

BROWN COUNTY FARMERS TO RECEIVE MORE THAN $200,000 THRU ACREAGE REDUCTION

County farmers will receive $135,211.24 in cash and options on 55,711 bales of government cotton within the next few weeks.

Contracts were revised downward as the campaign progressed. Mr. Palmer and the committees worked to within 15 minutes of the closing hour of the campaign to give every farmer in the county an opportunity to sign one of the contracts.

The committee will continue to make headquarters at the Brownwood chamber of commerce offices and Mr. Palmer will remain here to supervise the plowing up and forwarding of certificates to Washington.

All farmers who have not signed the final contracts, but who have only filed supplemental agreements, are urged to get in touch with their local committees at an early date, as these contracts must be sent to Washington before payment can be made.

PALMER THANKS ALL WHO AIDED SCHEME

"I wish to express my thanks through the Banner-Bulletin to all who assisted in putting over the government's cotton acreage reduction plan in Brown county," S. A. Palmer, emergency agricultural agent of Brown county, in charge of the work, said Thursday.

"Especially do I want to thank the 22 local committees whose untiring efforts made the campaign a success. They had within their power the making or breaking of the entire plan in this county, and the thoroughness with which they undertook their work is evidenced by the splendid showing in signing up more than 17,000 acres.

"Of all appointed in this work, only two were unable to serve, and these two were busy threshing. The committees worked until 11:30 Wednesday night, in order to give all an opportunity to sign contracts.

"I also wish to thank the Brownwood chamber of commerce for providing office space and stenographic help, and the Brown county commissioners court for their assistance. The cooperation of the people of Brown county, and especially Brownwood is greatly appreciated."

Mr. Palmer is in the real estate and insurance business in Colorado, Texas. He formerly was a county agent, and is familiar with farmers' problems. When the cotton acreage reduction plan was announced he received a wire from H. H. Williamson, assistant director of extension service at A. & M. College asking him to aid in the work.

Mr. Palmer formerly was a resident of Brown county, having lived at Bangs. He is a brother of Charles B. Palmer, county commissioner from the Bangs precinct.

DAIRYMEN TO START DELIVERY OF MILK TO CHEESE FACTORY

Delivery of milk to the new cheese plant of Armour & Co. at Comanche should start early next week, if present plans are completed, according to J. R. Shelton, member of the committee in charge of preliminary arrangements.

A minimum of 3,000 gallons daily must be secured before the cost of delivery will be paid by the cheese plant. It was stated at the meeting of local dairymen Saturday, T. E. Major formerly of Brownwood, is manager of the Comanche plant.

Milk will not have to be cooled, Mr. Major stated, but must be delivered fresh daily. The milk can be water cooled. All that is necessary is to cool the can at night, and place a damp cloth around it.

It is expected that the minimum of 3,000 gallons will be secured this week, in which case delivery to the Comanche plant will start the first of next week. In event the minimum is not secured, some plan will have to be devised to gather milk from dairymen daily, and Mr. Hood is working on this plan now.

The price offered at the cheese plant at present is 25 cents per pound butter fat. Mr. Major stated, and here is a possibility that this will be increased considerably later on. The price paid at cheese plants always is higher than the cream price, he said, and at the present time, due to the shortage of milk caused by the extreme dry weather, the price is nearer the same than it has been in a number of years.

The Comanche plant opened with receipts of about 7,500 gallons daily, and this was increased for a time to about 10,000 gallons, but has fallen off considerably with the increasing hot weather. The plant has storage capacity now for 20,000 gallons daily, but Mr. Major stated there is no possibility of an over supply, as the capacity will be increased as needed, and for the present at least, the plant can take care of all milk furnished by this county.

Communities To Join In Plowing

Community plowing of cotton is to become the order of the day in various communities, according to community committees reporting at the central control committee's office at Memorial Hall during the closing days of the cotton acreage reduction campaign the first of this week.

A number of communities are planning to make the plowing up of cotton a festive occasion. It is planned for neighbors to meet on certain days when the inspectors would be in their communities to measure the cotton. As the inspectors measure off the cotton, all the neighbors will join in and plow up the cotton, then follow the inspector to the next field where all hands will again dig their plow in to the government's cotton patch.

Farmers often joke county agents about making water run up hill. L. E. Moore of Marmony community in Jones county is interested in making water stay up hill. Twenty hours after a 1-2 inch rain he called the county agent to tell him that the top of his newly contoured hill was still too wet to plant.

FARMERS BEGINNING TO FEEL EFFECT OF NEW DEAL AS PRICES OF PRODUCTS MOUNT

Cotton Being Restored To Former Value

Great Cash Crop of South Selling For 10 Cents First Time Since 1931.

At 10 cents on the farm, cotton will become "white gold" in the hands of about 2,000,000 farmers if the price level is maintained. The great cash crop of the South has been in the doldrums since it slipped from the dime mark in 1931, once getting down to 4.76 cents a pound in 1932—within one point of the all-record low established in 1898.

Twelve-cent cotton is the prewar parity price goal set by the agricultural readjustment administration. Spot cotton promised 10 cents shortly before last Labor Day but subsequently was swept back to an indifferent average of around 6.09 cents a pound shortly before President Roosevelt proclaimed a national bank holiday. For two weeks the futures markets were closed and cash values were uncertain, but with the reopening speculative interests got busy in the distant months and spots meandered up, middling seven-eighths inch scoring 6.65 cents on March 16.

Except for a technical readjustment of a few points the price trend has been steadily upward ever since. The market has absorbed tremendous liquidation by early longs but contracts taken on trade account held the rise. Retail shelves are practically bare of cotton cloths and mill expansion has put a foundation under the raw fiber unapproached in two years.

The highest average price of cotton in recent times was 21 1-2 cents, paid in March, 1929, and the all-record high of current history was 42 cents in July, 1920. The latter price has been topped only by the $1.75 scarcity market during the Civil War.

Wool Advances Bringing Money To West Texas

Wool, Mohair and Livestock Prices Bring Realization Of New Deal To Ranches.

While other agriculturists await government assistance, the first six months of 1933 end with West Texas ranchmen already enjoying one "new deal" in prices and looking confidently for another this fall. Wool, mohair, sheep and cattle are estimated to have started more than $22,000,000 flowing into the ranch country of Texas since January 1.

Although slightly more than half of the wool crop has been sold, growers believe the balance virtually is certain to go at the high prices of the season, or 250 per cent greater than last year. This unsold wool on hand includes about 5,000,000 pounds on hand in Texas and from 20 to 25 million pounds of government-mortgaged clips consigned to Boston dealers. Small clips are being sold daily in Texas at from 26 to 28 cents a pound, while the first few sales of government wool in Boston have been in line with the tops paid in Texas.

22 Cents Average. The estimates, compiled from opinions of various ranch and wool dealers follow:

Wool sold in Texas has brought an average of 22 cents a pound or a total of $7,770,000.

Wool yet to sell in Texas and Boston is expected to bring an average of 25 cents a pound for 25,000,000 pounds, or $6,250,000.

Mohair, now virtually sold out, has brought an average of 15 cents a pound clip, or a total of $900,000.

Sheep have brought in $1,875,000, based on average prices of $2.50 a head for 700,000 shipped out this spring.

ADDITIONAL RELIEF FUNDS ARE SOUGHT BY LOCAL AGENCIES

A resolution, reciting the urgent need for additional relief funds in Brown county and requesting that the full amount asked by the Brownwood Relief Committee for July and August be graded, was adopted at a meeting Thursday morning in the county court room.

The meeting was attended by members of the Brown county commissioners court, the Brownwood city council, the newly created county council, members of the relief committee, chamber of commerce officials, and other interested citizens. County Judge Courtney Gray presided.

Committees who went to Austin Tuesday made reports on their work in securing funds for road and relief work here. They stated that a promise was made that the relief committee's request would be granted in full this time, but it was felt by those attending the meeting that a formal petition seeking definite action should be prepared.

The progress of the relief work, both under the direction of the relief committee and the various governmental agencies was reported by speakers. Judge E. M. Davis, member of the county council, outlined the work of this committee, which was recently created to coordinate requests for Federal funds in this county.

Leo Ehlinger, district engineer, pointed out that within the next 30 days, as the work on Highway 10 was completed, from 90 to 100 workmen would be released and out of work, while another 100 workmen would be idle with the completion of Highway 7 within the next 50 days. Some provision must be made, he stated, to find work for these and other men who now are without employment.

Work on the Cross Cut highway cannot be started by the time this work is completed, Mr. Ehlinger pointed out.

face was despaired of, the search was continued constantly until the body was sighted, floating in shallow water near the west shore of the lake, a short distance from the scene of the tragedy. The body was first sighted by Tom Deely and John Robert Montgomery, who called for aid, and the body was taken from the water and brought to the Mitcham Funeral Home, Brownwood.

Funeral services were held in Comanche Tuesday afternoon, July 11, at the Comanche Baptist church, with Rev. Gordon Barrett, pastor, officiating, assisted by Dr. John Power and Dr. S. E. Chandler, of Daniel Baker college. Interment was in the Comanche cemetery.

Moody was well known in Brownwood, and had a host of friends here. He was a former resident of Comanche, where he was a star football player in high school days. He entered Daniel Baker College, Brownwood, and for several years starred here as a football player. Lately he had been an employee of the local J. M. Radford Grocery company.

Surviving are his father, J. T. Moody of Comanche; three brothers, Floyd and Jim Moody of Brownwood, and two sisters, Mrs. J. W. Lane and Miss Bess Moody of Comanche.

DAVIS TO DISCUSS FOUR AMENDMENTS

Judge E. M. Davis will explain the four constitutional amendments to be voted on by Texas voters August 26, at a meeting of the Brown County Taxpayers League Saturday, July 15, at 2:30 p. m. in the district court room, Brownwood.

The meeting was called by W. R. Chambers of May, president of the league. Following the talk by the league, following the talk by Judge Davis, members will be granted an opportunity to ask questions and enter into a general discussion of the amendments.

The league is non-political, and will not take a stand on any of the issues, the purpose of the meeting being merely to inform the voters. No discussion of the prohibition amendment will be permitted, Mr. Chambers stated.

The Grand Bank is a great shoal in the Atlantic Ocean lying off the coast of Newfoundland and famous throughout the world as a fishing ground.

WORK ON CROSS CUT HIGHWAY MAY START BY SEPTEMBER, AS COMMISSION APPROVES PLANS

THERE is little hope that actual work on the 7-mile section of the Cross Cut highway out of Brownwood, approval of which was given by the State Highway commission Tuesday, will start before September, in the opinion of Leo Ehlinger, district engineer. The highway commission approved a direct grant of Federal funds of from $50,000 to $75,000 for this work, but this also must be approved by the Federal Bureau of Public Roads before the funds will become available.

Boy Scouts At Camp Gibbons For The Week

Contingent Leaves Monday For San Saba County Campsite; Back July 18th.

Several dozen happy boys, from the nine troops of Boy Scouts in Brownwood left Monday for Camp Billy Gibbons, in San Saba county, for a week's encampment, beginning July 11 and extending through July 18.

At the camp they will join other scouts from Cisco, Stephenville, Rising Star, and Comanche, who will be at the camp for the first week. The camp is divided into two periods, the first extending to July 15, and the second period being from July 19 to 26. About 300 scouts from the Comanche Trail, comprising eight counties, are expected at the two encampments.

At the camp the scouts are under the care of G. N. Quirk, scout executive for the area. Hugh L. Stewart and Henry Wilson, chairmen of the council camping committee, with Mr. Quirk, preceded the scouts to the camp to get things in readiness to welcome the 150 scouts expected this week for the opening of the first period.

Each Sunday will be Visitor's Day at the camp. Visitor's Day for the Brownwood group will be Sunday, July 16. To reach Camp Billy Gibbons, drive to Richland Springs, and get directions there. The camp is about 15 miles from Richland Springs.

Several improvements have been made at camp including the digging of a water well, the building of an ice box, a rustic trading post and headquarters have been set up.

Patrol tables are being used this year in the place of long tables that were used last year. Eight boys will sit at a table with their table leader. This furnishes an opportunity for friendship and a chance for the Scouts to come to know each other better.

The Scout Camp is located on the 65,000 acre Gibbons ranch in San Saba county at the mouth of Brady creek on the San Saba river. Here a boy has an opportunity to commune with the beautiful outdoors. The San Saba river and Brady creek are two beautiful streams with fish, birds and yes, even wild turkey and deer are to be seen only a short distance from the camp site. Lots of Scouts will possibly see their first wild deer and turkeys.

A study of nature and living with nature cannot help but bring to the boy a better appreciation of the beautiful things that God has made. In camp Scouts learn a regularity and habit. He eats when his companions eat; he awakes when he is summoned to arise; he goes to bed when he is bidden to do so; he goes hiking at a stated time and swimming, fishing, and boating at regular intervals. In all of these things, there is discipline in the making of regular habits that will be an asset to the boy and a source of joy to the parents. In camping a boy is made to look out for himself; he must assert his initiative; he must eat what is put before him; he is very largely his own servant. When he returns home, he will the more appreciate his mother's attention and devotion and service. He will relish the food that is put before him; life will open a new aspect to him.

This is an important highway to Brown county, Judge Gray pointed out, as it gives a new outlet to the south, and also shortens the distance to Austin by about 25 miles, and as the highway commission now is planning improvement of the highway from San Saba through Llano to Fredericksburg, this highway would offer a new and shorter route from Brownwood to San Antonio.

The highway commission at the Tuesday meeting also approved the completion of gaps in highway 10 in Erath and Comanche counties, which will give an improved route into Fort Worth and Dallas from Brown county.

THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1933

"Substantial, Reliable."

"I like your paper," a visitor to the Banner-Bulletin office said this week. "Especially, I like the advertisements, and I am glad to notice they are from substantial, representative Brownwood firms."

Quite a few people have commented kindly upon the new Banner-Bulletin, and we are appreciative of this, and mindful of our duty to our readers—to endeavor constantly to improve the newspaper, make it more interesting, of greater service.

But we were especially interested in this observation that the advertisements in the Banner-Bulletin are from "substantial, representative Brownwood firms." It is true, and of course, with our readers, we are happy that such is the case.

Advertising, to be effective, must be backed by a substantial, representative firm, for advertising brings people into the stores, and if the quality of merchandise is not as represented, the advertising produces a negative effect. Merchants have learned this through years of advertising and selling.

Too, times such as these have made the more substantial firms more conspicuous. They have weathered the financial difficulties of the past few years, and are ready and anxious to go ahead with the new prosperity we have in sight. They are anxious to keep before the people through regular, reliable channels such as newspaper advertising affords.

There is another reason why advertisers in the Banner-Bulletin are substantial, representative. It is because this newspaper, now in its 58th year of continuous weekly publication, represents a substantial, reliable advertising medium, that has alike the confidence of the reader and the advertiser.

Substantial, reliable firms like a substantial, reliable medium through which to reach substantial, reliable customers. They naturally are wary of fly-by-night propositions, hit or miss mediums, of untried schemes of various sorts.

That's why readers may depend upon advertisers in the Banner-Bulletin, just as readers have been doing for nearly 60 years. Look over this, a representative issue, and see the firms represented.

Better Business

"It is no longer an opinion that business is on the upgrade; it is a fact." That is from the Dun and Bradstreet Review; date, July 7, 1933.

Rising commodity and farm prices are pointing the way back to increased activity in every line of endeavor, and this increased activity, it is fervently hoped, at least, indicates a return toward prosperity.

Of interest to all Texans is the remarkable recovery of farm prices during the past few weeks. This has been brought about both through the activity of the government in working toward the reduction of farm crops, and through Nature's own working in a reduction of crops throughout the grain growing sections.

Not all increased prices are traceable to government or speculative manipulations, however. Price of farm produce this year has been almost twice the corresponding price of last year, and food prices generally have shown marked increase, which in the main are the reflection of better prices for farm products.

Texas farmers, for example, will have several million dollars to spend this year that was not available a year ago. That money, badly needed, will be spent quickly, and will find its way into all channels of trade. Whether it will cause increased prosperity of a permanent or lasting nature is something that even the economists cannot predict. But it is a step in the right direction, and wise merchants will make the most of the situation as and while it is here.

A "Third" Party

The Women's Christian Temperance Union, in national convention last week in Milwaukee, proposed the establishment of a Third Party to sponsor the cause of prohibition, based on the correct assumption that at the present time prohibitionists in either of the national parties are without proper representation.

The theory may be right, but in actual practice, the third party idea will not work, even though it is based upon a cause which will draw such enthusiastic support as will prohibition.

Granted that prohibitionists are without satisfactory representation in the platforms of the major parties, or even assuming further that they will be without such representation during the next two or three national campaigns, reform can best be achieved through the established channels.

It has been the history of every reform movement that the majority must be convinced, regardless of how slow and painful a process is required to establish a change of mind or heart. Even so hardy a politician as Teddy Roosevelt found that reform must come from within; even so able a strategist as Bryan fought his battles of principle over and over again within his party in the face of certain temporary defeat.

Prohibition is not without stalwart workers within the ranks of the major political parties; workers who almost certainly would not relinquish their political affiliations to join a third party. The Republicans have Borah and other national leaders; Texas Democrats have Sheppard and Connally.

It would take generations to wean voters away from the two standards that have been followed by the voters almost since this nation was founded. It just could not be done in time to do anyone any good. Prohibition at present seems to be in the minority; the only worthwhile remedy is to convince enough voters they are wrong to bring back to the issue the splendid majorities it once enjoyed.

The Short Course

Brown county farmers and farm women, 4-H club members and others interested in advancement of farming in this section, have an excellent opportunity to attend, at a minimum cost, the annual Farmers Short Course at A. & M. College this year.

The cost of the trip has been reduced to a minimum. The round trip, including room and meals at the college, can be made for $10.30, which takes care of all expenses from the time of leaving Brownwood until the return. The expenses are divided as follows: Round trip to College Station, over the Santa Fe, $5.30; room for one week, $1.25; meals for one week, $3.75. Those making the trip by automobile enjoy the same rates at College Station, and their expenses at the college will be only $5 for the full week.

Officials of the college this year have arranged one of the best programs ever to be presented at the annual events. "There will be more of doing and less of listening" according to the promises of those in charge; and the doing will be of value and interest to all who attend. Work will be under various divisions, including home making, dairying, poultry raising, livestock, farm crops, horticulture, syrup making, cotton management course, etc. In addition there will be various other studies of interest to farm women and children.

An interesting entertainment program, providing amusement and recreation for all during the times when other programs do not interfere, has been arranged. All who possibly can do so should plan to attend the Short Course this year.

Not Quiet for Them

Last week this newspaper suggested that the Fourth of July had become too quiet an event in Brownwood; that something is needed to bring crowds to Brownwood instead of to lure them away.

Now comes a champion of Brownwood's organized boyhood, the Boy Scouts, to advise us that, for these boys at least, the Fourth of July was a happy and interesting day.

The Boy Scouts held their annual swimming tournament in Brownwood this year, as usual. Heretofore, honors in swimming and diving events had been going to Stephenville youths. But not

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

Advertising And The Machine Age

(Prepared by the Bureau of Research and Education, Advertising Federation of America.)

A frightful alarm went through the country a few months ago. It was one of the strangest alarms in all the history of mankind. People suddenly feared their own efficiency, their ability to produce goods for their comfort and satisfaction.

In normal times such an alarm would create hardly a ripple on the surface of our national thinking. But because we are now in a state of mental strain, any warning may frighten us, no matter how absurd. So millions shuddered at the sudden thought of our civilization being devoured by machines of our own creation.

For several thousand years man has been laboring to harness the forces of nature and bend them to the task of producing the material things which make civilization possible. Amazing progress has been made, especially in our own country. Even in these times of comparative distress, nearly all of us enjoy more of the satisfaction of life than were formerly available to the most fortunate few.

Much of this progress has been due to forces other than production efficiency. Invention and engineering science could not have done the job alone. Ability to make things is useless unless we also know how to distribute them. Every advance in the creative process necessitates an advance in distribution methods. Otherwise, progress is but a theory.

Under the only satisfactory social system which we know, goods must be distributed by selling them to the people who are to use them. All purchases must be voluntary and the money for this buying comes from industry itself.

The only possible threat from greater production efficiency arises from the lagging of our distributive machinery. At a time like the present every force, every influence for speeding up the selling process is a life-line back to prosperity. Even after normal conditions will have been restored, we still will be faced with the necessity of making the products of industry move faster into the hands of consumers. We have never really produced too much and we probably never will. At times, we may have too much wheat or too many hairpins but there are always many things of which we could use more than has ever been produced. In this sense, we have never really had over-production. At the peak of prosperity we produced only seven hundred dollars worth of goods and services per capita. We could happily use several times that amount.

One thing which America needs to do for the future is to devote an increasing amount of ingenuity and energy to the problem of distributing the goods which industry produces. Distributing means selling to consumers. In all the history of selling, there never has been a greater invention than that of advertising, which has become industry's most powerful sales force. Just as machines brought mass production, so advertising made mass selling possible.

America will continue to progress. Our inventors and engineers must be kept at their task of making life easier and more pleasant. But we must strengthen those forces which distribute the fruits of their creation. One of the most important of these is intelligent advertising. It is not only business which benefits from advertising. In this stage of civilization, the welfare of every man, woman, and child is dependent on the efficient distribution of our manifold products. Good advertising is one of the most essential forces in that process.

adopting scientific methods of buying and selling, through the employment of systematic accounting, through a study of their customers' requirements and through advertising.

But a great many scorn such new-fangled ideas, and stay in the rut in which their forefathers ran their course. They are headed for bankruptcy and don't know why. But to any one with a fundamental knowledge of modern business practices the reason is plain. These failures are not businessmen, nor even merchants—they are only storekeepers.

The farmer isn't the only class who can be ruined by ruts. In fact most farmers have filled the ruts by the use of modern methods of farming and living. Many of them are now far better business men than their loss progressive townsmen. They became so by abandoning old methods and using new and modern ideas and plans. The day of slipshod farming has passed. Whether he likes the name or not, the successful farmer is now an agriculturist, and the storekeeper to be successful must determine to be more than a "keeper" of a store—he must be a merchant.

Hammerfest, Norway, is the most northern town in Europe.

COUNTRY AND TOWN

Dr. Frederick Osborn of the American Museum of Natural History says that the city child, generally speaking, has a higher intelligence quotient than his country cousin. The reports at hand do not say what intelligence tests were used in arriving at this conclusion. There is a tradition, as old as Shakespeare and probably going back to the children of Jacob, that the yokels dwell in the country places and the keen-witted in the cities.

It is something like the legend that innocence is the part of country children and that city children are beset with all manner of temptations—and yield to them. Yet the evidence of the police stories in the newspapers is that the gentlemen who carry on the goldbrick game and work the handkerchief trick and persuade confiding persons to draw all their money from the savings banks in the hope of doubling it before sunset all ply their trade in the city. Apparently it is in the city that a sucker is born every minute—not in the country. And there is some ground for the suspicion that the sharpers who live by easing city people of their money come from the

COUNTRY

It would be hard to match the general toughness and undesirability of a country road Arab with anything the city street Arab can show.

But there is another angle to the problem: does the fact that the leading men in almost every urban community are country-born and bred offer proof flatly to the contrary of Dr. Osborn's conclusions, or does the country child of exceptional intelligence quit the country at the first opportunity and come to the city to benefit by the greater advantage he finds there?—Boston Transcript.

AVOID ADVERTISING WASTE.

In the name of advertising more sins are committed than anything else in the commercial life. The anxiety of the average business man to find a new way to advance his interests makes him an easy victim of the shark and grafter with some scheme which he calls advertising. Every business man has paid for his short-sightedness in waste of advertising funds.

Strange to say, such losses do not seem to have educated many of the victims, and this sort of fraud is one of the best paying rackets being worked today. Many a merchant will ignore the faithful efforts of his local publisher, and the value of his home town newspaper as an advertising medium, to patronize these rackets.

It would seem that in this Twentieth century, and age of modern commerce, everybody would fully recognize the place of the newspaper in modern life. Not only is it bought and paid for as a medium of current news, but its advertising columns are regarded as news as well, and the soundest kind of an investment for the reader as well as the advertiser. The reader looks to these advertising columns as a guide to his purchasing of everything that enters into his economic plans. He is influenced and guided by the information thus gained by practically all of his investments and purchases.

The newspaper is read by every member of the family, the man, the woman and all of the children old enough to read. Practically all of the family spending is directed by information gained by reading of advertising in the family newspaper.

On the other hand, who ever heard of the family spending being influenced by the multitude of freak advertising and ballyhoo circulars sold by these smooth-tongued artists who one day and gone tomorrow? Times of economic stringency should where it will buy the advertising service. That to waste hard earned money diminished profits is to spend the entire advertising campaign that will waste.

There never has been when the buyer was in search of the best information on that, the important problem of his existence. It is up to the merchant to furnish the information and place it where it is readily found, in the columns of the local newspaper. Texas Commercial News.

Had to Be Increased

On Monday, July 10, it became necessary to make a slight increase in the price of bread in Brownwood. This increase was made necessary because---

Since January, 1933, the price of flour has more than doubled.

In addition to this increased price, we must now pay a government tax of $1.38 per barrel, payable on our present stock and future purchases.

Wax paper used for bread wrappers has increased.

The price of compound has increased.

The price of sugar has increased.

Delivery costs have increased through higher price of gasoline, oil, tires, etc.

Almost every item entering into the manufacture of bread has increased during the past 60 days. This increase has ranged from 10 per cent to more than 150 per cent.

(Bear in mind that Brownwood bakeries make no extra charge for slicing bread; bakeries generally charge 1 cent per loaf additional for sliced bread.)

THIS IS NOT A LOCAL CONDITION, BUT ONE BEING FACED BY BAKERS THROUGHOUT THE NATION. IT IS BROUGHT ABOUT NOT ALONE THROUGH RISING PRICES, BUT PARTLY BY THE GOVERNMENT'S DESIRE TO ASSIST THE FARMER, AND IN THIS EFFORT WE ARE IN HEARTY ACCORD AND HAVE PLEDGED OUR SUPPORT.

HARVESTING OF CROPS WITH LIVESTOCK PROVES PROFITABLE WITH CHEAP PRICES

(By T. C. Richardson, Field Editor, Farm & Ranch.)

A good friend of mine writes fluently and convincingly that the railroads and roadways should be kept free of Johnson grass by law, and the deep, dark blue picture he paints of Johnson grass infested fields is not only true but is saddening, maddening and whatever else you want to call it.

My friend's objective is admirable, but human nature being what it is, I am afraid it would be another futile gesture of trying to solve farm problems by legal methods, whether compulsion were confined to railroads or extended to include farmers.

This is not to suggest that every cotton farmer ought to change his system, but records show that it is possible to reduce the labor and increase the income by bringing the cotton acreage down to about 65 per cent of the total cultivated acreage.

If it is absolutely necessary for the field to be planted in cotton the next year, I would then bed the land in winter if possible and maybe some more stonons would come up where Jack Frost can finish them off.

In the suggested program foregoing, the farm operator is doing effective work not only against the Johnson grass, but against root rot also—that is, he is reducing the infestation, but probably not accomplishing complete eradication.

Now that we are on the subject of grazing the fields, we might as well go further. More crops were harvested by livestock last year probably than ever before in the southwest.

Many farmers and some commercial feeders let the livestock do the work. Range breeders of cattle and sheep supplied the stock for grazing the fields under various sharing contracts by which the farmer's feed and the breeder's stock were combined into fat butcher stock and an unusual amount of this finish-feeding was done by the grazing method until the fields were cleaned out, when the stock were transferred to dry lots for finishing.

It has been found that with the proper management cattle will gain during the grazing period at a rate slightly under the dry-lot period. Two pounds a day has been frequently reported in several cases and hogs following the cattle glean the fields so closely that under normal conditions there is practically no loss of grain.

This brings on more talk. Of course, managing that uses livestock to save wastes and harvest costs calls for fencing, in order to confine the stock to different fields in their turn. If permanent fences are not in the right places, temporary fences will have to be built. It need not be deeply set as long as the grazing is good and stock in process of fattening should not be kept in a field after they have to do a lot of walking to fill up. Stock cattle which are merely to be wintered over may be forced to make a pretty thorough clean-up before removing them to another field or pasture, and no damage will result.

This is all so obvious to the livestock farmer that it seems superfluous to print it. But most of our cotton farmers have not had experience in these matters and the suggestions here may guide them to a closer investigation of the subject if they are seriously interested in setting up a sound program of rotation and livestock with which to meet the cotton problem.

Neither is this to suggest that all the feed should be grazed, for the feed requirements after frost must be met by harvested grain and forage, stored in the silo, the barn or near by. But the trick of making the livestock serve themselves, cafeteria-style looks mighty good when cash is short for hired labor and the regular force on the farm needs to be doing other work.

No one knows what the conditions will be next fall, but if our national farm policy succeeds as we hope, the raise in farm crop and livestock prices will be only a jump ahead of similar rises on what farmers pay. It will still be necessary to follow a better balanced system than we have had in the past, and the individual must face the fact that lowering his own costs of production will be necessary over any given period.

and the complete lack of any definite world policy for the past twelve years.

When all the world settles down to peaceful arts and trade moves freely; when China and India and San Marino have money wherewith to buy; when the war debts are settled and taxes are as low as everybody wants them—even then it will still be necessary to do good farming.

The Future Farmers exhibit at the 1933 State Fair of Texas will be made up from products grown by the 20,000 vocational agricultural students in the 34 Texas schools teaching this course. Some 2,000 of these students will attend the annual Future Farmers convention held each year at the State Fair.

RHEUMATISM GONE TOO

Here is a woman who was rapidly putting on weight and who was troubled with rheumatism too. Read her letter: "I started taking Kruschen Salts because of the good it had done for a friend of mine who had been crippled with rheumatism. At the end of the second bottle I weighed 148 pounds (original weight 163 lbs.), at which I am so pleased. But I have also felt my rheumatism much less, which has been so troublesome in my knees. I must say I think Kruschen a splendid weight reducer." (Miss) E. L. P.

ugly fat goes; slowly, yes—but surely. You feel wonderfully healthy, youthful and energetic—more so than ever before in your life! Kruschen Salts is obtainable at Renfro's Retail Drug Stores and all drug stores—a jar lasts four weeks and costs not more than 85c.

The chart at the left shows the rise and fall of living costs (the combined average of food, rent, clothing, fuel, house furnishings and sundries in the average family budget) and compares them with the cost of electric service in Brownwood homes.

Following a Long Established Precedent

Advertisement for Texas Power & Light Company. Text: 'The history of the Texas Power & Light Company has been one of steadily decreasing rates for electric service that has been consistently improved. The cost of electricity never has skyrocketed to the high altitude reached by other items of the family budget. Its cost has stayed low and is lower today than ever before. Even when recent drastic price cuts are taken into full consideration, the general cost of living is still much higher than in 1914. For example, the cost of living in 1933 is still 32 per cent higher than in 1914. On the other hand, electric rates of this Company have decreased so steadily that the purchasing power of the 1914 dollar has more than doubled itself when applied to electric service in 1933. Excepting only a slight increase during the war and immediately thereafter, when other prices were shooting skyward, the cost of electricity in Brownwood homes has shown a consistent decrease.'

OBITUARY

JULIAN W. MALONE

Julian W. Malone was born in Brownwood January 6, 1904, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Malone, respected and well loved pioneer family of Brownwood. He lived all of his life in Brownwood, and had developed from a lovable child into a useful and valuable citizen when he was suddenly taken away by a most horrible accident. On June 16, 1933, while at work on his farm at the edge of Brownwood, he was severely burned when a gasoline engine exploded. He was rushed to a hospital, given medical treatment, and for a time it was thought that he would recover, but the burns were too severe, and on Friday, June 30, 1933, he succumbed after a week of agony and suffering.

As a boy he attended the Brownwood public schools, graduating from the Brownwood high school in June, 1923. He later attended Daniel Baker College, and there met Miss Rowena Hunter, who later was to be his wife. They were married in Brownwood August 6, 1927. To this union were born two children, June and John

MRS. FRANCES TAYLOR IS CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Frances M. Taylor, 80, mother of Thomas H. Taylor, president of Howard Payne College, died at her home near May Tuesday, July 11, 1933.

Mrs. Taylor was born in Anderson county, Texas, in 1852, and had lived in the Wolf Valley community, about five miles northwest of May, since 1884. She was married to Henry P. Taylor in 1885, and moved to Brownwood in 1896. They remained in Brownwood only two years, after which they moved back to the Wolf Valley community, where Mr. Taylor died in 1931, and where Mrs. Taylor had since resided.

The family is one of the pioneers of this section, Mr. Taylor having been prominent for many years in political and civic affairs. He served for a time as a member of the legislature from this district. "Grandma" Taylor was widely known and universally loved throughout the county.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning from the Wolf Valley church, of which she had been a prominent member for 43 years. Rev. C. M. Martin, pastor of the First Methodist church of Rising Star, officiated.

Surviving are two children, Dr. Thomas H. Taylor of Brownwood and Mrs. Edward Bailey of May; one brother, George Lester of May and one sister, Mrs. Luch Charlton of Houston.

BURNS ARE FATAL TO YOUNG CHILD

S. J. Eaton, Jr., 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Eaton, who live seven miles east of Brownwood, died in a Brownwood hospital Tuesday night of burns inflicted Tuesday morning when the child fell into a pressure cooker of scalding water. No hope for the child's recovery was held out by doctors, although the little fellow struggled manfully for life, and lived from the time of the accident, 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, until about 10 o'clock Tuesday night.

Mrs. Eaton was canning fruit, and had set the cooker full of boiling water on the floor near the stove. The child was playing in the kitchen and in some manner fell into the scalding water.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Jenkins Springs church, with interment in the cemetery there. In addition to the parents, four brothers and sisters survive. They are: Phyllis Jean, 9, Mary Lou, 8, Harry, 7, and Fannie Laurie, 5.

B. Malone, fine, happy child who remain to soften the sorrow of his leaving, and to carry on later over the trails he was forced to leave so early in life.

After finishing his school work, Julian worked for several years as a bookkeeper and office worker, but this work was too confining, and a few years ago, doctors advised him to stay more in the open with a view to regaining his health. And so he entered upon the work where he found much happiness, and which brought his untimely death.

His nature was well reflected in his love of the out-of-doors and the interest he took in his farm work. He delighted to be in the field, and got genuine pleasure from the work he was doing. He was a lover of all of Nature, and of Nature's handiworks.

Julian joined the First Methodist church when he was only 5 years of age, and throughout his 29 years of life had led an upright Christian life. He exemplified his religion in his work and his home, where he was a devoted husband and father. His quiet nature, even temper, and friendly demeanor endeared him to all who knew him, and he lived his religious teachings in his every day life. His untimely death stopped short a work in which he had entered with characteristic thoroughness and efficiency only two years ago, and removed a worthy and respected citizen, just coming into full appreciation by his friends and neighbors.

Funeral services were held from the family home of his parents, 606 Coggin avenue, where he was born, and where his children were born. Rev. J. N. Rentfro, pastor of the First Methodist church, presided. Burial was in the family plot at Greenleaf cemetery, where scarcely more than a year ago his father was laid to rest.

Surviving are his wife, two children, his mother; two sisters, Miss Mayesie Malone home demonstration agent of Brown county, and Mrs. C. A. Lindsey, and two brothers, Robert Malone and Miles Malone, all of Brownwood.

His many friends, and the large circle of friends of the family, join in extending sympathy to his loved ones in their great loss.

JAMES EARLY SMITH DIES AT HOME HERE

James Early Smith, 90, Confederate veteran, and resident of Brownwood since 1882, died suddenly at his home, 803 Melwood avenue, Wednesday night about 7 o'clock.

He had been in apparent good health, and his death came suddenly and unexpectedly as he was working in his yard. A heart attack, probably brought about by the excessive heat, was given as the cause of his death.

"Uncle Jimmie" Smith was a venerable citizen of Brownwood, and was well known to all citizens. He served three terms as city alderman and twice as county treasurer, and probably had a wider acquaintance than anyone in Brownwood. He was widely known and highly respected, and his sudden death, despite his advanced age, was a shock to his many friends.

Mr. Smith was born February 27, 1843, in Lyon county, Kentucky. He served throughout the Civil War as a Confederate soldier. He came to Brownwood in 1882, and soon became prominent in business and political circles. For many years he conducted a confectionery and grocery business on Melwood avenue, and at various times entered city and county political campaigns as a candidate.

A monster celebration, attended by more than 200 friends was held at the Baptist church last February, upon the occasion of his 90th birthday. Mr. Smith had joined the Baptist church as a young man, and had been active in its affairs for many years.

Mr. Smith was married to Miss Mary E. McConnell of Kentucky in 1865. In 1900 he was married to Mrs. Alice Watson of Brownwood who survives him.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning, July 14, from the First Baptist church, with Dr. A. E. Prince, pastor, officiating, assisted by Dr. W. R. Hornburg, pastor of the Coggin Avenue Baptist church. Interment will be in the Greenleaf cemetery.

Surviving Mr. Smith are his wife and six children. The children are Mrs. J. S. Guyer, Mrs. J. A. Cox, and Mrs. T. Clyde Smith, all of Brownwood; Mrs. George F. Harris of Los Angeles; T. Hugh Smith of Dallas and Holt Smith of Houston. Sixteen grandchildren, 25 great grandchildren and one great great grandchild also survive.

Pioneer Rising Star Resident Is Dead

James C. Coursey, 83, pioneer resident of Rising Star, died at the home of his son, J. T. Coursey at Rising Star, Monday, July 10, following a long illness.

Mr. Coursey had been a resident of Rising Star for about 40 years, having moved there from Lamar county. He was a native of Kentucky, having moved to Texas about 50 years ago. Mr. Coursey was the grandfather of Clark Coursey, of the staff of the Brownwood Bulletin.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the First Methodist church at Rising Star, with interment in the cemetery there.

WALTON LEAGUE ASKS RECREATION CONTROL AT LAKE BROWNWOOD

Control of all recreational activities at Lake Brownwood by Pecan Valley Chapter, Isaak Walton League, is sought in a petition presented last Thursday night to the directors of Brown County Water Improvement District by a committee from the league. The league would supervise all facilities for recreation, with a view to bringing these facilities within reach of all residents of Texas, and for the protection of fishing and hunting in the lake and the grounds controlled by the district.

Members of the league would be granted no additional privileges, it is pointed out in the request, which was presented in the form of a written petition, but the public would benefit.

The petition asks that the league be given control of fishing, hunting, boating, parks, shoreline, and also asks to conduct educational tours of the lake, and to construct fish rearing ponds for stocking the water. The last two requests were taken under advisement. Action on these proposals is expected in the near future.

It was estimated by the league that proper handling of the recreational facilities would mean from two to three million dollars annually to Brownwood in indirect revenue.

It also is proposed that a migratory bird sanctuary be established on the lake, which, it is pointed out, would be the only inland bird sanctuary in Texas. It is further recommended that the Audubon society be given charge of McCarty island, and states that if the Audubon society should accept, workers will be put in charge, and birds of all kinds from throughout the world will be kept there.

A number of inquiries as to camp and lodge sites have been received, it was stated, and lack of proper information has made it impossible to give satisfactory data. Control of shoreline is one of the requests made in the petition.

WOOL ADVANCES

Midland, including the territory from Presidio, total 250,000 head at an average price of $20, or $5,000,000. Ten thousand head of horses have been shipped out during the spring at an average price of $30 a head, or $300,000.

The fall sales of West Texas ranch and farm products may almost equal the value of the spring crops if prices hold up. There will be around 15,000,000 pounds of short wool to go. About 7,500,000 pounds of mohair will be clipped this fall. A half million cattle, 2,000,000 head of lambs and 300,000 old ewes will be shipped out. Add to this the crops of cotton, grain, turkeys, pecans and chickens and the prosperity picture for West Texas is virtually complete.

It is believed that the population of Jerusalem in the time of Christ was between 60,000 and 70,000.
