MOVING MOUNTAIN

GILROY, CALIF.—A restless mountain, moving along an area nearly a quarter of a mile wide, the result of a slide. The earth mass was estimated to have moved a mile and a half since a week ago. Photo shows general view of the "Moving Mountain."

Inspector, gave his O. K. on production methods at the cheese factory during a visit there Wednesday.

Mrs. Jim Cooke spent the past week-end in Denton as the guest of her daughter, Miss Edith May Rhodes, at the Texas State College for Women.

Clarence Hellman, T. P. Frost and Ray Swirczynski, all now employed in an oil field near Ada, Okla., spent last Monday visiting home folks at Muenster.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Orval Malone during the week-end were his mother, Mrs. May Malone, and his grandmother, Mrs. Clemmie Garner, both of Wichita Falls.

The flu epidemic got both Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Schenk last week. Neither of them felt fit to get out of bed last Thursday morning and neither ventured outside the house until Sunday.

The Enterprise had to struggle along this week without the help of its society editor, Rosabell Driever. The flu drove her home Monday and kept her there for three days.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hellman drove to Purcell, Okla., Thursday to secure unusual rock specimens for a groto. They were accompanied on the trip by Father Frowin, who was a guest of Father Hugo while in Purcell.

A recent report on Andrew Wimmerer, 36, is that he is seriously ill with a hip ailment at the home of his son, John Wimmer. After several weeks in bed he is said to be getting quite feeble.

A. G. Hutton and G. A. Mattson will move this week-end from the tiny building that has been the refinery's office until now to the more spacious structure that was completed Thursday.

There was no school Monday for children of the parochial fifth grade while the teacher, Sister Frances, was overcoming the influenza. She was confined to bed for the previous week-end.

Walter Richter is unable to continue his work with J. G. Richards and Son since Thursday of last week when he sustained a severe injury to three fingers of his left hand. Though the bones were not broken the flesh was so badly torn that he is in danger of losing the tip of his small finger.

Milton Wade and Horace Busby of the State Theatre, Gainesville spent several hours here Tuesday setting up a billboard for display posters of the theatre's attractions. The billboard was put up in front of the J. C. Trachta place.

An increase is noted in local cheese shipments as milk receipts at the FMA plant continue their steady upward trend. Twenty-eight thousand pounds was shipped to Houston last week. Another 7,000 pound load went to Denison and one went to Dallas. Daily receipts at the cheese factory now are about 30,000 pounds.

After this week Tony Wiesman, formerly a resident here and for the past year living on a farm south of Gainesville, will make his home between Pilot Point and Sanger in Denton county. Tony stated Tuesday that he expected to move in a day or two, as soon as a new house is completed for him to move into.

Members of the Muenster Motorcycle Club are planning a group trip to Wichita Falls next Sunday to participate in hill climbing contests and races sponsored by the motorcycle club of that city. They expect to join a group made up of motor jockeys from Gainesville, Denison and Sherman.

Guests at the Wm. Richtter home during the past week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Amber Estes of Houston and Mr. and Mrs. Chris Jensen of Wichita Falls. Mrs. Estes and Mrs. Jensen are known here as the former Misses Regina and Hallie Richter. Another visitor at the Richter home is Miss Catherine Richter, of Gainesville, now spending two weeks at Muenster.

STUDY CLUB JOINS MOVE AGAINST VILE LITERATURE

Joining in the current widespread drive against indecent literature, the Hyacinth Study Club devoted a short period of its regular meeting last Monday night to a discussion in which the harm of filthy books and magazines was stressed and methods of combat, as suggested by the hierarchy of the church, were especially urged. The discussion was supplemented by a list, drawn up by "Queen's Work," national organ of the Sodality of Our Lady, and presented by Miss Olivia Stock, which mentioned names of the more objectionable magazines.

"Sacramentals in Industry" was the subject of the lesson which occupied the greater part of the meeting. Next week's discussion will be based on "Family Sacramentals," the sixteenth and final chapter of the textbook "Sacramentals of the Church."

FAMILY REUNION FOR TRIPLE ANNIVERSARY

Three members of the Frank Trubenbach family, all of them with birthday anniversaries falling on March 12, were the honor guests at a family reunion held in the Trubenbach home last Sunday. Mrs. Frank Neu of Lindsay, Mrs. Rudy Hellman, and Harry Trubenbach, now spending a three months furlough from his army duties at Fort Bliss, were the honorees.

It was an all day event featured by a feast at noon.

BEHIND THE SCENES
AMERICAN BUSINESS

By JOHN CRADDOCK

NEW YORK—BUSINESS — It was becoming apparent last week that the threat of a raw silk shortage, coupled with rickety prices, might cause some mills to shut down in this country before long. Only 17,500 bales of raw silk are in transit from Japan, which reports it has sold all the new silk in its stocks. Dealers expect a boost in the retail price of silk stockings after Easter. Aside from the possible crisis in this industry, U. S. businessmen saw nothing on the domestic horizon to alter their prediction that another step upward toward full recovery would begin sometime during the spring. Iron ore movement, depressed last year, is expected to be heavier this spring. This is vital to prosperity in the West and Northwest. One major steel company plans to operate 64 ore steamships out of its fleet of 73; the company last year operated only 29 ships. That retailers of woolen goods expect a good sales improvement is indicated by reports that unfilled orders on hand in woolen mills are some 60 per cent higher than a year ago.

WASHINGTON — With a 250,000,000 bushel wheat surplus to dispose of, it is understood the Department of Agriculture is considering the practicality of arranging three-way barter deals with foreign countries. For example, the United States might ship wheat to Germany in exchange for farm machinery and other manufactured goods, which would in turn, be reshipped by the U. S. to South America in exchange for rubber, coffee and other raw materials this country needs. Foreign trade experts of the department have been consulting with State, Treasury and Commerce Department officials, Congressmen, and representatives of other governments. Barter would be applied first to wheat, it is said, and if successful, then later to cotton and other crops in which farm surpluses exist.

THINGS TO WATCH FOR — A safety automobile door lock for protection of children; it operates automatically from the manifold vacuum and prevents the door from being opened while the engine is running — A new type of label which adheres well without moistening to any smooth, non-porous surface like glass, metal, or plastic, yet can be pulled off without leaving a trace — For commercial laundries, a new washing machine that has a time-saving unloading device; the whole batch is mechanically wrapped in a special fabric belt which can be unloaded by hoist and carried direct to extractor or dumped into a truck tub — For department stores and specialty dress shops; where lipstick stains made by customers cause costly markdowns on dresses; sanitary shields which are held between the teeth and completely cover the lips; packed in dispensing wall cabinets, customer pulls one out before trying on a gown — A fluid that adds to the life of typewriter ribbons; it brings the ink from the unused part of the ribbon to the worn portion, and also dissolves hardened ink in old ribbons.

SUBTRACT — Despite a considerable increase in cash income of farmers since 1932, the depression low point, talks with agricultural leaders reveal that in many regions farmers are obtaining very little more merchandise with their added spending money. One reason, of course, is a general rise in prices, but another, not so obvious perhaps, is the increasing burden of hidden taxes. The average weekly tax bill of the American farmer has now mounted to where it equals 23.2 per cent of his total cash income, according to a recent study prepared by the National Consumers Tax Commission in Chicago. In other words, even though he doesn't have to pay an income tax on an annual net income of say $900, he must subtract $208.80 before knowing how much he can spend for actual merchandise. The latter figure represents the amount he will pay in hidden taxes during the year in retail stores or in cooperatives.

MORE GAS — March gasoline sales will rise six per cent over the month last year, it is now expected. That means 100,000,000 more gallons, or 31-3 to a car. So owners and employees of America's 200,000 service stations — comprising one-eighth of all retail establishments — may expect a busier month. The average retail price for the country is down about a cent a gallon from last year, but further price declines are not anticipated this spring or summer. Stocks of gasoline in refiners' hands are lower than a year ago; while fair-bound motorists, both to New York and San Francisco, may keep the pumps turning at a pace sufficient to cause higher prices in another month or so.

HEADLINES IN NEW YORK — 10,000 private industrial plants in U. S. selected by War Department to manufacture munitions in emergency — Manufacturers of fabricated building materials plan no rise in prices — American Sugar Co. profits last year dropped to $407,088, lowest since 1924 — B. F. Goodrich Co. profit in 1938 was $2,240,119 vs. $878,580 loss in 1937; company last year paid taxes of $7,300,000, or 6.3 per cent of sales — Johns-Manville Corp. 1938 earnings drop to $1,455,302 from $5,451,844; profits increasingly difficult to obtain, says report, due to steady rise in production costs, while prices are controlled rigidly by customer reaction and market competition — U. S. Supreme Court restricts power of National Labor Relations Board; sit-down strikes held illegal — Prea, Roosevelt urges CIO and AF of L to hold peace conference; Lewis and Green appoint three-man committees to comply with administration request.

Thirty-two had such serious physical handicap, that they were listed as unsafe automobile drivers. Ninety-seven had such a degree of mental instability that they were noted as "dangerous" behind the wheel.

WOULD YOU PAMPER KILLERS?

Many a Cooke county citizen was disappointed to learn last week that our representative, Jim Pace, saw fit to introduce the much discussed O'Daniel proposal on capital punishment as a bill. Apparently he agrees with our idealistic piper that enemies of society should be taken in as guests of the state or thrown back into circulation for citizens to worry about.

The question is debatable, of course. Thousands of times in the past leading minds of great nations have argued pro and con on whether the interests of justice are best served by execution or some milder form of punishment. And from the mere fact that capital punishment is the law in most states and nations we may conclude that the preponderance of opinion favors it.

We brush aside with a mere remark the naive statement that capital punishment is wrong and that it is forbidden by the commandment "Thou shalt not kill." It is self evident that the commandment is directed at those not in authority. In fact a more thorough perusal of the Mosaic law will disclose that capital punishment is prescribed as a penalty for those who do kill.

Since there can be no argument over the ethical point in capital punishment, the only point to determine is whether it is more effective than milder punishment. And here it is that capital punishment gets the full share of support. The greatest fear in any criminal is his fear of death. Take away that fear and what is there to check his viciousness? O'Daniel and Jim Pace seem to forget that men without principle cannot be impressed by anything less than a threat of counter violence.

The opponents of capital punishment like to make much of the calamity of executing an innocent man by mistake. True, such things have happened. But for every such case there are dozens about other innocent men who were murdered by paroled or escaped convicts who should have been executed for their first murders.

Sentimentality no doubt has something to do with this generous proposal in behalf of criminals. It is only human to pity the under dog. Nevertheless the soft hearted idealists would do well to remember that sentimentality has no place in dealings with those who are devoid of sentiment.

Do not give ear to the bill, we would say. Instead of turning this state over to the cut throats let's crack down on them harder than ever before. Let's take a tip from the fact that there are fewer murders in nations and states where capital punishment is more strictly enforced.

THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Speaking before the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce several weeks ago, John Lee Smith of Throckmorton stated that the principal causes of decline in great nations of the past are unbridled competition and excessive taxation. Reflecting on the subject a while, one is quite ready to agree with him. When certain necessary commodities become so expensive that public buying power in other lines is handicapped it necessarily follows that some branches of industry must suffer. The story is the same when government imposes a high tribute of its taxpayers. Sooner or later society is bound to crack under the strain. Then what? Bankruptcy, followed by drastic changes, perhaps accompanied by bloodshed.

The irrefutable logic of this view returned with sinister warnings last week as the Texas House committee on Constitutional Amendments proposed a special amendment to finance the old age pension. It would combine elements of sales, transactions, service, and natural resource levies to raise another $33,000,000 for the State to distribute. A tax load such as this, added to the already heavy burden, must come dangerously close to what is regarded as "excessive taxation."

Everyone is familiar, of course, with the way of taxation. No matter where the levy is placed it is passed on to the ultimate consumer, with the final result that the load is fairly evenly divided. Assuming that Texas has about 3 million wage earners, the amendment would hike each normal person's tax about $11 per year. To people who are already over-taxed such a proposal is nothing short of ridiculous.

Some consolation is to be found in the fact that the proposal has not yet been submitted to the people for ratification. At this writing it awaits action in the House of Representatives. We trust our men there will have the good judgment to throw it out promptly. A proposal as unworthy as that should never have emerged from a committee room.

Still, there is another viewpoint. There has been so much wrangling on this pension and taxation monstrosity that the legislature is probably getting sick and tired of it. They may be in a humor to pass the buck. They have an easy way to get out of the whole mess by telling the people to vote on it. That's smart politics, even though it hardly qualifies as statesmanship.

Most regrettable of all is the fact that this whole confusion is based upon the ridiculous error that people, just because they have reached a certain age, are entitled to public support. It ignores that most of them do not need help, that the remaining few could be more economically supported in a state conducted charity institution. Is it unreasonable to ask that the person who pays the bill be given a little consideration?

What Others Say

LEARN TO LET GO

If you want to be healthy, mentally and physically, just let go.

Let go the little bothers of everyday life, the irritations and the petty vexations that cross your path daily. Don't take them up and nurse them, pet them, and brood over them. They are not worth while. Let them go.

That little hurt you got from a friend, perhaps it wasn't intended, perhaps it was, but never mind, let it go. Refuse to think about it.

Let go of that feeling of hatred you have for another, the jealousy, the envy, the malice, let go all such thoughts. Sweep them out of your mind, and you will be surprised what a cleaning and rejuvenating effect it will have upon you, both physically and mentally. Let them all go; you house them at deadly risk.

But the big troubles, the bitter disappointments, the deep wrongs and the heartbreaking sorrows, tragedies of life, what about them? Why, just let them go, too. Drop them, softly maybe, but surely. Put away all regret and bitterness, and let sorrow be only a softening influence. Yes, let them go, too, and make the most of the future. Then that little pet ailment that you have been hanging on to and talking about, let it go. It will be a good riddance. You have treated it royally, but abandon it; let it go. Talk about health, instead, and health will come. Quit nursing that pet ailment, and let go. It is not so hard after once you get used to the habit of letting go of these things. You will find the world such a beautiful place. You will find it beautiful because you will be free to enjoy it—free in mind and body.

Learn to let go. As you value health of body and peace of mind, let go—just simply let go.—Medical Talk.

Confetti By CON FETTE

Reading the ravings of another col'm concoctor the other day we happened upon a lot of bragging about seven (cash) subscribers in a single family. The fellow says he considers it a record for any newspaper to point to with pride and astonishment.

That thought had not occurred to us before, but now that someone else has brought up the subject we begin to think of our own circulation list and put on a smile of pride. We too can boast of subscribers to seven members of the same family. As a matter of fact we could boast of more if an eighth did not find it so convenient to get a copy from the neighbors and save his subscription price.

Besides the family of seven we can, offhandedly, recall two families of six subscribers and lots more families of four or five subscribers. If the whole community fell in line the way those groups do we'd be bragging now about publishing a good big paper instead of a good little paper.

Do you want to know who are the biggest handicaps to our subscription list? They are the big hearted subscribers who save our paper for someone else. One typical example is that of a couple who told us not so long ago that they did not need to subscribe, they got it from "Mom and Pop" every Sunday morning. "Yeah!" sez we, "how do your mom and pop get it? They don't subscribe." "Oh, they get it every Saturday from their neighbors."

Here's another. One of our fellow townsmen was wondering why his place couldn't get an advertiser's proof copy just like the big national advertisers do. The request was reasonable but it resulted in the loss of his family subscription and of another who gets the paper every week after the ad has been clipped out.

And we could name a half dozen cases of subscription swap out agreements between neighbors. One gets our paper the other gets something else. After each has had time to read his paper they swap.

Some people may think we're beefing about our shortage of subscriptions. Nothing of the kind. We feel highly complimented that our paper is held in such high regard that people will trouble themselves so much to get it. When we think of some papers that aren't even read when they are delivered free in a person's mail box we think we have some cause for pride.

Naturally we'd like to have every home on our subscription list. We'd like to have the extra dollars, we'd like also to have a more imposing list to show our advertisers. Never the less we're tickled and proud with things just as they are. We state unreservedly that the Enterprise is one of the most thoroughly read papers in Texas.

The paper that "boosts the busiest little town in Texas" has the honor of being boosted by the best little community in Texas.

On this day of all days, when every true son of Erin is voicing the praise of Saint Pat and wearing the verdant hue of his beloved emerald isle, it is with a feeling of guilt that we Heinies pass on to our Mick friends the distressing report that there ain't no such thing as a shamrock.

Of course, we don't know for sure, we're only repeating what we read in the papers. And so, to the few Irishers who haven't thrown down this paper in disgust, we go on to offer the following:

There is no particular plant which is called the "shamrock" by botanists, in fact, it is said, deep down in the heart of the Irish lingo there isn't even such a word. But there is a word "Shamrog," which refers to any plant with three leaflets. It has often been applied to watercress, although this plant is not trifoliate.

Be that as it may, the word shamrock does have a definite meaning now as the little green thing seen so abundantly on March 17. It may be made of silk or paper or it may be a natural leaf, but it does remind one of a clover leaf, recalling, of course, the legend that Saint Patrick used a clover leaf to explain the doctrine of the Trinity.

People in New York got a new idea of Texas determination to make law and order prevail when three men from the piney woods section of our state went all the way to the big city to bring back a Negro on a charge of stealing six chickens. They admitted that the amount of loss did not justify their expense, rather, it was the principle of the thing. "This hen house thievery has got to stop," they said.

The judge in the case was slightly shocked to find one of the three men, a county attorney, chewing gum before him. "Do you chew gum before the court in your state?" he asked. The answer was yes, and the attorney was permitted to continue chewing.

After six years of an unusual debt payment system a California doctor recently moved into a new home. Every bit of the work that went into the house was done by people who failed to pay their doctor bills.

The doctor got his unique building scheme during the depression when he realized that many patients actually were not able to pay. When he proposed the idea to several of them they were enthusiastic. "Certainly," they would be glad to work out their bills.

This is our first time to hear of a complete project being handled in this way, nevertheless, the system itself is old stuff to us. Many a man here has worked off many a dollar of his church support assessments by doing things for the parish.

The person who said that a dust storm, more commonly known as a West Texas shower, can penetrate a half inch of plate glass may have been exaggerating slightly—but only slightly. What we mean is that it takes a mighty, mighty good building to keep it out. We have no doubt that this statement has the full support of every local housewife. Disappointment ran high here Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning when the ladies realized just how futile their week-end cleanup efforts had been.

But that's not all. They might as well get set for another big blow next Sunday. That's March 19, Saint Joseph's day, and a day that has a windy reputation for many a year. Ask some of the old timers, lots of them like to talk about it. In fact some of them may be glad to give the details of the memorable event, oh, so many years ago, when "the storm raged for 48 hours on St. Joseph's day."

While on the subject of that feast, we cannot but worry about the potato planting situation. You know there are quite a number here who wouldn't think of putting out their spud crop any other day. But it happens to fall on Sunday this year. So there's a dilemma. Planting on any other day is hopelessly off schedule, but working on that day wouldn't be so good either. To profane the Sabbath is almost equivalent to inviting a crop failure.

Another thing about St. Joseph's day: Will the swallows move in again at the mission of San Juan Capistrano? No doubt, you know the story. Every year on March 19, the birds have swept down on the old mission, chased out the swifts and settled down for the summer. There are records to show that the swallows have followed their schedule miraculously for the past 160 years, arriving on St. Joseph's day and leaving on San Juan's day, October 23. Let's see whether it happens again.

P. T. A. DISCUSSES "CHURCH AND CHILD WELFARE"

Myra.—The church and its relationship to the welfare of school children was the principle topic under discussion at the Myra P. T. A. held its regular meeting here last Thursday afternoon.

After the opening song, "Long, Long Ago," by the group, Mrs. A. C. Enderby gave a lecture on "The Church." Next Mrs. A. E. Barnes led in a round table discussion of "The Status of the Church in the Eyes of Childhood and Youth." Mr. Barnes spoke on "The Church as a Force of Good."

A special song by Mrs. Fred Snuggs and Mrs. J. T. Biffle and a prayer by Mrs. Cecil Williams ended the meeting.

Mr. Oral Buck's room was awarded a picture for having the greatest number of parents present.

It was voted to send a case of eggs to Buckner's Orphans Home at Dallas.

"KING" JEFF SAYS U. S. HAS 1,000,000 HOBOES— BESIDES HIMSELF

CHICAGO. — Jeff Davis, who bears lightly his title of "American king and world emperor of the hobo," shambled in and apologized for his polo coat:

"I got it in Hollywood — second hand."

From a baggy pocket, dangling by a thread at one corner, he proudly drew forth the "1939 Yearbook, Encyclopedia and Reference Manual of the Hoboes of America, Inc."

Jeff explained that this year's manual was an "invisible source of malformation," even if he did have to edit it in his spare time while giving technical direction to a move based on hobo life.

Some gems culled from the yearbook with the assistance of Jeff's smudged thumb:

Sure, He's a Gentleman
"A hobo is a gentleman of the road. The name is derived from the Latin (homa), means man and (bonas), means good—good man—this he tries to be at all times in dealing with his fellow man, and on the road he will share his last nickel with ones less fortunate."

Davis begins his article on "Here's Our Story—Believe It or Not" with an admission that "it is full of grammatical errors," but insists he will write the truth which he says is more than others have done.

"A hobo is not a hobo by choice. Circumstances alter cases—and depressions alter circumstances."

Davis draws on the 30-year-old constitution of the hobo organization to show the distinction between a hobo, tramp and bum. Set forth in the preamble of the constitution is the declaration:

"There is a vast difference between hobo, tramp and bum, for a hobo will work, a tramp won't and a bum couldn't if he wanted to. A hobo believes the world owes him an opportunity, while a tramp thinks the world owes him a living and the bum just exists."

Davis estimates America's population includes 1,000,000 hoboese, more than 500,000 tramps and 50,000 bums.

Bums Waste Life
"Bums do not live long," he said. "They have wasted their young days as young tramps, been in and out of jails, becoming in their old age victims of drink, disease, crime or 'dope.' The average age of bums is close to 60—canned heat dries up his insides and in most cases he meets with sudden death."

The hobo handbook ends with a protest against restrictions on the movements of wandering "gentlemen of the road." Their booklet says:

"Water, if it does not move, becomes stagnant. Air must change, even land is always on the go, for they say the world moves on its ax-

BROKEN MAINTAINERS DELAY ROAD WORK

Road maintenance on Commissioner Bezner's precinct was at a complete standstill for one day last week, and did not return to full time work until this week.

Both maintainers broke down on the same day, one with clutch trouble and the other with a broken axle. After a full day at repair duty the machine with the bad clutch was back in use, but the other had to await a factory shipment. The axle was available in Dallas, but a casting, broken when the axle snapped, could not be replaced nearer than Kansas City.

STATE DEPARTMENT

The latest issue of the MARCH OF TIME will show State Theatre audiences for the first time the inner workings of the U. S. State Department and take them behind the scenes to reveal how Uncle Sam creates his Salesmen of Peace. In this dramatic release is told why Secretary of State Cordell Hull believes the U. S. "good neighbor" policy will counteract fascist influence in South America and keep the U. S. out of war. Portrayed in the film is the significant story of Uncle Sam's Foreign Service officers in their 350 scattered diplomatic posts, and MARCH OF TIME reveals why their careers are dependent upon creating good will for the U. S. government abroad.
