular request from at least one person in Donley County via Uncle Sam's postal service, Sports Slants regains life for this week at least. The epistle as received the fore part of the week is reprinted herewith:

Sam Braswell Jr.
The Clarendon News
Dear Sir:

Inasmuch as we won the tournament held in Clarendon last weekend and played the first game part of the time with only four players we feel that you should give us a good write-up. We are planning to enter the tournament at Groom and we would like a boost. We have no coach and we boys feel that a good write-up will encourage us.

Thanks,
The Hedley Team

Thanks, fellows, and certainly I shall be glad to give you a boost. As already stated the Hedley ex-Owls copped the local invitation cage tourney last Friday and Saturday by winning a thrilling semi-final encounter from the scrapping Carey five and routing the Clarendon Junior College quintette in the finals by a comfortable margin. In winning the title the Hedley team exhibited one of the smoothest basketball fives to play in the home 'cracker box' in some time. It was beautiful to watch Evans, Armstrong, Tollet and the other Hedley sharpshooters whose names have slipped our memory return to the hardwood and perform as scintillatingly as they used to do when they were always winning the county and one of the best quints in this section of the state. If those lads have slipped any in the intervening years since their high school days it was hardly noticeable in their splendid work during the tournament.

It is all the more remarkable when it will be remembered that the Hedley club does not have a coach—they just get out there and outplay their opponents and shoot goals from every angle of the court. They enjoy playing and are perfect gentlemen to go with it. Here's hoping them success along with the Junior College Bulldogs in the Groom tournament, should they enter.

Coach Kerby also cornered the engineer of this column the other day and after our usual argument about when and whom engaged in certain events at the University of Texas when we were attending, requested that a little special mention be given the members of the bi-county basketball championship team—namely the Clarendon High School Bronchos. It has been several seasons since the Maroon and White gonfalon has been unfurled in a championship breeze, and to these lads who brought the basketball title back to Clarendon after many, many years we extend congratulations.

It was eleven years ago that Clarendon High boasted a like championship cage team, in the regime of Loran and Clyde Naylor, Bill Skelton, Paul Schull and others we can't recall. That was the last time Clarendon won from the Owls of Hedley High School. Since that time a few Broncho quintettes have gained a bit of confidence, now and then, and gone into the county championship game with a will to win, but on each occasion the pesky night birds winked knowingly and hooted the idea and proceeded to dismantle whatever hopes had nestled in the Maroon and White hearts, and at the same time add another flag to the Hedley trophy case.

Clarendon is proud of the Bronchos and especially over the fact that they defeated Hedley three out of four games. In Reid, Carpenter, Duckett, Buchanan, Cooke and the other basketkeeters C. H. S. is really represented by a county team. All the lads with the exception of one are transfers from nearby communities. It is hoped that with each succeeding year more and more of the county's outstanding athletes will become enrolled in Clarendon High School. If this is carried out the Bronchos will again ride the top of the athletic world in the Panhandle, something well worth working towards.

Although defeated in the bi-division play with the Panhandle Tigers, who by-the-way is one of the best cage machines in this part of the country, the Bronchos have completed a most successful season and amid the applause of their friends, lay away their abbreviated cage costumes for others just as brief to carry on in track and field events.

Speaking of track, Coach Kerby has his bonnet filled with some choice ideas and plans for bringing this spring event out in popularity to the citizens of Clarendon. With excellent prospects for both the Bronchos and the College Bulldogs, the genial mentor plans to stage an invitation meet for surrounding college and high school athletes.

There is hardly anything so inspiring as the sight of a young army of well conditioned athletes in events of skill and strength, and this department certainly hopes these plans may blossom into a brilliant reality some week-end late this spring.

Carl Parsons just returned from the annual meeting of the directors of the Greenbelt Golf Association at Childress where Quanah was selected as the site of the 1935 annual tournament in May. Carl says the Quanah representatives to the meeting looked him up following the session and sent a pressing invitation to the Clarendon golfers urging them all to attend the tournament. They claim they are mighty sorry about the now famous "incident" which happened on the local course a few years back when one of their 'sportsmen' copped the title from Clarendon's best after the match had been won by the latter.

They claim they want to make amends and prove there is no ill will against the Clarendon pellet pounders, and promise the ultra ultra in the way of welcome and entertainment to any coming from Clarendon.

No doubt Quanah is sorry about about it now, for there really is a host of fine people in that nice little city. I hope a splendid delegation from here does attend this year's meet.

However, I have always believed that the best way they could have shown their "sorrow" in the matter was to have sent the cup and the championship to their rightful owner following the ruling of the U. S. G. A. But that's all over now so let's get busy and go down to Quanah and have a big time—even though Clarendon hasn't much chance to win the coveted title.

Legislative Bills

May Hurt Highways

HOUSTON, Texas.— Texas, which needs highways more than any other type of public work, will lose millions of dollars yearly in Federal Aid for roads if any of several bills now before the state legislature is enacted into law. Colonel Ike Ashburn, executive head of the Texas Good Roads Association, warned today. He has just returned from a conference in Washington with T. H. MacDonald, chief of the Bureau of Public Roads.

The federal highway bill enacted by Congress last June states the principle, "it is unfair and unjust to tax motor vehicle transportation unless the proceeds are applied to highways", Ashburn explained. It then provides that any state which reduces its own outlay of state money for roads, after passage of the law, will be penalized by loss of one-third of its federal money allotment.

"In other words, Washington isn't going to build roads in states which don't care to spend their own state funds on them", the road leader explained.

"Texas's yearly Federal Aid is $7,700,000. Passage of any one of several bills now before the legislature at Austin will automatically deprive Texas of $2,500,000 per year in federal road money.

"These bills seek (1) gasoline tax refunds on municipally-owned autos, (2) lower license fees, (3) to divert license fees to fight soil erosion, (4) to divert more gas tax to assume more local road bonds, and even to increase the gas tax for this purpose.

"I don't think any one of these state bills is worth the $2,500,000 yearly loss in Federal Aid which it would cost. And I hope every citizen who feels the same way will tell his lawmakers at Austin to leave the gasoline tax and license fees just like they are today."

Tournament. Independent cage teams of purely amateur standing will compete.

Among the teams invited to participate in the tournament here are four Amarillo teams, the Pampa Teachers, LeFors, Panhandle, White Deer, Clarendon, Skellytown, Shamrock, McLean, West Texas State Teachers College Freshmen, and several others. Headquarters of the association are at Indianapolis, Indiana.

Individual awards will be given to players on the first, second, third and fourth teams. Members chosen on the all-tournament team will be awarded the individual prizes. The sportsmanship player of the tournament will also receive an award.

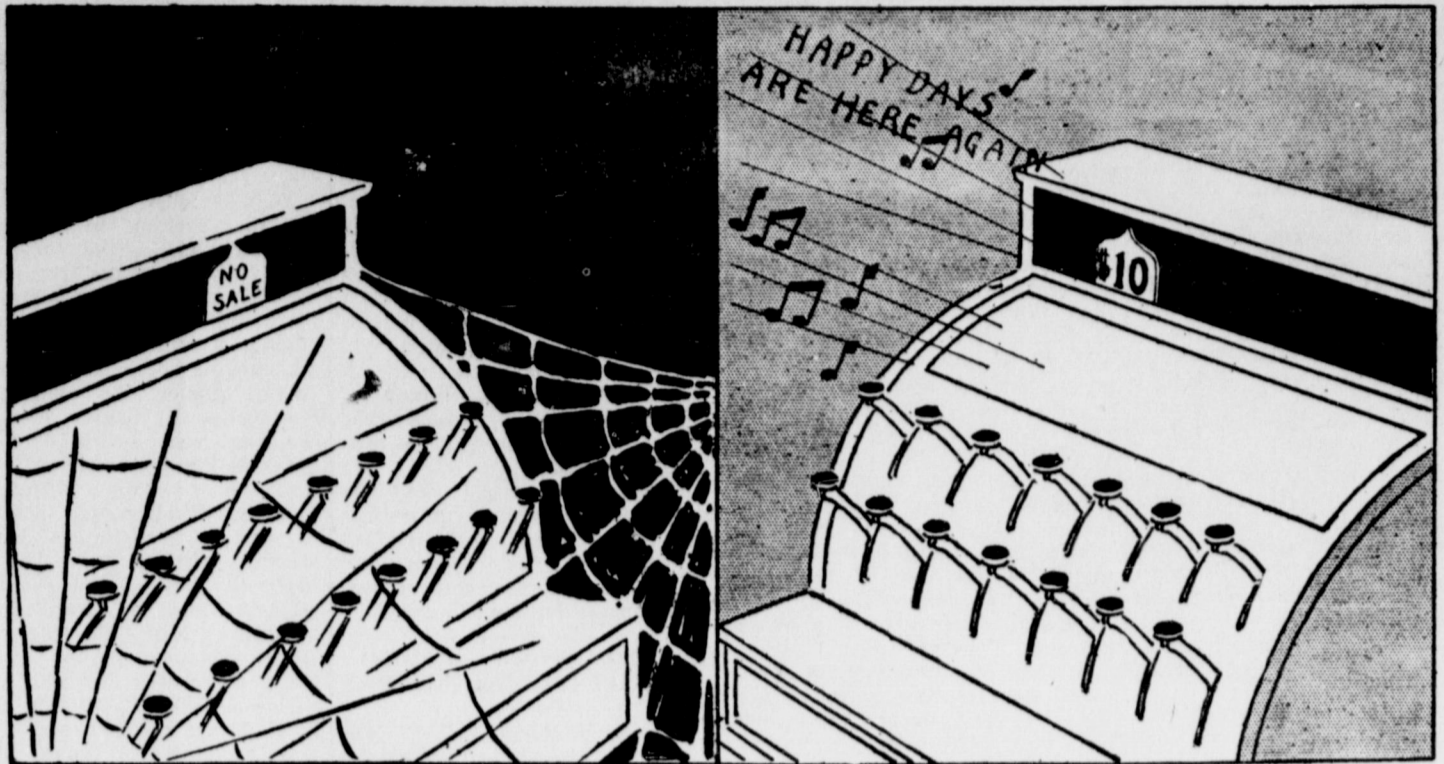

In addition to the awards, the following will be presented: high point maker, merit medals for teams being eliminated early, most spectacular shot of the tournament, medals for members of second all-tournament team, medal for the winning manager, and a medal for the player making the most points in one game.

Perhaps the most coveted of all tournament awards are those given by the United States Basketball Federation, an organization of which the Central States group is a member. These medals are honor awards presented to the three outstanding players in each tournament. The players who receive the gold honor medal automatically become candidates for the annual All-American team selected by the federation.

Finis Curtis of Estelline last year was the only Texas player on the All-American team, being selected as a forward.

Application to enter the tournament should be mailed immediately to R. D. Ford, Groom, Texas.

The Clarendon Junior College Bulldogs will enter the tournament.

First Retarding Dam Completed

Yesterday the finishing touches were being put on the six-hundred foot retarding dam in the system of dams and terraces to control the flood waters and protect Clarendon from damage such as sustained here last September 1st. This was the first of the major dirt structures, and is on the street which runs South of the College building at the edge of town. The dam required some thirty thousand cubic yards of dirt, as it is 48 ft. at the base and 28 ft. at the top. There is a divided concrete culvert in the focal point of pressure a great volume of water—probably faster than floods can accumulate over an ordinary period of time. In order to make doubly sure, there is a spillway at the South end of the dam which is approximately 30 feet wide and some three feet above the bed of the retarding area. A crew of approximately forty relief workers have been on the job and their work speaks well for the engineer's plans and the careful following out of the blue print. The street runs across this dam which has been well graded, and cars were going to and fro Wednesday. Another of the larger dams will be begun in a few days on the draw coming in East of the grade schools. METHODIST CHOR WILL MEET SATURDAY NIGHT This week ONLY the weekly rehearsal of the Methodist Choir will be held Saturday night at 7 o'clock. The Easter cantata books have been received and work will begin if time permits. All members please take notice. Sam M. Braswell, Director. W. H. Patrick and Sam M. In addition to Nicholson, the following attended: Charles Johnson of Altus, Carl Parsons of Clarendon, Willingham and Walker of Quanah, H. E. Pendleton, secretary of Shamrock, R. S. Greene of Memphis, Haney of Crowell, Vinson of Paducah and A. J. Brown, president of the Childress club. A special invitation was extended to the Clarendon golfers who might attend with the assurance that their needs and comforts would receive the united attention of the Quanah people. BROTHER OF MRS. BAUER DIES AT DENVER TUESDAY Mrs. A. O. Bauer, pioneer resident of Clarendon, received a telegram Tuesday stating that her brother, John F. Mann of Denver, Colorado, died at four o'clock Tuesday morning after contracting pneumonia. Funeral services were held in Denver Wednesday but at the time the telegram was sent, arrangements were not completed. John Mann died at the age of sixty-six years after working from 1887 until the date of his death as a conductor on the original Union Pacific railway. The News joins in sympathy with Mrs. Bauer, Mrs. Roy Clayton, Ralph Decker, and Clifford Decker, Clarendon relatives of the deceased. Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Mullins and family of Panhandle moved this week to Borger where Mr. Mullins will engage in business. Mr. Mullins was a former resident of Clarendon, having jointly owned the M & M Grocery with W. A. Massie. Mrs. Bill Wickline and little daughter, Jo Pat, of Memphis are visiting this week in the home of Mrs. Wickline's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Andis. E. Markham and John Gaston of Amarillo visited Miss Lorraine Patrick Sunday evening.

'CRAZY POLITICS' SCORES SUCCESS

BENEFIT SHOW SCORES IN THREE PRODUCTIONS TO FINE AUDIENCES. The curtains parted at 8:15 Thursday evening for the premier showing and at the same hour Friday evening for the second showing of "Crazy Politics," Clarendon's biggest stage hit and holding a record attendance over all previous home talent performances. Under the auspices of the Episcopal Ladies Auxiliary, the play was directed by Miss Lorraine Patrick, representing the Universal Producing Company. Ninety local people made up the cast in this singing, dancing, exciting political story. The leading role, that of Pat O'Donnell, reporter, who is forced to impersonate Mrs. Courtney Van Dyne, nominee of the People's Party for mayor and who misses the boat and is unable to return from Paris, exhibits ability and was screamingly funny as he changes the dignified campaign of the People's Party into a voo-doo-oo and a boop-oo-a-doop rally and responds with ardor to the advances of the banker, Rollins, portrayed by Tom F. Connally, and of Spider McGinnis, Carl Parsons, underworld politician who rules Centerville. Dr. A. W. Hicks as Watson impersonated with no small degree of success the twelve year old, golden-haired, Minnie, daughter of Mrs. Van Dyne. C. C. Powell as Dr. Jeffrey masqueraded as Mrs. Van Dyne's French maid and provoked much laughter from the audience with his Chevrolet soufflé, coupe French. M. R. Allensworth, as Judge Fisher, contributed his aid to the People's Party by dressing as Mrs. Van Dyne's old maid secretary and contributed much comedy to the scenes. The role of Froley, chairman of the People's Party, was capably played by W. H. Patrick and Kenneth Brown as Simpson, secretary to Froley, and brain trust for the party deserves to be commended for his acting. Ivan Awfulitch, the Bolshevik and also candidate for mayor, was successfully played by Jerome Stocking, and Abie and Rebecca Goldberg, played by Jim Cornelius and Elgin Patrick were unusually good. The leading girl roles, that of Sally, the reporter and sweetheart of Pat O'Donnell, and Julia, sweetheart of Simpson, were played by Betty Weatherly and Marie Thornton, both of whom were well adapted to their roles. Ward, Harry McCracken, and Duke and Dopey, Elery Watson and T. J. Mann, as henchmen of Spider McGinnis, were always at the service of their boss in the crucial moment, and Harry McCracken, at Ward the reporter, followed Sally devotedly to help her in difficulties. Mrs. Ruth Teat as Mrs. Watson and Rhoda Wiedman as Mrs. Higginbottom did their roles to perfection, and Jimmy Lumpkin, the messenger boy, delivered the startling cablegrams from Mrs. Van Dyne and also presented Miss Patrick with flowers from the Auxiliary. The detective roles were played by C. B. Morris and Chas. Lowry. Twenty-five prominent business and professional men together with a German band made the caucus scene, the first scene of the show, a rip-roaring success, and twenty-five leading club women and a score of smartly dressed shorus girls in song and dance numbers were added attractions in the synecopated rally. Women Walter Winchells, played by Eugenia Noland and Dorothy Jo Ryan, cleverly introduced members of the rally. A high light in the show and an act which was greatly enjoyed was the tap number given by that well-known dance team of Amarillo, Gene Galle and Virginia Thompson. DR. M. L. STRICKLIN APPOINTED HEALTH OFFICER At a recent meeting of the city commission, Dr. M. L. Stricklin was appointed city health officer for 1935. Dr. Stricklin acted as city health officer during a part of 1934 when services of such office was needed, after Dr. B. L. Jenkins had resigned during the year. Final Date Corn-Hog Contracts Feb. 23rd The final date for signing corn-hog contracts is set for Saturday, Feb. 23. All persons wishing to make application for contract will please come to the county agent's office before said date. H. M. Breedlove, County Agent.

Eben G. Fine Makes Talk at Church Here

Eben G. Fine, nature lover, traveler, photographer and lecturer of Boulder, Colorado, was a visitor in Clarendon Sunday and while here lectured at the First Christian Church Sunday night on "God's Handiwork in Nature." The lecture was illustrated with many beautiful pictures, streams, wild flowers, waterfalls, mountain peaks and places of interest to all Americans. Because of the increasing interest in the Palo Duro Canyon, Mr. Fine made a trip from Amarillo last Saturday into the Canyon where he searched out sites for making color photographs at a future date. His photographs have won international recognition.

SUNDAY IS CHECK-UP DAY FOR METHODISTS

When the current campaign for the raising of Conference Benevolences at the Methodist Church was begun several weeks ago, it was agreed that every Fourth Sunday would be "check-up" day for the committeemen in charge of the subscriptions in the various Sunday School classes and departments. Sunday, February 24th, is, therefore, check-up day and the membership is asked to bring in their payments, partial or in full, as they have elected. The check-up is being held on his tenth annual lecture tour. A large crowd was present to hear Mr. Fine, and heard him present his illustrations in a most inspiring manner.

contribution boxes used by certain members are also to be returned, so that accumulated money can be transferred to the Treasurer, W. M. Patman, and due credit given.

There are several members who have not made their subscription to this cause as yet, and all committeemen are urged to see that they be invited to sign the cards Sunday, since it will require about $330 yet to complete the total assumed by the church.

Presiding Elder and Mrs. Barcus left this week for Ruidoso, New Mexico, where they will enjoy a short vacation in their summer cottage.

Fred Chamberlain and J. R. Porter were in Wichita Falls Wednesday transacting business.
