MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS 76252 APRIL 9, 1965

NUMBER 20

In these times, when the urgency of soil and water conservation is so generally known, it is both surprising and disappointing to learn that our present Congress is considering an "economy" which would hinder the conservation effort all over the nation.

The report is that the Administration recommends a cut of $20 million from the money now going into technical services and a cut of $100 million now going into cost sharing conservation programs.

Soil district supervisors all across the nation have raised their voices in protest, and rightly so. Of all the government programs that deserve support, this is one of the most worthy — because conservation is not only helpful to the present agricultural economy but vital to the future of the nation. The time is coming, as all of us are very much aware, when consumption of increasing population will come in balance with productive potential of the land. From then on we'll have to get along with less than we want. Obviously, the more we conserve now the longer the era of deficiency can be delayed.

As we think about that problem we are encouraged by farming progress of the past few decades. Erosion has been slowed down substantially. Yields have been increased amazingly. We are inclined to wonder whether without this progress we would not already be past the supply-demand balance. Next we are inclined to wonder how much longer the balance will be postponed by progress that is still coming. But in spite of all that we know for sure that the time is coming, and the acres conserved now will be most important.

A person would think that a matter so vitally important would be very near the top of the government's priority list. That's why it is hard to understand how anyone can think of reducing help for conservation while increasing expenditures in various welfare programs, and foreign aid to people who hate us.

On a national basis it is estimated that the proposed conservation, cut-backs will mean a loss of $7,000 a year in funds for technical help and $35,000 a year in cost sharing funds for each conservation district. That does not mean, of course, that conservation work will stop. Millions of farmers will keep the program going simply because it is the smart thing to do. But there are many others who lack the ability or means to do the job themselves, or the dedication to do things for posterity. The net result will be less conservation, and future generations eventually will hurt.

It's hard to reconcile the Administration's attitude in this regard with its expressed aim of creating a more beautiful America. Gullies are eyesores as well as auto graveyards and dump heaps. It takes conservation along with clean-up and camouflage to make a good looking countryside. In fact, we believe that pretty fields are every bit as good looking as the other improvements, besides being productive.

Regarding this issue, Senator John Tower has taken the farmers' side in Washington. He has taken the stand that this is a penny-wise economy which is even less excusable when welfare projects of questionable merit are receiving stout support. We wish him success in his effort. Let's hope for present farmers and for future generations that he will muster the vitally needed support for conservation.

While regretting the development we also wonder whether it is a by-product of recent political philosophy. They say that rural areas are losing importance politically, which seems to imply that political money can be spent to better advantage in the cities. Most likely that will pay off better in votes, though it doesn't pay so well in national long term benefits.

Martin Luther King Jr., the big noise in racial disturbances of the past several years, revealed his hateful and arrogant attitude beyond question a few days ago when he demanded an economic boycott of all the Southern states that do not comply with his ideas of racial relations. Apparently the man really thinks he has a

ALAMO LIGHTING PLANS. San Antonio Mayor Walter W. McAllister, right, discusses plans for illuminating the exterior of the Cradle of Texas Liberty with General Electric's Ken Cotton of San Antonio, and Mrs. Phillip W. The lighting which will "turn night into day" was planned by C. M. Outler, G. E. engineer who supervised the lighting for the Texas Centennial in 1936.

Parish and KCs Co-Sponsor Picnic On Easter Monday

Planning and preparing is in progress for the traditional Easter Monday picnic in Sacred Heart Parish. It is being sponsored jointly by the parish and the KC council as a benefit for both. Walter Klement and Ed Endres are co-chairmen.

The event, to be held outside the parish hall, gets underway at 1 o'clock offering the usual carnival concessions plus sandwiches, coffee and cold drinks. The picnic continues into the night and will be supplemented at 9 with a dance in the parish hall. Tom Thumb and the Fingers will provide the rhythm.

Officer Election Features Meeting Of VFW Auxiliary

Annual election of officers was the principal business at the April meeting of Muenster VFW Auxiliary Monday night in the VFW Hall. Members favored Mrs. Raymond Walterscheid for the presidency.

Other new officers elected are Mrs. Don Flusche, senior vice president; Mrs. Edwina Case, junior vice president. Mrs. Norbert Walterscheid, treasurer; Mrs. Al Walter, chaplain; Mrs. Leo Hesse, conductress; Mrs. Clarence Hellman, guard; and Mrs. Joe Sicking, three year trustee. Mrs. W. M. DeBorde accepted appointive office of secretary. Other appointive officers will be named before the next meeting at which formal installation of officers will be held. They will take office in July.

In other business honor roll requirements for the month were approved. These are to hold a school of instruction and contribute to the memorial music program in Austin.

It was announced that some ten candidates are awaiting reception and the organization planned to have the reception ceremony on Monday, April 26, at which time members will bring covered dishes for supper.

Members also elected delegates and alternates to attend the district I convention in May.

Mrs. John Mosely, president, presided and gave report on the recent domino tournament. It cleared about a hundred dollars. A vote of thanks went to Pagel's Store for donating 20 pounds of meat for the barbecue.

After adjournment a social hour was held and hostesses Mrs. C. M. Walterscheid and Mrs. Leo Hesse served refreshments. Mrs. G. D. Wylie won the attendance prize. Twenty-one members were present.

Student Teacher

Faryon Gage of East Texas State University is an extra member of the Muenster High faculty until the end of the school year. A major in agriculture, he is getting his student teacher training under supervision of Edgar Dyer.

Cathy Hoedebeck Is Bee Champion Peggy Sicking 2nd

Cathy Hoedebeck of St. Mary's School, Gainesville, emerged as the winner of the 1965 Cooke County Spelling Bee Saturday.

Capturing the runner-up, or alternate spot, was Muenster's Peggy Sicking of Sacred Heart School. She is the sixth grade daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sicking. Cathy is the eighth grade daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hoedebeck, formerly of Muenster.

Miss Hoedebeck's victory climaxed one of the shortest spelling bees on record. It lasted about 12 minutes. There were about 12 contestants. The spell-off in Cooke County Junior College started at 10 a.m.

Peggy tripped on "valleys" which Cathy spelled correctly and then spelled "vinegar" to claim the championship. She'll represent Cooke County in the 1965 Dallas Metropolitan Spelling Bee May 1. Peggy will be there too as alternate.

Jo Ann Fisher Is Student Teacher At Gainesville

Miss Jo Ann Fisher, daughter of the J. W. Fishers, is spending the rest of this school year as student teacher at Gainesville Junior High. Her subject is physical education.

After her practice teaching Jo Ann will complete her college work in summer school at North Texas State University. Her major is physical education and her minor is English.

Family and Friends Join to Honor Joe Linn on Golden Anniversary

A couple married fifty years ago on Good Friday observed the golden anniversary on a Friday this year. The date is April 2 and the goldenweds are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Linn.

The celebration was held in their home south of Muenster where they were surrounded by family members and friends. Others came Saturday with gifts and greetings.

The couple's two sons Robert and Jeff Linn came from California, Jeff of El Monte, spent a week. Robert, of Covina, spent five days.

Mr. and Mrs. Linn took the boys to Dallas Sunday to board jets at Love Field for a return home, ending the anniversary observance.

Among guests at the anniversary dinner were Mr. Linn's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Parker of Dallas and his brother, Russ Linn of Muenster. The Parkers were house guests three days.

Spending Saturday were Mrs. Linn's brother and family, the B. J. Clarks of Bonham.

Friends came from Muenster, Valley View and Gainesville. All were served refreshments. The huge and handsome anniversary cake served guests both days. A shower of gifts was displayed, pictures made, the mail brought greetings from far and near, one of Mrs. Linn's cousins phoned congratulations from Austin, a neighbor baked a cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Linn are both a young 69. She is the former Miss Margie Evelyn Clark of Bonham. Mr. Linn is a native of Muenster, son of a pioneer family.

They were married in Gainesville on April 2, 1915, and lived in Fannin County until 1940. Since then they have made Muenster their home.

Both are active on their farm, raising cattle and tending to farm chores. Mrs. Linn has a green thumb and grows beautiful flowers.

Their family consists of two sons, their wives and three grandchildren, Carol, Joey and Sharon. The Linn wives and children were unable to attend the anniversary observance because the children are in school and the wives are employed. They couldn't get their vacations at this time.

Many happy memories through 50 years were recalled by Mr. and Mrs. Linn and the anniversary observance left them with happy memories of their golden wedding to recall in the future.

Strong Write-in Vote Re-Elects Fisher as Mayor

Earl Fisher continues as the mayor of Muenster in spite of the fact that he declined to have his name listed on the ballot for re-election. In Tuesday's election he swamped a field of 14 write-in candidates receiving 161 votes to their combined 76.

A total of 262 votes were cast in the election but 25 of them did not indicate a choice for mayor.

After lagging for weeks the election finally took life on the last day. When Mayor Fisher declined to ask for re-election he also declined to say whether he would serve if elected by write-in. Monday night at the council meeting he agreed to accept another term. By then politicking was in progress and interest was picking up.

The ballot count showed Fisher with 161, Dan Haverkamp 38, Henry Weinzapfel 11, Marty Klement 10, Clive Goble 4, Leo Lawson 4, Don Walterscheid 2, and 1 each for Dick Trachta, Richard Grewing, Mike Sloan, Arthur Endres, Herbert Meurer, George Petrus and Rufus Henscheld.

The big surprise of the election was the neck and neck race run by W. J. Luke, incumbent and Aubrey Tuggle for Position 3 alderman, despite little if any activity in behalf of either candidate. It just happened that when counting was finished Luke led Tuggle 129-122.

Gene Hoedebeck, incumbent, was an easy winner over Henry Weinzapfel for Position 4. The count was 206-42.

And Mike Sloan, unopposed candidate for Position 5, had easy sailing. He got 240. And write-ins were 11 for Marty Klement and 2 for W. J. Luke. Two persons scratched Luke in his regular position and favored him in the other position.

Serving with the four winners of the election are Richard Grewing and B. J. Swirczynski as the other two members of the city council.

Election Returns Hellman, Wilde To School Board

Charley Hellman and Ray Wilde are re-elected to serve another three year term as trustees on the Muenster school board. They were the only candidates for the two vacancies created by their expiring terms, and neither was opposed by a write-in vote.

The election was one of the smallest ever in the history of this community. Only 32 voters reported to the polls in the public school.

Likewise unopposed on the ballot were two candidates for the county school board. Gordon Alexander was elected to represent Precinct 3 and Joe Hundt was re-elected to represent Precinct 4.

Persons now serving on the Muenster School Board are Jerome Pagel, Urban Endres, David Trachta, Ed Cler, Joe Galloway and Hellman and Wilde.

Mims Lewis, 65 Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack

A heart attack Monday afternoon was fatal to H. M. "Mims" Lewis, 65, of Route 2, Muenster. He suffered the attack about 1:45 in the tax office at the Cooke County Court House. He had gone to Gainesville to purchase license plates for his truck. Rushed to Gainesville Hospital, he was pronounced dead on arrival.

It was known that he had a heart condition and he had been in and out of hospitals the past year. In January he had major surgery for another ailment. He was believed to be in better health since and the fatal attack was unexpected.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the George J. Carroll & Son Funeral Home Chapel. Burial followed in the cemetery at Valley View. The Rev. W. D. Craig, retired Methodist minister of Nocona, officiated assisted by the Rev. Chief A. Warden of First Methodist Church, Gainesville.

Henry Mims Lewis was born in Macon, Ga., May 5, 1899, and had lived in Muenster since he was ten years old. He was a farmer.

Surviving are his wife, the former Bernadine Nieman; one son, Wylie Lewis, four grandchildren, all of Muenster; one brother, George Lewis of Gainesville; one niece, Mrs. Lloyd Patterson of Era and one nephew, Kenneth Lewis of Dallas.

Request Filed for Addition of 17.64 Acres to City

Procedure to annex 17.64 acres southeast of town to the City of Muenster got underway at the council meeting Monday night when the owner, Urban Endres filed a request for their annexation.

The area is a part of that included in an annexation attempt which failed in a special election several weeks ago. In that case several owners were included and an election was necessary. This time, since only one owner is involved, the council can deal with him directly. However, as before, a public hearing is required giving citizens a chance to express themselves on the proposal before the city and owner can make their deal.

Date for that hearing has been officially set for Tuesday, April 20, 8 p.m.

The area offered for annexation is intended for residential building development after city water and sewer services become available, and it must become a part of the city before those services can be installed.

In other action Monday night the council amended its beer ordinance to permit construction of a beer warehouse by Urban Endres on the corner of Third and Mesquite Streets, the location next to the east city limit on Third. Until the council's action the location was outside the area legalized for beer storage.

Also passed was a resolution to sponsor the attendance of someone at the annual fireman's school at Texas A&M. By sending a representative to the course the city earns a reduction in its fire insurance key rate, and premiums are correspondingly lower.

Memory Books Welcome
City librarians this week pass on this bit of information to those who have asked about donating a book to Muenster City Library in memory of a loved one. Please consult first with library personnel as they are endeavoring to acquire books for summer reading for students of both local schools. Books and donations are greatly appreciated.

THE GOVERNMENT LAND RUSH

"Getting under way is another great American land rush.

"This time the rush is by government — federal, state and local — out to absorb more and more big blocks of real estate."

So states U.S. News & World Report — and in doing so points to a problem of growing importance and difficulty. The federal government now owns a third of all our land in the West, the percentage often runs higher — 52.1 percent in Oregon, 63.8 percent in Idaho, 66.2 percent in Utah, virtually 100 percent in Alaska. And, according to U.S. News, governments at all levels are now increasing their holdings at a great rate.

Private land becomes government land in various ways — in the form of highways, airports, reservoirs, parks and so on. One of the biggest factors is found in the creation, actual and pending, of recreation areas which run to huge acreages. The American Forest Products Industries, Inc. has made a survey of the present government land rush, and says: "We do not take the position that all government land acquisition is bad. We do think the public should have the facts. We also suggest that much of the land already set aside for recreation is not being used to full advantage." For such reasons as difficulty of access people simply don't go to some of these areas in significant numbers.

A growing population, with increased incomes and leisure, certainly needs adequate recreation facilities. At the same time, it needs the taxes private lands pay and the materials and commodities they produce. A reasonable balance must be achieved. As of now it looks as if the government land rush may be tipping the scales too far in one direction and removing land needlessly from the tax rolls and productive use.

A scoutmaster, noticing that one of his scouts was having difficulty on his first cook-out, asked if he'd forgotten any essential equipment. "Yes," came the reply, "my mother."

Private vs. Public

The Freeman, a monthly magazine that has a way of getting economic facts across to its readers, recently compared what has happened to electricity bills and to mail bills, the former being charged largely by private utilities, the latter being a public monopoly.

In 1907, says an article by Paul R. Poirot, Edison Light and Power Co. billed a customer in Wichita $7 for a month's service which consisted of 14 kilowatts of electricity. The bill, a postcard, had a one-cent stamp on it. Today the postage rate has risen to 400 percent of the 1907 cost, while the electricity rate is 4 percent of what it was then.

Expanding on the theme, the article says today's average American home, if fully electrified with air conditioning and heating, uses 24,000 kwh a year, costing the home owner $480. At the 1907 rate that amount of electricity would have cost $12,000. If the electric bills had climbed in the same ratio that the postal cost climbed in the 58 years since 1907, the homeowner's electric bill this year would have been $48,000.

ONE FINAL POINT: While the privately owned electric companies were paying taxes and dividends, the government postal system ran up a deficit of $10 billion during the period under review.

There are, of course, those who insist that privately owned utilities should be taken over by the government and run for "the public good." It's evident that "the public good" is much better served by privately owned and operated utilities than by the public variety.

This fact is so evident that the believers in government ownership have turned their attention largely toward transmission, rather than production, of electric power. Under modern conditions it is inevitable that the United States will be served by vast regional power grids which can pool production and shift power to supply maximum needs without the expensive standby capacity required if the power were not pooled. The only question is whether the regional power transmission lines will be controlled by the federal government or by private utilities...

We believe the fight between public and private power will go on for a long time. In fact, the competition may prove advantageous to the public. But if the government ever tips the balance irretrievably in favor of public, tax-free power, then the future record of electric power will probably resemble the past record of the postal service.

NO THOUGHT FOR THE CONSEQUENCE

COLLISION COURSE

In launching an all-out drive for shorter work week legislation, organized labor obviously has no regard for the serious consequences to economic well-being that could ensue. Here are some of the damaging effects:

The insistence on 40 hour pay for 35 hours of work would bring a 14 percent raise in production costs.

An additional 25 per cent increase would result if the 5 hour overtime has to be paid at double the regular rate.

The increase in hourly labor costs would intensify the unemployment problem. To raise the cost of goods is to reduce the market for them, and hence to curtail the number of jobs.

Increased costs squeeze, profits curtails business expansion and reduces employment opportunities.

Higher prices would enable foreign competition to capture many domestic markets.

Without a comparable rise in productivity there will be less goods and services available.

Congress should promptly reject the attempt by labor unions to have it enact legislation that is obviously not in the best interests of all Americans.

PROTEST NOW — OR WEEP LATER

Only a tidal wave of public protest, rolling on Washington from all sections of the country can prevent passage of what is probably the most vindictive law ever presented to the Congress of the US.

This is the "Voting Rights Act of 1965 (H.R. 6400-S. 1564), the "President's law", a punitive law and a law that could well dismember the US even while we fight our deadliest enemy on the other side of the world.

It is an ex post facto law — as forbidden by Article I of the Constitution — that proposes to make a crime of yesterday's violation (for ten years back) of voting registration practices that are to be outlawed! And its provision to deprive states of the South of the power to establish a literacy test for all voters irrespective of race or color further violates the Constitution.

In depriving the South of any voter qualification other than age and residence, Liberty Lobby sees the punishment as a death sentence — by stages:

"First, the rise of a new class of southern state politician — a breed of demagogues — coming into political power on a wave of pie-in-the-sky promises of free state money for everyone.

"Next, the futile attempts to carry out those promises by taxing the farms, business and industry of the South at ever-increasing rates, even while failing to satisfy the demands of the poor for more... and more and more and more.

"Then, the flight of business and industry from the unbearable demands of the welfare state, and the tragic streams of white refugees — following their jobs to the North and West.

"Finally, the necessary establishment of the all-black states as Federal "reservations," populated only by government bureaucrats and their negro dependents, but — unlike their counterparts on the Indian reservations — represented in Washington by a powerful voting-bloc of nearly forty congressmen and eight Senators.

Unless every thoughtful American who dreads the dismemberment of his country as much as Abraham Lincoln did will write his Congressman and both Senators in protest, they are unlikely to be able to withstand the pressure for passage.

And if this bill passes, it will be a greater victory for the Communists (whether or not they have had anything to do with it) than our defeat in Korea.

A husband, complaining about the food he was getting at home, was met with a strong argument by his wife. "What's the matter with you?" she demanded. "Monday you like beans. Tuesday you like beans. Wednesday you like beans, now Thursday, all of a sudden you don't like beans."

COMES NOW THE ALLOCATIONS

It always comes, sooner or later: The moment of truth when one has bargained away a precious possession for a promise to gain and comes out on the short end of the bargain. It has, this moment of truth, come sooner than expected for little old West Virginia. During the late presidential campaign, W. Va. was held up as the epitome of poverty among states of the Union. The Johnson-Humphrey team promised to correct this sad condition with anti-poverty programs. But it needed support, the team.

So panting in anticipation of their part of the Great Society — and genuinely wishing to better their condition, West Virginians went to the polls and put their most precious possession — the vote — on the block for the highest bidder. And Johnson-Humphrey got them.

Now comes the pay-off. The first allocations in the Administration's war on poverty have been announced. West Virginia, barefoot and with both hands out — figuratively speaking — received $423,811. That's almost 25 cents per person (voters included.) Wonderful!

We take you now to Texas. This state, up to it hipboots in oil millionaires, received its anti-poverty allocation: $9,766,483. Of course, Texas, often called the wealthiest state in the Union, has about five times as many people as has W. Va. So it gets 23 times as much poverty aid... Texas style. It aids the most to have folks in the White House.

And don't forget "Minnie," Minnesota, that is. She's got folks at the White House, too. Hubert Horatio's home state will get $1,449,407 in war-on-poverty funds. Three times the W. Va. cut. Did Minnesota know it was poverty stricken?

West Virginia, however, labeled poor and penniless during the campaign, is not voiceless. The Martinburg Journal doubtless speaks for a great many West Virginians when it says: "We are not quarreling about the amount, but we are quarreling about West Virginia always being labeled among the poverty-stricken. The next time President Johnson or Vice President Humphrey, or even David and Chet come carpet-bagging around W. Va. and express their sympathy over our sad plight, West Virginians can hold their heads high and tell these 'do-gooders' to clean up their own back yards."

The Paramount Obligation

David Lawrence recently wrote in U.S. News & World Report: "...no 'great society' will ever be maintained unless individual responsibility is recognized as the paramount obligation of the citizen, even as government expands and population grows.

"Government may guide and help its citizens but cannot supply talent to those who do not have it—or bestow ambition or initiative or creative ability on those who are not born with these qualities. And the individuals who do have these God-given capacities will not require governmental stimulus as they strive to improve the 'great society' of yester-years."

This goes to the heart of the matter. Whatever the programs, whatever the dramatic names given to them, they must rely primarily on individual initiative, individual ambition, individual risk taking, and the desire of the individual to progress and to serve. Only in that way can we make material gains without sacrificing those freedoms and spiritual qualities which are the roots of true greatness.

ENERGY AND PROGRESS

Our dependence on oil is graphically illustrated in an article appearing in a magazine published by a major oil company. The average American, in the first 65 years of this century, will have used 23,312 gallons of petroleum. That includes his direct consumption of gasoline, kerosene, diesel fuel, lubricants and other such products, and some chemical products which have their roots in oil. It does not include great quantities of petroleum gas burned as fuel.

Moreover, to quote the magazine directly, it doesn't include "...the electrical and direct power that drove the factories, the engines that made one farmer the productive equal of thirty others, the planes, trains, trucks, cars, buses, ships — all driven by oil power — that first helped create and then placed abundance on the average American's doorstep. This abundance he consumed also. And the impact of rising extra energy has lifted the level of living for the average American to a point unequalled in known history."

"I certainly hope the weather is nice today," one lady kangaroo remarked to another. "I just hate it when the children can't go out to play."

Tree Improvement Research Is Year Round Work

If you see a man scaling a pine tree like a monkey, chances are he is a part of the Texas Forest Service tree improvement team. It isn't unusual for him to spend most of a working day in the top of a pine tree. He's even patient when yellow jackets are on the move since he is usually 80 feet above ground.

His job is part of an over-all Service effort to produce high quality forest trees for Texas landowners.

Focal point of this activity is the forest genetics laboratory at Texas A & M University, headed up by Dr. J. P. van Buijtenen. The principle field laboratory is the Arthur Temple Sr. Research Area west of Alto in Cherokee County. However, all the "piney woods" serves as a laboratory to these "tree improvers."

The program is financed by both state and federal governments and by forest products industries.

Interest is centered in developing strains of pines to meet the demands of industry and forest landowners. Much progress has already been made in producing a drought resistant type. This will permit survival of planted pine seedlings on dry sites and during long periods of drought and in extending the range of pine. Also under investigation are quality trees of low and high specific gravity, and trees that are resistant to Southern pine beetles and tip moth.

Work in tree improvement is time consuming and entails much cross pollination. Since most pine tree flowers are near the top of the crown, a worker must climb each tree several times a year. First, he checks on flower growth. When flowers are about ripe, he bags them to keep out foreign pollen. Next, he applies pollen from another selected tree just as the flowers ripen. On his next trip, after the flowers are set, he removes the bags. Eighteen months later, he picks the special cones. With 50 or more flowers in each pine top to care for, this is a time consuming job.

A light sectional alloy ladder is used to climb the tall trees. A climber carries 10 foot sections of ladder with him as he climbs a tree. Near the top, however, he leaves his ladder and crawls with only limbs and a safety belt to aid him. A rope harness is used for the descent. Enroute down, he disassembles his ladder.

Some day fruits of the labor of these Texas Forest Service men will pay off for Texas woodland owners. Already benefits are on hand.

Ernest Tubb Show Booked April 12 At Gainesville

The American Legion has announced completion of plans for bringing to Gainesville Ernest Tubb's Grand Ole Opry Show and Band. The World renowned "Texas Troubador" is one of the greats in the music industry with fans and phonograph record sales numbering into the millions. Tubb carries along with him his famous recording band, "The Texas Troubadors", enabling his audiences to hear him in person as they hear him on record.

Several of the "Troubadors" have achieved a degree of fame and stardom in their own right, such as Jack Green, who recorded the hit song, "Last Letter", and Johnny Wiggins ("The Singing Bus Driver"). The two hour show will be held at the Gainesville High School Auditorium Monday, April 12 at 8 p.m.

Golden Gate Bridge over San Francisco Bay was begun in 1933.

Texas 65 Health Insurance Plan Available in April

Texas citizens 65 years of age and over have an opportunity again to purchase Texas 65 Health Insurance during the last two weeks of April, according to an announcement by H. Lewis Rietz, president of the Texas 65 Health Insurance Association.

Texas 65 was organized in 1963 by 64 of the leading insurance companies in the state to offer low cost health coverage to senior citizens of Texas who had previously been unable to purchase health insurance because of age or physical condition.

The program is available only during open enrollment periods to any Texas resident 65 years of age and over, regardless of physical condition, and without the necessity of completing a lengthy medical questionnaire.

Husbands and wives of those past 65 who purchase the insurance may qualify for Texas 65 though they have not attained the age of 65. Coverage may also be purchased by sons and daughters in behalf of parents or relatives without the necessity of the insured's signature.

"That Texas 65 is filling the need we hoped it would be evident by the fact that over $4 million has been paid in claims by the Texas 65 Health Insurance Association since the program was started on Nov. 1, 1963," Rietz stated.

Rietz explained that the unique health insurance program offers three plans of coverage for the senior citizen. The basic plan pays a maximum of $12 per day for hospital room up to 31 days, part of the cost of doctor's hospital visits, surgical fees up to $200 and miscellaneous charges up to $125. Monthly premiums for this plan are $9.

The major medical plan costs $10 per month and covers hospital expense up to $5,000 during any calendar year, or about 80 percent of all hospital, surgical and nursing home expense after the first $75. This plan is designed for those who have some basic coverage, such as the basic Texas 65 plan, or who are financially able to meet the cost of basic coverage.

The third Texas 65 plan is a combination of both basic and major medical plans and cost $19 per month.

The basic or major medical plan may be purchased separately or in combination under plan three.

Texas was the fourth state in the nation to offer a 65 health insurance program for its senior citizens. There are now seven plans in operation in the United States.

Texas 65 will be available April 15 to May 1 from any insurance agent licensed to sell health insurance in Texas.

Baking Soda Is Handy in Kitchen For Grease Fires

Many a fat flare-up in the skillet is nipped in the bud... prevented from growing into a major conflagration... because some member of the family is familiar with the use of baking soda as a fat fire extinguisher. Usually the one responsible for saving the steak, or perhaps the entire house, is a youngster who's learned of soda's extra curricular role at school from a visiting fire chief or safety expert. All too often, however, there's a frantic, time-wasting scramble to unearth the soda which is stored away with the staples. And when found there may not be enough left in the package to do the job.

To prevent such frantic and/or futile searches, save time and thereby catch the fire while it is still manageable, it's wise to transfer a couple of pounds of baking soda from packages to canister, old oatmeal box or similar container that has an easily removed lid. Label the container FIRE or BAKING SODA in big bold letters. Station it within arms reach of the range and reserve this soda for fires only. Don't dip into it for cleaning or other purposes.

The procedure when a fire breaks out in the skillet or broiler is to: 1) turn off the heat from under the flaming utensil, 2) draw utensil off unit on which it sets, being sure to use pot holder in case the handle is hot; and 3) standing well back from the fire so you can't get burned, toss generous amounts of soda right at the base of the flames. The soda releases carbon dioxide when heated which acts as a smothering agent and smothering is the accepted antidote for a grease fire. But don't think you can smother a fire with flour or often-tried remedies. You'll just make matters worse. Only baking soda which is the chief ingredient of many commercial fire extinguishers, has the necessary chemical properties to do the job. Above all, never try dousing a fat fire with water for it has a lower boiling point than fat and makes the fat splatter and the fire spread... thereby increasing the danger.

And there's one big advantage to using soda as fat fire extinguisher. Since it's a pure food product it can't harm whatever has been aflame. Simply rinse it off, heat it up again and serve it.

Suspense Catch Licks Tigers 8-5 In Game with Era

There were two out and the bases were loaded in the final inning of Sacred Heart's game with Era Tuesday afternoon when Ted Endres whacked a lousy wallop to left field. It looked like the homer that could win the game, but a spectacular catch made it the out that ended the game — with the Tigers trailing 8-5.

In the earlier part of the same inning Era took an 8-5 lead over the Tigers by a rally that paid off. To begin Era trailed 5-3 and brought in 1 run before loading the bases on three walks. Then came a 3 run triple and another score by the hitter to put the visitors three runs ahead.

Statistics of the game leaned a bit in favor of the Era boys. Their pitcher had 8 strikeouts and allowed 5 hits Dale Hofbauer and Leon Endres fanned 10 and gave up 8 hits. Sacred Heart made 3 errors and Era 2.

The game was the fourth straight loss for Walter Wolf's boys. They opened the season with a 10-7 loss at Pilot Point then lost both games of a double header to St. John's of Ennis.

Next action for the Tigers is with Pilot Point Friday on the local field and with Era there next Tuesday.

FLOOD PREVENTION structures like this one near Muenster bring fishing, boating, and picnicking to hundreds of area residents.

Recreational Facilities Stand Out As One Of Many Benefits Derived from Farm Pond or Lake

People find themselves traveling farther and farther away from home in search of recreation facilities. About 80% of these people prefer areas adjacent to water.

The flood prevention dams in the Muenster-Saint Jo area have provided just that. Eighty-one dams have been completed on the Elm Fork and Clear Creek watersheds. "This progress is the result of the untiring efforts of the local people in securing easements from landowners so that these structures could be built" says J. W. Tippie, Work Unit Conservationist.

As of January 1 this year, 951 of these small upstream reservoirs were designed by the Soil Conservation Service and constructed in 63 watersheds distributed over the State. The Muenster-Saint Jo area of the Upper-Elm Red Soil Conservation District is blessed with its share of these structures.

The primary purpose of these floodwater retarding structures is to hold back runoff during heavy rains. Floodwater is released slowly with little or no downstream flooding, thus reducing, by the thousands of dollars annually, the damage to roads, bridges, fences, farm land and other improvements below the dams. Tax dollars that would be necessary to repair damage to roads and bridges, without the flood prevention programs, can be spent on other worth-while improvements.

The value of these structures does not stop with flood prevention alone. They provide stock water and, in some cases, irrigation water for the landowners. Also the lakes formed by these structures, ranging in size from 4 to 40 acres, are annually meeting the desires of many area citizens seeking a pleasant, uncrowded place to enjoy a family picnic, or go swimming, fishing, or boating. Landowners may also derive additional income by charging a nominal fee for the use of these facilities.

SCS Radiological Monitors to Get Readiness Tests

TEMPLE, TEXAS - State Conservationist H. N. Smith of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service has ordered a checkup on the readiness of SCS' 1100 trained radiological monitors to move into action on emergency notice.

The Soil Conservation Service has the major responsibility among Federal agencies for providing radiological monitoring service within counties. The agency has 7,462 trained monitors at 3,135 stations in the country. Additional training of the 1100 monitors in Texas is scheduled this year.

The State Conservationist said new procedures are in the making with the Atomic Energy Commission whereby SCS monitoring capabilities will be immediately available in the event of the accidental discharge of a nuclear device. In such an emergency the SCS will be alerted promptly to potential contamination of agricultural areas.

The recent accidental explosion near San Antonio at the Atomic Energy Commission installation, although no contamination was involved, indicates the kind of emergency that may require the service of monitoring crews on an instant's notice, Smith pointed out. It is conceivable, he pointed out, that quick assessment of the damage and delineation of areas involved in agriculture may be of tremendous importance.

Arrangements are being made with Offices of Civil Defense to check calibration of monitoring instruments, Smith said. Each SCS monitoring station has the needed equipment for checking for possible contamination. The Office of Civil Defence has been installing the equipment necessary for instrument calibration.

New procedures are being put into effect to speed up the assessment of damage from fallout in any given area, Smith said. Action to reduce the hazard where it occurs, or to eliminate it, is also getting a review.

"We believe that our capabilities for moving into action immediately in the case of an emergency is generally good," said Smith. "Where there may be a tendency to slip into an attitude of complacency, we are setting out to correct that. We have the necessary equipment and our people are trained to use it completely. We expect to be ready for whatever action the occasion demands."

A young man applied to a finance agency for a job but he had no experience. He was so intense that the manager gave him an account to collect with the promise that, if he collected it, he would give him a job.

"He'll never collect it," he told his secretary. "It's that mechanic down the street who's owed us the money for three years."

Much to his surprise the young man came back with the entire debt in his pocket. "This is amazing!" said the manager, "... just how did you do it?"

"Easy," replied the youngster. "I told him if he didn't pay up I'd tell all his creditors that he had paid us!"

SIX FLAGS SETS SEASON OPENER FOR APRIL 16

Six Flags Over Texas will commence its 1965 season at 10 a.m., Friday, April 16, according to Angus G. Wynne, Jr., president of Great Southwest Corporation, owner/operators of the popular tourist attraction.

For the opening weekend, April 16, 17 and 18, the gates will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

A crew of about 150 specialists ranging from landscape gardeners to builders and lighting engineers, have been busily engaged over the winter and early spring months in completing a $600,000 expansion program before April 16.

The Six Flags personnel department which has the awesome job of interviewing thousands of applicants of college age each season for positions as hosts and hostesses, has settled on approximately 1,200 to begin the season. Another 400-500 personnel will be added when Six Flags commences daily operations May 29.

The bulk of the expenditures for this year is centered on expanding the Park's historical value and landscaping.

Other attractions have been added including a new ride named "El Sombrero" for the Mexican Section. An Aviary located in the Animal Kingdom, will be the new home of nearly 100 exotic birds recently imported from all over the world.

A true replica of one of America's most revered shrines, the Liberty Bell, has been obtained by Six Flags. Whitechapel

Bell Foundries, Ltd. in England who made the original bell in 1752, cast an exact replica from the same moulding pit in 1960. The bell, made of pure copper and tin, is 47 inches in diameter and weighs 2016 pounds.

A rare and interesting collection of branding irons from many legendary ranches in Texas and the Southwest, will be displayed in the Texas Section.

For young cowpokes and budding deputy sheriffs an indoor firing range containing J. Bean's "Shootin' Irons" has been built just across the porch from the venerable Judge's Jersey Lilly Courthouse.

Hanging baskets containing flowers or various plants are fairly commonplace. But when each basket weighs 100 pounds and is suspended from decorative 10-foot poles, then that's another story. Six Flags will have 60 of these enormous hanging baskets planted in Ivy leaf geraniums around the Mall area inside the main gate. In all, $200,000 has been expended on landscaping with flowers and shrubs planted so as to be color coordinated and in harmony with the diverse building schemes.

The fascinating lighting display at Six Flags after dark which has always been a conversation piece, should have added visual dramatic effects, thanks to the efforts of the Park's lighting engineers.

Beginning April 23 and until May 28, Six Flags will be open only on Fridays from 5-11 p.m. and Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

The home site of a tribe of Caddo Indians who lived about 1000 A.D. near Alto, in Cherokee County, today supports a forest of small trees. This is the site of Texas Forest Service Indian Mound Nursery, located six miles southwest of Alto, along State Highway 21 where it crosses the Neches River.

Only a granite monument atop a 30 feet high, "L" shaped mound testifies to the Indians' having been there. A portion of the mound and surrounding area was excavated in 1940 by the Department of Anthropology of the University of Texas. Although no important artifacts were found, items of pottery, flints and sites of several houses were located. Archaeologists believe the mound was used as a place to worship their sun god. Occasionally, pieces of pottery and flints are unearthed as the area near the mound is cultivated by nursery personnel.

Presence of several constantly flowing springs nearby probably accounts for the Indians' use of the area. Availability of surface water for irrigation was a major factor in selecting the area as a state tree nursery.

To the citizens of nearby Alto goes a large amount of credit for their part in purchase of the 173 acres in 1940.

The nursery produces tree seedlings for reforestation in Texas. Initial production in 1940 was about 10 million seedlings. Maximum capacity is about 21 million seedlings which are sold to Texas landowners at cost.

Trees are to be used for reforestation and windbreak planting; none are sold for ornamentals or for landscaping.

Supplying tree seedlings for reforestation and windbreak planting is but one of the many ways your Texas Forest Service, now celebrating its 50th Anniversary, performs its obligation to Texans.

Members of Muenster Home Demonstration Club were guests of the Callisburg Home Demonstration Club Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Tom Blankenship. The program was an interesting and instructive travel talk.

Miss Layuna Hicks of Gainesville was guest speaker, illustrating her talk with colored slides she made last summer on her world tour. She placed emphasis on the Holy Land in keeping with the Easter season. And she delighted members by displaying souvenirs and other items she purchased on her tour.

The host club served punch and pick up foods from a pretty table covered with an aqua cloth. Yellow jonquils were the floral complement and crystal appointments were used.

Reunion Held by Davidson Families

Relatives of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Davidson were together for a reunion Sunday at the Community Center in Gainesville. Ralph Davidson gave the invocation for the meal at noon.

Charles Davidson and Mrs. Ancil Blount were reelected president and secretary, respectively.

Coming from the farthest distance were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. (Bill) Blount, Nayward, Calif. Others were present from Lindsay, Okla.; Breckenridge, Sherman, Whitesboro, Dallas, Irving, Fort Worth, Austin and Cooke County.

Smaller Portion Of Family Budget Going for Food

COLLEGE STATION. — Food is taking a smaller proportion of the family budget than ever, reminds Mrs. Wanda Barkley, Texas A&M Extension home management specialist.

A new U. S. Department of Agriculture report shows that food and beverages accounted for 31 percent of family living expense in 1941—but only 26 percent in 1961.

"This is a 5 percent decrease in the past two decades," Mrs. Barkley says.

Family economists attribute it to many things — the increase of incomes in the United States, smaller increase in food prices compared with other living expense, and to somewhat smaller-sized average families.

The reduction in the amount spent for food has put housing at the top of the budget for the first time. Housing accounted for 29 percent of all living expense in 1961. This is up 1 percent from 1941.

Other shifts in the family budget during the 20-year period including a decrease in spending for clothing, from 12 to 10 percent; an increase in transportation, from 12 up 15 percent; and an increase in medical care, from 5 to 7 percent.

These figures, including the 26 percent for food and beverages, are the percentage which families actually spend for living expense. The 19 percent for food, so widely quoted, is a percentage of take-home pay, Mrs. Barkley says.
