Mrs. J. P. Manly Succumbs

Mrs. J. P. Manly, a Donley County resident for 42 years, passed away early Saturday, October 16, at the home here of her daughter, Mrs. Allen J. Bryan. She was 82 years old.

Mrs. Manly was born Elizabeth A. Lee. Her birth occurred on December 15, 1865 in Austin County, Texas. She grew to girlhood in Austin County and it was there that she was married to John Price Manly on October 25, 1883. To this union was born four daughters and three sons.

It was then that the family moved to Donley County, the journey being made overland in a covered wagon. Here, Mr. Manly engaged in farming and the raising of registered hogs. He preceded his wife in death in 1920.

Broncs To Meet Irish In Last Home Game of Season

FATHER AND SON TOUR NORTHWEST SECTION

Returning home Sunday night, Frank B. White and Frank Jr. had covered a number of states and had seen many interesting developments.

The trip was made through central Oklahoma north into Kansas and thence west through Nebraska where some time was spent in looking over Boys Town. Mr. White states that the many beautiful buildings and well kept grounds and farm area of the institutions are a credit to any state or nation. "It's simply wonderful" is the way Mr. White put it.

Many pheasants and some grouse were seen over the prairie country as these men journeyed to the Black Hills country. They looked over the wonderful carvings of Gutzon Borglum and spent some time at that point since the replicas of the former presidents are so life-like and huge, being carved on the outer rim of the granite mountain.

United Council of Church Women To Sponsor "Pack-a-Towel" Project For Overseas Teen-Agers

By Mrs. Millard Word

The United Council of Church Women is sponsoring "Pack-a-Towel" for the unfortunate underprivileged teen-agers of Europe and Asia. No group has suffered more physically and spiritually than the young people. The stabilizing influences of home, community, church and school, have been denied them. Yet in their hearts is the same zest for life, the same love of fun and gaiety, the same dreams for tomorrow, that we know in our own youth. So the United Council of Church Women propose that we should each send a gift to help and encourage them and let them know that the Christian women in America appreciate their problems and desire to help them.

This Pack-a-Towel project is put in action by starting with a pretty bath towel 22 inches wide—on one end of the towel fold aew or good as new garments—as complete an outfit as you can. Include soft soled bedroom slip-

Approximately 20,000 Presbyterian young people attend similar camps every summer. GOLDSTON TO HAVE CARNIVAL OCT. 27

The Leader has been asked to announce that there will be a big school Carnival at Goldston school house Wednesday night, October 27th.

"If you want to enjoy yourself come out, as we invite everyone to come," stated Mrs. Lawrence Hauck, teacher in the school. "You can always have a good time at Goldston."

pers, new material for dress, sewing kit, soap, comb, tooth brush, hair pins, hankies, socks, stockings, neck ties, scarfs packed into pocketbook, pouch or wash cloth, nothing breakable or spillable. Include a friendly note with senders name and address. Flop other end of the towel over the pile, pin edges together with a dozen assorted safety pins. Pin firmly to it a piece of cloth with large crayon letters B (boy) G (girl) and size. Bring your bundle to the Methodist Church for dedication on World Community Day, Nov. 5, 1948—3 p. m.

Let us as church women see that we have many packs for our foreign brother. If you so desire several members can contribute to a pack. Do not forget this important project and start now and select your articles and interest your friends in helping with this worthy world community Pack-a-Towel movement.

For any other information, call Mrs. Pete Kunz, Miss Mable Monagle or Mrs. Millard Word.

Friday night will be the last big night on the home gridiron for the Clarendon Broncs, and it is expected to be one of the biggest tangles of the year, as the local gridsters will be out there doing their very best to give the Shamrock Irishmen their second defeat in two weeks time, the Irish having been toppled by Lefors in a hotly contested game at Shamrock last weekend.

Friday night will be important in two other respects for the Broncs. It will be "Dad" night and the Football Queen will be crowned. Dad's of all the Clarendon squad will be in the stands wearing the same numbers that will appear on the jerseys of their boys on the playing field. This will be an added inspiration for the Broncs to put out all they can against the highly publicised and capable Irishmen. Miss June Selman will be crowned football queen immediately before the game is to start, and her attendants will be Jo Veta Maxey and Gladylene Emmons. Be sure to be at the game early enough to see this colorful part of the program.

Coach Clinton reported that the Broncs squad as a whole were in good condition for the game. They had an open date last week, giving them more opportunity to get in shape for this particular battle, and as our luck had been going, it eliminated any possible injuries which have been hampering the Broncs all season. Wilson will be back at his end position this week for the first time since the McLean game, and Bradford will be back again in the backfield. The co-captains for the week will be Gene Bulman and Drew Christie.

The probable starting line-up for the Broncs, starting at right end will be as follows: Heatherly, Clifford, Christie, White, Travis Mulanax, Tatum and Wilson. In the backfield, Jenkins will hold down his quarterback job, Littlefield at left half and Bradford at right half and Bulman in the full-back position.

The probable starting line-up for Shamrock, starting with right end will be: Martin, Zeigler, Hartsfield, Cobb, Brown, Briggs, and Pool. In the backfield, Green at the quarterback slot, Close and McLemore in the half back positions and Lee as fullback.

Don't forget the game starts promptly at 8 p. m. and this will be the last home game of the season, so make your plans to be out there and let the Broncs know you are backing them all the way.

Enthusiasm Growing For 2nd Dollar Day

Local merchants want to remind everyone that they are planning a much bigger and better Dollar Day for shoppers in this trade area the first Wednesday of next month which falls on November 3rd.

Combined with this second Dollar Day event will be the first Appreciation Day attraction in which some forty merchants will be participating. This will be a day in which everyone will have an opportunity to participate in the special attractions offered on that day. This group of businessmen, headed by the Retail Merchants committee of the Chamber of Commerce, met last night to further plans for the program and engineer all out cooperation for the next Dollar Day. It was pointed out that merchants would be advertising wanted merchandise that would carry more value for the dollar in the next issue of the Leader.

More value for your dollar—Dollar Day Wednesday, Nov. 3rd.

"Tobias Brandywine", a new book by Dan Wickenden, has been chosen for review by Mrs. Emery, who makes her first appearance here Friday at 4 p. m. at the College Auditorium.

"Tobias Brandywine" the Providence Journal says, "is a joy to read. The story of an American family, full of distinctive human sweetness that is all too rare, but is typical of Wickenden's work." The Boston Herald calls it "A book of gentle excitement, leisurely charm, shrewd wisdom, flashing wit."

Mrs. Emery comes to Clarendon through the courtesy of Sanger Bros., Dallas.

GARDEN CLUB

The Garden Club held its last meeting of the year in the home of Mrs. Will Johnson with Mrs. A. L. Chase assistant hostess, on October 12th.

The theme of the program was "Flower Arrangement" conducted by Mrs. J. L. McMurtry. Mrs. Hayne, Mrs. Harry Brumley, Miss Harlan, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. McMurtry showed arrangements suitable for various occasions. In the living room a great mass of marigolds in a low bowl complemented the dark wood of the coffee table. On a console stand was an arrangement of pink Jersey Beauty dahlias in the much liked triangular style. Across the room dark red dahlias made a splash of color against the light wall. In the second room a large bouquet of Tithonia in a blue pottery bowl on a black cloth held the center of interest. Pale orchid dahlias floated in a low crystal swan boat on the dressing table. Also in this room, a formal decoration in white consisting of "turnip" roses with boysenberry leaves on a blue glass reflector flanked by crystal candelabra holding tall tapers. A lovely black low bowl held a yellow straw flower arrangement, Chinese in feeling. In the dining room, the table was given over to numerous arrangements for children —small pink chrysanthemums in a silver cup for the new baby; a pottery train, each unit a different color, holding tiny cactus in the smokestack and tender and the open car and candy sticks in the caboose; a pottery cart and donkey in cheery colors—the cart 'loaded' with cacti, succulents and ivy; among many others. The sideboard held a harvest arrangement—fruits, vegetables, flowers and brown grass. A toy drum turned on its side with pine cones and greenery tied at the top and the drumsticks dangling by red ribbons made a decorative door knocker for Xmas time.

A lace center piece of red turnip roses with glassy boysenberry leaves was appropriate for the Christmas table. An arrangement of many red carnations together with toy horns, etc., made an effective New Year's bouquet. On a table in the front bedroom were exquisite cakes and flowers made from candy by Mrs. Harry Brumley; two sweetheart cakes, one blue with pink roses and white birds; the other pink with tiny white lilies—two 'orchids' and a glass basket of 'forget-me-nots'—a most beautiful display of a rare art.

Roll call was answered by naming the official flower, bird and tree of our states.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses to the following members: Mesdames J. L. McMurtry, Lee Holland, Lena Antrobus, Harry Brumley, S. W. Hayne, Joe Goldston, Bob Head, Frank Phelan Sr., Rayburn Smith, Rolle Brumley, H. Warner, Jno. Goldston, O. C. Watson, Pete Kunz and Frank White Jr.

F.F.A. And F.H.A. Attend State Fair

A group of twenty-one students and three sponsors were in very high spirits at eleven o'clock Friday morning as they left for Dallas to attend the State Fair. They arrived in Dallas about eight o'clock Friday evening. That, by no means, meant rest because while one group attended the movies another group rode over the town until after eleven. But still, that didn't mean any sleep. It was fully three A. M. when the last had settled down to sleep only to be awakened at six A. M. Everyone enjoyed a busy day at the fair. They were treated to a free picnic lunch at noon, sponsored by the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. At eight-thirty Saturday evening a number of the group attended the Ice Revue which was a wonderful experience in itself. By the time everyone had settled down and discussed their days adventures it was about one-thirty or two A.M.

At six o'clock Sunday morning everyone was pulled out of bed to make ready for the great trip home. By eight o'clock they were headed for the great town of Clarendon. No one should have to be reminded that they did arrive in Clarendon about eight Sunday night because the group very loudly and cheerfully announced their arrival home.

Those who experienced this wonderful nightmare were F.H.A. members: Doris Knorpp, Doris Smith, Mary Edna Elmore, Laddelle Cox, Mae Morris, Ramona Rhea, Jo Ann Ritter, Jeanette Stogner, Elouise Hinton, Josephine Spier, Dorothy Lou Brock, Margie Hill, Ina Morrow, and Jeannine Waldrop.

F.F.A. members: Bob Clifford, Vernon Goldston, Glenn Sanders, Bobby Whitaker, Glenn Reed, Sidney Muse and Ralph Nichols. The sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Seay and Miss Loyd Richerson.

Mrs. Alfred Estlack and baby, Ada Danalene, were brought home Monday morning by a Murphy-Spicer ambulance from the Clark Hospital at Memphis.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Boomer and family of Amarillo and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Matthews and son of Pampa attended the Murphy-Hunsaker wedding last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lowe and his mother, Mrs. W. T. Lowe spent the weekend with her daughter, Mrs. Farrar at Melrose, N. Mex. Mrs. Lowe remained for a longer visit.

FARM NEWS

This year is coming to end very rapidly now, and there seems to be a good many changes being made. The elections are getting most of the attention right at the present time. We received a letter from the Secretary of Agriculture this last week saying that the Secretary of Commerce has made an appeal to the farmers and farm organizations, to cooperate in the current scrap iron drive. The prospects for farm machinery in 1949 are not as good as they should be due to the shortage of iron and steel. We of the AAA office and the County Committee members have been asked to support this scrap metal drive, and we in turn are asking everyone in Donley County to help with this program. Your scrap metal can be sold to any dealer through the regular channels of trade and will serve the final purpose in the regular manner.

Mrs. Ritter and Mr. Breedlove attended a meeting of the Farm Bureau at the Herring Hotel in Amarillo last Friday. They enjoyed, very much, the entire program and the speeches. The Hon. Eugene Worley made an enlightening talk concerning the present farm program and price support, and what might be expected in the future.

As this program year is about over we want to urge especially that the farmers who have approvals be prompt in reporting practices just as soon as they are completed. In doing this they will get their checks quicker and will make the job of applying for the checks much easier for us here in the AAA office.

and over the radio the farmers of the United States have been criticised and blamed for the high prices. It is very interesting to note, however, that the laundryman gets more for finishing a shirt one time than the farmer gets for the cotton that goes to make the shirt.

Mrs. Nina Cross who has been ill at the Memphis hospital was able to be moved home last week.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—On what priority basis is a World War I veteran admitted to Veterans Administration hospital?
A—Emergency cases have first priority; those suffering from injuries incurred in or aggravated by war time service are next on the priority list, and those who swear they are unable to pay hospital charges for non-service-connected disabilities or illnesses are third. The latter must wait until a bed is available.

Q—Are dependents of a World War I veteran, who died of causes not due to service, entitled to death pension?
A—In most cases, they are entitled to death pension benefits. The widow is disqualified if her annual income exceeds $1,000, or $2,500 if she has a child or children. A child is ineligible if his or her income exceeds $1,000 per year.

Q—I am a World War I veteran and was discharged from the U. S. Army in 1938. I would like to know if I am eligible for the education, readjustment allowance and guaranty loan provisions of the G-I Bill?
A—No. Benefits of the G-I Bill are available only to World War II veterans.

Geo. B. Bagby will leave today for Dallas. While there he will attend the Dallas Fair and Santa Clara-SMU football game.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. White left Wednesday morning for Colorado City, San Angelo and other points in South Texas.

year. A widow loses her entitlement upon remarriage, and children normally become ineligible when they reach age 18.

Mr. Frank Ellerson from Turpin, Okla. visited Saturday and Saturday night with his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Williams. Their sister, Mrs. Florence Bledsoe who is from Indianapolis, Ind. and who has been visiting the past week with her sister, Mrs. Williams, returned home with her brother Monday where she will visit a few weeks.

COLLEGE BULLDOGS
DEFEAT GROOM EXES

The Clarendon Jr. College Bulldogs won their first game of the season from the Groom Exes by a narrow margin of 2-0, here last Wednesday night, Oct. 13th.

Both teams put up a good fight, all during the game, and at the half they were locked in a 0-0 tie.

In the third quarter after having suffered several setbacks, Groom fumbled a bad pass from center in an attempt to kick, and it resulted in a safety for the Bulldogs.

All of you who enjoy a good game of football—played for the sport of playing football—certainly missed a treat if you missed this game.

Burns Dance Band To Play For Legion Dance, October 28

The nine-piece orchestra of Bobby Burns, talented young trumpet player, will play for the

BOBBY BURNS

American Legion sponsored dance here October 28th. The Halloween dance, to be held in the Clarendon Opera House, will start at 9 p. m. and last until 1 a. m.

Burns has appeared with such name bands as Charlie Spivak, Al Donahue, Bobby Sherwood and Herbie Kaye, and spent 12 years on the road with the above named bands. Appearing with Burns October 28th will be Jeanne Carroll, lovely songsstress, and Bart Edwards, bass player, stated William S. Greene, chairman of the Legion dance committee.

Many persons will remember Jeanne Carroll as the girl who for three years sang with the

JEANNE CARROLL

Dick Morton band at the Herring Hotel in Amarillo, he added.

Every one is invited to this dance. Refreshments will be served and every one is invited to have a big time.

In spite of being scared within an inch of my life, I enjoyed being on Lewis Nordyke's radio program last Sunday. I couldn't help being scared; everything has to be so, so-so. I had to leave my chewing gum outside, then Lewis took my pencil away from me, as I was tapping on the desk. Finally they had to tie my hands to keep me from thumping on the desk. I am glad that I don't have to have anything to do with radio. I understand now why most of the programs are so bad, the microphones will pick up anything and broadcast it. Lewis tried to get me not to breathe, said the program would come out a lot better, but I just couldn't keep from snatching just a little air once in awhile. Anyway, thanks to Lewis for such a swell time; he gave us a fresh supply of those good luck bringing buck-eyes, offered to feed us, and made us promise to vote for him for Governor in 1950, and we intended to do that all the time.

Can you imagine Herbert Hunt being a judge in a queen contest? Anyway, it actually happened at the district Farm Bureau meeting last Friday in Amarillo. This beautiful Girl from the Panhandle will go to the state convention next month to compete with eleven other girls for the state winner. Anyway, beginning now a state wide drive is on for more members in the Farm Bureau. I hate like heck to part with the five bucks, but I doubt if we can afford to let our efforts weaken at this time. If it wasn't for the loan, where would our prices be now on what the farmer has to sell, and no one else is going to look after our interests, if we don't.

One of my readers more or less accuses me of being for Coke in the column. I have only tried to be fair to both sides. Anyway, he says "The people voted Coke down, three courts ruled against him, and now he is trying to get into another party." Anyway, he says, "I say, he ain't no Democrat." And judging from his way of saying it, a fellow that wasn't a Democrat, just wasn't worth considering at all. This reader is a former Mississippian, and a Democrat, I think.

Our postmaster says that there are at least four sins common to most men, and that we nearly have to be guilty of one of them, and that he chose smoking as one of the lesser evils. Is he trying to compromise me? Lewis Nordyke says that his former postmaster has been off tobacco for eight years and still hankers after it, and I am just in my third week. Someone please send me in a cheerful report on the subject. At that, never mind for by the time this goes to press I might have fallen by the way.

Read this someplace: Some folks won't mind their business. The reason is, you'll find, they either have no business or else they have no mind.

Also that: Darwin took a couple million years to make a monkey out of a man; A woman could do it in the "twinkle of an eye".

Did I spell Coke with a capital letter? Anyway, I was talking about Coke the man. Some time ago I received a letter from some high-salaried vice-president advising me to spell Coke with a capital letter. I should have known better, and vice-presidents should have more important things to do.

Grand Champion Steer Brings $2 Per Pound

Two dollars a pound was the top price paid for the Grand Champion steer of the Junior Steer Show at the 1948 State Fair of Texas Junior Livestock Auction Sale which began at 9:30 a. m. in the Swine Arena, Ray W. Wilson, State Fair livestock manager, announced.

Sim A. Reeves, Jr., a 14-year-old Fort Stockton, Texas high school boy, pocketed a check for $2,480 from the Burris Feed Mills of Dallas, high bidders on the 1240 lb. red and white Hereford champion, Ferdinand.

Ferdinand brought his young owner a total of $2,740 in premiums and sale price during the Junior Livestock Show. When asked what he intended doing with the money, young Reeves replied that he would put it in the bank until he finished high school and then use the prize money to pay his way through Texas A&M where he plans to study agriculture.

Representing Burris Feed Mills at the Auction was Wiley Aikens of Dallas. Prominent among the bidders were various officials of meat packing plants, banks, meat retailers, hotel and restaurants, all anxious to obtain the best quality beef, lamb and pork.

The Junior Livestock Auction was opened with short speeches by Ray W. Wilson, R. L. Thornton, president of the State Fair, and John Carpenter, chairman of the auction sale. These speakers pointed out the importance of the contributions made by the young 4-H Club members and Future Farmers to the livestock industry.

"Texas can be proud of these fine boys who have produced these fine animals," Mr. Thornton pointed out.

Bidding slowed down on the Reserve Grand Champion, a 1110 lb. Hereford steer, to a closing price of $1.65 a pound. Reppy Guitier, an 11-year-old Big Springs boy, withdrew his animal from the sale.

'AMOS 'N' ANDY' RETURN

"Amos 'n' Andy," whose inimitable humor and fantasy have proved to millions of Americans the enduring value of their art, are back on CBS with a new Sunday half-hour series. Embraced by each new generation as its own discovery, their rare comedy is augmented in the new series by all their celebrated friends and neighbors, every one a "character" in his or her own right.

Champion Angus steer exhibited by Robert H. Johnson, of Goldthwaite, Texas, was sold for 60 cents a pound to Wyatt Food Stores who paid $513 for the 855 lb. animal.

The Champion Shorthorn steer was bought by A&P Food Stores at 60 cents a pound. Andy Dale Young of Burkett, Texas, was the exhibitor of this 955 lb. animal.

J. H. Ballew of Clarendon, exhibitor of the Grand Champion Barrow and Grand Champion Pen of 3 Barrows, received $2 a pound for his prize Hampshire. Ballew's two other Champion entries brought $397.50 or 75 cents a pound, raising his total receipts to $937.50 during the auction sale.

The 112 lb. Grand Champion Sheep exhibited by Glenn C. Bragg of Talpa, Texas was sold at $5 a pound bringing its owner $560.

Grand Champion of the Junior Negro Pig Show was purchased by Bankston Motors of Dallas at $2 per pound. J. T. Smith White of Shiro received $440 for his 220 lb. Poland China entry. Bobby Jones of Roanoke received $495 for his Grand Champion Pen of 3 Poland Chinas from Swift & Co.

Col. Walter Britton, of College Station, served as auctioneer with the State Fair of Texas serving as paying and collecting agent for the transactions without charge.

NEW DEMANDS

48 hours pay for 40 hours work
 Penalty pay for weekends & holidays
 25¢ an hour increase
 Total 1/2 BILLION DOLLARS

1 1/2 Billion Dollar Road Block!

RAILROADS MUST OPERATE around the clock every day and night of the year.

Although they know this, leaders of 16 railroad unions are demanding a five-day, Monday through Friday, week for one million railroad employees.

They want 48 hours pay for 40 hours work—in itself a 20% wage increase.

They also demand a minimum of 12 hours pay for any work performed on Saturdays, and 16 hours pay for any work performed on Sundays and holidays.

On top of all this they want an additional increase of 25¢ an hour for every employee!

You'd Pay the Bill!

Summing up these demands, they mean that these union leaders seek to force the railroads to give one million employees an annual raise which would average $1500 per employee!

The total cost of this would be no less than 1 1/2 billion dollars per year, which is more than twice the expected net income of the railroads this year.

You'd pay the bill, because if these increased costs are forced on the railroads, they must have still further rate and fare increases.

Demands Unreasonable

These employees have had substantial raises during and since the war. Their average weekly earnings are higher than the average weekly earnings of workers in manufacturing industries. They have more job security than the average worker in American industry. They also enjoy paid vacations, a retirement system and other advantages more generous than the average worker receives.

In contrast with the demands of these 16 unions, which add up to the equivalent of 48¢ an hour, the Conductors and Trainmen recently settled their wage request for an increase of 10¢ an hour.

Railroads Run for Everybody—Not Employees Alone

The railroad industry must serve not one but many groups—producers, businessmen, shippers, passengers and the general public—night and day, every day of the year. These unions are proceeding in utter disregard of this important difference between railroads and other industries. Industrial plants can be shut down over weekends and holidays, but freight, mail, express and passengers must continue to move. Everybody who enters railroad employment knows this.

Strike Threat

On September 18, 1948, the leaders of these 16 unions began taking a strike vote. But the threat of a strike will not alter the opposition of the railroads to such unreasonable demands!

Selective Service Information Given

In order to correct any misunderstanding and avoid unnecessary correspondence or trips to the main office in Pampa, C. H. Walker, chairman of the four county Selective Service Board No. 52, has issued the following statement:

1. Full-time students in high school or college will be classified in I-A and remain so classified until the end of the school year unless their status changes. They may be ordered for induction as others but upon their written request they will be deferred until they finish their school year. If their status changes in any way they are required to notify this board of that fact.
2. Any person may appear before the Board any Tuesday at 2 p. m. if he is not satisfied with his classification.
3. After registrants are ordered for their preinduction physical examination those who pass will not be ordered for induction for 21 days after their physical examination.
4. In case any registrant is ordered for induction into the armed forces he will be given at least 10 days notice before the induction date.
5. Any registrant who thinks he has any obvious physical defects that would bar him from service in the army should appear before the Board on any Tuesday at 2 p. m. and will be assigned to a local medical adviser for a report to this Board.
6. Registrants who write to this office for information as to their classification should always give the day, month, and year of their birth.

If you want to get rid of a man who tries to borrow some money, lend it to him.

CITY-COUNTY LIBRARY NOTES
By May L. Prewitt

The Librarian was quite rushed with posting new books last week, so the notes for the paper were neglected.

Comments from publications that discuss books possessed by this Library are of interest to our readers, and in reading the book column of the "American Home" you will notice "Mrs. Foote's Rose Book" is recommended. It states that Mrs. Foote's 50 years of experience with roses was enough on which to base this delightful and informational book. Her garden contains 10,000 roses, and her common sense methods of growing and explaining their cultivation have won her the title of "the greatest builder of rose gardens of all times."

Another non-fiction book of unusual appeal is "Folk Song U.S.A." by John and Allen Lomax—This includes all the types of Folk Songs grouped by classification headings. The book is dedicated to the memory of Mr. C. D. McDowell by the Frank White Jrs. It is an exquisite volume that will be of great usefulness.

A cleverly written non-fiction book that has been recently purchased is "Throw Me A Bone" by Mrs. Lothrop who tells of their honeymoon experiences in Chili. Her husband is an archaeologist, and she "assists" him with his bone digging and cleaning. Their traveling experiences and contact with the natives are all exciting and amusingly related.

For the teen-agers two science copies, "Young Peoples' Book of Atomic Energy" by Potter and "The Atomic Story" by Campbell are recent arrivals that are memorial gifts.

The newest addition to the fiction shelf is "Mary Donovan" by Anne Miller Downes. There are several books here by this writer that have been popular. "Mary Donovan" breathes the spirit of an author writing out of a profound belief—the belief that the right kind of home is the bed rock of our civilization. One reviewer, has said, "The clean cut, honest, portrayal of characters and incidents bring this story of deep emotional experience before the reader with the vividness of scenes upon a stage. Personally, the book was so realistically presented that it was enjoyable, regardless of the depressing situations."

There are so many books of interest on the market that one constantly stays at the "Wishing Gate". The most difficult books to procure when ordered, or to discover to order are those useable by the first and second grades. These little people are so eager to try to read "other books outside of those at school."—Last order was returned with check, stating "out of print."

Donley Voters Confronted With Lengthy Ballot

(Partial reprint from Amarillo Times)

Forty offices deep, seven parties wide and approval or disapproval of several constitutional amendments—that is quick description of the lengthy general election ballot that will confront Donley County voters next month.

The ballot, longest in many years, demands a vote against everything from presidential hopefuls to local county offices.

Three thousand such ballots have been printed and delivered to the office of County Clerk Walker Lane. Absentee voting is already underway.

Seven parties represented on the ballot include the Democratic, Republican, States Rights, Prohibition, Progressive, Socialist, and Independent. Presidential candidates representing four other political groups do not appear on the ballot.

The ballot carries the widely embattled name of Lyndon Johnson as Democratic Party candidate for the senate, and the name of J. Evetts Haley, reluctant Republican opponent of Eugene Worley for Congress from the Panhandle District.

HEAR THE BAPTIST HOUR

Sunday morning at 7:30 over radio station KGNC. Dr. James L. Sullivan, pastor of Belmont Heights Baptist Church, Nashville, Tennessee, will speak on the subject: "Victory Through Surrender."

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

I'm Glad We're "Different!"

There's a lot of difference of opinion in our county on the best kind of pasture. Some say alfalfa mixed with brome grass—others say mixed with oats or barley. But all agree that a mixture's better than a single crop.

I sometimes think people are the same way—and the strength of America is its mixture of so many different strains—some from one country, some from another—right down to little differences: like folks who have a taste for beer and those who prefer cider.

From where I sit, so long as we never become intolerant of one another's different tastes—so long as we live together with our differences, and even supplement them the way brome grass does alfalfa, then we're a mighty good crop!

So neighbor—enjoy your cider while I enjoy my beer! Vote for your candidate—I'll stand by mine! But never let our differences divide us!

Captain of Industry

Meet Butch—Pres., Treas., and Field Force of the One Man Odd Jobs Co., Uninc. Take a good look at him—for Butch is America.

Butch wants a bicycle. Lots of lawn and lemonade and baby-sitting lie between Butch and that bike, but we're betting on the boy. He has energy, vision, and our national habit of working hard for what he wants. He's American business—in miniature.

There are many names for Butch's philosophy. You can call it Free Enterprise, Opportunity, Democracy, or Capitalism, if you want.

But, whatever the name, America owes it much. For our most valuable natural resource lies in the ambition and initiative of Americans like Butch.

As great publications have grown from the dreams of young men with old handpresses—and great industries from the products of grubby little cellar workshops—the electric industry had small beginnings, too. Like our own company. A few men with vision strung the first small lines. People with faith risked their savings. Better and better service, at lower and lower cost, created more and more jobs—and carried the benefits of electric living to more and more people.

Free enterprise and hard work will bring Butch and his bike together. They are what built America and the American way of life, which is the highest standard of living in the world. No nation on earth has found a satisfactory substitute for that combination.

"SQUEEZE PLAY" in Berlin

As General Assembly Meets

(Condensed from The New York Times, Copyright 1948)

FAILURE has dogged three phases of negotiations between the Western Powers and Soviet Russia in efforts to reach agreement that would lead to settlement of the problem of Berlin.

In Moscow conferences between the Western Ambassadors and Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov have been brought to an end. The Western envoys have gone to Paris. The Moscow conferences accomplished little beyond an agreement on procedure that sent the issues of the Berlin blockade and Berlin currency to the four Military Governors in the former German capital.

In Berlin the Four Military Governors were unable to reach agreement. The Western Powers say the Russian Military Governor declined to place proper interpretation on instructions from Moscow.

In Moscow before leaving for Paris, the Western Ambassadors again called at the Kremlin and placed before Molotov complaints that lack of progress in the Berlin negotiations was due to the position taken by the Russian Governor.

From Paris the Western Powers under U. S. leadership sent a sharp note to Moscow asking pointedly if the Berlin issues could be settled through negotiation and hinting broadly that if not the entire Berlin controversy would be turned over to the General Assembly.

General Assembly Meets

As the General Assembly of the United Nations convened in Paris on Sept. 21 for its third regular session, the No. 1 issue to come before the delegates from 58 Nations appeared to be the struggle between the United States and Soviet Russia centering in Berlin.

Month by month that struggle has grown more acute since the Assembly last convened in regular session at Flushing Meadow, N. Y., on Sept. 26, 1947. At that session U. S. Secretary of State George Marshall accused Russia of "deliberately blocking" the road to peace; Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky accused America of "war-mongering" in pursuit of world domination.

Now, one year later, this is where the struggle stands in broad outline: In the West the Marshall Plan for European Recovery is a going business. On the economic foundation of this plan there is rising a Western Alliance against aggression. There are weaknesses in the West—particularly the still unsolved economic problems in France and Italy and the recurrent Cabinet crises in Paris.

In the East Russia has been taking many steps to tighten her control—political, economic and ideological—over the countries in her Eastern European sphere. Russia is on the offensive against the West in Berlin. There are weaknesses in the East—particularly the row inside Communism's house be-there represent countries with a total area of 36,867,179 square miles and a total population of 1,736,307,000,—three-fifths of the earth's land surface and four-fifths of its people.

The General Assembly is the fundamental organ of the United Nations. Its greatest importance lies in its potentialities as a moral and political force in the world. It can recommend courses of action to its member States on practically any international problem it cares to take up. But it cannot tween the Kremlin-dominated Cominform and Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia.

WORLD DANGER POINT—This map shows the four occupation zones in Berlin, where clashes have occurred between the Russians and the Western powers. Note the Tempelhof Airlift where the airlift operated by the Western Powers is landing daily sufficient food and other supplies for Berlin. The railroad to Helmstedt, closed by the Russian blockade since June 19, and the Brandenburg Gate, scene of recent disturbances, also are shown.

General Assembly Is Forum

The General Assembly in Paris is expected to serve, to a large extent, as a forum for debate between the West and the East.

The 58 national delegations gathered order member States to do anything. If it could, it would be a real "Parliament of the World."

Much of the Assembly's agenda is a roll-call of the issues separating Russia and the Western Powers. There are the big issues of atomic energy, Greece, Korea, Trieste, the former Italian colonies, the Big Power veto, admission of new members. There is Palestine. And it appears that another issue may be placed before the Assembly, an issue that could overshadow all others—Berlin.

The last month in Berlin has been marked by increasing pressure from the Russians against the Western Powers in an apparent effort to force them to leave the bomb-wrecked former German capital. There, in the field of action, was written a vivid chapter in the struggle between the East and West.

Germans Oppose Soviet

As Russian pressure mounted, there came spectacular manifestation of opposition by the German people to the Soviet move to take over the city. And, as the month grew to a close, there developed dangerous and ugly incidents—incidents that could bring a clash between the armed troops of the occupying powers.

At month-end this was the belief in Western capitals: There is dynamite in the Berlin situation, but it is unlikely that the fuse will be lighted. The theory is that Russia has used Berlin to influence the current negotiations on the future of Germany and will refrain from any step that would lead irrevocably to war.

So far as the Western Powers are concerned, a major objective seems to be to find a solution for the Berlin difficulties that will not give Russia a propaganda victory. Firmness has been the word for Western policy—particularly that of the United States—in dealing with Berlin.

The battle for Berlin began last June when the Russians clamped a blockade on all shipments from the Western zones into Berlin. The Western Powers retaliated by instituting the spectacular airlift.

Moscow Conferences

In July the Ambassadors of the three Western Powers went to Moscow and began discussions with Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov.

Between July 31 and Sept. 18 the Western Ambassadors visited the Kremlin ten times and held long conferences with Stalin and Molotov seeking a solution to the Berlin problem. The West demanded immediate lifting of the blockade of Berlin as a prelude to any talks on the German problem as a whole. The Russians demanded control of the currency in Berlin as a prelude to lifting the blockade.

On Aug. 27 there was an agreement in the Moscow talks on procedure. It was agreed that the technical questions of currency and the blockade would be turned over to the four Military Governors in Berlin. There also was agreement that the Western mark now circulating in Berlin would be withdrawn and that the Soviet mark would be the sole currency in the city.

The scene shifted to Berlin. The Military Governors turned the specific problems over to technical committees. The blockade problem is relatively simple. It requires primarily a Russian order to permit the trains to run. The currency problem is complex. Whoever controls the currency controls the economic life of Berlin.

Squeeze Play in Berlin

The shift in negotiations from Moscow to Berlin launched a "squeeze play" by Berlin Communists, who number about one-fifth of Berlin's voters. But the Berlin Communists have the backing of the Russian occupation authorities.

Communist-led mobs broke up three scheduled meetings of the city's Assembly, the only city-wide branch of government that has been functioning in recent months. With the break-up of the last attempted meeting of the Assembly, which was accompanied by wild scenes of disorder and near rioting, the last symbol of unified government for all Berlin was demolished.

Resentment against the Russians rose high among Germans in the Western zone, and an armed clash was narrowly averted near the historic Brandenburg Gate.

More than 250,000 Germans gathered in the Platz der Republik in an anti-Russian demonstration. Speeches were (Continued on Page 6, Col. 5)

BIG BEND PARK Is Texas' Last Frontier

BACK in prehistoric days when Mother Nature was pushing great slabs of rock around in the Big Bend Country of Texas there was formed a vast area where times have not changed outwardly since the days of the covered wagon, of the Indian who preceded it, or of the endless ages that came and went before the Indian arrived.

That vast area, now known as the Big Bend National Park, remains almost as it was when viewed by the first White men to come to the West—and picturesque Los Chisos (Ghost) Mountains and the great canyons of Santa Elena, Mariscal, Boquillas and other gorges of the Rio Grande and its tributaries. Across the Rio Grande the Carmen Mountains of Mexico may be seen in a scenic panorama unexcelled in the entire United States.

While the Big Bend Park lies wholly within Texas, it has been proposed that a great International Park be created in that area through cooperation with Mexico. The Mexican Government has shown interest in the suggestion that a great expanse of wilderness with sun-blanching plains, towering mountains with rocky peaks pointing skyward, and deep, cool canyons. It lies within the bend of the Rio Grande along the southern border of Texas where the river swings in a deep, looping swath to the south as it cuts its way through the Rocky Mountain system to form awe-inspiring canyons.

Park of 708,000 Acres
The Big Bend National Park, created four years ago by Act of Congress and made a part of the National Park System, contains approximately 708,000 acres of wilderness just as Nature created it. Ringed on the South by the dark and forbidding canyons and gorges of the Rio Grande, and closed from the east by the straggling Sierra del Carmen Mountains, the Big Bend Park now constitutes the last frontier of the country where the work of Nature may be viewed in all its grandeur, little touched by the hand of man.

The Big Bend has been noted by scientists as the habitat for a number of forms of exceptional plant life. The higher elevations are timbered with ponderosa pine, Douglas fir, Arizona cypress and other trees of the western states. At lower levels, where rainfall is less, desert vegetation is found—yucca, maguay, sotol, ocotilla, lechuguilla, and various forms of cactus.

Deer, bear, mountain lion, squirrel and other animals range the Chisos mountains and graze on the grass-covered plateaus. A few herds of antelope also may be seen in the mountain passes.

Headquarters for the Big Bend Park are maintained at Marathon, Texas, where Ross A. Maxwell, park superintendent. (Continued on Page 7, Col. 4)

CASH INCOME $700,000,000 For Texas Cotton Growers

By JOHN E. KING

KING COTTON may have lost some of his power in Texas. He may not rule with the dominance that marked his rule during the early years of this century when cotton represented 60 per cent of the farmer's total cash income from farm crops. His throne may have become a little shaky during the years of the great depression of the early '30's and during the government tinkering that followed, but the King has not been knocked out.

Cotton, still highest in cash value of all Texas farm crops, may not hold the commanding position in the State's economy that it held for many years prior to 1930, but during the last few years the cash which Texas farmers received per cent or more of the total cash income received by Texas farmers from farm crops. But the cash received then for cotton for most years was far below the $630,000,000 cash produced by last year's crop in Texas. Farmers raised more cotton but they received less money when they sold their crop.

With a larger acreage planted to cotton in Texas this year than that harvested last year, indications are that this year's yield will be about 75,000 bales larger than last year's crop. The average price this year should compare very favorably with the average price received last year. This means that the total cash income for Texas cotton farmers should be at least as large as last year, and probably some-weather damage to cotton in Texas may be far less than now indicated.

The Government's estimate of this year's crop, announced by the U.S.D.A. on Sept. 8 and based on conditions reported as of Sept. 1, reflected a decline of about 200,000 bales for Texas from the Aug. 1 estimate due to the extremely hot and dry weather that prevailed over the State during August. The August 1 estimate gave Texas a total yield of 3,500,000 bales, while the Sept. 1 estimate placed the crop at 3,300,000 bales. Texas will harvest nearly 9,000,000 acres of cotton this year.

But, regardless of the effect of the hot, dry weather on the Texas crop, it now seems certain that this year's crop will be somewhat larger than the crop harvested and sold last year. This means that the total cash received by Texas farmers from the sale of this year's cotton and cottonseed will be larger than last year's cotton income of more than $630,000,000.

If the early estimate of Agriculture Commissioner J. E. McDonald, that this year's crop will exceed that marketed last year by at least 75,000 bales, proves to be correct, more than $14,000,000 will be added to the cash return that farmers receive for their crop.

With cotton selling for better than 30c a pound and cottonseed at $65 a ton—a farmer receives $150 to $160 for bale of lint and between $30 and $40 for the cottonseed out of a bale—a total of $185 to $195 in cash from a bale of cotton. The farmer must pay the ginner $10 a bale for ginning, and cotton picking is costing from $2 to $3 per 100 pounds, or from $30 to $45 a bale.

Congress enacted legislation continuing the government's price support program for cotton and other farm products at the levels that prevailed during the war. Because of this, the government's loan value of cotton—30½c a pound—recently has been about $5 a bale higher than the prevailing prices for lint. Many farmers are placing their cotton under government loan. By doing this they can hedge against a drop in prices. If the price should go up, the farmer can pay off the loan and sell his cotton at the higher price. But if the price should drop, he still is certain of receiving the (Continued on Page 7, Col. 3)

COTTON IS TEXAS' RICHEST CROP—Yields ranging from better than one bale to the acre to less than one bale to four acres are not uncommon in Texas. The cotton crop in Texas this year is estimated at 3,300,000 bales.

ceived from the sale of their cotton and cottonseed has been larger than they received from the sale of any other crop they produced.

$630,000,000 Last Year

Texas farmers last year gathered and marketed nearly 3,600,000 bales of cotton and 1,373,000 tons of cottonseed and in return received over $630,000,000 in cash. This was one-third of all the cash income received by farmers in Texas from the sale of farm products. In the years that marked the hey-day of cotton production in Texas, when farmers depended almost altogether on cotton for their living, cash returns from cotton represented 60 what larger. Total cash income from cotton in Texas this year may exceed $700,000,000.

Crop Damage in August

Early crop estimates placed this year's crop in Texas at 3,675,000 or about 75,000 bales larger than last year's production. Severe heat and drought over most of the cotton growing counties in Texas during the last week of July and all of August may result in a reduction of expected yield in some counties. But cotton is a hot weather crop; it needs hot, dry weather to put on fruit; cotton bolls do not drop off in hot, dry weather as they do when it rains. Some experts say the

Atomic Research Data May Have Helped Soviet

RUSSIA may have obtained enough secret information from the United States to speed up its atomic bomb research.

This was the statement of an investigator for the House Committee on Un-American Activities. It was made after the committee began an investigation of the possibility of atomic espionage by the Soviets. First witness heard was Lt.-Gen. Leslie R. Groves, wartime chief of the army's atomic bomb section.

Gen. Groves is reported to have told the committee that there may have been leaks in atomic bomb secrecy during the war.

The atomic bomb issue is an angle of the Russian spy inquiry which the committee has been conducting. It already has revealed the operation of Russian spy rings in this country during the war. And it has charged that government employes in high places either were members of the rings or gave secret information to them.

More than 600,000 persons were employed on the atomic bomb project during the war. Gen. Groves is reported to have said:

"Security depends wholly upon integrity. You cannot assemble 600,000 perfect people."

Other sources said that Russia learned of the American atomic bomb project a month after it was begun and immediately ordered Soviet agents in this country to obtain information about it.

Naval Guided Missiles Soon

The Navy will arm its warships with their first guided missiles within two years, a high-ranking ordnance expert predicts.

Rear Admiral Albert G. Noble, chief of the Bureau of Ordnance, said the first of the radio-controlled high-speed flying bombs will have short range, but later types will soar farther.

The short range bombs probably will span five to ten miles, but the Navy has its eye on a missile that will cover 100 to 200 miles.

Specially trained officers and technicians will be needed to handle the new weapon and the Navy is considering creating guided missile ratings, Noble wrote in the current Shipmate, unofficial Naval Academy alumni magazine.

The Navy has been working on guided missiles that fly faster than sound for almost four years. Known as Project Bumblebee, the experiments quickly produced the "flying stovepipe"—a ram jet engine developing nearly 3,000-horse power at 1,400 miles an hour.

Superforts Form Background

The B-29's still form the backbone of America's air might. Several hundred more powerful versions of the famed bomber are on order. They are the B-50's, which can cruise 2,000 to 4,000 miles at nearly five miles a minute and carry a heavy bomb load.

Still larger will be the air force's Consolidated Vultee B-36, largest combat aircraft in the world. Eight of these monsters are now in the hands of the strategic air command. Eighty-seven more are to be built during 1949. One B-36 made a test flight carrying 300,000 overall weight, including weight of the plane, full fuel load, crew and bomb load. The B-36 has a normal bomb load of 10,000 pounds and with this load it can fly 10,000 miles non-stop. The maximum bomb load is 72,000 pounds, but with this load it does not have a flight range of 10,000 miles. The manufacturer said the 300,000-pound overall weight lifted in the test flight was the heaviest load ever lifted by an Army airplane.

Education Calls 32,000,000 Young

A new high record of nearly 32,000,000 youths will swarm into schools and colleges this autumn. Elementary schools will be hard hit for space and teaching talent. War veterans in college will total a million, or about 45 per cent of all college enrollment.

The United States Office of Education, in reporting these facts, adds this prediction: By the 1956-57 school year the enrollment flood will rise by another 7,000,000 young.

Because school building programs are not keeping pace with needs, the space shortage this year will be the worst in history, elementary schools will be the hardest hit.

There is a teacher shortage too. "Unless a vast multitude of alert and able young men and women enter the profession of teaching, our children will suffer and our nation will suffer," says Rall I. Grigsby, Commissioner of Education.

This year's record enrollment of 22,797,000 in grammar schools, 6,270,000 in high schools, and 2,500,000 in colleges is attributed to the country's soaring birth rate during and since the war.

Foreign Aid

The United States has handed out nearly 70 per cent of all financial aid to other nations in the period since the end of the war, United Nations reveal. Private and governmental aid from this country was $16,160,000,000. Britain was second on the list, giving $2,450,000,000 to other war-devastated countries. Russia was far down the list, with a single contribution of $478,000,000 to Poland.

In turn Britain received the greatest amount of aid, a total of $6,670,000,000. France was second on the list, getting $3,957,000,000.

Other high aid-receivers were the Anglo-American zone of Germany, $1,876,000,000; Italy, $1,859,000,000; Poland, $1,150,000,000, and The Netherlands, $1,054,000,000.

Magic America

Their desire to live in a land where they might enjoy freedom brought the first white men to the land that now is the United States. The magic of America—now a nation of cities, towns, and farms, of industry and commerce, and of individual freedom—still attracts men and women in all the world.

A few days ago a small, weather-beaten boat docked at the city of Wilmington, N. C. Ten men and five women knelt on the deck and prayed—thanking God for guiding them safely across the Atlantic. John Wortmann, skipper of the craft, explained in halting English that they had set out for America from Gottenburg, Sweden, June 23.

The same day the landing was made in North Carolina, a ship carrying 75

Estonians and Poles landed at St. John's, Newfoundland, also seeking security in the Western Hemisphere.

895 Flights Set Airlift Mark

The British-American airlift supplying Berlin smashed all records with 895 flights in one day into the city which has been blockaded by the Russians for three months.

Celebrating Air Force Day U. S. airmen flew in 5572 tons of coal in 651 flights in the 24-hour period ending at noon. Royal Air Force cargo planes made 244 flights.

The American effort exceeded by 245 tons the wartime freight record set Aug. 1, 1945, by airmen who flew supplies from India to China over the Hump.

New Drug for Hay Fever

A new drug, said to have "marked advantages" over older drugs in the treatment of hay fever, has been described to the American Chemical Society. The new drug is called "Decapryn Succinate." It is a derivative pyridine—compounds of which can be recovered from coke oven gases of steel mills. Dr. Robert S. Shelton of the William S. Merrill Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, said the drug has been placed on the market.

Army Draft Only a Start

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, National Selective Service Director, told the 49th encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars at St. Louis that universal military training is necessary in this country in spite of the draft. The draft is only a start, the General said.

"The draft is not the complete answer to national security because it will not provide training for all citizens, and such training is a must," General Hershey declared.

"A nation can survive in a troubled world only by strength," he said, adding that men are needed to handle the levers, "no matter how atomic the age, or how much machinery there is."

More Money in Circulation

The volume of money in circulation increased by $215,000,000 during the week that ended Sept. 8, the Federal Reserve Board reported in warning banks that they must tighten requirements on loans.

The sharp increase in money in circulation apparently reflected the usual heavy withdrawals of cash from banks as people prepared for the long Labor Day week end.

The increase lifted the total of currency in circulation to $28,287,000,000. This amount is $455,000,000 less than the amount of money in circulation one year ago.

Army Needs 5,200 Doctors

The Army says it does not have enough doctors to take care of the men now in uniform, and grave concern is expressed as to where the needed doctors can be found to care for the enlarged Army and Air Force brought up to authorized strength by the draft. The Army intends to ask Congress in January for authority to draft doctors and dentists.

Such a provision was included in the draft bill prepared by military authorities, but Congress eliminated the provision before it finally approved the recently enacted draft law.

During the war the Army had one doctor for each 170 men in uniform. One doctor was left for each 1,500 civilians on the home front. Now the Army has one doctor for each 300 men in uniform, leaving one doctor for each 975 civilians. If the Army increases its number of doctors in uniform to 8,200 as proposed, this would give one doctor for each 180 men in uniform.

Forts for Sale

Great Gull Island is a seventeen-acre chunk of rock lying at the east end of Long Island Sound, about seven miles from Long Island. The Treasury Department bought it for a lighthouse in 1803, paying $781.18. The department never got around to building its lighthouse. In 1896 the island was turned over to the War Department as the site of Fort Michie. From 1896 to 1940 the Army spent about $1,000,000 for gun emplacements, brick warehouses and new 16-inch guns. This year the Army decided that Fort Michie had outlived its usefulness.

The War Assets Administration has announced that Great Gull Island, along with twenty-one other East Coast fortresses and islands, would be up for sale sometimes this fall. The WAA doesn't expect to have much trouble selling them. One WAA official said that Gull Island, for example, would be "ideal for a sanatorium or a Boy Scout camp." Moreover, it has foot-thick walls which are an asset in the Long Island hurricane season.

Use 'Old Oaken Bucket'

The "Old Oaken Bucket" that most of us have sung about is still bringing up water from the well. For the identical bucket that inspired Samuel Woodworth to write the song 131 years ago is still used at the old Northey Homestead at Scituate, Mass. Today the "iron-bound bucket" provides water for the family of Mrs. Isabelle Northey Murray, granddaughter of the poet's foster brother.

The home is filled with early American furniture and still preserves the "scenes of my childhood" that Woodworth recalled when he stopped at a fountain in Wall Street on a summer day in 1817. The fountain reminded him of the cool water of the well at his home, and he composed the poem that was later put to music.

Home for Vice Presidents

"Home Sweet Home" for the vice-president of the United States may be a $2,500,000 "little White House" on Washington's fashionable Sixteenth Street or in the rolling country of nearby Virginia or Maryland.

For once again there is a move afoot to establish official "rent free" residence for the nation's No. 2 executive.

Legislation was introduced in the House during the "Turnip Day" session calling for a joint Senate-House commission to select a house where the V-P could hang his hat. Under two proposals, the commission would have $2,500,000 to buy, or build a new one.

Losses in Waste of Land

The United States is producing its own class of "displaced persons" by wasteful misuse of land and other natural resources, declares Guy Irving Burch, editor of The Population Bulletin.

It is quite possible that the topsoil, forests, minerals and wildlife that the American people have needlessly destroyed by hasty exploitation could support as many as forty million persons, Burch points out. The number of misplaced persons because of misuse and wanton waste of the nation's natural resources may be much larger unless the American people take steps to halt this waste.

Burch estimates that at least 175,000 persons are being displaced every year now because of misuse and waste of land and other natural resources.

U. N. Foundation

The United Nations has had a variety of homes. It was born in a San Francisco opera house, went from there to an old church building in London, a gymnasium in New York, a skating rink in Flushing, Long Island, a factory in Lake Success, and a museum in Paris.

Last week the U. N. started to build a home of its own. Excavation has begun at the world headquarters site between Forty-second and Forty-eighth Streets and First Avenue and Roosevelt Drive in the Turtle Bay area on the East Side of Manhattan. Mayor William O'Dwyer and Acting U. N. Secretary-General Benjamin A. Cohen of Chile scooped the first shovelfuls of dirt from the site. Then contractors started their six months digging job.

The first building—a thirty-nine-story office building for the Secretariat—is expected to be completed in the summer of 1950.

Phone Boom on Farms

Rural residents in the United States are putting in telephones at a record rate. If the trend continues, the number of farm homes with telephones may soon outnumber the homes without.

In 1940 one rural home in four had a telephone. By 1945 about one farm home in three had a telephone in spite of wartime curtailment of expansion. Now it is estimated that nearly one-half of all farm homes in the United States have telephones.

For Cause of Safety.

At Colorado Springs a big convertible automobile broke every traffic law on the books as it raced wildly through the business district. A uniformed policeman sat beside the driver. It was a test drive over a 15-block route. Wild driving saved only 4 seconds, for the same driver followed the same route sanely in almost the same time as he did when driving wildly.

Atomic Power Is Far Off

Practical release of atomic energy was an achievement equivalent to the discovery of fire. Its effect on military strength and international relations has been world-shaking. Peacetime uses of atomic energy are being developed by the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

But, according to Watson Davis of Detroit, Mich., scientist of note, years of tedious and expensive research lie ahead before atomic heat and atomic energy can be harnessed as a practical source of power for industry.

Grass Root Reveries

By JOE GANDY

(Copyright, 1945, by the Southwest Magazine Co.)

NO KIND of weather will please everybody, but October weather will come nearer pleasing everybody than any other month. Gone are the torrid days of August—gone but not forgotten—and welcome are the cool days of October. Last night I pulled two blankets over me just before the break of day and went back to sleep. I woke up in the morning feeling like I had a million dollars and was rarin' to spend it.

These cool, crisp, October nights that woo to sound slumber are worth all the wealth in the world. The rich man is he who sleeps well, eats well, works well and laughs well. Don't bother about being poor if you have good health, for with good health you are rich beyond the dreams of Aladdin.

I have just returned from a business trip East, traveling as far as New York City. The population of this city's metropolitan area is about 12,000,000, more population than all the five Southwestern States. Strange as it seems, most New Yorkers do not like their big city. They complain about having to rush through life, about traffic jams, the waste of time and effort going to and from work, the worry of it all and the high cost of living. The average family, it is estimated, can live 25 per cent cheaper in a small Southwestern town than in New York City—and live happier. That makes us wonder why so many millions continue to live in New York City when they can live cheaper elsewhere and be happier.

New York does things in a big way. The largest retail store in the world is Macy's New York Store. Sometimes the sales go over one million dollars a day. The tallest building in the world is the Empire State Building, at 34th and Broadway. It is 100 stories high and has 10,000 tenants. The largest newspaper in the world is the New York Times. Each Sunday edition averages 200 printed pages. An advertiser pays $2,000 for a single page of one issue of the Times.

Do your feet hurt you? If not, then you are lucky. The American Medical Journal once listed 53 varieties of foot ills, and fifteen times as many women as men have foot trouble. The high heel is the principal cause of ailing feet among women. The woman in high heels, chiropodists say, is continually walking down hill. In trying to compensate for the excessive forward lean, she throws her whole posture out of line and invites strains on the feet and in other parts of the body. The high heel is said to be an ancient French custom, the survival of uncivilized times.

The Presidential campaign got under way in September and the speeches of rival candidates were more or less ironic and smacked of mud-slinging. Pity the campaign for so great an office as President of the United States can not be conducted on a high plane without rancor or demagoguery. The pot calls the kettle black. The kettle says the pot is a liar. Then the pot comes back and says the kettle is not only black but a thief, a coward and a skunk.

"The pot calls the kettle black."

The United States Air Force celebrated Air Force Day all over this country in September and also in other parts of the world where the United States still maintains occupation forces. Military and civilian leaders paid tribute to the Air Force on its first anniversary as a separate and independent arm of the National Military Establishment, and emphasized the need to maintain the country's military and industrial strength for the sake of national security. It was the American Air Force that eventually defeated Japan and it was the American Air Force that contributed greatly to the defeat of Germany. Let us hope and pray there will be no World War III with Russia, but if there is, the American Air Force will win it.

The world is mighty full of ills, of atom bombs and unpaid bills. But every now and then you'll find a man of calm and steadfast mind who is not swayed by this or that, whose head does more than hold his hat. Our minister is one of these. When he goes down upon his knees and prays to God, you feel that life is something more than futile strife. You feel that God is everywhere, in sun, in rain, in earth, in air. And that His final plan for good is man's eternal brotherhood. Not some Utopia or scheme, but unity of which we dream. Men need to lay their hatreds by and bow their heads beneath the sky. And give their fellow men their hand in trust and love, at God's command.—Karl Flaster, in Grit Magazine.

Rip Van Winkle didn't sleep for 20 years, take it on the word of a lanky, lazy-looking bald-headed man who declares he is that old codger's great-grandson. The man, Howard Van Winkle, 62, of Stone Ridge, N. Y., speaks of his belief with unmistakable definiteness.

"There's a diary of my great-grandmother, Charlotte, and records in the Kingston City Hall to back me up," he said. "Rip's name was Jensen Walling Van Winkle and he was a loafer. Just a ne'er-do-well who was always minding everybody else's business. His wife wasn't really a nag, she just wanted him to do his work like a good farmer. But he couldn't take it and so disappeared for 17 years. Where he went, nobody knows, but he didn't sleep 20 years, as Washington Irving said."

DAUGHTERS FOR BROTHERS SAME DAY

The Saunders brothers, Louis Y. Jr., and Hal, sons of Mr. and Mrs. L. Y. Saunders, Sr., of San Marcos and Wimberly became the proud parents of baby girls on the same day. Both babies were born in a San Antonio hospital, and both babies were born on the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Hal Saunders.

WEST CORRALLED CITY SLICKERS

During the recent rodeo performance at West, an improvised jail was set up in the center block of Main Street and all men who appeared not wearing cowboy regalia were placed in jail. They faced trial before High Sheriff Joe Holasek and his deputies, for failing to wear the traditional western garb.

CHINESE MONEY UNSTABLE

Dr. Ide P. Trotter, director of Texas A. & M. College Extension Service, told Texas agricultural writers that the unstable condition of Chinese currency discourages the farmer. When he went to China last spring Dr. Trotter said he received 750,000 Chinese dollars for $1 American. When he left China in June he received 1,500,000 for $1 American money. Still later the American dollar was worth 12,000,000 Chinese dollars, he said.

W. L. Miles of Klondike rides 10 miles on horseback to and from Commerce where he is a student in agriculture at the East Texas State Teachers' College. Miles says he rides his horse to save time.

Early in the year, Miles owned an automobile and drove to school in his car. But with high prices for used cars, Miles sold his car. He means it when he says he rides horseback to save time, since he is now without a car.

STORK AGAIN VISITS ROOM 404

Nineteen years ago Ralph Malone, Fort Worth, nervously waited outside the door to room 404 of St. Joseph's Hospital, Fort Worth, with Phil Owens, a prospective papa, then a Fort Worth lumberman. Recently Malone again waited outside the door to room 404 with Bill Burns, son-in-law of Mr. Owens, as Mrs. Burns gave birth to an 8-pound boy. Mr. Owens is now a Houston contractor. The wife of Bill Burns and mother of the 8-pound boy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owens.

50c PAID—CONSCIENCE CLEAR

An out-of-State man about 60 walked into Leaird's Department Store in Gatesville and asked who owned the store 40 years ago. When the visitor was told that Byron Leaird owned the store at that time, but that his son, Byron Jr., owns the store now, he handed Leaird Jr., 50c, saying that he wanted to pay for a lady's belt shoplifted from the store 40 years ago.

"I don't know what made me take that belt, and I want to settle up for it," the man said.

BOYS' RANCH WORTH $3,000,000

On the Canadian river, north of Amarillo, Boys' Ranch now has a 1,500-acre farm and 22 buildings. All has been contributed to the undertaking without a single solicitation.

VALLEY GETS AUTO PHONE SERVICE

Produce and oil production firms and physicians have filed most of the applications for automobile telephone service in the Magic Valley, according to M. C. Brown, District Manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company at McAllen. The company has received applications for more than 30 car telephone installations. Some applications seek installation of as many as three sets.

The automobile telephone installations will make it possible for persons driving cars so equipped to communicate by phone with other cars and with stationary telephones throughout the Valley by means of radio and wire facilities of the telephone company.

TREE OVER 500 YEARS OLD

A venerable old tree, known to Texans as the "Treaty Oak," still stands majestically in Austin. Its branches cover more than a quarter of an acre of ground. Declared by the Federal Bureau of Forestry to be the most nearly perfect specimen of a tree in North America, a picture of the Treaty Oak adorns the wall in the office of the Bureau of Forestry in Washington.

The tree gets its name from the fact that Stephen F. Austin is reported to have signed the first boundary line agreement with the Indians under its branches, bringing to an end hostilities between the Indians and members of Austin's Colony. The tree is known to be more than 500 years old.

OLD SINK STILL IN USE

Shamrock has just built a new Community House and in the building there has been installed an old sink—the first ever brought to Shamrock.

Sport Pendleton is spokesman for the old kitchen sink. He installed it in his drug store in 1908 and it has been in continuous use ever since.

Sport had been a West Texas rancher, but when the folks got too numerous in the ranching country, he came to Shamrock, Wheeler County, and opened a drug store in the new town. The doctors in Shamrock used the drug store and mixed their chemicals in the rear of the building. For their convenience, Sport put in the sink. On the roof an outfit was rigged to catch the rain water, which drained into a metal tank from which a pipe extended to the faucet at the sink.

"When it didn't rain, I had to buy water to fill the tank so the sink could operate," Sport said, "And I had to pay $4 a load for it."

NO PARKING TICKET

Fort Worth has an anonymous good will ambassador who will be remembered in Winters.

When Mrs. T. V. Jennings of Winters went to Fort Worth to do some shopping she parked her car at one of the city's parking meters. Returning to her car some time later, she saw the time on the meter was about to run out and searched in her purse for another nickel. When she failed to find one, a young man placed a coin in the meter from his own pocket.

Mrs. Jennings thanked him and inquired of his motive.

"I would hate to see an out-of-town car get a parking ticket in Fort Worth," the young man replied.

NEGRO WOMAN, 115, DIES

Mary McCray, 77, wept bitterly as she tried to remember some of the things her mother, who had just died at the age of 115 years, had told her. The aged Negro woman, Harriet Vaughan, had lived all her life in or near Texarkana. She was born on the Trigg Plantation near Old Rondo in Miller County, Ark., and was owned as a slave by Tom Trigg before the War Between the States and Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation.

The white-haired Negro said her mother had been in good health and had worked all the time until about 28 years ago, when she began cutting her third set of teeth. Throughout her life she longed for the "good old slave days."

OIL OR GAS IN 192 COUNTIES

Oil or gas is now being produced in 192 of the 254 counties in Texas, and leasing activity and sale of royalty interests have been extended into every county in the State, according to the Texas Railroad Commission. One year ago oil or gas was being produced in 179 Texas counties.

More than twice as many oil strikes have occurred in Texas this year than last. Operators have reported 219 new oil pools, compared with 151 for the first eight months of 1947. There have been fewer discoveries of gas fields, however, 46 this year compared with 54 last year.

During the first eight months of this year a total of 4,959 wells had been completed, compared with 3,819 wells completed during the corresponding months of 1947. A total of 471 gas wells have been completed this year, against 412 during the same months last year.

NEW TYPE TUG BOAT BUILT

A 148-foot river-type towboat, "only vessel of its type to have been converted from an L. S. M." of World War II, has just been completed at the Parker Bros. Shipyard at Greens Bayou near Houston. The towboat was built for the Canal & River Transportation Company of Houston. R. C. Meyer, vice president of the company, says the towboat will be used to push petroleum barges on the Mississippi and Ohio rivers.

The boat has 34-foot beam, 148-foot overall length, and is powered by a 2500 horsepower steam engine. Seven months were required in building the boat.

ANGRY BEES HALT TRAFFIC

Highway traffic north of Chico had to be rerouted recently as chemicals, fire and water were used in a battle against swarms of angry bees at the scene of a truck accident. Highway Patrol Sergeant James McKay said a truck carrying beehives knocked down a pole and overturned when the driver fell asleep at the wheel. Bee experts from that area were called in to get the bees back into their hives and loaded onto another truck. Meanwhile traffic had to be halted and rerouted over detour highways.

Carroll Jayree of the Osage community in Coryell county had 70 acres of stubble land that needed plowing, but illness of his wife kept him so busy he could not find time to do the job. Last week 18 of Jayree's neighbors brought their tractors and plows and in 4½ hours Jayree's field was well-broken.

A Georgetown man has developed what is said to be the most unique strawberry farm in the world. On a plot of 1,800 square feet, he is able to grow as many plants as would ordinarily be grown on a 25-acre farm. He does this by building a series of hollow tile walls and setting the plants in the tile openings, one row above another, several stories high. He says he will be able to gather strawberries practically throughout the year. Picking berries can be done without stooping.

H. L. Gantz, associate editor of a farm magazine, discussed the importance of agriculture before the Lions' Club at Canton. He said that farming is the basic activity in this State's economy. Gantz urged Van Zandt county farmers to adopt soil conservation practices and work toward a definite goal in rebuilding soil for fertility.

District supervisors of the Bastrop-Fayette Soil Conservation District of Bastrop and Fayette counties have approved conservation programs on 31 farms totaling more than 5,361 acres. The supervisors also have approved plans for the formation of two new groups in this district—Red Rock Conservation Group, composed of five farms covering 2,482 acres, and the Watterson Conservation Group, composed of 11 farms covering 2,308 acres.

Experiments to determine the feed value of dehydrated carrots are being conducted at the Lee & Wilson plant at Raymondville in the Rio Grande Valley. Both tops and roots of carrots are being dehydrated to make livestock feed. Tests run on the first few batches of the new feed showed that each pound of the dehydrated carrot has 480,000 International Units of Vitamin A. Other components of the dehydrated feed are: moisture, 10.79%; nitrogen free extract, 52.95%; protein, 9.33%; fat, 1.42%; fiber, 11.18%; ash, 14.33%.

East Harris county rice growers, faced with a critical water shortage, have been offered 64,000,000 gallons of lake water by J. A. Dooley, who owns two lakes near the San Jacinto river. Dooley offered the rice farmers four inches of water from Mud Lake and eight inches of water from McCormick Lake. He said that if additional water is needed to save the rice crop, he will increase his offering to 500,000,000 gallons if needed.

Under the title of "Automatic Rain," the story of Jimmie Eason and his sprinkler system by which he irrigates his farm east of Big Spring, is told in a recent issue of the Big Spring Herald. Eason has installed a system by which he irrigates his field by sprinkling. He harvested 5,000 pounds of field peas from one acre of irrigated land; cut an average of 5,000 buds daily from his rose bushes on irrigated ground; and doubled the size of watermelons by irrigation.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan for the second time has urged farmers to increase the fall pig crop by at least 10 per cent. He has asked Texas farmers to hold back rather than sell their brood sows. Secretary Brannan has predicted a satisfactory feed supply and points to plenty of feed in urging farmers to make plans to expand their hog production.

The Fiftieth Texas Legislature (1947) approved an appropriation for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station to install seed analyst equipment and for vetch experimentation. Work to be done under this appropriation will include field experiments in the production of vetch seed produced by Texas growers. A laboratory is being established at College Station to make germination tests of vetch seed only as a service to Texas farmers.

R. V. Pittman of the Owens community in Brown county demonstrated that even under dry weather conditions cover crops of vetch and rye and spelts and Austrian winter peas could be grown successfully. He planted 64 acres of sandy soil with these combinations, and at the time of planting applied 74 sacks of 0-20-0 fertilizer. He grazed 13 steers and 7 pigs on the crop as soon as it was big enough for grazing. The steers gained an average of 300 pounds each and were ready for market with only $60 worth of cottonseed cake, the only additional feed they had. The pigs grazed on this cover crop from the time they were old enough to graze until taken off for finishing for market. Little extra feed was needed and they were marketed at an average weight of 260 pounds. Pittman then turned the cover crops under, followed with 150 pounds of 4-12-4 fertilizer to the acre and planted the field to peanuts. With the same method of crop rotation last year Pittman gathered 15 bushels to the acre and made 1,000 bales of hay.

W. H. Nigg, cooperator of the Ellis-Prairie Soil Conservation District, Ellis county, has worked out a conservation program for his farm, with the assistance of Soil Conservation Service technicians. Other farmers of this district who have recently worked out conservation programs and agreed to carry them out include: William S. Stroud, Miles Hastings, M. L. Thompson, Ross Davis and Hubert Ward. All are in the Five Points Conservation Group.

Ranchers in the Mineral Wells area are becoming more conscious of proper seeding of pastures for better grazing. The unusually dry summer of 1947 reduced the buffalo grass turf at least 50 per cent but did not harm the tall grass pastures especially where proper management was being practiced. Erosion is active on pasture land that does not have proper cover. Conservationists of the Soil Conservation Service have been helping ranchers in working out adequate grazing programs to secure maximum utilization of their forage and at the same time obtain rapid recovery in desirable forage. Ranchers who have set up definite grazing programs in this area include M. Cy Clayton, J. R. Clayton, P. H. Leatherwood, Tom Jordan, Couts Anderson, John Reck, J. R. C. Moseley, Henry L. Sikes, T. D. Williams, Donald Baum and Ross and Glen Watson.

Bass and bream to stock 22 farm ponds in the Bosque Soil Conservation District of Bosque county have been received from the Fort Worth Hatchery of the U. S. Department of Interior. Delivery was made by W. L. Milam, of the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior. The number of fish supplied to each pond depends on the size of the pond, the species of fish used, and whether or not the pond is fertilized. Most farm ponds cover about one surface acre and few are fertilized. Typical of deliveries was made to H. R. Routh, who received 37 bass and 375 bream for ¾-acre pond.

Final returns from the Bermuda onion crop on the irrigated farms of Webb and Zapata counties disclose that more than $5,000,000 has been received by the onion growers there. Prices were the highest in 50 years.

Electricity Makes Farm Chores Easy

Electricity is taking much of the drudgery out of barnyard chores.

No longer must the harvester make hay while the sun shines. With the aid of electric hay driers he can do most of the curing of cowfeed in the barn. This reduces the loss from crumbling, and makes more nutritious hay.

The stockman can put away the old branding iron that had to be heated over a bonfire or forge. The new technique calls for the less-painful electric brander.

The poultryman no longer need pluck his chickens by hand. An electric chicken-picker does the trick. A cylindrical device with hollow rubber fingers denudes dead poultry with nibbling action, and saves the feathers for commercial use.

Arthur, (Tex.) Goldschmidt, director of the Interior Department's division of power, reflected in an interview upon the diverse modern farm uses for electricity. On farms served by federally-administered power projects throughout the west and south, he has noted these current-consuming machines in addition to the customary household electrical appliances:

Pumps for irrigation systems—The major farm use for electric power, he said.

Deep-freeze or quick-freeze units—The home type and the big commercial and cooperative lockers. "These have come into such great use in some areas as almost to do away with home canning."

Lighting systems—Increase egg output in poultry-sheds at periods when egg prices are highest; reduce milk spillage in dairy barns. Ultraviolet lights reduce the bacteria count of milk, speed development of chickens, and, used in pig brooders, help prevent rickets.

Milking machines—Profitable even on small farms, enabling a farmer to handle larger herds than before.

Water-heating units—Cows provided with warm drinking water in the winter increase milk production by as much as 15 percent. Chickens drink 25 percent more water in cold weather, if it is heated, and egg production increases.

Coolers—Reduce spoilage of food, particularly of milk.

Electric fences—With a single strand, it's easy to move the fence and re-arrange pasture areas.

Electric plows, saws, sprayers, sprinklers, pasteurizers, sterilizers, bottle washers, barn cleaner, fly screens, churns, separators, feed grinders, hay balers and shredders, brooders, incubators, egg cleaners, insect traps, weed killers, threshing machines, grain elevators, corn shellers, seed cleaners. Soil-heating cables, for pre-season gardens, soil sterilizers.

Rainbow Filter

How many colors are there in the rainbow? That depends on who or what does the looking. Different human eyes, according to different testers, can distinguish from 30 to 200 tints between the deepest red and the deepest violet. But a Cambridge, Mass., scientist, Dr. Bruce H. Billings, came up with a filter which can separate the spectrum into some 4,000 hues, including 800 shades of green.

The Billings "tunable narrow-band optical filter" makes good on a textbook cliché—that the spectrum of light is similar to the spectrum of radio, the different colors being distinguished essentially by their wave lengths. The new filter, operated electrically, tunes through the rainbow just as a highly selective radio receiver separates broadcasting stations at adjacent points on the dial.

Far exceeding the limitations of the human eye, the tunable filter has several clearly evident applications to research, two of which Billings printed in the Journal of the Optical Society of America. It can be used: (1) in the study of atomic spectra, where closely spaced "lines" of almost identical color give clues to atomic structure; and (2) in astronomy, to follow the tornadoes of glowing gases on the sun's surface by slight changes in color due to their velocity. The inventor also thinks the principle may eventually be applicable to a system of full-color television.

Billings began his work while with the Polaroid Corp., and the precise control of light which he obtains is made possible by first polarizing it—sorting out the light waves that vibrate in a single direction. That technique has already been applied to such consumer products as sun glasses and camera filters, and has been widely discussed as a future means of shielding night drivers from the glare of oncoming headlights. The new tunable color filter itself, however, is still far from any public use. In its present form it comprises a series of crystalline plates on a rack about a yard long.

Clock Your Washer

When using the washing machine, run it by the clock. Specialists advise two to three minutes for silks, rayons and synthetics; five to 10 minutes for slightly soiled cotton and linen; 10 to 15 minutes for very soiled cottons. If clothes are not clean in 15 minutes, they need hand rubbing of very soiled places or another washing in clean suds.

Keeping Salt Dry

The pilot light on the gas stove may be put to good use in keeping salt dry. Set the salt container near the pilot light before going to bed at night. The salt will dry out for use the next day. The oven, too, will do the trick. After the oven has been used, set the salt in to dry out in the warmth that remains after the gas or electricity has been turned off.

The West Point cadets are not the only ones who find taps and the sunrise guns annoying. The wife of an officer there secured a maid from a New York agency, and, from all appearances, the girl was well pleased with her work.

To the mistress' amazement, Sally appeared the fourth morning and said she was going to leave her job right away.

"Why I thought you liked your work, Sally. What's the matter?"

Replied Sally: "Miss Lizzie, I like you, I like the children. I like the colonel and I like the work. But I must leave. I can't work in a place where I'm drummed to bed at night and shot out of bed in the morning."

Corn Is Good Poultry Feed

Experiments conducted at the Alabama State Agricultural College, Auburn, Ala., show that corn fed to laying hens returned on the average an equivalent of $3.74 per bushel in the value of eggs produced. Tests covered a period of eleven years. Farmers can get a good price for their corn by converting it into eggs.

Goose Wakes Owner

Mitchell Gettridge, retired railroad porter at Jennings, La., has a pet goose named George which he claims is 28 years old. George refuses to be retired, but persists in waking his owner at 3 a. m. each day, the regular time for Gettridge to get up so he could report for work on time. For more than 28 years the goose has roused his owner at 3 a. m.

"I used to say, 'George, hush your mouth and let me sleep.' George would resent that and quack louder," Gettridge said. "Now all I have to do to get George to cease his quacking is to say 'All right, George, I am awake.' That seems to satisfy the goose and he hushes."

Green Feed Saves Mash

Plenty of young, tender green feeds for poultry often save as much as 15 per cent of the mash usually fed, according to the Extension Service of the Texas A. & M. College. Good green feeds suggested for poultry include rape, turnip greens, lettuce, ladino clover, lespedeza, soy beans, Bermuda grass and lawn clippings.

Can a Chicken Taste or Smell?

The taste and smell glands in chickens are poorly developed, and as a result flocks will eat or drink almost anything that is put before them. But chickens do resent change. Chicks that are accustomed to eating dry mash only, shy away from green feed when it is first placed before them. Pellets have no appeal if mash and grain have been their accustomed diet.

So it is best to change feeding systems as little as possible, and to make changes gradually when they are made. As a general thing, chickens like whole grain better than cracked grains; coarse feed better than finely ground feed, even though finely ground feed is more easily digested. It generally is better to feed a fairly coarse mash.

Tests with hens have shown that coarser mashes are more readily eaten, and that increased egg production is the result. Feed intake will remain at a high level, and this means larger egg production and more rapid development of young chicks, if feeds are kept fresh with enough feeding space and ample variety of feeds.

Poultry Notes

Half of the annual egg crop in the United States is produced from March through June, and the lowest production occurs from September to December.

Sanitation in poultry raising means clean, dry floors and bedding, clean water and feed containers. If feed containers are away from water so they do not get wet, there is little likelihood of trouble for baby chicks from this source. Water containers should be cleaned thoroughly every day.

Seventy-four dozen eggs are used every week at the Biochemical Institute of the University of Texas in a cancer research project which has been going on since the institute was founded seven years ago. More than 100,000 cancer inoculations have been made in eggs since the project was launched.

The old saying that grasshoppers and turkeys can not exist in the same field at the same time has been demonstrated in many parts of Texas this year during the heavy infestation of hoppers. Turned loose in a field, a flock of turkeys will keep it almost free of grasshoppers.

BERLIN

(Continued from Page 2) strongly anti-Soviet. As the demonstration was on, a Russian jeep passed under the Brandenburg Gate, and in angry mood the crowd stoned the Russians. As the Germans surged into Pariser Platz, they were confronted with Soviet armed troops. The Russians shot into the air; a few shots were fired into the crowd. One man was killed and several injured. A German youth tore down a Soviet flag.

As the Germans fell back, the armed Russians followed and crossed into the British zone where they were met by British Tommies with drawn guns. The tense moment passed without bloodshed.

As the General Assembly prepared to meet, the Western Ambassadors for the tenth time went to the Kremlin for talks with Molotov. Molotov told the Ambassadors that Stalin was "out of town." The Western envoys complained to Molotov that the Russian Military Governor in Berlin had been responsible for lack of progress in the Berlin negotiations. Molotov told them he could give no immediate reply.

Break Off Negotiations Sept. 26

The United States, Britain and France broke off negotiations with Russia Sunday night, over blocked Berlin and referred the issue to the United Nations as a threat to peace.

The Russians had demanded control over the Allied air lift, a single Russian-controlled currency for Berlin and 4-power control of Berlin's trade as their price for lifting the blockade imposed over three months ago. Foreign ministers of the Western Powers accused the Soviets of threatening world peace in the former German capital by the use of force and duress to dislodge the Western Allies.

Secretary of State George C. Marshall, of the United States, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman met twice at the French Foreign Ministry and drafted a 14-point message to the Kremlin.

By this action, they called off direct negotiations begun with the Russians last July under Article 33 of the U.N. charter.

English Atomic Capital Background of Antiquity England's recently revealed atomic research center at Harwell has introduced a touch of ultra-modern technology into a region steeped in history and tradition.

The tree-shaded, once little-noticed village of Harwell lies in south-of-England Berkshire County, not far from the rustic banks of the meandering Thames. Its chief distinction has been its old church, parts of which were built more than 700 years ago.

Around the new blank-walled installations that now house the intricate machinery of radiochemical operations spreads a peaceful countryside, dotted with thatched cottages, manor houses, time-worn inns and venerable bridges.

Much of early England's royal and ecclesiastic history was made in Berkshire's pleasant green country of river, meadow, and hill.

Abingdon, on the Thames south of hoary Oxford, was the site of a powerful abbey from which the Benedictine system was to spread throughout England. Founded around 700, it was sacked by the Danes and later rebuilt.

GEESSE WOULD'NT ROOST IN TREES

Cowboys of the Southwest during the early days of the settlement of this region had a great deal of fun playing pranks on the "tenderfeet." The new-comers who were regarded as green horns who knew little or nothing about the country or the men who followed the herds in the vast open country.

Mrs. Albert Maverick Sr. of San Antonio has preserved some of the stories about the pranks which cowboys played on newcomers in South Texas.

A young blond from Boston, Mass., bought a ranch near Medina City, put up a nice house, and bought almost anything in sight that anybody brought him. Somebody sold him a flock of geese and told him they always roosted in trees, that he must put planks up to the trees and drive them up until they got accustomed to their new home. The cowboys made a point of always being on time for the drive.

Another victim was a French Count, an imposing figure six-feet-four in height, of military bearing, and very dignified, who claimed to be a great rider. He would give the Texas boys suggestions about improving their style which they did not appreciate.

Geese don't climb trees.

So they invited him over to a ranch where a lot of young horses were to be broken. He announced that he would ride anything they brought out. He had on a most beautiful costume: pure white silk helmet and a white silk military coat to his knees. The boys brought out a four-year-old horse, full of life and wild as they make them. "We don't want to kill the man," they said. So they took the horse to a plowed field, blindfolded him and held him until the Count was well into the saddle. Then they pulled off the blinds. The horse showed the whites of his eyes, shivered and started to buck. A few minutes later the Count's six-feet-four was flat in the dust. The Frenchman explained with dignity that he really didn't care to ride again.

A little later the same Count passed by a place near Boerne where a lot of young Englishmen were dipping sheep. He offered some advice which they didn't appreciate, and they suggested that he ride on, or they would catch him and dip him—white silk suit and all—in the sheep vat. The stylish outfit for a lady who went horseback riding in those days was an expensive English side saddle, a dark blue habit, fitting as tight as the skin, and a beaver hat. Many ladies were expert horsewomen and could ride well even on the cumbersome side saddle of those days. Women did not ride astride.

In the early days when there no wire fences, the Indians and shepherds were in the habit of burning the dry grass every spring so the Indians could hunt game more easily and the sheep herds could more easily graze on the green grass. The fires kept all underbrush burned off and the country for many miles was just like a beautiful park.

LEGEND OF THE COTTON PLANT

Thank the cotton plant that you are living on the surface of the earth instead of inside it. That is the message of an old Brazilian legend which Louis Agassiz heard during a trip to Brazil more than 100 years ago and published in his book, "Viagem to Brazil."

The translated and condensed legend, which is generally regarded as proof that the cotton plant originated in Brazil, follows:

The first man in the world was Sacabu, who was King and God at the same time. His only subjects were his son and Rairu, this last having to carry out all his orders. Sacabu hated Rairu. In order to get rid of him, Sacabu buried the statue of their sacred "Tatu" so that only the tail of it could be seen. Then he ordered Rairu to search for it.

Little Rairu found the statue and started digging. The statue sank, however, deeper and deeper into the earth. All of a sudden the earth opened underneath and both Rairu and Tatu fell down to hell!

At his return (the legend doesn't explain how he managed to return) he informed Sacabu that in the depth of the earth he saw a multitude of women and men and added that they could be used for cultivation and harvesting of the products of the soil. Sacabu agreed and planted a mysterious seed. From this seed grew a new plant, the cotton plant. The plant grew higher every day, nice yellowish blossoms appeared and later several bolls opened showing a soft and white fruit, the cotton fiber.

Sacabu used them to make a long rope to which he tied Rairu and let him down in the hole. Down in hell Rairu persuaded everybody to climb up the rope and reach the surface of the earth. The first who arrived at the surface of the earth were all horrible looking women and men; then came well-formed men and beautiful women. Unfortunately, the rope had been over-charged and broke, thus leaving the larger part of the good-looking men inside the earth. This is the reason why there are so few good-looking specimens in the human race.

Sacabu divided these people into different tribes. He didn't know in which tribe to put the worst looking ones so he painted their noses red and exclaimed, "You are too ugly to belong to the human race!" and transformed them into birds. Since those days red-nosed "cocoricos" (parrots) fly around. But they didn't forget their language and still can speak.

Thus ended the story of Sacabu, Rairu and the cotton plant.

YORKTOWN BATTLEFIELD NOW A NATIONAL SHRINE

Yorktown's Surrender Field, in Virginia, where the six-and-a-half-year-old echoes of the "shot heard round the world" finally died out in 1781 as Lord Cornwallis capitulated to General Washington, is now publicly owned and preserved as a national shrine.

The 13-acre field, to which the defeated English army trudged between ranks of American and French troops to lay down their arms, has been added to the Colonial National Historical Park. This National Park Service reserve protects many of tide-water Virginia's most noted landmarks in the Jamestown-Williamsburg-Yorktown area.

For a battle that ranks as one of the climaxes of history, Yorktown was a comparatively bloodless and undramatic victory. It really was a siege, and not a long one at that. Washington and his French allies bottled up Cornwallis in the tiny port on September 28 and the surrender took place on October 19.

Action was confined to the taking of two British redoubts—one assault being led by Alexander Hamilton—an unsuccessful enemy sortie against two French batteries. The English lost 156 men in the siege; allied losses were 85 killed.

TALL MOUNTAIN PEAKS OF U. S.

Fourth highest mountain peak in the United States is the rank assigned by Nature to Mt. Ranier of the Cascade Range, in southeast Washington State. Fourth the 14,408-foot summit shall remain until Nature orders a change, National Park Service officials recently decided in turning back four men who had set out to pile a 24-foot bump on its top.

Object of the thwarted admirers of majestic Mt. Ranier was to make their favorite second only to California's Mt. Whitney, which boasts almost 14,500 feet. Their scheme points up the fact that among the nation's high mountain, competition is keen at the top, notes the National Geographic Society.

Crowding Mt. Whitney are about 60 summits of more than 14,000 feet, rising in three widely separated western ranges.

Whitney, currently calculated at 14,495 feet, is well south in the Sierra Nevada of eastern California. This range holds about a dozen of the 14,000-plus peaks. Less than 90 air miles southeast of Mt. Whitney, in Death Valley, is the nation's lowest point, 280 feet below the level of the oceans. Second and third highest of U.-S. summits are Mt. Elbert, 14,431 feet, and Mt. Massive, 14,418 feet, both a few miles southwest of Leadville, Colorado.

HOW YOU DO IT COUNTS

What you do is not half as important as how you do it. There's a man who works in a park who has done his job in such a way that every one who uses the park likes and respects him. His job is the humble one of picking up the papers and the mess other people leave behind them. Most people don't consider that an important job. But the way he has done it has made him a satisfaction and a pleasure to him, and a service to others.

His part of the park is the cleanest of all because his willingness to do his job well, and his friendly, helpful interest in every one makes others glad to help him by putting their trash in the containers provided for it, instead of throwing it just anywhere for him to clean up.

This works all through life. No matter how high or how lowly a position you have, you cannot succeed unless you learn that what really counts is how you do things.

Whether it is your lessons, your after-school job, cutting the lawn, or helping with the housework, do your work as thoroughly and as well as you possibly can. Make each thing you do important because of the way you do it and you won't have to worry about being popular or successful.

SCIENTISTS TO STUDY IN NEPAL

Long forbidden Nepal—home of such Alice-in-Wonderland creatures as the flower mouse and the red-headed laughing thrush—is opening its borders to a scientific expedition which will delve into the lore of one of the richest game regions on earth.

This little-known kingdom in the shadow of the high Himalayas between northern India and Tibet has been significant chiefly as the source of the British Empire's fighting Gorkhas. Only lately has it entered into diplomatic and direct trade relations with the United States.

The program of the forthcoming expedition was announced by Dr. Lyman J. Briggs, Chairman of the Research Committee of the National Geographic Society, following receipt of personal approval for the undertaking from the new Maharaja—Prime Minister, Sri Mohan Shum Shere Jung Bahadur Rana, ruler of Nepal.

The expedition, sailed from Seattle, Wash., Sept. 15, and expects to start its work in Nepal about mid-November. Dr. Dillon Ripley, Associate Curator and Lecturer in Zoology at Yale University, who heads the party, estimates it will spend about five months in the field.

TO PRESS HYGIENE DRIVE

The first effort by a national women's organization to "sell" America on the principles of mental hygiene was announced by the National Council of Jewish Women.

The council's 65,000 members in over 200 local councils will become a kind of spearhead in the attempt to improve facilities for mental health treatment and prevention, said Mrs. Julius Wolff, chairman of the council's social welfare department.

The local groups will make surveys of local needs and facilities, working with professional people in their areas, and will work toward public support of legislation to meet the needs, she said. The program is an effort to broaden the community mental hygiene plans authorized under the national mental health act last year.

BIG BEND PARK (Continued from Page 2) tendent, directs the work of developing roads, trails, cabins and other accommodations for park visitors. Improvements within the park have been slower than planned due to aversive reasons. However, roads and trails have been built from Marathon into most parts of the park with cabins at several central locations.

Forty-odd miles south of Marathon, park visitors pass through Persimmon Gap into territory that looks like a composite of all the western movies ever filmed, with good roads, isolated cabins and trading posts as the only links with Twentieth Century civilization. The Big Bend Park also may be entered by improved highway from Alpine.

First National Park in Texas. The Big Bend is the first National park to be established in Texas. Because Texas reserved to itself all its public domain when the Republic of Texas became a State of the Union, the Federal Government has never owned land in Texas except that it has acquired by purchase or gift. By resolution adopted by the Seventy-Fourth Congress, establishment of a National Park in the Big Bend of Texas was authorized on condition that the State of Texas donate an area of more than 700,000 acres for that purpose.

The Forty-Seventh Legislature of Texas in 1941 appropriated $1,500,000 for land purchases which in addition to State lands donated from tracts formerly sold from public school domain and defaulted to the State for non-payment of taxes, met the Federal Government's requirements. The land was transferred to the Federal Government and the area was formally established as a National Park on June 12, 1944.

One of the principal beauty spots of the Big Bend Park is the Rim Rock, from which a magnificent view of the Carmen Mountain Range in Mexico is obtained. Principal charm of the park is in its rugged beauty and the coloring of its mountains and deep canyons under the shifting rays of the sun.

No Modern Comforts. To reach the land beyond Persimmon Gap, the tourist will need an automobile or a covered wagon, and a rugged willingness to get along without the comforts of civilization. There are no telephones, no newspapers, and, except through gasoline-driven generators, no electric lights or radios. Mail comes once a week.

The nearest major road is U. S. Highway 90; the nearest railroad is the Southern Pacific—both passing through the turn-off points of Alpine and Marathon. From either of these points, the tourist faces a long, hot and dusty journey to reach Park Headquarters at The Basin, deep in the Chisos Mountains—110 miles from Alpine or 80 miles from Marathon.

The closest approaches to civilization are the trading post five miles south of Persimmon Gap, where gasoline, oil, groceries and cold drinks may be had; Hot Springs, 40 miles to the south, where cabins, a bathhouse and hot meals may be found; and The Basin, where cabins, warm meals and the only auto repair station located in the park are provided.

Along the Rio Grande the climate is dry and mild—a dry 70 degrees in winter. The mountains are slightly cooler, but there is not more than one week of bad weather the year round.

Once Outlaw Hideouts. The canyons and caves of the Big Bend provided hideouts for roving bands of marauding Indians and later for bands of desperadoes who preyed on civilization. Many thrilling stories involving Indians and bad men and their exploits and the daring and bravery of the soldiers and Texas Rangers who followed them to their hideouts in the Big Bend have become legend.

For men with imagination, the Big Bend is a never-ending story book. Once a part of an ancient sea, the park still preserves the record of its first forms of life in its fossil-marked rocks. Dinosaurs fought and died in what used to be its marshes. Petrified trees mark forests that flourished and vanished before man was born.

Spanish Conquistadores ransacked its mountains for their silver; Apaches and Comanches fought bloody battles in its passes, slipped stealthily across the river for raids, as far south as Durango in Central Mexico. Outlaws from both sides of the Rio Grande hid in its caves and gorges.

In 1863, Captain Neville and his Texas Rangers annihilated a band of hostile Indians in Boquillas Canyon, and the wild days of the Big Bend drew to a close. The longhorn herds moved northward to lush pastures closer to the new Kansas railroads. Prospectors searched in vain for the legendary silver lode worked by the Spaniards before they sealed it up and tied before the knives of the Comanches.

The Big Bend receded into history, taking its romantic past with it, leaving haunting names like Rough and Ready Draw, Little Christmas Mountain, Government Spring, and the ghost town of Study Butte.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS

By MARGARET MOORE

SILHOUETTES FOR MILADY'S WARDROBE

Silhouettes for Fall and Winter is the decree of the fashion designers, and the fabric in greatest favor is velvet. As the leading fabric of the year, velvet heralds a dress-up era—a season when a woman concentrates upon an elegant wardrobe.

Not only does velvet appear for coats, suits and entire dresses, it is also being used extensively in alliance with other beautiful materials. Favorite companions are broadcloth and satin.

Glistening jet buttons and beading, soutache braid embroidery and ermine also are being used to enhance the elegance that velvet brings to the new styles. Styles and fabrics seem to point up the returning Victorian theme.

Aside from the fact that silhouettes seem to predominate in women's fashions, and that all dress designing has been done to the end that slimmness may be attained, there seems to be little else that may be called a definite trend. Skirts are a long straight lines with little change in length.

New and fresh-looking colors predominate with the brighter shades in great favor. Considerable stress is being placed on accessories, particularly for the college girl and the younger set. Sleek is the word that marks the college girl's accessories—chic rather than faddism, function and simplicity rather than nuisance value.

Important for the college girl's wardrobe is the stole, which may include a wide variety this year, varying from the authentic Scotch clan plaids in fringed wool, to the dressy Empress Eugenie Shawls, oblong, and wider-than-long, in fringed solid color silks; or wide but very long stoles in muted shades of hand-woven cotton, or in Mexican tones on delicate raw silk noil.

Belts rank high on the accessory list and may vary from the "dorm" belt, featuring a miniature brass door knocker fob dangling by a chain, the new featherweight corduroy belt buckled in front with contrasting triple leather straps, or the narrow black suede belt with a tiny ruffled peplum of velvet designed to be worn with velvet date dresses.

Purses are streamlined and functional. A thin "pencil case" turns out to be a small purse equipped with mirror, its flap closed by tucking it under a slim gold band. Another is the regulation pencil box with a lid in gay wool plaid.

REMOVING SCORCH ON COTTON FABRICS

A light scorch on the collar of a starched shirt is rather easily remedied. But even the lightest touch of yellow on a pair of trousers caused by too hot an iron or too dry a press cloth can be a major calamity.

Best rule of course is "Don't let it happen." A scorch is really a burn—those top fibers of the fabric have been destroyed. A scorch of any great depth is there to stay.

In the case of the shirt or other starched cottons or linens, a light scorch means that only the starch has been browned. This is usually removed by washing. Sometimes just sponging with a damp cloth will work.

SIX MEALS DAILY FOR GROWING GIRL

Most mothers do not realize that the growing girl needs 5,000 calories a day in comparison to the business man's 2,500 or 3,000. The adolescent girl is consuming a tremendous amount of energy and she needs a lot of food, but unless what she eats is the correct food she flirts with surplus weight, acne, ailing hair and nails.

A dermatologist prescribes this six-meal daily diet for the growing girl. Use different vegetables, fruits, breads, cereals and meats to vary menus. Clip this if you wish to use it, as you cannot get it otherwise.

At 7:30 a. m., a glass of water or unsweetened lemonade.

Breakfast: Be certain that she is dressed in time to allow a full half hour for leisurely eating: Fresh fruit in season, large serving whole grain cereal with cream and fruit but no sugar (oatmeal and brown cereal, cornflakes, shredded wheat, brown rice flakes, wheat flakes, etc.), two eggs (boiled, poached or scrambled) with or without bacon, whole grain bread or toast, one or two glasses of milk.

At 10 a. m., one glass of milk, sandwich or whole grain bread and butter, lettuce and tomato, or graham crackers.

Dinner: Hot vegetable soup; meat, fish, egg or cottage cheese dish, double serving; large serving of potato (not fried); cooked vegetable; salad or raw fruit or vegetable with little or no dressing; whole wheat bread; fruit or simple pudding for dessert; one or two glasses of milk.

At 4 p. m., same as 10 a. m., with fruit or dried raisins.

Supper: Soup if desired; meat, fish, egg or cottage cheese dish; potato or other vegetable with little butter, whole wheat bread, fruit or simple dessert; milk.

Before bed: Same as mid-morning or mid-afternoon.

TESTED RECIPES

Autumn menus are often difficult to plan as they call for foods not too heavy yet nourishing. This problem may be overcome by building the meal around soups. Many hostesses find that soup and salads team up ideally for luncheons.

TEXAS COTTON

government's loan value for his cotton. He figures he can't lose on this basis.

May Bring Controls

Texas Agriculture Commissioner McDonald has warned that the prospect for a larger cotton crop in Texas this year than last has been discouraging feature. The Texas crop may help build up a larger surplus than has been expected. A large carryover of this year's cotton may result in a return of government controls, such as were imposed by the Federal agencies during the depression. A national crop of 15,219,000 bales is indicated for this year, a total of about 3,000,000 bales larger than last year's crop.

Far-reaching changes have taken place in cotton farming in Texas since the State attained a dominating position in cotton production. Tractor-drawn, multiple-row farm implements have displaced the old-fashioned horse-drawn double shovel, one-row planter and one-row cultivator. Farmers now prepare their land for planting with tractor-drawn plows and listers; they plant their crop with tractor-drawn multiple-row seeders; and cultivate their crop with tractor-drawn, multiple-row cultivators with the numerous attachments that will do everything that men with hoes could do in former years. The farmer now can thin his cotton with mechanical cotton choppers and can even use a tractor-drawn hoe to get rid of grass and weeds—commonly known as the "hoe with a seat on it."

Mechanized Cotton Growing

Much work has been done in developing mechanical cotton pickers to gather the matured crop. Mechanical cotton pickers are in use now in some parts of Texas gathering the cotton from large fields and doing the work normally required by a hundred or more cotton pickers picking by hand.

At the recent Cotton Congress, agricultural experts warned that Texas cotton growers must mechanize their farms to reduce the cost of production. Mechanize or perish, the experts advised the cotton growing industry in Texas.

A brighter side to the future of cotton production in Texas is found in the search for new uses for cotton. The Federal government has established great research laboratories to take the lead in developing new uses for cotton, and the Southern Research Laboratory at New Orleans is doing notable work along this line. Scientists already have developed many new uses for cotton and still more far-reaching discoveries will be made.

Tough Time for Bachelors

Bachelors are having a difficult time in the United States these days.

At least that is what statistics gathered by the United States census bureau would indicate. They paint a dreary outlook for the unmarried American male.

For instance: There are three bachelors for every married man in mental institutions. More than 67,000 bachelors are in federal and state jails, compared with only 16,000 married men. Sixty-six per cent more bachelors commit suicide than married men.
