DO WE WANT TO KEEP THE HOSPITAL?

On the front page of this issue of The News appears a statement by the county commissioners court in regard to the Adair Hospital. The hospital, a gift of the late Mrs. C. Adair, is an institution that has been of untold benefit to the community, and every effort should be made to keep it here and keep it operating.

The county commissioners court, in an effort to keep the hospital going, had agreed to pay the deficit that was shown at the hospital each month. During the past five years the demand for charity has, according to the commissioners' statement, increased more than 500 per cent. Naturally, this can not be expected to continue. The county is not in a position to expend consistently large sums on the maintenance of the hospital, and unless citizens who have occasion to use the hospital are more conscientious of their obligations, the fact that the hospital may have to be closed is evident.

The hospital is NOT a county hospital. It is not the duty of the county commissioners to keep it going and property owners in the county have not been burdened with an added tax levy for the purpose of operating the hospital. It seems that quite a number of people have deduced that it IS a county hospital, that it is to be financed by the county, and that they are not obligated to pay their hospital bills. This, emphatically, is not the case, and unless patrons of the hospital realize this fact we are in danger of one of two things: Losing the hospital or having an additional tax levy placed on all county property to pay for its maintenance.

The commissioners are to be commended on their loyal efforts in this matter. They have made every effort to keep the hospital, an institution essential to the well-being of the county, open to care for the sick and injured. But the limit has been reached. The citizens of the community must recognize their responsibility in this matter if the hospital is to continue in operation. They must PAY THEIR BILLS!

Do we want to keep the hospital or not? Think it over!

"WE MISS YOU, DADDY"

The following editorial was printed in the Rockville, Connecticut, Journal, about a year ago. Thereafter, to the editor's surprise, it was reprinted by most of the other papers of the state, and was used by highway safety officials, insurance companies, accident prevention organizations, motorists' publications and by others who are fighting the great war against the toll of automobile deaths. Here it is—and any motorist will surely think twice about taking chances after reading it:

"Tuesday morning there was a fatal accident on the Minterburn Hill and when the medical examiner was going through the pockets of the dead man... a telegram was found. It was not very long, just the ordinary ten-word length, but it was a message that would make any father happy. It read: We miss you, daddy. When are you coming home? That was all. It was a message sent by one of the children of the man who was killed. He had received the message and was homeward bound. The clothes were minus money, but in his pocket he carried that message.

"Those who have little children and those who were once little children, can think of the great blow to the child when the father did return home—dead.

"Daddy" will be missed by those children in the long years ahead. No longer will they have his support, his earnings and most important, his companionship.

"If ever there was a reason for people driving more carefully on the road, it is that they might get in an accident and deprive their own child or some other child of their 'Daddy.'

"More might be written, but just let us repeat those words: 'We miss you daddy. When are you coming home?'"

COTTON FORECAST

A United States cotton crop 400,000 bales above the collective trade guess will need the ministrations of the Federal Government's great credit agencies to protect the farmer. With consumption of American cotton throughout the world (excepting 1930-31) lowest since 1923-24, the outlook is not brightened by a forecast of 11,798,000 bales, compared with last season's 9,731,000. The Texas part of this increased production of above 2,000,000 bales for the South as a whole is placed at 1,450,000 or a gross production for this state of 3,851,000 bales, compared with 2,407,000 (500-pound) bales.

It should be remembered that the federal crop estimating machinery works slowly, though thoroughly, and it is certain that the existing heavy insect infestation and mounding damage to the crop cannot have been taken into full account at the time the forecast was prepared. In other words, unless excessive temperatures continue for several weeks checking leafworms, bollworms, weevils and flea hoppers effectively, serious deterioration of the crop might ensue. Certainly a change to showery weather and increased humidity would take a heavy toll of the present fair to good prospects.

The cotton crop condition from here on doubtless will be the prime factor in establishing its market value because of the lateness of cotton as a whole in all parts of this great cotton empire. For this reason biggest news will not necessarily be what the Federal Government does about crop loans or bale tags but the condition of the cotton plant itself. The Dallas News' Friday cotton condition reports should prove of timely value to all those interested in what Texas' chief agricultural commodity will do between now and general picking time. These reports for more than two months have carefully reported spread of cotton insects and their control either artificially or naturally. Subsequent county by county reports should be equally valuable.—Semi-Weekly Farm News.

CHURCH CHATS

"NEUTRALITY"

Not always, in the ordinary affairs of life, is it necessary to take sides. There are unimportant matters in connection with which neutrality is advisable. To take sides would promote disunion. Too often one meets with persons who will be heard on every question; to them, silence is always out of the question; they never dream of heeding the command to be "slow to speak." Consequently, they unnecessarily create a breach between themselves and others upon trivial questions that do not matter.

In questions of right or wrong, good or evil, neutrality is sinful. A Christian must take up arms against evil, or be counted upon the other side. Yet how often, in order to retain, if possible, everybody's good will, or that one's business may not be interfered with, do men choose to occupy a position of neutrality instead of openly opposing the wrong. It is imperative that Christians should take sides in matters of principle, and unflinchingly stand up for God and right and truth. Such a man loses nothing from man or God in the long run.

"Tell me not of neutrality; it is out of the question. Ah! here is a case of neutrality upon the records of this book: 'Curse ye Meroz;' Why? What had the people done to expose themselves to this bitter malediction? Had they taken up arms against Jehovah? No! Had they gone over to the enemy and fought against the chosen people? No! What, then had they done? NOTHING! Their neutrality was their crime. 'Because they came not to the help of the Lord, to help the Lord against the mighty'—Dr. Newton.

"We are not here to play, to dream, to drift,

We have hard work to do, and loads to lift.

Shun not the struggle; face it, 'tis God's gift.

Be strong."—Selected.

Amendments Are Explained By Mann

PROPOSED AMENDMENT No. 5 Suspended Sentence or Probation Amendment

Proposition Number 5 on the ballot of the August 24th special election reads: "For (and against) the Amendment to the State Constitution authorizing the courts to place defendants on probation." Proponents claim that if this amendment is passed, many who are now sent to the penitentiary for first offenses will be permitted to enjoy suspended sentences under restrictions of the court.

The only restriction under the present suspended sentence law is the fact that the defendant must not be convicted of a felony—that is, a crime punishable by confinement in the penitentiary. The judge or court has no control nor can it set up or impose any other restrictions.

It is the understanding of those who have studied the amendments that if passed it would permit the legislature to pass laws giving the courts the right to suspend sentences and place defendants on such probation as the court might deem proper. In other words the court could suspend sentences subject to certain limitations. If those restrictions or limitations were not observed the court would have the authority to have the defendant committed to the penitentiary without further ado. Many courts now refuse to grant suspended sentences for the reason that they have no control over the defendant after the same is granted. It is pointed out that this would prevent many first offenders from having to go to the penitentiary and reclaim many of them for society.

If a suspended sentence is given under the present law the only limitation is that the defendant must not be convicted of a felony. The court has no control over him nor can it impose other conditions.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT No. 5 Abolishing the Fee System for Paying Officials

Two years ago a senate investigating committee discovered a number of flagrant abuses of the fee system as practiced in Texas for recompensing certain public officials. The fee system was established and written into the Texas Constitution at a time when it was impossible to pay salaries and the theory was that an official was entitled to "all he could make." Since the senate committee discovered and revealed the malpractices existing under the system there has been a demand for a constitutional change on this score, according to Secretary of State Gerald C. Mann.

Proposed Amendment No. 6 on the ballot provides that the fee system as a method of paying certain precinct, county and district officials shall be abolished in counties having 20,000 or more population according to the last federal census. The legislature will, if the amendment is adopted, set the salaries for officials now receiving fees in such counties. In counties of under 20,000 population the commissioners' courts pay put their county and precinct officials on a salary basis if they so desire. The amendment does not specially state who shall set the salaries of such officials in this case.

If this amendment is adopted all district officers must be compensated on a salary basis. The amendment provides that fees shall continue to be collected as at present but they will go to the county instead of the officer. The evident purpose of this amendment is to place as many public officials on straight salaries as is possible and thus abolish, insofar as is possible the payment of official through the present fee system.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO "BREAK IN" THE FORD V-8

You can drive it 50 miles an hour the day you buy it

THE FORD V-8 is ready for normal driving when you buy it. There is no tedious period of breaking-in for 500 or 1000 miles. You can drive it up to 50 miles an hour the first day. And after the first hundred miles you can drive it as fast as you desire.

That means greater motoring enjoyment for every motorist. It is especially important to motorists who are thinking about a new car for a vacation trip—to physicians, salesmen and all those who use a car for business. Instead of dragging along at slow speeds for days, you can make good time from the start.

The reason for this is as important as the result. The Ford V-8 needs no breaking-in because of unusual accuracy in the manufacture of moving parts and the smoothness of bearing surfaces. Clearances are correct when you buy the car. It is not necessary to depend on a long wearing-in period to eliminate tightness and insure smooth running. Longer life, greater economy and better performance are bound to result from such precision methods. The Ford V-8 gives you fine-car construction, along with fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty.

LIBRARY NOTES

(By Mrs. C. A. Burton)

The Book Club has our thanks for two splendid books within the last few days. "A Nest of Simple Folk" by Sean O'Faolain and "Anthony Adverse" by Hervey Allen. While the latter does not lead the best seller lists now, it is still one of them after more than two years.

I have been interested in the "seasonal changes" in reading lately. Our shelves of "Westerns" remain full—it is the busy season for men, and they are not reading much. A little later when the evenings are long, those shelves will be at least half empty all the time. Now the school people are reading "for pleasure" since soon they must be reading "for reports." Over and over comes the request, "Suggest something light and interesting for a hot day"—and I do, with much pleasure, because I have many such. Some of them, however, are already planning for their more serious reading for the winter, so an occasional classic in fiction, a history, a drama, or a volume of poetry is being checked out.

Announcement is made that Sir Philip Gibbs' new novel, "Blood Relations," will be published this fall. Sir Philip Gibbs is the oldest brother of the literary trio composed of Cosmo Hamilton Gibbs, Arthur Hamilton Gibbs, and himself. He was born May 1, 1877, and was married in 1898. His son, Anthony Gibbs, following the traditions of the family, is now a successful young novelist, having published his first book, "Peter Vacuum," in 1925.

Philip Gibbs served as literary editor on London dailies for some years. His name became known on both sides of the Atlantic when he was sent with other newspaper men to Copenhagen to get Dr. Cook's story of his discovery of the North Pole. Gibbs suspected a hoax, and in spite of warnings that he would ruin his future career by challenging the statements of a man of Dr. Cook's standing, he persisted until an official investigation exposed the fraud.

He served as war correspondent during the Balken war in 1912, and when the world war broke out he went as war correspondent, first with the French and Belgian armies, and later with the British armies in the field till the close of the war. As a reward for his brilliant and distinctive service, the British government conferred a title on him in 1920. For the next two years he was editor of The Review of Reviews. Since then he has traveled extensively while continuing writing. He has visited America several times.

Sir Philip and his two brothers, while all literary men, differ widely in appearance and in talents. Philip is a tallish, thin man with a face at once ascetic and gentle. Cosmo Hamilton has the handsomeness, suavity, and urbanity of the polished man about town. A. Hamilton Gibbs resembles Philip more in appearance, but is a more athletic build. Sir Philip's wife says he is one of the most absent-minded men alive—"always losing his money or being robbed; never has any matches, and though he is an inveterate traveler, always forgets to look up a train."

His books include novels, historical studies, and essays. We have three of his novels on our shelves: "The Age of Reason," "The Individualist," and "The Middle of the Road."

A. Hamilton Gibbs lives in the United States. He says he likes "its bigness," and "its breathing space." He had spent some time here before the war, and when the war was over he came back to stay. He married Jeannette Phillips of Lynn, Massachusetts, a young woman who was practicing law in New York and Boston. She, too, has written successful novels. Major Gibbs—he came out of the war a Major—has written four consecutive best sellers, "Soundings," "Labels," "Harness," and "Chances." The first named and the last are on our shelves.

DRY INK
(Number 4)

By E. D. LANDRETH

What would be the status of the liquor laws in Texas in the event the proposed repeal amendment is adopted in the election to be held on August 24? In answer to this question I am glad to quote at length from a recent opinion of Judge Henry Pharr, district attorney, 8th judicial district of Texas.

"Prior to the adoption of the state-wide prohibition amendment and the enactment of the Dean law of 1919, this state sought to control the liquor traffic by what was known as local option by which precincts and counties determined by majority vote whether liquor traffic would be permitted. All prohibition laws, including the local option laws, were repealed by the adoption of the constitutional amendment on May 24, 1919, and were replaced in effect by the passage of the dean law.

"The amendment to be voted on August 24th proposes to repeal section a, b, c, d, and e, the adoption of which proposed repeal amendment by the voters would of course render unconstitutional the dean laws, under which we have operated for the past 16 years.

"The proposed repeal amendment to be voted on August 24 is very adroitly drawn and ingeniously worded, conveying the impression on the mind of the average reader that all that part of Texas which was dry by local option before the adoption of the state-wide prohibition amendment in 1919 would remain dry and would be protected by the local option laws in the event the repeal amendment carries by majority vote.

"In my opinion, this is an entirely erroneous impression and misleading to the casual reader of the election notice as published, whether purposely intended to deceive the voter or not. There is now no local option law and no county, municipality, justice precinct, or political sub-division, which had voted dry by local option could claim protection from any phase of the liquor business in the event the repeal amendment carries, with the exception that it would be unlawful to sell beer in certain local option territory, not over 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight.

The legislature which submitted the proposed repeal amendment to be voted upon August 24, having adjourned its regular session without having passed any penal statute to become operative should repeal carry, therefore on and after August 25 there would be no statute under which any person of any age or sex could be punished for manufacturing, selling, transporting, or pursuing any phase of the liquor business anywhere in the state of Texas, provided its alcoholic content was over 3.2 per cent.

"Just think how ridiculous and laughable the situation would be in what was formerly local option territory, it being an offence to sell beer not over 3.2 per cent and no penal law applicable provided alcohol content was over 3.2 per cent.

"I recognize that it is possible for the legislature to be concerned in special session and that it then could enact laws to protect dry territory, but we must recognize some of the difficulties that would be encountered in so doing. As now constituted, the prevailing sentiment of the 44th legislature seems to be concedely wet, and if repeal carries would not the legislature be warranted in considering that as an expression of the will of the people and a mandate of them to throw the state wide open. Moreover, most every special session lasts for a period of 30 days, and unless a bill in the legislature passes each house by a two-thirds majority record vote, the bill cannot become a law for a period of ninety days after the legislature adjourns.

Therefore it is apparent that if the repeal amendment should carry on August 24, it would be a period of at least 120 days from the opening of the session that there would be no law in the state of Texas with a penalty attached to it prohibiting the traffic in intoxicating liquors (provided it was over 3.2 per cent). During this period of time any person could pursue the liquor business at any place in the state of Texas without facing possible prosecution."

I do not feel that the above described situation is what the people of Texas want, and if this opinion is correct, then the promise that the saloon shall not return means less and less. Surely we shall not destroy our state constitutional prohibition and invite chaos.

a 3 week test MAKES YOU LIFELONG FRIENDS!

Meet Good Gulf!
If you haven't had Gulf gas in your tank lately, try it just 3 weeks and discover what it can do.

Then see if you don't agree with an army of amateur "testers"...

750 said "Put 'er there" 750 car owners agreed to fill their tanks with Gulf for 3 weeks—to check it against their regular brands for (1) mileage, (2) starting, (3) pick-up, (4) power, (5) all-around performance.

Result: Pals for Life
At the end of 3 weeks, 7 out of 10 owners found Gulf better in one or more of the 5 points—many on all five.

Why? That's easy! Gulf is 5 good gasolines in one. Controlled refining gives it not only 2 or 3, but all five ideal gasoline qualities.

Try That Good Gulf Gasoline—and you'll stick to it for good!
