Nasches make room for one more (a girl)

by Janet Felderhoff

"It was meant to be," commented LaVerna Nasche. Tears filled her eyes as she disclosed the story of how she and her husband Angelo adopted Liliana, a six-year-old Rumanian girl.

Liliana comes from a village in northern Rumania. It is a 20 minute drive from the city of Suceava, population 200,000. "The country is like it was here in the 1930's," said LaVerna. "It's underdeveloped. The telephone was out for two weeks while we were there and the hot water was out for a while, on for a day, then out for two days."

The Nasches' new daughter came from a peasant family. She lived with her mother, step-father, a brother a year older than she, and a year-old half-brother. She also has a 23-year-old sister who is married. Her father was killed in a mining accident when Liliana was four. After her mother remarried, the step-father rejected her children. According to information given to the Nasches, he sometimes beat Liliana.

When Angelo and LaVerna visited with Liliana and her mother, they were told by Liliana's mother that she was "a good worker." The little girl took care of her baby brother while her mother worked all day on a farm. Liliana also washed all of the family's laundry. This was done by scrubbing it on a washboard.

"She still does some washing like that here," said LaVerna. "She washes her underwear and socks each night and hangs them on a hook to dry, ready for the next day."

When the local couple first went to Rumania to adopt, it was with

Population to be regulated by county redistricting

by Elaine Schad

Precinct 4 County Commissioner Virgil Hess is expected to pick up most of Cooke County's minority population and could lose a very small section of territory within the City of Muenster as the county's new precinct lines are being redrawn to coincide with the new census figures.

A public hearing has been set for 9 a.m. Friday, Aug. 9, in the County Courtroom on the second floor of the Courthouse to explain the new proposed redistricting of the four county precincts and to answer any questions the public may have. The final redistricting plan could be approved within the month, Hess predicts.

Commissioners have been working on the plan for several months. They hired an Austin law firm to come up with plans that coincided with new population figures as given by the 1990 census. The new redistricting lines will affect where people vote and justice of the peace lines, and will stay in tact until the 2000 census, officials said.

"Everything here should pretty well remain the same," said Hess about his precinct 4 within the city of Muenster. The major change being proposed is to give one large city block to Precinct 3 Jerry Lewis so that another election box can be located in that area. That block would begin at the Dairy Inn and go west, taking in Community Lumber Company and the Texaco station, among other businesses. It would then turn south at FM 373 and take in Flusche Enterprises and the VFW Club and would then turn back to the east along the railroad tracks, taking in Tony's Seed and property that is mostly undeveloped. There is only one residence in that block, said Hess.

The reason for the change is that Lewis' precinct population is well below the populations of the other three precincts, so Lewis probably will be gaining population that now belongs to all the other precincts.

The present population of county precincts is 8,996 for Precinct 1; 9,013 for Precinct 2; 5,606 for Precinct 3; and 7,162 for Precinct 4.

The federal government requires that the precincts, in the new redistricting, fall within 5 percent of the county's average population, which is 7,694 when divided by the four precincts.

Hess' precinct comes closest to that average, so most of his precinct will remain in tact, while Danny Knight and Kenneth Alexander are expected to give up population to Lewis.

Another change for Hess, if the present redistricting proposal is approved, would give him most of the county's minority population. Hess already has the largely Hispanic area of northwest Gainesville east of Commerce Street. The new proposal would also give Hess everything north of California Street to Highway 82 then east to Grand Avenue with the exception of a small area just south of the Brewer's Miniature Horse Farm.

"The government said, once a county reaches 15 percent minorities in its population, it must concentrate them in one precinct to give them voting power," said Hess. "We're around 13 or 14 percent, so we'll probably reach that 15 percent within the next 10 years," he said.

Overall, commissioners are hoping to adopt new precinct lines that will be as close to the old ones as possible, officials said. Most of the shifting is expected to be in the large population pocket of the City of Gainesville, which is shared by all four commissioners.

In an unrelated matter, the commissioners court this week continued budget workshops in trying to formulate the fiscal 1992 budget. Commissioners were expecting to get certified tax roll figures from the Cooke County Appraisal District this week so a better estimate could be reached on projected revenues.

Several departments are requesting salary increases and requesting that commissioners take the recommendations of a salary study presented last month. The study suggested that a job classification and pay scale be developed for all county employees. Commissioners aren't expected to make a decision concerning salaries until the budget is close to being finalized, which should be by the end of August, said Hess.

Considerations for the August 10 election

by Steve Cooper, MISD Superintendent

Voters will go to the polls on August 10 to decide two separate issues with each issue being multifaceted. The first issue to be decided will be whether the voters of Texas want the newly created County Education Districts to offer exemptions. This will be voted on by Muenster residents at the normal polling places for county elections. Then Muenster voters will decide if they want the County Education District to offer two kinds of tax exemptions and if personal property is to be taxed. To vote for these issues voters will need to go to Muenster High School, this is where voters would normally go to vote in a school board election.

I would like to offer a personal observation in explanation of the issues mentioned above. First of all, the vote allowing CEDs the right to offer exemptions is a state wide matter and will be decided by a majority of the vote from across the state. If and only if it passes will the second issue of exemptions have any relevance at all.

Muenster ISD currently offers only the state mandated exemptions ($5,000 homestead and the frozen over 65 exemptions - in addition this district does tax automobiles). The taxable value of property (not including autos) in the district, before any additional exemptions that may be approved, is approximately $87,000,000. One of the misleading things about the August 10 election is what appears to be relief for the taxpayer in the form of exemptions is really not the case at all. Any additional exemptions granted would only drive the tax rate up for the average taxpayer. Under current state finance all taxing is tied to how much the levy is (how much money is raised) so we are really talking about dollars raised. If a district has many exemptions all it does, in essence, is increase the rate because a set amount of money (levy) must be raised, this amount is dictated by the state. What does all this mean, simply this, if the exemption package passes on August 10 it will not save the average taxpayer any money. A tax rate will be set to offset the exemptions approved - this rate set by the CED will be state mandated.

EXODUS 15:2

It's Saint Jo rodeo time!

Saint Jo will again play host to local rodeo fans when the Saint Jo Riding Club and several local businesses sponsor the town's 34th Annual Rodeo on August 1, 2, and 3. Performances begin each night at 8:30 p.m. in the Saint Jo Rodeo Arena east of town.

Scheduled events are the usual bareback, saddle bronc, and bull riding, calf roping, and barrel racing. Two added features are the junior or baby bull riding for boys 13 and under and Pony Express races.

Entry fee for Junior Bull Riding is $5. Winners will receive a fully engraved Montana silversmith belt buckle. Pony Express races have been definitely booked for Thursday and Saturday and sponsors hope to have teams to fill a Saturday night spot.

Youngsters will be invited to participate in a Calf Scramble during the rodeo each night. Winners

Madness coming soon!

by Mike Pagel

The fourth annual Muenster Madness Bicycle Rally, benefiting the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, has been scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 17. As always, this event attracts some of the best cyclists in the area. It serves as a "warm-up" race for those who will be participating in the "Hotter Than Hell 100" Bike Rally in Wichita Falls later in the month.

Cyclists will be able to choose from the usual 100k, 65k and the 35k courses that wind through the beautiful rural areas of Muenster. Volunteers are still needed to man rest stops, etc. For more information on this upcoming event, see future issues of The Muenster Enterprise or call Ben Bindel at 759-2536.

Gainesville combines Art Show and Sale with annual championship rodeo

Those who appreciate fine art and would like the opportunity to meet the artists and possibly purchase some of their creations should mark August 15-17 on their calendars. Gainesville's Community Revitalization Inc. and the Cooke County Fine Arts Council are sponsoring a "Where the South Meets the West Art Show" in conjunction with the Championship Rodeo sponsored by the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce.

"There should be art work to please just about everyone," commented Judy Day of the Community Revitalization, Inc. "The variety includes Southwest, Western, Contemporary, Impressionist, and Oriental and there will also be some carvings and pottery."

Reservations are not required for the showing, sale and silent

Several of the artists are known internationally and nationally and some are local. Well known names include George Boutwell, Larry Bridges, Dan Brown, Teresa Ditttrich, K. Truett Martin, Charles McDaniel and Don Yandell.

A fine arts preview showing and sale will be held Thursday evening, August 15, from 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the Gainesville Civic Center. Reservations are required and you must RSVP by August 9. "Space is limited and people are already making reservations so if you plan to attend call as soon as possible," urged Ms. Day. To make reservations call (817) 665-8632. There is no charge for the event.

Reservations are not required for the showing, sale and silent auction scheduled for Friday from 11 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. and Saturday noon to 7:30 p.m. in the Gainesville Civic Center. The visiting artists have donated art work for the silent auction on Friday and Saturday. Proceeds from the auction go toward funding the event and any remaining funds go to the nonprofit sponsors, Cooke County Arts Council and Community Revitalization, Inc. and will be used to bring similar events to the public.

A special event scheduled for 8 p.m. Thursday is the presentation of the Golden Spur Award (People's Choice Award).

The Chamber's Championship Rodeo will be held in the Gainesville Riding Club Arena Aug. 15-17 at 8 p.m.

Correction!
Misinformation
straightened out

Last week's article on the pending election of August 10 had some mistakes that will be corrected in this article. A miscommunication between school and county officials led to confusion dealing with where Muenster folks need to go to vote. The "straight scoop" is as follows:

1. To vote on the two amendments to the constitution each voter will go to the precinct polling place they normally go to for county elections.

2. To vote on the three taxing options voters will go to the Muenster High School building and vote in the hallway. This is where you would normally go to vote on a school board election.

Officials originally intended to have voters cast their votes for both issues at one place but further consideration reflected a probable cost savings for the school district if voting takes place as outlined under 1 and 2 above.

Tax Assessor-Collector's office: not just for cars

by Ron Melugin

The Cooke County Tax Assessor-Collector's office is especially busy now since so many people wait until the end of the month to renew their car tags. According to Joyce Zwinggi, Cooke County Tax Assessor-Collector since 1981, her staff of six could use some extra help near the end and the first of each month in serving those procrastinators. The law does provide a five-day grace period in obtaining car tag renewals.

The county road and bridge fund receives the first $360,000 collected each year from car registrations. After that amount is collected, usually by March, the county receives $1.50 for each car registration after that. Joyce Zwinggi's office processes between 1,000 and 1,300 vehicle registrations and titles every month.

Be forewarned: Starting Sept. 1, you must have proof of liability insurance to receive your license tags.

You may not know why the county tax assessor-collector is also the voter registrar. If you are a young voter or new to Texas, you are "excused" for not knowing. Once upon a time, until 1966, the county tax office collected an annual poll tax of $1.75 as a requirement for voting. When the poll tax was abolished, the county tax office retained the function of voter registrar.

There are currently 15,391 registered voters in Cooke County. For those who refuse to register to vote to avoid jury duty, they will no longer be able to use that excuse beginning Jan. 1, 1992. On that date, the Secretary of State's office will start compiling a master list of registered voters. Please See TAX, Page 3

Williamson offers election overview

by Ric Williamson,
State Representative, District 63

On Aug. 10, voters will have the opportunity to vote on two constitutional amendments. The first constitutional amendment would allow the voters of a county education district to adopt certain exemptions from the district's ad valorem taxation for residence homesteads and to provide for the taxation of certain tangible personal property, as provided by law. At the same time, the voters will also have opportunity to vote on three separate propositions concerning the percentage homestead exemption, the elderly or disabled exemption and the taxation of personal property.

The school finance act, SB 351, approved by the 72nd Legislature in April, created 188 county education districts for the purpose of levying a mandatory local tax of 72 cents per $100 property valuation and redistributing the revenue on a per student basis among the school districts within the county district. The governing body of the county education district can not grant the homestead exemptions or override the personal property exemptions; however, a constitutional amendment is necessary to either allow or disallow such functions of this taxing entity.

In addition to the vote on the proposed constitutional amendment, the three separate propositions that will be voted on will give the voters the opportunity to decide which exemptions they will allow within their county education district. The first proposition would allow the county education district to tax personal property such as boats, motorcycles, RVs, etc. If the voters vote in favor of Proposition 1, then the county education district would begin taxing personal property as described above. A vote against Proposition 1 would disallow the taxation of personal property.

Proposition 2 would exempt 20 percent of the market value of the residence homestead from the ad valorem taxation. A vote in favor of the proposition would mean that the homestead exemption would be allowed. If voters vote down Proposition 2, then there would be no homestead exemption allowed by the county education district.

Proposition 3 would allow an exemption of an additional $10,000 from the market value of the residence homestead for any individual who is disabled or who is 65 or older. Again, as with Proposition 2, a vote in favor of the proposition would mean that the disabled or 65 and older exemption would be allowed. If voters vote down Proposition 3, then no exemption would be allowed.

The second constitutional amendment that will be before the voters would authorize the Legislature to allow the Higher Education Coordinating Board to issue up to $300 million in general obligation bonds to finance educational loans to college and university students.

Supporters of the amendment say that the state bonds are necessary in order to meet the Fall 1991 demand for student loans to financially needy students. Unlike state bonds for financing prisons or the superconducting supercollider, the bonds authorized by this constitutional amendment would be paid back by the borrowers, with interest and not by the taxpayers.

Opponents say that the state should not sink further into debt. They argue that there are other private, state and federal financial assistance programs that are available to pay for college education. They also say that the system of providing loan financing to students has changed since its inception and that it is no longer cost effective for the state.

I hope that you will consider the importance of this vote and take the opportunity to direct your state government in the way that you want your tax dollars spent.

Lindsay School Board considers expansion plans

by Elaine Schad
The Lindsay School Board discussed future building plans for the district at its regular July meeting. Trustees discussed with a local architect tentative plans for the construction of an eight-classroom addition to the north side of the middle school building. The board may make a decision to begin construction sometime in the fall, officials said. The expansion would be built using reserve funds. The additional classrooms are needed because each elementary grade has two sections that are eventually going to the middle school level. The district's enrollment has steadily increased in recent years, with an enrollment last year of 434 students. School officials are expecting an enrollment of about 450 students in the fall. The board has approved the installation of a portable classroom building on campus to take care of the district's needs for the 1991-1992 school year. In other business, the board called an Aug. 10 election which will determine a variety of property tax exemptions at the local level along with a statewide referendum vote. The first two items on a statewide ballot will be a referendum which will allow the newly-formed county education districts to adopt certain exemptions. The second will be a constitutional amendment which would provide for the issuance of general obligation bonds to provide education loans to students. At the local level, voters will determine what types of exemptions will be granted by the Cooke County Education District. Absentee voting for the election will be held at the administration office from 8 a.m. to noon through Aug. 6. Marilyn Cox and Gilbert Hermes are absentee judges. Voting on Aug. 10 will be held from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Lindsay Parish Hall. Evelyn Fuhrmann is election judge. In other business, the board: -Hired Kenneth Lowrance as a high school science teacher. -Heard a report from Mark Krebs, the board's representative on the Cooke County Education District Board on the progress of the CCED. -Accepted bids for 1991-1992 district suppliers of milk, bread, food for cafeteria use, and gas and diesel for bus routes.

Fette named official of Dover Chemical Corp.

Christopher Joseph Fette has been appointed Vice President and General Manager of Dover Chemical Corporation, a subsidiary of ICC Industries, Inc. He succeeds Joseph J. Monaco, who retired Dec. 31, 1990. Fette's appointment was announced by Dr. John J. Farber, Chief Executive Officer of ICC Industries, Inc. Christopher Joseph Fette is the son of Mrs. Alma Fette of Statesboro, Georgia and the late Capt. Christopher J. Fette Sr., a native of Muenster and half brother of Richard and David Trachta of Muenster. The late Capt. Fette is credited with the very fine (and the very first) aerial photo of Muenster, in 1940. That photo is framed and displayed in the front office of The Muenster Enterprise, along with another made by the late Arthur Endres in 1980, to show the growth of the community. Christopher Joseph Fette comes to Dover Chemical from the Surfactants and Specialties Division of Rhone-Poulenc, Inc., where he was responsible for the monomers and esters products groups. Prior to that, he was general manager of a major coatings producers' coolant unit. Previous assignments were with two companies whose products were wide-

Dover Chemical Corporation of Dover, Ohio is a leading supplier of chlorinated paraffins, flame retardants and organo-phosphites.

Valley View School Board approves Saturday "extra" school program

by Elaine Schad
Students in the Valley View School District had better turn in their work on time and tow the behavior line come this fall or they could find themselves sitting in a desk on a Saturday, said school officials.

22 to 24 by the end of the 1991-1992 school year, to 25 credits by 1992-1993, and to 26 credits by 1993-1994. The final credit policy is expected to be approved at this month's regular board meeting, officials said. "I think we have the reputation of being serious about athletics, which we are, but we're serious about academics also," said Superintendent Bert Glascock of the changes. "I think it's going to be a clear message to our students that we're turning the heat up."

Students will be assigned to the four-hour Saturday sessions if they need special help, if they have attendance deficiencies, behavior problems or have not completed assignments. The school principals will make the assignments, upon recommendations from teachers. The program will cost an estimated $2,000 to hire a part-time person to supervise the students, officials said. The tougher credit requirements will hopefully prevent students from "blowing off" classes that are not needed for graduation, officials said. "The main reason is to involve students in more meaningful subject matter that they have to make a decent grade on," said Glascock. Students can attain as many as 28 credits over a four-year period, he said.

Since University Interscholastic League requires that students take five credit classes in order to compete in sports or academic competitions, there has been some incidences where students, especially seniors, would complete their UIL participation by the fall and would no longer take a class seriously if they didn't need the credit to graduate, said Glascock.

Plan to attend Watermelon Festival on August 17

The 11th annual Forestburg Watermelon Festival and Homecoming will be Aug. 17, 1991. The parade will begin at 10:30 a.m. at the Forestburg School. Williamson appointed to conference committee

Speaker of the House Gib Lewis has appointed Rep. Ric Williamson (D-Weatherford) to the House/Senate Conference Committee on Health and Human Services. The Conference Committee will resolve the differences on House Bill 7, the Health and Human Services Reorganization Act. This proposal, written by Williamson and Rep. Jack Vowell (R-El Paso) will consolidate and merge 12 state agencies with the stated intention of reducing the state cost for health and human services by $400,000,000.

"Every effort will be made to reach a consensus of ideas that will establish a working plan for an area of state government that has needed attention for too long. It is the waste in the system that must stop before we can concentrate on providing services for everyone who is in need of the many programs handled by the health and human services agencies. This is a major step toward balancing our state budget. I appreciate the opportunity given me by Speaker Lewis to serve on this important conference committee," Williamson said.

MRS. KEVIN JOE REEVES
...nee Sandra Ann Walterscheid...

Couple exchange vows in Sacred Heart Church

Sandra Ann Walterscheid became the bride of Kevin Joe Reeves of Saint Jo on Saturday, July 27, 1991, in a Nuptial Mass and double ring vows, officiated by Father Victor Gillespie in Sacred Heart Church at 5 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Norbert and Mary Ann Walterscheid. She is a 1986 graduate of Sacred Heart High School, a Magna Cum Laude graduate of Texas Woman's University with a Bachelor of Science degree in Dental Hygiene and is employed by Mickey Weatherly, DDS, of Gainesville.

The groom is the son of Joe and Donna Reeves of Saint Jo. He is a 1985 graduate of Saint Jo High School and a 1990 graduate of Tarleton State University with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree. He is employed by Weber Aircraft in Gainesville.

Before an altar decorated with mixed bouquets of white gladioli and white silk flowers and purple bows, the bride was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding, she chose a formal gown of white bridal satin featuring a wrap-around portrait collar, highlighted with beaded and sequined imported lace appliques. In back, the bodice was emphasized at the waist with an applique candy box bow. Her long lace gauntlets were applied with beads and sequins. The softly gathered skirt fell to slipper length in front and cascaded to cathedral length in back, and was decorated with lace appliques.

The bride's headpiece was a halo of pearls and sequins. Fingertip veiling was gathered at the back of the headpiece with a gentle pouf.

She carried a bouquet of purple orchids, irises and white baby's breath. Entwined with the flowers was a rosary given to the bride by her aunt, Sister Georgia Felderhoff. For sentiment, she wore a pearl necklace borrowed from her mother.

ATTENDANTS

Honor attendant to the bride was her sister, Susan Flusche of Muenster. Matron of honor was Lydia Springer of Irving, a friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Anne Hesse of Muenster, a friend, and Sheri Barnes, Janna Spruil and Tanya Reeves, all of Saint Jo and sisters of the groom.

They were identically gowned in deep purple satin dresses, designed with portrait collars and fitted, dropped waists. Each carried a nosegay of flowers in various hues of purple.

Stephanie Henscheid, a friend of the bride, was flower girl, wearing a deep purple satin dress with back bow and gathered skirt, and carrying a white basket of mixed purple flowers. Darrin Reeves, groom's nephew, was ring bearer.

Lynn Henley of Nocona, a cousin of the groom, was his best man. Nathan Mitchell of Garden City, Kansas, and Jeff Guice of Stephenville, both friends of the groom, and Neal Flusche of Muenster, bride's brother-in-law, Heath Spruil, groom's brother-in-law, and Alan Reyling, a friend and both of Saint Jo, were groomsmen.

Ushers were Ryan Klement of Muenster, Ken Hesse of Muenster, Hollis Moore of Collinsville, Jimmy Dennis of Saint Jo, all friends of the couple.

Mass servers were Lucas Hartman, a friend of the bride, and David Hesse, cousin of the bride.

Greg Reeves, groom's brother, carried the Unity candle. Monica and Jon LeBrasseur, friends, carried Offertory gifts to the altar. Godparents of the bride, Peggy and Raymond Walterscheid, were Eucharistic Ministers, with Imelda Rohmer, Roy and Irene Hartman, Debbie Endres and Kyla Henscheid. Liturgical Readings were given by Amber Grewing and Leslie Hesse, friends.

Wedding music was presented by Ruth Felderhoff, organist, and Shawna Herr and Wendell Black, who sang, "To Me," "The Rose," "Wind Beneath My Wings," "Sunrise, Sunset,"

"Greatest Gift," "Beginning Today" and "Wedding Song."

RECEPTION

Parents of the bride and groom hosted a reception, dinner and dance in the Sacred Heart Community Center, following the church service.

Shannon Henley and Noelle Hesse presided at the guest book, securing signatures.

The all-white, three-tiered, "Crystal Splendor" bride's cake was placed over a lighted purple fountain. Its decoration was enhanced with handmade roses and icing cherubs and iridescent pearls and rhinestones. The top keepsake layer held a heart shaped crystal ornament. The groom's two-tiered fudge pound cake was decorated with chocolate-dipped strawberries cascading across the tiers. Both cakes were made by Cathie and Francis Fuhrmann of The Farmer's Kitchen, who also catered the dinner.

Cake servers were Greg Reeves, groom's brother; Nicole McClendon, bride's cousin; Shannon Henley, bride's cousin; and Ricki Flohr, niece of the bride.

Decorations in the Community Center carried out the purple and white color scheme, by Aileen Knabe.

The rehearsal dinner was held on Sunday, July 21, in the home of Neal and Susan Flusche, for family and wedding attendants.

The couple will be at home in Muenster upon return from a wedding trip to Puerto Plata, Dominican Republic.

St. Richard's Villa News

by Frances Reiter

Last week we had a good time at our beach party. There were wading pools on the patio filled with water and we all went out and took our shoes off and played in the water. Janie gave us all sun visors to wear and passed out lemonade. There were beach balls to throw. Also there was a sand pile with lots of sea shells hidden in it for us to find and take back to our room with us. The employees wore shorts and sunglasses to help us celebrate the day. Volunteers that helped make the day special were Tammy Fleitman, Brandi Gilpin, Jodi Doughty, and Traci, Christian and Chad Brown. We all had such a good time we are planning another Beach Party in August.

We are also going to the Art Show in Gainesville on August 16 at 2 p.m. The art show held in the Civic Center will feature western art from several artists around the Southwest. We are really looking forward to it.

The August birthday party will be this Sunday at 3 p.m. Juanita Bright is going to play for us. The residents celebrating August birthdays are Billie Gobble, Sadie O'Connor and Annie Jostwerner. Please feel free to come join us.

We would like to thank all of our Bingo players that come so faithfully each Wednesday morning to call Bingo for us. Some of these are Margaret Schmitt, Marie Hundt, Martha Sicking, Louise Knauf, Agnes Klement, Romana Bayer, Betty Yosten, Dorothy Yosten, Anne Fleitman, Amanda Fuhrmann, Ed and Thelma Dill, Lou Vogel, Augusta Walterscheid and Marie Kappas, Louise Felderhoff, Julia Cunningham, Theresa Hermes, Mrs. Kupper and Leona Eberhart. I am sure this is not all but as you can see there are quite a few, they take turns coming different weeks. We thank them for a job well done.

Thanks also go to those who just drop in to entertain such as Juanita Bright and Mildred Lawson. They always bring an unexpected pleasure when they visit us with their music.

Each person that donates their time, energy, vegetables or whatever knows that they are appreciated. Please continue to make this home so special.

And 'til next time I'll leave you with this thought: Anytime is a good time to say "I Love You."

Ladies VFW Auxiliary plan new year

Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 6205 held its first meeting for the 1991-92 year on Monday, July 15, at 8 p.m. Frances Bayer, president, conducted the meeting in which plans were made for the year's projects, and to participate as volunteers in projects in the local community.

It was announced that Liberty pins are to be sold as a means of raising funds for cancer aid and research. The Lion's Club Crippled Children's Camp in Kerrville was singled out by the Ladies Auxiliary state president as her special project for the coming year.

Frances Bayer reported on a meeting she attended in Honey Grove on Sunday, July 14, and also the state meeting which was held June 26-30 in Dallas. Muenster No. 6205 received 15 citations for 100 percent participation in state and national programs.

Members were reminded of the District meeting in West Tawakoni on Aug. 3-4 and of the National Convention in New Orleans, La. on Aug. 16-23.

In other business, discussion was held on an invitation from Sue Martin, District 1 president, to attend the School of Instruction; a donation was made to the Muenster Red Cross Swim Program; minutes and communications were read by Mary Lee Henningan, secretary pro tem; and Lucille Hess gave the treasurer's report.

Linda Knabe conducted the closing ceremony with Chaplain Ethel Hesse leading the closing prayer.

Door prize was won by Frances Bayer and refreshments were served by Ethel Hesse and Janet Barnhill.

Double ring ceremony unites couple July 13

Katherine Jemay Hacker of Muenster and Vernon Ralph Keen of Saint Jo were married on Saturday, July 13, 1991, in a double ring ceremony at 3 p.m. in Myra Baptist Church, performed by Rev. Charles Howard of Myra.

The bride is the daughter of Pat Fuller of Abilene and Ed Hacker of Muenster. She attended Muenster schools.

The groom is the son of William D. and Barbara Keen of Era. He is a 1989 graduate of Era High School and is employed by Black Electric in Myra.

The bride and groom sang "Rockin' Years" to each other preceding the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her brother, Tony Hacker, the bride was wearing a long white wedding gown, with beads embroidered on the bodice and a chapel train. Her illusion veil was shoulder length.

She carried a bridal arrangement of peach and white flowers created by Bouquets and Gifts.

The bride was attended by a friend, Rebecca Vandeventer of Muenster. She wore a full-length peach-colored dress, and had a corsage of peach and white flowers.

Brian Downe of Era, a friend of the groom, was best man.

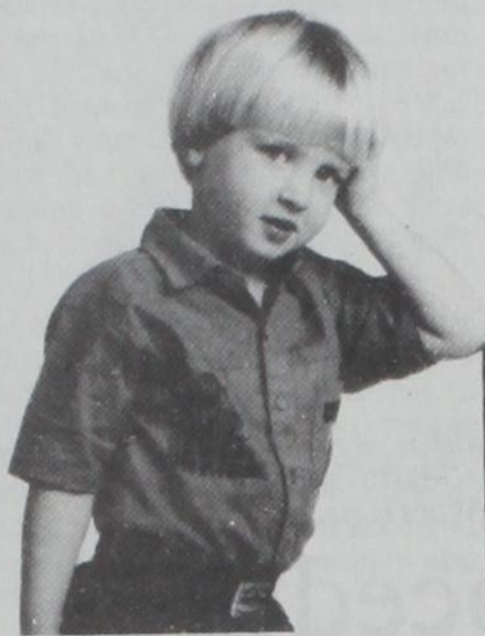

RECEPTION

A reception followed at Myra Baptist Church, hosted by the mother of the bride. The white wedding cake was decorated with peach flowers, and held a ceramic bride and groom figurine on top. The cake was cut by Rebecca Keen, groom's sister-in-law, and Rebecca Vandeventer, the maid of honor. The couple will live in Saint Jo, Texas.

Dustin celebrates fourth

DUSTIN FELDERHOFF

Dustin Felderhoff celebrated his fourth birthday on July 12 while on vacation with his family at Broken Bow, Ok. He enjoyed swimming, boating, and fishing on his special day.

On Sunday, July 14 Dustin was guest of honor at a family celebration. There was a special Teddy Bear cake made by his mother. He enjoyed opening gifts and visiting with his grandparents Raymond and Helen Metzler of Gainesville.

Also celebrating with Dustin were his parents Ronnie and Sharon Felderhoff, brothers Chad and Mitch and sister Amanda. He later had a special visit from his grandmother Evie Felderhoff.

Six Flags offers free visit to Desert Storm family members

Members of the Armed Forces who served during Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm are being invited to visit Six Flags Over Texas free of charge during August as the theme park stages a "Lone Star Salute to the Troops."

Park president Bob Bennett said, "Now that most troops are back home, we want to say 'thanks' to them and give them a chance to 'get away from it all' as our guests for a day in the park."

"As an added treat for youngsters in the military families," he said, "we will be bringing in the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles for nightly concerts Aug. 2 through Aug. 11."

Bennett said the offer of free admission will be good on every operating day during August except Saturdays. "Our Saturdays near the end of the summer are invariably quite busy and we want all our guests to be able to enjoy the park to the fullest," he said.

The invitation is being extended to all active duty military, active reservists, National Guard members and those members of their immediate families who carry military identification cards. Their children age nine and older, who do not carry ID cards, will also be admitted when accompanied by their card-holding parent.

Inactive reservists who were called to duty during the Gulf crisis, but who do not have military ID cards, should present their certificate of release or discharge from active duty along with their driver's license. The members of their immediate family - spouse and unmarried children living at home - will also be admitted.

Credentials must be presented at the special military ticket windows just past the regular ticket booths. All family members must be present at the window for the tickets to be issued.

The families of those still deployed may also attend by presenting their ID.

Six Flags Over Texas will end daily operations for the summer on Aug. 25. The military offer will include the Labor Day weekend.

Birth defects are linked with high temperatures

As summer temperatures rise, the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation advises pregnant women to avoid getting excessively overheated. Some studies suggest that an elevated body temperature - called hyperthermia - during pregnancy may increase the risk of birth defects. Body temperature may rise to a potentially dangerous level during strenuous exercise, illness or while using a hot tub or sauna.

Some reports suggest that a pregnant woman who has a temperature of at least 102.5 F. may be more likely to have a baby with spina bifida and other birth defects of the brain and spine, and with facial defects such as cleft lip and palate. Those effects appear more likely if the mother had a high fever that lasted at least a full day, resulting from an illness. A pregnant woman who develops a fever should always consult her doctor, who may suggest steps to reduce the fever.

A pregnant woman who exercises vigorously, especially on a hot summer day, might elevate her body temperature to 102 F. or above. The March of Dimes advises pregnant women to limit their exercise program in length and intensity on warm days, and to make sure to drink plenty of water. Exercising in the cooler mornings or evenings would be better for mother and baby.

Pregnant women should always check with their doctors before using a sauna or hot tub. Studies have shown that a woman's body temperature can reach 102 F. in as little as 10 minutes in a hot tub.

Researchers are not certain yet whether overheating is dangerous during pregnancy. Preliminary studies by March of Dimes grantee James Clapp, M.D., then of the University of Vermont (and now of MetroHealth Medical Center in Cleveland), suggests that pregnant women have some special adaptations that help protect them against overheating. Beginning very early in pregnancy, a woman becomes more efficient than she was prior to pregnancy. While this adaption may help protect the fetus, the pregnant woman should continue to take precautions to avoid hyperthermia.

Don't Forget!

On Aug. 5-9, the Muenster High School Cheerleaders will be conducting their annual Mini-Camp. The girls are excited and ready to teach the new cheers and chants to all students in grades 1

Four sisters meet in San Antonio for reunion

A weekend trip to San Antonio provided four sisters with a delightful reunion visit. On Friday, July 19, Mrs. Thomas Dankesreiter and daughters Dana Walterscheid and Amy Dankesreiter, accompanied by Mrs. J.D. (Miriam) Caplinger of Muenster and Mrs. Theresa Hermes of Lindsay drove to San Antonio. There they were met by Sister Corrine Koesler of Our Lady of the Lake Convent and Sister Mary Lin Koesler of Floresville, Texas.

The four sisters, all daughters of the late Alfons Koesler, Sr., Miriam, Theresa and the two nuns, enjoyed hours of catching up on the news, reminiscing, singing and picture taking.

Rosemary Dankesreiter and daughters toured the San Antonio Riverwalk and had a wonderful time at Sea World on Saturday, being fortunate to attend a live concert given by George Strait at Sea World.

The group also visited with Sister Marcella Hermes and Sister Henriann Fuhrmann at Our Lady of the Lake Convent. While there they met and visited with many area nuns who were staying at the convent.

News of the Sick

Tyler Hess, infant son of Tonya and Stanley Hess of Gainesville and grandson of Butch and Eileen Fisher of Muenster and John Louis and Marcella Hess of Lindsay, is continuing to recover from heart surgery performed Saturday at Cook's Children Medical Center in Fort Worth. Although still in intensive care, Tyler is holding his own and is expected to be dismissed in less than a week. Please continue your prayers for Tyler, Tonya and Stanley.

Louise Trubenbach is a patient at Medical City Hospital of Dallas for treatment of complications. She is recovering slowly, and receives therapy twice a day. She looks forward to visitors, who are most welcome after 3 p.m. Get-well cards may be sent to: Medical City, Room 401, 7777 Forest Lane, Dallas, Texas 75230.

Denison seminar details veterans benefits info

AUSTIN - Recently expanded veterans benefits will be the focus of a seminar that will be held in Denison.

Sponsored by the Texas Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, the seminar is free and open to the public. It will be held on Tuesday, August 6 at 6:30 p.m. at the Holiday Inn located at Highway 75 North. Registration will begin at 6:00 p.m.

Gov. Ann Richards recently signed into law a bill which will allow the VLB to increase the loan amounts for Texas veterans using the land and housing programs.

The new law gives the VLB authority to boost the maximum loan for home purchases to $45,000 from $20,000. Mauro anticipates the VLB will take action to increase the loan amount so that it is effective September 1.

The new law also gives the board the authority to boost the land loan to $40,000 from $20,000. However, changes in federal tax law will be required to increase the ceiling. Mauro said he is currently working with the Texas congressional delegation to accomplish this.

As chairman of the VLB, Mauro administers three benefit programs for Texas veterans that provide low-interest loans for land, housing and home improvements. Statewide the VLB has made more than 130,000 loans to Texas veterans totaling more than $1.8 billion. In the Denison area, the VLB has made 6,245 loans totaling more than $78 million and there are more than 42,720 veterans in the Denison area which includes Grayson, Cooke, Fannin, and Collin counties.

Currently the land program lends eligible Texas veterans up to $20,000 at 7.99 percent interest to purchase at least five acres of land. The housing program currently lends eligible Texas veterans up to $20,000 at 8.5 percent interest to purchase a home. The loan can be used in conjunction with a conventional, FHA or VA loan to give Texas veterans a lower overall interest rate. In addition, Texas veterans can receive up to $17,500 at 10.5 percent interest (plus FHA insurance) to make home improvements.

For more information on the Denison seminar or the Texas Veterans Land Board programs call toll-free 1-800-252-VETS.

Proper procedure is key to early detection

A woman who improperly performs a breast self-exam is doing the same as the woman who does not do a breast self-exam at all.

"Neither one is getting any benefits. Breast self-exams are a key to early detection of breast cancer," advises Billie McCalman, RN, at the Ochsner Breast Screening Center. "Breast care should be taken seriously because in her lifetime, one out of 10 women in the United States will develop breast cancer."

Breast cancer is the number one health concern of American women and the second most common cancer in women, after lung cancer. The cause of it is unknown. If breast cancer is detected in its earliest stages, the cure rate can be as high as 90 percent and the need for breast removal may be eliminated.

Nine out of 10 breast lumps are found by women themselves and most are not cancerous. However, that does not lessen the need for all women to be responsible for their health and make a lifetime commitment to regular breast self-exams, stresses McCalman.

Ideally, breast self-exams should be done one week after a woman's menstrual period ends. The breasts are less lumpy and tender then. If you no longer have periods, your self-exam can be performed any time, as long as it is the same time each month.

McCalman says there are basic steps to follow in doing a complete breast self-exam. Do not take any shortcuts.

First, know what your breasts look like. A visual change can be an important early sign. Stand undressed in front of a mirror and compare your breasts. Look for any change in the size, shape, skin texture or color, any dimpling or puckering of the breast. Notice any nipple changes, such as scaliness, a pulling to one side or a change in the direction one points. Nipple discharge can be a sign of a breast problem. Gently squeeze the breast tissue surrounding the nipple between the thumb and middle finger and check for any discharge.

While taking a bath or shower, start at the collar bone and rub down firmly with a soapy hand to the nipple of one breast, feeling any lumps, thickening or changes in the breast from previous exams. Repeat for the other breast.

Also check for lumps in the armpits. Place one hand on your waist and reach across with your other hand to feel the armpit pocket created by the hand on your waist. Note any changes from previous exams. Repeat under the other arm.

After bathing, lie down to complete the exam. Place a pillow under your left shoulder. Put your left hand behind your head and reach across with your right hand to your left breast. Place your right hand at the top of the left breast, holding your fingers together and flat. With firm, even pressure, move your hand in a wide circle around the breast, letting the tissue slide under the pads of your fingertips. Keep your fingers on the breast tissue as you examine in the spiral motion. Move your hand in increasingly smaller circles until the entire breast is covered.

Brandon Grewing celebrated his 12th birthday on July 18 with a party hosted by his mother, Kellye Hess, and Clarence Hess in their home. Brandon enjoyed pizza and swimming with his guest, Aaron Sicking.

Later that evening, Brandon and his guests enjoyed a hamburger cookout and camping out overnight. Guests included Aaron Sicking, Tracey Vogel and his sister and brother, Kristin and Chad; also grandparents Martin and Edna Klement. Guests were also served cupcakes and soda.

The only thing a kid should be getting in school is smarter.

Unfortunately, what too many of them are getting instead is drugs. With your help, it doesn't have to be this way.

There is a program called 'Schools Without Drugs: The Challenge' that can help you deal with the drug problem in your community or school.

Find out about it. The smarter you are about what works against drugs, the better chance our kids will understand how dumb it is to take them.

the intention of possibly bringing back two children, ideally around three or four years old. Possibly a brother and sister. Liliana's was the third or fourth family that they visited with to discuss adopting a child.

"We had almost decided on a three-week-old baby until we met Liliana," commented LaVerna. "When returning from visiting another family, a lady came up to the people who were helping us to give her up," explained LaVerna. "It was very emotional when we signed the adoption papers. Her mother cried and I cried. The interpreter told Liliana that Angelo and I were her new parents and that she should obey us."

Liliana was adopted through a private adoption. All adoptions from orphanages had been stopped by the government before Angelo and LaVerna went to Rumania. People were still adop-

When queried about their decision to adopt a child from Rumania LaVerna answered that they had first thought about becoming foster parents. They decided against this after keeping Angelo's brother's children for several months and discovering how disruptive it was for the family and the children when they had to leave.

"We decided it was easier and better to adopt," LaVerna remarked. "About a year ago I read an article about a Dallas couple who adopted a child from Rumania. Then I saw a program on '60 Minutes' about how so many children from Rumania really needed homes. In February there was an article in the Texas Catholic about a lady who was going to go to Rumania to adopt a child. I called her."

LaVerna was told of a workshop for people wanting to adopt children from Rumania. It was held on a Saturday at Holy Name Church. A lady who adopted an 18 month old child was at the workshop and told those present what to expect.

LaVerna also met two other couples from Arlington who had adopted this way and it was from one of these couples that they got their Rumanian contact. "He was a man who had lived in Rumania, come to the United States and become a citizen and then went back to Rumania to help people with the adoptions," she said.

LaVerna advises anyone that is really committed to adopting a child to "Never go without a reliable contact. We met people who had been there over two months and didn't have a child. There are some who will take you somewhere for a little money and never really help you."

Adopting this way is no more expensive than adopting a child in the United States according to LaVerna. They stayed with a Rumanian family instead of in a hotel which would have been very costly.

Before a couple can consider adopting this way they must first meet the requirements set by the state of Texas. There is a home inspection and a home study done by a licensed social worker who also contacts references about you and your family. A letter must be presented from a police officer stating that you are both good citizens and have no police record.

Once in Rumania the adoption process will take a least four to five weeks. Angelo was in Rumania for four weeks and LaVerna remained an extra week while final paperwork was completed.

Liliana is now happily at home in the Nasches' spacious family residence. The family is in for a new experience since she is the first daughter/sister. "All of the children were in favor of adoption and really positive from the beginning," replied LaVerna when asked how they reacted to it.

"I can't understand her (Liliana), but she's learning to say some words," said Matthew of his new sister. "She likes to play ball and she learned to ride a bike the first three days that she was here."

Liliana is a bright child and is already picking up some English words. LaVerna and her new daughter have developed a system of communication. Liliana has already found a friend and playmate in her new cousin, Crystal Hess, daughter of Gene and Patty Hess, who lives just across the road from the Nasches. The two will be classmates at Sacred Heart when they start first grade this year. Liliana will celebrate her first birthday in the United States on Aug. 29.

and said that she knew of a lady who had a little girl that she wanted to put up for adoption. It was only two blocks over so we decided to see her."

The child was Liliana and after meeting her and hearing what her mother had to say, the Nasches' choice was made. "This mother seemed happy about the possibility of her daughter being adopted and coming to America," said LaVerna. "Liliana was positive toward me. Since she was an older child, she might not get another chance to be adopted while many people who have never had children want an infant. It seemed the thing to do. The mother of the baby didn't seem happy about giving up her infant and I just couldn't ask a mother to give up her child."

Liliana couldn't speak any English when she met the Nasches. An interpreter explained to Liliana what was happening and she seemed happy. "The mother loved her daughter very much and must have had a very good reason ting by locating the mothers of children in the orphanages and having the mother take her child from it and then proceeding with a private adoption. The government has since halted all adoptions until at least November. "We were lucky to already have a hearing date set so that we could adopt Liliana," stated LaVerna.

The country of Rumania is in such turmoil now because they were under Communist rule for 40 years and then their leader was assassinated about a year and a half ago, according to LaVerna. This opened the country up and this was when all of the children were discovered suffering in orphanages.

"We asked someone what Rumanian people thought about the Americans and others who were adopting the country's children," LaVerna said. "They felt that most people think that it is good that the children will have a chance at something that they wouldn't otherwise have. Many of them would also like the opportunity to leave Rumania."

Liliana not only has new parents, but five new brothers. Angelo Jr. and John no longer live at home, but have already met her. Mark is coming home this weekend to meet his new sister. Stevan and Matthew live at home.

Liliana seems quite comfortable with them as she playfully teases Stevan and enjoys playing with Matthew and his toys. Her first toy was a gift from Matthew, a Barbie doll. It appears to be her favorite.

Area agencies receive awards

The Texoma Council of Governments announced recently that two area agencies have received 1991 Innovation Awards. For the second year in a row, the Red River Valley Tourism Association has captured an Innovative Award for their "Calendar of Events" brochure. The publication was assembled by Judy Day, coordinator of Gainesville's Community Revitalization. About 75,000 brochures were printed and distributed throughout Texas and Oklahoma.

Red River Valley Tourism Assoc. consists of four counties including Cooke, Grayson, Fannin, and Montague. Area chambers of commerce and businesses are encouraged to join the organization. The group's purpose is to promote tourism to the Red River Valley area. The Muenster Chamber of Commerce and Cooke County Electric Co-op are listed as members.

Eric Williams represents Cooke County Electric and Margie Starke, secretary of Muenster's Chamber of Commerce, is presently serving on the committee for the 1992 magazine now in the planning stages.

"We decided to assemble a magazine this year as well as a condensed version of the "Calendar of Events" brochure," said Mrs. Starke. "We are getting editorial materials together now and ads will soon be sold by representatives of the Huckaby Company who will be printing the magazine." These magazines will be placed in all 12 travel bureaus in Texas and also sent overseas when information from Texas is requested.

In addition, Tom Johnson, economic development planner for Texoma Council of Governments announced that the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce received a 1991 Innovation Award for their brochure, "Visitor's Guide to Gainesville."

"As there were only six Innovation Awards given to the entire state of Texas, area groups winning two of them is a major achievement," Johnson said.

Kids recycle to save planet

(NU) - Every child in America, along with every adult, throws away 1,300 pounds of trash a year. Should kids be doing this?

Many environmentalists don't think so. Kids can learn to recycle and do their part to save the planet. And in the learning process, they should be taught the economics of recycling, too.

So says the Institute of Scrap Recycling Industries (ISRI). ISRI points out that while many people have gotten on the recycling bandwagon, they're only collecting and separating recyclable products like aluminum cans and newspapers. They don't understand that recycling only occurs when a product is returned to the market place and reused.

ISRI thinks recycling education must start early if the U.S. is to attain the 25 percent recycling rate the Environmental Protection Agency is calling for by 1992. Right now Americans are only recycling about 10 percent of their trash.

"The Scrap Map" is a recycling educational publication for children in grades K-6. It teaches the concept of recycling in basic terms and points out its economic benefits. For example, kids and schools can make money by selling their collected recyclables, such as soda cans, to recycling centers. It also costs less to manufacture products out of recycled goods because much less energy is needed.

A single copy of "The Scrap Map: An Environmental Publication for Grades K-6" is available free by writing to Dept. USA, Institute of Scrap Recycling Industries, 1627 K St. NW, Washington, DC 20006-1704.

A.G. Edwards' research is proven top performer

Stocks recommended by A.G. Edwards outperformed the recommendations of nine other major brokerage houses for the 12-month period ended March 31, according to a Wall Street Journal study released May 17.

A.G. Edwards' recommendations produced a 20.9 percent gain during the 12-month period ended March 31, 1991, while the stock market as a whole, as measured by the S&P 500, was up 14.4 percent over the same period. For the first quarter of 1991, A.G. Edwards' recommendations produced a return of 28.7 percent.

A.G. Edwards' Securities Research Focus List includes stock recommendations in areas that the firm believes represent the best investment opportunities. Terry Dessent, A.G. Edwards' director of securities research, says, "As a whole, this list is priced at a discount to the market while offering a better-than-average yield and higher projected growth rates for earnings and dividends."

Currently, A.G. Edwards Focus List includes many cyclical stocks, reflecting the firm's belief in a cyclical recovery in the economy and the attractive valuations in many of the stocks. "This category consists of both large- and small-capitalization stocks, allowing investors to take advantage of an added dimension to the current market," says Dessent.

Experience the Old West at Nance

The Nance Ranch and Visitors' Center, one of the newest tourist attractions in the Texas Panhandle, provides guests an opportunity to experience first-hand what life is like on a real working Texas Ranch.

The Ranch is open daily from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. and 2:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. on Sundays. Visitors learn how to rope, milk a cow, feed baby animals and then take a ride on a mule-drawn wagon in the pasture.

The historic Nance Home, established in the 1920s, is the final activity on the tour. Pricelless antiques and collectibles that Mrs. Nance collected throughout the years are on display. The home will also be the site of an antique quilt show in August.

A 1928 friendship quilt will be shown for the first time at this exhibit. Local pioneer women from the German community of Umbarger blocked the quilt when they gathered for fellowship.

Other activities planned for the summer and fall include a sheep dog trial and Cowboy weekend in September, and a "Sheep to Shawl" Festival in October.

Group rates are available and private parties can be accommodated.

For information contact the Nance Ranch at (806) 488-2265.

Health Briefs...

Doctors back anti-tobacco policies - Texas physicians supported an aggressive package of anti-tobacco policies during a recent meeting of the Texas Medical Association House of Delegates, including support for divestiture of tobacco company stock by all Texas physicians and educational institutions. The actions of the TMA House of Delegates were reported in an article in the July issue of Texas Medicine, the Association's official news magazine. Among anti-tobacco measures adopted by the physicians are policies supporting an end to government support for the tobacco industry, a ban on free samples and vending machine sales, classification of cigarette smoking as a class A carcinogen, and placement of tobacco products under regulation of the Food and Drug Administration. Doctors also called for larger warning labels on cigarette packages.

New program to help place physicians in rural areas - HealthFind, a program designed to match small towns needing physicians with doctors interested in practicing in rural area, will be launched in October, the Texas Medical Association reports in the July issue of the official news magazine, "Texas Medicine." HealthFind is primarily funded by the Center for Rural Health Initiatives, with support from TMA and other organizations. It will introduce practicing physicians to bankers, attorneys, hospital administrators, and others from communities of no more than 25,000 that are interested in recruiting physicians. The program will be kicked off Oct. 5 and 6 at the Worthington Hotel in Fort Worth, with a second session scheduled for Nov. 2 and 3 at the Holiday Inn North River Walk in San Antonio. Other organizations sponsoring the program include the Texas Chamber of Commerce, Texas Hospital Association, Texas Academy of Family Physicians, Texas Association of Community Health Centers, Texas Rural Communities Inc., Texas Health Care Association, Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board and Texas Department of Health.

Joe B. Evans dies July 19 at age 75

Funeral services for Joe Brownlow Evans, 75, were held Monday, July 22, 1991 at 3 p.m. in the Forestburg United Methodist Church.

Rev. Larry Kruger of Valley View and Chris Allen of Irving, former pastors of the Forestburg United Methodist Church, officiated.

Interment was in Roselawn Memorial Park in Denton, where Masonic services were held. Scott-Morris Funeral Home directed the service.

Pallbearers were Dick Ellzey, Clifford Hudspeth, Ronnie Denning, Jack Vanderhoff, Rusty Denning and W.A. Matthews.

Mr. Evans is survived by his wife, Mrs. Imogene Evans; one son Joe Evans, Jr. of Forestburg; two daughters Mrs. Regina Pitt of Krum and Mrs. Sharon Griffin of Norman, Ok.; one sister Mrs. Nancy Wilbanks of Texas City; six grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Mr. Evans was born July 6, 1916 in Denton. He was a member of the Forestburg United Methodist Church, and also a member of Masonic Lodge in Saint Jo and Denton.

Mr. Evans attended Denton High School. In 1940 he went to Panama with the Army Corps. of Engineers. He worked in Ecuador and other South American countries. He owned and operated Joe B. Evans plumbing, heating and air conditioning and retired in 1970. In 1975, he and his wife Imogene moved to the Hardy community in Denton.

Mr. Evans was active in church and community affairs. He was chairman of the board of trustees and chairman of the building committee of the Forestburg United Methodist Church. He was very active and instrumental in the reconstruction of the Methodist Church. He received a plaque from his church for his untiring efforts.

His wife, Imogene, recently retired from the Montague Home Extension Service.

Mr. Evans will be greatly missed in the area and by all those who knew him.

Announcement

Folks, get ready for the Forestburg Watermelon Festival Saturday, August 17. For information call Kim Desmuke, president, at 817-964-2488. For "Fashion Revue" call 817-768-2229. Your help is needed.

Personals

Mrs. Veda Magee of Bowie had knee surgery Monday in Wichita Falls General Hospital. She is recovering nicely. She is Mrs. Merle Hudspeth's aunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hudspeth had as guests two days last week two granddaughters, one of Wichita Falls and one of Forestburg, and two great granddaughters, both of Lewisville.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hudspeth spent Thursday night in Arlington and attended the baseball game where their grandson Colin O'Brian of Wichita Falls played.

Anell and Elsie Thurman of Saint Jo visited Mozelle and Kenneth Hutson Saturday night.

The Jimmy Christian family of Springtown visited the C.H. Christians Saturday and attended Sam Bass Day.

Mrs. Louise Shults drove to Lindsey, Ok. Friday morning to the home of John C. and Nelda Blankenship. Then the three drove to Elk City, Ok. for the three day reunion of the Wall-Prather-Totty families at the Holiday Inn. Over 100 people attended the reunion. Mrs. Louise Shults returned to her home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Maberry Jr. of Daingerfield arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Maberry Sr. Friday evening. Then Marvin Maberry III of Gainesville arrived Saturday morning at the Maberry home. They all left for Sylvester. Sunday they all attended the Maberry reunion at Rotan. A nice group of people attended the reunion. The Maberrys all returned home Sunday evening. They report the town of Sylvester received six inches of rain.

Mrs. Josephine Berry visited Miss Judy Stephenson Monday in the Gainesville Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jackson attended the fish fry at the Forestburg Baptist Church Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Jackson attended the family birthday dinner in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dill and family in honor of the Dill's son Kody's 13th birthday. They enjoyed a steak dinner with birthday cake and ice cream and gifts.

Katie and Johnnie Cook of Marietta, Ok. spent Friday visiting Odessa and Jack Berry. In the afternoon Odessa and Katie visited Miss Kathryn Fortenberry and Mrs. Ann Hancock of Slidell.

Dr. and Mrs. Jerry McKown, Kimberly and Casey of Valley View and Carla, Max, Wesley and Megan Ebeling of Round Mountain; Mrs. Pauline Sicking and Ruth Smith visited Odessa and Jack Berry Sunday afternoon.

The singing at the Prairie Point Church of Nazarene was well attended Sunday with lots of good singing. The next singing will be October 27, 1991 at 6 p.m. at the Rosston United Methodist Church.

Move over guys, these ladies can play ball, too!

by Mike Pagel
The 1991 Old Ladies Softball League got underway Tuesday night as the Red team defeated the Pink team 17-15. Donna Biffle of the Red team was the game's big hitter, going 3 for 3, hitting two doubles, and a triple, resulting in 5 RBIs.

The Pink team jumped out to a 13-7 lead after three innings, but could only muster two more runs in the final four innings. Credit Stephanie Klement for the Pink's inability to score runs in those innings.

Klement, a pitcher for the Red team, came on in relief of Shirley Knabe in the top of the fourth inning, and pitched well. Other Red players who played well Tuesday night were Deanna Blasingame, Anne Hesse, and Peachie Huchton. Leading the way for the Pink were Lisa Haverkamp, Annette Bayer and Staci Walterscheid.

Woods, Metzler defend title in Jaycee tourney

by Danny Nortman
John Woods and Mark Metzler successfully defended their title in the second annual Lindsay Jaycees 2-man scramble golf tournament which was held Sunday, July 21 at Gainesville Municipal Golf Course.

A field of 84 golfers participated in the event, coming from towns all around the area including Ardmore, Callisburg, Carrollton, Corinth, Dallas, Denton, Forestburg, Gainesville, Lake Kiowa, Lindsay, Muenster, Myra, Sanger, Thackerville, and Valley View.

Woods and Metzler carded a 64 to win top honors in the Championship Flight for the second year in a row. Brothers Richard and Joe Hundt were right behind them with a 65 to take second place while Charlie Brown and Jim Hatcher also shot a 65 but had to settle for third place via a scorecard playoff.

In the First Flight, Ray Newman and Sonny Wheeler shot a fine round of 68 to win first place. Andy and Jeff Nichols were good for a 71 and second place. The team of David and Jerry Barns captured third place with a 74, as they edged out Harold Owen and Terry Heilman in a scorecard playoff.

Mike Gois and Albert Sanchez outdistanced the field in the Second Flight with a 69 for first place. Royce and Weldon Martin nabbed second place honors with a 73, followed by Albert Escobedo and Salty Rose in third with a 75. The Escobedo-Rose team was also able to secure the third place spot via a scorecard playoff over Michael Hermes and Pat Bezner.

Jess Trowbridge and Sam Hill carded a 72 to win the top spot in the Third Flight. Ricky Erlandson and Daryl Clark notched a 73 to take second, while Shawn Parker and Dan Tomlinson were third with a score of 79.

In the Fourth Flight, the team of Dan Bezner and Wade Walterscheid captured first place with a round of 80. Bob Chapman and Tommy Tubb shot an 81 and were in second place, while Craig Nybro and Nelson Newton combined to shoot an 84 and take third.

In the Longest Drive competitions, John Woods knocked a 305-yard tee shot to win on the 4th hole, and Kevin Patton blasted a 290-yard drive to win on the 12th hole.

The Closest-To-The-Pin contests also provided for some spectacular shots on all of the par threes. Dan Tomlinson put his shot on the 3rd hole within 15 feet of the cup to win. On the 10th, Tony Elmore's winning shot came within 13 feet of the hole. Steve Harbin's shot at the 14th came to rest just eight feet away from the pin, and Richard Hundt put a shot just seven feet out at the 16th.

No one was able to win the 1991 GMC Pickup which was being offered to any golfer scoring a Hole In-One on the 5th hole. Tim Camp won consolation honors for placing his shot within five feet of the cup.

The Jaycees wish to thank everyone who participated in the golf tournament as well as the following sponsors: Antonio's, Brown Motor Company, Denny's, First State Bank, Gainesville Fuel, Gainesville National Bank, Golden Corral, Golf Place, K-Mart, La Casa, Lindsay Grocery, Magill Sports Center, Piggly Wiggly, The Wooden Spoon, The Smokehouse, Tom Thumb, Seivally's East, Smokehouse II, Walmart and The Bottle Shop.

Hunter education courses continue... Cooke Co. class Aug. 5

Attention hunters! If you need to take the hunter education course before fall hunting seasons, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department can help. Actually, even those who do not have to take the course can benefit from it.

Beginning Sept. 1, persons born during the period Sept. 2, 1971, through Aug. 31, 1975, must have completed a certified hunter education course to hunt legally in Texas. Also, if you plan to hunt in another state this fall, the course is accepted by all states and Canadian provinces.

"This course is designed to teach hunter safety and responsibility, but we also want to make young hunters aware of their hunting heritage," said Terry Erwin, conservation recreation coordinator. "This course will make them a better hunter and more responsible sportsman. Hunters must realize that they will be held accountable for not only their own actions, but those of other hunters. Wouldn't you rather hunt with someone who is safe and responsible?"

While not mandatory for persons born before Sept. 2, 1971, it would be beneficial to all hunters to take the course.

Course topics include hunting heritage, the sportsman's role in wildlife management, safety and responsibility, understanding the basics of modern firearms, archery and muzzleloader firearms, survival and wilderness first aid, game laws, wildlife identification and basic hunting techniques.

The course was mandated beginning June 1, 1988, and by Sept. 1, 1993, all hunters born on or after Sept. 2, 1971, and who are at least 12 years old, must take the course to hunt legally in Texas.

The course, which costs $5, is 10 hours long and must be scheduled over a minimum of two days. Those hunters affected by the law are required to carry proof of certification while hunting. Proof is not needed prior to purchase of a hunting license.

Cooke County's course is scheduled for August 5 in Muenster. Jim Gehrig is the instructor. For information regarding a particular course call the instructor at 759-4533 or 759-4112 or the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department at 1-800-792-1112, ext. 4999, or (512) 389-4999.

Otto leads Black to NTSBL championship

by Mike Pagel
Valley View - Amy Otto scored 5 of her team-high 9 points in the final two minutes of the championship game to lead the Black to a 28-24 victory over the Gray last Thursday night. The Black team, who was only 4-3 during the regular season, advanced to their championship game by virtue of their wins over the Green team Monday night, and the previously unbeaten Yellow team on Wednesday night.

The Black team's main concern heading into the championship game was the dominance that the Gray team's duo of Gina Janaway and Debbie Fangman had over opposing players, not only in the tournament, but throughout the whole season. During the entire season though, Janaway and Fangman, both tall girls, were being defended by only one person, with and without the ball. Because of league rules, teams are prohibited from playing zone defenses. Therefore, if a double or even a triple team were to occur, it would have to be when that player who is drawing the double or triple team, has possession of the ball. Swarming the ball at the low-post worked to perfection for the Black in the championship game. Janaway and Fangman, being forced to shoot over sometimes as many as six arms and hands, combined for only 9 points in the game. Janaway only hit for 1 field goal and didn't even score a single point until she hit a free throw with 5:48 remaining in the game. Doubling down at the low-post allowed for open outside shots by Jessica Fuhrmann of the Gray team. Fuhrmann hit two 3-pointers on the night, one of which gave the Gray a 1-point edge over Black at halftime. Jessica was the leading scorer for the championship game with 12 points.

The Black team did an equally impressive job on the offensive end of the court. They rotated well without the ball, allowing for open shots for themselves and their teammates. Black was led in scoring by Otto with those 9 points. DaLana Walterscheid and Theresa Kubis each scored 6, Christy Yosten and Lisa Glen of Valley View chipped in 3 points each, and Tonia McCollum, also of Valley View, added a bucket in the Black victory.

Red leaves no doubt!

by Mike Pagel
VALLEY VIEW - at the beginning of the season, it was quite evident that the Red boys' team would be the team to beat in the NTSBL. During this past week at the NTSBL tournament in Valley View, that same theory held true.

Every team in the league had an opportunity to beat the Red team during the regular season. During the post-season tournament however, only three teams had that chance to hand Red a loss. The Orange team failed in the first round. Blue couldn't do the job in the semi-finals, and Gray, despite playing one of their best games of the season, came up short too.

The Red's Harris and Harrison combination proved to be too much for the Gray in the championship game. Wylie Harris of Lindsay scored 18 and Brandon Harrison of Gainesville added 12 points to pace the Red team. Kenny Fleitman led the Gray team with 27 points. The Gray team, with only five players, led by 1 at halftime. With this in mind the Red ran their fast break at every opportunity, hoping to wear the Gray down. They really did not wear the Gray down. One particular Gray player though, an cut to the basket, twisted his knee. Even though, James Daugherty of Saint Jo stayed in the game with a sore knee; he lost his effectiveness. Daugherty, before twisting his knee, scored 10 points. Ronnie Dieter added 7 points, all on free throws, and Fred Hughes scored 4 for the Gray. Other red scorers contributing to the 54-48 Red championship victory are Lindsay's Patrick Corcoran with 8 points. Mike Hacker and Kody Truebenbach each scored 6 and Joe Bedowitz and Chad Pegus of Gainesville came up with 2 points apiece. With their victory in the championship game, the Red team became the only team in either league to survive the entire season without a loss.

CCC team rolls on...

by Mike Pagel
The Cromeen Cattle Co. softball team, sponsored by Frank and Bobbie Cromeen, will travel to the Metroplex area this weekend to participate in the USSSA State Tournament. On the season, CCC has a 19-1 county league record and an overall 40-9 season record.

CCC lays claim to being champions of the Cooke County Men's Softball League. Also, by winning the District 13 Championship in Denton recently, CCC has qualified to play in the ASA major league tournament in Tyler, Texas Aug. 10 and 11. In this tour-namment, CCC will be playing against professional softball players who actually sign contracts and are paid by big bucks for playing the game. Best of luck to them in that tournament.

Residents urged to vote for exemption

Cooke County residents are urged to vote for a constitutional amendment that would authorize a County Education District to adopt certain homestead exemptions if approved by voters in that district in the upcoming Aug. 10 election, according to Cooke County Farm Bureau President Leonard Hartman of Muenster.

At the same time, voters are urged to vote against the second constitutional amendment that would allow the state to sell additional bonds to be used for student loans.

"Texas Farm Bureau policy states that we are for increasing homestead exemptions and for restricting state indebtedness by limiting issuance of bonds to fund state expenditures," Mr. Hartman said.

The statewide passage of Amendment No. 1, which Cooke County Farm Bureau favors, would allow the three propositions attached to that amendment - if approved by local County Education District voters - to become effective.

One proposition would allow voters in each County Education District to determine if their district should provide a resident homestead exemption not to exceed 20 percent of market value but no lower than $5,000. Another proposition would allow voters in each County Education District to determine if their district should provide an additional disabled and elderly homestead of $10,000. Cooke County Farm Bureau favors these propositions.

Mr. Hartman urged a "no vote" on the third proposition which would allow the voters in each County Education District to determine if their district should tax non-income-producing personal property such as automobiles, boats and airplanes.

Mr. Hartman also urged county voters to vote against Constitutional Amendment No. 2. That amendment would allow the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to sell up to $300 million in general obligation bonds to be used for loans to students attending institutions for higher education in Texas.

Texas dairy farmers face disastrous prices

Editorial by: Joe Rankin, President, Texas Farmers Union
It's becoming more and more clear that dairy farmers in Texas are facing disastrous prices that threaten to bankrupt them and the rural communities they support. It is also clear that Congress must face the challenge of turning a bad federal dairy policy around.

This month, Congress is debating a dairy bill that stands to provide some relief to producers in our area. Congress was required by the farm bill to change the director of dairy policy if the present program didn't work to stabilize supplies and prices - it didn't!

Supplies increased; prices plummeted by 25-40 percent; and now, farmers can't pay their bills because milk prices are three to four dollars per hundredweight below the cost of production.

But all the while, milk prices at the supermarket have remained at roughly the same levels. Something is drastically wrong with dairy policy.

Congress must not allow itself to be intimidated by veto threats by President Bush, who thinks driving hundreds of thousands of dairy farmers out of business will make the industry more efficient!

The new program Congress is working on would provide farmers a higher support price (12.60 per hundredweight is the starting point), and a two-tier inventory management program with a major disincentive for overproduction.

This program will balance our dairy output with demand needs; provide consumers a stable, reasonably priced supply of dairy products; allow farmers to gain income from the marketplace; save taxpayer dollars; and still provide adequate dairy products for nutrition and school lunch programs.

In encourage all dairy farmers and rural people who depend on the farm economy to tell their Congressman or Senator that this plan makes sense and is critical to the survival of the economy of our area. Please pick up the phone today and call Congressmen: Kika de la Garza, Larry Combest, Bill Sarpalius, Charles Stenholm - at 202/224-3121.

No business can survive the kind of red ink prices dairy farmers face today. The pressure is on Congress and the Administration to make the needed changes.

Valley View Classic sets Aug. 12 entry deadline

by Elaine Schad

Entries are being accepted for the Red River Classic Livestock Show set for Aug. 24 at the Valley View FFA Project Barn.

The steer and heifer show annually garners entries from throughout Texas and southern Oklahoma, said organizers. The show is sponsored by the Valley View Young Farmers.

Deadline for all livestock to arrive is 8 a.m. on the day of the show. Steers will be weighed and classified beginning at 8 a.m. The heifer show will start at 10 a.m., followed by the steer show.

Awards will be given for champions and showmanship. There will be two divisions of showmanship, junior for age 13 and senior for 14 and over.

Entry fee is $30 per animal with a $10 late charge after the Aug. 12 deadline.

For more information, call Ryan Norwood at 726-3203 or Denise Martin at 726-3251. Mail entries to Red River Classic, 401 South Lee Street, Valley View, Texas 76272.

Deadline Aug. 16 for registering family farms

AUSTIN - The deadline for participation in this year's Family Land Heritage Program is Friday, Aug. 16, 1991.

This program honors those families who have actively maintained agricultural production on their land for 100 years or more. By participating in this program, Texas farmers and ranchers can preserve and record the rich agricultural heritage of their families.

Basic requirements for participation in the program include continuous agricultural production on the farm/ranch for 100 years or more, land ownership within the family, and complete operation or supervision of the land production by family members who are Texas residents. The farm property must also be at least 10 acres with a minimum of $50 income from agricultural products or if less than 10 acres, sales must total at least $250 a year. If all of the land was ever leased to someone outside the family it will not qualify.

Texas residents who own agricultural property that think they might qualify for the program, may obtain application forms and information about the program from their local county judge or county Historical Commission chairman. Applications and supporting documents must be certified by the county judge of the county in which the land is located.

Forms and information may also be obtained from any Texas Department of Agriculture district office or the main Austin TDA office, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711. TDA is the final judge on eligibility.

Prevent accidents...

Utilize these safety measures!

"Safety is of prime importance in on-farm fuel storage," says Gene Meyer, Extension small business energy specialist at Kansas State University. Though they aren't mandatory for family farms, the National Fire Protection Association's fire codes offer safe guidelines.

To be on the safe side, locate storage tanks at least 50 feet from your property lines and important structures.

Build dikes around above ground tanks. Dikes will contain major fuel spills, prevent fuel from polluting the area, and reduce the risk of a fire spreading.

"If you don't build a dike, at least locate the tank where the ground slopes away from any structures," Meyer advises. In addition to the normal vent or the pressure-vacuum cap, above ground tanks should have an emergency relief vent for protection in the event of a fire. The vent opens to relieve excess pressure inside the tank (pressure increases as the tank gets hot).

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

White Grubs

It's white grub season again and time to consider what should be done to prevent the brown, dying patches characteristic of the damage caused by these pests.

Results of light trap catches of June beetles, the adult phase of the white grub, at the Dallas Research and Extension Center indicate a heavy, early flight this year. Whether this will translate into a bad year for white grubs is not known, but the potential for problems is certainly there. June beetle numbers fed into a computer model indicate the optimal time for applying insecticide treatments should lie somewhere between Aug. 3 and Aug. 24.

This treatment window is centered on the period when the largest proportion of the white grub population is in the first and second instar lifestage, and before the most damaging third instar lifestage is reached.

Treatment with insecticides is not recommended unless more than four white grubs per square foot are found in the top 4-6 inches of soil. Golf course cup cutters or a knife can be used to cut out a chunk of sod to look for grubs in the rootzone.

Unnecessary treatments with insecticides are not only expensive, they can result in destruction of beneficial organisms and needlessly pollute the environment.

If insecticide treatments are deemed necessary, it is important for the lawn to be well-watered several days before the insecticide is applied. Moist soil brings white grubs closer to the soil surfaces, increasing the chance for successful insecticidal control.

Watering is also important immediately after insecticide is applied. When using liquid insecticides, lawns should be watered immediately after application - preferably before spray deposits dry. Granular formulations require watering-in within 1-2 days after application. This insures that the insecticide is carried down into the root zone of the soil where white grubs feed. Products labeled for white grub control include chlorpyrifos (Dursban), diazinon, and isofenfos (Ofanol).
