

A faint hope that the world's principal trouble maker of the past five decades will settle down to better behavior is inspired by published opinions of a Yugoslav professor gathered on his visit to the Soviet Union last year. Last week's U.S. News and World Report presents some of the man's observations along with his prediction that another Russian revolution is on the way.

The situation in general is that the people of Russia are very much fed up with the communist way and are openly complaining about the unsatisfactory conditions dished up for them by the Soviet bureaucrats. They are ready for a change and thoroughly convinced that communism will fizzle out before long.

The article makes no mention of an underground movement to overthrow the government by force of arms. Rather it refers to widespread disillusionment with the whole red system and an attitude of patient waiting for a political upheaval that will bring new opportunities and new hopes. From what the man observed, it is apparent that significant changes have already been made in Russia. Just a few years ago people did not dare to sound off for fear of getting a one way ride to the slave camp. Furthermore young people now are prominent in deflating the glories of communism whereas a generation ago the youngsters were dedicated red fanatics.

Nothing could be more welcome to this nation and the rest of the free world than to see a birth of freedom in the Soviet Union. The sooner the better. The course of world history can be changed tremendously and wonderfully by the resulting change in the balance of world power.

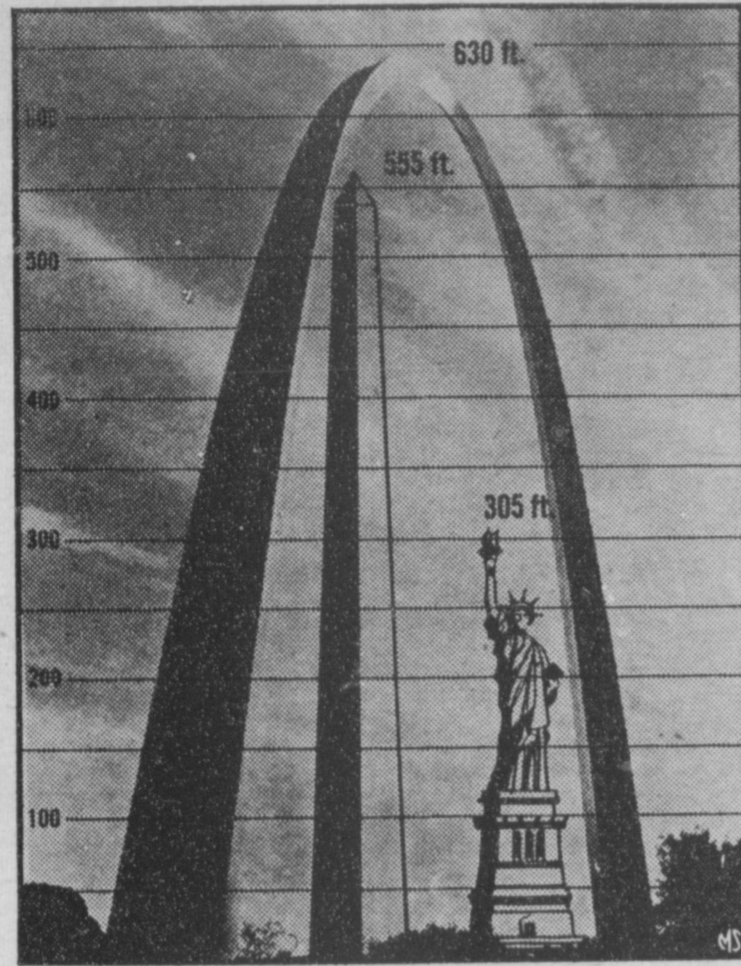

At this time we are unimpressed by the Russo-Chinese squabbles. We know that the big shots of both countries agree in the ambition to dominate the entire globe, and because of that we firmly believe that they will iron out their differences when the chips are down. But the new development in Russia could possibly break the alliance. If the forsee change comes the new Russia is a cinch to line up on the side which is more likely to preserve its newly acquired freedom.

These possibilities become even more fascinating in relation to the predictions of Washington's famous crystal ball gazer, as related in this month's Readers Digest. She foresees a future alliance of Russia and the United States in a conflict with Red China. And incidentally, her predictions deserve some attention. She has correctly foretold several events in the past, including the assassination of President Kennedy and the outcome of some elections. However she has missed on some predictions. In other words she has lots of hits and some misses in her predictions, an average that can't be just shrugged off. Which predictions will come true? Will it be this one about America and Russia teaming up? If so, how about her prediction of a very rough war to be followed eventually by a more peaceful era than the world has seen for a long time?

Regarding predictions about Russia, there's another recorded at the time of the miracle of Fatima saying that Russia eventually would come back to God. Here again it can be said that the history of predictions in the past is one of hits and misses. Most likely they will continue that way and we can only guess whether this will be a hit or a miss.

Mention of these prophecies was made here only as an interesting sidelight supporting the perfectly natural prediction of the Yugoslav observer. And it might be added that his opinion should be shared by anyone who considers conditions in Russia for the past half century. Those people have suffered. They have learned the hard way that men make a big mess of things when they try to kick God out of their lives. They have their fill of communism and are eagerly waiting for a way of life that harmonizes with their idea of human dignity. It's easy to imagine that lots of men of influence share that attitude and are planning accordingly.

All of which presents a cheering outlook, a possible (Continued on page 8)

Construction of the St. Louis Gateway Arch, destined to be the nation's highest monument (see chart for comparison with Washington Monument and Statue of Liberty), is now past the half-way mark—over 300 feet, or higher than a 30-story building. The 630-foot monument, made of more than 5,000 tons of various forms of modern steels, will commemorate America's westward expansion following the Louisiana Purchase. Designed by the late Eero Saarinen, the Arch's gleaming stainless steel plate skin will be visible for 30 miles. A special train will whisk visitors up the Arch's hollow steel plated and reinforced legs in less than two minutes to an observation platform within the top.

Avoid Littering In Trash Hauling, City Council Asks

A request for more care in carrying trash was directed to local people by members of the Muenster City Council at their meeting Monday night. Because of junk blown or bounced off of trash hauling vehicles on the way to the city dump, the road south of town is a nightmare of litter.

Members of the council emphasized that trash disposal accommodations is provided by the taxpayers and persons who use it should cooperate by loading properly and driving carefully to prevent the scattering of litter along the road—and on the pavement. It has been noted that loose rubbish on some loads is piled too high, and some of the driving is too fast.

The council also mentioned that offenders are subject to the charge of littering a state highway and can be fined heavily if convicted... and unless improvement is seen promptly officers will be asked to patrol the road.

The city likewise asks cooperation at the dumping site. An effort should be made to pile trash on the junk heap and not start new piles just because unloading is easier. Proper unloading saves the city money because it requires less dozer work to keep the area in shape. The city has discontinued hiring a man to supervise unloading, as a way of trimming expenses however little is gained if more dozer work is needed from now on. People who bring their junk are urged to remember that.

The dumping site is open every Saturday from noon to 5 o'clock. For those who don't find the hours convenient, or don't like the hauling, councilmen have another suggestion. A trash and garbage pick-up service is available here.

Benedictine Nuns Modernize Attire

The Olivetan Benedictine Sisters of Jonesboro, Ark., who are in charge of Muenster Memorial Hospital and teach at Sacred Heart School have joined in the movement to modernize nuns' attire.

The new style was worn here for the first time on Sunday, July 11. At the Jonesboro motherhouse the change was made several weeks earlier.

Sister Leonarda, local superior and one of the order's old timers, said the old habit probably was in use before the turn of the century. At least she could say that it was worn some time before she joined the order.

The change consists of adopting a collar and a head piece (two separate items) to replace a combined collar and head piece. Even more noticeable is the change from pleated to plain. The old single unit had dozens of pleats, each of the two new pieces is simply tailored — more comfortable to wear and much easier to launder.

She has accepted an offer in Formosa as English teacher in a high school for dependents of Navy personnel. She expects to leave from California the second week of August. Diann is a native of Pilot Point, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Henzler and a sister of Mrs. Dan Luke of Muenster.

Another teacher leaving the MHS faculty is Emmett Walterscheid, teacher of shop, mechanical drawing and driver training at Muenster High for six years. He is a native of Muenster, son of the Tony Waltersheids, and remains here as an employee of Cooke County Electric Co-op.

Eric Brewster, band instructor, likewise has other plans for the next school year. He did not mention whether his new assignment will be.

First Class Day Is August 23

Officially the first day of the coming school year will be Monday, August 23. That is the first day that counts on the school calendar, the full count of which is 178 class days.

Registration will be on Friday, August 20, which, according to Superintendent L. B. Bruns, is not an official class day. Students must register on their own time. Bruns also explained why registration will be on Friday rather than Monday. It allows a full weekend for working out class schedules and other essential data whereas Monday registration allows only the one night for preparing.

All girls must be single, at least 16 years old but not over 22 by September 1, 1965.

Each contestant will be required to speak approximately one minute on "Why I Am Glad My Family Belongs To Farm Bureau."

Girls will be judged on grace, poise, charm, and qualities that go to make up future homemakers.

The winner of the local contest will go on to the district competitions and with hopes of going to the state and National contest.

Hospital District Election Planned For September

An election on creation of the Muenster Hospital District will be held on or before September 15, 1965.

That is the content of a resolution passed Tuesday night in a special meeting of temporary directors of the proposed hospital district. A definite date will be selected at the next regular meeting of the group.

Another motion passed by the directors is to hold a public opinion poll on a vital question concerning method of paying the hospital debt. Facilities will be set up at or near the official voting place to conduct the straw vote on the same day the district election is held.

Directors also decided that everyone in the proposed district should have an opportunity to read the recently passed state law which permits creation of the Muenster Hospital District. They asked that the complete copy of the law be published in the Enterprise before election date.

Work Begins on New Sewer Main For East Muenster

Work is under way now on a new sewer line which will extend the city's sewer service to formerly inaccessible part of town.

The Feazzell Construction Company of Arlington, under direction of Foreman W. Vaughn, moved into town during the weekend, finished bringing in equipment Monday, and got on the job Tuesday. Contract calls for completion of the project in 75 working days. The contract price is $25,246.45.

The new line will consist of 2926 feet of 10 inch line and 1322 feet of 8 inch line. The larger part of the line will be south of the highway and will serve the southeast part of town including a recent annexation of 17 acres. North of the highway the line will serve areas that were too low to drain into the old sewer line. It will end at Third and Mesquite.

Scouts and Dads Annual Campout Held at Texoma

The annual Boy Scout campout at Lake Texoma last weekend failed in its traditional role as a rainmaker.

Instead of the kind of gully washer that soaked the boys and their dads in past years, this one brought only a few scattered drips at the camp and none whatever back home.

Even though it did not produce the long awaited rain, however, the event definitely was not disappointing. Youngsters and oldsters enjoyed being closer to nature for a while.

About forty scouts and dads participated, most of them arriving in a group early in the afternoon at the camp site about a mile from Paw Paw Creek Resort. They had swimming, fishing and boating along with preparing supper and breakfast over camp fires and sleeping outside.

Sunday morning the group broke camp about 10 o'clock, then went to Paw Paw Resort to join others of their families at a Field Mass at 11 followed by a picnic dinner.

Father Alcuin was celebrant of the Mass on an altar set up in front of Albert Kubis' cabin. Scouts were in uniform for the Mass. Other visitors swelled the total attendance to about a hundred.

Food for the picnic dinner was brought by the mothers and combined in a single spread for all the group.

That ended the Boy Scout event. After that families were on their own for the rest of the day.

Pat Gardelius

The residents of Tecopa, California, a hamlet of 400 souls located at the bottom of Death Valley, are fighting mad; so mad, in fact, they are threatening to secede from California in favor of Nevada. Patricia (Pat) Gardelius is a resident of Tecopa; she is, or was, also the kind of person who believes in going to the aid of neighbors in distress. Being a practical nurse, and in the absence of a regular doctor in Tecopa, she has for the past 10 years treated many sick and injured people in the area; and, according to Doctor Walter Wilson, who lives in Lone Pine, 180 miles away, has been responsible for saving countless lives. Doctor Wilson who, in addition to the town minister and the other residents of the town, swears to Pat's proficiency, visits Tecopa once a week by plane, furnishing Pat with technical advice by phone as needed together with overall supervision.

Pat was happy in helping people. Doctor Wilson was happy. The minister, Reverend Aaron Olson, was happy; in fact, the entire populace of Tecopa seemed to be happy and well satisfied with the arrangement with no one expressing anything but love and respect for Mrs. Gardelius with her ministering hands and desire to help her neighbors. That was until last April when government stepped in. A California state official, passing through Tecopa, placed Pat under arrest.

Her crime? Helping people without a government license. But there is more to this story than meets the eye. Not long ago, the nation was shocked into examining its individual consciences by the brutal slaying of an innocent New York woman in plain sight and hearing of any number of people, none of whom came to her aid. According to the news reports, the killer, frightened away several times by her screams and lights being turned on in the neighborhood, returned again and again, to finally hack her to death as she, bloody and screaming, tried desperately to crawl to safety. Yes, the nation read, and horrified, asked why? Why, of all the people who saw the attack or heard her screams, did not one go to her aid? We believe Pat Gardelius' experience with the law provides at least a partial clue to the answer. With all pervasive and omnipotent government peering over our shoulders and looking for victims, it has become dangerous to help one another. Socialism looks with disfavor upon people of goodwill acting without its consent.

FEDERAL I.Q. (Idiocy Quotient)

Want a government job? Like to be a bureaucrat? OK, just say Yes or No to these statements:

- "I sometimes think I failed in love."
- "I feel guilty about my sins."
- "I am contented with my sex life."
- "Flirting is often a lot of fun."
- "I love my mother."
- "I like westerns on TV."
- What has this got to do with getting a government job? That's what Democratic Representative Cornelius E. Gallagher of New Jersey asked his colleagues in exposing a sample of the psychological tests given some government job applicants. Maybe it explains a lot of things that come out of things that come out of Washington, at that.

40 Percent Freedom Won't Do

The labor union is the only private organization in this country that can compel membership! The veterans' organization cannot do it. The fraternal organization cannot do it. The Church cannot do it. Only the labor union can do it — in those 30 states that are without the protection of a Right to Work law! In those states where there is a "union shop" operation, a non-member must join within thirty days of his hiring — or be fired from his job. Thus the labor overlords, the Meany, the Reuthers, the Hoffas, the Harry Bridges and the rest have announced their determination to destroy Right to Work laws in the 20 states whose citizens now enjoy this freedom.

Texas Economy Probed

University of Texas Bureau of Business Research turns up these interesting facts and figures in a new study of the Texas economy over the past decade: Personal income per capita rose from $1,585 to $2,175; real purchasing power increased some 18.8 per cent compared with 24.7 per cent for the nation; Texas per capita income dropped from just under 90 percent of the national figure in 1954 to just over 85 per cent of 1964.

More than 65 per cent of all Texas personal income remains in the form of wages and salaries. Manufacturing supplies 13.18 per cent of personal income; petroleum and natural gas producers pay 3.20 per cent; wholesale and retail provide 13.01 per cent; and government wage and salary payments, 14.05 per cent.

"Government in business usually operates at a loss and competes with private industry. We have occasion to know that here at the Record office because the government sells printed envelopes. Now it develops that in the past four years government envelope printing has resulted in the $7,500,000 loss. You and we have had to underwrite that loss, Mr. Taxpayer. It's just peanuts for the government but the envelope business that the post office gets would improve our business substantially."

Did You Know That?

According to the Texas Forest Service, the forest regions of Texas embrace 26 1/2 million acres. This is more than the total acreage of the states of New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont and Massachusetts. Accounting for the biggest share of acreage is the pine-hardwood area of East Texas, 12 1/2 million acres. The other 14 million acres of forests include the post oak, east and west cross timbers, cedar breaks, mountain forests of West Texas, coastal forests, and miscellaneous forests in stream bottoms.

Affluence and Poverty
 A good many people doubt that the government's war on poverty will produce the hoped-for result. Time will tell as to that. But one thing is sure. It is producing a high degree of affluence for a considerable number of federal jobholders.

This has raised the dander of Senator Simpson of Wyo. He points out that the Office of Economic Opportunity, which is the "poverty office", will have a Director at $30,000 a year; a Deputy Director at $28,500; three assistants at $27,000; nine other assistants at $24,500; eleven more at $21,445; and another twenty at $18,535 each. In his words "National poverty headquarters plans a staff of 1050 as a starter which makes it appear that the war takes the form of mass Federal employment at sky-high wages." The Senator plans to join with other Senators in an effort to place curbs on the salaries. Whatever happens to this effort, it is apparent that another elite bureaucracy, whose ultimate size and cost is as yet unknown, is in the process of creation.

A Poem to Ponder
 With the federal government telling us in more ways every day how to run our businesses, our schools, our economy, our very lives... I enjoyed pondering this poem by Edgar Guest:

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE
 "The power to choose the work we do.
 To grow and have the larger view.
 To know and feel that we are free,
 To stand erect, not bow the knee,
 To be no chattel of the State,
 To be the master of our fate,
 To dare, to risk, to lose, to win,
 To make our own career begin,
 To serve the world in our own way.
 To gain in wisdom, day by day,
 With hope and zest to climb, to rise:
 THAT is private enterprise."

Hope you also enjoyed recounting what we are losing so rapidly through federal controls.

In the old days, the man who saved money was a miser; nowadays he's a wonder.

Don't Be Misled
 Agriculture's importance to the economy of Texas is not determined by the number of people living on farms and ranches. And, points out John McHaney, Extension economist at Texas A&M University, don't be misled by the fact that only 8 percent of the state's population now reside on farms or ranches. Another 32 percent of the state's residents derive all or part of their income by supplying production items for farmers or by processing or distributing agricultural products for consumer use. No citizen is far removed from agriculture nor its business generating effects upon the economy of Texas, emphasizes the economist.

Calling a Pig a 'Pig'
 By nature, it's never been better for us to look at life from any point of view other than realism. No pink clouds, just feet on the ground. We don't pretend to be to bright, but still we have enough smart to know a pig is a pig, called by any name!
 And calling a pig by the name of swine makes him no less a "hog" ... on mention of the word our imagination still conjures up the same mental picture ... a short haired quadruped, grunting, squealing, rooting creature, with an abbreviated tail on the back side.

And this is all by way of saying we cannot by nature, imposed self-will, or brain-wash process, delude ourselves about the world being in one heck of a mess. The swine just can't be passed off as a rose! And neither can we say we're at peace, though nobody admits we're at war!

What To Do!
 "The following advice has been offered by Juvenile Judge Phillip B. Gillim, of Denver, Colorado. 'Always wear plaintive crys of the teenager, "What can we do? Where can we go?" The answer is, go home! Hang the storm windows, paint the woodwork, rake the leaves, mow the lawn, shovel the walk, wash the car, learn to cook, scrub some floors, repair the sink, build a boat get a job. Help the minister, priest or rabbi, the Red Cross, the Salvation Army, visit the sick, assist the poor, study your lessons. And when you are through, and too tired, read a good book.'

FIFTY PER CENT OF ALL 2-YEAR-OLDS HAVE ONE OR MORE DECAYED TEETH; THE AVERAGE 16-YEAR-OLD HAS SEVEN.

WATER FLUORIDATION CUTS TOOTH DECAY BY 60% OR MORE, BUT SOME 14,000 U. S. COMMUNITIES DON'T HAVE THIS PROTECTION.

IN AREAS WITHOUT FLUORIDATED WATER, IT'S POSSIBLE TO GET INDIVIDUAL PROTECTION. YOUR DOCTOR OR DENTIST CAN NOW RECOMMEND COMBINED FLUORIDE-VITAMIN DROPS OR TABLETS, SUCH AS ADELFLOR, FOR PREGNANT WOMEN, INFANTS, AND OLDER CHILDREN.

FLUORIDE IS NOT A MEDICINE OR A CURE-ALL BUT IS AN IMPORTANT DIETARY FACTOR DURING THE TIME TEETH ARE FORMING.

Good Old Advice
 "There is a rank due the United States among nations which will be lost by the reputation for weakness. If we desire peace, it must be known at all times that we are ready for war.' The same man also counseled: 'Avoid the accumulation of debt, not only by shunning occasions of expense, but by vigorous exercise in the time of peace to discharge debts which wars have occasioned.' If that sounds like the voice of a latter-day conservative on Capitol Hill, guess again. George Washington said it 175 years ago in his farewell address as the nation's first President."

Joe: "That college turns out some great men."

Bill: "When did you graduate?"

Joe: "I didn't graduate — I was turned out."

An elderly woman picked out two very handsome sweaters and mailed them to her son-in-law as a birthday present.

Some weeks later the mother-in-law paid a visit. Being dutiful and peace-loving man, the son-in-law was sporting one of the sweaters when she arrived.

She looked him up and down and barked: "What's the matter, didn't you like the other one?"

Four Installments Make Up Yearbook At Sacred Heart

In keeping with the growth and demand for better high school publications, Sacred Heart High faculty and students have adopted a pictorial-literary yearbook for the twenty-first volume of CORDIS. Dedicated to Mr. Adam Wolf, former teacher, principal, and coach at SHH, the yearbook is edited by seniors Teresa Fleitman and Jane Hess. Sister Roberta and Brother Thomas are sponsors for the 128 page publication.

Published four times a year, each issue carries out the theme of growth — creativity — initiative — truth. A binder is used for filing the copies and with the arrival of the fourth issue the yearbook is complete. The binder, designed by Teresa Fleitman, depicts a symbolic drawing of life at Sacred Heart High — a pulsating heart (CORDIS) deriving its life-blood from Sacred Heart High Church and Sacred Heart High School. The binder carries out the senior class colors of white and green.

The covers for the four issues carry out the theme of growth — each showing a stage in the life of a tree. All drawings are the work of SHH art students.

Various articles, poetry, haiku, ballads, short stories, essays, quotations, comments, and book reviews written by the students are interwoven with class and activity pictures and art work completing the theme of creativity, initiative, and truth.

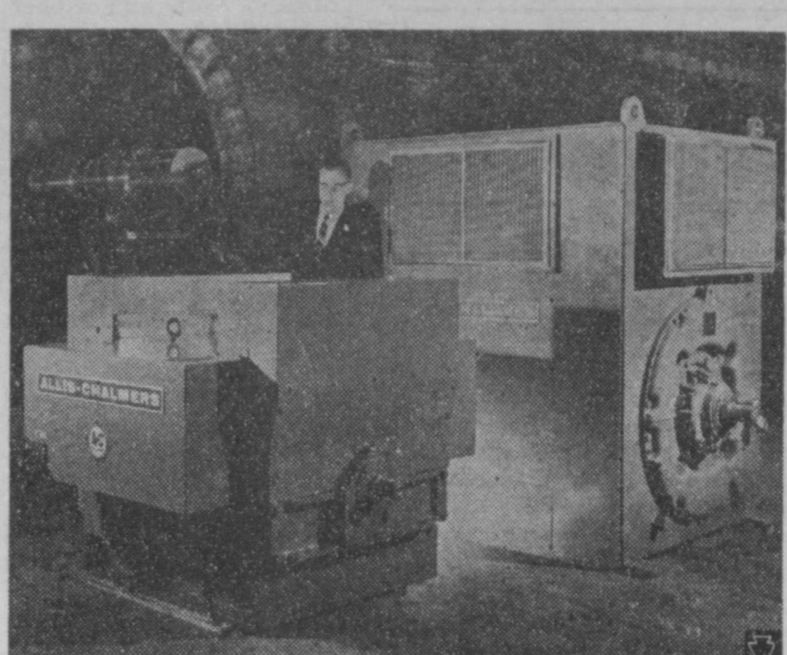

The first 32-page issue is dedicated to the freshmen. Pictured in this issue are individual freshmen, football games, homecoming, cheerleaders, drill team, and pep squad.

The second issue features the sophomore class. Sodality, CYC, baseball and the school Christmas party are pictured. The junior class is favored in the third issue with individual pictures, as well as photos of the junior and senior plays, retreat, baseball, speech and art shows.

The final issue presents the 1965 graduates of SHH. In individual pictures of the seniors as well as various pictures of honor students, favorites, and senior activities complete the fourth issue.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. — Here's a switch on the 'rend toward bigness, thanks to engineering ingenuity. The motor at left is little more than half the size of the other, yet each machine produces 2,000 horsepower. Allis-Chalmers designed the new model and will start production in May in sizes ranging from 250 through 5,000 horsepower. Company officials call it the biggest design advancement in years for the induction motor, workhorse of heavy industry. Besides compactness, the new motor has more standardized components, is more easily assembled, more flexible and less expensive to operate.

Jays 13, Robins 3
Ravens 12, Cards 3

The Jays finished with a perfect record as the junior division of Muenster's Little League came to a close Wednesday night. They won all of their eight games. Other team records for the season were Cards and Ravens tied at 3-4-1 and Robins with 0-6-2.

First game Wednesday the Robins did fine in bringing in 3 on 5 walks and 1 error, but 19 walks were more than enough to give the game to the Jays. Final count 13-3. Hitters were Gary Endres two singles and Glenn Grewing one single for the winners. The Robins were hitless.

Next game hits, walks and errors were nicely grouped for the Ravens in their 12-3 win the Ravens in their 12-3 win. They were operating on 4 hits, 9 walks and 5 errors, practically all in the first, second and fourth. Cards had fewer chances — on 3 hits, 6 walks and 1 error — and also left more runners on base. Hitters for the Ravens: Charlie Haverkamp two triples, Chris Hess and Alan Rohmer each a single. For the Cards: Glenn Felderhoff two singles, Mike Luttmner a triple.

DISTRICT NEWS

The 22nd National Farm Safety Week will be observed July 25-31, 1965. It is sponsored by the National Safety Council and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, with the cooperation of other agencies promoting safety among farm people. The Safety Council has tested and recommends national use of the SLOW MOVING VEHICLE EMBLEM which identifies ONLY those vehicles designed to travel 25 mph or less. This emblem can be seen and recognized at a distance of 500 feet or more under practically all driving conditions — day, dusk, dawn and night.

The use of the slow moving vehicle emblem is important because low speeds are dangerous. Research has shown that the possibility of accidents is 100 times greater for a vehicle traveling 20 mph over one traveling 65 mph.

Nearly half of all vehicle accidents can be classified as rear end collisions and could be greatly reduced by using the slow moving vehicle emblem on the rear of slow moving vehicles and recognizing this emblem as a sign of danger whenever seen.

WARNING! — This emblem does NOT replace other lights and devices required by law. CAUTION! — Use this emblem ONLY on vehicles designed to travel 25 mph or less on highways.

The Soil Conservation Service and the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District join in recommending that all vehicle operators know this national emblem as a sign of

why is my bill higher? ”

The question is logical. The answer is simple. We're all enjoying so many more comforts and conveniences which electricity helps make possible.

Today . . . in addition to things such as irons, toasters and refrigerators which we've taken for granted for years . . . just about every household has one or more electrical appliances which only a few people owned or which didn't exist 20 years ago. Examples: air conditioners, television, clothes dryers and food freezers.

Of course, as we add electrical servants to our home, we require more electric power to operate them. But, while the use of electricity has been going up, the price has been going down. The average per-unit price of electricity used in the homes of TP&L customers is now only about one-half as much as it was 20 years ago.

So, if your electric bill is "higher than it used to be," count the electrically-operated appliances in your home. We believe you'll agree that electricity is still the biggest bargain in your family's budget.

Snake Bite Aid Should Be Prompt

Prompt attention to snake bite victims was recommended by J. Weldon Watson, executive director of the Texas Park and Wildlife Department, in a seasonal warning that poisonous reptiles are on the move. Referring to a department pamphlet, Watson said it is important that snake bite victims receive quick first aid treatment, and then quoted from the document:

"The patient must not exert himself by running, because increasing circulation brought on by such physical activity will speed up absorption of the poison. For the same reason, the use of whiskey or other stimulants should be avoided."

"The victim's state of mind is important; he must promptly be convinced that his chances for recovery are good — and, indeed, they are. He should not be terrified by the thought that every snake bite means certain death. Actually, a survey of case histories shows that with prompt and proper treatment, only about one or two per cent of all snake bites in this country are fatal."

"There is a considerable difference of opinion about the correct first aid treatment for poisonous snake bite. The Division of Medical Sciences of the National Research Council, a section of the National Academy of Sciences, recently made a study to determine the most effective method of such treatment. It recommended immobilization of the bitten limb, application of a constricting band, and prompt incision and suction.

"Based on these recommendations, the following first aid treatment for poisonous snake bite is suggested.

"Immobilize the affected arm or leg whenever possible. Where this is not practical keep movement of the bitten limb to a minimum. Muscular activity helps increase the spread of venom. Whenever feasible, transport the victim by litter to further medical aid."

Apply a constricting band from two to four inches above the bite, between the wound and the heart. This will help to limit the spread of venom until it can be removed by incision and suction or neutralized by antivenin. A piece of rubber tubing or a strap tourniquet, included with every snake bite kit, is best for this purpose. When these are not available, items of clothing may be used. A shoe lace, neckerchief or a strip of clothing torn from shirt or trousers will do. The poison, unless injected directly into a major blood vessel or deeply into a muscle, is absorbed slowly by the lymphatics below the skin. Therefore, do not restrict the deeper blood circulation by applying the constricting band too tightly. It should be loose enough for a finger to be slipped under it with little difficulty. Remember that during first aid treatment the constricting band must be loosened every 15 minutes for about two minutes. This precaution may prevent gangrene. If the bite is on the hand or forearm, take off rings, bracelets or other jewelry because subsequent swelling may make their removal difficult.

"Make incisions after sterilizing the cutting instrument and the bite area with iodine or alcohol. If no antiseptic is available, the blade of the cutting instrument can be sterilized by holding it over a flame (a match will do). Make one cut over each fang mark parallel with the long axis of the bitten limb, not across it. Incisions should be one-quarter inch deep, but definitely no longer than the diameter of the suction apparatus being used. This would allow air to enter the suction bulb from the outside and the device would then be unable to work. Incisions are of the utmost importance to first aid treatment; without them little or no poison can be withdrawn from the wound by suction. However, making even a small incision involves some risk and this operation should be done with considerable care. Improper or carelessly applied first aid may actually do more harm than good. Although a physician may later decide to make additional incisions to relieve the pressure of swelling, only the cuts over the fang marks are recommended for first aid.

"Apply suction to cuts. This can be done with one of the suction devices manufactured for that purpose but, if none is available, suction can be applied by mouth. There is little danger in oral suction unless the lips or inside of the mouth have cuts of abrasions. Contrary to popular opinion, a tooth cavity will not permit passage of the venom into the blood. Moreover, snake venom is destroyed by the stomach's digestive juices, so if some is accidentally swallowed, there is little need to worry if you have a healthy system. Only during the first 30 minutes following the bite can much venom be removed by incision and suction.

"Get to medical aid as soon as possible — but keep in mind that unnecessary physical exertion is harmful." Watson pointed out that only rattlesnakes, coral snakes, cottonmouth water moccasins and copperheads are poisonous among the Texas reptiles.

Chamois Skin Bait
 Fishermen are a resourceful breed. One angler's idea is to use an old chamois skin for bait. He washes the skin through several waters, then cuts it into strips of various sizes to resemble real pork rind strips. He argues that chamois skin is just as pliable as pork rind, and fish don't know the difference. An added feature is that you can carry the strips in your pocket.

Hospital Auxiliary Favors Stretcher As Next Project

The monthly meeting of Muenster Hospital Auxiliary was held Thursday, July 15, in the hospital dining room. Sister Mildred gave the invocation to open the meeting. Mrs. Richard Grewing, senior vice president, presided in absence of president, Mrs. Ervin Hamric.

The regular business of the meeting was conducted and a letter was read from Eula West of Gainesville commending the Auxiliary on the fine work accomplished by them.

They discussed buying a hospital stretcher as their next project. They also discussed ambulance service but decided against this on account of the insurance, training and other details involved.

Mrs. Joe Fisher brought four pictures to the meeting and she volunteered to have them framed for the nursery or the pediatrics ward.

Mrs. Paul and Joe Fisher volunteered to take charge of the refreshments for the next meeting and Mrs. Clyde Fisher won the door prize, a gift certificate from Hamric's.

Sister Mildred closed the meeting with prayer and she took the group through the newly decorated children's room. Mrs. Martin Kralicik and Mrs. Clyde Fisher served cake and lemonade after the meeting.

Only ten members were present for the meeting and the officers asked all members and also anyone interested in joining the Auxiliary to attend the meetings which are held on the third Thursday of each month.

Confetti

... turning point in civilization's struggle with the red menace - provided, of course that we and some other countries still retain the right kind of attitude.

That's a big question, considering the conditions that might possibly develop from this country's present trends. Lots of signs are frightening. For instance declining moral standards as indicated by increasing crime, the continued growth of big centralized government and increasing dependence on it along with continued growth of socialistic practices, continued inflation and its threats of economic collapse, continued racial strife and its threat of social upheaval, and continued public apathy toward the bad signs as our people simply go on living it up.

Of course no one can say what the future will bring, so we can still hope that our present trend will turn for the better and restore traditional American values which made our country great. But the bitter fact is that we appear to be headed the wrong way now, as judged by historical precedent. We're at the stage of free bread and circuses, where Rome was before its fall. It remains to be seen whether we will pull through with freedom and independence and dignity.

However that turns out, let's at least wish every measure of success to the Russian dream of freedom. Those people have had enough misery. They are entitled to a better life.
