Muenster ISD may get additional aid

by Elaine Schad

The Muenster school district will receive about $26,000 in additional state aid next year if the education funding plan approved by the Texas Legislature withstands a court test next week.

There is about a 75 percent chance that the Texas Supreme Court next week will accept the education funding plan, said Dist. 63 State Representative Ric Williamson (D-Weatherford), who represents Cooke County.

Should the courts approve the funding plan, Muenster is expected to receive $525,660 in state aid for 1990-1991, $516,396 for 1991-1992, and $516,075 in 1992-1993. That represents only about $25,000 annually than what the district had planned to receive under the old funding formulas.

Lindsay ISD is expected to fair better, receiving almost $64,000 in new state money. The district is estimated to receive $814,592 in 1990-1991, $812,861 in 1991-1992, and $822,526 for 1992-1993.

Era will do very well under the new plan, receiving some $171,000 in new state money this year. The district will receive $1,016,113 for 1990-1991, $1,078,254 for 1991-1992, and $1,154,287 for 1992-1993.

Many schools in Williamson's state legislature district, which includes Cooke, Parker and Wise counties, would actually fair better under the court masterplan proposed by William Kilgarrin. The courts, however, will probably accept the legislative plan to avoid litigation, and with the hopes that the Legislature will address the issue again beginning in January, Williamson said.

"On the bad side, it does not immediately recognize tax effort as a barometer of state aid," Williamson said. "The flip side of that, however, is that there is a significant recognition of tax effort three years from now," he said. "The beauty of it is that there is still control by the local board."

The legislative funding bill, over the next three-years, provides a phaseout of various state aid calculations, which Williamson charged gives an unfair state funding advantage to large, urban school districts.

One advantage to many districts in Cooke and Wise counties, according to Williamson, is the three-year phase-in of state aid based on local tax effort. The minimum tax rate required to receive additional state aid rises each year, to a rate of at least 70 cents per $100 valuation of property by 1991-1992. "We don't have to worry about that because we're already there," he said. School districts with rates below the minimum have the option of retaining those rates without receiving the additional state aid, Williamson said.

The problem of equity for public education has brought into focus the broader question of taxation, and whether the property tax is the proper way to continue to raise revenues for education, Williamson said. The Legislature could address the issue next Spring if people are vocal enough, he said. "I think the ground work is being laid for people to think what kind of load they are willing to bear," he said.

The impact on state aid of the state's funding bill for 1990-1991 for school districts in Cooke County are listed below.

- Muenster ISD: An increase of $26,315, from $499,000 to $526,000.
- Lindsay ISD: An increase of $63,764, from $751,000 to $815,000.
- Valley View ISD: An increase of $285,552, from $1.4 million to $1.7 million.
- Callisburg ISD: An increase of $248,500, from $1.5 million to $1.75 million.
- Era ISD: An increase of $171,000, from $844,904 to $1.02 million.
- Gainesville ISD: An increase of $664,000, from $4.84 million to $5.5 million.
- Sivells Bend ISD: No increase, remaining at $98,143.
- Walnut Bend ISD: An increase of $19,463, from $117,000 to $137,000.

Property values in Muenster to increase

by Elaine Schad

Property values in both the City of Muenster and the Muenster school district will increase significantly over last year, according to preliminary value estimates released this week by the Cooke County Appraisal District.

More than 77,700 property tax notices went out to Cooke County property owners this week, officials said. A new state law requires that all property owners be notified if there is any change in values this year, but the county also has decided to send notices to those whose values have remained the same, said CCAD Chief Appraiser Pat Pickett. Previously, appraisal districts had the option of notifying only those owners whose property values had changed by $1,000 or more. Should property owners fail to receive their notices by the end of this week, they should notify the CCAD office, she said.

Cooke County property values are expected to increase by about $64 million. Cooke County's preliminary 1990 values have been set at $841.6 million, an 8 percent increase over last year's $777 million.

Some $18 million in countywide value increases were in minerals, where the price of a barrel of oil has increased to near $22, said Ms. Pickett. Some of the $19 million increase in the City of Gainesville's values came from a reappraisal of commercial properties along Highway 82 and Interstate 35. Most of the property value increases were due to reappraisals rather than new property, she said. Frame houses countywide showed a fairly significant increase, based on schedule change and on sales data, said Ms. Pickett.

Total reappraisals were completed in the Valley View, Muenster and Lindsay school districts. Appraisals will be completed for all other county entities except the Gainesville ISD next year, with Gainesville's reappraisal set for 1992, officials said. Reappraisals will be done in a three-year cycle, she said.

Property owners have 30 days to contact the appraisal office if they have questions or wish to protest their values, said Ms. Pickett. Appraisal Review Board hearings will begin July 5, with the tax roll set to be certified by July 20, she said.

Once the final tax roll is certified, there will be very little hope of changing a value unless it is due to a gross error, said Ms. Pickett. Property owners, especially those who have received notices for property they no longer own, should contact the appraisal district as soon as possible if they have questions or think something on their notice should be changed, she said. Call 665-7651 for more information.

The City of Muenster had an almost $2 million increase, said Ms. Pickett. Most of that was attributed to automobiles that were added to the tax rolls that were not

Flusches pass tough new recertification

Jeannine Flusche and her daughter, Janel, have successfully completed their recertification as Red Cross water safety and life guard instructors. They will soon complete the life guard training program.

Red Cross has revamped its whole swim program set up, said Jeannine Flusche. Anybody who held any certification must be recertified. The present certification will expire in December. Kathy Hartman is also certified until then.

There are only four people in Cooke County at this time who have been recertified to teach swimming lessons and train life guards. The other two are from Gainesville and hold full time jobs, so they are unable to teach swim lessons in Gainesville. Unless more people in Gainesville obtain the new certification the town will probably lose their Learn to Swim Program.

Muenster is very fortunate to have the only free Red Cross swim lesson program in Texas and to have people like the Flusches who volunteer their time and money to get the training necessary to keep Red Cross swim instructions going from year to year.

Jeannine and Janel took 30 hours of training this summer in Richardson where they were trained by the Dallas Chapter of Red Cross. "It's a lot tougher now," explained Jeannine. "The water work is really hard, but the book work is easier." The program was free of charge, but all expenses such as gas and lodging were paid by the students.

"The new program is really tough, a hundred times tougher, for the people training to be life guards, but it is a good thing because we weren't preparing them for everything," remarked Flusche. The course calls for 50 hours of training which includes more life saving knowledge and pool management.

Before life guards were taught only to go in and save somebody if their own life wasn't put in jeopardy. Now they are required to attempt to save a drowning person's life regardless of the danger level and can be sued if they don't try. Angela Endres and Melissa Bayer took a life guard training class from May 14 through May 25. The class lasted from 7 until 10 p.m. five nights a week at the Gainesville State School. Their instructor was James Althaus from The Colony.

There were ten students when the class began. Completing the training were eight, but only six passed. The girls gave up a lot to take the classes which were scheduled during a time when end of the year tests and school banquets were also scheduled according to one of their parents. The girls are both employed by the City of Muenster as life guards at the city pool.

Requirements for passing the course are conditioning swim 500 yards; tread water with a 10 lb. brick for two minutes; speed swim 18 yards in 18 seconds; knowing backboard procedures and how to handle spinal victims; and pass a written exam by at least 80 percent.

Before a certificate was presented proof of passing a CPR and First Aid course had to be shown. The cost of the life guard class was $35 and the CPR and First Aid course was $35. These fees were paid by the students.

Also taking the CPR and First Aid class which was taught by Gainesville EMS paramedics were Misti Vogel, Valerie Vogel, Janel Flusche and Jeannine Flusche.

It is feared that there will be a shortage of life guard and swim safety instructors due to the recertification requirement and the tougher life guard course. Jeannine Flusche invites anyone that is interested to contact her. "We could lose our swim program if more people aren't certified," said Mrs. Flusche.

MMH program deals with tissue donors

Kim Bufkin of the Transplant Services Center of The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center at Dallas spoke to personnel of Muenster Memorial Hospital on Thursday, June 14, in the MMH meeting room. Her program dealt primarily with tissue donors.

Joan Walterscheid, Director of Nursing at MMH, first became personally associated with Ms. Bufkin and the Transplant Services Center approximately six weeks ago when a patient who died in the Muenster Hospital became a tissue donor. "It worked real smoothly," said Mrs. Walterscheid, who worked with the family and the transplant service.

Many donors are acceptable for tissue donation that are excluded from organ donation, but all organ donors are potential tissue donors. The program dealt primarily with tissue donors because the Muenster Hospital doesn't have life support units.

Annually, there are 20,000 potential donors who meet the necessary criteria for organ and tissue donation. There are over 30,000 people on waiting lists for organ or tissue transplants. The need for transplantable tissue and organs is exceedingly greater than the availability. This is the reason the help of health care professionals is so vital to overcoming the shortage.

"Donated tissue has many uses," said Kim Bufkin. Skin which is taken only from the back and legs of the donor is used by burn centers in lifesaving grafts. The Vision has been restored to many with donated corneas. Heart tissue is used in repair or replacement of heart valves. Bone grafts have saved arms and legs from amputation when a tumorous or shattered bone segment is replaced with donor bone until the patient's own bone can fuse around the donor segment.

While counseling the hospital personnel on how to approach a deceased patient's family on the possibility of donating tissue, Ms. Bufkin told those present not to feel like they are asking for something, but offering the family the opportunity to make a beautiful humanitarian gesture. After a death is often a difficult time for nurses to approach the family, but many who aren't approached later come back to ask why they weren't, said Bufkin.

"We try to protect the family at all turns," stressed the counselor. "Even if there is a card signed by the patient granting donor permission, we won't act without the family's consent."

Should the tissue be offered for donation, it will be taken with a surgical procedure done with the utmost respect for the body and complete reconstruction will be done, said Bufkin. An open casket funeral is possible and the donation doesn't cause funeral service to be delayed.

Tissue donors can range in age from three months to 70 years.

Tissue can be taken between 6 and 18 hours after death, depending on the type of tissue being donated.

People are urged to discuss their wishes with family members now. It is best to make your decision known to your family while it can be discussed in a calm manner and without the stress of trauma.

Anyone wishing to sign a donor intent card can do so by obtaining a brochure at the Muenster Hospital. The card must be signed in front of two witnesses, preferably family members. The card should then be carried in your wallet. For further information, contact Joan Walterscheid at 759-2271.

The brochure also contains a donor file card that can be mailed to Transplant Services at The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center. People who mail this card will receive a Key to Immortality which should be carried on your keyring.

The Key to Immortality has been found to be the most successful means of quickly identifying potential organ/tissue donors at accident scenes.

Dear Sirs:

The trade policies of this country toward the U.S.S.R. and China appear extremely contradictory, even hypocritical.

But the really disturbing aspect of this Government's trade policy is China. How President Bush can have the gall to continue most favored status for China, essentially announcing his decision on the first anniversary of the massacre in Tiananmen Square, is beyond my ability to understand.

Lindsay Council has routine meeting

by Elaine Schad
The Lindsay City Council, on a 3 to 2 split vote, has approved a quit claim deed on a section of property near the city park.

The Council, during its regular June meeting, granted the request from Robert Walterscheid that the city relinquish a 60-foot by 60-foot section of property, about 2,900 square feet adjacent to his property.

The council denied a request from Dwayne Hellman for a special use permit for construction of a daycare center on his property on Elmview Street, the denial being a recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

A representative from Texas Waste Management discussed curbside garbage pickup with the council. The city is also discussing the possibility with Gainesville officials concerning the cost of that city providing Lindsay with garbage pickup service.

The city is completing a survey that is being conducted through city water bills. Early indications are that people would be in favor of participating in the garbage service if offered, that most would prefer once-a-week pickup.

Other business, the council: -Tabled a discussion of the cable television service since the representative from WGA failed to show up at the meeting.

-Reported that the street work was continuing and that there should be no problem meeting a July 8 completion deadline.

-Reported that the painting, redecorating and providing new blinds in the City Hall is complete.

-Appointed Council Member Don Metzler as Cooke County's representative to the Texoma Council of Governments.

-Decided to hold a work session later in June with planning and zoning concerning the revamping of subdivision and building ordinances.

Williamson recognized in Dallas Morning News

On Tuesday, June 12, 1990 The Dallas Morning News released its rating of key state leaders involved in the recently concluded legislative session on public education financing.

The Morning News described the contribution of Williamson by pointing out "No one does homework more thoroughly, and no one is more innovative in his thinking. He rallied conservatives to find a fiscally palatable alternative to big spending plans, and rallied votes for structural changes. He backed the losing Schoolcraft plan, but few played a more constructive role."

"It is always nice to be recognized by a prestigious statewide publication such as The Dallas Morning News. Even though our more conservative approach failed adoption by a narrow margin, I feel that with the leadership of Speaker Gib Lewis we were able to fashion a greater amount of state aid to the school districts in Cooke County," Williamson said.

Other key leaders recognized by The Dallas Morning News included Governor Bill Clements, Lt. Governor Bill Hobby, Speaker Gib Lewis, Rep. Ernestine Glosbrenner, Rep. Paul Colbert, Sen. Carl Parker, Sen. Kent Caperton, Rep. Alan Schoolcraft, Rep. Kent Grusendorf.

Donor's blood transfuses gift of life

There will be a Red Cross blood drive on Wednesday, June 27 from 3 p.m. until 7 p.m., in the Muenster K of C Hall.

In Texas, 17 year olds must have written parental permission. Anyone having a history of hepatitis, heart disease, or cancer (other than skin cancer) are restricted from donating blood.

Beta Kappa is working with Red Cross to coordinate this blood drive. The organization will be providing home-made cookies with orange juice.

From donation to transfusion, your blood saves lives. No man-made product can substitute for human blood...

After donating blood, the unit is tested by Red Cross laboratory professionals and separated into components (red cells, plasma, and platelets) for storage under the proper temperatures and conditions in the Red Cross Product Management area.

Each hospital maintains an inventory level based on its historical use. Routine deliveries supply each facility with blood products, as dictated by its pattern of usage. Additional deliveries are made, if needed.

Blood is distributed from the Red Cross twenty-four hours per day. A volunteer or paid staff member might transport the blood for local use, or a bus may be used for more distant deliveries.

some extreme cases, the Highway Patrol lends assistance.

Blood components receive additional testing once they arrive at the hospital - an extra precaution to make sure that the blood type and Rh factor are correctly labeled. Compatibility with the recipient is thus verified through a "cross match" procedure.

Blood Drive to be held at GMH June 22

The Texoma Regional Blood Center mobile unit will be conducting a blood drive at Gainesville Memorial Hospital Friday, June 22, from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The mobile unit team will set up for blood donations in the hospital's first floor conference room. The public is invited to participate.

The Texoma Regional Blood Center serves the comprehensive blood needs of the citizens of Cooke, Fannin and Grayson counties. Founded in 1975, its sole purpose is to provide the quantity and quality of blood and blood components needed in this region.

Gainesville Memorial Hospital is a member institution of the blood bank and supports it regularly with blood drives for its employees and the public.

The Texoma Regional Blood Center affords citizens the opportunity to participate in a community blood program that benefits not only themselves, but every person in the region.

Texas reports strong sales tax figures in April

AUSTIN - State Comptroller Bob Bullock reported that his office sent checks totaling $83.3 million in local sales tax rebates to cities and counties in Texas.

"We're seeing another month of strong sales tax figures and that's good news for Texas," Bullock said.

In Cooke County, there was an overall increase of 5.36 percent from April 1989 compared to April 1990. Gainesville increased 6.99 percent from $68,174.36 in '89 to $72,941.75 in '90.

Muenster and Lindsay experienced decreases in their tax rebate checks. Muenster's went from $7,597.75 to $6,857.73, a 9.74 percent decrease.

Cooke County received a check for $42,502.37. The county began sales tax on Jan. 1, 1990.

Rebate checks to counties totaled $8.4 million this month for an increase of nearly 17 percent over last year's total payments at this time.

A pilgrimage to Medugorje

by Barbara Fuhrmann

Ten of us have just returned from a week's trip to Medugorje, Yugoslavia, where the Virgin Mary has been appearing daily to four to six young people since 1981. It was quite an experience. We began on May 29 with a blessing from Father Victor for a safe trip and then we were off to DFW Airport. Thirty hours later, we arrived in Medugorje, where we stayed with a local family. Our group included Johnny and Louise Fisher, who had been to Medugorje last October, Herbie and Dolores Miller, Sister Monica and her mother, Katie Swirczynski, Louise Trubenbach, Theresa (Mrs. James) Walterscheid, Mary (Mrs. Emmet) Sicking and myself.

Each day began with an English-speaking Mass at 10 a.m. in St. James Church. The church was always packed, so we would go in during the German Mass preceding it to get a seat or else take our camping stools to sit on. Afterward, our tour guide usually had an interview scheduled with one of the visionaries. One day we heard Ivan, a young man who Mary appears to each day. He described her as three dimensional with a white veil, dark hair, blue eyes, and wearing a grey dress. He also said that he had touched her. With the help of an interpreter, he told us, "It's easier to talk to her than you." He stressed the importance of family prayer and guiding our young people in the ways of God. He said that too often we give young people a superficial religion. He reminded us of Mary's requests for prayer, fasting, conversion, penance, and faith. He said that praying the rosary is very important, but that we must always try to pray from our heart and not just say the words.

The next day we had a chance to see Vicka, another visionary. She has a constant smile and is very congenial. She too reminded us of Mary's messages and requests. One of her requests is for prayer and fasting on bread and water on Wednesdays and Fridays because "Prayer and fasting can avert wars and natural disasters." Vicka added that if a person could not fast for health reasons, he or she could give up "something you really like." She went on to talk about the secrets Mary has given them. The first one is that Mary will leave a permanent and indestructible sign on Apparition Hill where she first appeared. There are ten secrets all together. The seventh has been lessened because of prayer and fasting. We also had a chance to meet Jelena and Mirjana, teenage girls who receive "inner locutions." Mary speaks to them and gives them guidance for growing in the spiritual life.

While in Medugorje, we also had an opportunity to climb Apparition Hill where Mary appeared for the first time on June 24, 1981. Every Monday and Friday evening the Virgin Mary appears to Ivan there. We were privileged to make the climb on Friday evening - even Louise Trubenbach and Katie Swirczynski made it up for the apparition. Afterward, the interpreter told us the following: "Our Lady appeared joyful and she prayed over us with her hands extended. She was there with three angels. Ivan recommended us and all our intentions. The message is: 'My dear children, this is the time of grace. Open yourselves to the Holy Spirit. Your mother needs to invite you today to prayer and sacrifice.' After that she prayed one Glory Be and one Our Father and disappeared in the sign of the burning cross."

Every evening at 6:00 we would join in praying the rosary at St. James Church and at 6:40 p.m. an apparition would occur in a room in the bell tower of the church. The church was so crowded that we often sat on the benches outside. After a brief pause for the apparition, we would continue with the rosary until the Croation (local dialect) Mass at 7 p.m. Each Mass was followed by a blessing of religious articles and a healing service for the sick.

There were many other highlights of our stay there. One was climbing Mt. Krizevac to pray the stations of the cross and to view the cross erected there in 1933. A funny incident occurred on the way. When we asked to use the bathroom at a private home, we received a long lecture in Croation from an elderly lady who then directed us to an outhouse. We also attended talks given by the Franciscan priests, holy hours, and went shopping for rosaries, crucifixes and such.

Being there on Pentecost Sunday was special. After attending Mass in English at noon, we visited Father Jozo's parish in Tihajina where there is a beautiful statue of Mary. Father Jozo was the first pastor at Medugorje when the apparitions began. He blessed several members of our group while we were there. We also visited a waterfall at Trebizat. Arriving back at Medugorje, we went to the evening rosary. The day had been rainy and cloudy, but at the time of the apparition, the sun came out. Later, as I was sitting outside during the Mass, I noticed a group of people looking at the sun. Curious, I joined them. Although I only viewed it a few moments, the sun was pulsating and then began spinning in a clockwise direction. To me, it was a special sign of Mary's gratitude for all the prayer and sacrifice that preceded the feast of Pentecost and a special farewell gift as I prepared to leave the next day. Although the Catholic Church has not given its official approval to the apparitions at Medugorje, I am convinced that it is the Virgin Mary because of all of the conversions and healings that have taken place as a result.

The next day we left for Dubrovnik, a beautiful port city on the Adriatic coast. While there we toured the walled city and saw the Church of St. Blaise that contains relic bones of the saint. Johnny and Louise Fisher stayed on an extra week to do some sightseeing, while the rest of us left for the long trip back to the U.S. Sister Monica had accidentally left her passport in Medugorje, but the tour guide Indira said, "Don't worry" and got it to her at the airport.

I am sure all of us experienced special graces while there that are too profound to share and all of us came back determined to "live the messages" that Mary has given at Medugorje.

Lindsay Centennial Committee makes plans for 1992 festivities

The Lindsay Centennial Steering Committee met several times to discuss plans for the 1992 celebration. Clara Hermes, chairman, presided.

A date for the main celebration was set for the third weekend in June starting with a special Mass on Friday evening with events scheduled throughout the weekend, culminating in the Annual Homecoming Picnic on Sunday. Many other ideas were discussed and, in order to get more input from members of the community, a survey will be prepared by Mrs. Hermes and placed in the church and post office for citizens to complete and return to the committee for further discussion.

The group decided to also commemorate the First Mass celebrated in Lindsay on March 25, 1892 on that date exactly 100 years later with Bishop Delaney officiating.

History Book Committee member Diane Hermes informed the group that advanced sales of the book will begin at the 1990 Homecoming Picnic with pre-ordered books costing $45.00 and after the pre-order deadline of Dec. 31, 1990, the price will be $50.00.

A cake walk will be held at the Picnic on June 24 between the hours of 3 p.m. and 6 p.m. to raise money for Centennial expenses. Louise Schad is chairman of the event and urges all families to donate a cake.

In other business, David Arendt was named chairman of the Souvenir Committee and Claudia Zimmerer will chair the Centennial Quilt Committee.

In addition to Hermes, Arendt, Zimmerer and Schad, members of the committee include: Gilbert Hermes, Vincent Zimmerer, Linda Sandmann, Mayor Doyle Cogburn and Father Bart Landdwermyer.

Any surveys or correspondence relating to the Centennial can be mailed to: Centennial, P.O. Box 151, Lindsay, TX 76250.

Ceremony unites couple

A semi-formal wedding ceremony with double ring vows united Cindy Ann Tisdale and Dennis Ray Yung in First Baptist Church of Muenster on June 16 at 4 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Larry Tisdale of Muenster and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Yung of Houston and Ann Hazeldahl of Temple.

Rev. Chuck Frazier, pastor of First Baptist Church was the officiating minister.

Presented at the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride was wearing a gown of slipper satin, fashioned with a beaded Seville lace neckline and fitted bodice, short tiered satin sleeves with bows. From a basque waistline, the softly flowing satin skirt was enhanced by Seville lace appliques and wire-edge ruffles. The hemline which flowed into a chapel train, was encircled in Seville lace.

Her fingertip length tiered bridal veil of illusion fell from a wreath of white flowers.

She carried a crescent shaped bridal bouquet of fresh red roses, white daisies, pink mini-carnations and baby's breath.

ATTENDANTS

Teena Perry of Wichita Falls was her sister's matron of honor. Joy Tisdale, a sister, was the bridesmaid. Kaci Fritsch of Belton, a friend of the bride and groom, was flower girl. They wore tea length pastel floral print gowns styled with slightly fitted bodices, and full skirts gathered to dropped waistlines, puffed sleeves, deep V-backs and back bow trim.

Their flowers were long stem fresh red roses and baby's breath, tied with ribbons. The flower girl carried rose petals in a basket made by Mickie Yung.

Michael Yung of Troy, Texas was his brother's best man. Keith Yung of Houston, another brother, was groomsman. Dennis Perry of Wichita Falls, bride's brother-in-law helped usher the guests. Keith Yung, one of the groomsmen, was candlelighter.

The wedding ceremony was held at an altar decorated with arrangements of gladioli, lilies, carnations and tulips and brass heart shaped candelabras, each holding 18 tapers.

Ruth Felderhoff, pianist, and Christi Hesse, vocalist, presented wedding music, including "Doubly Good," "Surely The Presence of the Lord is in This Place," "The Greatest Gift," "You Are The Wind Beneath My Wings," "Household of Faith." Also "Pachelbel," "Wagner's Wedding March" and the "Mendelssohn Recessional."

A reception followed in the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church, hosted by the parents of the bride.

Emily Tisdale, bride's cousin, secured signatures in the guest book. There was a display of engagement and bridal portraits by Karen Trubenbach of Memories Studio.

The bride's table and the groom's table were each draped in a Cinderella skirt of white with rose pink accents. The bride's table held crystal appointments and the groom's table held burgundy appointments. Cathie and Francis Fuhrmann designed and made both the silver white wedding cake, placed over a fountain and decorated with roses, sweet peas and lilies of the valley, and bubble candles - and the triple fudge groom's cake decorated with chocolate dipped strawberries. The Fuhrmanns cut and served the bride's cake and Sandra Fritsch and Elaine Koesler of Muenster served the groom's cake. Diana Spradley and Paula Ward, both of Belton, served punch from an heirloom crystal punch bowl and coffee from an urn.

A cold buffet table was placed between the cake tables. Pick up foods were prepared by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Virginia Tisdale of Belton, and served on burgundy and crystal platters. Pink and burgundy napkins, delicate ceramic doves and white gladioli enhanced the effect. The table was draped with banquet pleats and trimmed with blue ribbon.

The bride is a 1984 graduate of Muenster High School, a 1988 graduate of the University of Mary Hardin-Baylor with a Bachelor of Science in Education. She is a first grade teacher in the Belton Independent School District. The groom is a 1983 graduate of Belton High School and attended Texas A&M University. He is vice-president of R.J. King Construction Company.

When the couple returns from a wedding trip to Eureka Springs, Ark. and Branson, Mo. they will make their home in Temple.

A bridal shower was given by faculty members of Sparta Elementary School, where the bride teaches.

Libraries receive free books through KXAS

Due to the efforts and generosity of KXAS-TV Dallas/Fort Worth, every public library building in the Northeast and North Texas Library System areas (nearly 200 buildings) will soon receive a complete set of hardback copies of the 10 winners of the Texas Library Association Texas Bluebonnet Award.

When Annette Herrman, Director of Advertising and Promotion for the television station, contacted System Coordinators Elizabeth Crabb and Katherine Brown last fall, she announced that Channel 5 had teamed up with the Associated National Bank to create the "Building a Better Texas" Visa card. North Texans would use the special card just like any other Visa card but, whenever the card was used to make a purchase, money would go into a special fund.

KXAS manages this money, with a portion of it going directly to the sponsored projects and a portion going to pay for special locally-produced programming dealing with some of the sponsored project issues.

Herrman informed the two system coordinators that the campaign was to debut with all of its efforts focused on the children's section of libraries. Representatives of KXAS, both systems and the Associates discussed several ways to use the funds and ultimately agreed that the money should be used to purchase hardback copies of the Texas Library Association Texas Bluebonnet Award winners for every public library building in the two system areas. Ideally, every building would receive copies of all 10 winners; at least, every library would receive one or more of the winners.

KXAS TV contacted TLA Executive Director Patricia Smith to request approval to use the TLA Texas Bluebonnet Award logo and name in its commercials and then, from Sept. 27 through Oct. 9, aired a 30-second spot encouraging children to read, promoting the TLA Texas Bluebonnet Award program and informing citizens of public libraries' needs for funding.

While the first spot continued to run, another 30-second spot began airing Oct. 9. This spot explained how citizens could help libraries by using the special Visa card; a toll-free number for applying for the card appeared on the screen.

Until March 31, 1990, money went into the special fund whenever the special Visa cards were used for purchases. By mid-March the two systems offices were informed that the project was a success: KXAS and the citizens of North Texas had set aside enough money to purchase nearly 2000 hardback children's books - at an average retail cost of $12.35 per book.

Julie Rohmer has an eventful stay in England

Julie Rohmer returned recently from a 3½ month stay in London, England. She and 20 other students from St. Mary's University in San Antonio departed on January 12 from San Antonio as part of the university's semester abroad program.

Classes were held at the University of London. Professors from St. Mary's instructed the group in social philosophy, political science, and the history of U.S./British relations, and a professor from London taught a British literature class. Some course activities were designed to get the students to interact with and learn the opinions of the locals on various issues, as well as to take advantage of their stay abroad by taking in some of the important sites of London.

Along with their studies, however, the group also found time for travel and fun. Together they made a one-day excursion to Canterbury, made famous by the murder of St. Thomas Becket in Canterbury Cathedral, and by Chaucer's Canterbury Tales. They also traveled as a group to Stonehenge and Salisbury.

Over her spring break, Julie traveled to Heidelberg, Germany and Geneva, Switzerland. In Italy, she visited Florence, the home of Michelangelo's David, and Rome, where a few highlights included the Vatican, a tour of the catacombs, and the ruins of the Roman Forum.

Since classes were not held on Fridays, Julie also had time for a few weekend trips. She traveled to Cambridge, to Edinburgh, Scotland, and to Paris, France. Over Easter, she had the opportunity to make a pilgrimage to Medjugorje, Yugoslavia, where the Blessed Mother is believed to have been appearing to several of the village children every day for the past eight years, asking for conversion, prayer, fasting and penance, as well as for all to receive the sacraments frequently as a way to attain peace, both for individuals and for the whole world.

Upon returning to the United States, Julie stayed for a week in San Antonio and then returned to Muenster in May. She is the daughter of Arnold and Imelda Rohmer and a 1988 graduate of Sacred Heart School.

St. Richard's Villa News

Anna Starke, Eileen Sicking, and Daisy Hudspeth all have birthdays in May and they had a group celebration on May 3. Cakes were furnished by Mrs. Starke's daughter, Marian Gruber, and Miss Sicking's mother, Hilda Sicking. Irma Forrester, another daughter of Mrs. Starke's, furnished yogurt. Cake and punch were served by Gwen Martin and Caroline Hess.

Singing with guitars for the group's entertainment were Christi Klement, Melissa Bayer, Denise Bayer, and Diane Grewing. This was the first time that this group performed at St. Richard's and a return performance is much anticipated by their audience.

Facials were done for the residents by Jan Cain and Caroline Hess before the birthday celebration.

Carl Smith was the honoree at a surprise birthday party on May 29 hosted by Sacred Heart's fourth grade students and their teacher Anna Hermes. The students presented Carl with cards and hugs. Emily Klement led the group in songs and Ruth Felderhoff accompanied them on the piano. Roses were given to Carl's mother and to Caroline Hess. Cake and refreshments were served to all. Carl was adopted by the class earlier in the school year.

A First Baptist Sunday School class and their teacher Mrs. Bobbie Jane Slater brought a cake to residents on May 27. Students baking the cake and visiting St. Richard's were Shane Sparkman, Kammie Barnhill, Jenny Schneider, A.J. Strother and Billy Hellman.

Mrs. Brenda Selby and her fourth grade class at the Era School gave a large plant to St. Richard's during Nursing Home Week for the enjoyment of all residents.

On May 22 the Ross Point Extension Club spent time visiting at St. Richard's. They helped the residents play bingo and also furnished the gifts. Extension Club members are Wilma Richardson, president; Christine Hughes; Maurine Griggs; Cleo Hudspeth; Susan Richardson; Della Maberry; Anna Kirk; Gladys Balthrop; Agnes Brandon; Marie Fors; Ella Adcock; Ruth Christian; Jo Berry; and Vena Settle, who is now a resident at St. Richard's.

Out of town guests during May were Ronald and Sue Hutson, and Dena Anderson of Gainesville; Jane Alexander of Valley View; Alfred Haverkamp of Dallas; and Raymond Kelley of Irving.

NOTICE: Rosina Kubis is in need of a volunteer to do simple arts and crafts with residents.

Residents and staff at St. Richard's would like to extend their gratitude to the following: Baptist Women's Missionary Union for the gift baskets brought for each of the women residents on Mother's Day; to the volunteers who made Nursing Home Week a success - Pam Fette, Mildred Lawson and Muenster 4-H directed by Jerry and Evelyn Sicking; to SNAP for cookies and bananas.

CC Humane Society offers foster parent pet program

The Cooke County Humane Society continues its activities by attempting to find foster homes for pets presently taking up short residency at the Gainesville Animal Shelter. "It's like people and children," said Rick Wright, spokesperson for the society. "You take care of a pet until it can be adopted."

The program, in short, prolongs the animals chance for adoption an extra 30 days. The shelter keeps the animals only seven days before they are disposed of. "We (the Humane Society) pay any medical expenses and the feed bill," said Wright. The shelter now has a mother dog with 10 pups, who have less than a week to live if not adopted or taken to a foster home. "If people were just educated about spaying their pets," said Wright, "no one thinks that their old Tom Cat that's roaming the town is producing unwanted kittens."

Wright also noted that over 3,000 animal pets are born every hour in the U.S. and that 65 percent end up as strays or in shelters. The Society is offering a free dog and cat dipping clinic this Saturday, June 23 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Gainesville Animal Shelter. Bring your dog or cat and a towel. The shelter is located on Muffett Lane, north side of W. California St., across from Leonard Park.

Also on Tuesday, June 26, the Society starts their Summer Pet Care Program at their regular meeting. All are invited to attend. The meetings are held at the Joe Walter Work Shop and begin at 7:00 p.m.

The success of the first recycling drive will be followed with another on Saturday, July 21 at the Wal-Mart parking lot from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Sacred Heart youngsters are high on fitness!

Sacred Heart's third, fourth and fifth graders recently completed their yearly fitness test. The test administered to the youngsters is the AAU Physical Fitness Program in conjunction with the University of Indiana.

All students in grades three, four and five were tested with 13 reaching the highest level of outstanding. Forty students achieved the national norm and the remaining seven achieved the participation standard. The outstanding level is designated at the 90th percentile of all students across the United States. Achieving the outstanding status were: Paul Swirczynski, John Bartush, Glen Dangelmayr, Joel Schilling, Crystal Klement, Tammy Lopez, Angel Sicking, Waylon Hess, Stephanie Hess, Tara Yosten, Dobe Friday, Corey Hess and Jill Hess.

To gain the outstanding status the students must be outstanding in all tested areas. Areas tested include: endurance run, situps, sit and reach, pull-ups, flexed arm-hang, isometric leg squat, and the 50 yard sprint.

Six Flags numbers are up as new season begins

ARLINGTON - Six Flags Over Texas has begun its summer season with attendance figures up substantially despite record spring rains in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Park president Bob Bennett said more than 600,000 persons visited the Arlington theme park during the spring season which began in mid-March.

"Our business was up more than 16 percent over last year," Bennett said, "and the trend has continued since we began daily operation on Memorial Day."

Bennett attributed the Spring success to introduction of the massive Texas Giant wooden roller coaster and the celebration of Bugs Bunny's 50th birthday.

"We expected the Giant to be a popular ride, but the public reaction has surprised even us," Bennett commented. Members of the American Coaster Enthusiasts tell us the ride has a very good chance of being rated the top wooden coaster in the country. Who could ask for more?"

The huge ride drew national attention when a park in Pennsylvania filed suit challenging Six Flags' claim that it was the tallest wooden roller coaster in the world. An out-of-court settlement of the dispute confirmed that the Giant, with a 143-foot tall first hill was the tallest structure of its kind in the world.

PARTICIPANTS are kept busy every morning at the 2nd Annual Mad Dog Football Camp going on this week at Muenster Public School. Above, Coach Bill Jump takes the boys through a training drill designed to increase takeoff speed and stability from a 3-point stance. ## 40 play in Scramble

by Dan Hamric

The regular monthly Muenster Golf Association scramble was held Sunday, June 10 at Nocona Municipal Golf Course with over 40 golfers participating. In the preliminary putting contest, Fay Hamric sank a 60 foot putt to win the competition and claim a sleeve of new golf balls. In tournament action, the team of Coach Jon LeBrasseur, Danny Walterscheid, Claude Klement and Jay Reed put together a back side 27 to card an eleven under 59. They got off to a fast start with an eagle on the first hole they played. Second place money went to Kenny Hartman, Bertha Hamric, Ed Schneider, and John Monday as they turned in a hot 61 with seven birdies on the front side. Third place was a log jam at seven under by three teams led by Shane Wimmer, Kim Walterscheid and Willie Walterscheid. Shane's team won the money on a score card play-off.

The next tournament will be July 1 at 8:45 and will feature the "string" game where each team will be issued 18 feet of string that they can use to cut strokes on the green. Last summer the string game was a lot of fun and brought in some great scores. The August tournament will be a "he & she" so all MGA members need to start getting themselves a good partner. The Club Championship will be held in September with a barbecue and election of officers for 1991. Dates for these two events haven't been firmed up at this point.

In other golfing news, members Urban Endres and Danna Hamric both carded their first "holes in one." Endres got his on No. 3 in Gainesville and Hamric got hers on No. 17 in Nocona. Shirley Grewing got her ace last month on No. 17 at Nocona.

QUIT

Even if you smoke just one pack of cigarettes a day, you're inhaling 73,000 puffs of smoke each year! Here are some other statistics on smoking you should keep in mind—and some healthy hints to help you stop.

- Over 50,000 studies document cigarettes' devastating health effects—heart disease, cancers of the lungs, mouth and other tissues—yet 54 million Americans continue to smoke.
- Every year, 360,000 Americans die as a direct result of smoking related diseases. Cigarettes cause more deaths than AIDS, alcohol, cocaine, heroin, fires, automobile accidents, homicide and suicide combined.
- The reason quitting smoking is so difficult, the most recent Surgeon General's Report found, is because cigarettes contain nicotine, an addictive substance. Many people who want to quit smoking—more than 17 million try each year—find it's much easier when they use a medication, available by prescription only, that helps curb nicotine withdrawal symptoms that may prevent you from kicking the habit.
- Cigarettes cause 30 percent of all cancers, including 85 percent of all lung cancer, the leading cause of cancer death in the U.S. Smokers have 15 to 26 times the rate of lung cancer of nonsmokers.
- Smokers have a six- to 15-fold increased risk of developing chronic obstructive pulmonary diseases such as emphysema. Over 80 percent of all deaths due to these diseases are directly linked to cigarettes.
- Every year 5,000 nonsmokers die from lung cancer as a result of inhaling other people's smoke.
- Nicotine, an ingredient in cigarettes, is addictive, a new Surgeon General Report declares. That's why it's so hard to quit. Fortunately, people who care about the health of those around them, as well as their own, are kicking the smoking habit, some with the help of a prescription medication in gum form that releases small amounts of nicotine in the mouth. This produces nicotine blood levels sufficient to reduce withdrawal symptoms. Your doctor can tell you more about the medication.

Antique association demonstrates binding

by Elaine Schad

They remember the hard, backbreaking days of their youth, as they stacked the shocks of grain thrown out of the binder into bundles to await the threshing machine. While it is unanimous that the old-timers don't wish to return to those days, many came out to Lindsay recently to catch a glimpse of history return.

The Cooke County Antique Tractor and Farm Machinery Association treated the public to some old-time binding, going all the way back to the time when horses were used. Weldon Faught from Krugerville brought his impressive big bay Belgian horses for the day, working the muscular animals as generations of past horses have done.

The antique club will gather again on Sunday afternoon, July 1, when they again invite the public to see a threshing demonstration at the same site. The club is also readying its equipment for its 5th annual Antique Machinery Show, set of Aug. 25 and 26 at the Lindsay Tractor Pull Arena.

A total of three binders were in operation at any given time, despite several breakdowns and some intense heat for so early in the year. Starting early in the morning, the crew binded 4.4 acres on one field owned by Junior Hess south of Lindsay, and then moved across a pasture to bind 7 more acres, finally completing the project toward early evening.

"You know what that is?" asked Ed Cler, 75, of Muenster, talking about an odd-looking piece of equipment being used to attach the horses to the early 1900's binder. "That's an evener, and you can't operate without one," he said. An evener was used to make sure the horses were pulling at equal power.

Cler remembers the early days of working day after day in the fields on his father's farm, and even sleeping out under the stars. "We could do 30 acres in a day with a 10-foot header, but that's when everything just clicked."

Lawrence Martin, 72, of Muenster, also remembers those long days. "You'd bend your back every time, so you'd pick up two at a time," he said. "When you got a good crop, they're heavy, and there were many a rattler under one."

The memories of those days of binding and threshing weren't all of just the hard work. "We'd work ourselves to death, but then there would be the pranks," said Martin. He remembers hopping into a pickup, loading it up with fellow workers, and heading for the nearest stream to get wet and sluff off the day's dirt and grime.

"Then, you'd spread a blanket over a foot thick of straw, and you slept right there in the field where the machine was," said Martin. "You'd never sleep better anywhere."

For all the hard work, the binder was a very welcomed machine in its time. The main advantage of the binder was its speed of working, which was much more efficient than the old hand methods of the past. The binder appeared in the 1880's and was a feature of the farming scene for at least 40 years until it was challenged by the combine harvester in the 1920's through the 1950's.

As for the Belgians, Faught said they've never had a better workout. "I remember helping my dad stack the shocks when I was a kid, but I've never done this before," he said. "They could go all day. No, they're not tired."

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

Develop landscape to conserve water

With hot, dry weather looming ahead, homeowners and others involved in landscape development should focus on water conservation.

Water conservation can be practiced in all areas of landscape development and maintenance, including plant selection, irrigation practices and equipment, and soil preparations. These practices can be aesthetic as well as practical.

Homeowners can lower their landscape water usage in several ways:

-Using native and adapted plants. Native plants often thrive on existing growth conditions and reduce the need for extra irrigation. Many plants have been introduced that show adaptability to soil, rainfall and temperature conditions.

-Taking advantage of innovations in irrigation practices and equipment. The landscape irrigation business is experiencing a revolution, with new timing devices, low pressure systems, drip irrigation and other highly specialized water devices focusing on more efficient water usage. Irrigation systems and small ponds and fountains also can effectively use water as an aesthetic addition to a landscape.

-Using mulches for insulation. By providing an insulating layer between the sun and soil, mulches prevent rapid drying and lower soil temperature in hot weather, which keeps the top soil from crusting or hardening. Low-cost materials such as hay, grass clippings, bark and pine needles are excellent for mulching and can add appeal with texture and color.

-Properly preparing the soil. When soil has been loosened and improved with plenty of organic material, such as peat, pine bark or compost, it will hold significantly more moisture and release it over a longer period of time. However, organic materials break down over time and need to be supplemented. A compost pile can be a good source of these materials, allowing the homeowner to recycle leaves, grass clippings and other waste to improve the soil.

These are just a few practices that homeowners can use to significantly reduce water usage in their outdoor environment.

Rancher outlines success

CROWLEY - John Merrill's ranching strategy leaves as little as possible to chance.

His cattle operation covers almost 10,000 rolling acres of north central Texas grassland, some of it literally in the shadow of southwest Ft. Worth's newest shopping centers and housing developments.

For Merrill, ranching is much more than a passion. It's a business. It's a challenge; an art; a science. And it's profitable, year after year after year.

Merrill's ties with the Ardmore-based Samuel Roberts Noble Foundation are deeply rooted.

For many years he's brought hundreds of range management students from Texas Christian University (where he serves as ranch management director) to the Foundation to expand their learning opportunities.

Merrill's enthusiasm for ranching is perhaps equalled only by his enthusiasm for telling people what's worked for him. That's exactly what he did recently for the Foundation's Agriculture Division employees, who spent an entire day at his XXX Ranch.

Discussions, questions and answers left little ground uncovered, ranging from wildlife management to breeding techniques to soil fertility to rotational grazing. Merrill also outlined the history of the ranch, from its acquisition after World War II through the present, and gave his assessment of what the future might hold.

His current assessment of the U.S. cattle industry falls squarely in the bullish category. He says the domestic cattle business is as good as ever, but does stress caution because of broader economic concerns, including third-world debt and problems in the savings and loan industry.

"Expand, but expand on your own money," Merrill advises ranchers.

He practices and preaches goal setting for ranchers, but adds that flexibility and adaptability are essential to realizing those goals.

Merrill's herd is a 500-plus-head, multi-generational cross of several breeds, including Angus, Brown Swiss, Hereford and Santa Gertrudias. And while average herd age is increasing nationally, Merrill's cattle are all five years old or less.

Merrill says this strategy enables him to sell while prices are high, taking advantage of good market cycles and riding out downturns.

He maintains a ratio of one bull per 20 cows. The breeding herd produces more than 90 percent weaned calves from all females exposed to the bulls.

Another key ingredient in Merrill's ranching plan is rotational grazing among ten native grass pastures. He sets target timetables for pasture utilization and rest based on growing conditions, but occasionally departs from the plan, keying on actual grazing conditions of bluestem grasses.

He's a strong advocate of conservative pasture utilization, and stresses the importance of leaving several thousand pounds of forage per acre during the dormant season.

Merrill believes ranchers should have a good understanding of ranch economics, cutting costs and increasing efficiency even when doing so goes against "traditional" wisdom. He says buying pastureland for no more than about $75 to $85 per animal unit per year to enhance profit potential.

Disaster aid deadline approaches

Federal and state officials recently cautioned all Texas residents and businesses suffering damages during the Spring, 1990 storms that July 1, 1990 is the last day to apply for aid in all of the 62 counties now designated eligible for assistance for three major aid programs. Cooke, Montague and Denton counties are among the eligible counties.

"We realize that some Texas residents still are unable to get back into homes and businesses to assess damages," said Brad Harris, Regional Director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). "Applications may be made before water recedes and complete damages are determined. This will speed the application process and an amended application may be filed at a later date."

Experienced operators are staffing the toll-free number, 1-800-782-6681, during the hours of 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week.

From the Extension Office

Brush Control Demonstration

A Brush Control Demonstration will be held for landowners on Monday, June 25, at 5:30 p.m. at the Frank Morris Farm on Radio Hill Road. The Morris Farm is located approximately one and one-half miles south of the Training School Road on Farm to Market Road 3092 (Radio Hill Road). Turn east on the first gravel road past the Morris home. Web Brasher with Dow Chemical Company will be on hand and demonstrate two types of Basal treatments for undesirable brush species. The treatments will include the streamliner and low volume basal application. A demonstration will also be done using a foliar spray called Reclaim for mesquite control. Undesirable brush species to be controlled include greenbriars, locust, bois d'arc, mesquite, elm, hackberry, cedar, and oak sprouts. Also, time will be devoted to proper cactus control.

Any additional information can be obtained by calling the County Extension Office.

Major show steer validation

4-H and FFA members who plan to exhibit steers at the major livestock shows, (which include the State Fair of Texas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, and Houston), must have their steers validated on Wednesday, June 27, at the Gainesville Livestock Auction. The Steer Validation includes nose printing, tagging, and photographs to be submitted to a central state location. The time for the Steer Validation will be from 10 a.m. until noon.

Any additional information can be obtained from your local Vocational Agriculture Instructor or the County Extension Office.
