City takes steps to improve streets, water

THIS WEEK

- 2 An injury leads to days of excuses and free rides for one little girl.
- 4 Clarendon College releases the names of students on its fall honor lists.
- 6 Clarendon JV squads win their local tournaments last week.
- 8 And the DPS will be cracking down on drunk drivers.

All this and much more as The Enterprise reports in this week's Christmas edition!

The City of Clarendon last week took its first steps to addressing what have been two major complaints among its citizens for several years — streets and water quality.

During their regular meeting last Tuesday, city aldermen approved purchasing an Asphalt Zipper for $73,000 that will grind up pothole filled streets to form a smooth, solid base that can later be seal coated.

City Administrator Lambert Little had been directed to find the used device after he discussed the idea with the board during a planning session last month.

"I'm 100 percent sold that this is the only way we're going to be able to do anything, and we might as well get with it," Little told the board.

Aldermen approved the purchase and directed Little to check into financing options.

Little also discussed a proposal to replace an aging steel water line under four blocks of East Fourth Street between Jackson and Carhart, which city officials believe is the primary cause of discolored water in the south east part of the city. The project is expected to cost between $20,000 and $25,000, and the city can utilize pipe it already has on hand. Aldermen unanimously approved this project.

In other city business, the board approved allowing the Adult Probation Department use of municipal property at Fifth and Kearney as the location for a garden. People in the new "horticulture therapy" program will mow the city property at that location in exchange for water for the garden, and half of the produce from the garden will go to charity.

The board also took action on the following items: Re-appointed Stephen Hall, Alderman Ann Huey, Terry Noble, and Roger Estlack to the board of the Clarendon Economic Development Corporation and ratified the county's appointment of Bob White and Andy Wheatly to the airport advisory board.

Burning prohibited inside city limits

The Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department is reminding everyone that outdoor burning is prohibited by city ordinance as dry conditions continue to raise the danger of wildfires.

Clarendon Ordinance 253 prohibits "burning garbage, leaves, tree trimmings, or other refuse" inside the city limits without the written consent of the fire marshal. Violating this ordinance can result in penalties up to $200 per occurrence.

In addition to being illegal, outdoor burning can also threaten lives and property, and Texas Forest Service says the danger for that is very high right now.

The West Texas town of Cross Plains was decimated by a massive and deadly firestorm in 2005. Texas Forest Service fire officials and National Weather Service fire weather forecasters are predicting that such a storm could happen again, possibly this winter.

Early deadlines set for next Enterprise

THE CLARENDON ENTERPRISE will be closed Thursday and Friday, December 23 and 24, and will re-open Monday with an early deadline for next week's issue.

All news, photos, and ads must be in by noon next Monday to meet an early press time. Next week's issue will be distributed on Tuesday, December 28, and the office will be closed December 29-31.

C of C names light contest winners

The Clarendon Chamber of Commerce has announced the winners of its weekly holiday lighting contest.

The Evans Family at 401 Main Street took top honors in Hedley, and Redell and Sherrol Johnston were the recognized residence in Howardwick.

Kyle and Kasi Davis at Fifth and Ellerbe Streets were the top residence in Clarendon, and Henson's had the best business decorations.

Special recognition went to Steve and Robin Sell for their musical decorations at Carhart and Montgomery.

Merchants to be open late Thursday

The Clarendon Merchants Association announced Kris Borneman and Geneva Hill as the final winners of the 2010 Clarendon Gold give away last Saturday.

Borneman won $450 worth of prizes from local merchants, and Hill's prize value totaled $275.

Several local merchants will be open late again this Thursday night to assist shoppers as they wrap up looking for those last minute gifts.

The Spirit on Display

By Ashlyn Tubbs, Clarendon Enterprise

Twinkling lights illuminate the homes of Clarendon residents Glen and Susan Bailey, Steve and Robin Sell, and Larry and Jamie Jeffers. Cars passing by slow down, pause, and even stop to gander at the beauty of the various Christmas decorations that temporarily engulf these houses. As multicolored lights shine, Christmas spirit from these homes spreads to all those witnessing their glow.

"Our main goal is to cheer people up," Glen Bailey said. "Everyday life will get you down, and hopefully it makes people happy even for a little while when they come by. That's what it's all about."

These families are displaying their Christmas joy by "going to the extreme" with their Christmas displays, as Bailey said.

"We've always decorated, it's just gotten bigger and bigger because we've got more grandkids," he said. "We have about 23 blowups outside our house right now. Too many after season specials. We try to get at least one blowup a year if we find one we like, but last year we got four."

All three families agree that the weeks of putting up their decorations are well worth it when they see people's reactions.

"Sometimes I just stand in my living room and watch people get out and take pictures with their kids," Larry Jeffers said. "It's neat to watch. If you're a grinch, then you don't need to come by the house."

At the Sells home, there are light shows set to music. The songs they included this year are from the Trans-Siberian Orchestra, Yule, and the worship band from Trinity Fellowship in Amarillo.

"We've had some people who have been in tears after seeing our music with the lights," Steve Sell said. "We look out at the window every night just to see who is all out there. It's really fun to watch the little kids. They dance in the street with the music playing. They get pretty into it."

One of the main reasons the Jeffers and Baileys decorate is for their grandchildren.

"We have seven grandchildren, and one of our granddaughters calls our house a 'Christmas Wonderland,'" Bailey said. "As long as we can afford to, we will go to extremes for our grandkids because Christmas is special for them, and they will always remember it. You're only a kid once, so we feel like this is important."

The grandchildren are not the only ones enjoying the lights, though. These spirited families are receiving compliments from many people for their decorations.

"We had people at Halloween thank us for the Christmas decorations before hand," Bailey said. "We have people stop and tell us how much they enjoy it all the time, and we see cars lined up and kids leaning out with smiles on their faces. It makes us feel good that we're making others feel good."

All in all, the mass of extension cords and breakers is plugging in more than mere lights — it's also turning on Christmas spirit.

"Christmas is our favorite holiday, and we hope that everyone is enjoying our display," Bailey said. "I hope we've inspired more people to decorate. There's no such thing as decorating too much."

Thornberry advances in House leadership

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Congressman Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon) was nominated last week by Speaker-designate John Boehner to serve as the Vice Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee in the 112th Congress. He will also serve as the Chairman of the Terrorism, Unconventional Threats, and Capabilities subcommittee.

The Speaker-designate also asked Thornberry to lead an initiative on cybersecurity, which will focus Congress's efforts to combat the growing national security and economic threat. Cybersecurity is an issue of increasing importance in the wake of a number of high-profile breaches of both public and private cyber networks.

"I am honored to serve as Vice Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee in the 112th Congress and to lead cybersecurity initiatives in the House," said Thornberry.

Boehner praised the local congressman's record.

Court returns sentences in local cases

The 100th Judicial District Court heard two pleas which resulted in two convictions when the court met in Clarendon last Wednesday, December 15.

Mattie Fields pleaded true to allegations listed in the State's Motion to Adjudicate Guilt of Defendant and was convicted and sentenced to 12 months in the State Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

On March 5, 2007, Fields originally pleaded guilty to the state jail felony offense of forgery that occurred on July 16, 2006, in Donley County. The State filed the motion to adjudicate on June 4, 2009, alleging three violations of community supervision.

Fields was sentenced to 12 months in the TDCJ. Fields is also required to pay $348 in court costs to Donley County, $198.07 restitution, and a $1,000 fine.

Jesse Wayne Christopher was convicted and sentenced to five years in the Institutional Division of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

On October 6, 2003, Christopher pleaded guilty to the second degree felony offense of aggravated assault of a public servant that occurred on November 9, 2002, in Donley County. The State filed the motion to adjudicate on October 5, 2010, alleging three violations of community supervision.

Christopher pleaded true and was sentenced to five years in the TDCJ. He will pay $343 court costs to Donley County and a $1,500 fine.

Protecting the most vulnerable this season

This holiday season, while many of us are fortunate to spend quality time with our loved ones enjoying the spirit of the season, there are many children across Texas and the country who are subjected to a much different experience.

Child welfare officials and organizations often see a spike in reports of child abuse and neglect during this season, which some studies conclude is a result of the added financial stress of the holidays, more frequent use of alcohol among adults, and children spending more time with distant relatives during their break from school.

texas times
by sen. john cornyn

Child abuse and neglect is a serious problem that impacts too many children not only during the holidays, but year-round. In Texas, on average, more than 200,000 cases of alleged child abuse or neglect are reported each year.

According to the Texas Department of Family and Protective Services, deaths from child abuse and neglect in Texas soared 31 percent from 2008 to 2009, with 280 related deaths confirmed.

This year, in addition to seasonal factors, the weakened state of our economy is already being attributed to a rise in child abuse and neglect cases. A study recently released by Boston University School of Medicine found that a prolonged increase in unemployment rates is "detrimental" to the physical and mental health of children. In November, the national unemployment rate rose to a seven-month high of 9.8 percent.

"When times are bad, children suffer," said study author Dr. Robert Sege, Professor of Pediatrics and Director of Ambulatory Pediatrics at Boston Medical Center. "These results suggest that programs to strengthen families and prevent maltreatment should be expanded during economic downturns."

Texas can help turn the tide on child abuse by keeping an eye out for children who display certain signs or behaviors. According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Administration for Children and Families, some of the signs of abuse or neglect that individuals should look for include: a child who displays sudden changes in behavior or school performance; is always watchful, as though bracing for something bad to happen; has little adult supervision; arrives to school or other activities early, stays late and does not want to go home; or is overly compliant or withdrawn.

Other warning signs include: a parent who shows little concern for the child; denies the existence of the child or blames the child for problems at school or home; asks teachers to use harsh physical discipline with the child; or looks primarily to the child for care, attention and satisfaction of emotional needs.

Across Texas and the nation we are fortunate that many worthy non-profit organizations work tirelessly on behalf of abused and neglected children.

One of these is the CASA program – a national movement that enlists volunteers who are appointed by judges to advocate for abused and neglected children.

CASA volunteers work to ensure these children are not overlooked in the legal or social service system or allowed to languish in appropriate group or foster homes. For many abused children, CASA volunteers are the only constant adult presence they will have during their youth. Texas is home to 69 local CASA programs.

This month, I'll have the privilege of joining CASA of San Antonio at an event to raise awareness about child abuse during the holiday season. We'll be joined by several other advocacy organizations in the San Antonio region in calling on all Texans to do their part to look out for the signs of child abuse and neglect and report any suspected cases.

Together we can work to curb child abuse and rescue children from abusive homes this Christmas and throughout the year. If you suspect a child is the victim of abuse or neglect, please call the Texas Department of Family and Protective Service's 24-hour Child Abuse Hotline, 1-800-252-5400, or report it to your local law enforcement.

As we prepare to spend time with our families this holiday season, I hope we can keep these children in our prayers and do everything we can to prevent another child from becoming a victim of abuse or neglect.

It's hard to scold an injured child

Last weekend Kyndall was involved in a minor accident resulting in, what is sure to be, one of the many trips we will take to the emergency room in her lifetime. Kyndall is constantly falling off of and running into everything. Bumps and bruises are the norm for her and this trip to the E.R. made our third for the year.

Walking into an emergency room with a toddler, or any child for that matter, invokes a certain kind of look. This look, while sometimes resembling sympathy, mostly is a look that reflects doubt of my parenting abilities. Let's just say it's not the greatest feeling in the world.

While Kyndall's accidents are generally self-inflicted, this one was more of the "wrong time, wrong place" nature. As she stood under her ceiling fan watching her uncle pull the cord to turn the fan on, the globe slipped off. If Kyndall would have been three inches to the right, if she would have been sitting next to her cousin at her table, or if her uncle had not decided to turn the fan on, the globe would not have landed, rim side first, on Kyndall's forehead.

Luckily for us all, dermabond was able to hold the wound together and stitches were not needed. In fact, Kyndall's doctor said that there probably won't be a scar. Actually, the worst thing to come out of the entire incident is, "My boo-boo".

"My boo-boo" quickly became Kyndall's get out jail free card which she now uses every way she possible can.

The first night I let this slide. It had been a very traumatic evening, I'm sure her head was hurting and having to be restrained to have one's head literally glued back together, takes a lot out of a two-year-old. So when Kyndall threw baby steps

by julie shields

an abnormal tantrum and demanded chocolate milk because of her "boo-boo" I conceded.

Day two of "my boo-boo" went about the same way. Kyndall managed to avoid daycare by spending the day with her Memaw because of her "boo-boo." Her toys were scattered across her room and left there because of her "boo-boo." She also believed her "boo-boo" gave her grounds to request cereal for dinner.

The last straw was day four when we returned home after a trip to the grocery store. While I carried in groceries Kyndall strolled along behind me. I noticed wet foot prints across the floor and looked down at my daughter who had wet her pants - one room away from the bathroom. Furious, I asked her why she did not use the potty. She reached for her head, scrunched up her face and with the saddest expression she could muster, responded, "my boo-boo."

Yes, my sympathy for her boo-boo is disappearing fast.

Volunteerism reflect holiday spirit

For many, the holiday season is truly the most wonderful time of the year. It is a time for cross-generational gatherings, when families celebrate old traditions and create new ones. It is a time for sharing memories, and a time for giving to one another and caring for the less fortunate. And it is a time to count our blessings and reflect on our faith.

Few things weigh more heavily on me during Christmas season than the troops who are protecting our country overseas during the holidays. Recently, my children and I were privileged to be able to welcome home a flight of troops returning to the U.S. from Afghanistan as part of the SLANT 45 "Welcome Home Heroes" initiative. The Super Bowl 45 Committee in North Texas has sponsored kids' charitable giving projects throughout the area – and greeting the troops was very inspiring. DFW airport welcomes service members coming in for their two week "rest and relaxation" every day of the year. Individuals or organizations wishing to show appreciation to our troops in this special way can find volunteer information at the following website: <http://www.dfwairport.com/heroes/index.php>.

It was both humbling and inspiring to meet with those brave men and women and to see them reunite with their families after months of separation. But so many others will not get to come home for the holidays. While we attend church services, enjoy family reunions, and partake in the bustle of the season in our own communities, there are nearly 150,000 troops serving in harm's way in Afghanistan and Iraq – apart from their families.

They are honorably carrying on a tradition of sacrificial service that was first heroically displayed by General George Washington and the American Continental Army at Valley Forge in 1777.

Just before Christmas that year, Washington's war-weary men settled in for a harsh winter with little food, tattered clothes, and insufficient shelter from the brutal elements. Many died from exposure and malnourishment, but the Army kept up its training regiments and ultimately survived the winter and continued to fight until they had secured our nation's independence. Because of their sacrifice more than 230 years ago, you and I live in freedom. And the service of today's military men and women ensures the preservation of our liberties now and into the future.

We must honor their service by keeping military personnel in our thoughts and prayers over the holidays, bolstering them with gratitude and encouragement, and supporting their families who are also sacrificing. On December 11, 2010, thousands of citizens laid wreaths at the graves of fallen soldiers at VA cemeteries across America. Nearly 24,000 wreaths were placed at Arlington National Cemetery outside the nation's capital, and from Dallas to the Rio Grande Valley, volunteers in 33 cities throughout the state of Texas took part in "Wreaths Across America" to honor those who made the ultimate sacrifice.

There are still opportunities for capitol comment

by sen. kay bailey hutchison

individuals and families to serve our troops and veterans and to honor the fallen this holiday season. Americans can send care packages and mail to deployed service members and post messages of gratitude and support. The Department of Defense outlines ways to get involved on their website at www.ourmilitary.mil/.

As we send support to our service-men and women overseas, we must also look around our own communities and attend to the needs of those less fortunate. Many have been hit hard by the economic downturn and are struggling to make ends meet. Charitable organizations, like the Salvation Army, known for its iconic and impactful Red Kettle campaign, give all Americans the opportunity to contribute to important causes during the holidays. The proceeds from the Red Kettle campaign, which are typically collected outside neighborhood grocery stores and retailers, help provide gifts and meals for shut-ins in hospitals and nursing homes and hot, sit-down dinners at homeless shelters. Other charitable drives, like Toys for Tots sponsored by the U.S. Marine Corps, use donations to give less fortunate children a memorable holiday through gifts of toys, books, and clothing. There are numerous opportunities for families to share this holiday season -- whether through a trustworthy charitable organization, church offerings, or simple acts of generosity in one's own neighborhood or community.

We can all look for ways to support our troops and to help those in need – not only during the holiday season, but throughout the year. I hope all Texans will have a joyous holiday and a blessed New Year.

Downsizing

High winds flipped one half of a double-wide trailer onto its top as it was being hauled up State Hwy. 70 about ten miles north of Clarendon last Wednesday. Details of the accident were not available at press time.

Trees available from SWCD

Weldon Sears, Donley County Soil & Water Conservation District conservationist, says several species of trees and shrubs, both deciduous and evergreens, are available to Donley County landowners. Evergreen species as potted trees are available in addition to bare root varieties. The small potted trees can be used for large scale plantings and they have exceptional adaptability to harsh environmental sites.

The very cold temperatures, high winds, and extreme snow drifting experienced in the Great Plains and intermountain areas cause much hardship. Successfully planted windbreaks can relieve much of this hardship. Properly planted wind barriers will reduce wind velocities and trap snow so that it will protect structures, cropland fields and feedlots can be kept free of drifted snow.

Tree windbreaks increase the value of a farm or ranch. They also reduce fuel costs. A Nebraska experiment station measured the fuel requirements for two similar houses. One house was fully exposed to the winds. The windbreak protected home used 23 percent less fuel.

Landowners who wish to make plantings this spring should contact the Donley County SWCD at 874-3561, ext 3, or come by the office in Clarendon at 321 Sully. Order forms and helpful maintenance information is also available at the office.

Santa Claus brings magic to Christmas season

Merry Christmas everyone! How wonderful we have set aside a very special day to celebrate the birth of our Lord, Jesus Christ.

You can argue the true meaning of Christmas has been lost with so much attention to gifts and Santa Claus. My answer to that is: Remember the three wise men bringing gifts to baby Jesus. Santa brings magic to the season. People all have a different attitude with smiles and thinking of others. I, for one, agree with Virginia and say, "Yes, there is a Santa Claus."

In the spirit of giving, Howard-wick Baptist Church is again sponsoring a Community Dinner at noon on Christmas day. Everything is furnished, so be prepared for a fun day of singing, food, and games.

Transportation is provided in the Howardwick area, or food will be delivered to your home for shut-ins.

We participated last year, and if you go, you won't be disappointed. For delivery or transportation, you may call Ann Purvis at 874-0379. Bro. Dave Stout at 874-0175 or Christmas morning call the church at 874-3326. Don't sit home alone. Allow the good cooks to spread some Christmas good will.

The season would not be complete without one of my stories; and I am repeating this one, so if you have heard it before, bear with me.

Christmas 1990 I was eligible for senior discounts, but instead I was finishing my last semester of nursing school in Amarillo with finals December 23. Ole Jim and I had a small apartment on Bell Street and tried to come home to Howard-wick each weekend, but with finals I had stayed in Amarillo to study and as a consequence nothing had been done to prepare for Christmas except the shopping. To increase the pressure our daughter and her family with two small children were arriving the next day from California, and I had to get everything done like get the tree bought and put up.

I didn't hang around school to check my grades but came directly to Howardwick. By the time I made it to Allsup's to buy my tree it was dark, and as I pulled up I saw three trees for sale, and they looked bedraggled. I went in, chatted with Charlene Mays telling her why I was so late with my purchase. We picked out the best of the Charlie Brown looking trees, threw it in the back of the pickup, and tore out back to Howardwick. About halfway home I noticed I couldn't see the tree in the back of the pickup, I stopped and lo-and-behold my tree was gone! I retraced my route, but it was very dark by now, and I just gave up and went back to Allsup's. I will never forget Charlene's look and reaction when I said, "I need a tree." She didn't charge me for it and we tied that sucker tight. My active imagination told me some daddy was driving home saying, "Jesus, I don't know how I'm going to find a tree for my kids this year," and about that time this tree flew right in his path. With lights, ornaments, and lots of ice cycles Charlie Brown #2 didn't look so bad, and a fun time was had by all. Two weather phenomenons are this week: the yearly winter sol-

Hedley gets into Christmas spirit

Everyone had a wonderful time last Wednesday night when Santa Claus came to town. The Senior Citizens Center was filled with children and adults enjoying Christmas Carols, cookies, and hot cocoa.

The children also enjoyed the "Christmas Story" told by Bruce and Gwynn Howard. Gwynn made and gave out little stuffed sock monkeys to each child. It was so much fun to watch the kids when Santa came in.

The lights of Hedley are beautiful and Jason Conatser, the city manager, informed me that next year Hedley will have a "House Lighting" contest. We are hoping the community really gets involved and light up their houses next year. There will be a monetary prize for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places.

Conatser also stated that 2011 will be the 60th Cotton Festival, and we want to go all out. He has asked me to remind everyone that we need donations for the Cotton Festival. Next year we want to bring in a carnival and have more things to do, maybe even go to two days if we can, but we need some help. If you would like to donate please send to City Hall, PO Box 185, Hedley, Texas 79237. Also, any ex-students try to save time for the Cotton Festival and our reunion. Things are happening, so get in touch with Cheryl Gibson (806) 358-2130, PO Box 19941, Amarillo, TX 79114, or me, Kathy Spier, (806) 856-5302, PO Box 119, Hedley, TX, 79237; and we will get your info to the committee. Please try to come if you can.

Merry Christmas to all!

Broncos number one in coaches' poll

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos have been ranked as the number one team in the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches in Texas with a 5-1 record. They are in the midst of their basketball schedule and recently traveled to Booker easily defeating the Kiowas, 87-40.

The Broncos were just too much for Booker to handle as they executed with intensity offensively and were sharp on defense.

Clarendon held a 26-point lead at the break and never backed down in the second half of play to get the lopsided win. The Broncos shot 90 percent from the free-throw line and had four guys finish in double figures.

Scoring: Johnny Gaines 23, Cole Ward 15, Brayden Phillips 10, Mike Crump 10, Adam Topper 9, Chris Crump 8, Justin Shillings 8, and Wes Williams 4.

On Friday, the Broncos traveled to Childress and could not come up with a win. They were defeated, 50-56.

Childress jumped out to the early advantage and held off the Broncos until the third quarter when Clarendon got back into the game. But the Broncos could never get ahead of the Cats and were plagued by turnovers in the final quarter.

"We got down early in the first quarter and did a good job of coming back," head coach Brandt Lockhart said. "However, we had too many turnovers and missed free throws in the fourth quarter."

Scoring: Gaines 16, M. Crump 13, C. Crump 7, Ward 6, Phillips 6, and Shillings 2.

The Broncos will participate in the Caprock Tournament in Lubbock December 27-29 and will travel to Groom January 7 after the Christmas break.

Lady Broncos defeated

The Lady Broncos traveled to Booker last Monday night and suffered a heartbreaking two-point loss at 26-28.

The ladies fought hard and held a six-point lead at the break. They maintained their lead until the final quarter when Booker bested them by two.

Scoring: Jentry Shadle 8, Danielle Ford 6, Anna Cenicerros 5, McKayla Cartwright 4, and Marqueda Gaines 3.

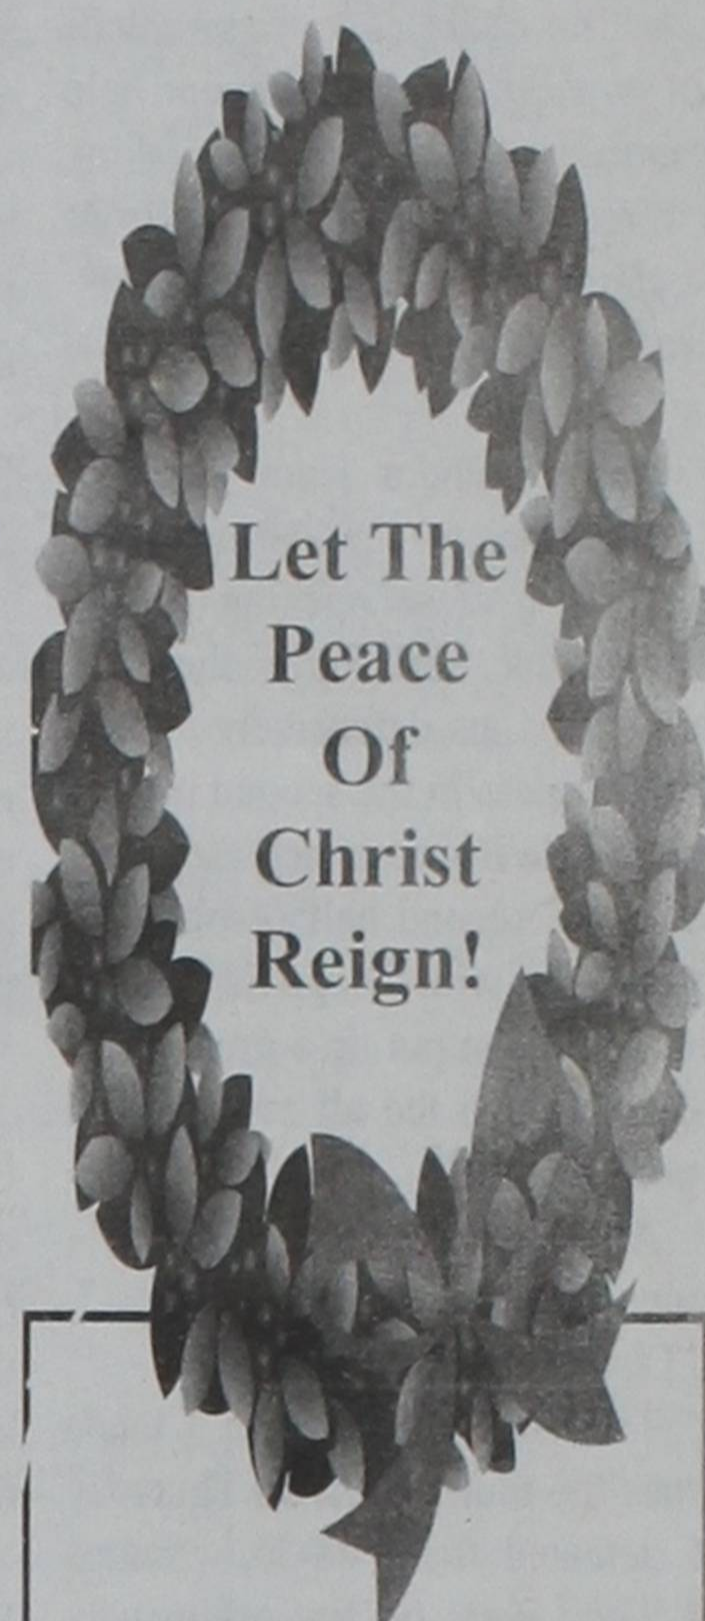

On Friday, the Lady Broncos traveled to Childress and were defeated, 35-52.

The Lady Cats held the narrow early advantage in the game in the opening quarter, but were able to capitalize on mistakes to gain a 16-point lead at the break. The Lady Broncos came back within 10 points of their opponent at the end of three but could not overtake Childress to get the lead.

Emily Clark finished with seven points and Jency Burton added six.

The ladies will participate in the Canadian Tournament December 27-29 and play at Memphis January 7 at 7:30 p.m. to open their district schedule.

Lady Broncos named Tournament Champs

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Bronco junior varsity ran through three good teams to win the championship of their own tournament December 16 and 18. The ladies took on Miami in the championship game on Saturday and easily defeated them, 45-21.

The Lady Broncos were never really contested during the tournament and breezed to the win in their final game. Great offensive execution and tough defense helped the ladies on both ends of the court. Ryann Starnes and Audrey Shelton stayed tough throughout and led all scorers with 12 and 10 points.

Scoring: Starnes 12, Shelton 10, Camra Smith 9, Maci White 5, Jacy Hill 5, Haley Ferguson 2, and Glory Bryley 2.

The Lady Broncos took on Childress 9th in the opening round and completely stifled them at 63-9. They jumped to the early advantage and racked up 25 points in the first quarter of play, while holding the Lady Cats to zero.

Defensively, the ladies held tough and their offense was unstoppable.

Scoring: Smith 12, Phara Berry 11, Starnes 10, G. Bryley 8, Shantel Harris 6, Ferguson 4, Savannah Topper 4, Elizabeth O'Rear 2, Jessica Cenicerros 2, White 2, and Audra Thomas 2.

The Lady Broncos met up against Memphis in the second round and coasted to a 37-15 win. Once again, the ladies were on their game offensively and defensively, were able to shut down anything Memphis tried. Clarendon was led by the inside play of Camra Smith and Ryann Starnes and the outside shooting by Phara Berry.

Scoring: Smith 8, Starnes 7, Berry 6, G. Bryley 4, McKayla King 3, Ferguson 2, O'Rear 2, Harris 2, Shelton 2, and White 1.

Earlier in the week, the ladies traveled to Booker and demolished them, 52-18. The ladies were not contested in the game at all and held their opponent to single digits in the first half of play. Phara Berry was on target as she finished in double figures with 13.

Also scoring: G. Bryley 8, Smith 7, White 6, Starnes 4, Thomas 4, Harris 4, Hill 3, and Lynzee Bryley 3.

After the Christmas break, the ladies will host Memphis January 7 in their District opener beginning at 6:00 p.m.

Bronco JV declared Champions

By Sandy Anderberg

The Bronco Maroon junior varsity left no doubt as to their athleticism in their own tournament help December 16 and 18. After taking on three good teams, the Broncos claimed the Championship by defeating Childress JV in the final round, 46-21.

The Clarendon team was split into two teams for the tournament.

After a close opening period, the Broncos turned up the heat against the Cats defensively to hold them scoreless in the second quarter of play. The Broncos increased their lead in the second half of play and secured their win. Diego Santos and Terence Wilson put up a great battle offensively and led all scorers with 10 points each.

Also scoring: Cody Wood 9, Tanner Burch 8, Mitchell Parry 7, and Devonte Hardaway 2.

The Broncos took on Claude to start the tournament on Thursday and defeated them 48-36. Santos and Wood were on fire offensively as they led their team to the win. Santos racked up 21 points, while Wood pumped in 11.

Also scoring: Wilson 4, Burch 4, Jonah Sell 4, Hardaway 2, and Parry 2.

The Broncos went up against Childress 9th in the second round and played their closest game of the contest. The Cats put up a good fight, but the Broncos were able to outlast them at 43-40.

Clarendon opened up with a huge lead, but Childress came roaring back to get within five points at the break. The Broncos did not let up and stayed on top of their opponent to get the win.

"These guys played so well as a team," coach Alton Gaines said. "I was really impressed with their hard play and hustle in the Championship game."

Scoring: Santos 12, Wilson 10, Burch 7, Wood 6, Parry 4, Hardaway 2, and Sell 2.

The Broncos took on Booker earlier in the week and very handily defeated them 68-30. It was really never a contest as the Broncos clearly had the upper hand the entire game. Terence Wilson put in 19 points to lead the Broncos and Diego Santos added 14.

"The boys got after them early," Gaines said. "The pressure was too much for them. That is our trademark, and the boys do it so well. My thinking is, you pressure enough, it's as good as a trap, and turnovers will follow."

Scoring: Wilson 19, Santos 14, Burch 6, Javier Gobas 5, Cody Harjo 5, Wood 4, Parry 4, Sell 4, Hardaway 3, Austin Lowry 2, and Cameron Wright 2.

The Broncos will travel to Groom January 7 and play at 6:00 p.m.

The Bronco junior varsity White team also participated in the tournament and had good results. They took on Memphis in the first round and were narrowly defeated at 44-42.

After trailing by nine at the end of the first quarter, the Broncos stormed back to cut the lead to only three points. But the second half did not go as they had planned and the Broncos lost all the ground they made up before the break. However, they did play hard and got back into the ball game, but time ran out and they suffered the two-point loss. Chance McAnear and Javier Gobas led their team offensively with 15 and 10 points.

Also scoring: Cody Harjo 9, Suebsia Hawinwan 4, Zach Cornell 2, and Cameron Wright 2.

The Broncos took on Childress JV in the next game and fell short at 32-40.

Despite playing hard, the Broncos could not get into a rhythm offensively.

Cody Harjo played a great game on both ends of the court and added 19 to the scoreboard to lead the Broncos.

Scoring: Harjo 19, Gobas 7, McAnear 4, and Wright 2.

The Broncos matched up against Claude in game three and got a huge overtime win at 49-48. Several Broncos stepped up their game and worked both ends of the floor with intensity. Harjo and McAnear posted double figures in the win.

"The freshman team was a breath of fresh air, also," Gaines said. "It was the first time these guys have played together in a real game setting and in all three games, they really looked good. Good job to all the guys that played this past weekend."

Scoring: Harjo 16, McAnear 12, Hawinwan 9, Gobas 9, and Cornell 3.

riors winning 61 to 41.

The Hedley Lady Owls played the Miami Lady Warriors last Tuesday night.

The Lady Owls had trouble executing their offense in the beginning and trailed their foes 3 to 14 in the first quarter. The Lady Owls made a valiant effort to overcome the point deficient but were unable to catch up in the end losing 47 to 59.

Lady Owls scoring: Kaylee Shields 17, Haley Chambless 14, Bailey Wood 7, Kassidy Burton 5, Sierra Shelp 2, and Jodee Widener 2.

The Hedley Junior High boys and girls teams traveled to McLean on Monday, December 13, to take on the McLean Tiger Cubs.

The boys' team had to work a little harder to overcome their opponents.

But with the whole team working hard and each playing scoring for the Owls the boys won the game in the end 33 to 29.

Scoring for the Junior High Lady Owls: Kortney Burton 15, Kati Adams 6, Briley Chadwick 4, Becca Butler 3, Maddie Verstuyft 3, and Cheyenne Smith 1.

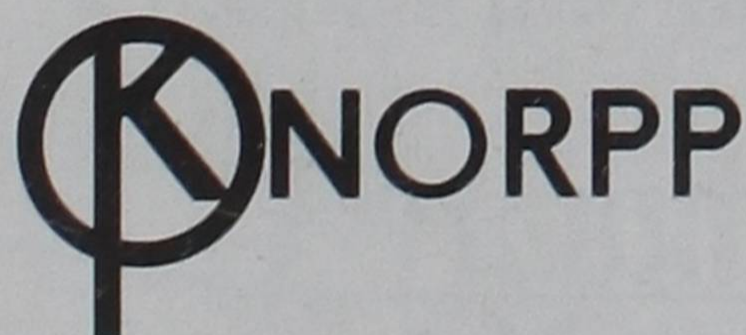

Scoring for the Junior High Owls: Frankie Ramirez 9, Wyatt Wheatly 8, Casey McClesky 6.

Drugs in the News

Additional Benefit of Arthritis Drug

According to a study conducted by researchers at the University of Pennsylvania School Of Medicine, hydroxychloroquine (Plaquenil), which is indicated for the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, may also be useful in treating persons who develop diabetes. This study involved a chart review of 82 individuals who were being treated for both diabetes and rheumatoid arthritis. Forty-five individuals had received hydroxychloroquine while thirty-seven individuals received methotrexate, another arthritis medication. Results from the study showed that those who received hydroxychloroquine experienced an improvement in blood glucose control after one year.

Persons with rheumatic conditions are at a high risk of developing blood glucose irregularities. In previous clinical trials, hydroxychloroquine has been shown to improve glucose control even in those without arthritic conditions. Diabetes is a metabolic disorder affecting almost 8% of the world's population. Rheumatoid arthritis is a chronic inflammatory disorder that affects an estimated 1% of the population of the world.

Clarendon Church of Christ ARE YOU AN "INNIE" OR "OUTIE"?

I'm not talking about your belly button here. What we will look at today is righteousness. Is your righteousness only outward actions or does your righteousness emanate from within?

In Jesus' day, He dealt with a group that was notoriously conspicuous with their religion. I'm speaking of course of the Scribes and Pharisees. They loved to be noticed and recognized with titles. They enjoyed people calling out to them on the streets. They were great scholars and often taught the truth. Their problem was they didn't live by what they taught. They deemed themselves righteous and based this assumption on their outward works and things that could be seen. Their actions, though, did not often reflect what was going on inside.

Jesus wanted His followers to be better than that. Matthew 5:20, "For I say to you, that unless your righteousness exceeds the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees, you will by no means enter the kingdom of heaven." He then gives examples of how it should exceed. In verses 21-26, He shows that the interpretation of the Pharisees of the law of Moses didn't measure up to Christ's teachings. Those verses show the difference in the sin of murder and going further and condemning the anger and hate one has inside. Murder of course was wrong, but murder is an action taken predicated on an already evil thought from within. Jesus was teaching that His disciples must go further than just avoiding murder but to deal with anger or hate in their heart. The Pharisees were dealing only with the outside in their "righteousness", Jesus wanted His people to deal with the inside first. If the inside is pure, then murder or other outward actions would take care of themselves.

That's the point. Are you an "Innie" or an "Outie"? Do you merely try not to do bad things or do you try to go deeper and fix the root of a problem? It takes honesty and maturity. Jesus wants better followers than those who might say, "I don't rob others, I've never killed anyone, etc." Jesus wants disciples who work on their heart and purify themselves from within so that the outward person will reflect this also.

Further Jesus pointed out that adultery was wrong. He said to deal with the lustful thoughts first. Once again, if you deal with the sinful thoughts, your outward actions will be taken care of. If you've got your heart right, you're much less likely to commit murder, adultery, or whatever.

We will end with the question, "Are you merely righteous on the outside or are you righteous all the way inside to the heart?" It will make a difference, Jesus said, eternally speaking.

Highway Patrol to target DWI during holidays

In addition to their traditional increased patrols for the Christmas and New Year's holidays, the Texas Highway Patrol will conduct focused DWI patrols in high-risk locations during the times when alcohol-related crashes are most frequent.

The targeted DWI patrols will run from Tuesday, December 21, to Saturday, January 1. These special DWI patrols are thanks to a TxDOT grant targeting impaired driving.

Highway Patrol troopers also will have all available troopers out patrolling Texas highways from Friday, Dec. 24, to midnight on Sunday, Dec. 26.

"We'd prefer that drivers obey the traffic laws on their own, but we'll be out on the roads to ensure that travelers are as safe as possible," said David Baker, Assistant Director for the Texas Highway Patrol. "We'll be looking for intoxicated drivers, as well as speeders and seatbelt violators."
