Diocese to have Respect for Life Mass

Sunday, Jan. 22, is the 16th an-niversary of the Supreme Court decision that legalized abortion. Bishop Joseph P. Delaney will eelebrate Mass at 7 p.m. Wednes-day, Jan. 25, at St. Patrick Cathedral and bring together in worship and prayer those who support the right of unborn in-fants to protection from the early violent death of abortion. Everyone is welcome and urged to attend. Your presence and prayers will make a difference.

Letters to the Editor

I would like to express a profound appreciation to the citizens of this community for the true Christmas spirit they shared in our UNIMAX^{LM} Annual Christmas Project this year. It was a great success because of the big-hearted people that participated in our drive to help needy families in the area.

During our two-night "Santa Nights" over 600 people stopped by and brought donations, canned foods, gifts, and clothing. From all of this twelve area families were helped anonymously with generous and thoughtful gifts and food!

But more importantly were the opportunities to serve for those involved. I would especially like to thank the following individuals for their hard work and efforts: Kathy Shaw (Gift Preparation), Toni Parker (Project Coordinator), Thereas Parker (Santa's helper), Joyce Parson's (Santa's Helper), Tracie Chartrand (Publicity), Joel Parham (Santa himself), David Chartrand (Project Electrician), Barbara Underhill (Santa's Helper), Gary McClung (Distribution), and Sharon Dunn (Gift Preparation). Preparation).

Special others also helped in this effort in many ways and we thank them. Already, excitement is building for next year's FOURTH ANNUAL CHRISTMAS PROJECT. We're proud to be in a community that gives of themselves with such a Christlike spirit. May they be blessed for blessing others so!

The high speed railroad ... Is Texas ready?

by Ric Williamson, State Representative, District 63

In mid-November, I was selected by the Speaker of the House, Gib Lewis, to be one of a delegation of 10 Texas legislative leadres to travel to Germany to learn about the German high speed rail system. This is the first of three articles that will discuss why Texas needs to look at this technology, the cost of building a Texas high speed rail system and my impression of the German high speed railsystem. mid-November my impression of the German high speed rail system. There are two reasons why Tex-ans need to look at this technology – a growing concern about air transportation system. Texas now has three distinct and growing urban centers: Dallas/Fort Worth, Houston/Beaumont and Austin/San Antonio. There urban Houston/Beaumont and Austin/San Antonio. There urban centers are about the same distance from each other. In the past four years, the Environmen-tal Protection Agency has warned leaders of the counties in and around each of these centers that air pollution is out of control and must be reduced. If we refuse to comply with EPA warnings we can expect higher rates of cancer and lung disorders, a prohibition against new commercial construc-tion and reduced federal re-imbursement of highway trust funds.

imbursement of highway trust funds. Clearly we have several good reasons to reduce the amount of hydrocarbon emissions in the Dallas/Fort Worth area. If high speed electric powered rail systems can reduce the number of cars on our highways then we are reducing hydrocarbon emissions. If a high speed electric powered rail system can reduce the number of com-mercial airplane flights between our three urban centers, we can mercial airplane flights between our three urban centers, we can make significant progress on reducing hydrocarbon emissions. If the air pollution problem is not enough reason to consider high speed rail, perhaps the ominous prospect of overcrowded airlanes presents a more immediate and significant problem.

In the past 10 years a booming business has developed shuttling people by commercial airline betpeople by commercial airline bet-ween our three urban centers. During this time of rapid growth, no one worried much about the day when the airlanes filled to capacity. That day is now close at hand, perhaps as close as 1992. When our existing major commer-cial airports reach capacity, one of two things must happen: either we reduce the number of flights in bound from outside the state, or we reduce the number of flights between our three urban centers. Both of these alternatives suggest Both of these alternatives suggest limited economic development in the future.

Hornets take championship...

Holiday Classic a success

Gainesville varsity girls took the girls' championship by defeating Lin-dsay 51-24 in the championship round of the KGAF-Cooke County College Holiday Classic Basketball Tournament last Friday night. The Knightettes settled for second place. The Tigerettes of Sacred Heart finished third with a 74-39 victory over the Lady Hornets of Era with Collinsville taking home the consolation trophy with a 36-30 win over Valley View. In the boys' division, the Muenster Hornets brought home the cham-pionship trophy after defeating the Lindsay Knights 64-59, who took home second place honors. The Hornets of Era placed third after a 84-65 win over Sacred Heart. The Collinsville boys canned the consolation prize after a big 75-58 beating given to the Valley View Eagles. Making the all-tournament team were girls, Tracey Wallace (MVP), Gainesville; Tammye Hammac, Gainesville; Lisa Hamric, Sacred Heart; LaBecah Hess, Sacred Heart; Noelle Hesse, Sacred Heart; Kristy Krebs, Lindsay, Boys, Robert Duncan (MVP), Lindsay; John Green, Collinsville; Mark Hoenig, Lindsay; Mike Pagel, Muenster; Bob Smiley, Era; J. Shane Wimmer, Muenster.

Down 59-49 to archrival Lindsay with 4:20 left in the game, the Muenster Hornets rose up and ran off 16 unanswered points to win the KGAF Cooke County Tournament championship last Friday night 65-59. The three-day tournament was held at the Cooke County College Gymnasium and Friday's capacity crowd was treated to an exciting climax.

Enroute to the title, the Hornets downed Chico 78-36 on Wed-nesday and Sacred Heart Thursday 82-44. It was the Hornets' second win over the Tigers in less than a week as they downed them 99-52 earlier.

Against the Dragons, Muenster was led by Pagel with 22 points, Keith Klement 16, Wimmer 14, Hennigan 9, Chris Klement 8, Troy Pagel 5, Weldon Hermes 4, The

The lead seesawed for most of three quarters in the finale, in-cluding 30-30 halftime tie, but the Knights went on a 10-4 run to start the fourth quarter and take a 10-point advantage. Junior James Hennigan then took over. He drew a charging foul that Mike Pagel converted into 2 of his 21 points, and then James came up with 3 steals and 9 fourth quarter points, including 7 free throws. "It was a great game," said Coach Ted Heers. "We had a lot of fun. Tom Carson and Dee Blanton, along with the college personnel, put on a tremendous tournament. Our guys showed tremendous poise."

The Muenster Hornets and Lin-disay Knights kept the packed house for the 3rd Annual "Jam the Gym" Night on the edge of their seats Tuesday until the final minutes, as the Big Red pulled away for a 60-51 win. Senior Mike Pagel scored 28 points, including 11 in the decisive third quarter as Muenster opened their district title defense with a victory. In girls' action, the Lady Knights beat Muenster 38-27 behind a strong rebounding effort, limiting Muenster to a record low of 17 boards. Jennifer Carroll, with two sprained ankles, still managed to lead the Hornettes with 14 points and 7 rebounds. The Hornets are 12-2 while the Hornettes are now 6 8. Muenster and Lindsay played to 12-2 while the Hornettes are now 6-8. Muenster and Lindsay played to an 18-18 tie in the first quarter of the boys' game as Knight senior Mark Hoenig hit 12 points. By halftime, Muenster held a 34-33 lead behind 10 of 14 free throws in the quarter. Hoenig had scored 14 board Robert Duncan 11 at the half. In the third quarter, Muen-ster's surge was sparked by a scoring cffort. "We won the third quarter 15-6, "said Hornet Coach Ted Heers, "which proved to be the differen-ee. Shane Winmer and Pagel drew the defensive assign-means but Heers had praise for the team effort. "We play a team man-to-man concept and our guys did great job of doubling and tripling. The defense made them make the extra pass." Heers credited Wimmer with 9 points and 9 assists for getting the ball to Pagel inside, and senior guard Chris Klement on a 6-of-9 shoting performance for 15 poin-to, Junior James Hennigan added 6 points and Keith Klement 2. Pagel pulled in 8 rebounds, Wimmer 6 and Christ. The ladies' game saw Muenster play catch-up the entire game. They were behind 14-8 after one quarter and could manage only 11 second-half points. news for cow/calf producers for 1989. Feeder cattle prices should reach new levels in 1989 consider-ing that both cattle feeding and total beef supplies will be down. It is logical to expect stronger feeder cattle prices this spring, considering that a seven-year herd liquidation has just been com-pleted and that feeder cattle sup-ples will be more scarce than they have been in 30 years. The scarcity of feeder cattle supplies is based on an expected smaller calf crop in 1989 because of conception problems resulting from this year's drought. Another reason for scarcity is that fewer heifers will be included in feeder cattle supplies since more heifers will be retained to rebuild beef cow herds. Feeder cattle numbers peaked at 4.3 million head in 1981. For <text><text><text><text><text><text><text>
