THE PRODIGAL WASTE MUST STOP

Here in the Panhandle we are observing at this time evidences of two great and unpardonable wastes, viz., natural gas, and the native soil. The waste in gas has been given large publicity and thousands of dollars are being spent in legislative efforts to curb it, while loss of soil through unchecked erosion is just now beginning to claim general attention. Of the two the latter is vastly more important and more vitally concerns the whole people and the future of this section of the Southwest.

An intelligent and co-operative effort in this section is now being put forth to enlist the government's power and finance in putting a stop to erosion and rebuilding the wasted soil over our country, and the need is now so apparent we doubt not but that the federal government will go its length in a program of vast benefit to the Middle and Southwest.

Along this line, The Earth, a magazine published by the Santa Fe railroad, had the following to say in a recent editorial.

"Soil washing control in the United States is one of our most important movements. It has been almost a case of locking the barn door after the horse was stolen. Losses due to erosion have run into the hundreds of millions of dollars. But farmers are awake to the necessity of doing something, and agricultural college and experiment station experts are kept busy getting out plans to overcome the evil which has gained a tight hold through many years of neglect. Erosion by wind and water continually is going on as it has been doing ever since the first strip of prairie soil was turned by the plow. It is nature's way of transforming a fertile land into a sterile land, and then into waste land. Muddy creeks and muddy rivers are visible evidence of this process. Erosion is the major enemy of the soil."

THE OLD ORDER HAS PASSED

Sometimes we hear wise sounding phrases like "the old order is passing," "things are going to be different," etc., when as a matter of fact, the old order has passed, and things are already different.

A case in point is the recent editorial of the Dallas Morning News in which comment is made on cotton, the long-time staple crop of the South, going on to show that the old order has already passed and we are facing a new condition insofar as agriculture in the Southern states is concerned. This excellent article makes bold to state that the future of the South is bound up in man's ability to adjust his crop program to the new order, with cotton as a minor factor, and that from the new program lies possibilities of greater wealth and prosperity in the Southland.

Cotton is no longer king. The old order has passed. Idle regrets can bring no good results. Man's best intelligence, his most careful planning is now required to bring economic vigor and profitable farm operations in Dixie.

The answer lies in the dairy cow, the feed lot calves; the brood sow and better grade pigs; poultry and eggs; in the growing of feed crops to be fed on the farm, in all of which no county of the Southwest is better fitted by nature to prosper than Donley County.

ECONOMIC SKIES ARE BRIGHTENING

In spite of many disturbing signs in the Nation, the fact remains that business is improving over the country and the economic skies are growing brighter.

Here in the Panhandle the recent rains and snow have brought encouraging moisture even if insufficient for seasonal needs, and farming has begun in earnest.

While few of us really desire to see the return of the hectic business days of the boom years, yet we are all looking for a return to normal conditions in America, and very likely normal business will steal upon us and be in full swing before very many recognize it.

Economic skies are brightening, and here in the Panhandle normal business is about to be realized.

An electric device which travels at the rate of six miles per hour and marks all defective rails is now in use on several railroads.

Russia is meeting with considerable success in efforts to utilize the sun's rays for power and heat. Lenses and blackened boilers are used.

A series of tests at Yale University have revealed that apes react to sight and sound as quickly as human children.

EFFECT OF TERRACING MEASURED

During the recent rain that occurred in the Panhandle, 19.3 per cent of the 1.05 inches measured at Goodwell, Oklahoma, was wasted as runoff water from level and unterraced wheat plots, according to Harley A. Daniel, acting director of the experiment station.

The data obtained at the station show that terraced plots held all the water and forced it to soak into the ground at the depth of 15.6 inches, while on the adjacent unterraced area the moisture only penetrated to a depth of 8.3 inches, making a difference of 7.3 inches more moist soil available for plant use. On the terraced and contour listed plots that will be planted to row crops this spring, the moisture had penetrated to a depth of 17 inches, while on the listed plots not contoured the moisture had penetrated to only 10 inches. These data explain very clearly why terracing has increased the crop yield of grain at Goodwell, Oklahoma, 32.8 per cent during the last 9 years.

Listing is a much better method of saving water than level cultivation, but if the field were terraced and contour listed, all the water would be saved from rains not exceeding 2 inches. In a contour listed field each furrow acts as an individual terrace, holding the water where it falls and distributing it evenly over the field. Instead of having 10 inches of moist soil from a one-inch rain, the farmer will have 17 inches.

These are some of the principals that H. H. Finnell has applied in the wind erosion contour project at Dalhart. Director Daniel visited the Dalhart project last week. He announced that where the land was terraced there was no blowing during the severe dust storms that occurred recently. The principals applied at this project are absolutely sound and the farmer who terraces his land and follows moisture conservation practices in the high plains will in the future be repaid for his work many, many times.—Pampa Daily News.

FINAL CHAPTER SPRINGS SURPRISE

Dr. Warren Pearsons, formerly professor of economics at Harvard, has completed a survey of the domestic electric rates charged by public and private plants. The purpose of the survey was to find out which charged the lowest rates.

He compared 290 municipal plants with 290 private plants similarly situated.

He found that, on the average, the bill for a monthly consumption of 60 kilowatt hours is $3.59 in the case of public plants, and $3.77 for the private plants.

That looks like a victory for the municipal ownership advocates.

However, there's a final chapter to the story. The private electric systems pay heavy taxes—public systems are tax exempt.

Consequently, in order to make the comparison accurate, Dr. Persons allowed for the taxes paid by the private plants.

As a result, if private plants could take money they now give the tax collector and apply it all to reducing rates to domestic consumers, their charge for 60 kilowatt hours would average $2.45—$1.14 less than the public plants which pay no taxes.

The public ownership advocates will have a hard time laughing that off.—Industrial Record.

Banking strength is the combination of a sound ratio of assets to liabilities, capital sensibly invested and a conservative policy of skilled management. True banking strength is none of these things alone, yet all of them. No single attribute alone makes for financial imprudence. That results, rather, from a fusing of them into the structure, direction and operation of a given bank.

More Contestants Chosen for Meet

The editors of the Broncho Range have received some last minute news of contestants that have been picked to represent this school in the County Interscholastic League Meet this weekend. The local contestants for the athletic contests, track, tennis, and volley-ball appear in this week's Socratese of Sports column. In the declamation elimination last week at the Junior High, Rosalyn Bass won first place and Grace Hardie second place in the senior girls division. There was no elimination in the boys division, because there was only one contestant, R. Y. Bigham.

Mr. Kerby has announced that the typing team will be composed of Eloise Hill, John Lott and Viola Barker, with Lowell LaFon, Hulda Jo Cauthen and Rosa Ada Reid as the alternate team. In ready writing, Beatrice Garmon has been selected as the local representative and Margaret Hillman as alternate.

Senior Personalities

Billy Gamblin is a cheerful fellow who is liked by his student associates very much, and the seniors are proud to have him in their graduating class. Billy is a blonde with blue eyes. Among other studies he takes to Agriculture, which is a strong favorite.

Robert Hott is a dark, quiet boy who is attending school in Clarendon for the first time. Robert's favorite pastime is horseback riding. He is very well liked and is the chief entertainer for the Ford Fall of Chamberlain students who drive in each morning.

Wilfred Hott can sing, but few of his classmates know he leads singing conventions in his native community, Chamberlain. He is quiet and dark like his cousin, Robert, and he has many friends. His favorite date just now is a blonde junior girl who is a dilly.

Beatrice Garmon has been described in the "Can You Guess" column as attractive, being a good sport, and having dark curly hair. Besides these characteristics, Beatrice has a flair for doing things artistically. When she wants to, she writes clever themes and newspaper articles. On the Range staff she is reporter of assemblies.

Mary Graham is small, slender, and a peppy sportswoman. Her family lives at Ashtola, but Mary stays in town to be near school and have more time for volley ball and other activities. On the volley ball team this year she is a star player. This is her first

The biggest yearly event of the Donley county schools, the County Interscholastic League Meet, will be held this week-end, beginning Thursday night, March 28. Schools will be turned out on Friday all over the county so that all students will be able to attend and participate in the Meet.

At 7:00 p. m., Thursday the Junior Declamation and Extemporaneous Speech contests will be held. Friday morning at 10:00 o'clock junior and senior tennis, picture memory, and wild flower contests will be held. The program for Friday afternoon includes volley ball, boys and girls playground ball at 1:00 o'clock, and tiny tot and second-third grade story telling at 2:00 o'clock. At 7:00 p. m. the senior declamation and debate contests will be held in the college auditorium. The contests on Friday morning will be spelling and arithmetic at 9:00 a. m.; senior debate finals at 10:00, and essay writing and typewriting at 11:00 a. m.

Saturday afternoon will be given over entirely to track events. A complete list of these events will not be printed here since a complete list of them was printed in The Clarendon News two weeks ago, and they are all listed on the programs which have been printed for the event.

All the teachers in the local schools attended the Teachers Convention in Canyon Friday.

Among those who went to Hedley Saturday night to appear in "A Bold Front," were Paul Greene, Willard Hudson, Alex Cooke, Dorothy Jo Ryan, Eugenia Noland, Emmalee Johnson and Frances Sanford.

year in this school, and she has lots of friends among the student body.

Frank Holtzclaw was the football player who made some valuable touchdowns for the Bronchos last fall. This spring he is taking track and is a fast sprinter. He, himself, is well liked by everybody, although at present two girls happen to be fighting for his attentions.

Helen Louise Green probably got her nickname, "Pig," because of her innate fondness for eating. Pig dresses nicely, wears glasses, and is in that circle of senior girls who always has a good time. She is well known for her unexpected and amusing remarks in any dignified surroundings, such as church and arithmetic class. She was chosen an alternate in the Interscholastic spelling contest to be held this week.

Eloise Hill is a versatile girl who is trying to bring honor to the high school by being an expert typist and a convincing debater in the Interscholastic meet. Eloise is tall, has brown hair, and dresses attractively. She likes to write, and through her efforts and ability she won the position of assistant editor of the school page this year.

Speakers Selected For Commencement

Early this week Mr. Drennan announced that speakers have been secured for the high school and college graduation exercises in May. Dr. Knapp, president of Texas Tech at Lubbock, will deliver the address to the college graduates. S. H. Condron, formerly Dean of the old Clarendon College and now head of the Government department of West Texas State Teachers College at Canyon, will be the speaker for the high school graduates. Reverend Landreth of the local First Methodist Church will deliver the baccalaureate sermon to all three of the local graduating classes.

Very Personal

Red Skins are not Indians in this school. When any of the students (may I call them that) think of red skins, they immediately think of the sunburned tennis players. Lowell LaFon is one of the best examples of this class. He looks as if he is blushing, but he can explain it.

During the laboratory tests last week in home ec, many mistakes were made. Thyra Haley and Avis Lee made muffins out of a pancake recipe and Kathleen Oden made pancakes out of a muffin recipe.

I'll bet no one knew that Clarendon has an Einstein or whoever it was that originated geometry, right here in school. Billy Johnson has proved (to his satisfaction at least) that the man that said that "the square on the hypotenuse is equal to the sum of the squares on the other two sides" was wrong. He would find that out after Miss Howren has taught us wrong.

Since the spring is officially here now, the high school girls thoughts turn lightly (?) to clothes. Those who had print dresses, etc., left from last summer are thankfully digging them out of trunks or closets, letting out hems and making other alterations so that they can put them and wear them to school where they are now in the height of fashion.

Cheerful Chatter

OIL TESTER DEMONSTRATED TO C. J. C. CHEMISTRY CLASS

The college chemistry class was given a very interesting and informing demonstration by Mr. A. L. Chase, local oil agent, last Monday at the regular chemistry period.

By use of a small apparatus, dubbed a "nutcracker," Mr. Chase definitely proved that a new patented essence gave the best grade lubricating oil a much superior film strength and oiliness. The small machine used in this experiment was patterned after the Almen machine, an expensive device used in chemical laboratories for testing of film strength and oiliness of lubricating oils. As Mr. Chase stated, the discovery of the formula for this essence has made possible an efficient grade of oil that is necessary for the high speed motors of today and those of the future.

Mr. Chase's demonstration and lecture was interesting and very much appreciated by the class.

comes an abundance of sunshine, small breezes, and spring fever. Those who used to nod in class are snoring outright, and girls who used to roll their hose now wear anklets.

The "Can You Guess" author wants to tell Wee Willie that writing "Senior Personalities" is a whole of a task, and besides running both these features would be raving repetition.

To my amazement I heard the other day that a girl is wearing the ring of a boy who married not long ago. Well, I investigated, and she is not, although I couldn't ascertain whether the ring is in her possession.

Assembly Program Given by Students

Assembly was held at the usual time last Thursday afternoon during the fifth period in the auditorium. After the group singing of several songs, a short but unusually good program was presented. The student body and faculty were surprised to find that Charlie Word, high school senior, has one of the best tenor voices in the school. He first sang "Hands Across the Table," and for an encore he sang another popular selection, "June in January." He was accompanied at the piano by Arthur Chase. Next came two delightful clarinet solos, "Polka Brillante" by Strawn, and

"Flower Song" by Lange, played by Hubert Reavis, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Wilkerson.

The seniors are to present the program next student day, and a good one is anticipated.

FORD V-8

In A Class By Itself

THERE is no way to compare the Ford V-8 with any other car because there is no other car like it.

The Ford enables you to step up into the fine-car class in performance, beauty, comfort and safety. But there is no stepping up in price. That is kept down by Ford low-profit policies and unique manufacturing methods. These are as different as the car itself.

It takes eight cylinders to give the modern performance you need these days. The Ford is powered by a V-8 — the finest type of eight-cylinder engine. You have to pay more than $2000 for that in any other car.
