FRUIT CROP IS BIG SOURCE OF REVENUE HERE

With many fine orchards in the Bangs section and other parts of the county producing much fruit yearly the Brown county fruit crop is another leader in the county sources of revenue.

Estimates have been made concerning the fruit yield this year and it is said that because of the large amount of fruit killed by the heavy freeze during the winter that the Brown county fruit yield this year will be very little.

The fruit crop includes mostly peaches, apricots, plums and other tree fruits. It is marketed locally and very little fruit is shipped from Brownwood yearly.

GRAIN CROP WILL BE SHORTER THIS YEAR IN THIS TERRITORY

With approximately 120,000 acres of Brown county farm lands planted in grain last year the farmers of this county received much benefit from their grain crop...

There were 21,351 acres of wheat in the county which yielded 243,010 bushels of wheat. The wheat was shipped from Brownwood in 225 car lots and brought the farmers a total estimated price of $79,000.

There were 30,236 acres planted in oats last year which was the largest grain acreage in the county. This brought 51,853 bushels of grain to the growers. More than 400 cars of oats were shipped from here for an estimated return of $111,000.

There were 2,981 acres of hay which produced 2,837 tons of feed of this year and returns were estimated at $18,459. The yield included Johnson grass, alfalfa and other small grain hay.

The remainder of the acreage was planted to barley, maize and other grains and figures on shipment of this grain and total revenue were not obtainable.

The grain crop will in all probability be much shorter in the county this year because of the severe freeze which occurred here shortly after the young grain had sprouted.

In many places where the grain was killed the farmers did not replant. Those that did replant report that their grain crop will be much later this year and returns were estimated at $18,459.

The remainder of the acreage was planted to barley, maize and other grains and figures on shipment of this grain and total revenue were not obtainable.

Chickens and Eggs Are Money Makers For Many Farmers

Clucking around in Brown county back yards, and crowing on Brown county fences, there were a total of 191,896 chickens last year. This total shows that the homeowners of this county believe in keeping every available way of getting revenue from their farms.

This large number of chickens crowded, dressed, laid and cackled their owners $128,550, not counting the eggs that the obliging hens left in the many county nests.

The eggs that were thus left totaled 926,073 dozen and were valued at $22,258 in cash. The chickens, although being considered a barnyard fowl produced a nice revenue during the year.

There are only a very few chicken farms in the county, and of these none are operated on an extensive scale. There are some hatcheries in Brownwood which set thousands of eggs yearly and which sell chickens to the whole county. Other than these hatcheries there are hundreds of private incubators which hatch many chicks yearly for the owner and his neighbors.

The long valley of Pecan Bayou is dotted with pecan groves along its entire length and along the banks of this stream and all sloughs that are connected can be found many more native trees that bring many pounds of profit to the owner yearly.

With the addition of the government pecan experiment station here and irrigation along Pecan Bayou Brownwood will grow to be the heart of the pecan industry of the county.

The head of the Pecan Marketing Association makes his home here and with the place already accorded Brownwood in the industry it will some day reach the high goal that has been set for it.

3 WEEK-END BURGLARIES

Yeggs were busy in Brownwood over the week-end, burglaries at least three houses and stealing one motorcycle.

No one was at home in any of the three houses robbed. All the houses were on Avenue D and Avenue B. From the J. H. Mudd residence at 1812 Avenue B about $50 worth of clothing was taken.

The motorcycle, owned by J. B. Nelms, 1204 Main Avenue, was stolen some time Saturday night. The machine was parked beside the house.

City police are working on all the cases. Two cases of affray which took place Saturday and Sunday also were investigated by police.

The John Swenson home, about two and one half miles west of Bangs on Highway No. 7, was robbed last night while Mr. Swenson and family were attending church services.

The loot taken consisted chiefly of meat and canned fruits and vegetables.

Members of Sheriff Hallmark's department went to the Swenson home last night to conduct an investigation. They are still working on the burglary today.

Pecan Industry Taking Brownwood As Headquarters; Is Center Of Vast Growing Section In Nation

Of the fifty or more counties in the state that are producing pecans, Brown county ranks near the top of the list. This county is considered as one of the first five producers and Brownwood is one of the three largest marketing centers in the state.

The pecan industry has grown to be one of the leading revenue getters of the county and many farmers have pecan trees that have been planted during the past few years which will begin profitable bearing during ten years.

The long valley of Pecan Bayou is dotted with pecan groves along its entire length and along the banks of this stream and all sloughs that are connected can be found many more native trees that bring many pounds of profit to the owner yearly.

With the addition of the government pecan experiment station here and irrigation along Pecan Bayou Brownwood will grow to be the heart of the pecan industry of the county.

The head of the Pecan Marketing Association makes his home here and with the place already accorded Brownwood in the industry it will some day reach the high goal that has been set for it.

MORE COTTON GROWN LAST YEAR THAN IN MORE THAN 10 YEARS

Brown county farmers planted more cotton and produced more cotton here last year than in more than ten years. The total gin reports for the county last year show a very marked increase of the year previous and about double the crop of 1930.

Last year there were 49,725 acres planted in cotton in the county and the gin reports show that there were 11,425 bales ginned here for the year. This was estimated at approximately $350,000 as returns to the growers.

In 1931 there were 5,519 bales of cotton ginned here and in 1930 the acre back of that for the year period shows that the yearly ginnings were about 7,000 bales with some variation yearly to slightly alter this figure.

Cotton played an important part in county farming last year and with the total acreage and the yield it is thought that this was one of the largest cotton years that Brown county had ever experienced. It is estimated that there are not as many acres in cotton this year as there were last year and that the crop will not be as heavy as in 1932.

Brownwood Is Turkey Market Of Large Area

Brownwood is the center of a vast turkey production center and here thousands of birds are marketed yearly. Some of the large packing plants have dressing plants here where turkeys are dressed yearly before being shipped to the eastern markets.

This county ranks seventh in turkey production in the state and its place as a leader is being rapidly assumed. Last year there were approximately 156,158 turkeys marketed in Brownwood.

Between 95 and 100 carloads of turkeys were shipped from Brownwood during the past season which closed with the end of the Christmas rush. It is estimated that the revenue from the turkey crop for the year was approximately $250,000.

There were many farmers who did not sell all their turkey crop last year because of price and it is estimated that the holdover birds on Brown county farms and ranches will total almost as many as were sold. At the rate of sale it is seen that the rank of Brown county as a turkey producer will be greatly increased this year as the county moved toward the head of the list.

Few Apiaries Kept On Brown County Farms Data Shows

The flower beds of Brown county, the tree blooms and every prairie in the county has humming and buzzing about them a large number of bees which bring the people of Brown county a nice revenue yearly. These insects, or whatever they are called, and about which many a fable has been written has never been considered as a revenue source in this county.

Even though most farms in the county are without hives for the production of honey there are 1,276 hives—about one hive to every two farms. These hives have been the production plants for 20,472 pounds of honey in 1932 which brought $2,481 to the owners.

In getting all figures in the article in this, the agriculture edition of The Bulletin, the statisticians neglected to count the bees that are hived in the more than 1,000 white boxes that dot the farms of the county. However, even if there are no apiaries in the county this amount of revenue would have been secured.

TOTAL VALUE OF CROPS IS LISTED BELOW

Brown county has never been the agriculture leader in Texas that it could and should be, however, a large percentage of the total income of the county is in agriculture and its kindred products.

In the county there are 2,158 farms which produced a total of $1,941,905 worth of crops last year. This total included all kinds of farm yield, such as field products, turkeys, pecans and other produce.

This sum is of the total yield sold and in all probability the total value of crops is much higher. In the more than two thousand farms there are 901 farm owners who cultivate 512,448 acres of land of the total 611,840 acres in the county. Of this total 175,204 acres is crop land. There is a larger percentage of pasture land and wooded land in the county than there is in cultivation and of this amount a large part is tillable.

The wooded land of the county, including mountainous sections, totals 201,597 acres and there is a total of 22,967 acres of plowable pasture lands. There are 108,523 acres of other open pasture lands and 4,149 acres of other farm land in the county. These figures show that the extra land that is tillable will make Brown county a leader.

The total land in cultivation this year exceeds that of 1931 and in all probability the total will increase yearly. With the completion of the irrigation project now under way and other improvements the total amount of land to be under cultivation will increase until this county takes its place among the leaders of the state in agriculture.

Other than the 901 farm owners in the county there are 334 part owners of farms, three managers and 920 tenants on farms. The total number of families in the county is 6,587 which leaves a large number of the population of the county living in urban districts. A number of farmers live in town and cultivate their farms in outlying districts. These reside at Bangs, Blanket, Brownwood and other towns where they have moved to take advantage of the school facilities and other privileges of city life.

The total value of the farm lands and buildings of the county is $18,136,440 which includes all improvements as well as the cost of the land itself.

Property Values High. The value of implements and machinery on the 2,000 farms is $869,828. This lists all plows, homes, barns and machinery that is used in the cultivation of the large number of acres that is in cultivation in the county.

The crops represented in the total valuation are well diversified and the distribution shows that grains rank high along with produce of all kinds. There is also a large amount of money invested in livestock in the county which includes all kinds found on farms.

Truck Farms Pay Good Dividends For New Farmers. There is a tidy income for Brown county people in truck produce and of this a large amount is sold yearly. This includes garden produce, melons and other items. Figures on this part of the county income were not available, however, it totals high with the major part of the output being disposed of locally.

There are several truck farms in the county which raise thousands of dollars worth of vegetables and which produce most of the garden truck consumed by Brown county folks. Besides these truck farms most farmers sell a large percentage of their surplus farm produce each year.

In the Bangs section there are several fruit and berry farms which produce a large yield each year. These farms are augmented in all parts of the county by orchards on farms where the owner devotes most of his time to the cultivation of other crops.

With the completion of the irrigation project the number of truck farms and the total revenue from this source will be greatly increased each year until this county becomes one of the leaders.

LAREDO, TEXAS, BEING SHIPPED

In addition to considerable exportations of cotton seed to Mexico during the past few weeks to be used in planting the Mexican cotton crop as well as some for use in cotton seed oil mills of that country, cotton is now moving into Mexico.

Eleven carloads of cotton from Houston have passed through Laredo to points in Mexico for use in textile mills. Three carloads were destined to an industrial concern in Atlixco, Mexico, Puebla, two to a manufacturing concern in Puebla, and one to El Castillo and one to Herules, Queretaro. Other shipments of Texas-grown cotton, it was announced, would follow.

Next Year's Campaign.

A DOZEN OR MORE candidates for the Governorship are certain to be entered in next year's campaign, each with the hope that he may win a place in the second primary for the decisive contest with Mrs. Ferguson.

Of the several prospective candidates a few names stand out prominently. Among them are Speaker Coke Stevenson of the House of Representatives, and Attorney General James V. Allred. The Junction legislator, comparatively unknown in statewide affairs prior to his elevation to the Speakership last January, has been growing in political stature during the past three months, and there are those who profess to see in many of his apparently innocent statements a veiled announcement that he will give his ambition a chance to expand next year.

Jimmie Allred, the popular young Attorney General, seems to be the key to the situation so far as Speaker Stevenson and several other prospective candidates are concerned. If he enters the race for Governor, some of those who are contemplating offering themselves for that position will seek the office of Attorney General instead, Mr. Stevenson being among that number.

Tom Hunter, Clint Small and others who have been candidates in other years do not seem to fit into the picture in its present setting. The winner next year is not going to be an also-ran from a previous campaign. Texas Democracy isn't constituted that way.

Well-Meaning Friends.

The gentleman who remarked that he could take care of his enemies if only someone would protect him from his friends might well have had the case of Tom Mooney in mind. A good-sized crowd of people who wanted Mooney freed held a demonstration in his behalf the other day when his newly granted murder trial was called in San Francisco.

The result was that the trial judge, quite properly, postponed the trial "until this feeling dies down," and the efforts of Mooney's lawyers to get a speedy hearing were foiled.

Mooney's chief counsel, Frank P. Walsh, begged that no demonstration be held, pointing out that "any man who takes part in such demonstrations is doing Mooney harm—almost fatal harm." One wonders just what was in the minds of these demonstrators. Were they sincerely trying to help Mooney—or were they just using him as a good excuse for kicking up a row?

Hidalgo County, Again.

HIDALGO COUNTY, scene of almost constant political turmoil, is again in the news but not on account of politics. The county's grand jury is busy investigating the recent flogging of a couple of vegetable buyers, who were severely beaten by a group of men at Weslaco; and the case is one in which the sympathies of the truck growers of the valley appear to be altogether with the floggers.

According to the district attorney, cash buyers of vegetables in the Magic Valley have been issuing a large number of bad checks in payment for their purchases, and growers who are thus victimized have been unable to make recovery from the check writers. Literally a "truck load of worthless checks" have been received by the producers, and the county's prosecutor declares: "The flogging of two buyers appears to

County Vote Would Be Required for Beer Sale; County Dry Thirty Years

Brown county will remain beerless even if the state votes for return of 32 beer August 26. This is it will remain dry unless a legal petition is presented to the commissioners' court asking that a local option election be held in this county, and unless, following upon such a petition the court should order a local option election and the county should vote to legalize the sale of beer, for Brown county was dry when the state went dry.

The regulatory bill passed in connection with the state beer referendum measure provides that county beer elections may be held any time after July 1. The state election is set for August 26 and in many counties it is expected both the state vote and local vote will be taken in the same election to save expense of two elections.

Little Talk of Petition
Little talk of getting up a petition in this county asking the commissioners' court to set the local option election has been heard thus far. Until this is done Brown county's status in regard to beer remains unchanged.

A search of the records of Brown county commissioners' court in the county clerk's office reveals that some hot times were had for many years here over the local option question. A group of dries or wets petitioned the court at almost every session for a number of years. Many elections on the prohibition question were held—in one election Brownwood would go dry and in the next would go wet, the sentiment swinging back and forth for a time. Finally in all the last elections the dries won every time.

Election in 1885
Away back in 1885, on September 8, to be exact, a prohibition election was held in Brown county "to determine whether or not the sale of intoxicating liquors and medicated bitters producing intoxication shall be prohibited." The vote resulted 472 for prohibition and 687 against prohibition and the county remained wet.

Brownwood and surrounding territory in the precinct went dry in an election held October 24, 1893, with a vote of 28 for prohibition and 236 against. The court passed an order that intoxicating liquors "shall hereafter be prohibited." The next meeting a group of wets appeared before the court protesting some of the returns of the election, but the court overruled the motion to exclude the returns.

January 31, 1894, the Bangs precinct went dry by a vote of 63 for prohibition and 22 against. Justice precinct No. 3, Blanket and Clio, went dry, 109 to 56, on March 27, 1894. Chapel Hill, Cannon, Mt. View, Ricker and Jones Chapel went dry by a vote of 126 to 108 on June 9, 1894.

Brownwood went wet again on November 30, 1895 when this precinct voted 327 for prohibition to 356 against. Shattuck school district voted 61 for prohibition and 50 against, December 9, 1899. On March 10, 1900, Justice Precinct No. 3 voted dry, 161 to 6 wet. Precinct No. 4, including Zephyr, remained wet by a vote of 50 for and 76 against prohibition in an election held June 15, 1901.

County Dry Since 1905
Brown county as a whole went dry on September 5, 1903, by a vote of 1,241 for prohibition and 1,106 against, and has remained that way since. Another election, however, was held September 16, 1906, but the dries won again, 1,826 to 1,099. As far as the records show this was the last vote in this county on the prohibition question.

There will be no saloons in which beer can be sold if the state does vote for beer, because the regulatory bill prohibits the use of the word "saloon" over a place of business. Persons under 18 years of age will not be allowed to purchase beer and persons under 21 years of age will not be issued a license to manufacture, distribute or retail the brew. Beer cannot be sold on general or primary election days between 7 a. m. and 8 p. m. Sale also is prohibited on Sundays and between midnight and 7 a. m.

Fewer votes will be cast in Brown county in any election held this year unless the time for paying poll taxes is extended by the Legislature. Only 2,336 persons in this county paid 1933 poll taxes as compared to 4,464 paid in 1932, a decrease of 47.7 per cent. Other counties of the state have about the same percentage of decrease, state reports show.

WOOL STORAGE IN BROWNWOOD IS UNDER WAY

The first steps toward establishing Brownwood as a wool marketing center is being taken now with the concentration of several thousand pounds of wool and mohair at the warehouse of the Johnson Storage Company here. Raisers in this territory are being urged by prominent growers to concentrate their wool and mohair here and then sell it to buyers or send it to San Angelo to the wool co-operative marketing organization. Later a wool warehouse association to market the wool of Brownwood territory is to be organized.

The Chamber of Commerce has made arrangements with the storage company to handle the wool at cost. A flat charge is being made of 25 cents on bags weighing 50 pounds or more and 10 cents on bags weighing less than 100 pounds. This includes weighing the wool, marketing it, issuing bonded warehouse receipt and loading it out when sold. Officials of the company also will sell the wool for the growers if owners desire and will leave the amount they want for it with them.

Price Going Up
The price of wool is going up and the increase in price already has meant many thousands of dollars to sheep and goat raisers in the Brownwood section. H. G. Lucas, prominent farm leader who recently returned from a trip to Washington, says the price is going still higher and advises the wool and mohair growers not to sell at the first opportunity or at low prices.

"If the farm bill and inflation measure has the effect of raising prices of farm products, farm organizations feel it will mean the reopening of factories and revival of trade generally," Mr. Lucas declares. "Some signs of this are noted already. Wool has advanced in price steadily the past few weeks. The supply of wool in the country is low and the stock of local merchandise in the stores are at a low level. When buying starts there will be a tremendous demand for wool and the prices will advance."

"The best course for wool growers in this section is to concentrate the wool here at a good warehouse and sell to buyers in large quantities or deliver to the co-operative marketing association. In either case the wool will be sold at the market advance. The tariff on imported wool is 45 cents a pound. When local wool is sold for less than the tariff it is being sold too cheap," said Mr. Lucas.

Wool in this section already has sold for more than twenty cents this season. Growers are confident it will go higher.

Logical Concentration Point
Brownwood is pointed out as the logical concentrating point for a big territory in Central West Texas by Chamber of Commerce officials. They say other towns and communities are looking to Brownwood to take the lead in making this the wool and mohair center of the section.

The demand for a better market has grown steadily here for the past two or three years. More sheep and goats are being raised in Brown county and several surrounding counties than ever before. Almost every farmer has a flock of sheep or goats. The sale of wool and mohair gives him an additional income at the time of the year when none of his crops gives him ready money.

Business leaders believe that if Brownwood were established as a market center with a wool warehouse association for selling the wool and mohair, many more people would raise sheep and goats and the production would grow by leaps and bounds.

INQUIRY HELD IN THE DEATH OF COKE FISHER

A secret court of inquiry conducted here yesterday by County Attorney A. E. Nabors in connection with the death of Coke Fisher, farmer of the May community, about ten or twelve days ago, failed to disclose sufficient evidence of foul play to warrant the filing of charges against any of the four men said to have been with Fisher at the time of his death. Fifteen or more witnesses were examined yesterday by Mr. Nabors, these including the four men who last saw Fisher alive. Some of the testimony taken at the court of inquiry gave some indication of foul play, or at least indicated the possibility of such, Mr. Nabors stated today.

According to information obtained by Mr. Nabors, four men came to the home of a Mr. Mitchell in the May community on the night of May 21. Fisher was spending the night at the Mitchell home after having attended a dance there during the fore part of the night. The testimony indicated that the four men were after some whiskey and asked Fisher to accompany them to his (Fisher's) house. He went with the four men and the testimony revealed that they and Fisher stayed at Fisher's house for an hour or two, during which time they took a number of drinks of liquor.

At some hour between midnight and dawn, the four returned Fisher to the Mitchell home, the testimony revealed, in a drunken condition. Fisher was placed on the front porch of the Mitchell home and the other four men drove off. Shortly afterwards, some one at the Mitchell home discovered that Fisher was dead, apparently having died of a heart attack while drunk. The men who brought Fisher to the Mitchell place stated at yesterday's hearing that he was not dead when they left him on the porch.

Two Doctors Called
Two doctors were called and after examinations both attributed Fisher's death to heart failure. The dead man had been bothered with a bad heart for several months and physicians who had attended him were said to have expected his death at most any time.

Fisher was buried without the services of an undertaker by neighbors. He was a widower but had one or more grown children. Two brothers also believe and are working an inquiry was held at their request.

Mrs. McMillan, 77, Lost From Home Near Blanket, Spends Night Under Bush as 200 Search for Her

While about two hundred people searched the countryside for her throughout Wednesday night, Mrs. James B. McMillan, 77, waited for daylight huddled under the protection of a small tree or bush, about two miles from her home near Blanket as a driving rain beat down through the branches and the cold morning wind chilled her. She was afraid to move around in the darkness and could do nothing but wait for morning. Word that she had been found was received by the searchers at 8 o'clock this morning. Her eyesight is bad and she became lost. As night came on it began to rain and cold and wet. She walked until she found a scanty shelter under the tree.

As soon as morning came she went to a neighbor's home, which was not far from the tree where she had stayed all night. The neighbors gave her dry clothing and breakfast and then as quickly as possible got word to the home where the searching parties were just starting out again after eating breakfast. Mrs. McMillan was reported to be little the worse for the harrowing experience of the night, but was tired and sleepy.

Small Hope Was Held
Members of the family had almost lost hope of finding her alive after men and boys from Brownwood, Blanket and Zephyr had searched throughout the night without finding any trace of her. The family first notified Blanket people that Mrs. McMillan was lost. After a search was made and she was not located, Sheriff Jack Hallmark was notified and went to the scene with members of his force about 11 o'clock. Near 1 o'clock Mr. Hallmark returned to Blanket and by telephone notified people at Brownwood and Zephyr.

Fire Siren Sounded Call
The fire whistle was blown in Brownwood and members of Brownwood Volunteer Fire Department responded to the call. Twenty-five or thirty volunteer firemen went immediately to the scene along with other Brownwood searchers. In all about fifty or sixty Brownwood people aided in the search. A large number from Zephyr also responded as well as the crowds at Blanket already on the grounds. An ambulance from Mitcham Funeral Home also went. Nearly all members of Brownwood police force and the sheriff's department took part in the search.

The searchers scoured fields and pastures walking in the water and mud caused by the rain which fell during the fore part of the night. Mrs. McMillan in telling of her experience said she was afraid to go to sleep as she might have frozen to death. She moved about a little at short intervals to keep as warm as possible.

Dallas Man Slain Wednesday Brother Of Brownwood Man

Nick Hodges Raspaskey, 57, former Dallas cafe operator who was kidnaped and murdered Tuesday night in Dallas, was a brother of Adam Thomas Raspaskey, who owns and operates a cafe on Center Avenue Store.

Raspaskey was kidnaped Tuesday night from his hotel by a swarthy man wearing a mustache and who posed as a police officer. His body was found at 5 a. m. Wednesday in a suburban district of the city of Dallas, according to information in today's Dallas News.

Adam Thomas Raspaskey, who has been in the cafe business here for a number of years, has not used the family name, Raspaskey, since coming to the United States, he stated today but had gone by the name, Adam Thomas.

Adam Thomas has been ill the past few weeks and does not plan to attend his brother's funeral. Thomas has been bothered with a weak heart and the unexpected death of his brother, the only blood relative he has in this country, has apparently aggravated his heart ailment.

'CHUTE SPREADS SELF
VIENNA—An Austrian inventor, Joseph Eschner, has invented a parachute that has a spreading device incorporated in it. Four light steel blades revolve on top of the parachute and tend to open it as the jumper leaves the plane.
