Walterscheid, Fox, Selby Are Election Winners

The voting public of our country is now in the process of electing our next president. The primaries are preludes to the two political conventions which will select the finalists in the race for the top job.

Meanwhile another candidate is currently launching his campaign for another position which, if it materializes, would exert a greater influence over the country than even the presidency. Ralph Nader and a gang of misguided associates are organizing "Big Business Day" on April 17 as their first step toward wrecking the free enterprise system and eventually lead to socialization of all of the country's business.

As explained by the people who are cooking up the affair, "It will be a nationwide event involving hundreds of communities... in the tradition of Earth Day, Food Day and Sun Day. A basic theme is that our giant corporations have gross public impacts without adequate public accountability... that they govern us while we can't govern them."

Among the projects planned are teach-ins at schools, union halls and places of worship; TV and radio debates with business people; demonstrations at symbolic locations, like the US Chamber of Commerce; mock trials of "corrupt companies"; nominations to a "Corporate Hall of Shame."

The BBD organizers also plan to establish "shadow boards of directors" for 10 of the "most socially bankrupt corporations in America." The ten they have chosen to dishonor are Exxon, General Dynamics, Winn-Dixie, Occidental Petroleum, General Electric, American Cyanamid, Lilly, Castle and Cooke, Fluor Corp. and American Electric Power.

The Big Business Day sponsors say their only goal is to tame corporate abuses, but their obvious intention is to whip up class hatred against the American businessman for the purpose of revolutionizing our economic system. Many of the organizers are known to favor a changeover to a Socialist society in the US and are closely tied to organizations that favor Socialism. Ironically, initial money for this promotion was provided by a grant of $15,000 from the Stern Fund, a tax exempt foundation that has long assisted leftist causes with money originally provided by big business.

While going all out on April 17 to stir up a storm of hatred against the corporations of this country, the sponsors of Big Business Day have special attention planned for Congress. They are pushing for legislation called the Corporate Democracy Act. Its purpose, as outlined by Nader, is to remove the control of corporations from business managers and turn it over to the business hating left wingers whose intention is to eventually socialize.

The proposed act stipulates that a majority of a corporation's board of directors must be "independent directors" that is, people who have not been employed by the corporations or any of its important customers or suppliers within the last five years. The act further specifies a list of duties for this special board which enables it to establish and apply official corporate policy in matters of public relations, political relations, consumer protection, employee well being, anti-trust standards, etc.

Presumably these independent directors will have to be either named by the government or endorsed by the government, just to continued on page 16...

Gerald Walterscheid, Joe Fox and Doug Selby were the winners of the three contests on local ballots of last week's election.

Walterscheid outran Dale Klement 151 to 47 for Place 1 on the Muenster School Board, and Eddie Fleitman got 176 in his uncontested bid for re-election to Place 2. Also, Margie Walterscheid and Angelo Nasche each received a write-in vote for Place 2.

Fox and Selby were winners here and county-wide for Places 6 and 7 respectively on the Board of Trustees of Cooke County College. Fox received 87 here and 1540 in the county; Alan Ritchey polled 55 and 427 and Charles Williams polled 43 and 793 in the contest for Place 6. Selby received 122 and 1653 for Place 7 while Incumbent Boyd Ware received 68 and 1132.

Other local balloting was routine with uncontested candidates only in the hospital board and city council elections. Results of the hospital board election were Dan Luke 187, George Berry 182, William Hermes 182, Rufus Henschel 181, Albert Dangelmayr 182, Robert Klement 2, Paul Fisher 1.

Results in the city election were Bertha Hamric 113, Richard Grewing 108, Aubrey Tuggle 105.

The kind of spectacular explosion that has demolished grain elevators elsewhere in Texas happened here last Friday. Described as a dust explosion, it resulted in a chain reaction spreading balls of fire through several areas of Muenster Milling Co. and giving employees the scare of their lives.

Arthur Felderhoff, owner, said an insurance inspector the next day described the happening as an unavoidable once-in-a-lifetime event, set off by just the right conditions. After 24 years of operation, the accumulation of dust along with atmosphere, temperature and what not just happened to be right for the big bang.

It happened at 4:05 Good Friday afternoon and firemen were on the job less than ten minutes later seeking out the several spots that had been ignited by flaming dust clouds. They apparently had all under control within an hour but had to return Saturday for a flame that came back to life. Even Monday they came again to re-do an area that smoldered through the weekend.

Considering all, "we're lucky to still be in business, and Gilbert Hess feels lucky not to be dead or badly burned." He's the employee who, startled by the brightness, glanced up to find a huge ball of fire, just overhead. He dropped to the floor and crawled away before taking off in a dead run.

Dickie Moster, on a truck at the east side of the building, had a somewhat similar experience. A ball of fire was drifting down toward him but burned itself out before reaching the truck.

As explained by Felderhoff, the explosion occurred at the top of the elevator leg, the framework housing the belt with buckets which transport grain to the turnhead at the top. From there the grain is sent by chutes to the bins below. The turnhead is the mechanism topping about six chutes that extend some 20 feet above the building.

Attracted by the explosion, a number of people looked toward the elevator in time to see a flame shooting out of the top of the elevator leg. As the fire burned out its smoke settled into a mushroom shape high above the elevator leg and chutes.

However, a great portion of the force and fire did not go into the air above. It got into the chutes and shot down to their respective bins, repeating the original reaction. The fire ignited dust in the bins causing more explosions, which blew the individual roofs off the bins a short distance into the air. They fell back, but in a damaged condition and out of place. All them needed repairs.

The phenomenon of balls of fire is explained by clouds of burning dust. The original explosion ruptured the elevator leg and shot the burning dust into the air. Also, exploding dust in the bins raised more dust, which caught fire in a chain reaction. The burning dust set off fires in various areas of the building but they were quickly brought under control by firemen. The greater problems were inside the bins where smoldering fires escaped notice and continued burning until Saturday and Monday. "Luck was with us in the last fire," Felderhoff said. "It had lots of opportunity to burn down the building."

Furthermore, he added, luck was with them in lots of respects. First of all nobody was hurt, and secondly the damage was moderate when it could have been a total loss. And a part of the loss is covered by insurance. Besides, business has continued almost as usual. There are inconveniences while repairs are being made, but the job is being done.

Great Balls of Fire!

Jill Walterscheid was Number 1 in the discus and shot put events at the District 14-A track meet. The double win qualifies her to compete in the regional in both events.

Germanfest Plans on Schedule

With only two weeks remaining until Germanfest, all preparations are on schedule. That is the word conveyed Tuesday by Chairman Dick Ferber to the Muenster Chamber of Commerce at its regular meeting Tuesday.

The newest addition is an opening parade from the Community Center to the location between the park and highway which has been selected as the site of Muenster's recently acquired historical marker. Dedication of the marker is the opening event of this year's Germanfest. The parade plan is to leave the Community Center at 3p.m. and arrive for the dedication about 3:30.

Co-chairmen of the parade are Bertha Hamric and Mrs. Herie Miller, who say that a number of entries are assured and others are welcome, the more the better. Persons interested are asked to call Mrs. Hamric, 759-4144, or Mrs. Miller, 759-2528, before April 15.

The community's two homecoming queens, Elaine Walterscheid and Lou Dyer, who will share the honor of representing Muenster at the dedication, will head the parade.

Also new at the festival this year is an extra tent, measuring 40 x 60, a short distance north and west of the big tent, which measures 60 x 120. As usual, the big tent will be located on the tennis courts, and concrete now replaces the former gravel approach to it. The improvement was a part of the sidewalk surrounding the pavilion.

The second tent was added to relieve the former crowding in a single tent, and the word is that practically all of the expanded concession space is reserved. Unless attendance increases proportionately the visitors will have plenty of space.

Another provision for the crowd's growth is more rest room facilities, in addition to those built last year beside the swimming pool. Ten portable toilets will be located near the creek south of the concession area.

Festival events include three afternoons of entertainment at the pavilion, a street dance Friday night, dances at VFW and the Community Center Saturday night, and a pavilion dance Sunday night.

Again a big event of the festival is the German Fun Run to be held in 5000 meter and 15000 meter divisions.

Also in the plans is an effort to improve traffic, parking and security. Members of the Myra Fire Department have volunteered to keep order at the entrance and exits.

Two MHS Girls Qualify for 3 Events in Regional Track

Muenster high qualified two girls for the regional in the District 14-A meet on the MHS track Tuesday. Jill Walterscheid was number 1

However the Hornettes earned only 4 additional points at the meet and ended in sixth place with a total of 34. In two other divisions the eighth was fifth and the seventh grade was sixth.

Team scores of the varsity division were Pottsboro 124, Celina 121, Pilot Point 121, Lindsay 62, Sanger 50, Muenster 34, Aubrey 10, Callisburg 5.

Scores of the 8th grade division were Celina 153, Lindsay 118, Callisburg 66, Sanger 65, Muenster 59, Aubrey 41, Pilot Point 15, Pottsboro 8.

Scores of the 7th grade division were Aubrey 190, Pottsboro 118, Pilot Point 77, Celina 65, Callisburg 49, Muenster 24, Sanger 4. Muenster girls scored as follows: Jill Walterscheid, 1st in discus, 106'9 1/2", and 1st in shot put 35'4".

Did You Forget to Mail Your Census Form? Do It Now

The Census Bureau is watching every incoming mail for a number of questionnaires for the 1980 Census of Population and Housing that should have been returned on April 1.

Manager of the Census District Office for this area, asks that if yours is one of the missing, that you fill it out and mail it today. Don't make the Census Bureau come calling for your census form.

Every persons must be counted, the manager said, whether by mail or personal visit by a census taker, and the cost of the census goes up with every household that must be visited. The completeness and accuracy of the census depends on the cooperation of every household and every individual in filling out and returning the questionnaire.

Helpful examples on how to mark the answers to the questions are given on the yellow instruction guide furnished with the form.

The brown mail-back envelope that came with the form does not require a stamp.

Sorry About That!

Apologies are extended to members of the Myra Fire Department who were overlooked in last week's Enterprise report on a mobile home fire in Myra. The fact is that they were there in full force doing a good job.

Hundreds of Acres Burn near Bulcher

A fire at Bulcher Monday afternoon could not have come at a worse time. Fanned by a 50 miles per hour wind, it raged out of control for hours before the gale calmed and enabled firemen to take charge.

It started about 4:30, reportedly from a brush fire that was whipped into fury by the rising wind. Four fire departments responded to the call for help, Muenster and Gainesville with two units each and Myra and Saint Jo with one unit each. Nine Muenster firemen were there, more than a dozen from Myra.

The men finally had the fire contained about 10:30. By then some 800 to 1000 acres of grass and brush range land were cleared, much of it along the Bulcher-Saint Jo road.

Milk Price Support Upped

"The increase in milk price supports announced today, March 31, to be effective April 1, is a constructive step toward minimizing long-run consumer costs for milk and dairy products," according to Irvin J. Elkin, Amery, Wisconsin. Mr. Elkin is a dairy farmer and president of Associated Milk Producers, Inc., the nation's largest milk marketing cooperative.

"While the quantity of milk being produced today is adequate to meet today's needs, it is essential that milk prices reflect the added costs of production and living expenses brought about by the inflation pervading the remainder of the economy," Elkin stated. "The Secretary's decision does just that. He increased the price goal for milk testing 3.5% butterfat from $11.22 per hundredweight to $12.07, or 11.63¢ per gallon, which was the minimum increase provided by law to compensate farmers for increases in prices for all of the things farmers buy."

"It is important to consumers for milk price floors to move up with inflation. To find telling evidence of this, one only has to look back to 1977 when an increase in milk price supports prevented dairy product prices from falling drastically. Without the price floor, many more cows would have been sold for slaughter in 1977 and early 1978. By mid-year 1978, dairy products were in short continued on page 5...

THE SOVIET OBJECTIVE
 During the sixties and early seventies, under Khrushchev, the Soviet Union liberalized its stance toward some of her own satellites. In addition she engaged in heavy transfers of arms and economic aid to other nations hoping to influence them toward Soviet policies. India was one such nation; another was Egypt where it is reported the Soviets extended as much as $4 billion in military assistance over a period of twenty years. But it failed to hold President Sadat's loyalty to the Soviet Union; in 1974 he rejected Soviet influence and joined the American camp.

These "soft" policies of the Kremlin indicated no change in Soviet goals or objectives; it only indicated a shift in method. There was an internal reaction to the harshness of Stalin. Khrushchev shifted to more leniency in dealing with their satellites and allies. It would appear the Soviet leadership has now decided the attempt at leniency was a mistake. For many years the Reds have been using their time-honored tactic, trying to take over Afghanistan by peaceful penetration and subversion from within. Although they were successful in helping place a Marxist in power in 1978, they were not pleased with his inability to crush anti-communist opposition. Consequently, Russia has now shown her true nature with an aggressive military invasion of this Third World country.

Suddenly, America has made a complete reversal of U.S. foreign policy. What has caused such a reversal? Well, take a look at a map of the Middle East. It will be obvious that in the international game of foreign policy the Soviets have made a move which places our national interest in great peril of being "checkmated." A Soviet presence in Afghanistan would seriously menace United States interests in the Middle East, put oil routes within striking distance of Soviet fighters from Afghan bases. From such bases they could even threaten our fleet in the Arabian Sea and prevent our defending the oil supply route. It appears that this move by the Soviets represents the first in an intended gigantic pincer movement to encircle the oil reserves of the Persian Gulf.

These Middle East oil resources represent the jugular vein of the entire industrialized world. They are singularly important, not only to us, but to our allies, so these allies should stand firm with us in this crisis of international importance.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
 By Lyndell Williams
 TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Governor Bill Clements last week predicted the Legislature will increase the state gasoline tax next session to make up for some $300 million taken out of general revenues in 1979.

Clements is already on record, along with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, in favor of increasing the state's nickel-per-gallon excise tax, currently the lowest in the nation.

Speaking to a Dallas convention of the Texas Oil Marketers Association, Clements also surprised gasohol advocates with his endorsement of increased production of alcohol fuels, and said he hopes that gasohol will be exempted from the increased tax.

The Texas Oil Marketers Association represents about 900 company-owned service station chains in the state.

Undocumented Workers
 The Governor also said last week he favors giving legal status to undocumented workers from Mexico, at least for limited periods for temporary work permits.

"They would be paid a fair wage and most of all be guaranteed the protection of our laws and decent living conditions," Clements said.

He plans to meet in June with Mexican President Lopez Portillo and four Mexican governors at El Paso and Juarez.

Taiwan-Texas Pacts
 Republic of China (Taiwan) officials signed contracts with several Texas firms to buy industrial, power generating and oil drilling equipment and cotton—close to $1.34 million in trade value.

The final agreement was about $10 million more than was expected to be bought by Taiwan's touring trade officials.

Presidential Politics
 The chairman of the State Republican Executive Committee said a majority of committee members have endorsed Ronald Reagan for the Republican presidential nomination.

Chairman Ernest Angelo said 36 of the 62 members support Reagan. He did not say how many favored Texas George Bush.

Meanwhile, Texas Democrats did not rush to alter their respective game plans when California Gov. Jerry Brown dropped out of the presidential race. His campaigning in Texas was regarded as minimal, far behind the support for Jimmy Carter and Ted Kennedy.

AG Opinions
 Attorney General Mark White released several legal opinions last week. Among his rulings:

—the state can declare a person who has successfully completed felony probation ineligible to be a peace officer.

—prohibitions of political activity by employees of the Department of Public Safety are constitutional.

—the trustees of the Teacher Retirement System may invest funds in mortgage certificates secured by real property, but a constitutional amendment will be necessary to allow investment in realty.

—a junior college may pay for employee enrollment in a health maintenance organization in lieu of the college's health insurance program, if the state approves.

Fighting For Funds

The federal government's attempts to trim funds from certain programs brought a reaction from several Texas political groups and figures last week.

The Governor, fighting to keep a $37 million federal law enforcement grant program, was joined by Supreme Court Chief Justice Joe Greenhill, Court of Criminal Appeals Presiding Judge John F. Onion, DPS head Col. Jim Adams, and Texas A&M University president Jarvis Miller and several chiefs of police, sheriffs, and other citizens across the state. The program involved curbing drug traffic and fighting organized crime.

And a coalition of Texas women's and activist groups urged Congress not to cut funds for social programs for women, minorities, senior citizens and children. The groups included the Texas Women's Political Caucus, the Abortion Rights Action League, the Gray Panthers, the Women's Equity Action League and others.

Among the budget cutting proposals is one to lower the number of persons eligible for food stamps.

Music collection goes to Tarleton

STEPHENVILLE — When the Fine Arts Center opens this fall at Tarleton State University, it will feature a vast collection of music machines and music boxes.

Donated by Leo Pottshman, a long-time benefactor of Tarleton, the collection of more than 125 pieces is valued in excess of $75,000 and represents more than 40 years of collecting.

The collection contains objects varying in size from a miniature gold music box to one of the first coin operated nickelodeon machines.

R for your child's safety

You don't have to be a doctor to help in the battle against the biggest killer andcrippler of pre-school age children, according to Dr. Albert H. Domm, child safety specialist and former medical director of Prudential Insurance Co.

The killer Dr. Domm is talking about is not some dread disease but home accidents, which he defines as those which occur in the house, yard, or neighborhood.

Dr. Albert H. Domm strongly recommends that parents check each and every room of the house as well as neighborhood play areas for safety hazards.

"Poisonous household substances and medicines should be kept in locked cabinets," he said. "Sharp instruments which can seriously maim or kill must be kept out of the reach of the curious toddler."

Dr. Domm suggests fastening all windows securely and putting gates at the bottom and top of stairways to prevent injury from falls. Doors leading to outside balconies should be locked.

For yard safety, Dr. Domm urges parents to fence off a protected play area for children.

Dr. Domm also stresses the importance of parental responsibility for teaching good safety habits.

LIGNITE COAL.

Saving TP&L customers millions of dollars each year.

In the late 1960's Texas Power & Light Company began reducing its dependence on natural gas and oil by planning and constructing generating plants that use lignite coal as fuel. Lignite is cheaper than gas or oil and it's readily available right here in Texas.

Today, TP&L has eight lignite-fueled generating units in operation and others are under construction. For TP&L customers, this means that even though the fuel portion of electric bills has increased in recent years, bills would be millions of dollars higher each year if lignite were not being used.

Moreover, TP&L's use of lignite coal is helping reduce our national problem of dependence on foreign oil. Lignite now accounts for more than 50 per cent of the electricity TP&L generates for its customers. And, we plan to use more lignite in the future.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
 U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
 142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
 WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

Thousands upon thousands of Americans could become victims of the international crises in Iran and Afghanistan — shot not with guns but with needles.

Already, large supplies in heroin from the "Golden Crescent" of Iran, Afghanistan and Pakistan have flooded Europe and begun their almost inevitable drift to American streets.

In the 1960s and 1970s, we had an epidemic of heroin use with as many as 700,000 persons addicted to the drug. Vigilant law enforcement efforts reduced supplies of heroin to 4 metric tons last year, the lowest amount in a decade. By the middle of last year, there were about 400,000 American addicts — a horrifying number to be sure, but still the lowest number in 25 years.

Part of the reason for the reduced supply was cooperation from Asian and Middle Eastern nations. But with the chaos in Afghanistan and Iran, U.S. and European officials are bracing for all-time high levels of illicit supply. That means there not only will be more heroin on the streets, but also that it will be less expensive and of higher potency.

Many people think of heroin as a drug exclusively used by hard-core addicts. But that is not the case. The addict starts as an occasional user, who may flirt with heroin for quite some time before being trapped into addiction. Regrettably, rehabilitation efforts to cure addicts of their dependency have been slow and suffered high failure rates. So the obvious step is to redouble our efforts to keep young occasional users, or those who would be tempted to "try" heroin if it were readily available, from getting to the addiction stage.

Certainly, our law enforcement agencies will bear a large portion of this responsibility as they continue their efforts to stop drug smuggling and dealing. We in the legislative branch must make sure they have all the means possible to do that job.

But there is something else we can do to help solve the problem. In Texas, and most other states in the nation, anyone can walk in off the streets and purchase a hypodermic syringe, which is a tool for using heroin.

Now, it can be argued that an addict determined enough will find some way to use his drug whether he can get a sterile needle and syringe or not. But the occasional or first-time user likely would be deterred by the prospect of risking infection or disease from using dirty or makeshift paraphernalia. So I have introduced a bill in the Senate to require prescriptions for hypodermic needles and syringes.

I have carefully studied the question of whether it might also hurt diabetics or others who have legitimate need for these items. My conclusion, based on the experience of other states which regulate their sale and conversations with many people who use them for medical reasons is that the law can be framed in such a way that it accomplishes its purpose without causing serious inconvenience to those people.

Most pharmacists share my concern about their products being used illicitly, and most try to exercise caution in selling needles and syringes. But my bill would give them legal backing, and let law enforcement agencies put unscrupulous sellers out of business.

I thought the bill was important when I introduced it in November. But with the expected influx of Iranian and Afghan heroin, it is critical now.

US Attorney Urges Having Check Sent Directly to Bank

United States Attorney John H. Hannah, Jr., has urged people receiving regular monthly checks in the mail from state or federal agencies to make arrangements to have their checks sent directly to their banks for deposit instead of their mailbox at home.

Hannah, the Chief Federal Law Enforcement official for East Texas said such a practice would save time, effort and millions of taxpayers' dollars. Hannah stated that thousands of government checks, both state and federal are stolen out of mailboxes each year.

"The people whose checks are stolen have to wait many days before a replacement check arrives. The merchants who unknowingly cash the stolen checks many times have to suffer the economic loss. And, millions of dollars are spent by state and federal investigative agencies and prosecutors' offices in attempting to catch and convict the thieves", stated Hannah.

The Federal Prosecutor encouraged all citizens who do receive regular checks to contact their bank or the agency that mails their checks and make the simple arrangement of having their check mailed directly to their bank.

Don't Use Cash for Paying Income Tax

When paying your Federal income tax, send either a personal check or money order, but never cash, the Internal Revenue Service warned. Using a check or money order is safer from two standpoints, the IRS explained. First, a check or money order is harder to steal; second, the cancelled check or money order will serve as a record that the payment was made.

The IRS also advised taxpayers to put their social security number on the check or money order directly below the signature. That way the taxpayer will be certain to get credit for the payment should the check or money order be detached from the return.

The IRS noted that no matter what type of check is used, the tax is not considered paid until the draft is honored by the bank on which it is drawn.

Bank Gains in Loans, Deposits

Muenster State Bank has gained in both deposits and loans during the past year but has lost deposits while gaining loans during the past three months. The figures were given in response to the state banking commissioner's call for a statement of condition as of March 31, 1980.

Total deposits at the bank were $13,542,603, a gain of $2,247,603 since Mar. 31, 1979 but a decline of 437,518 during the past three months. Total loans were $5,363,554, a gain of 276,554 in the past year and a gain of $286,685 in three months.

Other banks of the county also showed gains in both deposits and loans. The present total of deposits of the four banks is $133,002,158 a gain of almost $31 million for the year. And total loans are $83,576,912, a gain of 9.5 million for the year.

What is a Trombe wall and how does it function in terms of passive solar gain within a building? T. W., Houston.

The Trombe wall is named after Professor Felix Trombe of the French Solar Energy Lab in the French Pyrenees who tested a mass solar wall system two feet thick in 1967. The principle behind the Trombe wall is that of indirect solar gain through a storage mass in the form of a wall which collects and stores heat directly from the sun and then transfers it to the living space. The wall's storage mass intercedes between the sun and the living space.

One of the major features of the Trombe wall is the reduction of temperature swings through a time lag effect between the solar gain and the living space. This time lag effect is about 6 to 12 hours for masonry walls 12 inches to 16 inches thick. This maximum heating occurs in the evening at a time when it is needed most. This makes the Trombe wall ideal in climates which experience large temperature swings between day and night.

Although the Trombe wall has many desirable features, one of the drawbacks is its high initial cost because of the extra mass of concrete, masonry, or water.

We are thinking about incorporating passive solar features in the design of a new home we will be building. Can you suggest some good sources on designing a passive solar home? E. R., Wichita Falls.

The following are sources on passive solar design:

Design with Climate, Victor Olgay, Princeton University Press, 1963.

Earth Sheltered Housing Design, University of Minnesota, Van Nostrand Reinhold.

Energy and Form, Ralph Knowles, MIT Press, 1977.

Regional Guidelines for Building Passive Energy Conserving Homes, AIA Research Corp., Washington, D.C.

Solar Control and Shading Devices, Olgay & Olgay, Princeton University Press, 1978.

Solar Energy, Bruce Anderson, McGraw Hill, 1978.

The Architecture of the Well Tempered Environment, Reynes Banham, The Architectural Press, London, 1969.

The Passive Solar Energy Book, Edward Mazria, Rodale Press, 1979.

For a more complete bibliography, the Texas Energy Extension Service office has available free copies of a bibliography on passive solar energy designs and systems put out by the National Solar Heating and Cooling Information Center.

Enjoy our Lilies in bloom now, then plant the bulb in your yard for future beauty...

Lilies Reg. $12.50 & $15.00

On Sale $5⁰⁰ ea. (not dressed)

Instructions:
Remove each flower as it fades. If the weather is still cold when last flowers fade, set plant on a sunny windowsill until the leaves mature and wither away, keeping the soil moist the entire time. This may take 4-6 weeks. If the outdoor night temperatures are in the 40 degree range, plant the lily in a sunny spot in the garden. It may rest a year and bloom the following summer, or it may send out a few flowers later that same year. A tablespoon of garden fertilizer added to the soil around the bulb will help it to rebuild strength. A handful of sand or gravel placed under the bulb before setting will promote necessary drainage.

supply. Consumer prices soared far above support levels, and were prevented from going even further upward by the USDA stocks of dairy products moving back into commercial channels as prices exceeded 110 percent of the price support level. The 1978-79 price increases were subdued also by milk productive capacity retained because of the 1977 floor price."

"The price support program has served consumers well. While the consumer prices increased 13.3% in 1979—milk increased only 11% and cheese only 9.8%. At the same time gasoline was up 52.2% and the recently de-regulated air fares increased 30%. The fact that dairy prices have increased less than all consumer items is due largely to the stability provided through the price support program. Farmers are able to justify continued high investment in the milk production enterprise, only if there is reasonable hope of receiving adequate compensation," Elkin said.

Myra Community Club Met on Mar. 25

Plans for the annual Easter egg hunt for Myra children were made by members of the Myra Community Improvement Club during the regular March meeting on the 25th. They also worked on their record books which will be submitted to the community improvement judging committee in April. Members also discussed improvements on the school building.

Eules Hudson was hostess for the meeting and served refreshments. Carroll Smith presided for the business meeting.

Winners were Sarina Fuhrmann, Cheryl Hacker, Misti Ford and Mike Knabe. Refreshments of decorated cup cakes and Kool Aid were served.

Committee members assisting the Ray Sicking were Mrs. Larry Vogel, Mrs. Pearl Rosson, Mrs. Wanda Fleitman and Carroll Smith.

Excess Earnings Can Reduce Social Security Benefits

The fact that there is a limit on the amount of earnings a person can have and still receive social security checks continues to be one of the most controversial aspects of the social security system.

The so-called "retirement test" applies not only to retirees, but to people receiving social security benefits as dependents of retired or disabled workers and to survivors of deceased workers.

Under present law, the amount of money you can make and still get social security depends on how old you are. People at 65 and over can earn $5,000 in 1980; people under 65 can make $3,720. Earnings over the limit generally reduce the social security check $1 for each $2 dollars of excess earnings. At age 72 (age 70 beginning in 1982) the earnings test does not apply.

An estimated 10 percent of retired social security beneficiaries currently have their checks reduced or stopped because they earn more than the annual exempt amount. Although there is no indication of how many people would actually work if there were no earnings limit, many still would not because of health and physical reasons, even if they could find jobs in the current tight job market.

Most people are better off working than not working, and are able to augment their social security income substantially. For example, a person who is 65 years old and is eligible for the maximum social security benefit of $553 a month -- $6,636 annually--could have $5,000 in earnings for a total of $11,636 in income. He or she could earn $18,272 before all of the social security benefits for the year are withheld.

Likewise, a 62-year-old worker receiving a social security benefit of $402.80 could earn an additional $3,720 for a total of $8,573 without affecting his social security checks. He or she could earn $13,426 before all of the benefits would be

It is important for people planning to retire to check with their social security office about the rules affecting earnings. During the first year of retirement for example, a monthly test is generally applied. Benefits can be paid for months a person does little or no work, regardless of total earnings for that year. To find out how the test could affect you, it's best to discuss your plans with us beforehand.

Head in clouds

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — A woman student at The University of Texas has reason to have her head in the clouds.

Charlotte Smith is one of 10 women in the nation accepted for jet pilot training in the U.S. Air Force. A physics major, she is a cadet in the UT Austin Air Force ROTC, where she is deputy commander of the John H. Payne Squadron.

It is no coincidence that she is interested in flying. Her father is a career Air Force pilot. She hopes eventually to become a flight instructor. Under Air Force rules, she is barred from flying combat missions.

Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Koesler Visit in Utah

Mrs. Norbert Koesler and Sister Francesca Walterscheid have returned from a five day trip to Moab, Utah where they visited their brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Walterscheid. They saw the Walterscheid's new home and toured the mountains and canyons surrounding the city. There were two very snowy days during the visit and one morning's low temperature was 15 degrees; however they were told that Spring arrives about mid-April and weather moderates very quickly then.

The Leonard Walterscheid family held a Sunday family reunion while the Texans visited. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Walterscheid and two children of Pegosa Springs, Colorado; Chicago Bears' Len Walterscheid and his wife who are spending the winter months in Grand Junction, Colorado; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Becks (the former Cindy Walterscheid) and one daughter of Grand Junction; and Miss Dianna Walterscheid of Southern Utah State University. Only family member missing was Mike Walterscheid of Salt Lake City, who was unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Walterscheid are former Muenster residents. They moved to Utah about 20 years ago.

Mrs. Norbert Koesler visited on day at OLV with Sister Francesca before they flew to Moab from DFW.

Jaycees Want Help in Little League Program

With an eye on Little League baseball, the Jaycees are asking parents and sponsors for help in upgrading the program.

At their regular meeting last week they stated that they will coordinate umpiring and prepare the field before games, and they hope to get help in such areas as coaching, player supervision and umpiring. Adult supervision was rated as especially bad last year.

They asked that coaches and sponsors start planning for a smooth and rewarding season, and attend an organizational meeting to be announced soon.

What's colorless, odorless, hangs around cars and is a silent killer? Carbon monoxide, that's what, and it causes about one-half of all fatal poisonings in the U.S. Never warm up your car in a closed garage. And it's a good idea to always keep a window cracked, even in cold weather. An exhaust system that isn't working properly can allow fumes to leak into the passenger compartment. Have your exhaust system checked regularly.

The symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning are dizziness and headache, something like having a cold or the flu. You become drowsy, then pass out. The antidote is fresh air.

Custom Do-Over On A Budget

How can you multiply sleeping space in a tiny, odd-shaped bedroom? For one home remodeler, the answer was to build bunk beds, to move furniture up and away from limited play area at ground level.

Cramped quarters demand do-over

Since economy was another equally important goal, the couple worked with attic and auction odds and ends, sewing and making much on their own. Inspiration for the little boy's bedroom was GAFSTAR® adhesive-backed tile in a ceramic pattern that they were able to install themselves.

Upper drawers and top of an abandoned buffet provided storage and the base of the lower bunk, a couch by day and twin-size bed by night. The drawer section was sawed from the cabinets, stripped of its old mahogany finish and painted pumpkin.

Sheets in a pin-striped, ginger-orange-tan-white combination were stapled, much like wallpaper, flat against walls. Rust colored paint was used on the bed frames, window, an old pine chest, table and the single chair as accent.

Affixed to the wall on a pine frame is the son's personal bed choice, the upper bunk. To reach it, the father bolted a ladder, complete with toeholds, to the floor and upper bunk for extra support.

The same sheet pattern used as wall covering colorfully coordinates polyfoam mattress, bolsters, coverlets and even hanging lampshades. The tie-in of colors, the streamlined adherence to basic materials and simple patterns make this tiny room have a big personality for a growing boy.

Remodeled boy's bedroom... on a "do-it-yourself" budget, from the floor up!

And, because all the materials and ideas can be coordinated by any enterprising couple, the entire project is affordable, even on a modest budget. The new adhesive-backed floor, for starters, cost less than $50!

Get an early start... on improving Muenster's appearance for Germanfest!

Hog Numbers Increase Means Summer Pork's a Good Buy

AUSTIN--Think pork when planning your next summer barbecue; it could be one of the best meat buys of the year.

According to Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown, Texas pork producers have just reported the largest March 1 inventory of hogs and pigs in over six years -- 900,000 head. Consumers should find pork to be in plentiful supply at reasonable prices now and over the next few months, as these animals move onto the market.

"Following a sell-off brought about by rising production costs and weak hog prices, pork supplies will likely tighten up and prices increase," said Brown.

He pointed out that the recent surge in pork supplies has come about at the expense of the producer, who has seen prices drop $10 or more per hundredweight over the past year. Brown noted that 200-to-240-pound barrows and gilts were bringing $45.75 to $46.70 per hundred at Giddings last March. As of March 11 of this year, that price had declined to $36 to $36.50.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service shows that the 900,000 head on hogs and pigs on hand on March 1 was 6 percent higher than a year ago. A slight decline in the breeding hog population was offset by a 7-percent jump in the number of market hogs. The December-February pig crop totaled 326,000, up 4 percent from a year ago. This figure will likely be lower in the coming months, as producers say they plan to reduce farrowings by some 7 percent.

Beef Cook-off To Determine Texas Finalist

AUSTIN--Two finalists in last year's Texas Beef Cook-off will compete again for the chance to represent Texas in the National Beef Cook-off in Scottsdale, Arizona, September 3-5.

Mrs. Herschel Thompson, 216 North Austin, Tulia, third in the 1979 contest, and Mrs. Beverly Sebastian, 5133 Gibbons, Fort Worth, a finalist, were among five women chosen to participate in the 1980 Texas Beef Cook-off April 17 in Amarillo.

Other finalists are Rhonda Fowler, Star Route 1, Box 20A, Woodville, a student at Sam Houston State University, Susan Falter, Box 147, Valentine, and Alice Landru Edwards, 4710 Warm Springs, Houston, a student at the University of Houston.

Finalists were announced by the Texas CowBelles, who sponsor the state contest. The women will prepare their dishes for judging during the Texas Beef Conference April 17-18. The winner will receive $300 and an expense-paid trip to Scottsdale.

Beef dishes will be judged on the basis of taste, appearance, originality, ease of preparation and practicality.

Recipes Sought For Publication

AUSTIN--It's time again for Texas cooks to share their recipes with others in the state. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown has reported.

The July issue of the TDA Quarterly, an agricultural magazine of general interest, is in the planning stage and recipes are needed for the regular column "Recipes from Our Readers." Deadline is May 15.

Recipes should be sent to the TDA Quarterly, Texas Department of Agriculture, P. O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711. Subscriptions for the magazine are $3 per year and can be sent to the same address.

He's no pilot

AUSTIN, Texas (Spl.) — That man in the "jump seat" of an airplane cockpit is no pilot. He's a University of Texas psychologist.

Prof. Robert Helmreich is making a study of psychological factors that affect crew performance in two areas — commercial airline cockpits and ocean-going supertankers.

Pilots' reactions to simulated emergency situations may yield data that could be important to astronauts in space flights, Dr. Helmreich says. Also, how workers on supertankers respond to such factors as boredom, social isolation and separation from family could influence astronauts on long missions in space, he adds.

Residue Management Is Important

Since most crops have diseases that are carried through the non-growing season on crop residue, farmers should practice residue management along with crop rotation to reduce the chances of diseases in next year's crop.

Populations of disease-causing organisms build when a susceptible crop is present and conditions are favorable for development, points out Neil Tibbets, County Agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Most rotation programs will lower pathogen populations.

However, under intensified production when the same crop is grown year after year, special steps have to be taken to avoid organism buildup, often at high cost.

In Minimum tillage systems, crops are usually rotated, and this helps keep certain disease organisms at a low level. However, a few have the ability to span more than one crop or to live in organic matter that comes from most any crop.

Most disease-causing organisms require oxygen for survival. When crop residue is on the surface, they have no difficulty staying alive. Once crop residue is buried deeply, organisms that require little oxygen for survival go to work while disease-causing organisms soon die.

Some producers like to maintain a certain amount of crop residue on the surface as a mulch for water conservation and wind erosion control. This works satisfactorily if residue is kept out of the seed furrow at seeding time. Otherwise, seedling diseases may be more severe.

There is no one "best way" to handle crop residue under all situations, emphasizes Tibbets. It depends on the crop involved and expected growing conditions. Growers should keep in mind, however, that diseases may be more or less severe depending on how they handle residue from previous crops. Diseases are generally less severe when practices are used that hasten decomposition of crop residue.

Mosquito brings virus to Texas

COLLEGE STATION — A species of mosquito, the Aedes aegypti, will be a double threat this spring and summer, warns an entomologist at Texas A&M University.

This mosquito, also known as the yellow fever mosquito, carries a virus called dengue (dang-ee) that causes extreme pain in the joints of the bitten victim.

Because of its closeness to Mexico where the disease is known to be present, Texas, particularly the coastal regions from Houston to Brownsville, could be inundated by the virus as early as this spring.

"We're fertile ground to both yellow fever and dengue outbreaks in Texas because of the mild winter and the build-up of this species of mosquito in Texas," said Dr. Jim Olson, Texas A&M professor of entomology.

Olson said there is currently no vaccine for the dengue virus. Treatment is only symptomatic, which means reducing the pain and intravenous feeding.

Tractor Fuel Efficiency

To get the most fuel efficiency from a tractor, tune it up, don't run it too cool, and don't use a tractor that's too big for the job, says Neil Tibbets, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

A tractor engine that's operating poorly may be wasting up to 30 percent of its fuel. That means a 180-horsepower diesel tractor could be sending $20 to $30 up the exhaust stack in a 10-hour day.

Most fuel waste originates in ignition system of gasoline tractors and in fuel systems of diesel tractors.

Dirty air filters, bad carburetion, incorrect timing and worn spark plugs are other fuel guzzlers, says Tibbets. On diesel engine tractors, worn fuel injectors can cause unnoticed losses of fuel efficiency.

Check fuel filters and replace them regularly, at least as often as the operator's manual suggest, and maybe more often under difficult conditions, advises Tibbets. If fuel filters are doing the job they are designed to do, they will eventually plug up or start passing sediment into the fuel. That could mean costly repair bills as well as lost fuel efficiency.

What about running a tractor too cool? Most tractor operators concern themselves with engine temperature only when the water temperature gauge is on the hot side. But a tractor engine will wear out faster, develop less horsepower, and use more fuel when it runs too cold.

Today's tractor engines work most efficiently when the water temperature is somewhere between 165 and 180 degrees, says Tibbets. So, a faulty thermostat that allows the tractor to run too cool is almost as bad as one that causes the engine to overheat.

Another minor tuneup item to check regularly is the fuel tank cap. It should be sealed tightly to keep out dirt, but at the same time be properly vented to allow fuel to flow freely.

Regarding spark plugs, Tibbets suggests checking them on a regular basis, even if you don't think they need it.

You can't always tell by looking at a spark plug when it's going bad. The time-proven test of firing a spark plug outside the cylinder doesn't tell the whole story.

How do you select the right tractor for the job? If you select one that's too big, you're simply burning excess fuel to produce unused power. You may be wasting nearly a third of the fuel you're buying.

Most engineers say the best way to drive a big tractor pulling a light load is to "shift up and throttle down." This maintains ground speed while keeping the engine working efficiently, explains Tibbets.

Slippage also wastes fuel, but you have to have a certain amount. On most soils with most tractors, optimum slippage is about 15 percent. Less means you're pulling too light a load. More means horsepower is probably being wasted.

Garden Center Bulletin

Please refer to our article in last week's paper to choose the lawn grass best for your yard. The following methods of starting a new lawn will apply to any grass you have selected.

It is best, but not necessary, to spray to kill all vegetation then till the ground thoroughly, working in any manure, compost or other organic matter. Allow to set several days to kill the vegetation. Watering will encourage any weed seeds to sprout, which can be tilled to kill in about 10-14 days. Fertilizer can be added at this time. Now rake level, sow seed and pack, or lay sod and pack. Water lightly 1 or 2 times daily until seed sprouts or sod takes root. Then water every 3-4 days until lawn is well established. Fertilize when new grass needs to be mowed the second time.

Stop by the GARDEN CENTER for your seed, sod, fertilizer needs, plus sprinklers, hoses and tools.

Housing costs continue to rise

COLLEGE STATION — Prices statewide for new and previously owned homes continue to rise, according to data compiled by Dr. Arthur Wright, research economist with the Texas Real Estate Research Center at Texas A&M University.

According to Wright, the average price of a previously owned home was $56,485 for the third quarter of 1979, a 17 percent increase over the average price a year ago.

The number of sales rose nearly 11 percent from second quarter sales, despite the tight money situation.

ANGEL OF A CAKE

1 1/4 C. cake flour, sifted
1/2 C. sugar
1 1/4 C. egg whites (9-10 eggs)
1/4 tsp. salt
1 1/4 tsp. cream of tartar
1 1/3 C. sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1/4 tsp. almond extract
Chocolate-Peanut Filling (below)

Chocolate-Peanut Filling

8 oz. cream cheese
4 C. powdered sugar
2 T. milk
1 tsp. vanilla
2 sq. unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 C. roasted peanuts, crushed

In electric mixer, soften cream cheese. Gradually add sugar, milk, vanilla and chocolate. Fold in peanuts. Spread between completely-cooled cake layers.

In a large bowl, sift together cake flour and 1/2 cup sugar 4 times. Set aside. In another bowl, combine egg whites, salt and cream of tartar. Beat together until soft peaks form. The eggs should be stiff, but not dry. Add sugar in 4 parts, beating after each addition. To egg mixture, fold in vanilla and almond extract. Sift in flour mixture in 4 additions, beating 20 strokes after each addition. Bake in preheated oven at 375 degrees F. for 35-40 minutes. (Place cake on bottom rack in the oven.) Remove cooked cake and invert angel food cake pan until cake is cool. When very cool, use an electric knife or very sharp bread knife to slice cake twice horizontally to make three equal layers. (When slicing, toothpicks and a ruler help to mark equal layers.) Place filling between each layer.

This Angel of a Cake, with its rich filling combination of chocolate and peanuts, makes an elegant and delicious dessert, notes the Texas Department of Agriculture home economist.

Putting The Heat On Arson

What's being done to prevent arson?

A lot, according to Ralph Jackson, Allstate Insurance Company's loss prevention manager and a past chairman of the Illinois Advisory Committee on Arson.

Federal agencies, including the FBI, Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Department, Internal Revenue Service; and Post Office have started training personnel in handling arson cases. They're giving arson higher priority than in the past.

Alongside the government, the insurance industry, through its new Insurance Committee for Arson Control, is developing programs to make it harder to profit from deliberately set fires. The industry is making information available to authorized investigators more quickly to improve chances for arrest and conviction of arsonists and arson conspirators.

"Government and insurance industry action can reverse arson losses," Jackson says, "but no program will have lasting effect without the strong support of individual citizens and neighborhood groups."

Jackson says no one has better reason to care about arson or is in a better position to take effective action than people who live in arson-vulnerable neighborhoods.

"Forming neighborhood watch programs, coming forward as witnesses and strongly supporting official and industry anti-arson programs are ways individuals can strike back at people who would ruin communities and threaten lives," he says.

"Insurance companies need access to official information to help determine if a policyholder with an incendiary fire is a perpetrator or a victim," Jackson adds. "When the policyholder is the victim, it's the company's obligation to settle the claim as quickly as possible."

Jackson says only 15 states now have laws specifically permitting official investigators to give insurance companies information about arson investigations in process. A 1980 priority, according to Jackson, should be the improvement of information-sharing legislation in the other 35 states.

Homeowners need to be aware of how expensive arson is, Jackson claims. According to a study of the Ohio Insurance Institute, one out of every three dollars paid for home fire insurance goes to pay the cost of arson and related frauds.

"It will cost money to start and maintain an arson prevention program," Jackson says, "but when you've got a prevention program you've also got safer neighborhoods and safer lives. There's also a good chance to save money with an effective program."

Without an effective arson prevention program, the cost of arson goes up as more people decide it's an easy crime to get away with. Communities that don't want to spend effort and money on arson prevention will still spend that money in the long run for higher taxes and insurance premiums when it's necessary to clean up the mess arsonists leave behind.

On a kindergarten teacher's memo pad: "Think Small."

YOU CAN BANK ON IT!

Conserving energy and saving money are two worthy aspirations that can sometimes be attained more easily than most people imagine. Case in point... shopping at home. Not in your home, but here in your hometown. Take a minute right now and figure what you may have wasted by buying things out of town that you could have found right here. You probably wasted... time, gasoline and money.

We all have a right to be proud of the development of our local business community. All the necessities and most luxuries we could ever need or want are available right here. Hometown service has always been the best. Being able to have faith in the people you do business with has steadfastly been the best warranty anyone could have.

It makes more sense (or cents) than ever, to buy at home. It's one simple solution to saving money and conserving energy. You Can BANK On It!

Congressional Comment

SEVERAL CHANGES in the banking industry, more formerly known as the Depository Institution Deregulation Act, were passed by the House of Representatives.

I voted for this legislation even though I had reservations about some specific parts of this complex bill. The bill establishes a board to remove the ceiling on and eventually deregulate interest rates, thus allowing the free market to set a fair rate. It also directs the board to phase out Regulation Q, which allows federal control over interest rates on deposits at banks and savings and loans. This phasing out will have a particular impact on heavy users of credit, such as the housing industry.

Many changes in the Federal Reserve System (Fed) are also included in the bill. It spreads the reserve requirements more evenly through all institutions and allows all services of the Fed to be available to all institutions at a market price instead of exclusively to members. While spreading the reserve requirements, it gives the Fed a better picture of the financial reserves of our country, a tool that is needed to shape monetary policy in the future.

A preemption of state usury laws is also included in the language of the conference report. This section corrects an inequity that existed between the state and national banks. The inequity gave a competitive edge to the national banks, particularly in regard to local borrowers. Also in the bill is a provision that raises the level of FDIC and FSLIC coverage from $40,000 to $100,000. It contains, as well, simplification of the regulations involved in truth in lending requirements to cut paperwork for both the creditor and the customer.

Savings and loans and credit union are now allowed to offer the equivalent of interest-bearing checking accounts (NOW accounts) and other services previously available only to banks. I feel this will result in a more competitive atmosphere in our financial community, provided that the problem of the differential in allowed interest is addressed properly.

With passage of this legislation, the day is fast approaching when all financial institutions will be regulated by the same rules. I now feel that this is inevitable.

A PUBLIC hearing on legislation designed to develop an improved program for reducing predator damage to livestock has been scheduled in Washington on April 16.

The hearing, set in Room 1302, Longworth House Office Building, will consider a bill (H.R. 6725) that I am cosponsoring which would require the Agriculture and Interior Departments to "jointly develop and carry out a balanced animal damage control program that effectively utilizes both lethal and non-lethal control measures."

Anyone wishing to present testimony at the hearing should contact Ms. Chris Abram at 202-225-2171.

make sure that it will not include people who are friendly to the company. Certainly Nader would prefer it that way. He seems to think that the all-wise opinions of himself and his associates override the rights of stockholders.

If congress should buckle under to this wild scheme we can be sure that big trouble will follow. The Corporate Democracy Act, by attempting to dictate social goals for corporate management, will weaken or destroy the incentive which has produced our material wealth. When the crowd of Nader crackpots gets organized in its campaign of vindictiveness and snooperism, corporate decline is sure to follow and it will be only a matter of time until free enterprise will have to give up the struggle. Then all business will be reduced to the standards of efficiency and honesty that is now exercised by government.

Much of our nation is being encouraged nowadays by reports that conservatism is growing, and it is possible that the Naderites are planning this spectacular to reverse the trend. However, while old standards are gaining in matters of morality, politics and justice, it appears that left wing propaganda still has lots of influence on economic thinking. Too many people still believe that free enterprise and the profit system are bad.

These doubting Thomases need to listen to men like Richard Lesh, president of the US Chamber of Commerce. He says that "Ralph and his gang will shriek to any camera in sight that big business monopolizes markets, exploits workers, gobbles up profits, pollutes the atmosphere and poisons the political process. Anyone honestly willing to look beyond this dreary litany might want to consider a few facts:

"As a percentage of total national income corporate profits have actually declined from 12 to 9 percent since 1963. In contrast the earnings of employees increased from 69 to 73 percent of the national income during the same period. What's more, the biggest stockholders in America are pension funds, mutual funds, insurance companies and trust funds who invest the direct and indirect earnings of working people.

"Workers justifiably complain that their higher take-home pay buys less. They should also understand that during the last 10 years federal taxes have increased 61 per cent faster than prices, 67 per cent faster than wages, and 154 per cent faster than profits. Look who's been taking money from whom!

"Far from destroying the environment, business spent $124 billion between 1970 and 77 to protect and purify our air and water, by far the greatest commitment of any country in the world.

New Varieties of German Baked Goods Added at Bayer's

Just in time for Germanfest, Bayer's Kolonialwaren Bakerie expands its operation to include products that fit into old German tradition. New items introduced this week are pumpernickel, rye bread, "apfelstrudel" and Danish pastries.

These products join a selection of donuts, fritters, eclairs, creme puffs, etc., that were introduced when the bakery department of Bayer's store was opened almost two months ago.
