The bi-lingual notice of election published last week and this week in The Enterprise is a horrible example of the absurdity that results when politicians go to extremes in defending the rights of minorities. The Spanish version of the notice, as required by law, represents a 100 percent mandatory waste of time and money by the city.

Our guess is that hardly a dozen people of this area were able to read the Spanish message, and fewer actually read it. Those who read the notice most likely chose the English because they can read it equally well or better. Furthermore, it's doubtful if a single person of the city needed the Spanish version to get the message. So, how can the expenditure be justified? How can it be justified in hundreds of other elections when it is not needed to convey the message?

A reasonable policy, it seems, would be to use the two languages only if local authorities determined that a certain percentage is unable to read the English. Their decision should not be based on how many can read or prefer to read the foreign language. In all of these rulings about honoring the rights of minorities there ought to be some understanding about minority obligations to cooperate with the states. We taxpayers have plenty of expense as it is. In fairness we should not be required to pay for pampering uninvited aliens who chose to move in on us.

In fact, it seems reasonable to go all the way with this principle and discontinue the bi-lingual notices completely. "when in Rome, do like the Romans do." When these people come to America they should expect to live like Americans. As regards communication this necessarily assumes that they should learn our language. If they expect to participate in our political, economic or social activities it should be by the use of our language, not theirs. And if they will not meet this condition for belonging they do not deserve to belong.

Another objection to this regulation favoring the Spanish is its partiality. America has many more ethnic groups that are equally entitled to similar rights of their native language. If this is a matter of human rights the official notices ought to be published also in their languages. Imagine what would happen in the large cities if a separate publication were required for each ethnic group. Just a little thinking on the subject leads to a clear conclusion. No language, including Spanish, has a right to be used with English in official notices.

A related absurdity is the so-called bi-lingual education which teaches the Mexican kids in their native language rather than English. Presumably they learn both languages, but the fact is that they graduate still knowing Spanish much better, and our officials compensate by printing official notices in their preferred language.

No doubt it's a convenience to many of the Mexican children to attend all classes in their native language, but our education department ought to know that this does not train them to get along in adult American life. It's not fair to them to leave them unable to communicate.

The proper purpose of bi-lingual education is to teach the English language. Understandably those kids would be lost if taught a subject in a strange tongue. But bi-lingual should be only the beginning of their education. It should introduce them to the vernacular and the basics of other subjects until in time continued on page 12...

Knabe Child Needs Blood Donations

Ronnie Knabe, the ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Knabe, is critically ill in W.I. Cooks Hospital in Fort Worth. He is in immediate need of Type O Negative blood.

During his prolonged illness, relatives have supplied needed blood; however in his present hospitalization his condition is requiring many more donors.

Appeals at Sunday church services have resulted in "a tremendous response by the community to the needs of a little boy," according to Ronnie's grandmother, Mrs. Gene Hoedebeck, who said that donors will be needed for at least three more weeks.

Persons wishing to give blood are invited to notify the Gene Hoedebeck family, 759-2716 or the Jaycees, or Ronnie's parents. His mother remains at his bedside.

Potential donors will need to make two trips to Carter Blood Bank, first to be tested and later, if compatible with Ronnie's type, will be notified of the date and time assigned.

Cards to cheer him may be sent to Ronnie Knabe, Room 234, W.I. Cooks Hospital, 1212 West Lancaster, Fort Worth, Texas.

Tough Decision Faces Voters

The day of decision is rushing up fast for Muenster voters. On August 16, next week Saturday, they will decide for or against a bond issue to finance construction of a lake with treatment plant, pumps and transmission line to provide water for the city.

The issue is hard to decide. On one side is the possibility of failure of our present underground water supply and the need to turn to another source.

But there's also a possibility that the lake would be undependable. This is the problem currently faced by a number of Texas cities as remaining use of their lakes is estimated at a few weeks... a problem also apparent in many detention reservoirs of this area. It's frustrating to think of investing $1.78 million and still wonder whether the effort will be nullified by another season of heat and drought.

Another discouraging thought is the possibility of making the big investment and then discover that the city water wells continue to hold out satisfactorily. Lots of people have confidence in the Trinity formation, believing it will be adequate long into the future if the city will drill more wells and locate them southeast of existing wells. The direction is recommended because the present best well is that direction from present depleting wells.

This proposal, however, leads to another side of the issue. Well service logs show that the water level has dropped an average of three feet a year for many years, and the question is how much farther down the level can go before the pumps break suction or pump sand. Local opinion is that the formation will give out eventually, but when? Some people believe also that the date is being hastened by installation of scores of wells in big cities as far as 60 to 80 miles east and south of here. They are big wells, vastly increasing the demand for the formation.

A significant fact is that those wells are several hundred feet lower than Muenster's and are drawing their water from the bottom of the Trinity sand. The declining water level supports a belief that wells will eventually go dry, and the high level of the local source, pictured as the top of a vast underground container, will be among the first to run out of water.

Obviously there's merit on both sides of the issue and neither can be regarded as a sure thing. So we have to look for a way that applies to our indefinite situation.

The best hope is for a long continuation of our present system, the prime benefit being continuation of the city's extra good water, and another benefit being reduced expense. Following that course the city would need more wells and pump and pipe, but at much lower cost than the proposed lake project.

However the wells are definitely doubtful. If the city banks on them it faces the possibility of serious trouble in case of water failure. Piping water from Gainesville or Lake Aubrey is not assured and expensive besides. About the best solution would be to start several years late on the project which is being considered now... provided that opportunity is still available.

Before taking that solution we need to recall the water board's trouble in getting its present permit, the second it has held since starting the project. Next time it may not be able to overcome the objection of Dallas, which has long time rights over the entire Upper Trinity watershed.

Problem Number 2 is probable failure to renew the cost sharing deal with Soil Conservation Service in consideration of flood control and recreation features. Without that financial help Muenster's cost would increase enormously. The price is already a big consideration. Without SCS assistance it might become prohibitive. Inflation is still another problem. It's certain that prices will keep going up and every delay will increase them.

All of this combines into a difficult situation. Though we are not sure that we need the lake we can't afford to vote it down because of what can happen if we guess wrong.

It's beginning to appear that this is a sort of insurance policy, something that will be very valuable if needed but hopefully something used for flood control and recreation while we go on drinking our very good well water. After all, the cost when counted as insurance isn't really out of line. With 595 meters in town and annual payments of $138,000 the average figures to about $233 a year, which is somewhat less than car insurance.

Assuming that the Muenster people vote for the bond, their annual debt retirement cost on a 40 year pay schedule is expected to be $138,000 about half of which is to be paid by tax and the remainder by water sales revenue.

Considering the total valuation of $17 million, the tax half can be raised with a rate of 40 cents per $100 of valuation. Proposed water Continued on Page 3

Open Meeting Called

Monday on Lake Project

A meeting for final briefing on Muenster's lake project will be held in the council chamber of the city hall next Monday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Anyone wishing to know more about the city's expected water shortage and the physical and financial details about the lake, which is proposed as the assurance of a future water supply, is invited to attend.

Present to explain the project and to answer questions will be Don Fleming, city engineer and Dan Allmon, financial counsel along with the Muenster Water Board and the Muenster City Council.

Probe Ordered On Local Sonic Booms

As some area residents may have noticed, there has been an abundance of sonic booms recently that have been rattling everything from our windows to our ears. But after an investigation to be conducted here late next week, there may be an end to these noises.

The investigation will be conducted by three officials from Sheppard Air Force Base including a pilot, a civil engineer, and a sound expert.

The investigation is the result of a letter writing campaign started by Roger Taylor in which he has complained to Carswell Air Force Base officials about the sonic booms.

The Sheppard AFB officials hope to identify the planes causing the undesirable noises and possibly put a stop to them.

Taylor said the officials would be glad to listen to and investigate other complaints, so anyone interested in joining in should contact Roger Taylor before the investigation begins late next week.

100 Degree Streak Ends at 42 Days

The end has finally arrived in that long string of successive days of temperature over 100 degrees. The date was last Monday, Aug. 4, and the reading was 96 degrees, halting the hot streak record at 42 days. The previous local record for continuous days over 100 was 22, in 1978.

However another heat record has been set and continues to be set daily. The total days of 100 or over in the season has reached 47, topping the previous record of 44 in 1978. At the same time weather reporters predict that more is on the way.

Meanwhile the drought continues. The past week was bone dry and the total to date remains at 9.63 inch.

Low and high temperatures of the week were recorded as follows by Steve Moster. July 31, 76 and 107; Aug. 1, 76 and 106; Aug. 2, 74 and 105; Aug. 3, 80 and 100; Aug. 4, 81 and 96; Aug. 5, 80 and 102; Aug. 6, 78 and 100.

KoC Swim Party

The Muenster K of C Council will host wives and children of the members plus Sacred Heart altar boys at a swimming party in the Muenster pool on Wednesday, August 20. Eats and cold drinks are included in the treat. During the party officers will have time out for their regular monthly meeting.

Texas crops are no match for the relentless dry heat wave which continues to have most of the state in its grip. Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports that the current estimate of more than $1 billion in losses of dryland crops and rangeland may soon double without rain and a return to normal temperatures.

Physicals Booked Wednesday for 3 Football Teams

Physical examinations for the football players of Muenster, Sacred Heart and Saint Jo high schools will be given next Wednesday, August 13, at 7 a.m. in the MHS gym. Staff doctors of Muenster Memorial Hospital will examine.

The three teams will start practice Monday, as scheduled by UIL regulations, and spend four days at conditioning in shorts before their first contact practice on Friday. First scrimmages are on Friday, the 22nd.

2 Youths Die in Crashes

A two vehicle accident on Highway 82 near Saint Jo Saturday night was fatal to Kevin Ray Matlock, 21, of Richardson, formerly of Bowie. The young man, leaving the Saint Jo Rodeo was struck broadside by a semi-trailer as he pulled on to the highway. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Muenster Hospital.

Russell Reid, 22, of Bowie was a passenger in the car. He was listed in good condition in Muenster Hospital.

Another weekend traffic victim was Joseph Brian Dotson, 18, a 1980 graduate of Era High School. He died Sunday at 3:20 a.m. on FM 8380 near Dexter when the 1978 Chevrolet pickup in which he was a passenger, failed to make a curve and flipped over into a ditch. The driver, Johnny McClinton, was not hurt. Both of the young men were from Gainesville.

Dotson was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Dotson of De Kalb. While at Era he was a member of the football team and went to state as a member of the track team. He was an employee of Tyler and Simpson Company. Funeral service was held

Tax on City Property Valuations Increased 19 Percent

The Muenster City Council, in regular session Monday night set this year's tax rate at 50 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. Based on its total valuation of $17 million, and estimating the collections at the usual 98 percent, the total ad valorem revenue is expected to be near $83,300.

The new rate is a decrease of 20 cents per $100 valuation from last year's 70 cent rate, however the current valuations are 67 percent higher than last year. The valuation change was made recently by the county commissioners to comply with a new state law requiring uniform valuations by all of the county's taxing units.

In actual amount paid the new tax compares as follows with last year's. On $6000 valuations, last year's tax at 70 cents amounted to $42. This year, after the 67% increase the same property is valued at $10,000 and the tax on it, at the 50 cent rate, amounts to $50, a 19% increase.

Determining the tax rate was preceded by an equalization hearing at which people were invited to voice objection to their

Tuesday at 2 p.m. at Vernie Keel Funeral Home and burial was in Rest Haven Memorial Park.

329 Children Complete Vacation Bible Classes

Attendance each day at this year's Vacation Bible School sponsored by the First Baptist Church, was approximately 70 children who came from a wide area. Sponsors have expressed admiration for the teachers and helpers who taught Bible stories, songs and crafts.

Classes held in the First Baptist Church each day began with a joint session of all levels, with songs and pledges, followed by a short character lesson taught by the pastor, Rev. Keith Thomas. Bible stories and crafts completed the day for individual classes. Included in daily activities was an offering given to Missions.

The Vacation Bible School staff included Jo Carol Stinson, Carolyn Patterson, Lisa Partain, Joy Pittman, Vicki Boaz Earline Tisdale, Sherri Robison and Rita Russell.

Their helpers were Paula Russell, Tina Tisdale, Cindy Tisdale, Kim Eldred and Stephanie Richey.

Fifty teachers, classroom helpers, refreshment helpers, nursery workers, babysitters and committee chairmen cooperated in the success of the first Vacation Bible School sponsored by Sacred Heart Parish. Mrs. Sam Endres was coordinating chairman.

Two hundred fifty nine were enrolled. Theme of the week's activity was "Jesus, I Believe In You." Miracles of Jesus were emphasized.

Classes were held in the grade school and were preceded each day by opening services in church with an entrance procession, songs, pledges, and Scripture Reading. The American Flag, the Christian Flag and the Bible were carried daily in the entrance procession.

The special Mission project was devoted to the Mother of Mercy Parish in Fort Worth, to which the children contributed $241 and brought clothes, toys, food and school supplies for needy families.

An impressive closing liturgy was planned by the coordinating committee, for Friday at an 11 a.m. Mass. The entrance procession included one child from each class, an altar boy from each class, an Offertory song: "Jesus Loves Me" by the 4 and 5 year olds.

Also a Communion song by the Kindergarten: "Jesus Loves Little Children." The Homily included a puppet show by 5th and 6th grade girls on "The Transfiguration of Jesus." Father Denis Soerries was celebrant and presented certificates of appreciation to teachers and helpers.

IMPORTANCE OF PRIVATE PROPERTY

There is a struggle going on in the world today, as there has been of and on for thousands of years, between the forces of freedom and the forces of regimentation. However, most people don't see it that way. Most people see this as a struggle between the "have nots" and the "haves," or between the affluent and the poor, or between the owners, businessmen, and the workers. What is really involved is distribution of the results of production, trying to decide who is going to get how much of what. There are many different ways to answer that question, only one of which is compatible with individual freedom. That way is the free or private enterprise way.

Those of us who have been privileged to live in this great land have been blessed with a way of life and a standard of living never equaled anywhere else in the world at any time. This was no accident; it was a natural consequence of the system of economic organization which was chosen by our people. If we like what we have, it is imperative we understand what makes it all possible. Otherwise, it is entirely possible we could "kill the goose that laid the golden egg."

When this nation was created the three rights of greatest concern to our nation's Founders were the rights to life, liberty and property. The importance of property rights was clearly recognized and protected by the Constitution and subsequent laws.

Why is it so important that property be held in private hands, rather than in collective or government possession?

The instinct to acquire property is inherent in human nature. Unless man feels secure in the possession and disposition of whatever he creates there is no reason for him to do so. All economic progress starts with the recognition that what one creates belongs to him and should not be taken from him. Once this principle is firmly established in society, then man will save, the necessary first step toward increasing the capital — the tools needed to increase production to provide for better living for everyone.

Threats to private property come from many sources. Some property in foreign countries is confiscated from American investors, often without compensation. In our own country confiscatory rates of taxation are a violation of the rights to property. This is especially true in the case of estate taxes.

Inflation, which erodes the value of savings, bonds, annuities and similar thrift instruments, is certainly an erosion of private property. During inflationary times people shun saving, fearing further erosion of the value of their money. Capital accumulation suffers. There is less for business expansion and fewer jobs are created.

There is a tremendous drive in people to produce when they know they will receive the fruits of their labor. Even the Communists have been forced to budge a little in recognition of this trait in human nature. It is vital that we recognize the importance of private ownership and control of property. The vitality of our economic system, and consequently, the standard of living we enjoy, depend on it.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS
By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas Democrats backing Mass. Sen. Edward Kennedy in the presidential sweepstakes are pressing this state's delegation to opt for an open convention in New York next week.

Kennedy forces around the nation are posting that President Jimmy Carter's low standing in the polls warrants a change in convention rules. Carter cannot win, they argue, and the Democrats should now release all delegates pledged to any particular candidate so that the party may easier nominate a winner against GOP nominee Ronald Reagan.

Carter has more than enough first ballot pledges to sew up the nomination, if the conventioners stick to those pledges.

Pro-Carter state party leaders are working to squelch the open convention movement which would give Kennedy a new shot at the nomination. Indications are that Carter will keep his pledges, and that even if the convention was "opened," he would still win the party's nod.

In this state, the struggle pits such party leaders as Texas Democratic Party Chairman Billy Goldberg, a Carter supporter, against National Democratic Committeewomen Billie Carr, a Houston liberal backing Kennedy. Carr says she has been told by several Carter pledges that they would switch to Kennedy if rules allowed.

A Code Word

A change in the rules at this late date "sounds good but an open convention is a code word for subverting the decision of 20 million

Democrats who voted in the primaries and precinct conventions," Goldberg said.

Much of the new in fighting is regarded as just a rule or ruin fight by Kennedy, who was thoroughly trounced by Carter in the primaries, despite record inflation and home mortgage rates at that time caused by deregulation of certain sectors of the economy. If such is the case, Kennedy, who has effectively knocked off the rust from his national political machine, may be making bitter enemies who will keep him from the nomination '84.

Brother Trouble

The Democrats are looking bad and they know it. Carter is troubled by low poll ratings and scandal involving his brother Billy's role as a Libyan agent. While the Republicans work in unison and watch with glee, the Democrats know they must begin on Convention Day One to make intraparty peace and start catching up. The 1980 presidential election may well be won or lost on the first day of the convention.

State Property Taxes

One group of politicians breathing sighs of relief are Texas legislators who voted for tax relief measures last session. Now is the season for local governments—cities, counties, school boards, etc.—to prepare budgets for the coming fiscal year. Word coming in from around the state is that inflation and other factors are prompting many local officials to seek large property tax increases. State legislators, who were secretly saying all along that the Proposition 13 tax revolt should have been aimed at local and federal officials, are glad that the heat is off their backs: the Legislature effectively wiped out state property taxes last session.

Nothing stays the same in politics and their relief may be short-lived. Seeking tax revenues, Texas cities may make a raid on the sales tax and seek increases there. And the Legislature, which may be forced next session to raise presently low state taxes, had hoped to keep the sales tax hike option for itself.

AG Opinions

In a legal opinion issued last week Texas Atty. Gen. Mark White ruled Comptroller Bob Bullock may not deposit his employees' salaries directly into banks unless he sends a separate pay warrant for each employee to the bank. Bullock had wanted to save money, time and effort by sending a lump sum to the banks of his employees, but White ruled it must be sent by individual paychecks.

White also ruled the Texas Municipal Power Agency is not a public utility as defined in the Public Utility Regulatory Act.

GOVERNOR'S REPORT
by William F. Clements Jr.

Much has been written about the initiative and referendum proposal I will submit to the Legislature in 1981. Unfortunately, a great deal of misunderstanding remains—some of it, I fear, due to deliberate efforts of opponents to confuse the issue.

Here is a kind of primer on the subject, which, I hope, may serve to clear some of the cobwebs:

Initiative is the power of people to enact laws independently of a legislative body. Referendum is the power of the people to repeal an unwanted law.

Twenty-three states already have some form of initiative and/or referendum. No state that ever has adopted initiative and referendum has repealed those powers.

Polls have indicated that some 70 per cent of Texans favor initiative and referendum. Eighty seven per cent of Texas Republicans who participated in a May 3 party primary referendum indicated they want authority to initiate and repeal legislation via petition and the ballot.

A constitutional amendment would be required to give Texans that power.

Regardless of some concern, there has been no pell-mell rush to pass new laws or repeal old ones in the I & R states. Use has been restrained.

I feel it is important, however, that voters be given the powers of initiative and referendum for use in those situations where the legislative process refuses to respond to the clear will of the majority. Particularly in the area of taxation and spending, citizens should have emergency clout to deal with an unyielding bureaucracy.

I propose a procedure by which at least 10 per cent of those voting in the last gubernatorial election have to sign a petition to get a recommended law on the ballot. The petition requirement for a constitutional amendment election should be a minimum of 15 per cent.

To prevent concentration of petition powers in the major cities, signatures should have to come from 75 per cent of the 254 counties. And the Legislature, then, should have authority to approve the petition as submitted or to offer voters an alternative version. Where an alternative is submitted, voters should have a choice at the statewide election between the original and the legislative option.

The U. S. Supreme Court has held that I & R constitutes no violation of the Republican representative form of government.

Legislatures still account for 99.5 per cent of all laws passed in the 23 states which have I & R.

Opponents claim bad legislation, too many issues for the ballot, emotional issues and ill-conceived laws are spawned by I & R.

The truth of the matter is that in the 23 states using I & R, only 20 per cent of the issues submitted for initiative action get enough approving signatures to get on the ballot, and two-thirds of those which make it to election are defeated. Obviously, no legislation which violates the state or federal constitution or federal law can be adopted by either initiative or legislative routes.

No radical initiative legislation has been approved in the I & R states, regardless of opposition charges. Many of the arguments used by opponents have been raised throughout history against other expanded efforts of people to control governments.

During framing of the U.S. constitution, James Madison argued tyranny would result if citizens were in control of government. Thomas Jefferson countered that the real tyranny lay in centralized government. A compromise was reached, but the election of U.S. senators by direct vote was not permitted for many years. Not until 1920 did women get voting rights.

The Texas Constitution states: "All political power is inherent in the people, and all free governments are founded on their authority and instituted for their benefit." Initiative and referendum will help keep that principle alive.

CAPITOL UPDATE

John Tower
U.S. SENATOR for TEXAS
142 RUSSELL OFFICE BUILDING
WASHINGTON, D.C. 20510

One of the bureaucracy's favorite ways of extending its control beyond the level intended by Congress is broadening definitions of areas to be regulated. "Navigable waters" is a classic example. Congress -- quite logically and reasonably -- claimed for the federal government the power to assert regulatory control over navigable waters that could be used in interstate commerce. But that reasonable intent has been grossly misinterpreted as the term "navigable waters" has been stretched to cover all "waters of the U.S."

As a result, the country is faced with a growing regulatory scheme covering not just the wetlands of the nation, but virtually all surface waters. Prolonged delays and piles of red tape have thwarted local jurisdictions in their efforts to undertake flood control projects and other improvement projects. More shocking has been the use of that loose definition to deny landowners the right to discharge material on their property. Efforts to restore common sense to the situation by working with the regulatory agencies involved -- the Corps of Engineers, the Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service -- have been fruitless.

In both 1975 and 1977, legislative efforts to scale down the definition of navigable waters to only those waters which fit the traditional and reasonable meaning of the term came close, but failed. But this year, we must try again, and I have introduced a bill to do that.

If anything, the problems caused by this bureaucratic over-regulation have become more serious in the last four years, and there is potential for even greater damage. The Environmental Protection Agency is studying pond farms, or playa lakes, on private lands. These ponds, used primarily for secondary irrigation and livestock water may be interpreted to be "waters of the U.S.," and thereby considered to be "wetland." If the potential for trouble weren't so real it would be ludicrous to contemplate "wetlands" in an area that is fortunate if it receives 15 inches of rain a year. If this determination is made, however, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service could assert jurisdiction over farm ponds in the interest of protecting migrant waterfowl.

Somewhere, we must draw the line against bureaucratic demigods who would become a government unto themselves. At the rate the regulatory cookie monster is going, soon it will require a permit to drain a swimming pool.

Water problems in Texas are serious. Floods threaten livelihoods and homes in many areas. Still other sections of the state face water shortages that threaten the vital food and fiber industry that is such an important segment of both state and national economies. Just recently, I met with West Texas leaders searching for solutions to immediate and longterm water shortages. I was impressed with the dedication and innovative thinking of these individuals.

But if they are to be successful in this effort, we must not tie their hands. They already must cope with the whims of nature. We must not add the whims of government to their problems.

And in a larger sense, taking this stand would send a message to bureaucrats throughout the government. Sooner or later, Congress is going to have to reassert its authority to govern as the elected servant of the people. If we don't, we will lose control of our fates, leaving the power to govern to unelected civil servants. I can't think of a better place to start than here.

It's that time of year. High temperatures... higher electric bills.

It happens every summer ... and in June of this year most parts of Texas began having record-breaking high temperatures. This means air conditioning equipment works harder and electric bills go up. Most central air conditioning systems were designed to reduce inside temperature about 25 degrees below outside temperature ... if it's 100 outside, the system must work constantly to maintain 75 degrees inside. TP&L recommends that you set your air conditioner thermostat on 78 degrees or higher and use portable fans to increase air movement. For more information about how to hold down your electric bills, call your Texas Power & Light Company office. We want to help.

Second Session of Lay Ministries Program Planned

A Diocesan Lay Ministries program, to be offered for its second time, has been announced by the Fort Worth Diocese and will begin in September in the Denton area.

Diocesan needs assessed at the Deanery level in 1976-77 called for an effort to encourage ministry among all baptized Catholics and pointed to special areas of need, including Hispanic, rural and youth ministries.

Lay commissioners elected from each deanery, with directors worked together to design an informational and apostolic program for lay people of the Diocese.

The program has appeal for anyone over the age of 18. The cost, in addition to time and effort, is $10 per unit, paid by the participant. The parish subsidizes the program with an additional $10 per participant and the Diocese subsidizes the balance.
 A Unit will be held in each deanery approximately once every two months, and for convenience, on weekends.
 The calendar for the Fall and Spring will be as follows for the North (local) Deanery.
 Unit I, Scripture, September 13 and 14, 1980.
 Unit II Church, November 1 and 2, 1980.
 Unit III Initiation Sacraments, January 17 and 18, 1981.
 Unit IV Sacraments of Healing, March 14 and 15, 1981.
 Unit V Church in the U.S., April 24, 25, and 26, 1981.
 Instructors will be Rev. Dick Weaver and Dr. Patrick Foley.
 Directors are Sister Kay Kolb SSND and Sister Pat Miller SSND of Denton and Sister Gabriela Martinez SMN of Fort Worth.
 The North deanery commissioner is Cecilia Polzner of Lewisville and Sister Romana Rohmer is the local coordinator.
 Purpose of the Lay Ministries program is a commitment to God for study and prayer, for spiritual and apostolic growth with like-minded Catholics across the Diocese.

Bud Wholesalers Join Dystrophy Fight

Gilbert Endres Distributing, Inc. of Muenster, local distributors of Anheuser-Busch beers, is joining the fight against muscular dystrophy.

During the month of August, the distributor will donate to the Muscular Dystrophy Association one penny for each case of 12 oz. Budweiser cans sold in its market, a sum which will be matched by Anheuser-Busch.

National goal for the drive, which is supported by virtually all 960 Anheuser-Busch distributors across the country, is one-half million dollars. Here in Texas, buying cases for Jerry's kids could net over $20,000, according to Gary Mockler, Texas division manager.

"We sold about 2 million cases of Budweiser in August of 1979," Mockler said, "and sales this year are up over the same period last year. Considering that Anheuser-Busch will be donating matching funds, Texans could contribute over $40,000 to the fight against one of our nation's most tragic group of diseases."
 There is no single disease called muscular dystrophy; the term designates a group of muscle-destroying disorders which vary in hereditary pattern, age of onset, initial muscles attacked and rate of progression.

 Anheuser-Busch serves as the national brewery sponsor for the 1980 Muscular Dystrophy Association fund drive and its Jerry Lewis Labor Day Weekend Telethon, now in its fifteenth consecutive year.

rates to raise the remaining amount are $10 for the first 1000 gallons, 95 cents per m for the next 9000 gallons and $1.05 per m for additional gallons. In order to keep its obligation as low as possible, the district will apply to the Farmers Home Administration and/or Texas Water Development Board for its financing.

An objection heard around town is that cabins can soon be expected around the lake monopolizing shore lines and exposing the water to septic tank pollution. Apparently that problem is already solved by the fact that no shore line property will be for sale. It will belong to the city, which will buy all land included in the lake's area at spillway level. The method applying at some lakes, where landowners grant an easement for the inundated area and retain the right to sell cabin space, will not apply here.

Extended drought: Is this really it?

Texas is in the early stages of an extended drought, says a water expert.

"Statewide droughts seem to follow a cycle of every 20 to 25 years. The last major drought in the state ended 23 years ago and the threat of inadequate rainfall looms with each passing day," said Dr. Jack Runkles, director of the Texas Water Resources Institute, at Texas A&M University.

"Another drought is not a matter of 'if' but a matter of 'when,'" he said.

The last major drought lasted from 1950 to 1957, leaving 235 of the state's 254 counties federal disaster areas.

Ruth Needham Tours Western US

Mrs. Ruth Needham of Muenster and her cousin, Mrs. Lois McMackin of Wichita Falls were members of a tour group of 22 who spent 18 days on a conducted sightseeing holiday sponsored by Traveling Texans Tours, Inc.

From a Dallas departure at Twin Sixties Inn on Sunday, June 22, the group went to Carlsbad, New Mexico for the first overnight stop and a tour of the famous caverns. In Albuquerque they visited famed Old Town. Enroute to the Grand Canyon they toured Indian Territory, Gallup New Mexico, the Painted Desert and Petrified Forest National Park.

Highlights in addition to the wonder and beauty of the Grand Canyon included Lake Mead, a tour of Hoover Dam and descent by elevator; also entertainment in Las Vegas.

After leaving Las Vegas they saw the mineral mining city of Tonopah. There was a visit in Carson City and the picturesque drive to Lake Tahoe and overnight in Reno.

Following was one of the most spectacular highlights of the trip, reaching Crater Lake, Oregon, and driving through Crater Lake National Park on the crest of the Cascade Range. The scenic wonderland revealed beauty and splendor in an awesome degree. The group remained at Crater Lake Lodge overnight and began to drive through northern California the next day, through the Redwood Forests and on to Eureka on the Pacific.

They spent the next two days in San Francisco, saw the Golden Gate Bridge, Golden Gate Park, Twin Peaks, Fisherman's Wharf and much more.

The next day they enjoyed the 17 mile Monterey Peninsula Drive and Carmel-by-the-Sea. On July 3 they visited the Hearst Castle, drove through "sprawling Los Angeles and bustling Anaheim" and on July 4 toured Universal Studios, visited Farmers Market, and spent the afternoon and evening at Disneyland.

They found the citrus orchards very impressive enroute to San Diego and enjoyed a stop at Mission San Juan Capistrano. They were taken on the San Diego Harbor Cruise and saw the Mothball Fleet, many warships, navy carriers, submarines and merchant ships.

On July 6 they drove through the Imperial Valley, then across desert lands and forests of Cacti toward Tucson, Arizona and on to Alamogordo, New Mexico and the White Sands National Monument.

The Traveling Texans tour took them to Cloudcroft, New Mexico on July 18 and on toward Artesia and into Texas through Midland and Abilene, and on to Dallas.

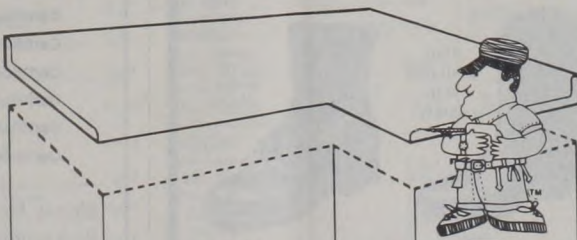

Mrs. Needham and Mrs. McMackin left the group in Odessa where they were met by Mrs. Jodie French, who was visiting her son and family, the Billy Frank Richters.

Rural Co-ops have 40th Anniversary Meeting

Texas Attorney General Mark White was keynote speaker at the 40th annual membership meeting of the Association of Texas Electric Cooperatives last week (July 30 - August 1) in Houston. And the state's rural electric leaders adopted several key resolutions while directing their attention to the meeting theme, "Power for the People: Issue of the '80s'."

Some 500 participants heard White issue a call for "energy citizenship" in which consumers cooperate and unite to deal with problems of high fuel costs and real energy shortfalls.

"There's no quick fix for our energy problems," White said, and he urged national cooperation between states as a step toward solving them. The Attorney General cited legal action his office has taken to neutralize adverse cost impact on Texans attributed to the inordinately high tax on Montana coal.

"What would other states do if Texas placed an extremely high tax on the oil and gas it produced?" White queried. "They'd say it is unfair," he answered, "but that is exactly how we're being treated when it comes to buying American coal outside our state's borders."

The Attorney General cited the meeting theme of power supply as a key issue for the nation's future. "Through both power production and conservation, we can influence our own destiny," he said.

Twenty-eight resolutions were passed by delegates, including: • Opposition to "unnecessary, duplicated electric distribution facilities" and "the efforts of municipal systems... to allow their systems to serve newly annexed areas" without demonstrating justification for such service through certification by the Public Utility Commission of Texas.

• Opposition to territorial infringement by one electric utility at the expense of another and the consumers it serves.

• Reform of government regulatory processes by "limiting the growing number of rules and regulations emanating from various regulatory agencies."

• Support for agricultural producers with a pledge of "renewed effort to continue supplying electric power at the lowest possible cost to meet the needs of food and fiber production."

• Memorial to the late J.R. Cobb, general manager of Texas Electric Cooperatives from 1958-1977, who "dedicated most of his life to the fulfillment of his deep belief in the philosophy and goals of rural electrification."

Carl Stover, the association's consulting engineer, told delegates about ramifications of a projected interstate electrical grid inertia as it involves the Electric Reliability Council of Texas. Stover and an associate, Steve Collier, described technical aspects of the system, including transmission of high-voltage, direct current, and their implications for power supply and energy cost.

Electric cooperatives in Texas represented at the meeting serve more than 700,000 consumer meters through approximately 220,000 miles of distribution and transmission line.

Gene Davenport represented Cooke County Electric Cooperative at the convention.

Caution urged in Boating, Skiing

Recreational boating and water skiing may be two of the safest summer pastimes, however, like any other sport or activity in our modern life, the degree of safety is relative to the precautions and care that are taken by its participants.

But to face the facts, there can be and have been accidents and fatalities as a direct result of water skiing. Like all accidents, be they on the job, in the home or on the water, they can be avoided by learning and respecting certain safety precautions.

The vast majority of accidents in water skiing involve the amateur or the reckless element of the sport. This includes the untrained boat driver, the poor swimmer and the unsupervised skiing activity.

The boat driver, perhaps, is the most important factor in safe water skiing. The driver must always keep in mind that he is not driving for his own pleasure but for the satisfaction and safety of the person behind the boat.

Effecting smooth speeds and takeoffs, heading in straight lines wherever possible, employing smooth turns or curves and being constantly mindful of other boats on the water are a few prerequisites of a good boat driver. The driver should never start the motor while anyone is near the stern of the boat. Even in neutral and at idling speeds, the propeller is turning fast enough to cut seriously.

Since the driver of the boat should at all times concentrate his attention on what is in front of him, there should be another passenger in the boat to serve as an observer who will keep the driver informed of the skier's progress, when he falls, etc. But if an observer is not available, a wide rearview mirror will serve the purpose also. In fact the mirror may be better since the driver may react faster to what he sees than to a relayed message from the observer.

Even with an observer and/or a mirror, there are many occasions when the driver should glance around at his skier, in fact the driver's head and eyes should be moving constantly all around the area, especially when there is heavy boat traffic.

A second important safety consideration is the location of the ski site. Many times specific areas of the lake or river lend themselves best to water sport. Swimming beaches have the right-of-way in one place, a sail boat race may be in progress in another area. Fishing areas are usually not suited for skiing at all with shallow water, reeds and sand or rock bars, so stay away from fishing areas. This is common courtesy to the fishermen as well as being common sense for the boat driver and skier.

The skiing should be done in the calmest water available, and care should be taken so as not to get into an area that is already too crowded. Getting into an area that is crowded with boats and skiers not only reduces the enjoyment but also increases the danger for everyone involved.

The boat driver is not only driving the boat, he is also performing a very important part of the skiing itself. The skier is intent on skiing, and in his position behind the boat he depends entirely upon the driver to do a good, safe and dependable job of driving for him.

Fire extinguishers, although they are not required on all boats, should still be kept around just in case. Texas law requires any boat with a permanently installed fuel tank to carry a fire extinguisher on board. All boats are required to have lights if they are operated between sunset and sunrise. The types of lights required depend on the size and class of the boat.

Emergency flotation equipment is also a very important safety consideration. Texas law requires any motorboat to carry at least one Coast Guard approved flotation device for each person on board. Each child under 12 years of age is required to wear some sort of life preserver.

Among certain common sense boating rules, it is unlawful to operate a boat within a swimming or fishing area, to anchor a boat where it would interfere with passing boats, or to operate a boat or ride water skis while under the influence of alcohol.

Violations of the above or any part of the Texas Water Safety Act are considered to be misdemeanors and are punishable by a fine not to exceed $200.

Further information concerning the Texas Water Safety Act may be obtained from: Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept. 4200 Smith School Road, Austin, Texas 78744. Phone: 512-475-4888.

all teaching can be switched to English.

Since the start of our country immigrants of many nationalities have come in. They arrived knowing as little as the wetbacks about our language. They learned on their own to become good citizens. Mexicans can and should do the same, especially with a head start from a prudent bi-lingual program.

Now we have a related issue, on educating children of illegal aliens. In a typically generous and practical spirit we're agreeing not to deprive the immigrant kids and also admitting that educating them now will probably cost less than supporting them on welfare when they become adults.

While doing our good deed however, let's not go on using bi-lingual to perpetuate the foreign tongue. Let's see that these kids can talk English when they get out of school.

City Gets $349 Rebate on Tax From Mixed Drinks

Cooke County and the cities of Muenster, Lindsay and Gainesville have received checks from the state comptroller's office for their 15 percent rebate on the tax collected on sales of mixed drinks in their respective areas during the second quarter of this year.

Muenster received $349.31 as its rebate from the total tax of $2,328.76 collected here. Lindsay received $1,236.10 for its rebate on $8,240.64, Gainesville received $793.73 for rebate on $5,291.52 total tax, and the county received $3,416.80 as rebate on a total tax of $22,778.66.

The local remittances were a part of $6.8 million to 209 counties and 360 cities for their share of gross receipts from tax on mixed drinks sold during the quarter. The Alcoholic Commission collects 10% tax on the sales and 15% of the amount collected is returned to cities and counties. The balance, amounting to $16.7 million in the past quarter, is remitted to the state's General Revenue Fund.

Total mixed drink taxes in the second quarter were $23.6 million. They were $22.1 million in the first quarter.

It Costs Less to Live in Texas

"No place but Texas!" -- it costs less to live! a family resource management specialist says.

In other states, families need $20,517 to maintain an "intermediate level" of living, but in Texas, they need less, Nancy Granovsky reports.

Mrs. Granovsky, on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, cites recent family-budget figures released by the Bureau of Labor Statistics for the "latest-Texas-brag" material.

This brag is no joke, either, she says. According to the report, Dallas families can buy that same "intermediate level" of living for $18,301, and Houston families can get it for $19,025.

These budget figures are derived from what it would cost an urban family of four -- that is, an age - 38 husband, employed full-time, a non-employed wife, a boy age 13, and a girl age 8 -- to buy specific goods and services for a whole year at autumn, 1979 prices.

Dallas and Houston are the only two areas in Texas for which specific data were collected.

There's even more "brag" to the report: Texas costs less at lower- and at higher-budget levels, too.

At the lower-budget level, families in other states would have to spend $12,585.

However, Dallas families would pay only $11,687, and Houston families would spend only $12,100 to maintain the same level of living.

On the "high side," families in other states needed $30,317 to stay in that living standard. Dallas families who wanted to live at these higher-budget levels only had to spend $27,004, and Houston families needed $27,686.

Why? Absence of a state income tax is the major reason.

But what if you aren't part of a four-member urban family?

Other report figures the same story. For example, single people (under age 35) trying to maintain an intermediate level of living in Dallas would pay $6,405. In Houston, they would pay $6,659.

However, in any other state it would cost $7,180.

FIRE RESCUE DECALS

Call Janet Fisher for orders 759-2527

38-151

Children account for over one third of the nation's fire casualties. And no wonder. In the confusion of a fire, families often become separated. All too frequently the result is a child trapped in his room, cut off from rescue. The TOT FINDER program is designed to help avert this tragedy.

How TOT FINDER works

The basis for the program is the red TOT FINDER decal. Highly visible during the day and reflective from a light source at night, the attractive decal clearly marks the location of a child's room. Should fire strike, the decal alerts firemen to clear marked areas first.

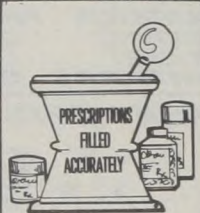

Where to place the decals

Primary locations for the weather-resistant decals are: 1) windows of children's rooms facing outside 2) at bottom of interior doors facing into hallway.

The TOT FINDER decal can also mark the rooms of invalids and other family members who require special attention.

A final word

See your local firemen. They will be happy to offer you fire safety advice. If one "Life" is saved the TOT FINDER program is a great success.
