Donley County Wins $400 First Prize

Grade "A" Dairying, Most Promising Industry In Donley County

The development of Grade "A" dairying in Donley County from a start two years ago with two dairies and approximately thirty cows to fifteen dairies with approximately 750 producing cows gives promise of dairying as a major industry with far reaching potentialities. In May of this year there were only six grade "A" plants in operation, but there are 15 in operation at this time and will be approximately 20 by the end of the year. Contrasted with a gross of $78,000 paid to five dairies in 1944, Borden Company has already paid over $170,000 in to Donley County for Grade "A" milk.

A new truck route was opened last week. Previous to the opening of this second route which begins north of Hedley, one truck had been handling the entire output in the county.

The fifteen grade "A" plants in the county are the newest and most modern in the entire Panhandle region and with the equipment owned by the men represent an investment of approximately $50,000.

Anyone interested in installing a grade "A" or "C" plant should contact J. R. Gillham, local vocational agriculture instructor and secretary of the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce, or H. A. Ferguson, fieldman for Borden Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Verna Lusk and son Bobbie of Richmond, Calif. and Ray Hefner and family and Lloyd Hefner from Amarillo were at home with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Hefner Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Lusk will visit here several days before returning home.

Clarendon Represented at West Texas Chamber of Commerce Meeting

Lee Bell, Clarendon's director in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, represented Clarendon at that organization's annual meeting at Abilene Monday, Nov. 5th. In addition to Bell, J. R. Gillham, C. L. Lewis, C. O. Reed and R. E. Drennan represented Donley County at the meeting, and the group was presented with the WTCC check for $400 for first place in the inter-county agricultural production and improvement contest.

The West Texas organization outlined its program of work for the year, elected new officials, and terminated its 1944-1945 fiscal year. Two of the chief points of interest in the new program will be the fight to secure equality in freight rates on commodity items and the advertising of West Texas as a potential industrial and agricultural producing section.

Saturday, Nov. 10 Is Poppy Day

Poppies to honor America's dead warriors of two world wars will be worn in Clarendon Saturday, Nov. 10th, the American Legion Auxiliary announced today.

Disabled war veterans, young ones from this war, older ones from last—made these poppies at Legion Texas. These men who have been working in the hospitals to have these flowers ready for Poppy Day have benefitted not only financially but mentally as well. It provides a new interest in life and therefore is of definite value in the treatment of the patient.

The wearing of the poppy has become a silent pledge renewed each year that the people of America have not forgotten their fighting men of both wars.

Last year the Auxiliary distributed more than 19,000,000 poppies. Every cent given for a poppy goes toward the rehabilitation of disabled fighting men, and to the aid of the children of the dead and disabled.

This year it is expected that more Americans than ever before will wish to wear the poppies as a salute to the dead soldiers and as a financial aid to the living but disabled soldiers and their families.

By Legion Reporter

ATTENTION all Legionnaires: Your 1946 membership dues are now due.

Every member is urged to pay his dues as soon as possible. In reference to this, rumors have been in circulation contrary to the fact that dues are now only $3.50 a year. The membership fee is still $3.50 a year as always, and not $25 as has been rumored. New members are required to pay only this amount. Any other money that either a new member or old member might donate is strictly a voluntary appropriation.

All veterans who are not members of the Legion as yet are cordially invited and urged to join as soon as possible, and are invited to attend the meetings on the first and third Tuesdays of each month, whether they have become members or not. Anyone wishing to join should contact Adjutant Glenn Allen to acquire membership. The adjutant will also take measurements and orders of anyone who wants to buy a cap. He also has American Legion lapel buttons.

In the regular meeting Tuesday night, Comrade Cap Morris commended the young people of Clarendon for their good conduct on Halloween. There was very little disorderly behavior as compared with Hallowe'ens of the past.

The next district meeting of Legion Posts in this district will be held at Pampa in December. Watch this column for the date.

The Hedley Post will meet in its regular session next Tuesday night, Nov. 13th, to decide its part in the Donley County Memorial Association. Every member of Aubyn E. Clark Post 126 is invited and urged to attend the meeting which will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Irishmen Defeat Broncs 19-6

The Shamrock Irishmen, coached by Bob Clark, the magician, defeated the Clarendon Bronchos 19-6 in a hard game there Friday night.

In the first quarter, the Irish drove steadily down the field for their first score which was made by their fast running and hard hitting fullback, Billy Close. The place kick for extra point was no good.

The Irish scored a second time in the second quarter when Lile carried the ball over. Again the try for extra point failed.

After the half, the Bronchos snapped out of it and held the Irish to only one more score and made one for themselves. Close scored again in the last quarter for the Irish, and this time the extra point was good. Bulman ran the ball over for the Broncs in the same period, and Blackman's kick for extra point was no good.

The Broncs will rest this week in preparation for their game next Friday, Nov. 16 with the Memphis Cyclones. The top game of the district this week will be played at Shamrock between the Irishmen and the Wellington Skyrocks. This will be the deciding game as to whether the Skyrocks will be the district champions.

Clarendon Lions Club

The Clarendon Lions met in the First Christian Church on Tuesday, Oct. 6 for their regular weekly meeting. Minutes of the last meeting were read after roll call was answered. The eight guests present were Verna Lusk, Mitchell Bell, Leroy Butler, Frank Phelan, Bud Gilreath, Charlie Weir, and Everett Johnson.

An announcement concerning the directors' meeting was made by Lion Lee Bell. He stated that this meeting was scheduled for Monday evening, 6:45 at Lee's Cafe.

Lion John R. Gillham gave an enlightening discussion on the Chamber of Commerce, its functions and main programs, stressing the benefits brought about under the direction of the agricultural committee. These main points were the growth of dairying in Donley County, the advantages of the canning centers, and the services of the farm shop. He announced that the Chamber of Commerce had received a check for four hundred dollars for first prize in the Inter-County Agriculture Improvement Program. Lion Gillham reminded the members of the regular meeting time of the Chamber of Commerce, the third Monday night of each month.

The members sang one verse of "America", while facing the flag, and adjourned.

Donley County was awarded first premium of $400 in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Production and Improvement Contest for the years 1944 and 1945 at the annual meeting of that organization in Abilene, Monday, Nov. 5th. The award was based on the agricultural activities of the chambers of commerce in the entire West Texas Chamber of Commerce region, and the premium money is to be used in the promotion of 4-H Club and Future Farmer work in Donley County. Dawson County finished second, Jones County third, and Gray County fourth in the contest.

The chamber of commerce's agricultural committee headed by C. L. Lewis, chairman, and C. O. Reed, secretary, is largely responsible for the agricultural program carried out by the organization. Donley County's 4-H club boys and the Clarendon Future Farmers organization both aided materially in carrying out the agricultural program. Mrs. Mildred Ritter, secretary of the Donley County AAA office, the county AAA committee, and the entire AAA staff worked hard in helping the committee carry out its soil conservation and crop goals.

The Clarendon Lions Club also aided materially in the agricultural program acting as co-sponsors of the Donley County Dairy Day and Dairy Show and the Donley County Fall Fair and Stock Show.

According to J. R. Gillham, secretary of the chamber of commerce and vocational agriculture instructor in the school, the activities which won the contest include the following projects and items in the program of work carried out by the local organization:

1. Sponsoring of a fall and spring livestock show in 1944 and 1945.
2. Sponsoring of a Donley County Dairy Day and Dairy Show.
3. The encouragement and personal and committee work in securing additional grade "A" dairies in Donley County.
4. Sponsoring the planting of grass seeding demonstrations.
5. Sponsoring of registered bull and boar circles among club boys, Future Farmers and adult farmers.
6. The establishing of canning centers at Hedley, Clarendon, and Lelia Lake during the period covered.
7. The sponsoring of a farm shop for the use of farmers in the county.
8. Assisting in securing additional REA mileage.
9. Assisting farmers and dairymen with electric problems connected with the REA.
10. Sponsoring the showing of livestock by 4-H club youths and Clarendon Future Farmers at Houston, Amarillo and Ft. Worth.
11. Sponsoring of a farm convenience day featuring the showing of farm conveniences and appliances.
12. Sponsoring the securing and sale of fruit and shade trees in Donley County.
13. Sponsoring and securing better types of cotton and corn seed.
14. Assisting dairy farmers in securing more and better type dairy cattle.
15. Assisting with gilt program for club boys.

Max Bentley, Activities director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and manager of the contest said the agricultural activities of the local chamber in contest were outstanding and by far the best of any chamber entered for both 1944 and 1945.

It's No Laughing Matter

HIS LEARNING TO SEW.—And he has a smile on his face! Even the memories of the battle that shattered his leg cannot seem to erase his appreciation of his position. Him, a stalwart veteran, perhaps a former mason, carpenter or truck driver—learning to sew! And, oh yes, there is more to the story. You see he's in a Puerto Rico Hospital, far from home and his loved ones. But Victory Loan War Bond dollars will reach him pronto. That's why he's learning to sew. LIBRARY NOTES

By Mrs. C. A. Burton

Nov. 11 to 17 is National Book Week which began twenty-six years ago, and the theme is "United Through Books." And on the last three days of this week Dallas is having a Book Fair—which Dallas claims is "the first community-sponsored, collaborative book fair in the country, so far as known." The Fair is being sponsored by all the leading publishers of the nation, and all the book-sellers of Dallas will have exhibits. But most important of all will be the authors of the books we have been reading. "They are flying from Tucson, from New York, from Chicago, from Mexico City, from all points of the compass." But these authors are to be heard instead of read during these three days. Groups of them are to speak each evening at McFarlin Auditorium, authors of books, old and new, books grave and gay—all kinds and sorts of books. Through the generosity of two friends of the library, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phelan, your librarian is to attend this Book Fair. It will be such a wonderful opportunity to examine books and see and hear their authors. Hervey Allen will be there—you all read his "Anthony Adverse." Louis Bromfield will be there—his books are too numerous to mention. Adrica Locke Langley will probably tell us where she got the inspiration for

"A Lion in the Streets." Ben Lucien Burman will probably discuss his best seller "Rooster Crows For Day," and James Street his "The Gauntlet."

John Silby who for 12 years wrote a daily book column that was used by more than 300 newspapers and who is now editor of Farrar and Rinhart, and who is author of three novels, is also conducting a course in novel writing at Columbia University this winter. He will probably tell us something about "how to write a novel." These are only a few of the celebrities who are to be on the programs.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court recently fined a Boston bookseller $100 for selling a copy of "Strange Fruit," the best seller by Lillian Smith. The publishers, Reynal and Hitchcock said "We are disappointed that the Massachusetts authorities regard their people as being so immature that they have to be guarded from reality. The high court of a reputedly highly educated and intelligent state has taken a narrow and tightlaced view of literature and its prerogatives."

The Army's Information Service Control Command in Bavaria set up its first newspaper in Munich. In order to get metal for type they used the dumped metal of "Mein Kampf".

Mrs. Inez Peabody and Mrs. Ira May were called to Ft. Worth Tuesday night due to the death of their brother, Marshall Miniard. He formerly lived in Clarendon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph V. Tolbert Sr. and son spent the past Sunday night with his brother Mr. John Tolbert and family at Claude.

THE GLUTTON.
"You must be fond of coffee, sir," said the waiter pouring him the fifth cup. "I sure am or I wouldn't drink five cups of hot water to get a little!"

ADVERTISING.
The argument as to whether radio or newspaper advertising pays best goes right on among the big advertisers. "What goes in one ear comes out the other," but who ever heard of anything going in one eye and coming out the other?"

CAUTION.
Saying the wrong thing is a misfortune; but trying to explain it is usually disastrous.

METROPOLIS WISE.
A local rounder tells us that in Amarillo they are serving miniature cocktails. One drink and in a miniature out.

WAR STUFF.
Then there was the gal who heard of smelling salts and thought it was a sailor with B.O.

INNOCENCE.
Even the ancient Indian girl was kept busy with her beaux and errors.

SUGGESTION.
Alright lady, the next time that walrus of a husband starts making cracks about a back seat driver, remind him that they are no worse than men who cook from the dining room table.

TYPICAL STUFF.
Finally the old bachelor married a very young girl and took her to his newly constructed home. "Where are the doors?" asked the nervous bride. He drew himself up to full height and bawled: "Doors? Are you thinking of going some place?"

EXPLANATION.
Any suggestions that may appear above are purely fictitious and have no reference to persons living or dead, etc. You've heard that too. These are the "little details" that are often overlooked, and more often forgotten.

COUPLE WEDS IN CALIFORNIA

The First Baptist church of Camarillo, Cal., was the scene of the wedding of Gladys Lamb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Lamb, Jericho, and Lt. Donald B. Chunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Chunn, Camarillo.

Rev. W. Mead performed the double ring ceremony before an altar banked with white asters against a background of greenery.

The bride was gowned in white silk overlaid with net. She carried an arm bouquet of gardenias. Giving her in marriage was her brother, Morris G. Lamb.

A medley of nuptial music preceded the recitation of the vows. LaVerne Lamb, Dallas, was the bride's only attendant. Miss Lamb wore a light blue ensemble and carried a bouquet of begonias.

Albert Chunn, a brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Mrs. Lamb, mother of the bride, wore dark blue, accented in a lighter blue.

Mrs. Chunn, mother of the bridegroom, wore a brown and white ensemble. Both wore corsages of gardenias.

A reception in the church parlor followed the rites. The couple left after the reception for a wedding trip to Northern California.

Mrs. Chunn is a graduate of Groom High School and Draughon's Business University, Oklahoma City. Until the time of her marriage she was employed in Dallas.

Lieutenant Chunn graduated from Moore Park (Cal.) High School, and has just returned from service in the European theater. He recently re-enlisted, after receiving his discharge.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Holland returned home Tuesday afternoon from Ft. Worth where they visited her mother, Mrs. Annie Park and sisters, Mrs. W. R. Hilliard and family and Mr. and Mrs. Rhea Couch. Mrs. Park was moved from the Harris Methodist Hospital Saturday to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rhea Couch where she is convalescing from a major operation.

CHURCH COUNCIL MEETS

The women of all the churches met at the First Christian church at 1 p. m. on October 31st with the ladies of the Christian church and of the Episcopal church as hostesses.

A bountiful covered dish luncheon was enjoyed and immediately afterward Rev. Henshaw of Pampa talked on leprosy.

The special work of the council at this time is the leper work and Rev. Henshaw's talk was most interesting because he brought first-hand information, having had personal contact with a leper colony while serving as a missionary in Hawaii. We only regretted that all our people did not hear him. His talk was followed by the opening of the piggy-banks and it was found that the offering from them amounted to $21.08.

A report by the treasurer showed that $121.08 had been sent in from this Council Auxiliary. The business session was called to order by Mrs. Millard Word, with the secretary, Mrs. Bill Thornberry reading minutes of last meeting. America was sung and all joined in the Lords Prayer.

Routine business included reports of boxes of linens sent to European hospitals. Statement was made that Mrs. U. J. Boston had given a book review at last meeting of "They Who Walk Alone", and that later she gave this same review to a Womens club at Alanreed.

The members immediately took a collection of $10 for the leper work, and presented Mrs. Boston with a gift of $5 which she at once added to the $10 for the cause. Letters were read regarding compulsory military training and the Atomic bomb, and the women were invited to sign them. There was some discussion of former plans for some work among our colored citizens.

Mrs. Clyde Hudson brought an inspiring devotional and Mesdames Brown, Landreth, Green, Buntin, McClure, and Miss Gladys Wright brought timely articles. Adjourned to meet January 31st.

Mrs. Claude Darden was elected Secretary and Treasurer. The club made plans to entertain the Jr. H. D. Club Nov. 16th at the Clubroom with a 1 o'clock luncheon.

At the social hour a lovely plate refreshment was served to invited guests, Mrs. Frank White Sr. and Mrs. Neal; and to club members, Mesdames Lena Antrobus, G. A. Anderson, A. H. Baker, A. L. Chase, Claude Darden, J. C. Estlack, Grover Heath, Earl Lea, Cap Lane, McDowell, O. C. Watson, Van Eaton, Clyde Butler, A. W. Simpson, Henry Williams and Misses Ida and Etta Harned.

Being Cotton Conscious

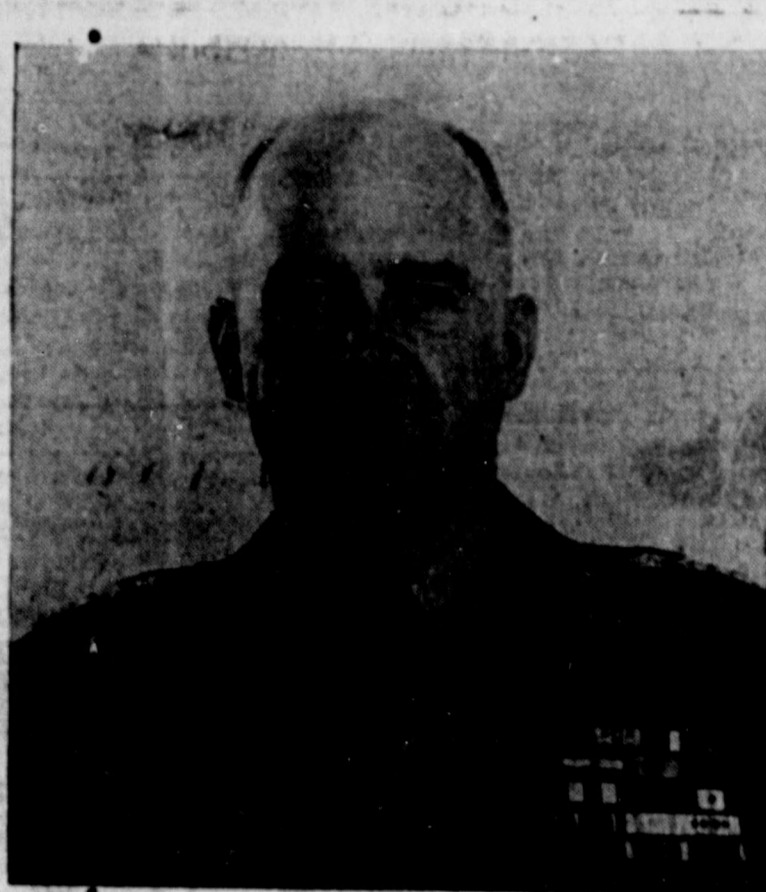

Charles Reed, Donley County Agent, reports the years of war made all Americans cotton conscious as perhaps never before. Homemakers felt the pinch for cotton clothing for themselves and their children, and also for many household fabrics. Men had to get along with fewer and shorter-tailed shirts—and as for underwear and pajamas the selection was equally limited. These shortages, of course, will be made good after textile mills return to full peace-time production. But as peace-time agriculture and international trade work back to normal conditions, American cotton growers may have to shoulder alone the only problems remaining after the war.

The major problem appears to be competition with synthetic fabrics at home and foreign-grown cotton in the world market. Discussing this recently, United States Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson emphasized the need of better farm practices if American cotton is to hold its place in the world market.

The American cotton farmer, he said, is going to need better soil practices and greater efficiency in the production of cotton. He must step up per acre yields and lower cost of production in order to stay in the market against competitors at home and abroad.

Soil building, says E. A. Miller, agronomist for the A&M College Extension Service, is the number one agricultural job in Texas. And one of the best ways to make soil more productive in the eastern half of the state is by growing and turning under winter legumes.

Illustrating the value of this practice, he says that experiments with hairy vetch and other legumes conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station showed consistently larger production of cotton on soil where this green matter had been plowed under. In the blackland area hubam clover used as a winter cover crop not only increased yield but had the effect of delaying cotton root rot. Annual yellow blossom sweet clover used in south Texas and the Gulf Coast area produced similar results.

New Farm Size Grain Drier

College Station—Specifications for a successful farm-size grain drier, with a per-hour capacity of 2,000 pounds of dry grain, have been released by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. It can be used satisfactorily with grain sorghums, oats, wheat, and barley, and with minor changes for drying clover and grass seed, and possibly peanuts.

The drier can be installed for approximately $500. Mechanical elevating equipment for loading and unloading will cost an additional $75 to $200, depending upon the type used. Power and fuel costs in drying combined grain sorghum from 20 percent to 13 percent moisture content were found to be about 30 cents per ton.

Progress Report No. 968, just released by the Station, entitled "Building and Operating a Farm Grain Drier," describes a unit designed and built by agricultural engineers of the Station's Division of Agricultural Engineering and of the main College's Agricultural Engineering Department. It includes seven illustrations showing the grain drier and its operation.

While the combine is generally accepted as the most efficient method of harvesting grain sorghums, small grains, clover seed, and many grass seeds, the report shows that its wide use is impaired by the fact that grain or seed, when mature enough to harvest, contain too much moisture to be stored safely in bags or in bulk. To overcome this handicap, experiments were launched to develop a simple and economical unit with which the moisture content of grain can be reduced quickly and cheaply from 20 percent or more to 13 percent, the amount required for safe storage.

This drier received exhaustive and satisfactory tests with grain sorghums both in the laboratory at College Station and on the farm of Roy Smith near Corpus Christi.

Basic principle of the drier is reduction of the moisture content by forcing heated air through grain placed in two thin vertical columns. Air supplied to the drier is heated with natural or butane gas burners, but other fuel such as kerosene, distillate or fuel oil also can be used.

Capacity of the drier, which can be increased by lengthening the grain panels, is about 5,000 lbs. of grain sorghum every two and one-half hours. Filling and emptying requires about 45 minutes, actual drying about 75 minutes, and 30 minutes is allowed for the grain to cool.

The experimental unit was constructed from standard dimension lumber, plywood, screen wire, hardware cloth, and other materials easily available in each farming community.

Since the drier is operated only a few weeks during the year, the motor will be available for other power uses. Mounted on skids or a wheeled truck, it makes a convenient portable unit which may

"BEST JOB IN THE WORLD"

These special privileges are typical of the new law recently passed by Congress. Few opportunities for a lifetime career offer as many attractive advantages.

Can you think of any other job that would give you good pay, your food, clothing, quarters, free medical and dental care, world-wide travel, 30 days' furlough every year, education and training in any of nearly 200 skills or trades, and enable you to retire with a life income any time after 20 years' service?

There isn't any! That's why a job in the Regular Army has been called "The Best Job in the World."

Let's tear your electric bill to pieces

Go AHEAD, lady—tear your electric bill apart and see what it's made up of.

This little piece lights all your lamps. This one plays your radio. This cooks and keeps your food. This washes your clothes. This takes care of the cooking and ironing and cleaning. And so on.

That's a lot of different jobs to be covered by one small bill. And—hold on! You've paid for more than just electricity. About 25c of every dollar you pay for electric service goes in turn for taxes which benefit your community and help carry our heavy federal government expenditures.

Tear UP... General cost of living UP... You'd think the cost of electric service would be up, too. But it isn't. The overall rate has even come down a little since the war began. Actually—

The average family gets about twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 1800 years ago!

This welcome fact comes from the careful planning and progressive spirit of America's business-managed, self-supporting, tax-paying electric companies.

Marine Corps Birthday Roundup To Take Place November 10th

On Saturday, Nov. 10th, the United States Marine Corps will be one hundred and seventy years old.

At posts and stations around the globe and aboard naval vessels at sea, Leathernecks will take part in varied celebrations commemorating the birth of their organization on Nov. 10, 1775.

will be the annual message from the Commandant of the Marine Corps, General A. A. Vandegrift, in which he will pay high tribute to the dead and wounded of this war, and salute the thousands of Marines who have or will soon re-enter civilian life.

From the earliest days of their history and throughout the years that have followed, Marines have served their country in every war, fighting on land, on sea and in the air.

Today they continue to serve. With another phase of war behind them in which they spearheaded U. S. offensives in the entire Pacific, they are once again returning to their peacetime pursuits, those of guarding American lives and property on foreign soil.

The Marine Corps today is committed to the task of helping preserve world peace and order. Organized as a body of "Minute men", they stand ready on call.

Marines are already in China and Japan and on far-flung islands of the Pacific. Tomorrow will find them in all parts of the globe.

Birthplace of the Marine Corps was Tun Tavern, Philadelphia, where Captain Samuel Nicholas, first Marine officer, opened a recruiting rendezvous for the Marine battalions authorized by resolution of the Continental Congress, on November 10, 1775.

One of the stipulations for prospective recruits to serve in the Continental Marines was that personnel must be "good seamen or so acquainted with maritime affairs as to be able to serve at an advantage at sea."

In early March of 1776, the Continental Marines performed their first amphibious or landing operation. They landed on New Providence, in the Bahamas, under Captain Nicholas and took possession of Forts Montague and Nassau where sorely needed supplies were captured. The operation has been referred to as "perhaps the most successful of the Revolution."

While the patterns of warfare have changed considerably since that date, Marines are still "soldiers of the sea." The bloody island-hopping campaigns of this war in the Pacific which the Marines waged from Guadalcanal to Okinawa, were completely amphibious. Leathernecks, a title Marines acquired from the days when they wore leather collars for protection against sabers, also served aboard naval vessels today as they did in the early days of our history. These forces are known as sea detachments.

Following the Revolution, Marines, like the navy, passed out of existence. But in July of 1798, an act of Congress authorized a Corps of Marines with William Ward Burrows as Major Commandant. This Corps figured prominently in the undeclared naval war against France being waged by this country at that time.

Scarcely had this war ceased, when a squadron of vessels was dispatched to the Mediterranean to protect American commerce from plundering by the Barbary corsairs. Thus began a war that continued until the Barbary states were crushed. It was against Tripoli, chief trouble-maker that Marines first went into action as raiders.

Marines again participated in Naval engagements during the war of 1812 and were active in all sectors when the war broke out with Mexico in 1846. After assisting in the capture of Vera Cruz, they helped storm Chapultepec and entered Mexico City, finally leading the way to the Halls of Montezuma.

The Marines attached to naval vessels were called to perform a variety of duties between the close of the Mexican war and the outbreak of the Civil War, from preserving order in Nicaragua to desperate fighting in storming forts at Canton, China and from suppressing African slave trade to landing with Perry in Yokohama, Japan.

After fighting in all important naval engagements in the Civil War and several land battles, the Marines' next action was in the Spanish America War. A battalion of Leathernecks made the first landing in Cuba, at Guantanamo Bay.

Four battalions of Marines were rushed to the far East following the insurrection which occurred closely behind the taking of the Philippines, to help in operations against the insurrectionists and to play important role in the relief expedition to Peking in 1900 (Boxer Rebellion).

At the outbreak of World War I, with an approximate strength of 13,500 officers and men, and half of that number serving abroad, the Marine Corps nevertheless organized the Fourth Brigade which was to distinguish itself in France.

The Fifth and Sixth Regiments and Sixth Machine Gun Battalion which comprised the Brigade, were awarded the French fourragere for their heroic action in the fighting in France.

After the war, the nation was confronted with a series of mail robberies and Marines were employed after a request for protection to the president of the United States from the postmaster general.

In the year 1927, expeditionary forces of Marines were sent to Nicaragua and to China.

When the Japs struck at Pearl Harbor, Marines were serving at all major Pacific island outposts. Their heroic defense of Wake Island will live in history as will their Pacific victories against the Jap, which paved the way to Tokyo and capitulation.

Masonic Speaker At Memphis Lodge November 13th

MEMPHIS, Texas—One of the largest gatherings of Masons of the lower Panhandle in years, is anticipated by the Memphis Lodge on Tuesday night, Nov. 13, when the Texas Grand Master, Bascom Giles of Austin, will be the honored guest as a zone meeting here.

"Masons of this area are indeed honored," said W. B. Hooser, worshipful master of the Memphis Lodge, "in having our Grand Master present and we hope every Mason in this area will take advantage of the opportunity and be present."

An invitation has been extended all lodges in the lower and east Panhandle, from Vernon on the east to McLean on the north, to send as large delegations as possible and participate in the program honoring the Grand Master and hear his message.

P. L. Vardy, Jr. of Turkey, District deputy grand master, and N. W. Durham of Memphis, Grand Marshall of the Grand Lodge of Texas, are assisting Hooser in the arrangements for the zone meeting, which is scheduled for 7:30 o'clock.

It is the grand master's only scheduled visit in this section and for that reason members of the Memphis Lodge are hopeful of a large attendance from Lodges throughout the area.

Fast Feathering Chickens
Make Best Broilers

Early feathering indicates that a chicken will make a superior broiler or fryer, says S. A. Moore, poultry husbandman for the A&M College Extension Service. Its marketing quality will be improved if the chicken gains weight rapidly between the ages of three and six weeks and has a fairly broad breast at the end of that period.

Selection for fast feathering can easily be made when the chicks are about a day old, Moore says. Those having the longest feather sheaths or partly developed quills in their wings should be chosen. In fast feathering chicks all of the primary feather sheaths of the wings are well developed at that time, and six or more of the secondaries may be seen. Slow-feathering chicks of the same age have only short primaries and perhaps one or two secondaries, or none. Tail feather development also is more advanced in fast feathering chicks.

An important result of fast feathering is that chickens dressed at twelve weeks or later have few pin feathers. Moreover, their feather covering is practically complete. This means freedom from the objectionable condition known in marketing circles as "barbacks."

Moore says that poultrymen can improve their breeding stock for the production of broilers or fryers by selecting chickens which feather and develop rapidly in the first few weeks of life. Chickens kept for breeding should grow rapidly and have broad, well-meated breasts free from curved or dented breastbones. Breeding birds, however, should be examined again when about twenty weeks old to find whether any have not developed as expected.

Moore believes that breeding stock selected for these qualities should produce fast feathering offsprings weighing three pounds or more at fourteen weeks of age. Such chickens put on weight with less feed than usually is required, he says.

Mrs. Burfield was born in Alabama in 1890 and came to Lelia Lake with her husband about nine months ago. She died of a cerebral hemorrhage last Sunday.

RATIONING AT A GLANCE

By Peppy Blocker

How many times a day do you hear someone ask why price control must continue? When we come right down to brass tacks and admit the truth, we know that there are a great many people who have never believed in the Office of Price Administration or anything pertaining thereto. And now that the war is over, they take great pleasure in making sarcastic remarks about this agency, never stopping to seriously consider what might happen if price control should be dropped at this point. Don't take our word for it—ask someone who remembers what did happen after the last war. Remember the old adage—"Experience is the best teacher." The people who "thought up" price control, as so many of you put it, have worked against great opposition to put it over and they're not going to let down now with the ultimate victory in sight. As soon as supply meets demand, you may be sure that this phase of the OPA will be dropped—but not until that time.

Let's look at it this way. Suppose the last time you let your child eat bananas, they made him deathly ill and it scared you so badly that you swore you'd never again let him eat bananas. All right—along comes Junior with a weep and a wail and cries and begs and pleads and stomps—all for bananas. Will you "buck" Junior to the end? Will Junior give in and be reasonable? It's easy to forget the stomach ache the last bananas caused—but there's sure to be another ache unless you and Junior stand firm. Price control is our "mama" in the corollary of our little story and we are the "Juniors." If we are not wise enough and strong enough to stand pat, then "mama" must do it for us. Price Control MUST continue until supply meets demand—so let's all pitch in and cooperate instead of criticizing.
