State honors the Tate Place

Former site of Old Settlers Reunion in same family for 102 years

The Tate Place northeast of Hedley was one of 91 farms and ranches to be recognized by the state this summer for having been operated by the same family for more than 100 years.

Working the land has been a family tradition for generations of Texans. To honor this longstanding Texas custom, Agriculture Commissioner Todd Staples has recognized 91 farms and ranches, spanning 66 Texas counties, at the 35th Annual Family Land Heritage (FLH) ceremony.

The ceremony, which was held in the Senate Chamber at the Texas State Capitol, recognized families who have kept their farms and ranches in continuous agricultural production for 100 years or more.

"The families we honor today continue their ancestors' legacies of nurturing and caring for the land," Commissioner Staples said. "They truly represent the dreams of the pioneers who entered the Texas frontier and built the family farms and ranches that endure to this day. I congratulate these families for making Texas a leader in agriculture."

T.B. Tate, born in North Carolina, settled in central Texas, and then moved to Indian Territory in search of a Chickasaw allotment. After learning there was no Indian land, he followed friends to Donley County and acquired the Tate Place in 1908. He and his wife, Mary Jane Gibson Tate, reared 12 children: Will, Mary, Carlos, Margaret, Caroline, Estella, Martha, Agnes, Thomas, Zack, John, Lilla and Ervin. Thomas died in his home on the Tate Place in 1923 and is buried in Rowe Cemetery at Hedley along with his wife and three of his children.

Thomas Zack and his brother, John Morgan, acquired the Tate

Place after their father's will was probated in 1925 and continued to raise cotton and grain. John rented another place which he eventually purchased and sold his portion of the Tate Place to his brother, Thomas Zack in 1947. Tom and his wife Myrtle reared their children on the home place: Orval Winfred, Tommy Dean and Juan Nell. Both sons served in World War II and died within nine months of each other in 1960 and 1961. They are buried at Rowe Cemetery in Hedley.

In 1968, Tom and Myrtle Tate sold the Tate Place to their only surviving child, Juan Nell Tate Carson. Juan Nell and her husband, Billy Don Carson continue to raise cattle and grain. They have two children, Patricia Susan Carson Cosby and Thomas Clark Carson.

Tom Tate loved the good earth. He farmed his land, the land that belonged to his father, and tended his orchards and crops with the greatest care and energy. Very few weeds escaped the wrath of his hoe, honed knife-blade thin through constant use and sharpening. He plowed, pruned, weeded, transplanted hundreds or tree spouts and watered them by carrying five gallon buckets of water sometimes a quarter mile or further. He made the old home place veritable garden spot.

Tom Tate was laid to rest in the old Rowe Cemetery on Sunday, October 14, 1979. Ironically, his death and burial occurred on the very weekend of Hedley's Annual Cotton Festival, the event that merged with the Old Settler's Reunion held originally on the Tate Place.

To date, TDA has recognized more than 4,400 properties in 236 counties across Texas. Since the FLH program was started, Fayette County has had 145 family operations recognized, the most out of any county. This is the first year the FLH program recognized landowners in Lamb County.

Cowboy poet and entertainer Red Steagall performed at the ceremony. Ron Oliveira, KEYE TV news anchor, served as master of ceremonies.

New city secretary at Hedley resigns

The City of Hedley hired and lost a new city secretary in less than a week as officials there continue the search for Randy Shaw's successor.

The Board of Aldermen met in a called session Tuesday, July 20, and hired Bill Farris to replace Shaw, who is leaving the city July 31 after 19 years. Farris began work the next day, but City Hall reports that he quit two days later on Friday.

"I guess it was more than he could handle or expected," Mayor Dusty Wilkinson told the Enterprise.

Hedley Aldermen are scheduled to meet this Thursday night, July 29, at 7 p.m. for the purpose of hiring someone. Wilkinson said it is very important a decision be made and that someone is hired who has a commercial driver's license (CDL).

"Randy's last day is Friday," the mayor said. "We have to have someone who can drive the trash truck on Monday."

Wilkinson said if no one is hired this week, the city will make arrangements to make sure the trash is picked up.

Hedley does have two new employees this week. Holly McCleskey and Jason Conatser began work this week as the incoming city clerk and maintenance worker. They will replace Rhonda Shaw and Roger Hager, who are following Randy Shaw's exit.

Local man dies after truck rolls

A single-vehicle accident in Collingsworth County claimed the life of a local man Friday afternoon.

Sean P. Campbell, a 22-year-old ranch hand from Clarendon, died at the scene of the accident, according to Texas Department of Public Safety Trooper Daniel Hawthorne.

Campbell was westbound on FM 1056 at 3:18 p.m. eight miles west of Wellington approaching FM 1547 and was entering a curve in a 2000 Chevrolet pickup when he crossed the center line and left the roadway. The DPS said Campbell overcorrected, which caused the pickup to roll, partially ejecting the driver. He was not wearing a seat-belt.

Collingsworth County Justice of the Peace Jo Rita Henard pronounced Campbell dead at 3:59.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Church of the Nazarene in Clarendon. Graveside services were held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Citizens Cemetery.

Survivors include his mother LaDonna Campbell of Farmers Branch, his father and step-mother Ed and Marsha Campbell of Wellington; grandparents Barbara Hewett of Clarendon, and Jack and Dana Campbell of Farmington, N.M.; aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends.

Memorials may be made to the Clarendon College RFO Program.

History can tell the outcome of Obamanomics

By Dr. Mark W. Hendrickson

The grand lesson of the 20th century is that Big Government retards economic progress.

The evidence of this lesson goes beyond the socialist countries and their dramatic economic failures. Several decades ago, as a young economist, I encountered repeated studies that showed a high correlation between two macroeconomic phenomena: The larger the government's share of a country's GDP, the slower the rate of economic growth tended to be. Conversely, economic growth flourished where government was relatively small.

Many Americans seemed, and still seem, impervious to this lesson despite our own history. The same correlation was evident in the 1920s, when President Harding cut the size of federal spending in half, leading to a decade of prosperity, and in the 1930s, when the economy tanked under Presidents Hoover and Roosevelt and their huge expansions of government.

Despite this clear historical evidence, President Obama is committed to growing government. He has increased federal spending to over 27 percent of GDP, up from 20.5 percent when George W. Bush left office.

Obama indisputably favors the public sector over the private. When Michelle Obama gave her famous speech a couple of years ago, urging young people to avoid working for profit-seeking (i.e., private) companies, she was doing more than simply expressing an opinion: She articulated her husband's agenda.

It started on day one, when Obama staffed his cabinet and other top positions in his administration with a record-low percentage of people with private-sector experience—fewer than 10 percent (the historical average is near 40 percent).

Since then, he has consistently worked to bring more and more people onto the government payroll. He increased the number of paid positions in AmeriCorps by 224 percent; Teach for America by 94 percent; Peace Corps, 24 percent. The health-insurance bill created dozens of new agencies. The just-passed financial reform bill creates a new bureaucracy with an initial budget of nearly a billion dollars per year.

One source recently reported that Team Obama is revoking contracts with private firms and transferring the work to government employees. The government even hires former employees of the private contractors, giving them significant pay-and-benefit hikes. That may be good for them, but at a time of record budget deficits, finding ways to increase the costs of government doesn't make economic sense.

In his compact 1944 classic, Bureaucracy, economist Ludwig von Mises explained why bureaucracies are inherently uneconomical. Whether under socialist or democratic governments, bureaucracies are not disciplined by the profit-loss calculus. Insulated from the competitive marketplace, they become bloated and inefficient.

When private businesses serve customers poorly, their revenues decline. If their losses are severe enough, they fold. Exactly the opposite happens with bureaucracies. If they fail to get the job done, Congress typically appropriates more funds for them. We saw this with FEMA after Hurricane Katrina, and the same dynamic will play out with Obamacare, too, unless it is repealed. It's the nature of the beast.

No society can afford to bear the costs of many bureaucracies. As much as Obama prefers government workers, most people need to be in the private sector generating the wealth that government appropriates for bureaucratic functions.

This implies that Obama has veered down a dead-end detour. He wants government agencies to be in charge of this, that, and the other thing, but how can we pay for it all? A bureau-centric policy agenda inevitably impedes economic growth.

Obamanomics, in short, ignores two economic truths: Expanding government's share of GDP cripples economic growth. So does a proliferation of new government bureaucracies. From this we may predict that Obama's policies will saddle us with continuing economic sluggishness.

Given that Americans tend to replace presidents when the economy is struggling, can we predict that Obama will be a one-term president? I don't think so. The presidential campaign of 2012 could be a repeat of 1936 (FDR's first run for re-election). The historical record shows that many voters in 1936 were disappointed about the terrible shape of the overall economy after four years of New Deal programs. Many who were unhappy about the economy voted for Roosevelt anyhow. Why? Because they were benefiting personally from his massive spending programs.

Obama's stimulus plan has been and will continue to be spent in ways that benefit targeted groups. His recent request for another $50 billion to give to teachers, firefighters, and police (traditionally, these have been locally funded public employees, and therefore independent of Washington) is just one example of Obama's politically strategic spending.

Obama has ignored the economic lessons of history, but he has taken to heart the political lesson of FDR's formula for electoral success. It would be prudent and timely for us citizens to grasp both the economic and political lessons of our history.

Texas looks great after Canada trip

My sister, Cenda, and I are fans of taking ridiculously long trips for short periods of time. Generally, we have a car full of strollers and a couple of screaming toddlers that make the trip even more delightful. But this past weekend we left the girls behind to take the longest/shortest trip of our lives.

My sister, the photographer, was booked for a wedding in Canada. When I heard about the trip, I immediately told her to sign me up. She claims that I "help" her, but really I'm just a wedding crasher.

When I shelled out the money for my plane ticket, I was promised an amazing time; four days, a trip to Toronto and Niagara Falls, a night out, all I could drink at the open bar, free food, and so forth.

Unfortunately plans changed. We left Canyon at 4:15 Friday morning to catch our flight into Memphis, TN, there we boarded a flight to Detroit, MI, and then hopped on another plane to Buffalo, NY. According to plan, we were supposed to meet the bride, groom, and their families in Niagara Falls; but thanks to a weather delay in Detroit, they went without us.

We left Buffalo and drove across the border. According to plan, I was now promised a night out but, of course, everyone including us was exhausted so we went to sleep instead.

Saturday was hectic to say the least. The wedding began at 2 p.m., the reception began at 6 p.m. and didn't end until at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. According to plan, Cenda and I were supposed to stay another day, but we couldn't get a flight out so we had to book it back across the border and catch a flight at 9:40 Sunday morning.

Let's just say that the flights were less than enjoyable with my sister being pregnant and having a combination of morning and motion sickness and me being a wee bit hung-over from the free bar. Hey, I had to take advantage of it given that everything else promised to me had been a complete letdown.

After a little over 20 hours in airports and planes, one day in Canada, $350 I'll never see again, and seeing my sister throw up more than I ever needed to see, I was beyond ecstatic to be back on the ground in Texas.

Safe ports key to national security

Often, homeland security is thought of in terms of protecting the physical borders that run between the United States and our neighbors. However, we must not overlook the critical importance of maritime ports to our nation's safety. Both because they serve as gateways into the United States and because they facilitate much of our nation's international trade, American ports are potentially vulnerable spots that must be carefully guarded.

The U.S. maritime transportation system is a vital asset to our national economy, and it employs over 13 million American workers. There are more than 300 ports dotted along the Atlantic, Pacific, and Gulf Coasts of the United States. Some 2 billion tons of domestic, import and export cargo pass along their docks and through their waterways each year. This commercial activity contributes to $742 billion to the U.S. gross domestic product.

In Texas, there are 28 seaports from Houston and Galveston down to Brownsville, including three of the busiest ports in the United States. Our state's economy depends on the viability of this maritime transport system. Each year, over 500 million tons of cargo move through Texas seaports. This flow of commerce keeps more than a million Texans employed and accounts for over $180 billion in revenue. The products of Texas farms and ranches pass through these portals as they are shipped to marketplaces across the globe. Ports also facilitate the import and export of many other products vital to Texas' economy, including petroleum and chemical supplies, electronics and machinery, dairy products, fertilizers, and more.

The Port of Houston, a 25 mile complex comprised of the Port Authority of Houston and more than 150 private industrial companies, ranks first in foreign waterborne tonnage and leads the nation in U.S. imports. It also houses one of the world's largest petrochemical complexes as well as part of the Strategic Petroleum Reserve. Houston shipping channel businesses account for almost 800,000 jobs and have an economic impact of nearly $120 billion. Because these ports are so valuable, we must ensure their security. One terrorist incident at a U.S. port could result in a significant loss of American life, impact surrounding coastal communities, and catastrophically affect our nation's economy. The Brookings Institution recently estimated that if terrorists detonated a weapon of mass destruction at an American port, besides the devastating loss of life, it would cost the U.S. economy a crippling $1 trillion.

One important way we are working to keep seaports safe is through the Port Security Grant Program, which helps our nation's ports assess security risks and make preparations for emergencies or attacks. Since 2002, Texas has received over $200 million in competitive Port Security Grants, primarily to secure petrochemical facilities.

In 2006, I sponsored the SAFE Port Act, sweeping port security legislation that the full Senate passed and was signed into law. The bill authorized random inspection of containers, established minimum standards and procedures for security containers in transit to the United States, and implemented an improved container targeting system. I also added an amendment, which became law, to add hundreds more Customs and Border Protection officers to inspect incoming shipments.

On September 30, 2010, many of the critical provisions that have helped American ports operate safely for the past four years will expire. As the senior Republican on the Senate Commerce Committee, I have begun work with my colleagues to reauthorize those expiring provisions and explore new ways to bolster the security of our nation's seaports. As we undertake this critical task, I hope we can work cooperatively with the Department of Homeland Security, including the Coast Guard and Customs and Border Protection, with state and local governments, and with key industry stakeholders to put systems in place that will preserve ports' security and viability.

Some argue that U.S. presence overseas provides assurance to our allies and deterrence to our adversaries. History has shown otherwise. Russia did not hesitate to conduct military operations against Georgia in 2008. Having troops in South Korea did not deter North Korean aggression against a South Korean naval vessel last May. We should assure our allies and deter our enemies with strong military capabilities and sound policy, not merely by keeping our troops stationed overseas.

American seaports are essential to our long-term economic growth. We must ensure that they have the resources to meet the homeland security challenges of the 21st century.

Howardwick cracks down to clean up city

The City of Howardwick is cracking down on unsightly properties in an ongoing effort to clean up the town.

Mayor Del Essary is credited as the driving force to make Howardwick look better, but several city officials and volunteers are also involved in the effort.

"It's been bad for a long time," Alderman Tanis McMorries said of junk properties, which usually belong to absentee landowners. "We're tired of it and just trying to do something about it."

City Hall gave public notice in last week's ENTERPRISE to the owners of 17 properties where buildings have been determined as unsafe.

Property owners must restore, demolish, or remove the buildings or the city will do it and attach a lien to the property.

City officials say the property owners have 30 days to take action or they can attend a public hearing on August 10 and ask for an extension.

McMorries said the city currently collects $12 per month for trash service, and it will ask residents to make donations on top of that to help with the clean up.

Volunteers will also be utilized to mow, clean, and fix up where elderly residents may be physically unable to do the work.

Howardwick is no stranger to volunteer efforts. Donated manpower is already used at the park and to repair streets.

"We had 12 mowers at the park recently, and we have several people who help work on potholes," McMorries said.

The Clarendon Lions Club held its regular Tuesday noon meeting with Boss Lion Roger Estlack ringing the bell.

We had 17 members; Lion Sweethearts Annie Patten and Ashlyn Tubbs; and two guests this week. Scarlet and Nathan Estlack were the guests of Lion Russell Estlack.

Lion Burlin reported a great turnout for the Summer Celebration last Thursday and reminded everyone that Kid Fish will be held August 21 at Kincaid Park. Lion Ashlee Estlack said the college will be registering for the fall semester August 23 and 24.

Lion Betts said Greenbelt Lake's elevation has started to decline again, but before it came up another foot, bringing the total gain to about four feet since December.

Clarendon makes hooking up water lines top priority

Tying in new waterlines is a priority for city crews, Interim City Administrator Phyllis Jeffers told Clarendon Aldermen during a called meeting last Tuesday, July 20.

New lines in the west side of town were put in the dirt about three years ago, but none were connected until the new water tower was completed earlier this year. Many residences still have yet to be connected to the new lines.

The lines have to be proven free of any contaminants before they can be hooked up.

"We're waiting for test results to come back before we can tie the rest of them in," Jeffers told the board.

Jeffers said once the tests prove the lines are ready, tying them in will be the city's focus and that city crews will not come off that mission except to deal with emergencies.

In other city business, the board discussed its 2010 seal coat plan. Jeffers said the city engineer reports that the estimated cost of seal coating is $2.04 per yard compared to the $1.70 that was expected.

That increased the cost of the proposed work by $13,000 and meant that the city can only afford to do nine blocks this year, Jeffers told the board.

"That's an insult to the people to do that few blocks for that much money," Alderman Larry Hicks said.

Alderman Will Thompson warned that the cost will just increase as time goes by and urged his fellow board members to "look for the future." Mayor Chris Ford agreed and said the city needs to do some seal coating every year to not get further behind.

No action was taken on the seal coating. Aldermen will meet again in called session August 3.

The board also discussed moving its meetings to the Burton Memorial Library so that the present board room in City Hall can be converted to office space for the city secretary and the municipal court.

Jeffers discussed the need for more storage to safely keep permanent records of the city and other needs for space.

"Are we outgrowing City Hall?" Alderman Thompson asked.

"Very much so," Jeffers said.

SEAL THAT CHIP BEFORE IT SPLITS!

Clarendon Church of Christ 'Friend, why have you come?'

This was the question Jesus posed to Judas after being kissed and identified as Rabbi (Matt. 26:50). Did that question prick Judas' heart? The Lord didn't struggle against the men as they laid their hands on them. He told Peter to put his sword away and healed the man that Peter had struck. Our Savior must have hurt inside when Judas betrayed Him! The question He asked was rhetorical as he knew Judas' thoughts. "Friend, why have you come?"

How many times has the Lord asked this question of many? Many people "play" religion but never commit to the Lord. Dressed in their Sunday best, many come to hear the preacher for less than an hour and for the rest of the week live for the Devil. "Friend, why have you come?"

Many a man has faced death and during this perilous time decided to "get religion." During his troubled times he makes many promises to the Lord and asks for many prayers. He turns the corner on his illness and begins once again to turn away from God. He becomes completely well and now reverts back to a life of Godlessness. "Friend, why have you come?" Why bother in the first place?

Recently, I studied with some men in jail who asked for prayers and Bibles. Of course we're glad to come when we are asked to. We set up some Bible studies, distributed Bibles and left stamped envelopes so they could correspond. We gave them our phone numbers so they could keep in touch. Both men were released soon after my visits. Haven't heard from them since. The Lord asks, "Friend, why have you come?"

God has never needed nor wanted "part-time" help. He doesn't want "week-end" warriors. He needs and wants faithful followers who serve "unto death" (Rev. 2:10). Death bed and jailhouse "conversions" and once a week worshippers are usually fooling themselves. While a mere human can't judge their hearts, the Lord can just as He did with Judas. The Lord may ask on the Day of Judgement, "Friend, why did you come?" What will their answer be?

Let us not fool ourselves as well. God is not mocked! God seeks the pure in heart and the humble. He wants people who are living faithfully for Him and trying to share the Good News with others. All of us need to ask ourselves, from time to time, "Friend, why have you come?" I pray that we all are able to answer that in a way that satisfies the Lord. We may be asked that question one day.

Howardwick volunteers help fix up our town

The street pot holes are being patched, and once again we have volunteers to thank for that hot, hard work. It appears they are patching the most traveled roads, and that is a very good thing. Now two cars can meet on a street knowing you won't hit a big hole.

The volunteer work doesn't stop there. We have mowers in the park and volunteers mowing street right-of ways and around public buildings and the trash area. You are all appreciated, thank you for all your work.

If you have complained about all the unsafe, ugly, animal infested, falling down, abandoned houses in Howardwick and asked why they were allowed to remain, a public hearing will be held August 10 at City Hall at 7 p.m. to discuss this problem.

You may read the article in the July 22 edition of the ENTERPRISE under "legal notice" with the complete listing of all 16 condemned properties.

Tearing these down and hauling them off will again require volunteers, but it will be well worth it. Mark your calendar for Aug 10 and show your support for this project.

Ole Jim and I enjoyed the Summer Celebration in Clarendon last week.

Which reminds me, Howardwick will be holding the second annual festival in the park on August 21. There will be more information later.

saga of the cardinals in my yard, you know mama built her second nest of the season in the sand cherry bush in my front yard about July 1. She sat on that nest during all the rain, endured the children playing and the men tossing horse shoes, endless mowing, and other distractions. We knew it was time for babies so Jim took a peek in the nest. It was empty and never had an egg in it. He came in the house shaking his head saying "we had a false pregnancy."

Mom and Dad cardinal are still around but no babies. Maybe next time. What a letdown.

Extension Service facing job losses

COLLEGE STATION - Officials have completed the difficult task of notifying employees whose jobs with the Texas AgriLife Extension Service will end between now and Oct. 31.

The personnel cutback affects 94 jobs - 31 vacant positions that will not be filled and 63 occupied positions that will be eliminated agency-wide. The downsizing results from a 5 percent state budget reduction, according to Dr. Ed Smith, AgriLife Extension director.

Leaders of the state agency, which has offices in 250 Texas counties, said their decisions were based on maintaining core programs statewide.

AgriLife Extension is part of a national community-based adult and youth education system.

"We delayed restructuring as long as we could, because we hoped that economic conditions would improve," said Smith. "But that has not happened and we regret that we have to take these steps." One-fourth of the staffing cut is at the agency's College Station headquarters. The rest is throughout Texas.

"To keep positions strategically distributed, we will refill some vacancies," said Kyle Smith, AgriLife Extension executive associate director. "So displaced personnel may find other internal job opportunities."

He stressed that the agency has long maintained a presence in each county. That will continue.

"Counties currently being served by a single extension agent or through a shared position will not be impacted by the new staffing plan," said Darrell Dromgoole, AgriLife Extension associate director for county programs. "We looked most closely at counties where we had three or more positions, especially if more than one employee supported the same subject matter," said Dromgoole.

Dromgoole said all county Extension personnel contribute to 4-H, AgriLife Extension's youth program, and will share full responsibility for that program where needed.

"Youth programming remains a strong emphasis of our agency," he said.

Western horse event will benefit area Children's Miracle Network

The Top O' Texas Rodeo Association presents the 2nd annual Western Horse Race on August 14 to raise funds for area children.

This year's event will include three races; the Ladies Race, Men's Race, and Run What You Brung Race. Races are set to start by a shotgun start all beginning with the ladies event at 5:28pm.

There is a $25 entry fee, with the winner of each event winning $500.

The event will also include music, food, and drinks all for only $5 per person.

The event will take place next to the Top O' Texas Bowers Arena.

The 2nd annual Western Horse Race is sponsored by FRH Dredging Services and the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association.

Children's Miracle Network is a non-profit organization dedicated to saving and improving the lives of children by raising funds for children's hospitals across North America. Each year the 170 Children's Miracle Network hospitals provide the finest medical care, life-saving research and preventative education to help millions of kids overcome diseases and injuries of every kind.

"The best thing about Children's Miracle Network is that all donation made in the Texas Panhandle and High Plains Region stay right here in the area," said Kellie Tiner, Children's Miracle Network Coordinator.

"No donation ever pays for administrative cost, 100 cents of every dollar helps local children."

To enter a race please call (806)669-0434 or (806)663-3892, or you will be allowed to enter on-site until the race time.

For more information, please contact Kellie Tiner at (806)212-9168 or kellie.tiner@bsahs.org.

Poem points out the true cost of freedom

Bill Carson had a knee replacement last Tuesday, so please say a prayer for him.

Well, folks, I know there is Hedley news out there somewhere, but I can't seem to find it. So I will talk about the things that get me going: God, Family, my Country and my town. Here is a poem by Major Kelly Strong, USAF.

Freedom Isn't Free: "I watched the flag pass by one day, it fluttered in the breeze, a young soldier saluted it, and then, he stood at ease. I looked at him in uniform, so young, so tall, so proud, with hair cut square and eyes alert, he'd stand out in any crowd. I thought how many men like him, had fallen through the years, how many died on foreign soil? How many mothers' tears? How many pilots' planes shot down? How many foxholes were soldiers' graves? No - freedom isn't free. I heard the sound of Taps one night, when everything was still, I listened to the bugler play and felt a sudden chill. I wondered just how many times, that Taps had meant "Amen", when a flag had draped a coffin of a brother or a friend. I thought of all the children, of the mothers and the wives, of fathers, sons and husbands, with interrupted lives. I thought about a graveyard at the bottom of the sea, of unmarked graves in Arlington. No - freedom isn't free?"

Recipe: Cream Cheese-Coconut-Pecan Pound Cake: 1-1/2 cups butter, softened, 1 (8oz) pkg. cream cheese, softened, 3 cups sugar, 6 large eggs, 3 cups all-purpose flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 cup bourbon, 1-1/2 teaspoons vanilla extract, 1 cup chopped pecans, toasted, 1/2 cup shredded coconut, (Optional: Powdered sugar glaze, or sugared rosemary, or sugared cranberries). Beat butter and cream cheese at med.speed with an electric mixer until creamy. Gradually add sugar, beating at med.speed until light and fluffy. Add eggs (1 at a time), beating just until the yellow yolk disappears. Sift together flour and salt; add to butter mixture alternately with bourbon, beginning and ending with flour mixture. Beat batter at low speed just until blended after each addition. Stir in vanilla, pecans, and coconut. Pour batter into a greased and floured 12-cup tube pan. Bake at 325 degrees for 1 hour and 30 minutes to 1 hour and 35 minutes or until a long wooden pick inserted in center of cake come out clean. Cool in pan on a wire rack 10-15 minutes. Remove from pan; cool completely on wire rack.

Drip irrigation field day set in Pampa

PAMPA - As irrigation well capacities decline and water-use regulations are being implemented, the demand for efficient irrigation has heightened. One option gaining interest is sub-surface drip irrigation, according to a Texas AgriLife Extension Service specialist.

A Sub-Surface Drip Irrigation Field Day will be held July 29 near Pampa to answer some questions about these systems, said Nick Kenny, AgriLife Extension irrigation specialist in Amarillo.

The program, sponsored by AgriLife Extension and the U.S. Department of Agriculture-Natural Resource Conservation Service, will be held at Durward Dunlap's drip field north of Pampa. The field is approximately 2 miles north of the Loop 171/Highway 70 intersection.

Scheduled to run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., including a lunch, it will include four morning speakers from the organizing agencies and a field drip irrigation presentation and tour by Troy Faulkenberry Irrigation.

Kenny said one of the most noticeable signs of the demand for increased irrigation efficiency is the rapid adoption of sub-surface drip irrigation throughout the Texas High Plains. While it was most noticeable in the South Plains area, of late the interest has been growing in the North Plains as water resource limitations are being realized. The goal of this field day is to promote sub-surface drip irrigation as an effective management tool to meet irrigation efficiency demands, he said.

Three general Texas Department of Agriculture continuing education units will be offered to private applicators. Those planning to attend should RSVP by July 26 to the Natural Resource Conservation Service office in Pampa at 806-665-1751, ext. 3.

For more information, contact Kenny at npkenny@ag.tamu.edu or by phone at 806-681-2037 or the AgriLife Extension office for Gray County at 806-669-8033.

TxDOT plans public meeting to outline state's future needs

AUSTIN - The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) will host a second series of open-house style public meetings to give citizens yet another opportunity to offer feedback on a long-range plan that provides the agency with a blueprint for the state's future transportation needs.

TxDOT held the first series of meetings in May.

The agency's 25 districts will each host a meeting the first two weeks of August. The Childress District's meeting is scheduled from 4 to 7 p.m. on August 3, 2010 at Texas Department of Transportation, Childress District Office Training Room, 7599 US 287, Childress, TX 79201.

Meeting dates and locations for the agency's Statewide Long-Range Transportation Plan 2035 are available on the TxDOT website.

The plan addresses future multi-modal transportation needs for Texas, including transit, rail, highways, bicycles and pedestrians. This statewide plan is also the basis for a number of other TxDOT planning efforts such as the Texas Rail Plan, the 2011-2015 Strategic Plan and corridor-related initiatives. In addition, the plan provides direction to make it easier for all of these different efforts to work in coordination. It also assures the state's goals are consistent with federal priorities and guidelines.

TxDOT spent the last six months analyzing system changes that have taken place in the last 20 years and, based on this information, the agency has forecast anticipated changes for the next 25 years. Citizens will have an opportunity to comment on this analysis at the August meetings.

The meetings are designed to give Texans an informal venue for viewing an informational video and exhibits about the analysis findings, including the results of the transportation questionnaires completed by participants at the first round of meetings in May. Participants may ask questions and provide written comments on the plan which is scheduled to be completed and ready for adoption by the Texas Transportation Commission this fall.

A final public hearing is tentatively scheduled for October 2010 in Austin. Public comments will be accepted for 30 days after the hearing date.

Citizens who cannot attend the meeting may send written comments to Peggy Thurin, P.E., Project Manager, Statewide Long-Range Transportation Plan 2035, 4544 Post Oak Place, #224, Houston, Texas, 77027. Comments may also be made online or by calling the toll-free number 1-888-TX-PLAN (1-888-589-7526).

Persons with special communication or accommodation needs may contact Barbara Seal, 940-937-7288. Requests should be made no later than three days prior to the open-house style public meeting. Every reasonable effort will be made to accommodate the needs.

For more information, contact Government & Public Affairs media relations at 512-463-8700.

County attorney recovers $3k for CC

The Donley County Attorney's office recently collected over $3,000 in restitution and fees for hot checks presented to Clarendon College.

"Clarendon College may have the Bulldogs, but there is a bulldog working in the County Attorney's Office," said Donley County Attorney Landon Lambert.

Through the tireless and very persistent efforts of Carla Davidson, County Attorney Office Administrator, the office was "able to recover the largest amount of hot checks collected in my tenure from one person."

"Carla Davidson is an indispensable and integral member of the two-person team that is the Donley County Attorney's Office, and she keeps me in line," Lambert said.

Lambert cautioned all area merchants and those who take checks to check picture identifications and look at "do not take checks from" lists if available.

"A little common sense goes a long way in preventing the frustration and inconvenience of being presented with a check that is no good," Lambert said. "This office sees many 'repeat offenders' which could easily be prevented by asking a few simple questions and getting some basic information or simply by demanding that particular person pay cash."

A merchant is entitled by law to collect a $30 "merchant fee" for hot checks presented to them. This fee is both a deterrent to potential hot check writers to think before they write as well as to attempt to compensate a merchant for the headache of dealing with hot checks.

Lambert advised that personal identifiers should be collected for all checks and businesses that accept checks from further away than a county that touched Donley County should be especially stringent in making sure the person writing the check is the person who owns the account.

Kennedy resigns as CC women's coach

The Clarendon College Board of Regents approved two new hires and accepted two resignations during their regular meeting July 15.

Women's basketball coach and athletic director Rusty Kennedy resigned to take a new position at a larger school in San Antonio. Dean of Students Tex Buckhaults and men's coach Tony Starnes will now split the athletic director duties, CC President Bill Auvenshine said.

Regents also accepted the resignation of Tandy Passini as administrative assistant in Pampa. The board approved the hiring of Beth Newman as a new administrative assistant/receptionist in Clarendon and Cheryl Harvill as an LVN instructor in Pampa.

The board also accepted a bid for tax delinquent property as presented by the Donley County Appraisal District and approved the 2010-2011 college calendar, which lengthens the Easter Holiday to include the Monday following Easter. Regents will meet again next Thursday for a budget workshop.

Quilting Club meets

Graveside services were held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Citizens Cemetery in Clarendon. Services were under the arrangement of Adams Funeral Home in Wellington and Robertson Funeral Directors in Clarendon.

Gage, Johnston win weekly games

By Sandy Anderberg
Jerry Gage topped the 12 man field last Wednesday and turned in a net 66 to take first place in the weekly men's game.

Butch Schollenbarger and Todd Curry tied for second place with a net score of 70.

Sherol Johnston won low gross Thursday in the women's game with a round of 84. Ruth Jackson won first low net with a 69, and Bonnie Crofford and Mary Ann Sawyer shot a 71 and tied for second low net.

The team of Daniel Burcham,

Kevin Wood, Bobby Dodson, Buck McLamb, and Jordan Crittenden turned in a six under par in the nine-hole Friday night scramble. The other four teams came in at five, three, and two under par.

There will be a Jack and Jill 36-hole tournament August 7-8 at the CCC. Tee times for the tournament will be at 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. on Saturday. You may call the Pro Shop for more information.

The Clarendon Country Club is also planning a Night Scramble on August 14.

Ford selected to All-State Team

By Sandy Anderberg
Senior Danielle Ford has been selected to the All-State Third Team according to Coach Gary Jack.

The all-state players are named by the Texas Sports Writers Association and are selected by their excellence on the softball field. Ford is the Lady Broncos' number one pitcher and is a crucial part of the team.

"Danielle's record was 23-4 last year," Jack said. "And her overall career record is 47-7."

That win-loss record is very impressive in Ford's first three years as part of the Lady Bronco varsity team. In her freshman year, Ford was named the District MVP and as a sophomore she was the Co-MVP. Last year as a junior she held the honor of MVP once again.

"She is definitely a big part of our success," Jack said.

Cobb Family runs together

Clarendon Junior High student Caleb Cobb and elementary student Joshua Cobb, and their mother, Alice Cobb, competed in the July 24 one mile road race in Amarillo. The 16th annual "Paul and Mike's Excellent Mile" road race was held at Thompson Park in Amarillo and hosted over eighty entries. Caleb ran a 5:47 mile earning him 2nd place in the 13 years and under, Joshua ran a 6:56 mile resulting in 4th place in the 13 and under age group, and the boy's mom, Alice, earned 1st place in the women's 40 and over runners with a time of 7:19. The Race proceeds benefitted the Special Olympics of Texas. Caleb also represented Clarendon in the month of June at the "Brandy Lee Leard Memorial Run" held at Austin Middle School in Amarillo and came away with first place in the mile run. Sign-ups for conservation reserve program to begin

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack this week announced that a general sign-up for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) will begin on August 2, 2010 and continue through August 27, 2010.

During the sign-up period, farmers and ranchers may offer eligible land for CRP's competitive general sign-up at their county Farm Service Agency (FSA) office. The 2008 Farm Bill authorized USDA to maintain CRP enrollment up to 32 million acres. Jim Miller, Agriculture Under Secretary for Farm and Foreign Agriculture Services, made the announcement on behalf of Secretary Vilsack during a conference call with reporters.

"America's farmers and ranchers play an important role in improving our environment, and for nearly 25 years, CRP has helped this nation build sound conservation practices that preserve the soil, clean our water, and restore habitat for wildlife," said Miller.

"This week's announcement will help us create a greener and healthier America, and I encourage all interested farmers and ranchers to contact their local FSA office to learn more how to take advantage of this opportunity."

Land currently not enrolled in CRP may be offered in this sign-up provided all eligibility requirements are met. Additionally, current CRP participants with contracts expiring this fall covering about 4.5 million acres may make new contract offers. Contracts awarded under this sign-up are scheduled to become effective Oct. 1, 2010.

Those who would have met previous sign-up EBI thresholds are not guaranteed a contract under this sign-up. In addition to the general sign-up, CRP's continuous sign-up program will be ongoing. Continuous acres represent the most environmentally desirable and sensitive land.

Experimental Drug More Effective Against TB

The results of a small study published this month in the New England Journal of Medicine indicate that an experimental drug referred to as TMC207 was significantly more effective in treating drug-resistant tuberculosis (TB) than were conventional or routine drugs such as isoniazid and rifampin.

In fact, TMC207 is reported by researchers to be five times more effective against the TB bacteria. This experimental drug reportedly starves or cuts off the energy supply for the bacteria that causes TB. The study evaluated 47 individuals who had been newly diagnosed with multi-drug resistant TB. Half received TM207 and half received placebo (fake drug). After 8 weeks of treatment, almost 50% of those who received TM207 tested negative for TB, compared to only 9% of those who received placebo. One recent news report refers to TM207 as the "first new TB drug in 40 years." The World Health Organization reports that approximately 9 million new cases of TB occur each year around the world. Almost 500,000 of these new cases are resistant to standard, multiple drug therapy.
