Dies Early Tuesday At Home In Myra

Burial In Gainesville Cemetery Wednesday Afternoon

Myra.—Mrs. E. B. Luna, 54, died of a heart attack at her home here Tuesday morning at 5 o'clock. She had been in ill health for the past several years but her sudden death came as a shock to her family and many friends.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of her sister, Mrs. Bob Evans, at 411 Harvey street in Gainesville, with burial in the Gainesville cemetery. Rev. Clarence Harrison, pastor of the First Christian church, Gainesville, officiated. Pallbearers were John Reeves, Bob and Lyle Evans, Clifton Hatcher and Earl Cherry.

Mrs. Luna was born in Gainesville, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Darnell, on November 15, 1885. She was married to Mr. Luna at Petersburg, Tenn., in 1903, and had resided in Myra for the past 26 years.

Survivors include the husband, one daughter, Mrs. John Reeves of Denton, and two grandchildren. Also a brother, J. T. Darnell of Los Angeles, Calif., and two sisters, Mrs. Evans of Gainesville and Mrs. Charles Cherry of Dallas.

She was a devout member of the Christian church and was held in high esteem by all who knew her.

LOCAL CO-OP GETS SET FOR ELECTRIC SHOW NEAR DENTON

The Cooke County Electric Co-operative completed arrangements this week to participate in the big REA two-day farm electric equipment show Dec. 11 and 12 at the J. M. Cahastian place 3 1-2 miles northwest of Denton.

This traveling exhibit, which carries with it a huge tent, smaller tents, and truck loads of electric farm equipment and household appliances, is touring eight states in the largest wide-scale demonstration of this type ever undertaken in the United States. It is brought to this vicinity through the cooperation of the State Extension service and electric projects in 6 surrounding counties.

Farm people will have an opportunity to see a wide variety of electrically powered equipment in actual operation. Virtually every outdoor duty for which electrical power can be used will find a place at the show. J. W. Hess, manager of the local co-operative has been selected as one of the committee in charge of these demonstrations.

Farm ladies, too, will find displays and demonstrations of interest. The morning and early afternoon program will be devoted to electrical labor saving appliances such as washers, ironers, sweepers, etc. There will also be a special lecture on planning and selection and care of household equipment.

PASTORS ANNOUNCE THREE DAY MISSION EARLY IN DECEMBER

A three-day mission, to end the jubilee year in a spiritual manner, is scheduled to take place here on December 5, 6, 7 it was announced last week. Rev. Ernest Langenhorst of Fort Worth will be in charge of the services.

The days of recollection and prayers with suitable sermons by Father Langenhorst are especially for the married people of the community, Father Frowin stated in making the announcement.

The mission will be concluded formally on December 8, with special services and high mass in observance of Muenster's real birthday—the offering of the first mass here on December 8, 1889.

MUENSTER INVITED TO DECATUR CHURCH DEDICATION SUNDAY

Dedication ceremonies for the new Catholic Church at Decatur will be held next Sunday, November 26, at 9 o'clock, with the Most Rev. Joseph P. Lynch, Bishop of Dallas, in charge.

A cordial invitation is extended to Muenster people to attend these services which will be followed by a turkey dinner.

AT FUNERAL OF LATE ASSOCIATE JUSTICE

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The flower bedecked casket of the late Associate Justice Pierce Butler, U. S. Supreme Court, is shown being carried by members of the Court Police Force into St. Matthew's Cathedral for funeral services. The justice's Supreme Court colleagues, who acted as honorary pallbearers, are lined along the sides. On the left from front to back are: Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes; Associate Justices, Harlan F. Stone; Hugo L. Black; Felix Frankfurter and Willis Van Devanter, retired.

GAINESVILLE WILL SEND 3 DELEGATIONS HERE FOR FESTIVAL

Gainesville intends to send three distinct delegations to Muenster's gala birthday party. That is the general plan as revealed early this week by Clifford McMahon, secretary of the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce.

The first will be that group of people who come over for the community dinner. In selling tickets for the meal, McMahon is requesting purchasers to join the parade that will reach here about 12:30.

The next group will be that accompanying the Gainesville High School band and is scheduled to arrive shortly before the band's concert at 5 o'clock.

Probably the largest and most impressive group will be that sponsored by the Young Men's Civic League for the evening. It will consist principally of persons whose regular work prevented their coming earlier in the day and a considerable number of youngsters coming here for the twin dances.

Enmet Curtis, chairman in charge of the league's group, stated that the evening trip would be somewhat on the order of a good will tour. Delivery trucks, pickups, and automobiles identified by names of Gainesville business houses, will be used for conveyance. A probable added feature is the circus callopie to lead the parade.

COUNTY HAS SEVERAL CASES OF SMALL-POX, DR. TERRY WARNS

Disclosing that one small school of the county has been quarantined because of eight cases of smallpox in the community, Dr. H. H. Terry, director of the Cooke County health unit, urged last Saturday that parents of Muenster take special care to prevent a spread of the epidemic here.

He suggested that all vaccinated children not known to be safe by recent immunization tests consult their family doctor promptly and that children who have not been vaccinated submit to the treatment at once. Although no cases of smallpox have been reported at Muenster and the situation is not alarming, the doctor suggests that each family adopt the safe course.

Vaccination, the doctor added, is the work of the family doctor, and children should go to him rather than to the health unit. The treatment can be secured at the health unit, but only families not financially able to pay the usual small fee are invited to call there.

MAIN DRAG GIVEN BATH AS PREPARATION FOR JUBILEE PARTY

The first honest to goodness bath that the main drag had since it was paved three years ago was administered last week as another little detail in jubilee preparation. The job was done by about a half dozen men starting at the high spot opposite J. B. Wilde's and flushing all dirt paper, etc., down the street with the fire hose.

With banners galore suspended across the street Monday, the town now begins to take on the festive appearance. More "Welcome" streamers also went up Monday and still more are expected before Thursday.

THIS MAY BE THE PICTURE OF THE YEAR

HARRISBURG, Pa.—This exclusive picture of Al Capone, former gangster, was made by an enterprising metropolitan newspaper, after trailing the "G" men and party from the minute the prison gates in California opened after nearly eight years of confinement. After travelling nearly 2,000 miles stalking their prey, a slight opportunity presented itself and this picture is the result. "G" men who guarded their guest, especially against newspapermen, immediately placed him in a private $30 a day hospital suite in Baltimore, where he is undergoing treatment for an illness.

CITY OK'S FIREMEN'S REQUEST FOR MORE HOSE AND FITTINGS

Adding greater efficiency to the Muenster volunteer fire department and assuring another 2 per cent reduction in the city's fire insurance key rate, members of the city council, in a special session, decided Monday night to purchase 300 feet of additional hose and several connections. Henry Luke, fire chief, requested the equipment for the department.

The hose, according to Mayor Ben Seyler will consist of two 150 foot lengths with a "siamese connection" to a large hose. The hose, with a diameter of only 1 1-2 inches, are much more easily handled and, besides, will make it possible to fight fire from two positions. That system, Seyler said, has been approved for several years as far better than the large hose system Muenster now uses.

Special nozzles for use with the hose and a fog nozzle for the large hose were also approved by the city. The total cost of the equipment will be slightly less than $350.00.

Another decision favoring the fire department was a privilege granted to the fire chief authorizing small emergency expenditures. In the past there had been some delay waiting for the council to meet.

COUNTY HEALTH UNIT SPONSORS CAMPAIGN TO GET RID OF RATS

Cooke County declares war on rats. That is a statement made last week by Dr. H. H. Terry, director of the County Health Unit.

Within the next two weeks, Dr. Terry said, a representative of the U. S. Biological Survey will be in Cooke County to assist the health unit sanitarian in launching the campaign, which is sponsored by the unit as a means of eliminating one of the worst disease carriers, especially of typhoid.

When the campaign gets under way the special rat poison, red-squill, which is not injurious to other animals, will be distributed through the health unit or the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce. From 25 to 40 cents worth of the poison is recommended as sufficient for a normal home.

SERVING OF JUBILEE DINNER WILL BEGIN AT ELEVEN O'CLOCK

The jubilee dinner next Thursday will begin at 11 o'clock instead of 12:30, it was officially announced at church services last Sunday.

Anticipating a large attendance and realizing at the same time that earlier estimates of the dining hall's seating capacity were rather high, the executive committee decided that the dinner would probably extend past mid-afternoon unless a change were made.

Original plans were to begin serving as soon as the Pontifical Mass was ended about 12:30. Now it is agreed many of the persons who will be unable to find places in church can greatly relieve a later delay by eating early. Until 12:30, however, places will be reserved for visiting clergymen and dignitaries.

HUNTING TRIP NETS GOOD "DEER STORIES" BUT NO VENISON

There will be no venison served at the jubilee dinner.

A hunting party that opened in high spirits last Thursday ended Monday with mere plausible stories about "the whoppers they almost got."

Sunday Father Francis, Rudy Hellman, and Herb Meurer were telling about four dandy bucks just a little too far away for anyone to count the number of points on the horns.

Monday the rest of the party, Poss Swirczynski, Joe Lehnertz and Albert Dangelmayr, told about the one that got away after one of them had shot him. The fellows followed a blood stained trail for more than a mile but couldn't find the buck.

MEMORIAL HONORS DECEASED KNIGHTS OF LOCAL COUNCIL

In keeping with a tradition that has been observed since the early days of the Muenster Knights of Columbus, the local council gathered last Sunday afternoon in the K of C hall to honor their departed brothers with memorial services.

Eighteen deceased members of the council were remembered in the ceremony.

PARISH BUILDINGS ADORNED BY VAST DECORATIVE SCHEME

Elaborate decorations for the church, hall and rectory were arranged by the Benedictine Sisters Tuesday and Wednesday. The work was under the supervision of Sister Bernadine, an artist on the teaching staff at Holy Angels convent, Jonesboro.

The decorative scheme throughout the parish plant stresses a color theme of gold, blue and white, explained by the artist as being symbolic of the golden anniversary, of distance and age, and of brightness and harmony, in the order named. Natural cedar and live oak forms the background for all.

Beautifying the church consisted, first of all, of a general clean up, including sweeping, mopping, dusting, etc. The edifice is adorned with garlands of cedar and live oak entwined with gold rope, and wreaths of cedar are placed in advantageous positions.

For the Pontifical Mass the high altar will be adorned with clusters of gilded grapes in gold containers, and the two side altars will be decorated with gold chrysanthemums in blue vases.

The rectory, similarly decorated with garlands, contains a number of banners and placards, hand painted by the artist, containing appropriate messages and greetings.

The dining hall, simple and attractive, follows the same theme with an arrangement of banners and inscriptions, both historical and spiritual in nature. The table for the Bishop and clergy is to be centered with a huge, square, tiered cake, iced in gold and white and topped with a miniature replica of Sacred Heart church.

The auditorium of the hall is very colorful with American flags playing an important part in decorations, and with autumn leaves and bows of live oak used in profusion.

During the week-end members of the Young Ladies Sodality and school children assisted the Sisters in making the garlands and cleaning the church.

UNCONSCIOUS NEGRO FOUND ON HIGHWAY REVIVED AT CLINIC

An unidentified negro, found almost dead at the edge of the highway pavement between Muenster and Saint Jo furnished considerable excitement for a small group of Muensterites early Sunday night. He revived slowly after Dr. T. S. Myrick spent several minutes working on him at the local clinic.

Two young men discovered the prostrate form at the side of the road and, thinking him dead, the victim of a hit and run driver, sent word to Constable Frank Hoedebeck. The officer came out promptly and helped move the man to the hospital.

When he came to the aged dandy said he must have passed out from the pain in his stomach. According to his story he had not eaten that day. He recovered quickly when one of the bystanders offered to buy him a meal.

LARGE DAILIES WANT SCENES AND STORIES OF GOLDEN JUBILEE

The story of Muenster's Golden Jubilee celebration, already widely publicized in a number of papers both in and out of the state, is destined to receive considerably more attention on the days immediately following the event.

Word was received from the Dallas News and the Fort Worth Star Telegram that each intends to devote a full page of space to Muenster in its edition for next Sunday. Billy Hartman of Nocona and Julian Prade of the Dallas News staff will be here on jubilee day to represent the papers. Both will supplement their news stories with scenes from the historical pageant and celebrations the following day.

Some papers that have carried advance stories on the anniversary are the Gainesville Register, Dallas News, Wichita Times, Southern Messenger, Catholic Daily Tribune, and two Oklahoma papers.

ONE DAY EARLY

In order to make it possible for members of the Enterprise staff to enjoy the jubilee holiday with other persons of the community this issue is being published one day early. Like several other business houses in town the Enterprise will be closed all day Thursday.

First Two Miles To Have Oiled Surface

Will Avoid Bad Crossing, Winding Road and Poor Bridge by Direct Route Out of Town

That Muenster will soon have a first class lateral road leading from the south, stands out as a strong probability. E. A. "Babe" Felker, county commissioner in charge of the precinct, disclosed Saturday that he had begun preparations on an application to the Works Progress Administration for a $30,000 project that would connect Muenster with the newly completed Gainesville-Rosston road. Felker said that he and an engineer expected to go over the proposed route this week in order to secure data for their application.

The road is the one Felker has planned ever since he became commissioner in January, 1937. He considers it of major importance because it will be a better road for people south of town, because it will provide a better outlet to market for farmers living in the southwest part of the county and at the same time open new trade possibilities for Muenster, and finally because it will eventually become a direct route to the livestock market at Fort Worth.

According to Felker's plan each end of the new road will be completely new. It will leave Muenster by way of West First Street (between the bank and A. C. Stelzer's), turn left one block from Main and run diagonally to the road beside the refinery, crossing the railroad and passing under the highway overpass. From the refinery the road would be made as direct as possible to the present road east of the Kleiss home and then follow a direct route to the knoll of the hill south of the Kleiss home.

That route, Felker explained, has several distinct advantages. It eliminates the winding trail south of the creek and also the dangerous intersection at the highway. As for the railroad crossing, it will be no more dangerous than the present road. Another improvement is the substitution of a substantial two-way bridge for the badly aged one-way structure now in use.

A final finishing touch for the new road is an oil treatment by which the gravel and oil are thoroughly mixed and rolled out to pavement smoothness. It will be practically a paved road, Felker said, and it will remain in good condition. When saturated with oil, the dust particles will not be as likely to blow away in dry weather—a circumstance causing most damage to gravel roads—nor will the road absorb water in wet weather and become soft. Felker expects to use the oil between Muenster and the Voth oil field, the portion of road now carrying the heavy traffic.

Splendid co-operation has been promised for the project by the oil operators of the Voth field. All that Felker has contacted agreed to give him the back settlements, a thick sludge that accumulates in the bottom of storage tanks and is usually burned because it has no market value. In East Texas that material has proved very satisfactory on roads. In time Felker hopes to give all his main roads the oil treatment. "It's the cheapest in the long run," he said. "It makes a good road and reduces maintenance cost."

From the point south of the Kleiss home to the Linn school the present road will be used. From there it will probably run southeast to the Arthur Hellman and "Dub" Trew homes and continue due south to the Rosston road near Bailey English's. That road will be rather inexpensive, Felker thinks, because it requires few bridges and has an excellent supply of gravel near by.

Though no right of way has been secured to date, it is assumed that the project will receive little hindrance from that angle. Out south all the property owners expressed their approval of the general plan long ago, and their only likely objection, division of property, will probably be satisfied by the county's offer to build stock underpasses. Felker is confident that a similar offer will be acceptable for changes at the Muenster end of the road.

8,597 BALES

This year's cotton production continues to lag behind that of last year, according to a recent report released by Edwin Huffaker of Department of Commerce Census Bureau. Up to Nov. 1, 1939 the county ginned 8,597 bales as compared to 8,892 prior to the same date last year.

"There were impressions for nose, eyes, ears and mouth on the second head," the doctor said, "but no vents." "I operated at once, amputating only part of the head so the remainder could be used to fix a ligature. I didn't want a new-born baby to lose any blood, and he lost very little." A GOOD ROAD

A good start for Muenster's next half century is already under way. E. A. "Babe" Felker, road commissioner for the South Muenster community, stated last week that he has started working on a project that will open completely new trade possibilities with the southern part of Cooke county. He is reasonably certain that the plan will be approved within the next few weeks. Just in case it will not be approved it still stands out as a major community improvement to be undertaken at the earliest possible opportunity.

Business men have realized for a long time that Muenster is isolated from excellent trade possibilities by an inadequate road system. Some of the most fertile farms in the county are to be found in the bottomlands twelve or fifteen miles southwest of here, but their only connection with Muenster is a primitive, rough, winding road. When a good road, better than any other serving the locality, leads to Muenster, and when Muenster men offer a market for products of that locality, business will start moving this way.

The time is coming also when another road will serve a similar purpose north of Muenster. Its possibility has been discussed a number of times. Like the road leading south, it would open a vast rich area to Muenster markets. In the event a bridge is built over Red River the trade territory could extend even into Oklahoma. A study of a map will reveal that the fertile section around Leon, Okla., near enough to Muenster to become a part of its trade territory. Once the artery of travel and the market are provided, Muenster can look for another surge of prosperity.

The road north isn't really a difficult undertaking. With wholehearted cooperation assured by people in the Bulcher vicinity, who have been handicapped by bad roads for years, there is enough popular opinion favoring the project to almost assure success.

As for Muenster people, a hundred per cent cooperation can be expected. Farmers of this area, whether or not they ever expect to use the proposed roads, would be in favor of a project that makes their home town a better business center, a better place to live and make a living.

OUR ANNIVERSARY

It is with a feeling of pride that we identify this copy of the Enterprise as Volume IV, Number 1. This issue marks the completion of three years of "boosting the busiest little town in Texas," years that have been packed with intensive work, that have also been marked by some hardship and worry, and finally rewarded with a small measure of success.

Very appropriately our anniversary falls on the eve of Muenster's Golden Jubilee celebration. It is a coincidence for which we are grateful, for it seems to provide another binding link between this paper and the community. It recalls also a historical point that we have in common with the community. The early period of this publication was a grim struggle for existence. Like the community it has a sound foundation of hard work and sacrifice. Like the community it also looks forward to a prosperous existence through a continuation of hard work.

We have much to be grateful for during the three past years. Our efforts were rewarded with an inspiring public response. People of the community were prompt to accept the Enterprise as their official local new medium. Business men were loyal in using it as a means to reach patrons with their commercial messages. Out of that confidence has grown a publication that is now able to take its place beside the better small weeklies of this state, a publication with prospects as bright as those of the community it serves.

Upon entering our fourth year we feel that we could make no statement more appropriate than that contained in our very first issue. "We will endeavor to publish a paper worthy of representing our thriving, prosperous community. We will give generous space and encouragement to any movement conducive to the general welfare of Muenster. We will publish, insofar as the information is available to us, a complete and impartial record of local happenings."

What Others Say

WAGES OF WAR

Consider of what origin we are
You were made to live as do the brutes.
But to see virtue and learn the truth.
—Dante.

Once there was a university student named Steve. He used to sit in that seat directly in front of the teacher in math class. You could probably find his name on some of the desks if you would look.

He made Phi Beta Kappa grades and had a talent for poetry; but he also liked athletics and dancing. He lived life with a zest and found it good. Youth, courage and bright hopes were with him, and he had a singing heart.

Then a war came with Germany. They turned the screws down at the university. Boys began to enroll, and Steve heard them talk about "slackers" and "doing one's part." He was afraid, but he had no one to talk to. He went home to his room that night and tossed around on the bed and whimpered in his sleep. The next morning he volunteered with the rest.

When he saw action he soon forgot to be afraid. There was nothing but a dead feeling in him. He had to wade through slime like in the bottom of pig pens. It stank because it was mixed with the serum of men's blood. Sometimes he would see the gleam of a white thigh bone with shreds of flesh hanging like tatters from the knee, or a head with flesh ripped from the jaw so that the teeth seemed to snarl like a wolf's. Soon Steve did not feel like anything; he did not want to write poetry any more.

Someone has written a nice inspirational poem about Flanders Field where poppies grow. Well, Steve got shot in the guts in Flanders Field. Bent double, he lay on the ground all day and wallowed in his own blood as he writhed. He had no water and his tongue swelled. After a while he stopped screaming. He died.

The corporal said they had to keep the "damn camp" sanitary, so the scavengers picked up the corpse and threw it into a trench with two dozen more. They covered it up.

You'll find a commemorative plaque for Steve in the memorial stadium. It tells who he was and where he met his death, but it doesn't tell what he thought of war or the military.

Editor's Note: The above editorial appeared several years ago in The Daily Texan, student newspaper at the University of Texas. It has been reprinted in countless numbers of newspapers since then, because of its violent indictment of war.

I AM THE RED CROSS

I am the Red Cross, born of a thousand disasters. I shed light where there was no light before. I create gladness where once was gloom.

I unite Jew and Gentile, Protestant and Catholic. Where once was sadness I leave behind me joy. Where yesterday was a bare floor, I leave a rug and chairs and a hearth-fire glowing.

I invade the undisturbed hearts of the wealthy and open them to needs of the poor.

I make a man feel like a mint. I rout poverty. I am flesh and blood mother to the unfortunate.

I answer the needs of all the world. I am ageless, tireless, unified, and my plea for humanity cannot be refused.

I inflame a nation. I sweep aside petty selfishness. I am a great human whirlwind and I scatter over barren land rich seeds of tangible charity.

I am a great orator, for my speech is simple, my message clear, my purpose urgent, my zeal universal.

I rebuild after fire. I care for the sick after disaster. I have a thousand hands that are busy restoring beauty and health destroyed by Nature improperly controlled by man.

I am the great healer, and I shall not die while there is want in our land.

I am the Red Cross.—Edward Brenedan Barrett.

GOVERNMENT BY LAW NOT MEN

Two ideas which are contradictory to the principles upon which the United States was established have taken possession of two great nations.

The two ideas are Communism and Nazism. In their practical effort they are the same. Both are based upon the principle of complete control by the State of the thoughts, words, acts and beliefs of the individual. They may best be grouped under one label: "Totalitarianism."

Because Totalitarianism is a new idea in the modern world, and has been presented in such growing colors by its propagandists, many Americans have been misled into believing that it a better form of government than democracy. That belief arises from failure to recognize the most essential element in the American system. That is that spiritual freedom is of more importance than material prosperity.

Spiritual freedom implies more than the right to believe and practice whatever religion one prefers, or no religion at all. The right to speak one's thoughts freely, or write and print them, even though they are opposed to the government in power; the right to assemble peaceably and to petition for the redress of grievances; the right to security against unwarranted invasions of the home—those are among the spiritual liberties which Americans have enjoyed so long that we are prone to take them as a matter of course.

The totalitarianism governments are governments by a single person or a close-knit group. The American system is a government by laws enacted by the people themselves through their representatives in Congress. The whole issue involved in the present war is whether government by men shall dominate the world instead of government by law.

That is an issue which confronts us in America. To tolerate any attempt by individuals to dictate to others how they shall think, speak, act or believe is to undermine Americanism and to flout the spirit of democracy.—Exchange.

WHO IS TO BE FIRST?

"If the government spending is leading us to ruin, it is because of what Washington is doing for the neighborhoods. Each neighborhood now says: "Every other neighborhood is getting its. We must get ours." "Some neighborhood must lead the way out of that suicidal swirl. Why not yours? Why not start Federal Economy Country Committee Number One? "When such committees tell Washington to save, believe me it will."—William Hard.

By CON FETTE

Muenster's hearty reception for the golden jubilee edition last week was most gratifying. The staff has had compliments from all sides and no end of requests for extra copies. People here by the dozens are sending the paper to out of town friends, apparently convinced that it is sufficiently impressive to do justice to Muenster and the jubilee celebration.

That's the way we had it planned all along. We wanted every home in the community to have a copy—we hope we haven't overlooked anyone in our attempt to reach every family. Our next intention was to have lots of copies available for former residents and any others who are interested in Muenster. There were 500 extras, but now, we are sorry to admit, it's beginning to seem as though we've underestimated the demand.

The novelty of the edition, printed in blue on gold paper, apparently had as great an appeal as the content. If such is the case we suggest that people get an eye full now, because it's going to be a long time before this shop attempts another color combination. This effort brought on mechanical troubles resulting in a shortage of ink and a delay of several hours until more ink could be secured.

Will about three-fourths of our subscribers please disregard the preceding paragraph? It is not meant as a sort of literary weeping on someone's shoulder but as an explanation to those who received their copies a day late. We just think they are entitled to an explanation. For more than two years the Enterprise had not failed to get out on schedule. This slip-up kinda' jolted our pride.

For those who want to brag about Muenster, here's a little item straight from a salesman of a fairly large company. He works quite a number of counties and, so he says, Muenster is the only place on his entire territory where he does not have a COD account. How's that as a recommendation? Every business man that he deals with here has a record of paying his bills promptly. There are some places on his territory, the man says, that do not have a single open account with his company.

Naturally, a good credit rating can be accepted as one of the characteristics of a prosperous town. It can also be accepted as a tribute to the general honesty of a group of people. Therein is the best compliment.

If the same thing could be said of every person in the state or nation, or the world, how different conditions would be today! If agreements had a meaning, if people intended to pay when they accept financial obligations, if they intended to act accordingly when they made a promise, there would be no war, no unemployment, no hunger, in fact none of the problems now plaguing the world.

What is the cause of the struggle in Europe? Treaties, which are solemn, formal promises, are disregarded at the moment one ruler finds he can do so to his own advantage. Or the labor situation over here? Either the employer or the employe breaks a promise. All the way down the line from international to national, state and local trouble, the whole thing can be traced to man's disregard for his obligation to others. Paying off a small account may seem like a triple in this big, bustling world, but it is the application of a principle upon which the security of the world rests.

Unfortunately, however, the principle is due to receive little more attention than in the past. Regard for obligations is based on morality, which in turn is based on religion. And there is a dire scarcity of religion.

helps us recall that the organizing spirit still seems to tingle in the Flusche veins. L. W. Flusche, who happens to be a grand nephew of Muenster's founder, Emil Flusche, was the spark plug in organizing a parish at Decatur and building the splendid little church. And isn't it a little odd that the younger Flusche should take care of that task just 50 years after his illustrious kinsman founded the Muenster colony?

So there's going to be a real liquidating campaign on in the county! Well, that's fine! Bring it on over to Muenster. We've got a feeling that our people will like the idea a lot.

Not so many of us have hated rats for their threat to our health. We've hated them quite a bit for stealing food and even more their messy destructive habits such as gnawing into a grain sack and letting wheat spill, or through little brother's pants to get the candy in his pocket. The rat is hated just because he's a rat. He's condemned to death from the day of his birth. First result of the rat campaign: two points of ratology I never knew before. A rat eats at least 20 pounds of grain a year. And once he eats poison, he's poisoned. Some poisons, they say, cause severe stomach sickness and most animals can't keep them down. But that's where the rat—and the horse—is out of luck. Nature won't let him get rid of the poison.

Sorry to remind one of our worthies that skunks are not bothered by the poison. He'll just have to go on using a club. One evening a few weeks ago one of the perfume kitties ventured up on the fellow's porch. Thinking of the possible consequence he left the house by another door and came around to chase the skunk away. His luck was all bad. After the worst had happened he picked up a club and beat the poor thing to death. His wife tossed out a fresh change of clothes.

Too many of our home dollars succumb to the "glitter and glare" of big city temptation—and we let them go when we should show them how well they can do at home.

Unnecessary "big city buying" does harm to local merchants; it weakens our community. Let us make ourselves familiar with the quality and prices of the goods obtainable on home shelves before we permit our home-earned dollars to leave home.

DR. TERRY SPEAKS TO CLUB LADIES ON CONTROL OF DISEASE

Addressing the Civic League and Garden Club during a regular meeting Friday, Nov. 10, Dr. H. H. Terry, head of the Cooke County Health Unit, brought an interesting and educational message.

He began his talk by explaining the work and the purpose of the unit stating that its object is not the care of the sick, but the prevention of sickness and the control of disease by preventative medicines and by sanitation.

He spoke on communicable diseases, including tuberculosis, syphilis, typhoid and scarlet fever, small pox and diphtheria. Twenty years ago, he stated, tuberculosis was the chief killer, while today, syphilis is listed as the Number One killer, not only among adults, but also among infants.

Typhoid is controlled by sanitation and diphtheria and small pox by immunization and vaccination, he explained. He paused briefly to congratulate the Muenster community on its almost perfect record for the immunization of infants against diphtheria, which he listed as the chief killer of children's diseases.

He spoke on the value of pre-natal and post-natal care, adding that Miss Jane Harris, the nurse in charge of the unit, is always on duty to give this service when called upon to do so.

In speaking on sanitation, he stressed the importance of a sewer system, adding that where this is not possible, there are only two other types of sewage disposal systems approved by the State Health Department, namely, an appropriate type of septic tank and the pit type privy.

The unit has employed a sanitarian whose duty is to give assistance in the construction of such toilets, and his services are always available. According to plans on file at his office, such buildings can be erected at as low a cost as six dollars. The sanitarian he advised, will be in Muenster soon to inspect sanitary conditions and give aid wherever possible.

He closed his lecture by stating that the water, milk and food supply of every town should be watched carefully, and that his office has a service for testing private water supplies, whenever requested, free of charge.

He advised that a recent check of Muenster city water from the new well, of the Parochial school water supply and of the public school well showed all three to be pure and free of all contamination.

Dr. Terry was accompanied to this city by Miss Jane Harris.

"ROSES" IS SUBJECT OF PROGRAM FOR GARDEN CLUB MEET

An almost one hundred per cent attendance marked the meeting of the Civic League and Garden Club at a regular monthly session held at the public school Friday, Nov. 10th, when "Roses" was the subject of the program.

Mrs. Joe Wilde gave a paper on "Roses for Hedges" with points on planting and color scheme arrangement. This was followed by a talk given by Mrs. Joe Swirczynski on roses best suited for this community. She illustrated her talk with pictures of the roses she mentioned and gave "the ten commandments of rose growing." A short talk on the flower of this month, the chrysanthemum, was given by Mrs. M. J. Endres.

Mrs. Joe Luke demonstrated, in an interesting manner, the proper planting of a geranium. She brought a sample of the correct soil which she had previously prepared by mixing equal amounts of sand, garden loam and strained fertilizer. This was baked to kill insect life and then sifted.

Each member took home with her a geranium to plant as the horticultural project this year. These flowers will be on display at the spring flower show and a prize will be given to the owner of the best one.

During the business session a unanimous vote was cast to change the constitution, and committee reports were given. Mrs. Nick Miller stated that her committee has outlined another planting project for the cemetery and is awaiting Father Prowin's approval before setting out the plants, which they hope to have in place before the jubilee celebration. Mrs. Myrick announced that the city markers will be completed within the next several days.

The women discussed a Christmas lighting contest to be held during the holidays and Mrs. M. J. Endres was placed in charge as chairman. A prize, on general appearance, to include both inside and outside lighting effects, will be given through the courtesy of Texas Power and Light Company of Gainesville. Mrs. Endres is to select the judges and contestants are asked to register their names with her.

As an added feature of this meeting Dr. H. H. Terry of the Cooke County Health Unit gave an interesting educational lecture on the prevention and control of communicable diseases.

The program next month will be a Christmas program held on the 15th of December.

WHERE CZECHS RIOTED

PRAGUE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA.—Photo shows Masaryk college, where thirteen students were executed and about 1,200 students were allegedly placed in concentration camps by the Nazis, after rioting broke out. Most of those executed and placed under arrest are adherents of Eduard Benes, ex-president. The Nazis immediately closed most all schools and colleges for a period of three years and Storm Troopers were poured into Czechoslovakia to quell rioting throughout the country.

the gas company men say. "And when our customers set their stoves up for the winter season, they sometimes find the gas won't turn on. Investigation usually shows the remains of a dirt dauber's summer home blocking the passage."

A serious warning was issued by the gas company, urging customers to have all heating equipment and gas piping inspected now, at the beginning of the heating season.

"Dirty, improperly adjusted burners not only waste gas but are a possible source of carbon monoxide which can result from the incomplete combustion of any fuel," they pointed out. "Properly used, natural gas is as safe as any other fuel, and a few simple precautions will eliminate the possibility of accidents," they continued. "Fire chiefs over the state annually urge gas users to attach their heaters to gas outlets with rigid metal pipe and screw connections, and to have all heating equipment and piping inspected and adjusted by qualified experts. Gas cocks should be inspected and if loose, should be leak proofed or replaced. Heaters should be at least four inches from walls, and open flame gas heaters should have screen guards over them. Curtains, draperies and similar inflammable materials should be kept away from heaters."

"If escaping gas is detected, all flames should be extinguished at once and doors and windows should be opened. Gas valves and cocks should be closed and the gas turned off at the meter. Call the gas company or a competent plumber at once and meanwhile allow no flame of any kind to be brought into the room."

DON'T BURN LEAVES, THEY KEEP PLANTS FROM "BURNING UP"

COLLEGE STATION. — Every

year thousands of dollars "go up in smoke" because leaves are burned. The following summer gardens and flower beds will "burn up" for lack of moisture.

Leaves are valuable because they form humus, and almost all Texas soils need humus, according to M. K. Thornton, Jr., agricultural chemist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

Humus not only holds moisture, but it improves the physical condition of the soil. Since humus promotes bacteria growth, it also promotes the presence of soil nitrogen for plant use.

Leaves may be raked into a pile, wet down, and left to decay. The pile should be broad and flat-topped. It may take as long as a year for the leaves to decay properly.

To hurry the decaying process, and to make really valuable humus, add super-phosphate at the rate of one pound to ten pounds of dry leaves or 20 pounds of wet leaves and also one-half pound of some nitrogen fertilizer.

BETTER PRICES FOR CATTLE MAY RESULT FROM EUROPE'S WAR

COLLEGE STATION. — The war will tend to maintain or even raise cattle prices in spite of the increased production in prospect.

This situation will come about partly from increased consumer demand and partly because of anticipated demand for hides, but mostly because hog prices are expected to go higher and this will cause some improvement in demand as people turn from pork to beef.

No large foreign outlet for the United States is likely to develop as a result of the war. Such a development would occur only if shipping from Argentina and Australia became hazardous. It does not appear probable that either domestic or foreign demand, and price, will improve in the present situation as much as during the World War. At any rate, prices for beef should not rise markedly in 1940.

This outlook for the cattle business comes from the United States Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

DRINK MORE MILK HAVE FEWER COLDS

COLLEGE STATION. — Milk is rich in vitamin A, and deficiency of vitamin A lowers resistance to colds so W. V. Maddox, dairy specialist of the Texas A. and M. Extension Service plugs milk as one of the foods whose rich vitamin A content helps stave off the sniffles.

There are more colds than most people realize. There is an average of two colds per person per year, and these last from five to twenty-seven days. It has been estimated that the cost of combating colds in Texas runs to some $10,000,000 a year—and that, Maddox points out, will buy a lot of milk.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Ratliff and three sons of Lubbock came to this city Monday evening to visit relatives and friends and witness the jubilee program.
