Three advance to State... Muenster girls win Regional Meet

The Lady Hornets of Muenster earned 66 points at the Regional Track and Field Meet held at McMurray University in Abilene April 26 and 27 and brought home the team championship trophy. Two other teams, Bronte which scored 62 points and Lindsay with 56, challenged Muenster for the title through the last race.

Three girls earned the right to advance to the State Meet to be held in Austin May 10 and 11. Distance runner Tina Klement won two gold medals, one each in the 3200m run and the 1600m run. Tina ran a personal best of 5:31.00 in the 1600m and broke her own school record. She had to kick at the end to win. Her run of 12:06.00 in the 3200m run set a new regional record.

"Tina had better times, but ran good enough to win," said Coach Grady Roller. "Conditions weren't the best." Roller also credited Klement to running a very smart race, just as the coaches asked her to. "Tina got an eight second lead, held it and won by three seconds," said the coach.

Roxie Knabe also earned a trip to Austin by winning a silver medal in the shot put. Her toss of 38'6 1/2" was short of her district throw which set a new school record.

"Roxie just didn't throw good, she was very nervous," said Roller. "Her youth and first time at Regional showed. She knows she can do better at State."

Dianne Pagel finished second in the 100m hurdles with a photo finish time of 16.27. "The timers wouldn't pick the second and third place winners on the spot," commented the coach. "They looked at it downstairs." It took 15 minutes before they announced the winners. "It was just a matter of 1/2 inch to get her to Austin."

Others contributing to Muenster's championship were Amy Dankesreiter who ran a personal best third place in the 800m run with a time of 2:30.67. Dianne Pagel broke her own school record in the 300m hurdles with a time of 47.60 for a bronze medal. "She got beat by the top two hurdlers in the Class A state," said Roller.

Finishing fifth was Kim Anderle; her 5'01" high jump broke the existing school record by one inch. Hiroko Miura reduced her time in the 1600m run by 11 seconds when she ran a 5:49.00 for a fifth.

The 400m relay team of Theresa Kubis, Brandy Debnam, Amy Sturm and Amy Otto broke the school record with a fifth place time of 52.61.

Marcia Vogel, Anderle, Sturm and Otto ran a personal best time of 1:52.50 in the 800m relay for a 6th place finish.

The meet ran down to the final race, the 1600m relay. Calculations of the coaching staff showed that in order to win first place, the 1600m relay would have to place fourth or better.

The team of DaLana Walterscheid, Marcia Vogel, Tina Klement and Amy Dankesreiter knew what had to be done and ran a personal best record of 4:17.16. The girls as well as the fans were elated because this fourth place finish insured the team of the Regional Championship trophy.

The State Track and Field Meet will be held at Memorial Stadium at the University of Texas in Austin May 10-11.

The 3200m run is scheduled to begin at 6:15 p.m. Friday. Tina will run the 1600m on Saturday at 2:50 p.m.

The 100m hurdles starts at 12:40 Saturday. Roxie will also compete Saturday at 9:00 a.m.

MHS Awards Banquet to be held May 13 and 14

Muenster High School will recognize its students at two awards banquets. The Academic Banquet will be Monday, May 13 with the Athletic Awards Banquet scheduled for Tuesday, May 14. Both events will be held in the Sacred Heart Community Center and will begin at 7:00 p.m.

Tickets will be sold in the high school lobby on Monday and Tuesday, May 6 and 7 between 12:00 and 1:00 p.m. Tickets also may be obtained by calling 759-4677. Cost of one ticket is $5.00 or $8.00 for a ticket to both banquets. The meals are being catered by Rohmer's Restaurant.

If you thought no one wanted a Council job, you're wrong!

Write-ins make a race

Interest in Muenster city government may have seemed apathetic as City Council election time draws near. There were no contested positions; the mayor's seat, alderman place three and alderman place five and, to emphasize the apathy, no one was running for place three at all. That is the council seat being vacated by Willie Wimmer after eight years' service.

Now, at the last minute, three Muenster citizens have erased the apathy. Alvin Fuhrman, Mary Ann Grant and Bert Walterscheid have announced their interest in being write-in candidates for Muenster City Council, place three. Rumor that former council member Pat Dennis was also seeking the position has no basis. She said she will not accept the job at this time.

The three write-ins were interviewed and their views are presented here in alphabetical order.

When asked why he waited till the last minute, Alvin Fuhrman said that when he talked to Willie Wimmer long before the filing deadline, Wimmer indicated that he would be a candidate again. Fuhrman said he didn't consider again till after the deadline when he read that Wimmer had declined. "I'm very busy with Telephone Corp. business," Fuhrman said. "I would have liked to see another person run who could be more available, but I will do my best if the people want me on the council."

Fuhrman feels he can do a good job on the City Council with his experience as General Manager of Muenster Telephone Corporation and North Texas Communications. "People may have felt before that I would be only a single issue councilman; working for my business interests. But, now the tower and the telephone franchise are behind us and should not be a factor," he said. Fuhrman feels that the recent recommendations by the city auditor to gradually computerize City Hall was good and he has extensive experience in that area. He also hopes to work for an even

Visitors say "We'll be back next year!" 'Fest dodges storms

Germanfest 1991 has passed and by overall consensus was a success. At times on Friday and Sunday, the weather seemed threatening as Mother Nature showed her temperamental side, but nothing developed to dampen the festivities at the Germanfest.

While hail fell just north of Muenster on Friday, it missed the Muenster Park where activities went on as scheduled. Muenster was spared again Sunday when inclement weather visited the Denton and Metroplex areas, but only produced a brief shower here. The weather was thought to have played a part in smaller crowd numbers on Sunday though as many would-be visitors called to say they were being delayed by hail and rain.

"A lot of people called to say that they were turned back by weather conditions on Sunday," said Dave Flusche Sr., Germanfest general chairman. "I think that we would have set records on attendance Sunday."

Statistically, gate receipts were up 11 1/2 percent this year over last. By tallying the numbers of workers' passes, gate passes sold and gate passes to Fun Runners and Bike Rally participants, Flusche figures that 32,000 people attended the Germanfest.

"All the comments I heard have been positive," remarked Flusche. "The stands around the Texas Stage were never empty. People liked the Tanz Halle and its dance floor and the covered eating area was always full, even on Friday night."

The Chamber of Commerce booth was located in a central location under the pavilion. "More people noticed it and picked up brochures on Muenster," said Margie Starke, Chamber of Commerce secretary. She also noticed that people had fewer complaints this year.

"I heard many good comments on the Tanz Halle and the covered seating," she added. "Many people said that they enjoyed this festival more than they ever have."

Daryl Ferber was chairman for Tanz Halle entertainment. "It went over better than I had even hoped," she commented. "It was a nice crowd. There were a lot of children." Those attending enjoyed the wooden dance floor and only asked that it be bigger next year.

"I had nothing but good comments," Gary Fisher, entertainment chairman, said. "People liked the way it was arranged and the type of entertainment. The biggest surprise was 'Willie Kickit.' They just didn't realize how versatile he was."

The Muenster Jaycees were pleased with beer sales. They sold a total of 434 kegs, a 7.4 percent increase over the previous year's sales. Joe Pagel, Jaycee president, estimated that the organization netted $96,000. There were also fewer incidents and arrests, according to his observations.

Saturday's Bike Rally was the largest to date according to late registration figures, said Chairman Ben Bindel. A head count of riders showed about 3,500. It took the first finishers of the 100K race two hours and 31 minutes to complete the challenging course. About 80 riders were in the lead pack.

Only two incidents marred the race, according to Bindel. Around Forestburg, someone threw a glass bottle from a car. The glass shattered and cut a cyclist, who was taken to Muenster Memorial Hospital for stitches. The other accident occurred when the lead pack was within 20 miles of the finish line. A rider had mechanical difficulty with his bicycle wheel. When he went down, 8 to 10 riders went with him. All were treated for road rash and bruises.

Organizing the Bike Rally were the Bluebonnet Club and the Muenster Volunteer Fire Department. Fifty percent of the proceeds from this year's event are earmarked for the Muenster Fire Department's fund to purchase a new rural fire truck. Sponsors contributing products were Sundance Sparklers, Dr Pepper, Coca-Cola, and Quick Kick. The Muenster State Bank purchased See GERMANFEST, Page 2

MMH Board candidates uncontested

Four candidates have filed for the four positions up for election to the Muenster Memorial Hospital Board of Directors. All of the candidates who filed are now serving on the Board and are uncontested in this election.

All of the candidates agreed that the most important issue facing the MMH Board of Directors at the present time is the recruitment of more physicians to staff the hospital.

"The hospital is at a turning point. Great efforts have been made in the last two years to try and bring in more physicians to get some more procedures performed at the hospital and benefit the folks in the area. This has been difficult because doctors or their spouses are not always willing to come into this area. The right doctors are out there - it just takes getting the word to them. This is what the Board is trying to do.

The Muenster Hospital is top of the line for its size. It's just a shame that we don't get more bodies (patients) in it. We need more doctors to perform different procedures and area folks need to ask doctors to come in and perform procedures at the Muenster Hospital." - Chuck Bartush Jr.

"The next few years will be crucial to the survival of the Muenster Hospital. The Board has worked diligently to recruit physicians to this area and we will continue our efforts. Physician recruitment has to be the primary focus of the board at this time, we already have an excellent support staff and a good facility. At this time, we have a couple of doctors that are seriously considering our hospital. As a member of the Board, I will continue to work to get a physician to commit to our hospital." - Sharon Felderhoff.

"I feel the Board's highest priority at this time should be to work closely together to attain our goal in finding more physicians to staff Muenster Hospital. I feel like all of our Muenster citizens should try to use the local hospital for everything that is available here before going out of town." - Margie Starke.

"We're still struggling to get new doctors to come to Muenster and will continue to do so. I hope to see at least one more on staff within a year's time. The Muenster Hospital needs local support. People should use it as often as possible when they can. I've always been glad to serve on the Board of Directors." - Al Felderhoff.

Al Felderhoff has served on the Hospital Board for 30 years; Margie Starke since September 1990 when Dr. Marvin Knight resigned; Sharon Felderhoff has served for two years; and Chuck Bartush Jr. for at least five years.

Good News!

I, the Lord, have called you for the victory of justice, I have grasped you by the hand; I formed you, and set you as a covenant of the people, a light for the nations, to open the eyes of the blind, to bring out prisoners from confinement, and from the dungeon, those who live in darkness. ISAIAH 42:6-7

Letters to the Editor

Letter to the Editor:

After reading the article in last week's paper concerning the lack of parents attending the program on substance abuse, I felt compelled to write this letter.

No, I don't want to make up excuses for not being there, but there is a small matter concerning having hay that needed to be baled, and, somehow the cows have to be milked. People do not realize how hard it is for farmers to get somewhere at 7 p.m., particularly this time of year.

I don't think that PTO officers or school board members should have been singled out. And, as I am sure to speak for others also, if I am not concerned about our children's future, then why am I serving on the school board at the present? And why am I running for another three-year term?

My son is a member of the Student Council that helped put the program together, and I am very proud of him as well as my other children.

Also, if I might add, if I am not concerned, I would not have attended the Junior High Banquet Monday night when I don't have a child in Junior High.

To the Editor:

The year 1991 marks the 30th anniversary of the date President John F. Kennedy signed the Executive Order which established the Peace Corps of the United States of America. During this benchmark year, Peace Corps volunteers will enter (or re-enter) Laos, Uganda, the Congo, Zimbabwe, Nicaragua, Chile, Uruguay, Bulgaria, Romania, Mongolia, Yugoslavia, Nigeria, and Mozambique in programs especially tailored to the needs of each country.

The Peace Corps continues to grow. We now serve in more countries at one time (74 now and 82 by the end of Fiscal Year 1991) than at any period in our history. Even China and Bangladesh are expressing an interest in the Peace Corps.

The number of minorities in the Peace Corps continues to increase, as well, as we seek to show the face of all America to the world. The number of minority volunteer trainees has increased from 6.8 percent to 10 percent. Minority country directors overseas have increased from 7.7 percent to 13 percent, and minority area recruiting office managers in the United States have increased from 13 to 35 percent. All of this has taken place over the past two years.

Since the first Peace Corps volunteer stepped off the plane in Accra, Ghana, in 1961 and sang the Ghanaian National Anthem in the Twi language, the Peace Corps has established an impressive record of meeting very human needs (health and nutrition, food and water, knowledge and skills, economic development and income, housing, energy and conservation) in communities, on farms, in schools, clinics, cooperatives, villages, councils, national and municipal agencies, and under hundreds of trees and thatched roofs.

There is an intense rejuvenation of the Peace Corps taking place today; the Peace Corps is suddenly relevant again. To the 120,000-plus Americans who have served in the Peace Corps over the past 30 years, it has always been relevant, an immensely rewarding experience to both the nationals and on the receiving end and the volunteers who have shared with them their skills, knowledge, and lives.

Annual Co-op meeting draws a crowd

A crowd numbering more than 600 re-elected two directors and roared with laughter at the jokes and stories of Sam Houston Monday night at the Cooke County Electric Cooperative Annual Meeting. Those gathered in the Muenster Public School Auditorium also had a chance to hear about the Cooperative's progress, sing along with Shelly St. John and take home attendance and door prizes.

SAM HOUSTON, guest speaker

General Manager Philip Slater gave a glowing report on the Cooperative's 1990 activities. "We had an outstanding year," he said. "That's true mainly because our cooperative continued to move in the direction to achieve the goal of an electric cooperative - to provide reliable service at the best cost possible...our two main priorities."

Slater introduced each of the Cooperative's employees and the audience responded with applause.

The Cooperative membership re-elected Vincent Zimmerer and Wayne Mitchell to the Board of Directors. Zimmerer has served on the board since 1962. Mitchell began his first term on the board in 1987.

Long-time employees were presented with service awards. Lavonne Reid, engineering assistant, and Emmett Walterscheid, right of way and staking engineer, received engraved watches honoring them for 35 and 25 years of service to the Cooperative, respectively. Ed Schneider, retired as Manager - System Operations, received a retirement plaque and a watch honoring his 45 years as a Cooperative employee.

Houston, general manager of Hill County Electric Cooperative, has recently been installed as president of the Brazos Electric Power Cooperative Board of Directors. Noting long ties with Cooke County Electric Cooperative and its officials, Houston praised it as one of the finest cooperatives in Texas. He said employees and directors should be commended for keeping electric rates among the lowest in the state.

Houston told stories and jokes that delighted a packed house. He also expounded on the history of the cooperation, dating to primitive times when humans have learned that some problems can only be solved by a number of people working together. "The people of the earth were isolated and stranded in darkness...until they learned that cooperation was the broad road to a better life," Houston said. "that road has led mankind from the hillside shelters to the skyscrapers, jet planes, television, mass education and the family car."

"The leverage of the idea is still the same," he explained. "It is the pooling of people power, muscle power, thinking power and bargaining power."

Thirty-three members took home door prizes given to encourage attendance to the annual meeting. First prize, a Magnavox 19 inch color portable television, went to Paula Whitley of Gainesville.

Dale Lloyd of Moss Lake and Edmund Fleitman of Muenster took home new Magnavox remote control VCRs. R.D. Hamilton of Callisburg won a specially produced

Winners were the Farmers Home Administration, Callisburg Community Improvement Club, Oak Shores Volunteer Fire Department, Billy Zimmerer of Lindsay, Anton Fleitman of Muenster, Mrs. Archie Walker of Gainesville, Isaac Stevens of Gainesville, Floyd Dobson of Collinsville and Cecil Sellers of Whitesboro.

Dear Editor,

We're writing this letter in regard to the resignation of Bill Bivin as our CCD teacher. Bill is a wonderful person. He has the ability to get down on our level and talk openly and honestly with us. We all feel that we can talk openly and honestly with him. We trust him and admire him. He lived religiously by the rule we made during our first CCD class: What happens in class stays in class, and what happens on the street stays on the street. He was doing a great service to the community, church and youth by teaching CCD. We feel that this has come as a degrading blow to his morals and standards.

COMMENT!

This is my response to the writer of "Incredible Bias!" His/Her sources of gripes are matters created by the mechanics peculiar to the building (layout) of pages of a newspaper, which change each week, beyond our control, according to the kind and amount of news items occurring that week.

Whoever would have expected a week when five obituaries occurred to use a full page? Any other week, part of that space could have been devoted to his/her favorite subject, with headlines more to their liking. As it is, a number of stories had to be put in wherever space was available. And one of mine was completely left out.

Sharp says April rebates jump 24% from year ago

"Because of steady if not spectacular economic growth, combined with the overwhelming success of 'Project Fair Pay,' we're sending more than $90 million in local sales tax rebates back to Texas cities, counties, hospital districts and transit systems, a 24 percent increase from last April's rebates," State Comptroller John Sharp said last Friday.

"Providing another welcome boost to local revenues has been the amnesty program associated with 'Project Fair Pay,' a highly-successful effort conducted by the Comptroller's Office during February and March to collect unpaid taxes," Sharp said. Based upon information from the Federation of Tax Administrators in Washington, D.C., 'Project Fair Pay's' amnesty program was the most successful of its kind in the nation.

"The amnesty program has brought $75 million in uncollected taxes into the State Treasury. Some of this money represents previously unpaid local sales taxes and is being allocated to city, county and other local taxing jurisdictions," Sharp said.

Sharp sent local sales tax rebate checks totaling $82.1 million to 958 Texas towns and cities, an increase of 23 percent over last April's payments of $66.98 million. City sales tax rates range from one percent to two percent.

Muenster received $6,380.56, an increase of 25.85 percent over last April. Other Cooke County towns also doing well were Lindsay with $3,052.59, up 34.54 percent; Gainesville with $74,161.74, up 4.56 percent; and Oak Ridge with $2,038.79, up 121.57 percent. Valley View's check of $1,531.14 was a drop of 38.54 percent from last April. The total of all rebate checks sent to Cooke County cities was $87,164.82.

Checks to county governments totaled $9.23 million, up 31 percent from last April's payments of $7.06 million. Cooke County received $48,606.07, up 43.25 percent from last April.

John Nasche and Chris Hess of Muenster were overall winners in the Bud Light Bartenders Triathlon. Their time of 13.6 seconds is the fastest time ever recorded in the Bud Light Triathlon. There were a total of 70 teams entered in the event. The total entry fee, $700.00 was presented to the Cooke County Home Hospice.

A total of 54 contestants vied for first place in four divisions of the Budweiser-sponsored North Texas Arm Wrestling Championship. First place winners were: Heavyweight, Gary Dankesreiter of Lindsay; Middle, Stacy Green of Ardmore, OK; Light, Paul Becker of Muenster; and Feather, Eric Lynn of Nocona. Jeff Tempel of Muenster placed third in Middle Weight.

"A check for $270 will be presented to the Cooke County Home Hospice, making the total contribution from both events $970," said George Grounds of Gilbert Endres Dist., Inc.

Seven men's teams and two women's teams took part in the North Texas Championship Tug of War. "Every pull was very equal and all but one pull lasted for 10 or more minutes," said co-chairman Ben Bindel. Winning the Men's competition was a local team, Martindale Feed Mill. They beat Texas Pick-Up after pulling 15 strenuous minutes of pulling. Team members were Chris Klement, Damie Hellman, Troy Huchton, Shawn Flusche, Bruce Bezner, Rick Sandmann, Frank Fangman and Wesley Sicking. Brett Walterscheid was their coach.

WRITE-INS

better business climate in Muenster and maybe help develop an industrial park.

Each of the write-in candidates said they were responding to other citizens who encouraged them heavily to run for the council.

Mary Ann Grant is the wife of the late Muenster attorney, A.V. Grant. She describes herself as extremely conservative with a keen interest in politics and history. She was a history major in college and worked on several national political campaigns.

"I think the best I have to offer the city is my impartiality and independence. I will not be intimidated but I feel that the people can trust me," Grant said. "I would try to keep the people informed and restore confidence in city government."

Grant said she decided to be a write-in candidate because "several people have asked me." She indicated an interest in the physical clean-up of some areas in town because they tend to devalue surrounding property value. "If they want me, I will do my darnedest for the people, and show no favoritism," she said.

Bert Walterscheid said he had to spend a while thinking about the City Council job and just wasn't ready to sign up by the filing deadline. After much thought, the idea that a younger member was needed on the City Council made him decide to be a write-in. Walterscheid has been a member of the Muenster Volunteer Fire Department for five years and is currently a trustee charged with membership and retention. As a member of the Muenster Jaycees, he has received the Key Man Award for two years, showing a will to work and organize projects. Walterscheid is currently enrolled in an Emergency Care Attendant course and believes the city should be working to bring an ambulance or first responder unit back to Muenster.

"I want to keep taxes as low as possible and see more progress on street paving and repair," he said.

"I'm willing to work with people, just give me a call." When asked if any changes should be made in city operations, Walterscheid responded, "City employees, not contractors, should be maintaining city parks."

Muenster is set up as a general law city. Under that form of government, write-in candidates are not required to file as a write-in. Voters simply write in the name they want on the ballot and whoever gets the highest number of votes wins the position. The winner need not have a total vote higher than the combination of the other candidates. There will be no run-off.

The other council positions up for election are uncontested. Ted Henscheid is the incumbent candidate for mayor. He said he is willing to keep doing the job for the people and keep the system democratic.

Gilbert Kubis is the new candidate for council place five, replacing Al Hess who will not seek re-election after serving one two-year term.

Kubis has been a Muenster resident for 12 years and has been employed by GTE-Valenite for 14 years. Kubis was a member of the Gainesville Optimists, Jaycees and was a Grand Knight of the Gainesville Knights of Columbus. As a 21-year member of the National Guard, he gained the rank of E-7 as a mess sergeant.

Gilbert Kubis is married to Rosina Kubis. They have four children, Chris, Theresa, Mike and Ronnie.

"I have experience in lots of business areas and I'm especially familiar with the Muenster-Lindsay-Gainesville area," he said. "I'm interested in attracting more business and industry to our city."

The City Council election, along with the MISD Board of Trustees and Muenster Memorial Board elections will be held in the Muenster Public School lobby at 135 East Seventh Street on Saturday, May 4, 1991. Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m.

Dr. Tim Mason joins staff of expanding Muenster Milling Co.

"Feeding isn't the same as it used to be," said Ronnie Felderhoff of Muenster Milling Co. "Technology is always expanding and in order to keep abreast of these changes for ourselves and our customers it was time to bring in a full-time staff nutritionist."

Dr. Tim Mason, a nutritionist with 35 years of experience in the livestock industry, joined the Muenster Mill staff and began his duties on Monday, April 22.

Dr. Mason earned a Ph.D degree from Texas A&M University in 1963. He spent 16 years teaching animal science and animal nutrition. During his years in the field of animal nutrition Dr. Mason has published a Veterinary Nutrition Handbook and Self Instructional Feeds and Feeding Laboratory Manual and has written more than 125 technical and practical papers in Animal Science and Agricultural publications. Before coming to Muenster he was the general manager of East Texas Feeds, Inc. in Mineola, Texas.

When needed Mason will visit farms to evaluate problems with herds and if a nutritional imbalance is to blame he will work with the owner to see what is missing and determine how to correct it. He is also available to discuss custom feed mixes and do ration formulation for the Mill's customers.

It is Dr. Mason's philosophy that, if you balance the ration for the animal, the ration will do its job and the animal will do its job.

"I am excited about the possibilities we have here," commented Mason. "The quality of the nutrition program is good and I feel that with the Felderhoffs' expansion program complete the Mill is ready to make its mark in the animal feeding business."

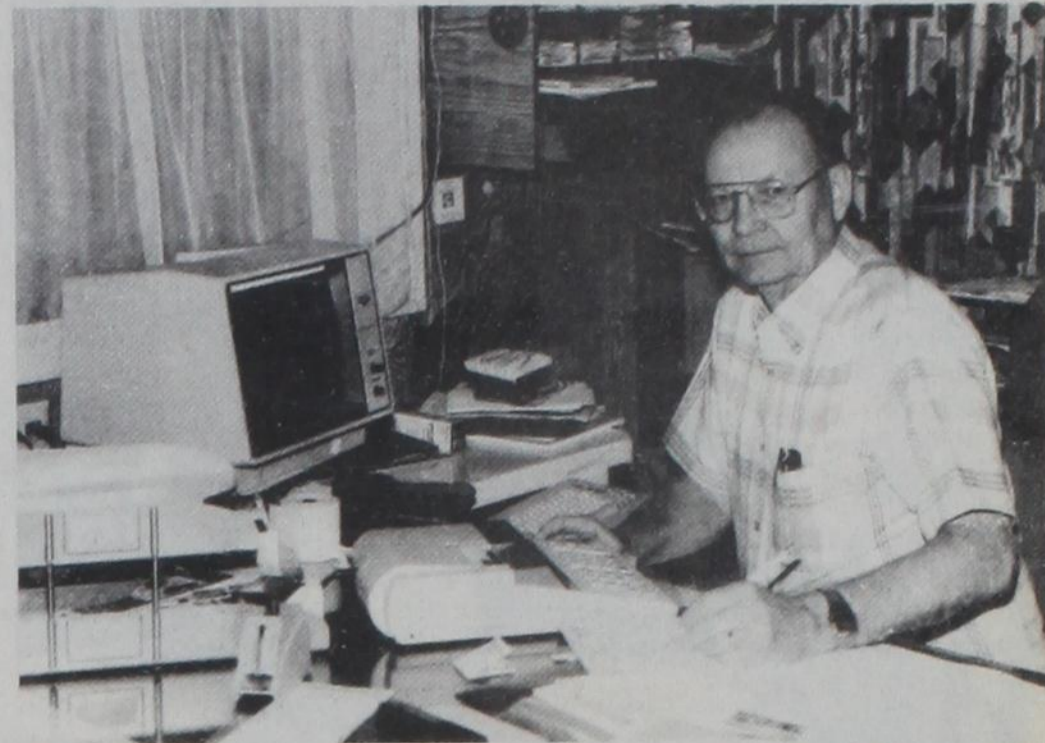

The Muenster Mill has expanded in order to modernize. A new mixing system has been installed to make feed more efficiently and do a better job of mixing. "We are able to produce a greater variety of products now," explained Felderhoff.

Other new additions are a cattle mineral mixer and extruders. The extruders do a cooking process on grains. With the extruders the Mill will now be able to produce extruded full-fat soybeans for use in horse, beef, dairy and swine feed.

Soybeans are one of the highest proteins available to all species of animals and are higher in energy than any other according to Felderhoff. "Using it on dairy herds increases milk production and increases beef production in stockers - it helps everything," he said.

Plans for the Muenster Mill are to develop more specialty feed items such as dog food, cat food, and fish food and a wider variety of the feeds that they already offer. "Tim was brought in to help us with formulas for these new products," Felderhoff added. "We also wanted to have his expertise available for dairymen so that they will be able to use the ever-changing additives to dairy feeds that are available in the dairy industry."

Muenster Milling Co. is a family owned and operated business that serves an area that covers a 70 to 80 mile radius with customers as far east as Mount Pleasant. They are planning on a big line of specialty items in the future. Mason became acquainted with the Arthur Felderhoff family more than 20 years ago while he was teaching at Tarleton State University.

Dr. Mason is living in Muenster and his wife Bettie will join him as soon as they have sold their home in Mineola. The couple has three grown children and two grandchildren. Mason invited customers to come in to the Mill and talk to him or call him to discuss animal nutritional needs.

May 5-11... Gov. Ann Richards proclaims Tourism Week

Governor Ann Richards recently signed a proclamation at the State Capitol declaring May 5-11 as Texas Tourism Week. The state's special recognition will coincide with National Tourism Week.

Richards' proclamation noted that travel and tourism is the fourth largest industry in Texas. It generates $17 billion for the state economy with $712 million in state tax revenue and almost $220 million in local taxes annually, according to the U.S. Travel Data Center, the national tourism research source used by the U.S. Department of Commerce. In 1989, Texas was the third most popular state travel destination in the United States, behind California and Florida.

The governors of California and Florida held similar press conferences in their states as well. In addition, members of the Congressional Travel and Tourism Caucus and the Go*USA Travel Coalition held a press conference at the U.S. Capitol announcing endeavors to raise awareness of the economic importance of the travel industry and to show their support for a variety of travel awareness activities, including National Tourism Week. The travel and tourism industry is the nation's third largest retail segment and its second largest employer.

Young People's Theatre offers scholarships

The Butterfield Stage Players and Cooke County College will once again offer their summertime theater workshop. The children's program is for youngsters who have completed first grade through sixth grade. Once again the BSP will be offering a limited number of scholarships to students that might otherwise be unable to benefit from the theater program. The scholarships cover tuition and costume costs.

The month long summer workshop includes instruction in acting, singing, stage movement, and related topics. Also, every participant is guaranteed a part in the musical production which acts as the culmination of the workshop. This program was formed several years ago in an effort to support and promote the theatrical interests of children in the area. It continues to offer a medium for self-expression, creativity, and art education.

To obtain a scholarship application call the BSP at 665-8152. All scholarship applications must be returned to the theater by May 13 in time for registration at the college which begins May 30.

Kindergarten graduation set for May 22

Rosemary Dankesreiter's kindergarten students will graduate Wednesday, May 22, 1991, at 7:30 p.m. in the Muenster High School Auditorium.

Doug Evans will give the commencement address. Kindergarten students will present a brief program and receive their diplomas, with reception to follow.

May 17 will be a special day!

Kenya Endres is coordinating mini-courses for K-5 Muenster Public School students. The children are looking forward to Friday morning, May 17, learning a wide variety of skills. Parents are planning crafts, first aid, dancing, woodworking and many other activities.

After a lunch break, parents are invited to watch the children compete in Junior Olympics on the MHS track. Sharon Felderhoff, Clifford Sicking, Grady Roller and Brian Strother are scheduling field and track events for the K-5 students.

Vogel grandson celebrates First Communion

Aaron J. Patel, son of Al and Helen Patel of Fort Worth, and grandson of Marie Vogel and the late Theo Vogel of Muenster, was a member of the First Holy Communion class of St. Andrew's Catholic Church of Fort Worth on April 21, 1991, with a class of 120 children who received the Holy Eucharist for the first time.

Attending the celebration with Aaron and his parents were his maternal grandmother, Marie Vogel; his godparents Claude Vogel and Jeanne Parker; and other relatives Nichalass Bass; Karl and Janice Browning and Laura and Meredith.

Pictures were made and the Patels hosted a dinner in Aaron's honor. After gifts were opened, the beautiful First Communion cake made by Francis and Cathie Fuhrmann was served with Heavenly Angel Food Trifle.

The Baptist Church held service as they do every Sunday morning with Eddie Ramsey officiating. Rita Richey played the piano and Mr. and Mrs. Biffle visited also.

Millie Voth and Lucille Hess were here this week to bring bananas and homemade cookies. They come each month with these treats and we sure enjoy them.

Monday morning, Father Joe Weinzapfel led his weekly Mass with Joe Hoenic assisting. A nice crowd attended as always. In the afternoon, Irma Koelzer came to play dominoes; the residents playing were Philomena Vogel, Ida Hoenic, Andrew Fleitman, Frances Reiter, Laura Haverkamp, Anna Jostwerner and Estelle Kelley. In the evening, Juanita Bright entertained us all with her piano music.

Tuesday we worked on our gift for the secretary. Each resident was given a silk flower and a beautiful blue basket was passed around and each person placed their flower in it. We called it a progressive flower arrangement and it turned out beautiful. Rita Russell, our secretary, was so proud of it and the fact that we all had a hand in making it.

Wednesday bingo players were Margaret Kupper, Theresa Hermes, Julia Cunningham, Catherine Hermes and Leona Eberhart. In the afternoon, we had manicures done by Janie Morgan.

Thursday, Joe Hoenic played the piano after exercise and played some of the Golden Oldies. In the afternoon, Irma was back with fresh lettuce to clean and played dominoes until 3:30.

Friday morning brought us bingo again with Janie Morgan. We all won, which is fun. Friday afternoon, Janie hosted a wine and cheese party. Sadie O'Connor visited with us during the party and a good time was had by all.

Please don't forget our Annual Spring Fling BBQ on May 12, from 4 to 7 p.m. Join us for food, music and fun. This event will kick off National Nursing Home Week. Special events are planned for each day of the week. Hope you can join us.

Visitors to St. Richard's were Mary Ann Arendt of Lindsay, Alf Hoedebeck of Irving, Billie Hoedebeck of Denison, Pat Durbin of Plano, Ronald and Sue Hutson of Gainesville, Raymond Kelley of Irving, Gale Morgan of Gainesville, Alfred Haverkamp of Dallas, Nolan and Nell Barnett of Denton, Mary Lyn Sherrill of Myra, Stan and Rosabell Yosten of Fort Worth, Dora Jackson of Azle and Monsignor Thomas Weinzapfel of Dallas.

Our sympathy to Nick Miller's family. He will be missed. We thank you for the beautiful flowers you brought to us.

Please remember we need your old buttons for arts and crafts. Until next time, visit a friend - visit St. Richard's!

NOTICE! Kindergarten registration set for Wednesday!

Muenster Elementary School Kindergarten pre-registration will be Wednesday, May 8, 1991, at 2:45 in the kindergarten classroom. Parents will need to bring birth certificates and immunization records with them.

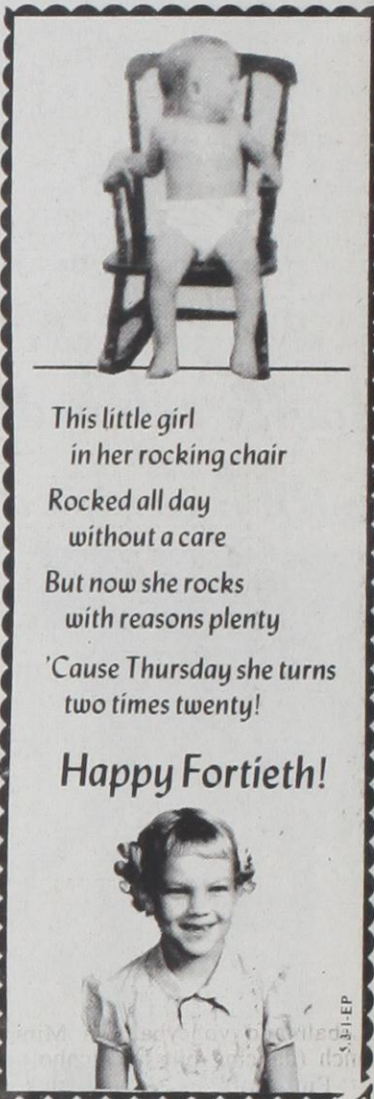

Rosemary Dankesreiter will explain the kindergarten program and answer questions. Kindergarten students and parents are welcome to tour the building after registration.

UIL involves varied activities

Students in Muenster ISD participate in UIL (University Interscholastic League) activities. These activities range from athletics to calculator. Most parents and community members have a good "grasp" of athletic events because of constant exposure. Many of us need more exposure to UIL literary activities. Perhaps, this would generate more support for our students that excel in those areas.

UIL literary events begin in the second grade and continue through graduation. Students are involved in events such as storytelling, number sense, one act play, numerous speaking events, science and math competitions. There is a broad range of activities to stimulate almost any interest a student may have. A unique aspect of many UIL events allows students to develop skills they can use in their future endeavors. These activities allow peer exposure and public presentations of literary material. Materials vary, but the presentations tap the student's creativity, knowledge, critical thinking and memorization skills.

The administration and staff of MISD would like to write articles, periodically, that explain each of the UIL events that the students can enter. Hopefully, this will help create a greater awareness of the accomplishments of our students when they excel in UIL literary events.

Hospital Auxiliary makes plans to assist with Health Fair

The upcoming Muenster Memorial Hospital Health Fair was an important topic of discussion at the April 23 MMH Auxiliary meeting. May 14 is the date selected for the Health Fair to coincide with National Hospital Week.

Members volunteering either time or supplies for the event were Terry Hess, Betty Rose Walterscheid, Peggy Grewing, Donna Hess, Betty Kralicke, and Denise Pagel. Monday, May 13 at 12:30 p.m. all members interested in assisting with set-up for the Fair should meet at the Muenster Hospital.

Bertha Hamric was elected to the office of Historian by a voice vote after President Donna Biffle stated the need for such an office.

It was noted that the Bluebonnet Club is making a $150 donation to the auxiliary. The Muenster Jaycees also made a $150 donation earlier for use in advertising. The donations were much appreciated and Peggy Grewing suggested that the Auxiliary establish some form of public acknowledgement for those who make donations. This will be considered further at another meeting.

In other business: Several fund raising ideas were discussed; Auxiliary By-laws were readied for consideration of approval by the Hospital Board at their May 8 meeting; Glenda Russell, treasurer, noted that the number of Auxiliary members continues to grow as more dues come in regularly.

Terry Hess won the door prize, a sensor pad, which was donated by the hospital. Refreshments of punch and cookies were served compliments of the hospital kitchen staff.

Earth Day

by Kim Cler

With the condition of our environment worsening every day, it has come to the attention of many that something needs to be done. The Sacred Heart Student Council put forth effort to make the students aware of this ever-growing problem.

On Thursday, April 25, Patti Bayer, Sacred Heart Art teacher, judged the "trash sculptures" created by students from grades Kindergarten through 12. Elizabeth Fuhrmann won first, Valerie Bartush won second and Laura Klement got third place. Many students were awarded the honorable mention award.

Student Council members baked cupcakes for the entire student body. Betty Rose Walterscheid made a cake in the shape of the earth.

There was a short prayer service to begin the festivities. Readers at this service were Sharon Fuhrmann, Dawn Knabe, Allison Klement, Christy Yosten and Dyan Fisher.

Dawn Knabe was chairperson who planned and executed this event.

Three pop groups scheduled for Six Flags Senior Night

Graduating high school seniors and their dates will have a chance to see three top name music groups in concert during Six Flags Over Texas' 1991 Senior Night event.

Performing in the Music Mill Amphitheater on May 10 will be Gerardo, the Cover Girls and Information Society.

Gerardo's latest single, "Rico Suave," is riding near the top of Billboard Magazine's Hot 100 chart. The Cover Girls recording, "Funk Boutique," is also on the Billboard list. Information Society's latest album effort is titled, "Hack."

All Senior Night tickets are priced at $25 and include the concerts. Reserved seat tickets for the shows will be distributed at the park on the night of the performance on a first-come-first-served basis.

bigger small talk

by Brenda Rigsby

In the March 8th edition of The Enterprise, I posed the question to the youth of Muenster, "What could the community of Muenster offer you in the way of entertainment (reasonably) that would tempt you away from the drag and the cases of beer you consume every weekend?"

Well, I finally got some responses - some of the young people really gave the problem a lot of consideration; some very little; still others, even though they might have had some great ideas, chose to remain anonymous. Because of The Enterprise's policy on standing up for your convictions and signing your material, these responses can not be published.

Before we get to the responses submitted by the teens from both schools, let's consider the original problem. The young people of our community have no where to go for entertainment in our town, so they "drag" up and down the streets, usually with beer for a companion.

We, as adults and especially as parents, should realize that young people will test the limits we set for them as far as they can. They will also find something to do if a better alternative is not offered. I, for one, am willing to do what I can to try to improve the opportunities offered to our youth. I invite the local civic organizations, as well as both school's administrations and concerned parents, to join together and seek an alternative to drinking and driving for our kids.

Last Tuesday, the Student Councils of both schools presented a program on Substance Abuse. Although the morning program was well attended by students, grades 6-12, the evening presentation for parents had a very poor turnout. Surely, we did not intend to tell our kids, "Hey, we don't care about your problems," by non-attendance at this program, but maybe that's the way the kids interpreted that message.

From both Sacred Heart and Muenster High Schools, 83 students responded. Out of that total, 76 percent suggested a teen center (a place where they could meet, maybe with pool tables, video games, a dance floor and snack bar). Next in popularity was a movie theater, followed by summer sports (football, basketball, baseball and volleyball), a Mini Ranch (dancing but no alcohol), Putt-Putt golf, a skating rink, shopping mall, bowling alley, soda shop, paint pellet war games, staying at home to watch movies and occasional dances.

Almost unanimously, the 63 students who suggested a teen center thought the old Center Restaurant building could be rented and fixed up for use as a teen center.

As a teen center was very popular with the students who responded, one other idea was to erect a volleyball net and basketball goal in the back of the teen center, so if someone got bored, he could have something else to do besides "dragging."

Still some other ideas were: "Money from Germanfest could be donated and be about the price for a teen center;" "the young people could volunteer (or work) at the center to help defray costs and inspire pride in accomplishments;" "KCs and VFW could furnish their halls on weekends for youth dances;" "students of MHS/SHHS need to join together in saying no to drugs and alcohol."

However, most who responded thought that no activity would succeed without the cooperation from parents and family members. They shared these thoughts: "Children grow up thinking alcohol is a normal part of life because their role models drink. It is also too late to start with students that have been drinking since they began high school. Prevention should begin when the child is in junior high or younger, before he or she has been introduced to drinking." "Parents always tell their kids not to drink. But, parents, think about what is said. Parents are telling their kids not to do something they do all the time. Think about it." "Try explaining to 200 teenagers who have been brought up drinking that drinking is not mandatory in order to have a good time. The opinion of the townspeople and even the parents lean toward drinking. For example, the Muenster Hornet football party drank from kegs donated to the boys for their success. They felt they deserved it. And perhaps they did. That is how many Muensterites think: that drinking is an award for achieving a goal. Whatever the reason, teenagers are going to drink."

Also: "None of the suggested projects will work unless the young adults of Muenster set the trend. If just one popular person considers the idea 'uncool,' then it will fail miserably. We older kids need to understand that the young kids look up to us. We are their heroes, and they will mimic all we do. If a project is set up, it needs to be supported by all members of the community. Will you take the time to help us?"

Some other ideas on how to help combat the problem of teen drinking included a curfew restriction of 12:30 or 1 a.m. for people under 18; and better law enforcement - cops to enforce the law.

All of these were great ideas and I thank all of the students who took the time to respond. I sincerely hope that from this brainstorming, something constructive will materialize.

Next week, The Enterprise will feature some more responses from our high school students, as well as (I hope), some ideas from the readers of this issue. Some of the responses follow:

by Amy Fisher

I would like to improve our town by cutting out the teenage drinking. But what can I do as a teenager?

I would like to see a teenage dance club. I know a lot of the teenagers go to the Ranch and dance, but they also drink there. The dance club I would like to see would have a variety of music to fit this town's teens.

I know it is hard to raise money, but it doesn't hurt to dream or try.

A movie theater would be really nice! That way it wouldn't just benefit the young, but also the older age group. I know something needs to be done. What will open our eyes and your eyes? What is it going to take, a death?

by Robin Greathouse

This article has been very difficult for me to write. I know what I want to say, but after thinking about it, I got so flustered and outraged that I had to leave it and then come back to try to write some more.

And they said ...

I am simply amazed at how long it has taken the adults in Muenster to understand that there really is an alcohol problem here. For as long as I can remember, the "hot thing" to do was to get a few beers and "drag." This has been socially acceptable, not just with kids, but with the adults as well. Now that there have been wrecks and there has been a death, all of a sudden adults are coming out of the woodwork, pointing fingers at kids for being reckless and being alcoholics.

Kids learn from example, especially from parents and older friends. How can we, as kids, learn responsibility if we are never held responsible for our actions. Teenagers are not dumb. We will try something once, just to see if we can get away with it. If we think it is fun and we do not get in any sort of trouble for it, why should we stop? We have no reason to quit.

I believe that the only way to stop the abuse of alcohol is to work together. People have got to stop blaming the kids and start helping them. The Student Councils of Sacred Heart High School and Muenster Public School have worked very hard to help combat this problem. Unfortunately, for many years now, we have come upon some very stiff opposition. For example, two years ago some of the members of the Sacred Heart Student Council attended a meeting of our school's Alumni. At this meeting, the council proposed to have a non-alcoholic homecoming dance in order to keep it all one dance. For the next thirty to forty-five minutes, those "adults" told us, in no uncertain terms, that there would not be an alumni dance without alcohol. They said that "no one would come." That just reaffirms to the kids that you can not have fun without alcohol.

In the past, people have said that they wanted to do something about the abuse of alcohol in Muenster. As of yet, I have seen no one come forward and get something started. Now the students of Muenster have taken the initiative to do something and it is the parents' turn to take responsibility to take advantage of this opportunity. Blaming kids will not stop the problem. It is time for the parents to take responsibility for their children's actions.

Now is your opportunity. Take the responsibility to make a difference in Muenster.

by Gaye Lanette Fisher

Muenster, a small town of about 1,500 people, is a thriving community. It is filled with energetic people who seem to always be ready to help others. One area in which we need help is alternative activities for our youth. Since we already have a lot of money invested in many Muenster businesses, as well as activities such as Germanfest, I feel that we could afford and greatly prosper by putting money toward something that would benefit our youth.

We could possibly renovate the old Center and make it into a small movie theater. We could also set aside a place for a video arcade and maybe even go as far as building a bowling alley or miniature golf place. It would cost money, but if we put our time and hearts together, we could afford it.

By building places such as these, we would be giving many of our youth jobs that may be hard to find now as well as the chance to work hard and earn money. This would also allow the youth less time to get into trouble, especially during the weekends. If sales are good, the cost to set up these places will eventually be paid off.

Yes, it will take time and effort, but it will be worth helping our future, our youth. The quality of the future we will have depends on the steps we take now. That is why we need to start making those necessary steps now.

by Sharon Fuhrmann

This is in response to Brenda Rigsby's letter from the March 8, 1991 Muenster Enterprise.

It is about time we do something about the alcohol problem in Muenster! Most of us are of German descent and have grown up with the idea that drinking is acceptable. It is, as long as it is not abused. Drinking is a big problem in Muenster. Most parents are oblivious to it and even deny that their children are right in the middle of it.

Why is there a problem? One of the reasons is one which I have already mentioned. Parents deny that their child is involved. Why? Is it socially disgraceful? Does it give them a bad name? Only a parent can answer these questions, and it is up to the parents to find a solution and put it into action. Parents are our ultimate role models. Other reasons there are problems: peer pressure, wanting to have "fun", just following the crowd and many more. One of the main problems lies in the law enforcement area. When minors are caught with alcohol, do they get a ticket? No! They have to dump all of the beer and they might receive a small lecture from the police officer. Then, they are sent on their way. They might be "scared out of their wits" for a while, but after a week or so, they are bragging about "getting out of" a ticket.

Where do these minors get the alcohol? Older "friends" buy the alcohol for them in return for some alcohol for themselves. This goes on every night, especially on the weekends.

Some good people might ask: Why don't the police crack down on them? Besides legal complications, the main reasons are parents and the adults of our community. In Muenster, an officer who would give a teenager a ticket for illegal possession of alcohol would be "run out of town!" The parents see the police officers as a problem, not "their innocent" child. Parents support the police department's actions until they pick on their child. If we expect to see results in Muenster, we have to let the police do their job.

In Mrs. Rigsby's letter, she asked for suggestions concerning the alcohol problem with teenagers and "the drag." Teens go on "the drag" because there is nothing in Muenster for young people to do or places for them to go. There is not a dance club, McDonald's, movie theatre or bowling lane in Muenster. Because of this void of "good entertainment," teenagers spend their money on beer and gas. This writer does not have any concrete ideas on how to approach this problem, but hopes that what has been written will give the people of Muenster something to think about.

by Melissa Lea Bayer

Everyone knows that famous reoccurring question: "What is there to do around this town?" There are few answers to this question. The average teenager would probably answer by saying that they either go to "The Ranch" or "make the drag."

Since every parking lot in Muenster has been designated as "off limits" and fines are given for double parking, teenagers are restricted from socializing with their friends. The only way to solve this problem is to create some form of entertainment for teenagers that does not involve drugs and alcohol. Any solution to this problem is almost always impossible for any small town to materialize.

The first thing that comes to mind when trying to decide what to do on a Saturday night, unfortunately, involves leaving town. One suggestion that might keep Muenster's youth entertained is to somehow utilize a facility such as a bowling alley or a food court that could offer several varieties of foods.

I hope these suggestions spark an interest in the imaginations of some enterprising adults in our community.

by Jon Schilling

In response to the article by Brenda Rigsby in the March 8 edition of the Muenster Enterprise, Muenster is a town known for beer drinking and "partying."

If you had more law enfor-ment or stricter laws in town, then all of the minors will just go "back roading" and drink their beer. They will start going places where they are not familiar, driving fast and have a wreck.

It would be better for the minors to stay in town and drink beer, because they are familiar with the streets. And, they drive at a slower rate of speed. Also, the cops can keep an eye on them because you can not stop them from drinking.

I am not saying this would work but this is an idea. We have the old Center building, we could put pool tables and video games on one side and the other part could have a dance floor. In this building soft drinks, ice cream and hamburgers could be served. This would create more jobs in the town and it would have the kids off the streets. As long as the prices for admission, drinks and food would not be outrageous, I am sure that this would work for the young people of Muenster.

by Kim Cler

With all the accidents occurring lately, the question arises, "When will this drinking and driving stop?" In my opinion, there is no answer to this problem.

Alcohol is too readily available to minors in this town. Whether it is parents, friends or the different businesses giving the alcohol to them, minors will get beer and liquor if they want it. Putting recreational buildings in this town probably is not the answer. The kids would get drunk before or after they came. I see a lot of people come to The Center to play pool, but almost every one of them is drunk.

Kids can get away with murder in this town. The police do not enforce the laws because the townspeople will harass them for giving their "good kid" a ticket. Our police's idea of a "minor's in possession" is making them pour their beer out. What good does that do?

Almost every day you hear people in school say, "Let's go get drunk tonight!" Sometimes it seems like that is all they live for. Even people who have gotten tickets or have been in alcohol-related accidents still drink.

I wish I did not have such a negative attitude about this subject. But, I have no answers. People are too set in their ways to change them now.

I am running for Place 6 in the School Board elections this Saturday. I couldn't spend a lot of money on campaigning and, due to the busy hay season, I didn't get to talk to very many people. I apologize for this, but I will not have to apologize for the job I will do for you if elected.

Thank you for your confidence.

"My heat pump's so efficient it saves money. And it's a clean system. I like what it means for the environment." —Elta Chandler, Park Board Member Elta Chandler cools and heats her home with a heat pump because it saves money and energy. And since it's electric, it's "wonderfully clean." A heat pump uses the energy in the air to keep her home comfortable all year. Even on cold winter days there's heat in the air. A heat pump captures that heat and uses it. And it costs less to operate than a gas furnace. It's so efficient that for each unit of energy it uses, it creates two to three units of heat. In the summer a heat pump becomes a high-efficiency air conditioner, capturing the heat inside the home and removing it. For more information, call a heat pump dealer or TU Electric. It's your chance to save more than money.

Hornets compete in Meet McDaniel goes to State

Five Muenster High Hornets competed last week at the Regional Track and Field Meet in Abilene with Brad McDaniel the lone member advancing to State. McDaniel earned a silver medal in the shot put with a toss of 49'11 1/2". "Brad didn't throw his best, he knows he can do better," said Coach Grady Roller. "He'll have a chance to redeem himself at State. We hope his throw will get him a medal." McDaniel also threw a personal best of 153'4" in the discus for a fifth place.

Others representing Muenster at the meet were Ryan Sicking finishing fourth in the 300m hurdles with a 40.74 run, the 100m hurdles with a non-qualifying time of 17.02 and the long jump with a distance of 39'08". The 1600m relay team of Tony Perryman, Kenneth Walterscheid, Rajko Jelen and Sicking ran a 3:39.80, but did not qualify.

McDaniel will advance to the State Meet held at the University of Texas campus on May 10-11. He is scheduled to throw at 11:00 a.m. on Saturday at the south pit.

Lady Hornets win the bronze at Regional Golf

There were 16 teams competing at the Regional Golf Tournament held in Abilene April 22-23 and it ended being a three-team race for the two spots going to Austin, including Muenster's team of Stephanie and Kelley Wimmer, Lori and Mindy Graham and Brandy Grewing.

Monday was cold, drizzly and windy, not great golf weather. "The girls were mentally tough against the weather conditions," said Coach Brian Strother. "They shot a great round, considering the weather."

Kelley had the best round of the day with an even 100. Brandy shot a 104, Mindy 105, Stephanie 109 and Lori came in with a 120. The team finished with a score of 418. Bronte had a 401 and Robert Lee High School shot 422. No other teams were within 30 strokes after the first day.

Tuesday was a beautiful day to play golf. Freshman Brandy Grewing came around at the turn with a high score, but after the back 9, finished with a 125. "Brandy has had a great year for us, she played better every tournament," said Strother. "I was real proud of her and expect great things from her in the future."

Kelley Wimmer shot consistent scores during the tournament with a 100 and a 104, and the 8th best score for the two days (204). "Kelley had a good season, finishing her best at the Regional Tournament," commented the coach.

Mindy Graham shot a 105 the second day with the best score on the front nine with a 47. "Mindy has had a great year in golf. All year she has had low scores for the team," Strother stated.

After the first nine holes, Stephanie Wimmer shot the lowest score for the next 27 holes (49, 50, 50), and shot her best scores of her career, according to Strother.

Lori Graham did a great job for the team. She played with the No. 1 players both days to help the team. She scored a 116 on Tuesday.

"The tournament was exciting because we were evenly scored at the turn," remarked the coach. "I'm very proud of the girls, they played great and I'm looking forward to next year." The Lady Hornets should have three juniors, a sophomore and a freshman returning for golf next year.

Fuhrmann: good as gold at State Meet

Sacred Heart Tigerette Sharon Fuhrmann led the Tigerettes to a tie for sixth place in the TAPPS State Track and Field Championship Meet held last weekend in Waco. The senior recorded two golds with a shot put of 37'7 1/2" and a new school record discus toss of 112'7". For Fuhrmann her accomplishments in AA match her last season's feat in Class A.

Freshman Jennie Endres ran a personal best for a third place finish in the 800m run. Vickie Bayer clocked a 17.6 for a fourth place finish in the 100m hurdles. Shirley Henscheid clocked a 6:03 for fourth in the 1600m run, and the Tigerette 1600m relay squad of Jennifer Walter, April Truebenbach, Bayer and Endres scored a sixth place. Freshman Donnette Hess also scored a sixth with a personal record toss in the shot put.

Lubbock Christian, of the Tigerette's district, captured the TAPPS AA title. A highlight of the meet, along with Fuhrmann's double gold, was the 1600m run which featured Stacey Swank of TMI and Angela Ramirez of IWA. Ramirez clocked a 5:05 and finished second to Swank who clocked in at 4:57. Both runners are nationally ranked. Coach Jon commended the girls on a fine season and effort to improve their speed and performance.

Four from Lindsay advance to State Track

Seven Lady Knights and four Knights placed in the Regional II - A Track and Field Meet last week in Abilene.

Senior Kristy Krebs earned a gold medal with her 58.59 time in the 400m dash. She also advances to state after finishing 2nd in both the long jump and triple jump with distances of 16'8" and 35'2 1/2".

The 1600m relay team of Krebs, Janelle Hellinger, Sherry Hess and Rachelle Sharp were awarded silver medals, ending the race with a time of 4:13.60.

The 400m relay team of Krebs, Hellinger, Christy Secrest and Janelle Fuhrmann completed the race short of State qualification. Their time of 52.22 was only good for a third place.

Janelle Hellinger also finished 6th in the 200m dash at 27.64 with Leah Walterscheid's 96' discus toss also earning a 6th.

The Knights' sprint relay team missed going to state by "a chest." Their time of 43.49 was given 3rd place with the silver medal winning time being 43.45. The team was made up of Chris Hanks, Jessie Barnes, Jeff Hermes, and Ronnie Dieter.

Chris Hanks' high jump of 6'4" was tied for second place with two other competitors, but he had to settle for 4th place because of his misses. Hanks also finished sixth in the 100m hurdles.

Debnam and Gobble compete in Regional Brandy Debnam and Mike Gobble competed in Regional Tennis competition last week Wednesday and Thursday at Abilene with Gobble settling for a fourth place finish.

Debnam won her first set 6-6, but then lost 3-6, 3-6. "Brandy never was in a groove," said Coach Brian Strother. "She had a good season, it just wasn't her day."

Gobble was the No. 2 seed in the Regional Tournament, beating his first opponent 6-0, 6-1. "He was in true form, playing good tennis," said Strother. "Mike just waited out his opponent, put his power in session and made it a quick match."

Gobble put away the second match 6-1, 6-2. "Mike used smooth ground strokes and kept his composure," said the coach.

Thursday morning Gobble won the first set 6-3. In the second set, after being down 3-1, Gobble won four games in a row, then lost the next two. He then came back to take a 6-5 advantage. "Mike had to win the match point, but lost it." Gobble lost the tie breaker 8-6 and the second set 7-6. "Mike couldn't get anything going," concluded Strother. He lost the match 6-3, 6-7, 6-3, for a fourth place finish in the tournament.

The Jaycees wish to thank everyone who helped in any way: setting up and tearing down of beer van and sales booth, selling tickets, serving beer, etc.

Livestock, meat trade won't stampede border

by Kathleen Davis
COLLEGE STATION - Freer trade with Mexico won't cause a stampede of livestock between the countries, but U.S. cattle feeders, meat packers and consumers might get moderate gains from such an agreement.

Livestock traditionally have been the main commodity traded between the United States and Mexico. In 1990, the United States bought $419 million worth of Mexican livestock and livestock products. Mexico in turn spent $643 million on U.S. livestock and livestock products that year.

But there is room for improvement, according to a new study by Texas University's Agricultural Market Research Center.

"Potential gainers from freer trade include cattle feeders and meat packers who will export additional products to the Mexican market. U.S. consumers will have access to a wider variety of products at a lower cost," according to a report by Dr. C. Parr Rosson III, the center's assistant coordinator.

The assessment of the livestock and meat industry under a free trade agreement is one of 11 issue papers compiled by a team of agricultural economists at the center. The study, released within the last week, examined the impact of trade negotiations on major U.S. and Texas commodity and non-commodity topics.

U.S. trade talks with Mexico could begin by June if Congress grants "fast-track" negotiating authority, set to expire at the end of May, according to Dr. Gary Williams, the center's coordinator.

Since negotiations have not begun, no clear terms have been set forth. The Texas A&M study pinpoints issues that should be considered to best serve both nations.

Rosson said the biggest increase in U.S. livestock products exported to Mexico likely would be processed meats and edible offal (the waste parts of a butchered animal).

Mexicans eat more beef than the other meats with a per capita consumption of 55 pounds in 1989, the most recent annual figures. U.S. per capita beef consumption was 67 pounds in 1989.

Mexico also bought $53.4 million worth of U.S. edible offal in 1990 and $89.8 million in animal fats, oils and greases.

More U.S. fed cattle could be shipped across the border, Rosson added, if duties are lowered and Mexican demand for higher quality meats increases.

Losing the meat would be U.S. cow-calf producers, especially those in Texas because 75 percent of Mexico's exported feeder cattle enter Texas. The United States imported 1.14 million head of feeder cattle from Mexico in 1990, which represents about one-third of the cattle on feed in the Texas Panhandle, Rosson wrote.

If the Mexican feeder cattle exports increase, he added, U.S. feeder cattle would draw lower prices because of the added numbers on the market. But cattle feeders in the United States would have more business.

Trade imbalance should be a key issue in the livestock negotiations, Rosson said.

"Given the overall importance of this sector to the Mexican economy, it is not clear that a continuation of this situation (of trade imbalance) is in the best interests of developing a strong market for U.S. products there," he wrote.

Other issues to address are investment reform, import competition, animal health and sanitary regulations, domestic agricultural and trade policies, the importance of the general economic conditions and the availability and accuracy of Mexican market information and data.

Milton Ward named to Beef Industry Council

Auction market owner Milton Ward of Gainesville and meat export executive John Bellinger of Houston were seated as new directors of the Texas Beef Industry Council recently.

Ward was nominated to the Texas BIC board by the Livestock Marketing Association of Texas. Bellinger's nomination came from the Southwestern Meat Association.

Texas BIC board members represent the nine organizations in Texas that deal with cattle and beef. Ward and Bellinger join 11 other beef producers in directing an organization charged by law with collecting and administering the $1 per head checkoff in Texas.

Other directors and the organizations they represent are: S.M. True of Plainview and Harlan Huffman of McGregor, Texas Farm Bureau; Jimmy Owen, Tyler, and Jim Eller, College Station, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association; Byron Gossett Jr., Dumas, and Clark

Willingham, Dallas, Texas Cattle Feeders Association; Jim Schwertner, Austin, and Roy Wheeler, Pleasanton, Independent Cattlemen's Association; Calvin Buchanan, Decatur, the dairy industry; Lucille Sterling, Colorado City, Texas Cattle Women; and Don Jobs Jr., Houston, Texas Purebred Cattle Alliance.

Ward is owner of the Gainesville Livestock Market, a family business that his late father, Cecil Ward, started in 1949. Milton Ward entered the family business as a partner in 1976 following his graduation from Southern Methodist University. He became owner in 1987. Besides the auction business, Ward also runs mother cows and yearlings in Cooke County and feeds cattle.

He served as Cooke County Chairman for the beef checkoff referendum in 1986-87. He also is past president of the Livestock Marketing Association of Texas.

"As You Sow" is theme of Stewardship Week

Submitted by the Soil Conservation Service

Suggesting that everyone can help care for our earth's environment by looking for things to do right outside their doorway, the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District is encouraging local churches, organizations and individuals to join the nationwide observance of Soil and Water Stewardship Week, April 28-May 5, 1991.

The local conservation district, which works throughout the year on soil and water conservation measures, is providing color literature and speakers that highlight humanity's responsibility to be active stewards of our nation's soil and water resources. The local district is one of nearly 3,000 conservation districts nationwide that work with the National Association of Conservation Districts to encourage greater resource stewardship through the annual week-long observance.

Materials especially designed to convey the 1991 theme, "As You Sow," are being distributed by the Upper Elm-Red SWCD and may be obtained by calling or visiting the district office during business hours at 4504A Hwy. 82 West, Route 2, Box 34-8, Gainesville, Texas, 76240; telephone (817) 668-7794.

Texas Farmers Union directors meet in Austin

AUSTIN - Family farmer and rancher members of the Texas Farmers Union (TFU) Executive, State, and Marketing, Inc. Boards of Directors from all areas of the state met in Austin April 24-25 to conduct the business of the family farm group which was organized at Point, Texas in 1902.

Mr. Lee Swenson, President of National Farmers Union, and member of the executive board of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers (IFAP), addressed the group at all sessions of the two-day meetings, stressing the need to oppose extension of the "fast-track" trade negotiating authority of the Administration which expires June 1. Resolutions included urging that the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC) apply the diminimus yield factor to wheat which is currently being adjusted for crop loss (due to drought, etc.). They asked that the common sense be applied to yield adjustment; that those adjustments be made now, and that the wheat acreage be released for grazing in order to salvage some of the cost not covered under insurance.

Emergency relief for Dairy Producers was also sought by the group through resolution by urging Congress to approve relief uniformly and equitably on all milk throughout the nation, immediately increasing the support price to reflect the market price in effect in August 1990, until a dairy inventory management program is in effect; repeal collection of assessments for deficit reduction; and, with some exceptions, declare current conditions in the dairy industry to be an economic disaster qualifying for emergency feed assistance and economic emergency loans through the Farmers Home Administration.

Sale of bonds approved by Era ISD

by Elaine Schad

The Era School District has approved the sale of $1.2 million in bonds at an interest rate of 6.76 percent that will be used to fund the construction of a new high school campus approved by voters last month.

Prudential Bache and A.G. Edwards of Gainesville will be co-sponsors for the sale, the lowest of seven bids submitted.

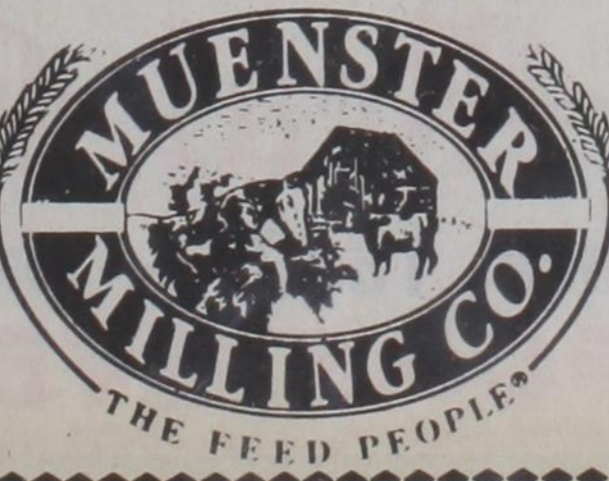

"We were hoping for 7 percent, so we're just really pleased," said Era Superintendent Dale Smiley. The bond is being funded at a 20-year payout, he said.

The sale, being handled for the district by Southwest Securities of Dallas, is expected to be completed with money available to the district within a month, officials said.

The district hopes to have bid packets ready within three weeks, hoping to award a bid for construction by the first part of June, officials said.

The new high school facility will include five regular classrooms, a new cafeteria, one computer lab, two science labs, a gymnasium, restrooms and a bookroom. The 25,000-square-foot facility could be completed by the spring of 1992, officials said.

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

Biological Pest Control
Entomologist Allen Knutson, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, works with many methods of insect control. He offers the following information on possible biological control methods.

Insects view the world much differently than we. For example, consider the fact that aluminum foil apparently repels or confuses flying aphids. As a result, fewer aphids alight in vegetable plots with an aluminum foil mulch. This is an example of how modifying the crop environment can reduce or delay increases in pest numbers. Surface residues in wheat and sorghum apparently act in a similar manner as aluminum foil to reduce greenbug infestations.

Studies in Oklahoma over a number of years have shown greenbug numbers are greater in tilled plots than in minimum tillage or no-till plots. This effect has been observed both in wheat and sorghum.

The previous crop residue apparently acts as a reflective surface much like aluminum foil which discourages winged greenbugs from landing in the crop. Plots of wheat or sorghum in which the residue was removed by burning, or buried by discing or plowing, had greater greenbug numbers earlier than no-till plots or plots covered with straw mulch. In other studies, over twice as many greenbugs were trapped over clean tillage as compared to wheat or sorghum stubble.

How does it work? Greenbugs remain active year round by moving from wheat to sorghum and johnsongrass in the spring and back to wheat in the fall. This movement is accomplished by winged greenbugs that can be carried by the wind for miles. When aphids take off, they are attracted to bright, open sky. After a period of flight, they become more attracted to the longer wave lengths of light reflected from the soil. Aluminum foil, and crop residues, apparently send the wrong signal and the greenbug continues flying.

Crop residues or mulches have been found to reduce pest densities in other crops as well. Cabbage planted into dead rye grass had fewer cabbage loopers, thrips and aphids than cabbage grown in clean tilled plots. These pests either have greater difficulty in locating or recognizing the host crop or suffer greater mortality when cabbages are grown with some type of ground cover.

Cultural practices such as these need to be evaluated to determine if they can be adapted to local production systems. Of course, ground covers and reduced tillage practices have other effects, both positive and negative, on crop production that must be considered to ensure grower profits. If compatible, these practices may offer significant advantages in reducing losses due to insects.

Just how bad is farm recession?

From Farmland News

When Abner Womack goes to the country to talk about the economic outlook, farmers start by asking, "We knew it's bad, but how bad is it?"

Farmers are expressing concern about the agricultural economy as they learn more about the impact of the farm bill, says Womack, University of Missouri-Columbia ag economist who heads the Food and Agricultural Policy Research Institute (FAPRI).

Womack tells farm groups that government payment restrictions in the farm bill are fairly uniform across the board. But, because of different economics, it doesn't affect all farm commodities the same way.

"Dairy is particularly hard hit now," Womack says. "But other areas are fairly strong. Feed grains (corn and grain sorghum) and soybeans are doing fairly well. Livestock, particularly beef, pork and poultry, is looking strong for the next year or so."

"By contrast, turkeys are under a bit of pressure," he adds, "and producers of rice, cotton and wheat are feeling an economic squeeze."

The pinch comes from three areas, Womack tells farmers. First, the agricultural economy is feeling the effects of the recession in the general economy.

"And, we are in a recession," he adds. Second, the cost of most of the farm supplies has continued to rise.

Finally, government support payments to farmers under the new farm bill will be lower. Government payments are being reduced to help cut the federal deficit.

Senate moves to prevent federal land grabbing

from Co-op Farmland News

Having a piece of land and doing with it pretty much as you darn well please is to most folks part of the American dream. Having the federal government poke its nose into your rights as a property owner obviously isn't.

Several lawmakers in Washington think that Uncle Sam should have to think at least twice before taking a person's land or restricting use of that land. With increasing federal regulations, particularly environmental-type ones, more and more property owners could feel the heavy hand of the federal government.

That's why Senators David Boren (D-Okla.) and Steve Symms (R-Idaho) have introduced S-50, legislation that is aimed at minimizing federal "takings." Rep. Jim Olin (D-Va.) has a companion bill in the House. Both bills have several backers.

Known as the Private Property Rights Act, it would require federal agencies to investigate and reduce the potential impact on private land or use of that land.

The legislation appeared last year as an amendment to the farm bill and was barely defeated. This time, it stands alone, and folks on Capitol Hill think it stands a very good chance of passage.

As Senator Symms' press secretary, Dave Pearson, told Farmland News: "The only real opposition is from the more radical environmental groups. It's hard to argue against the concept of private property."

The bill, Pearson explained, would take the legal burden off the property owner of proving that Uncle Sam's "taking" is unnecessary or that payment is inadequate.

Years ago, most folks agreed that taking of private property for roads and schools was necessary for the common good. But now, Pearson noted: "What if in the middle of your wheat field, the government says there are 15 acres of wetlands which must be protected - acres that you can no longer farm? There is economic worth attached to that - value to that!"

Federal officials, Senator Symms is often quoted as saying, "must look before they leap." In regard to his current bill, he feels that private property owners must be protected from "the growing encroachment of government regulations." Those rights are, after all, he points out, protected by the Fifth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution.

The Fifth Amendment of the Constitution reads, in part: "Nor shall private property be taken for the public good without just compensation."

Take the Clean Water Act, for example - that is up before congress for reauthorization this year. Under that law, said a Boren aide, Dan Webber, farmers along streams "must get a permit to farm what they've been farming for years." And there are other parts of the law that are "burdensome" for property owners.

Congressman Olin will tell you that last year alone, the federal government came out with 63,000 pages of new regulations that affect private property. And that private property owners have lawsuits pending to the tune of $1 billion.

"This is not how we want the federal dollar spent," Olin said. "The government needs to be more careful in how it regulates."

One must think globally and act locally. All of us are concerned about our environment and the effect we are all making on it. Recycling is becoming a necessity! When you recycle cardboard, the forest you use is waste paper. We have installed a cardboard box baler and all card board will be recycled at Fischer's Meat Market.

IF YOU'RE NOT RECYCLING YOU'RE THROWING IT ALL AWAY.
