

MUENSTER ENTERPRISE

VOLUME VIII

MUENSTER, TEXAS, COOKE COUNTY, FRIDAY, JUNE 30, 1944

NUMBER 32

Some day we're going to look back with shame on the shabby treatment our country gave Finland during this war. In her darkest hour, just as she was about to break under the tremendous pressure of the Russian offensive we slapped her with the hand that should have been extended to help her.

We all recall the popular, and official, attitude in this country when the Russo-Finnish war first broke out — an unjustified and vicious act of aggression. That was at the time when the Reds and Nazis were sort of allied under a non aggression pact and we considered them as fellow criminals.

Then, all of a sudden the Russians and Germans became bitter enemies. Meanwhile the Russo-Finnish war continued, and the Finns took the only course open to them. They accepted German assistance as their last hope of survival.

Our attitude changed overnight. The Finns were no longer our friends, no longer gallant heroes defending homes and civilizations against intruders. They were enemies of our allies and allies of our enemies. The fact that they were still fighting for the things we consider as sacred no longer made an impression on us.

Perhaps our attitude was the most expedient in the face of the existing diplomatic muddle, but it certainly was not a fair one. Deep down in our hearts we knew the Reds were no more justified than they had been a few months before. Still we did not lift a hand or raise a voice to restrain them. During all of Russia's critical period, when it so desperately needed our lend-lease supplies, we were in a position to demand that Finland's territorial rights be respected, but did nothing about it.

And what if the Finns did team up with Hitler? Who are we to insist that anyone should look a gift horse in the mouth? All the while we understood, or should have understood, that acceptance of Nazi help does not necessarily imply an endorsement of Nazi policy. Nations in trouble can't be fussy about the principles of their allies any more than a drowning man can be fussy about the character of the person at the other end of his life line.

Something else we seem to have forgotten is Finland's record of national integrity. When all other nations repudiated their debts she went right on paying. In fact we accepted her most recent payment only a few days before our regretted unfriendly act.

What's the reason behind it all? Just a matter of international power politics? Or are our fundamental principles turning pinkish? The blindness that can result from too much propaganda is pathetic. Hundreds of stupid men have been told about fanatical German prisoners so completely intuned with Goebbels' cock and bull yarns that they refuse to believe their own eyes. Seeing New York intact they persisted in the belief that it had been razed but grudgingly conceded "you Americans are clever. You rebuild quickly."

Separation from the Nazi hooey doesn't seem to do them any good either. After spending months over here, in spite of news broadcasts and daily papers, they still insist that Germany is winning, that all this information we're getting is lies. Some of them actually pity us for our gullibility.

Here at still a few days ago a group of war prisoners were working on a cement job. The officer in charge was particularly impressed by one prisoner, a likeable chap with lots of speed and skill on his trowel. He complimented the lad, told him that with his ability he could make good in this country, and that he would like to give him a job after the war if arrangements could be made to keep him over here.

The answer he received was explosive. "What! Me work for you! When this war is over you will be working for me. Don't you silly Americans know that all your war news is propaganda? You will see, Germany will win. And when it's over our fueler will have all of you working for us."

Well, in spite of these words of wisdom from the master race, Con is one of the silly Americans getting a world of satisfaction out of recent allied versions on the war's progress. As this is being written radio reports are telling about Russia's new large scale offensive, continued progress in Normandy and Italy, and a grand wallop to the Jap fleet in the Pacific. Besides, there's Churchill's remark that the European phase of the war may end this summer. Considering the usual conservatism of his pronouncements, this is music.

From Japan comes the announcement that more of its high ranking officers died of (Continued on Page 8)

On Monday, they received, simultaneously, a telegram from Adjutant General Ulio, and a letter from their son. The telegram reported the injury, not stating its nature, but giving the date as June 8.

The letter from Pfc. Felderhoff, bore the date line, June 15 — in England, and said in part, "My arm is still a little stiff, but I am using it in writing this letter. Otherwise I am OK. Was shot through the arm by a German, who missed the bone. There is nothing to worry about. I was with the invasion troops on June 6 and got to stay in the fight for two days before getting shot. Patients here receive the best of care and the food is exceptionally good. I saw Cecil Harry of Forestburg five or six hours after we jumped and he was OK. Tell all my friends in Muenster hello."

Alphonse is the youngest of the four Felderhoff brothers serving in the armed forces. Pvt. Vincent is still with the Fifth Army in Italy, while Sgt. Frank is stationed in Sardinia, and Pfc. Oscar Jirasek In Race For County Sheriff Authorization is given the Enterprise to announce Oscar Jirasek as a candidate for sheriff of Cooke County, subject to action of the Democratic primary election July 22.

Mr. Jirasek is a native Texan, having been born at Manor, Travis county, June 18, 1896. He is 48 years of age.

He came to Cooke county with his parents some 33 years ago and spent a major portion of his life on the family farm, three miles west of Gainesville. More recently he has operated his own farm. A few months ago he and his wife moved to Gainesville and he now resides at 728 East California street. During his residence there, he has been employed by local transportation agencies.

"Slim" Jirasek, as he is called by his intimate friends, is well and favorably known all over Cooke county. He has always identified himself with progressive movements and is an active member of the First Presbyterian church of Gainesville, as well as an earnest worker in one of the well known fraternal orders.

He asks the voters to keep in mind, in considering his candidacy for sheriff, his long residence in Cooke county; his knowledge of the wants and desires of the majority of people for a sane enforcement of the laws, with which he is in full sympathy and which he pledges himself to follow to the best of his ability if elected. It will be his purpose to employ deputies known for their good citizenship, and to see that all persons coming before his department are treated with due courtesy and justice, yet with firmness required of officers of the law.

Mr. Jirasek's friends believe that his past record for good citizenship in this community is evidence that he will conduct the affairs of the sheriff's office on a high plane, satisfactory to law-abiding citizens and with credit to himself, and he has already received assurance of support from many of them.

5 Movie Stars Sell War Bonds At Gainesville

Cooke County Quota Gets $110,800 Boost During Rally Tuesday Morning

Cooke County's Fifth War Loan fund was boosted Tuesday morning when $110,800 worth of bonds were sold during a rally in which five movie celebrities participated. A big platform was erected on an army truck on the courthouse square and a large crowd witnessed the show. While the purpose of the stars' visit was to sell bonds, they also provided an enjoyable program of about an hour's duration.

The entertainers included Johnny Mack Brown, Monogram Western star; Jeri Wayne, MGM starlet and network singer; Gale Storm, Monogram artist; Lassie White, famous minstrel and character actor, and Monte Hall, cowboy musician. Also participating were war heroes from McCloskey General Hospital, Temple.

County Chairman John S. Hardy is enthusiastic over the results of the rally.

Muenster Sales Lag
Bond sales in Muenster lagged this week, the number of purchases being surprisingly low. The lack of interest and activity is laid to the fact that farmers are busy threshing grain and baling hay and simply haven't had time to come to town and make their investments. With more than one-half of the time set for the campaign passed, much hard and fast work will have to be done before the community quota is reached. Local Chairman J. M. Weinzapfel hopes that sales this weekend will make a jump to offset the puny first days-of-the-week buying.

It is taken for granted that it will not be necessary for bond committee members to have to make personal calls to sell bonds. It is better to buy bonds than pay taxes, the committee points out, as it urges citizens not to wait to be solicited. A big job remains to be done and each citizen will have to do his part to reach the quota.

CAFE CHANGES HANDS; JOE EZELL IS NEW MANAGER IN CHARGE

Jimmy's Cafe, popular local restaurant and refreshment center this week changed hands and names when the business was sold by Mrs. Ray Swirczynski to John Ezell. It is under management of Joe Ezell, formerly of Sanger, and the new name is Ezell Cafe.

Manager Ezell has years of experience as a restaurant operator. Until recently he was in business in Sanger. Assisting him are Mrs. Frank Kathman as cook, and Misses LaVetta Martin, Betty Jo Hamilton, Lillian Branch and Thelma Kathman.

Mrs. Swirczynski, former owner, who has been in charge of the cafe since her husband was called for duty with the armed forces in March 1943, left with her two children this week to attend the bedside of her mother in Carmi, Ill. Swirczynski bought the cafe from Jimmy Lehnertz, original owner, when he went to the army in November, 1941, after two years of business.

The place has been redecorated inside present plans are to enlarge it as soon as possible. The management invites the public to visit Ezell's Cafe.

ARMY TRUCKS FOR FARM USE AVAILABLE

The farmer in critical need of a truck may apply to his county AAA Committee for a used army truck. The War Food Administration announces. Upon the basis of applications on hand and further investigation, AAA officers prepare letters certifying to the needs for civilian trucks. These letters authorize truck dealers to negotiate with proper authorities and buy the trucks for resale to approved applicants.

WFA warns that for some time relatively few persons who need trucks for essential agricultural purposes will get them.

Second Floor Almost Totally Demolished

Origin Undetermined; Only Smoke And Water Damage On Lower Floor

Fire of undetermined origin caused a loss estimated at approximately $4,000 at the Main Hotel Monday evening. Discovered shortly after 6 o'clock the blaze was completely extinguished shortly after seven.

The second floor where the flame originated, as well as all furnishings, was almost completely demolished, while little damage was done to the ground floor and its contents.

Through the efficiency of the local fire department, working in perfect harmony under the direction of Chief R.L. McNeley, the fire's progress was checked within a few minutes, and adjoining buildings were protected. Open flames on the second floor, and hidden flames between ceiling and roof in a dense cloud of smoke required considerable work before being brought under control.

Had the firemen arrived five minutes later the building probably would have been a total loss and the entire west side of Main street would have been seriously threatened.

Most damage on the ground floor was that caused by smoke and water. Water damage was caused principally by dripping from the floor above. Cafe fixtures were slightly damaged, and a number of items such as cigarettes and candy were lost.

The fire, breaking out at the time when most of the hotel guests were taking their evening meal downstairs, found few upstairs, the floor devoted to bedrooms. Two truck drivers, who occupied the front closed in porch discovered the blaze and gave the alarm. One of the men assisted a woman and two children to safety while the other leaped from the window and drove his car truck away from the scene. He received minor cuts and bruises in his jump. No other injuries were reported.

Residing at the hotel were eight wives of soldiers stationed at Camp Howze, with their families, who lost practically all their clothing and other belongings. Local residents have opened their homes to them until further arrangements can be made.

Persons from all over town rushed to the scene and the big blaze, the largest in the city since the FMA Store fire on June 17, 1939, was witnessed by several hundred persons. A number of local men, not members of the fire department, assisted in fighting the flames.

The building, one of the early landmarks of this community, is the property of J. C. Trachta. The business was operated by Mrs. Alf Schumacher.

No insurance was carried by Mr. Trachta and this week he is undecided as to whether or not he will rebuild. Under normal conditions the remaining part of the building would be torn down and replaced by a new modern structure, he said. As it is the ground floor will probably be rebuilt and repaired, as soon as convenient.

The city hall, occupying the north part of the lower floor suffered from smoke and water but no city documents were damaged, being stored in the safe. Furniture was water soaked.

Fisher's Market, north of the hotel, was dense with smoke but no merchandise was damaged. The south wind aided in saving buildings on the west side of the street. Fisher's Market is of brick while three buildings to the south of the hotel are frame structures.

PLANE TALK

BY Rowland Burnston

"Flying the Beam" is a common expression, but few people understand its application. The illustration shows a radio range station and four radio guide beams which are sent out to direct the pilot.

The radio range transmits the letter A (—), which has the radio sound of "dit-da," in what is called the A quadrant, and also the letter N (—) which has the tone of "da-dit," in the N quadrant. It is these various sounds which tell the pilot his position in relation to the beam. If he flies within the 3 degree angle of the beam (shaded portion) he hears one continuous humming tone (daaa) in his ear-phones. This is because the A and N quadrants are blended and he hears them with equal intensity.

If the pilot flies off the beam on the N side he will hear the N signal (da-dit) stronger and the A signal (dit-da) will become weaker. By the same principle, if he is too far on the A side he will hear only the A signal (dit-da). A map will tell him whether he is at the left or right side of his course. These sound signals are transmitted for 30 seconds, followed by a code signal identifying the range station. This is sent out first into the N quadrant and then into the A.

MOOS OF THE MOMENT

BY UNCLE BOB

of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

The coming of hot weather reminds me that summer is a season in which bacteria multiply at a tremendous rate. And if they pick your milk utensils as the place to do their multiplying, then you may face losses because of sour or off-flavored milk and cream.

The first step in controlling bacteria is to make sure that your water supply is absolutely clean and safe. Wells and springs should be walled in, curbed, and kept tightly covered to protect them from surface drainage.

The next step, of course, is the utensils themselves. Milk adhering to the surfaces should be rinsed off with cold water and then the utensils should be scrubbed with a stiff brush, using hot water and an alkali or soda-ash washing powder.

Most discussions recommend that the utensils be treated with a chlorine solution (prepared according to the manufacturer's instructions on the package) just prior to the milking. Farmer's Bulletin No. 1675 gives complete instructions on how to prepare several effective chlorine solutions and discusses the proper washing of utensils in detail. The booklet is free. Just write the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

The only thing more mysterious than the way a cow produces milk is the way Hitler and his gang keep on fooling the German people.

Speaking of the mystery of how a cow produces milk, I've just received a booklet that explains the whole thing. Mighty interesting it is, too. This booklet takes you all through the growth, development, structure and functioning of the udder and teats. It tells how and when the milk is secreted, how it is let down, etc. A series of photographs helps to explain all the mysterious workings.

The booklet also has some good rules for milking. Like giving special care to newly-freshened heifers so that milking will have no unpleasant associations for them. And avoiding strange noises or doing anything unusual at milking time that might prevent a complete response to milking. To get this booklet, write for Bulletin 361, Agricultural Extension Service, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minnesota.*

The boys have really been "clipping" the Nazis in Europe lately. You can increase your own share of the good work by clipping your pastures. Old enemy weed in your pastures can do much to keep you from meeting your part of the national milk production goal.

Whether the soil on your farm has plenty of lime and phosphorus in it or not, it would be a good idea to add a mineral box to that salt box you keep out in the yard where the cattle exercise.

One good thing about cattle is that you can rely on them to take only as much of either as they need. Except the real young calves, of course. And by the way, if any of your calves have been born with "big neck" or if goiter is prevalent in your locality, I'd suggest that you put iodized salt in the salt box instead of regular salt.

Steamed bone meal or spent bone black or some other satisfactory phosphate mineral is what you should put in the mineral box. Circular 297, put out by the Extension Service, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin, offers a good discussion of this subject if you would like to have it.*

The army has its own version of the way to "stamp out" the Axis. Here at home we have war stamps for bullets, postage stamps for letters to the camps and ration stamps for fair distribution. In Italy, the boys added another—stamp-ede.

Mention of ration stamps leads me to ask what sort of ration you are allowing your dairy calves. Those that are about 4 months old should be getting out into pasture for the first time. If you can arrange it, it's always a good idea to put these young heifers into a separate pasture away from the milking herd.

From 4 to 6 months, you should feed them the same amount of grain as usual, letting them get their extra nourishment from hay or pasture. After 6 months, up to a year, you should actually cut their grain ration by about a pound a day if good quality roughage is available. Otherwise, the grain ration should be increased by about 50%.

Here I go, trying to give a lot of information that you could get more completely and more interestingly written, by sending for Leaflet 231, Agricultural Extension Service, Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana.*

*NOTE: There usually is a 5c charge for pamphlets mailed to non-residents of a state; but possibly your own state has a free pamphlet on the same subject. Ask your county agent.

Navy's Automatic Unwrapper For Tojo

Official Navy Composite Photos

Somewhere In The Pacific — A Navy flyer plummets his dive bomber in near vertical descent briefly racing his own bomb toward targets such as this Jap cruiser our flyers bombed, burned and sank off the Marshall Islands.

Navy bombs are equipped with delicate automatic fuses which have little propellers that start whirling when the bomb is dropped. After falling about 500 feet it unscrews the mechanism and a plunger falls into firing position ready to explode the bomb when it hits the target.

Foretelling bad news for the Japs, bomb fuses of this type have secretly been in mass production by Nash-Kelvinator Corporation since March, 1942, it was recently disclosed in a Navy approved statement announcing completion of the big contract "on schedule".

It's funny that insomnia never troubles you around seven o'clock in the morning.

To get ahead, use the one you have.

Acting under strict military censorship, Nash-Kelvinator became one of the world's largest manufacturers of bomb fuses, producing three types for Navy bombs ranging from 100 pounders up to Atoll-Buster size.

Manufacture of these bomb fuses has been proceeding along with the company's mass production of 2000 HP aircraft engines, hydromatic propellers, propeller governors, and large scale manufacture of essential parts for jeeps, tanks and trucks, and parts for submarines and ships.

The bomb fuses, none of which have been seen by the public, have established an outstanding record in the Pacific. Larger size Navy bombs carry two of these propeller-type fuses to make doubly sure a bomb will explode — one in the nose and one in the tail. None of these bombs has ever been known to fall on the target a "dud".

An agnostic is a learned man who professes not to know what every ignorant man is sure of.

BUZZ SAWS

Pick a Good Location to set up the saw, as free as possible of ice, snow, mud and trash. Keep children and stock at a safe distance.

Use a Good, Sharp Saw which cuts without unnecessary pressure. Push wood into the saw evenly to avoid binding; turn a crooked limb or pole so that it rests on the table at the point of cutting. Don't swing wood over an unguarded saw.

Inspect Saw Blade Frequently for checks and cracks; make sure all belts, bearings, shafts and table supports are in good repair.

Use Guards for the saw, pulleys and belts, if they are provided; if not, install them wherever possible. If you have to build them yourself, make them substantial.

Wear Suitable Clothing, free from dangling projections which might catch in the blade, belt or wood. Wear leather or leather-faced gloves.

Keep Clear of Saw; stand to the side rather than directly in line with it. Keep your eyes on the blade and your body as far from the saw as possible. Never extend your hands across the face of the saw.

Store Saw Properly, protecting it with a securely fastened cover. Put it away where people or stock cannot get near it.

Mowing Pastures

The profit from mowing pastures is readily seen, says Albert Brient, county agent.

Production of pasture grasses generally can be increased 50 to 60 per cent by mowing weeds because grass thereby is allowed more moisture, sunlight, plant food and air, he asserts. Also, livestock grazing clean, open pasture can get about 80 per cent of the palatable forage instead of 50 per cent where weeds are in the way.

Furthermore, animal products could be doubled by clearing and mowing acres of land along streams, on overflow crop land and other soil now overgrown with a variety of weeds and worthless shrubs. While the most extensive benefit from mowing is to speed up the transition from a weedy pasture to a good turf, mowing also improves and freshens even the most palatable pasture grasses.

Brient counsels that mowing to control weeds must start when the first of the worst begin to bloom, or soon enough to mow all before seed can form. Bitter-weed, a common pest in bermuda pasture, may retain enough vitality to mature seed from blooms on the mowed tops. Hence, this weed would require early and repeated mowing. Cut high enough on the first mowing so the sprouting stubble can be mowed often since it blooms repeatedly.

Reminding that some stock men depend upon hay for pastures mowed during lush spring growth, Brient says that the feed value of hay cut before maturity and baled or stacked, more than offsets the cost as compared with leaving an overgrowth on the pasture where its feed value is lost and its presence more injurious than beneficial. Dairy cows need forage to supplement permanent pastures almost the year round. Permanent pastures often are too succulent in the spring and too dry in summer and winter. Reserve of hay or silage always are needed to adjust fluctuations in pastures.

Saving Vegetable Seed

Saving seed for planting next year is a definite part of a gardening program. Albert Brient, county agent, suggests practical ways for salvaging a supply of seed for the use next spring.

Plants classed as annuals are the most desirable for seed. These include corn, okra, green beans, lima beans, squash, pumpkin, cucumber, tomato, pepper, lettuce, mustard, spinach, eggplant, cantaloupe, watermelon, English peas, field peas and radishes. Specimens chosen should be selected well in advance of maturity and marked for identification.

ty. For the highest quality of seed the plants should be well cared for until harvest.

Briefly, this is the procedure: Pumpkins and squash: Select uniform, smooth specimens and gather after the first frost. Store for a week or two for maturity and then remove the seed. Dry the seed for one day and store.

Cucumbers: Choose straight, smooth specimens and gather when golden yellow. Dry and store seed.

Corn: Let thoroughly mature on stalk; select carefully. Shell, store and treat.

Mustard, okra, radishes, spinach: Harvest when pods mature. Cut plants or pull pods in early morning to prevent shattering. Thresh dry and store.

Brient cautions that with squash, pumpkin, cushaw, cucumber, tomato, eggplant, cantaloupe, watermelon and pepper it is important to wash the seed thoroughly with two or three rinsings to remove all pulp or other foreign matter. A small wire strainer is useful for washing pulp or residue from some types of seed. It is not necessary to wash corn, okra, peas, beans, lettuce, mustard spinach and radishes before drying. The chief idea with these is to remove all foreign matter by wind or other means.

To store successfully seed first must be cured or dried as nearly as possible to a state of complete dormancy. Probably the most practical method is lay them in the sun in thin layers, for a day or two after they have been properly cleaned.

Alcohol is supposed to be one of the greatest preservatives, but just from observation we'd say that it doesn't preserve anything we couldn't get along without.

FISH PLANTING TIME—Texas, Oklahoma and Federal hatcheries have launched a gigantic fish stocking program for Denison Dam reservoir. They will plant 11,000,000 bass as well as many crappie, blue gill and catfish. Here a load from U. S. Fish and Wildlife hatchery at Tishomingo is being placed in planting wells of a specially constructed Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission boat. Many water sports will be exploited in postwar recreational plans of National Park Service to make Denison Dam area "The Playground of the Southwest." Dedication of the $54,000,000 dam and reservoir will be July 1.

Your Health

Austin, Texas.—In giving support to the celebration of June as Dairy Month, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, said today that in the midst of war food problems, including shortages of manpower, equipment, and feed for some dairy herds, the state of Texas joins the nation in a special salute to the dairy industries for carrying on in the face of difficulty and actual hardships to produce one of our essential foods.

"Milk has been called the most nearly perfect food because it contains in easily digested form many elements required for body nourishment," Dr. Cox said. "The milk proteins promote body development and growth and generate energy. The minerals, especially calcium, assist in the growth and maintenance of bones and teeth. The vitamins, which are essential to growth and health, give protection against the attack of many infections."

The state health officer specifically warned that if milk is not clean and properly handled, it is an excellent medium of growing germs. Cleanliness in the milking process and in the milk container is very essential. All milk handlers should be healthy, and all equipment should be properly washed and sterilized and protected from flies and dirt.

The State Health Department has long urged that the consuming public insist upon either pasteurized milk or raw milk produced under approved conditions.

ANSWERS for Victory Gardeners

What About Worms?

Worms can be a real problem. There are many kinds and varieties of them but all worms are alike in one respect—they live only to eat and grow. As a result, worms take many times their weight in garden stuff. Even worse is the messy trail they leave behind with corn ears spoiled, cabbage heads damaged, and many products, unpalatable from their chewing. The worst damage from worms, however, comes from the destruction of plant foliage, thus slowing up growth and reducing the yield of the crop or even destroying it entirely. Any worm in your garden is an enemy—go after him.

Where Do Worms Come From?

When you see millers fluttering about the garden, you may think the sight beautiful, but watch out for worms a little later. The millers are there to lay eggs. Some times the intermediate forms are not true worms in the scientific sense but the damage is the same and the treatment is also the same. They must be sprayed or dusted with an effective insecticide.

How Can Cabbage Worms Be Killed With the Least Trouble?

The best way to protect the garden from cabbage worms is by spraying a stomach poison mixed with water on the growing plants. This leaves a coating of poison over the cabbage head that is sure death to the worms. The cheapest and most efficient material for such poisoning is common lead arsenate to be had at any store selling garden supplies. If you are spraying with Black Leaf 40 for aphids on cabbage, you will control the cabbage worm also.

What Are the Reddish Brown Spots on My Potato Plants?

These are the beginning stages of the potato bug or Colorado potato beetle. They are heavy eaters trying to grow into full grown potato beetles just as soon as they can. Lead arsenate sprayed on the leaves is sufficiently poisonous to destroy them within a very few minutes. Here again if you are spraying for potato aphid with Black Leaf 40, you will get very good control of the potato beetle at the same time for the contact spray is effective against them in the younger stages.

Are Sprays Dangerous to People?

There is no danger from insecticide poisoning if a few simple rules are followed. Products which have been sprayed with lead arsenate should not be eaten until the rains have had a chance to wash off the material. In case of a dry year when such washing action is slow, careful washing during preparation for the table is necessary. In other words, no one should eat lead arsenate and if it is not "weathered" off the garden vegetables or fruit then it should be washed off at the kitchen sink. Washing apples after they are picked is standard practice in some sections.

Black Leaf 40 is not a problem. It is a product which evaporates and within a day or two after it is applied no harm whatever can come from vegetables which have been sprayed by it. Many gardeners use Black Leaf 40 exclusively as they approach the season when they expect to harvest the product of the garden.

Hints for the Homemaker

By WINIFRED S. CARTER

EVER since the Pilgrims first landed on these shores, spring cleaning has been an established American custom. With the first balmy days of March generations of American women have gathered up their brushes and mops, shooed the men of the family out of the way, and got to work scrubbing and polishing. Today, in war time, when thorough cleanliness is necessary, not only for its own sake, but to help conserve precious things that can't be replaced, spring cleaning is more important than ever.

Soap and water are your best allies in this pitched battle against the accumulated dirt of a year—for digging into closet corners, for washing curtains and blankets, even for cleaning those household furnishings that can't go into the wash tub or washing machine.

First attack the floors, then the walls, then the woodwork, then the venetian blinds or shades. For this kind of cleaning, as well as for getting the dirt off furniture, upholstery, rugs and carpets, lampshades, and the frames of pictures and mirrors, the Ivory sponge method has been invented. Its ingredients are simple: one pail of clear warm water, one pail of cool, heavy Ivory suds, two household sponges, and several clean, soft cloths, preferably wool. The steps in making even the most sat-in chair look fresh and clean with these ingredients are equally simple. First remove all surface dust. Second, squeeze a sponge in heavy suds and wipe the surface, repeating this until the surface is clean. Third, squeeze a second sponge in clear water and sponge the surface until all trace of soap is removed. Finally, absorb any excess moisture with a clean, dry cloth.

With this method of getting things really clean, housewife, don't have to start worrying about spring cleaning while the snow is still on the ground. A little elbow grease, a lot of Ivory suds—and even the grimeiest house can sparkle from top to bottom, fresh with the freshness that only spring cleaning can give.

The little couple disappeared only to return a moment later, attired in "going-away costumes" and carrying a suitcase, which they presented to the honoree. The luggage contained the shower gifts.

Miss Carol Ann Davis of Gainesville assisted the honoree in opening the gifts which the guests admired, and later refreshments of punch and cake were served.

This poster "Fire Away" shows a scene aboard the U. S. Submarine "Dorado." The artist, the celebrated American painter Georges Schreiber, has caught the action during the very tense moment before the passing craft is identified as friend or foe. The painting is authentic in every detail for the artist was actually aboard the Submarine at sea. He ate and slept with the crew. He worked with the men and stood watch with the officers. A short time after leaving the Submarine, it was lost with all hands.

Belles and Beaux Get Timely Advice

"HE WHO hurries the fastest sometimes misses the boat" is the advice Holly Miller gives 'teen-age boy and girl readers of her column in nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

"Time may be a-wastin', belles and beaux," she writes, "but don't let the thought get you in such a dither that you forget your rearing."

Here are one or two instances of the value of avoiding haste cited by this Capper's Farmer authority:

"Wait for the car to stop and for your swain of the evening to come around and open the door for you. House doors, theater doors and the swinging opening to the drugstore come into this consideration. Give him a chance to be polite.

"Take your time when making introductions. Repeat names plainly and, incidentally, say the name of the most respected first. Spend a little time getting folks acquainted before you leave them cold. Just add a little to your smoothie air.

"You won't starve if you don't get your meal into your stomach in 2 minutes flat. It's not a very pretty show for your family, and some day you might forget when you're away from home. Take time to be polite to your kinfolks. It pays off in the end, since practice gives poise."

Problems concerning etiquette, manners and the means of acquiring smoothness are dealt with by Miss Miller in issues of the magazine. She is always ready to answer questions that puzzle youthful readers and to suggest methods of meeting various situations.

S.Sgt. Freddie Schmitz has written his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schmitz, that he was recently promoted to his present rating and that he has been seeing act-mysterious ailments shortly after the naval engagement in the Marianas. Why do they have to be so subtle about such things? Almost everybody knows that a mysterious, silent in those circles is nothing but a severe belly ache, self inflicted. By that little act they save face. Meaning they save themselves the embarrassment of facing their people. But what do they do about saving their blushing faces when they join their honorable ancestors?

Thrifty Sugar Saver Utilizes Corn Sirup

White sirup cake is the answer to many a home-maker's prayer for a sugar-saving dessert these wartime rationing days.

The recipe, selected by Marjorie Griffin, home editor of Capper's Farmer, was among hundreds submitted by readers of the nationally circulated magazine's Home Cooking department.

1/2 c. shortening powder
1/2 c. sugar
1 c. corn sirup
2 eggs, beaten
2 c. cake flour
1/2 tsp. salt

2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. soda
1/2 c. sour milk
1/2 c. sour cream
2 tsp. vanilla

Cream shortening and sugar. Add sirup and blend thoroughly. Stir in eggs. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk and sour cream. Add vanilla. Turn into 2 greased, waxed paper-lined 6 by 11-inch pans. Bake in moderate oven (350°) for 25-30 minutes. When slightly cooled, fill and frost with Quick Strawberry Frosting:

1 egg
1/2 tsp. salt
1 c. strawberry preserves

Combine ingredients. Beat with rotary egg beater until frosting will stand in peaks. Any tart jam or jelly may be used in place of strawberry preserves. Spread.

Since his arrival here he is assisting with work in the harvest fields.

double your stake in America
double your purchase of War Bonds

This is the crisis of the toughest, bloodiest war America has ever faced. This is the time when America must make her supreme fighting effort. To match it, we at home are urged to make our greatest financial effort. For the greatest sum of money ever raised must be raised in the next few weeks . . . by our purchases of War Bonds. This means more than buying a bond in the regular way. It means more even than buying extra bonds as another War Loan drive. It means doubling . . . yes, doubling . . . what we've done before. To many this will mean real sacrifice. But our duty is clear. The supreme effort of the war is at hand for every American here and overseas! For Freedom . . . double your bond buying . . . double your stake in the Land of the Free!
