VOLUME VIII

MUENSTER, TEXAS, COOKE COUNTY, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1944

NUMBER 42

A subject that is being kicked around more and more as the end of hostilities approaches is how to assure a lasting peace. Theories range all the way from brute force to lofty idealism. Some would put a yoke on Germany that it will never be able to shake. Others would give it a free hand in the hope that it has learned a lesson. Both extremes have merits, from which it appears that a happy medium between them is our best course.

The principal weakness in most theories is their assumption that our present foes will be the only problem nations of the future. They don't allow for a possibility that the next offender might be some other country, even one of the four now recommended to share world police duties.

Certainly Germany and Japan should first be made to pay for their aggression. The guilty should be brought to justice, art treasures industrial tools and expropriated resources should be replaced, and indemnities should be charged.

Let that constitute the means of restoring all nations to an equal status, and then start from scratch on a good will basis, which can best be applied in economic policies that will permit people to live in closer harmony and greater comfort. Nations will be less inclined to war when they are happy with their peace time conditions.

As a safeguard against countries that want to get out from under an apply a small measure of force, perhaps a league in which all nations are pledged to suppress an offender. It needn't be an elaborate international police force just an intelligence system to detect any suspicious moves, after which other nations could promptly begin to apply pressure. Economic pressure as a first resort, military pressure if it should be necessary.

However, pressure should be regarded only as a big stick to keep handy just in case. The best guarantee of peace is a sincere effort to get along. We of this country can testify to that after a century and a half of pleasant dealings with Canada.

Writing in the September issue of Reader's Digest, William Mullins presents a thought that is worthy every citizen's most serious consideration. The CIO Political Action Committee's current meddling in politics is a brazen affront to democracy in general and an injustice to organized labor.

Individuals, whether or not they are members, resent the arbitrary expropriation of organization funds for the express purpose of exerting political pressure by a few high-ranking members concerned chiefly with eroding their own axes. Union men are entitled to another gripe when, regardless of their own opinions, they are identified with the policies of the PAC.

It's as plain as day that the economic power of the CIO is being debauched into political pressure for the Communist party. Erstwhile big shots of the party, which by an odd coincidence was disbanded only a short time before the PAC raised its ugly head, are engineering the whole sinister shenanigan in a typical Communist fashion. Instead of members deciding on policies and instructing leaders to carry them out, the PAC order of procedure is reversed.

The committee isn't at all feeble either. Its influence has already been felt in several political races. It will be felt in many others before the year is over. It can become a serious threat to the American system if it isn't checked soon.

The whole trouble with the labor situation is that it has descended in purpose and method. Originated as a safeguard for the interests of working people, it has become a weapon in the hands of unscrupulous racketeers. The workers' lot has improved, of course, but so has the racketeer's tribute. Meanwhile, the racketeer cracks his dictatorial whip over worker and employer alike and the employer — ultimately the consumer — pays the bill.

It's high time that reasonable men within the unions wake up to the deplorable condition and start a house cleaning crusade. Unchecked the present trend will drift into chaos. Either the abuses will wreck our system of free enterprise or an enraged public will wreck the unions, destroying much of the good that has been done over the past few decades.

For that matter it is high time for a lot of other people to sit up and take notice. When a few high handed rascals of Sidney Hillman's hue can turn the strength of a labor union into a political tool — irrespective of the members' wishes — it is time to wonder whether the spirit of democracy is not being strangled. When those same men can induce one

Mrs. Joseph Kraus, San Antonio, president of the women's section; Isabel Weynand, San Antonio, president and Andrew Wimmer, Muenster, vice president of the youth organization, and Frank Gittens, San Antonio, president of the men's section.

The Knights of Columbus state officers convention, meeting in Galveston Sunday, chose Amarillo for the 1945 convention, heard an address on postwar problems by the Most Rev. C.E. Byrne, bishop of Galveston and appointed committee chairman for the coming year.

Gus J. Straus, new state deputy, told the officers that the "state of Texas has more star councils, those who have met their quotas, than any state in the nation, or in the entire Knights of Columbus Order."

State Treasurer Herbert Meurer of this city attended the session.

WEINZAPFEL WELL DRILLING

Kingery Brothers, drilling for Phillips Petroleum Company, 3 1-2 miles southwest of Muenster on the southwest 80 acres of J. M. Weinzapfel land, are below 1,000 feet and are expecting sand at 1600 feet or production at the lime at 2600 feet. This well is an offset to the flowing production on the Dangimayr farm.

STUDENTS LEAVING TO ATTEND SCHOOL IN DISTANT CITIES

Next week will find a number of local young people in distant class rooms and others on their way to begin studies in out of town schools.

Among the first to leave was Miss Martha Hennigan who will begin her high school work at Our Lady of Victory College in Fort Worth. She left Monday. Also leaving was Miss Dolly Endres, who will be a freshman in college at O.L.V.

Leaving Saturday for Subiaco Academy, Subiaco, Ark. will be Herbert Pette, George Swirzynski, Tommy Otto and Anton Hess, who will continue their high school courses. All are to be juniors.

Also leaving Saturday will be Misses Gladys Wilde and Alma Marie Luke, first year college students at Mount St. Scholastica College, Atchison, Kansas, while Miss Johann Seyler departs the same day for Denver Colorado, to enter first year college at Loretta Heights in that city.

PROPER MANAGEMENT OF PASTURES HELPS MILK PRODUCTION

Milk production was reduced as much as 25 per cent below May-June levels in many areas due to hot, dry weather, reports from various sources say. The extension service at state colleges point out that dairy farmers can take steps now to prevent production slumps of a similar nature in the event dry weather develops next year.

Proper management of pastures and the use of emergency pasture crops have proved beneficial in maintaining production. Supplementary grain feeding in hot weather, to keep cows in better condition is another standard recommendation from the dairy specialists.

Clipping pastures to discourage weed seeding and thereby leaving more of the food in the soil for healthier grass growth is an important step which can be taken now. Liming and application of superphosphate at this time of year likewise will insure better stand of grass for next season.

Various emergency pastures are recommended as drought resistant and highly useful in providing forage when hot weather causes a decline in bluegrass condition. These mixtures include such things as soy beans and Sudan grass for spring planting, and alfalfa-brome grass for fall planting. Information on emergency pastures can be obtained from the state college of agriculture or the agricultural agent in each county.

Use of alternate pastures, providing plenty of fresh water for the cows and a rest period of six to ten weeks for dry cows are among other standard practices recommended by extension dairymen as aids to holding milk production to high levels.

Little Margaret Myrick has recovered from a tonsillectomy performed at the local clinic last week.

Truck To Collect Waste Paper Will Be Here Sunday

Will Make Rounds To Pick Up Paper At Curbs; Cooperation Urged

A truck will be in Muenster Sunday morning at about 10 o'clock to pick up waste paper, it was announced this week by Dr. W. H. Locke, chairman of the Cooke County Waste Paper Drive. Full cooperation on the part of all local citizens is urged, so that this scrap, which is of vital importance to the war effort, will be turned in in quantities sufficient to justify the sending of a truck to this city to pick it up.

Papers, old magazines, and the like, are to be bundled and placed at curbs for quick pickup, it was stated, and farmers are asked to bring theirs to town with them when they come to church services. Bundles may be deposited on a truck at J.P. Flusche's junk yard, by farmers, and all others are asked to have their waste paper on the curbs in front of their residences.

Mr. Hiatt's first work will consist of blood testing and preparing approved flocks for certified eggs for the hatchery market.

Local Schools Ready To Open Here Monday

Busses To Run Classes Scheduled To Begin At 9 O'clock At Both Institutions

Everything is in order for the opening of both Muenster schools Monday morning and school busses will operate on the same routes as during the past year, it was announced Wednesday.

Teaching staffs for both schools are complete. John Hoffman, only member of the teaching personnel who had not arrived last week, is in the city. Until the 15th of the month, when the house he has rented is vacated, he cannot move his family to this city. After that time Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman and their three sons will occupy the Weinzapfel house, now occupied by Col. Guy S. Malloy. Hoffman is a new teacher and superintendent for the public school. He comes here from Rhineland, where he has been teaching for several years.

At the parochial school classes are to be preceded by Mass for students at 9 a.m., and public school classes are scheduled to start at 9.

It has been disclosed that in addition to the three busses now serving in the school district another large bus is being secured, but due to priorities and other conditions occasioned by war time, will not be available until about the first of December. When the new vehicle is put on the road a larger, more sweeping route, will go into effect, it has been stated.

First day activity at both institutions will consist principally of registrations and issuance of books, it was announced.

HERBERT HUNDT AND FIVE SOLDIERS HURT AS AUTOS COLLIDE

Lindsay — Herbert Hundt sustained a broken right arm and bruises in a car accident last Wednesday evening and spent Thursday and Friday in a Gainesville hospital for observation, but was permitted to be moved to his home Friday night.

The collision of Hundt's pickup and a car containing five Camp Howze soldiers occurred about a mile and half east of Gainesville. There appeared to be a misrepresentation of each driver's intentions by the other and a head-on crash resulted injuring all passengers and badly damaging both vehicles.

Set. William Casteel, of Camp Howze, driving a 1937 Ford coach was going east when he attempted to pass a truck. In order to avoid a head-on collision with Hundt, who was driving west, Casteel drove onto the bar ditch. Hundt, misinterpreting Casteel's actions, also drove onto the parallel slab and both cars came together head on 20 feet from the pavement, according to officers who investigated the wreck, it is reported.

The five soldiers were taken to the station hospital at camp suffering from minor cuts and bruises, and Hundt was taken to a Gainesville hospital. He did not regain consciousness until the following morning, though his condition was not serious. He will be obliged to wear his arm in a cast for about six weeks.

MUENSTER'S FIRST BALE IS BROUGHT IN BY LEO MOSTER

The first bale of 1944 cotton received in Muenster was brought in Friday morning by Leo Moster. It was grown on his farm southwest of the city.

The picked cotton weighed 1,510 pounds and the finished product weighed 495. It was bought by Muenster Gin company and graded strict middle. As is customary, the first bale of the season was ginned free by the gin company.

For the first time in 27 years, since the establishment of the gin here, Manager W. Lee Stock was not able to be on duty. For the past two months he has been confined to his home on account of illness.

In reporting on his cotton crop, Mr. Moster stated that he has 19 acres that it is in excellent condition, and he figures making a half bale per acre. While not much cotton is planted in the immediate community, such, that is, reported being in good condition, free from insects.

Last year's first bale was ginned on August 19, and was grown by the Cler brothers.

Words can not tell how much your kindness is appreciated. May God bless and reward each one of you as He knows best, and be assured of our daily prayers for you.

EVERY LITTLE BIT HELPS

While sugar rationing isn't the headache it used to be, home economists suggest these hints to make sugar go that much further: (1) Add sugar last in cooking; dried fruits -- it takes less; (2) Thoroughly dissolve sugar in beverages -- obviously less is needed if you leave none in the bottom of your cup; (3) Serve fresh ripe fruits whenever possible, they require little or no sugar at all.

NOT WASHABLE

Beware of washing painted silk lamp shades with applique ornaments and shades made of fabrics, such as chintz or linen, which shrink when wet. They must be dry cleaned.

SOMETHING FISHY

If dishwashing is especially discouraging after something fishy, this trick will cheer you up: Fill cooking utensil with clear water, add a tablespoon or so of vinegar and bring water to a boil for a minute or two. The trick not only banishes the fishy odor, but also loosens food stuck to the pan. Rinse serving dishes in hot vinegar water also before washing them.

MOOS OF THE MOMENT

BY UNCLE BOB

of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

There have been many cases of good bulls being sacrificed at too early an age, because some dairymen dislike to use an older animal, due to hazards involved in handling. Proper housing, proper management and exercise are the answers to this problem, says the University of Illinois Extension Service, in Circular 460.

It recommends housing the bull separately from the herd, and gives a floor plan for a bull shed. Plenty of space for exercise is needed, with a strong fence around the yard. Careful feeding, to keep the bull in top condition, without being fat, is an essential. When feeding legume hay, a grain mixture of three parts ground oats and one part wheat bran is preferred. Other feeding mixtures, when other roughage is used, are suggested in the circular.

Young bulls should be kept in service until their true worth can be determined, by the milk production records of the progeny. Handling the bull is more important as the age increases and this Illinois circular can serve as a good guide book.

Even trade is fair exchange, so they say, but a man could get into a lot of trouble trying to swap a 40-year old wife for two twenties.

One of the interesting things about being a dairy farmer is the fact that you don't have much chance to get into a rut. Every changing season brings changes in the things a dairy farmer should be doing.

The annual change over from supplementary feeding for cows on pasture to barn feeding will be taking place shortly. It is time to start checking your feed supplies, to determine whether you have sufficient roughage, silage and grain to carry your cows through the winter, in top condition and at top production.

As in the case of feeding supplementary to pasturing, the amount of grain to feed your own herd is determined by (1) kind of roughage; (2) breed of cows; (3) rate of production and (4) protein content of feed mixture.

If you need a table which will show the correct mixture to feed, based on those four points, I suggest you write the Extension Service, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill., and ask for a copy of Circular 502.* It has a section on barn feeding which will be a valuable aid in keeping your herd's milk volume at a peak.

Purdue University recently issued a new leaflet, No. 260, on cleaning and sterilizing dairy utensils. It is well illustrated and merits a prominent place in your dairy file. It takes you through each step--rinsing with cold water, scrubbing, rinsing with hot water and sterilizing with a chlorine solution. A section is devoted to washing and sterilizing the milking machine. You can get a copy by writing the Extension Service at Lafayette, Indiana.*

If you really want to "know your oats", you'll do well to write to the U.S.D.A., Washington, D.C., for a copy of Farmers' Bulletin No. 1947. It is a complete discussion of disease resistant and hardy oats for Southern states.

The bulletin stresses the importance of increasing the acreage of oats in the South and Southwest in order to improve dairying in those regions. It recommends early enough fall seeding so that the young plants can get sufficient growth to withstand freezing.

The publication declares that fall-sown oats greatly outyield spring-sown varieties in most sections of the south. The Arkansas Experiment Station reported a 42% gain in yield of fall-sown over best varieties of spring-sown oats.

There are specific varieties of oats recommended for each state in the South and Southwest. Varieties approved may be different in different parts of certain states and the booklet gives this information. All it costs is a penny postcard to write and request a copy.

A fellow I know says he started tracing back his family tree but decided to quit when he found it seemed to get its start by grafting.

If good rope has become a knotty problem on your farm, you'll be able to get some good out of another U.S.D.A. publication, Farmers' Bulletin No. 1931. It tells you how to take care of rope, to make it give longer and better service.

This book shows how to repair broken strands, a problem which occurs frequently these days. It tells how to make several different splices and how to tie various kinds of knots.

There are plenty of uses for rope around any dairy farm and you should be able to get some valuable help from the information in this booklet.

Yes, here we are again. Though we did have a wonderful time during the vacation months, everyone is happy to be back in school once more. It took us a few days to get accustomed to school routine, but now everyone has become serious minded and all are resolved to make the coming year as successful as possible.

Seniors Initiate Freshies

On Thursday, the second week of school, the freshmen were wondering why the seniors were looking and acting so mysteriously. At morning recess they found out! Water colors, lip stick, hair oil, eyebrow pencils and suchlike had transformed the green little freshies into almost unrecognizable little beauties. In the afternoon at three o'clock the affair was brought to a close. For the enjoyment of the seniors and the juniors, the seniors played all sorts of innocent tricks on the defenseless freshies, who proved their mettle by submitting cheerfully and responding graciously to all the demands of their upper classmen. At the end refreshments were served.

man not to run for office, elect a second and defeat a third, it is time to wonder whether their power is not dangerous.

And, don't forget, Communism is still the ugly, monstrous doctrine it always was. It is the system in which individual rights are subordinated to state rights, in which a few men in the upper brackets give the orders and everybody else does as told, or else. It is the system in which all share alike regardless of who produces more, in which industry, thrift, initiative and many other virtues we admire are useless and the only way to get along is to get a drag with the big shots. Trying to mix it with democracy is like putting a rotten potato with the good.

In Chicago the Democratic Convention did itself proud by repudiating the PAC's choice for vice presidential candidate. Since then however, the party has exposed itself to criticism by failing to repudiate the organization's help. The aid it is getting is hardly worth the respect it is losing.

Another bit of Communist activity that ripples us is Earl Browder's statement that the supreme duty of the allied nations, including the United States, is to hold the line of the Teheran agreement. We can overlook the impertinence of the pardoned subversive leader, who was seriously considered for deportation as an

Mrs. Block then conducted a sewing period for some time. IMPROVES THE FLAVOR

To improve the flavor of frozen vegetables and to retain their nutritive content: Heat two tablespoons of fat in saucepan. Break the still-frozen vegetables into medium sized pieces and drop them into the fat. Don't add water unless heat cannot be evenly controlled. Cover and cook over high heat until a full steam is reached, then reduce heat to a simmer and cook until just tender. Takes about ten minutes.

the Teheran conference. Just what is the extent of Red meddling in this country? What is the extent of official cooperation with Red meddlers? Voters might be interested in knowing.
