Festival workshop in Sherman

A day-long session in Sherman on Friday, March 17, on "Festival and Events Management Workshop" was attended by Joe Fenton, Muenster City Manager, and Daryl Ferber, representing the Muenster Chamber of Commerce. Maudine Griffin, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was unable to attend due to the critical illness of her husband, Eddie Griffin, admitted to Arlington Memorial Hospital.

The workshop was sponsored by the Tourism Division, Texas Department of Commerce, and Texoma Regional Planning Commission.

Speakers on themes, promotions, marketing, budgets, finances, operations, and evaluations were Duane Smith, Linda Garrett and Charlene Burke of state departments; Frances Jo Pelley of Texoma Regional Planning Commission; and Joe Reynolds, a marketing distributor.

A panel of general information included Daryl Ferber who showed slides of Germanfest.

The State Liquor and Sanitation Boards were also represented by their members, who discussed new laws and regulations.

This very informative meeting presented many new ideas with discussions that included many other participants.

Sales tax election on May 6

by Elaine Schad

Along with city, college and school elections, Cooke County voters will cast ballots in a special election on May 6 to consider the adoption of a half-cent local option sales tax.

If approved, the county could realize about $500,000 in revenue from the tax, based on 1987 sales tax figures, officials said. The local ad valorem tax would be lowered in a like amount as is state-mandated, officials said. The sales tax would take effect Jan. 1, 1990 if approved and would apply to all items that falls under current sales tax regulations.

Commissioners are placing the item before voters in an attempt to alleviate slightly the tax burden on local property owners, said County Commissioner Kenneth Alexander. Commissioners called the election after conducting a public hearing on the issue, receiving mostly favorable response.

Praise Him!

After the sabbath, as the first day of the week was dawning, Mary Magdalene came with the other Mary to inspect the tomb. Suddenly, there was a mighty earthquake, as the angel of the Lord descended from heaven. He came to the stone, rolled it back, and sat on it. In appearance he resembled a flash of lightning while his garments were as dazzling as snow. The guards grew paralyzed with fear of him and fell down like dead men. Then the angel spoke, addressing the women: "Do not be frightened. I know you are looking for Jesus the crucified, but he is not here. He has been raised, exactly as he promised. Come and see the place where he was laid. Then go quickly and tell his disciples: 'He has been raised from the dead and now goes ahead of you to Galilee, where you will see him.' That is the message I have for you."

MATTHEW 28: 1-7

Following a longstanding custom of the community, businesses here will be suspended for one hour on Good Friday to commemorate the suffering and crucifixion of the Savior, Jesus Christ. Mayor Ted Henscheid asks local business firms to close their doors from 2:30 until 3:30 p.m. The hour also corresponds to the approximate end of Good Friday services in Sacred Heart Church, which begins at 3 o'clock.

The Muenster Enterprise wishes everyone a blessed, happy and safe Easter, and urges all our readers to look closely at a special Holy Week feature, the letter from Pontius Pilate to Tiberius Caesar. The authentic manuscript is housed in the Library at Rome and the verified copy of the original is lodged in the British Museum.

This account was also printed as a Holy Week feature in The Muenster Enterprise on April 17, 1981.

Utility to offer refund

TU Electric has filed in application with the Public Utility Commission asking authorization to refund about $46.6 million, including interest, to its customers.

The amount the company is asking to refund was overcollected through January this year, primarily because the unseasonably warm weather experienced in the company's service area resulted in lower fuel costs for electricity to be generated.

When weather is milder than normal, customers use less electricity. Therefore, the company uses less of its higher-priced fuel supplies to meet demand.

The refund would be made through a credit to bills. Under TU Electric's proposal, the refund would be made in May, and residential customers who use 1,000 kilowatt-hours will receive refunds averaging about $10. The exact refund month will depend on when PUC approval is received.

TU Electric's rates have been lowered by more than 10 percent since 1986, primarily because of the

by Elaine Schad

County ambulance rates increased by more than 50 percent on Wednesday, following action last week by Cooke County Commissioners.

The charge for non-emergency transport using a basic life support vehicle will be $135. Emergency transport using advanced life support will be $175 and out-of-county transport will be $250. The Cooke County Emergency Medical Service had charged $85 per transport, regardless of whether it concerned a routine transfer or emergency.

The increased rates are part of a restructuring of the ambulance service by the county in an attempt to lower an annual $350,000 loss on its operation. Commissioners are continuing discussions with the Gainesville City Council concerning a possible takeover of the service by the city, receiving a subsidy from the county.

Commissioners this week also decided to go out for bids for possible contract with a private service.

Congressman speaks on wage debate

by Elaine Schad

The soon-to-be debated proposal to increase the minimum wage will constitute a faceoff between President Bush and the House of Representatives Rep. Dick Armey, R-Cooper Canyon, told a group of about 120 people who attended this week's "super" town hall, attended by residents of Arney's 26th Congressional District which includes southern Cooke County.

Arney fielded a diverse group of question from his constituents, ranging from inflation and education to childcare. Pointing to the recent Congressional pay raise issue killed through public outcry, he encouraged everyone to stay in close touch with their Congressman if they seek change.

Despite popular belief, only about 15 percent of the people in America who earn the minimum wage have dependents, said Arney. Most are young people learning new skills on their first job, he said.

When the minimum wage was increased to $3.35 in 1977, many people lost their jobs, including two friends of his, because businesses only had a fixed amount of money to spend, said Arney. President Bush has said he would accept a moderate increase in the minimum wage only if the bill included a youth opportunity training act.

On the education front, Arney would like to see a merit system for rewarding good teachers. He'd also like to see the curriculum streamlined to eliminate non-essential courses that sidetrack students from gaining a basic and literate education. "And I will also tell them that these are my children, and I will take care of their morals," said Arney.

The Head Start program has been expensive, but relatively successful, Arney said. "But it's a problem to invest so much money, giving them a head start and then put them in a school where they'd lose those skills," he said.

Deadline for tax rendition form Mar. 31

by Elaine Schad

Local property owners are reminded that the deadline to submit rendition forms to the Cooke County Appraisal District Office is March 31.

A rendition is a report to the appraisal district that lists taxable property. The owner can also estimate the property's value on the form. Property owners who own or manage income-producing tangible personal property must file renditions. Examples of such property are business inventory, office furniture and fixtures, and business vehicles.

Filing a rendition is optional for other property owners unless the chief appraiser requires them to render their property.

Rending is a means for a property owner to record an opinion of the property's value. Then, if the chief appraiser proposes a higher value for the property, state law requires the chief appraiser to notify the owner. With this information, the property owner can decide whether to protest the value with the Appraisal Review Board.

Property owners may also file a report of decreased value by the March 31 deadline if they believe their property's value has declined during the previous tax year.

For more information, or to receive the proper forms, contact the CCAD at 665-7651.

Letters to the Editor

My very dear friends,
The other day I found in my mailbox forty beautiful "Holy Childhood" Christmas seals. My amazement was great. Yet, after all, only last month I finally completed responding to Christmas mail and the poinsettia, which I received as a Christmas gift, is in such a fine condition that it will stay alive indefinitely.

And now I am about to send my Easter Message to you. Whoever you are and wherever you are, my dear friends, I wish each and everyone of you a very Happy Easter, followed by a lovely spring, which opens its season on the day after Easter. To think how difficult that opening day will be in the various places to which The Muenster Enterprise travels!

I thought I would give a brief account of my outdoors friends. We have three cats, wearing enviable, gray fur coats. Only one is affectionate, and that it is superbly, but will not permit being held in one's arms more than a moment.

The birds at this time are mainly black birds. They come in flocks and are not welcome, because they eat the food destined (by) for small birds. I really don't know all the small feathered guests, but it really doesn't matter that much. I am more familiar with the birds of the other seasons. I can watch them from my room and I enjoy their singing.

I have two dog friends - Scotty and Sheppy. Prince, my third canine friend, had to be delivered from his suffering which he endured bravely for several months. Sister Helen was very kind to him to the end. Scotty is by now no longer a young dog. He still enjoys very much retrieving a rock or a ball.

Sheppy is a precious puppy, the gift of a friend of the Community. It is an Australian shepherd dog. Its colors are black, white and a little brown. Scotty's reaction to it is as cold as that of a block of marble. How I hate to stop telling you more about Sheppy!

Another brief item! Most of you know that I was born in Switzerland and that our Community is a Swiss foundation. At this date, March 3, 1989, I am one of the last two Swiss Sisters at Holy Angels.

The other Swiss is Sister Veronica Studer, O.S.B. Both of us were born in the northeastern part of Switzerland in the Canton (State) of St. Gallen. Both of us are in the 85th year of life, exactly two months apart.

In conclusion, I want to remind you again that I share with you absolutely everything. Every sentiment of my heart unites with your hearts. I could not possibly express myself clearer.

Have a very Happy Easter, a successful, jubilant Centennial Year and God's superabundance of love and blessings.

Remain forever your friend,
Sister M. Theresina Grob, O.S.B.

CEEMS Administrator David Cleveland said he plans to submit a bid to operate the service. There will be five positions on the CEEMS open as of April 1, three of which he attributed to personnel accepting positions elsewhere since the county began considering options for running the service. City Council sets priorities for police

The Lindsay City Council approved a work description and set defined office hours for the city's police chief at its regular March meeting.

Officer Joe Reynolds will keep regular office hours on Wednesday through Friday from 4 to 5:30 p.m. and on Saturdays from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. "We set the hours so that he would be available to answer the phone and deal with the people who may have questions," said Mayor Don Metzler.

The Council also set a list of priorities for the office, which included being present for patrol at athletic events, at the beginning and end of school when traffic times are at their peak, and to be observant for incidences of illegal dumping. "Basically, we told him to enforce the law effectively and efficiently," Metzler said.

In another matter, the Council passed on second readings two ordinances. One deals with providing a no parking area along a section of the east side of Maple Street, between Fourth and Second Streets. The other deals with prohibiting the blocking of city streets with vehicles. Both must go through a final reading in April before taking effect.

The school district has requested that the city approve a one-way designation for Sixth Street during school hours, but no action was taken. The Council is also looking to hire an engineer to draw up plans for paving three of the city's streets, two of which are Pecan and Bezner. Those two items are expected to be on April's agenda.

Pioneer Portraits

J. M. (Joe) Weinzapfel wasn't born in Muenster, but he has had a profound impact on the community in the 66 years he has resided here. He was born in Windthorst, the son of one of the five founders of that community. In 1916, he married Julia Christina Meurer, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Meurer, who came to Muenster shortly after it was established, around 1890. Julia Christina was born north of Muenster and was named for Mrs. Christina Felderhoff, a midwife. Joe and Julia moved to Muenster in 1923, when Joe came to help organize the Muenster State Bank, the first of his many accomplishments and involvements in the community.

If a project needed to be done, Joe assisted with the efforts, which included the incorporation of the City of Muenster, Muenster's water system, street improvements, and sewer development. He served as City Secretary and later as Mayor. Joe encouraged the formation of a Farmer's Marketing Association, which, after merging with the North Texas Producers Association, resulted in the NTPA milk processing plant, a major Muenster industry.

He was one of the pioneers of rural electrification in Muenster, which developed into the Cooke County Rural Electric Cooperative Association, with headquarters for the three-county rural electric system now located in Muenster. Another of his great interests is soil conservation, and he helped organize the Upper Elm-Red District's annual awards banquet, which recognizes outstanding conservation methods.

Mr. Weinzapfel extended his involvement to all areas, and he noted the need for a community hospital. He organized the fund drive, arranged for a bond issue for additional money, donated the site for the facility, and worked long hours in organizing a hospital district. The building and its services have been a source of pride for the community ever since.

He also was instrumental in starting the Boy Scout organization in the community, and he continues to be a sponsor.

Mr. Weinzapfel has always been active in his church, supporting its leaders and programs. He was particularly honored when he and Julia were named to the Equestrian Order of the Knights and Ladies of the Holy Sepulcher of Jerusalem, an honor given only by order of the Pope.

He also is very proud of his children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. He and Julia had eight children. They are Juanita Bright, Agnes Hellman, Dora Jackson, Mary Elizabeth Birden, Henry Weinzapfel, Monsignor Tom and Father Joseph. Another son, Robert, was killed in World War II.

Perhaps not as well known as his other accomplishments is his love of music, instilled in him by his mother at a young age, and a trait he passed on to his children. At age 96, he continues to play the piano occasionally.

Joe Weinzapfel not only is one of the oldest of Muenster's pioneer stock, but one of its most ardent supporters and a primary driving force in its ongoing progress.

(This is another in a series spotlighting Muenster's pioneers during this Centennial year. If you have a family member you would like to feature, please contact Alvin Fuhrman.)

Day Care Center will stress bike, tricycle safety

As part of their celebration for "The Week of the Young Child," the children at Tender Loving Care Day Care Center in Muenster will be participating in a "Bring-A-Bike Day" Trike-A-Thon for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital on Friday, April 7, 1989.

This unique event raises funds for research and patient care at the hospital while exposing children to proper safety habits for bicycles, tricycles and riding toys.

"Bicycle accidents are a problem among children, but many parents are unaware of its extent," said Wanda Flusche, coordinator of the event. "With safety stories and special coloring sheets, we are exposing our youngsters to good habits. By asking them to show the safety message to their parents, we hope to stress these habits any time they allow their children to ride."

The storytelling and coloring periods will be followed by a "Bring-A-Bike Day" when children will put into practice the lessons learned. "It's like a final exam, with the children practicing on a supervised course we have laid out."

"Bring-A-Bike Day" is a program to help St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital fight childhood cancer, the leading disease killer of American children. Parents of the children are asking sponsors to back their children with a tax-deductible pledge to St. Jude's for the ride.

Lindsay Homemakers hear Pass Time program

A program by Peggy Salas and Lynn Monden of Pass Time was the highlight of the March 14 meeting of Lindsay Young Homemakers, who gathered in Gainesville at 7 p.m. Their informative talk was on spring basket making. Tips were given on how to arrange baskets, and decorate with different styles. All attending enjoyed making their own flower arrangements.

Hostesses were Jenny Bezner, Connie Garner, Peggy Kasparak and Gay Sandmann.

Pam Hoberer presided over the business meeting that followed. A report was given on the funds collected for the American Heart Association, and the club added a donation. Ads will be sold for the community calendar.

Plans were made to meet on March 25 at 9 a.m. for members to assemble Easter baskets and deliver them to some Lindsay residents.

Ten members were present and Gay Sandmann won the door prize.

The next meeting will be held on April 18 at 7 p.m. in the home of Marilyn Sandmann. Connie Garner will give a program on Cake Decorating. Michelle Neu is club reporter.

Senior swim time possible

An item of interest to area senior citizens is a possible senior citizens' swim time at the Muenster municipal pool. The program was discussed during the week's park board meeting with pool manager, Valerie Vogel. Plans are not final nor is the senior swim time for sure. Vogel encourages comments from senior citizens to herself or City Hall to help decide.

Encore performances set for "Death of the Dinosaurs" at CCC

GAINESVILLE - A special encore showing of "Death of the Dinosaurs" will open for a limited run at the Cooke County College Planetarium beginning Tuesday, March 28 and continuing through April.

The showings will be on Tuesday evenings beginning at 7 p.m. There is no admission charge, but there is limited seating available, and persons planning to attend should call ahead for reservations.

Planetarium Director Ron Bost says this is one of the most popular multi-media shows done in recent years and that a large number of persons had expressed disappointment over missing it. The decision was made to bring it back for a limited run before opening up a new show in late spring. Of the show, Bost reports that:

There were millions of them, many spectacularly huge and powerful, and they were the unchallenged masters of the earth for 140 million years. Then, creating what has become one of science's most baffling mysteries, they suddenly vanished. Exploring that mystery is what "Death of Dinosaurs" is all about.

What does the extinction of dinosaurs have to do with astronomy? Possibly everything, according to the CCC Planetarium director and chemistry professor.

The presentation also will teach viewers much about a number of different astronomical phenomena such as supernovas, asteroids, comets, how stars are born, how the heavenly bodies affect weather and much more.

"It's a terrific show for people of all ages," Bost says, "and school-age youngsters, particularly, should get a lot of educational as well as entertainment value out of it. After all, dinosaurs are really 'hot' this year, much like Halley's Comet was a couple of years back."

In addition to the regularly scheduled showings on Tuesday evenings, Bost says that special showings at other times for groups and school classes can be arranged if requests are received well in advance.

To make reservations or to inquire about special showings of "Death of the Dinosaurs" at the CCC Planetarium, call the CCC Division of Continuing Education at 817/668-7731, Ext. 272.

Grandparents attend First Communion

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Reiter and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Felderhoff Sr. were in College Station, Texas for two days recently to attend their granddaughter, Lydia Felderhoff's First Holy Communion on Saturday, March 11, at 3 p.m.

Lydia, seven-year-old daughter of Chris and Sandy Felderhoff, was a member of the class of 37 second grade CCD students of St. Anthony's Parish of Bryan.

Msgr. John Malinowski officiated for the Eucharistic celebration.

Lydia's white First Communion dress was designed and made by her grandmother/grandmother, Barbara Felderhoff. Her veil was designed by an aunt, Susie Bezner. A gold cross and chain were gifts from the paternal grandparents.

Kelly Felderhoff, Lydia's sister, sang with the children's choir during the Mass.

Attending this special occasion and a supper following in their home were her parents and sisters, Kelly and Rachel, and brother, Terry; grandparents, Wilfred and Polly Reiter and Thomas and Barbara Felderhoff, all of Muenster; LuAnn and Paul Kubis, Susan Reiter and sons, Daniel and Brent, all of Houston; Peggy and Charlie DiStefano and children, Julie and Michael, of Missouri City.

Special table centerpiece was a First Communion cake baked by the grandmother, Polly Reiter. Lydia opened and displayed her gifts after supper. A surprise early birthday cake and gifts were presented to Grandmother Reiter. Both sets of grandparents were overnight guests.

They also took time for a brief visit with next-door neighbors, Dan and Claudette Fette, and children.

Baptism

Koesler

Evan Joseph Koesler, son of Fred and Elaine Koesler, was baptized on Saturday, March 4, 1989, at the 5 p.m. Mass in Sacred Heart Church.

Serving as godparents were the infant's aunt and uncle, Jim and Diane Grewing.

Connie Grewing, an aunt, gave the liturgical readings. Presenting Offertory gifts were cousins Andrea Klement and Michael Grewing. Serving as altar boys were cousins Darell and Cory Russell.

Evan's baptismal gown was a gift from maternal grandparents, Steve and Julia Grewing. He was bundled in a white lace-trimmed receiving blanket, a gift from his cousin, Andrea Klement, and a white crocheted shawl, which was a gift from his paternal grandparents, Norbert and Liz Koesler. The white garment he received during the Sacrament was especially made for him by his godmother.

Father Sebastian Beshoner presided for the Baptism and presented an ivy to the parents at the conclusion of Mass.

Following the church service, the parents hosted a dinner for the godparents and grandparents at The Center Restaurant, then afterwards, they enjoyed a special cake which was baked and decorated by "The Farmer's Kitchen." It featured a cross, an angel and pastel flowers.

More Essay Contest Winners...

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following essays were written by students of Sacred Heart Parish and were winners in the Catholic Youth Essay Contest. The topic was "The Evils of the Occult, Drugs & Certain Kinds of Rock Music & Why I'm Not Involved."

by Cheryl Hacker

The problems of devil worship, drugs, and the music that teenagers listen to, are causing great difficulties in the world today. Everywhere you look, no matter where you live, there are problems like these. Recently, in one of my CCD classes, the subject of devil worshipping occults was brought up, because of a program shown on television. After I heard what all there was being said about devil worshipping, it really gave me the spooks. People getting high on drugs, just to ruin their lives, and the lives of many innocent children, by being brainwashed into sacrificing their own children for the devil.

Drugs today are causing the deaths of many teenagers. Alcohol is the number one cause of death among teenagers. Teens do not realize that by drinking alcohol, you are in the danger of being killed in an automobile accident, and may also destroy other people's lives as well, because of one's stupid mistakes.

The music that teenagers listen to, can really have an effect on your life. If you turn the tapes over on many hard rock songs, it will play Satanic messages that may or may not be easily understood. If you have listened to the tapes backwards, do not pay any attention to what is being said. I am not involved in these things because I strongly believe that if God created you and all the others on the Earth, why should you in return destroy your life and possibly the life of someone else, just because someone makes you believe in what they say and do.

by Werner Becker III

Before I can write about the occult, I think we should know more about it. The occult is the belief of supernatural happenings and things such as astrology, magic, superstition and necromancy.

The evils of the occult are believing that you can interfere with the life of another human being. Another thing is that you wish to harm a person because he has in some way hurt you. They also torture people and animals.

I am not involved because the Church is against it. It also doesn't appeal to me, and I know it is very wrong.

The evils of drugs are that they harm your body internally and externally. They tear up your life and put a bad influence on your life. Drugs hurt your family and those who care for you. They can also make you do things that you normally wouldn't do.

I am not involved in drugs because of the evils of drugs. I have been educated about drugs. I know what they can do to me and that is not where I want to be.

The evils of Hard Rock Music are that not only is it loud, but the lyrics, if you can understand them, talk of everything from sexual self-gratification, incest, rape, murder, lawlessness, drugs, violence and suicide. These are all forms of immoral behavior. These can quickly lead us in the wrong direction with our lives.

If you follow the occult, use drugs and practice the things taught in some rock music, then we are living for today. We are following the crowd to make ourselves happy. We should live with Jesus as our guide and God as our judge.

by Kelly Lamkin

I'm not involved in the occult, drugs, and certain kinds of rock music because of the way I have been raised. I've been taught good morals and values and I have good standards for myself. I've been raised in a good setting and a good family, and I do what I believe is right. I won't get involved with the occult, drugs or satanic music if I know it will hurt me.

The occult involves Satan, devil worship, sacrilegious rituals, black masses, magic and superstition. I would not even get involved in anything that dealt with sacrificing innocent people's lives, or always harrasing and scaring people. The occult is evil and I would never get involved. I believe in helping people and protecting them, not hurting them. Anyone who gets involved with the occult must have a sick mind. I've been raised as a Catholic, and I could never be a part of a group that sacrifices and hurts people.

I'm not involved in drugs because I have seen what drugs can do to a person and other people around them. Drugs can kill a person or really mess up a person's life. Drugs not only hurt the person who takes them but family and friends also. I wouldn't take drugs because I don't want to spend my life hurting myself as well as others. People take drugs to help them with their problems and to escape from life for a while. That is a cop out and that's not the way a person should handle the situation. I face my problems in everyday life with not only myself but my friends and family. I don't need drugs and all the other problems that come along with it just to get through the day. Drugs are not the way to make things better, it only gets worse.

I like to listen to rock music just as much as the next person, but I have nothing to do with the certain kinds of rock music that promote satanic thoughts. There are songs that talk about Satan, devil worship, sacrilegious rituals and the list goes on. After listening to those certain songs for a certain amount of time, the effect of the songs can start to wear on people.

I listen to rock music but I don't listen to heavy metal or metallica. That kind of music is too harsh and promotes too many bad things like drugs and the occult. I've always gone for the songs that have meaning, and some of those songs have no meaning at all. I'm not going to let these certain kinds of music influence my life and decisions in any way, that is why I'm not involved.

The occult, drugs and certain kinds of rock music just aren't for me. I'm not going to let those evils influence me and my decisions in life. I've been raised to do what is right and that is what I'm going to continue to do. Not being involved in those things makes my life a lot simpler and a lot happier and that is why I stay away from the occult, drugs, and certain kinds of rock music.

I Am God's Child

by Stephanie Hess

I am God's child - it's true and you're God's child too. He loves me and he loves you. He takes care of me and you too. He gives us everything we need. God loves you and I love you. You're a daughter, I am too. You're a son and you are too. Forgive me, Lord, and forgive my friends too. I want to come to you my Father, and you my Mother. I love you both so dearly. Never let me hurt Jesus by any bad thoughts or words. Help me to pray and to have faith in you. I love you very much. I hope someday I may see my special friend up in heaven.

A Story About a Lost Puppy

by Janet Fetsch

Once there was a puppy named Cuddles and he lived with a girl named Christine. Christine loved Cuddles very much, so much that she even brought him to school (if she could). But one day Cuddles got lost in the woods and did not know where he was until Christine's dad went hunting in the woods and found Cuddles in the woods all tangled up in bobwire. He got Cuddles out and took him home. Christine was so happy to see Cuddles that she asked her mother if the family could have a celebration. So they did and it was great.

Mr. Smudge

by Stephen Bartush

"I want to go on a vacation," I said. I told Dad that I wanted to go hunting and he said, "yes." We went to Colorado up in the Colorado mountains to hunt deer and elk. Just then we saw some smok

I said, "What's that smoke?"

"That's the home of Mr. Smudge. He makes people stay with him until they die," said Dad.

"He's not going to get me," said Daniel.

But Dad said, "He can still get you."

And just then Mr. Smudge tried to smudge Daniel; but, Daniel ran to me. "Mr. Smudge is trying to smudge me," he said.

They got on their three wheelers and went over logs and streams. They got there just in time. Mr. Smudge turned and said, "Well, I'll smudge you, too."

"You're not going to smudge me," I said. "We'll smudge you."

Then Stephen and Dad took out their ray guns and "v-v-v-v!" Then Mr. Smudge was clean.

Little Miss Muffet Thought She Could Bluff It, But Everyone Knew She Was High.

Unlike fairy tales, drugs are a reality many parents aren't ready to face. But with our nation's growing drug problem, parents need to ask themselves some tough questions. Do our kids know drugs are not a game? Do they know they don't need drugs to have fun? Do they know why it's so important to resist peer pressure and say no to drugs? As a parent, the best thing you can do is talk honestly with your kids. Talking down to them or using scare tactics doesn't work. Give them the facts, let them know you care, and make it clear they can count on you when it's time for them to make tough decisions.

Cow-calf production:

Goal should be uniform, predictable calf crop

by Craig Rosenbaum, County Extension Agent
Uniform and predictable calf crops produced from straightbred and crossbred cow herds are essential for cattlemen today.

"Feedlot managers, packers and retailers are demanding uniformity of performance and product in stocker operations and feedlots," said Bill Turner, beef cattle specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and holder of the San Antonio Livestock Exposition chair in animal science at Texas A&M University.

Emphasis on crossbreeding and new breeds has made it difficult for buyers to use traditional methods such as breed, weight, grade and sex differences for sorting sale cattle, Turner said.

"Marketing will no longer be passive; cattle will be priced on the basis of value as retail beef products," he said.

Breed variation is important to the industry to meet the need for different genetics in the varied environments that cattle are produced in across the U.S.

Turner said some breeds are chosen for smaller mature size, earlier sexual maturity and maternal traits, and others for optimum performance in growth, milk and lean tissue yield.

"A controlled crossbreeding program will yield a productive and predictable calf crop," Turner said. "I recommend purebred bulls on crossbred cows to yield uniformity and predictable performance."

On the other hand, mixed blood cattle create problems, and environmental effects also influence marketing and expected growth, Turner said. With cattle currently in short supply, there is less price discrimination, he said. But, with a return to more stable numbers, buyers will discriminate against poorer cattle.

"Retained ownership through custom stocker and feedlot programs may be advantageous because this gives producers knowledge of the quality and yield of the final beef carcasses," Turner said.

Purebred breeders must respond to the needs of commercial cattlemen because breeds not identifying with the commercial cow-calf enterprise will not be used and will be marginal in numbers, said the specialist. A producer using a single breed must place selection emphasis on reproductive and maternal traits.

"Uniform and predictable calf crops can come from straightbred and crossbred herds, but they must be properly managed and bred for commercial use," Turner said.

Texas Farm Bureau votes to change TDA leaders

WACO - Texas Farm Bureau voting delegates overwhelmingly voted to support a change in the leadership of the Texas Department of Agriculture, and said they prefer that the elected Commissioner of Agriculture be replaced by an agricultural commission.

This reflects a change from former TFB policy which called for an elected Commissioner of Agriculture.

The policy change, adopted by 790 voting delegates representing 142 Texas counties at a special called meeting here March 20, reads as follows: "We support a change in the leadership of the Texas Department of Agriculture. We prefer that the elected Commissioner of Agriculture be replaced by an agricultural commission."

According to Warren Newberry, executive director of the TFB, the issue was the role and future of the Texas Department of Agriculture.

"How is it to be administered?" he asked. "Is it to be fair? Is it to waste taxpayers' money, creating and running a political movement? Or is it to serve as a regulatory agency to carry out laws fairly for all citizens of the state and to serve as an advocate within state government for farmers and ranchers?"

The delegates took a little over an hour to resolve the issue. Although there was discussion on whether a commission should be appointed or elected, there was no movement made to hold onto the policy of an elected commissioner.

"I feel like this has been a significant day not only in the history of Texas Farm Bureau but for Texas agriculture and possibly for the state of Texas," TFB President S.M. True said. "I think we have a problem and we're working towards solving that problem."

Forestburg FFA wins

Forestburg FFA won first in the plant identification and placed second in the range and pasture judging and land judging in the Jack SWCD judging contest at Jacksboro March 16.

Buck Moseley took the high individual trophy in plant identification. Other team members were Jennifer Scott, 4th; Dale Lively, 5th; Marvin Jones, 6th. Team placings were: 1st, Forest-burg FFA; 2nd, Jacksboro FFA; 3rd, Holliday FFA.

Toby Vann was high individual scorer in land judging. Other Forestburg FFA team members were Bart Sirman, Jennifer Mann and Billy Covington. The top four teams of the 11 entered were: 1st, Archer City, 600; 2nd, Forestburg FFA, 600 (tie broken on alternate score); 3rd, Henrietta FFA, 558; 5th, Jacksboro FFA, 551.

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

Of all the small grains in the county, oats probably took the most severe loss with the recent February and early March freezes. Many of the oats had come back somewhat from the February arctic blast. However, when the March ice storm hit, this caused the regrowth to once again be damaged and many of the varieties froze out in Cooke County.

It has been a desire of many producers over the years to have a cold tolerant oat that would survive severe winters in North Texas. Currently with the varieties we have, this just is not possible. Therefore, producers must weigh other factors of oat production in selecting an adaptable and useable variety for Cooke County. Things to consider in oat varieties would be grazing, yield, disease and insect resistance.

Recently, we were visiting with some producers who planted a new variety without fully understanding the problems this variety has in North Texas. The particular variety that was planted is very susceptible to a disease that we have called Barley Yellow Dwarf Virus. This virus, which is transmitted by insects, can reduce yields significantly and also prevent some varieties from even producing grain. Producers need to check all aspects of production in their selection of varieties. Lindsay ISD hires teachers

by Elaine Schad

The Lindsay School Board hired three new teachers and extended contracts of current personnel at its regular March meeting this week.

Two of the teachers hired are Lindsay graduates and natives. Linus Fuhrmann, who will be in his first year of teaching, will be the new eighth teacher. Jane Otto, a longtime teacher at Prairie Valley near Nocona and a former Lindsay resident, will teach third grade. The board also hired Kathy Lowry from Paradise to teach science. This will be her first teaching assignment.

The board accepted the resignation of present third grade teacher Terri DeGarmo, effective the end of the school year. They renewed contracts of current teachers and gave three teachers new continuing contracts. They include Donna Dieter, Donna Wells and Rita Johnson.

In other business, the board:
- Set the date of the All-Awards Banquet for 7 p.m. May 7 at the cafeteria.

- Approved the driver's education program which will be offered this summer from June through August. Cost will be based on the number of students in the class. Last year's fee was $139, but this year's fee could be higher because fewer students have signed up, officials said.

- Approved the 1989-1990 school calendar. School will begin Sept. 1 with graduation set for June 1, 1990.

- Cast ballots for Region II Education Service Center Board, including a vote for Cooke County native Wilbert Echols.
