VOLUME XXX

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS 76252 JANUARY 28, 1966

NUMBER 10

After long weeks of disappointment, official Washington seems ready to admit what it suspected from the start. We are spinning our wheels when we expect communists to cooperate with us in working out a reasonable settlement of the Vietnamese war.

There's only one way in which the effort can be regarded as a success. No peace offensive ever was more intensive, and the world has been well informed of our desires to bring the war to an honorable end. As Secretary of the State Dean Rusk stated, "There has been an overwhelmingly favorable response to those efforts — except from those who could in fact sit down and make peace." Other nations know the score now — that continued conflict cannot be blamed on us.

So, there are signs that we will go back to fighting in earnest. Or should we say rather that we are finally on the verge of fighting in earnest? In other words, fighting with a determination to win instead of just trying to convince the enemy without really hurting him. We've been like a boxer trying just to outpoint his opponent instead of going for a knockout.

That's the merciful way, and it may be sufficient in the prize ring, where the contest is decided by a referee's decision. But it does not go in war where there's no referee in the first place and certainly no inclination of the loser to admit defeat.

There seems to be only one course left — to get into the fight seriously and go for a knockout. We need to do less sparring and concentrate on blows that will do the most damage.

There is no doubt about identity of the enemy in Vietnam. Reds claim it is the Viet Cong of South Vietnam seeking to liberate the country from its present government. But we know as well as they do that it is North Vietnam in an indisputable war of aggression. We are at war with North Vietnam, and the only way we can win it and negotiate an honorable peace is to defeat North Vietnam.

Our great problem in this war, as formerly in Korea, is that we are fighting the United Nations way. We are engaged in police action, seeking to restore order in the troubled area by chasing out the aggressors. That method is worthless. Even when it succeeds it fails to eliminate the enemy. War was never conducted that way before. Why should it be now? And why is our country the one to try it? Especially the second time after our pitiful debacle in Korea?

Imagine what would have happened in World War II if we had quit after chasing Hitler's army out of France and the Japs back to their homeland. Does anyone think that would have ended the trouble? Does anyone think this trouble can be ended without defeating the source of the trouble?

According to this column's wishful thinking, President Johnson had that alternative in mind when he launched his big peace offensive. He wanted the enemy to know that a merciful and honorable peace was available but real war could be expected if the offer was refused. Well, it seems the enemy has made the choice and decided to risk the consequence.

According to more of this column's wishful thinking, it's likely that fighting from now on will be different. We're at a disadvantage in jungle warfare. We can't afford a swap-out type of war with the hordes of expendables sent in by red dictators. Nor can we cope with the type of treachery and atrocity used by the Cong to exploit South Vietnamese peasants. Our best counter attack obviously is to deliver staggering blows to war chiefs of the north who are directing the Cong down south.

That method can solve a double purpose, knocking some sense into the source of command while knocking out of the source of supply. Hanoi can't stand up under an intense campaign of bombing and blockade.

Winter Crashes in With Snow and Sub-Zero Plunge

Winter was slow in coming to Muenster but it came in a big way last weekend. With a heavy blanket of snow covering the ground, the temperature plunged to 12 degrees Saturday and 2 below zero on Sunday. On Friday and again on Monday the temperature was near the freezing mark.

The snowfall was one of the heaviest if not the heaviest ever for this community. In three readings for his weather bureau record Steve Moster estimated that the total was 15 inches. There was 5 inches Thursday morning, 3 inches Friday morning and 7 inches during the day Friday. Most measured at one time was 9 inches Saturday morning. That's because temperature remained above freezing as the snow fell causing it to thaw slowly for two days. Moisture measure of the melted snow as recorded by Moster was .96 inch.

The weather also brought two holidays for school children. Word was sent out early Friday when travel was already hazardous and again on Monday because the roads in many areas had not improved sufficiently for safe driving.

Another possible record is connected with the snow storm. Not one car accident or body injury was reported here for the duration.

Almost Half of Data Received For Parish Census

Almost half of Sacred Heart Parish responded last Sunday to a request by Father Alcuin Kubis for data for a parish census. According to his estimates fewer than 300 family reports were received. He estimates the parish has nearly 600 families, adding that one purpose of this census is to show exactly how many.

To those who forgot last Sunday, Father Alcuin said he will appreciate a special effort to remember the census data next Sunday.

Information to be submitted is the date of birth, place of birth and date and place of baptism of each member of the family.

It was also pointed out that the list should include family members who are temporarily away from home for instance in college or the army. But married members should not be included. Each married couple is a family unit, so, to avoid duplication, the two persons heading a new family are dropped from their previous lists.

Death Claims Two Long Time Residents

Henry Streng, 80 Frank Yosten, 76

Henry Streng, 80, a Muenster resident 76 years and a retired farmer, died at 2:30 a.m. Monday in Muenster Memorial Hospital a week after suffering a stroke. He had been in failing health since a stroke several years ago.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 9:30 in Sacred Heart Church with Father Alcuin Kubis officiating at the Requiem Mass, delivering the sermon, and conducting graveside rites in Sacred Heart Cemetery. Nick Miller Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Rosary was recited at the Miller Chapel three times Tuesday: by Saint Anne's Society at 4 p.m., the community rosary at 8 p.m. and immediately following that a rosary by Muenster Knights of Columbus Council of which he was a member.

Bearers were grandsons, Dwayne Schilling, John Henry Streng, Paul Pannell, George Streng and Jimmy McDaniel, and Regi Bayer.

Mr. Streng was born Nov. 12, 1885, in Artschen, S.D., and was four years old when his parents moved to Muenster. He married Miss Emma Nehib in Shiner 54 years ago and they lived on a farm southwest of town. Mrs. Streng died suddenly from a heart attack on Dec. 16, 1965.

Surviving are three sons, John P. and Bill of Muenster, and Joe Streng of Gainesville; three daughters, Mrs. Frank Schilling of Muenster, Mrs. Marie Skelton of Dallas and Mrs. Earl McDaniel of Richardson; 20 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

Also four brothers, Frank of Alexandria, La., Ben of Modesto, Calif., Sylvester of Temple and John Streng of Muenster, and three sisters, Mrs. Joe Prescher and Miss Lena Streng of Lindsay and Mrs. Theresa Moster of Muenster.

Library to Move From City Hall To Fourth Street

The Muenster Public Library will move to its new location at 215 West Fourth Street on or about Feb. 1.

Directors of the library board at their meeting last week decided to rent the house from Joe Luke and to move as soon as a fix-up, paint-up job is finished.

A move had been under consideration for several months because the library was outgrowing its space in the city hall.

The directors also heard Mrs. Steve Moster read a report sent to the Texas State Library on last year's operation of the library. It showed that 706 persons borrowed a total of 4854 books during the past year. Also that 381 volumes were added in 1965, 292 of them being donated, and 33 were removed. Ending the year the library had 2100 volumes.

Directors decided to salvage some of the deteriorating volumes by having them rebound. They also decided not to purchase any more paper back volumes, but only books of durable binding.

A report made by Mrs. Moster informed the board that sixteen volunteer workers had spent 1624 hours on the job on days that the library was open to the public, and many additional hours were also spent in behalf of the library. Those who served are Mmes. Joe Luke, Lee Toothaker, Steve Moster, J. M. Weinzapfel, Albert Schilling, Leon Fleitman, Joe Hoenig, Tony Gremminger; Misses Elizabeth Herr, Carol Mosman, Loretta Schmitt, Sara Fleitman, Kathy Yosten, Lillian Haverkamp and Linda Fisher; and Johnny Schneider.

Directors of the library are L. B. Bruns, chairman, Mrs. Leon Fleitman, secretary-treasurer, and Clive Gobble, B. J. Swirczynski, Henry Weinzapfel, Mrs. Ernest Medders and Mrs. J. D. Hanna.

Frank Yosten, 76, a Muenster resident since he came to Texas from Nebraska 65 years ago, died at Muenster Memorial Hospital Wednesday at 9 a.m. He had been a patient since Jan. 17 for medical care and was thought to be well enough for an early dismissal when death came suddenly.

Funeral services with Requiem Mass will be held Friday morning in Sacred Heart Church with Father Alcuin Kubis, pastor, officiating and Nick Miller Funeral Home directing burial in Sacred Heart Cemetery.

Rosary services were set three times on Thursday: at 4 p.m. by the Saint Anne's Society, at 4:15 by the CDA Court and the community rosary at 8.

Frank Yosten was born in Ridgley, Neb., Oct. 12, 1889, and moved to Muenster with his parents in 1900. On Nov. 13, 1913, he married Miss Mary Henscheid and they became the parents of five children. She died Oct. 10, 1940. On Sept. 8, 1943, he married Mrs. Anna Wiedemann.

As an early-day resident Mr. Yosten was active in parish and community activity. He farmed north of town until 1942 when he moved to the city and worked for Waples Painter and Shamburger Lumber Companies until 1956 when he retired.

He served as a member of the Muenster Public School board of trustees during the 1940s and was an active member of the parish St. Joseph's Society. After his retirement he spent much of his time gardening and working in his yard. It was only recently that he was not able to continue his chores around the place.

Survivors are his wife; three sons, Felix and Henry of Muenster and Ferd of Port Worth; two daughters, Mrs. Nick Mayer of Chicago, Ill., and Mrs. John Durbin of New Orleans, La., one step-daughter, Mrs. Steve Moster of Muenster; 35 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren; one brother, Nick Yosten and one sister, Mrs. Joe Swirczynski, both of Muenster.

Hospital Auxiliary Plans New Project

During their January meeting members of Muenster Hospital Auxiliary planned a new project — they'll be working to buy a movie projector with sound to show educational films at meetings and to use on other occasions as the need arises.

In other business the Auxiliary voted to pay from treasury funds a sixty dollar balance on a croupette recently added to hospital equipment.

And members planned a benefit chili supper and game party they will sponsor early in February, the date to be announced by the committee in charge.

Eleven members braved last Thursday night's frigid weather to attend the meeting and welcomed a new member, Evelyn Hurley. Mrs. Ervin Hamric, president, presided, and thanked members for the Auxiliary's remembering her at Christmas with gifts — an engraved silver bread tray and two figurines.

After adjournment Mrs. J. W. Fisher and Mrs. Hamric served coffee and cookies and Mrs. George Petrus drew the door prize.

Leonard Endres of Kansas City, Kansas, was here Tuesday and Wednesday spending part of a one week vacation with kin and friends of the home town.

His formal statement to voters will appear in a later edition of the Enterprise.

License Plates Will Be Available At Tom & Jerry's

Vehicle license plates, to go on sale next Tuesday, February 1, will be available again at Tom & Jerry's Barber Shop. Word received from County Tax Assessor-Collector Jo Hillis indicated that the place is approved for sale of auto and farm pickup plates and may also be approved for commercial pickup plates.

No indication was given of the series of numbers to be assigned to Muenster. The color: a black background with letters and figures of white.

Persons coming for their plates are reminded to bring car title and receipt for 1965 license plates.

Next Monday Is City Tax Deadline

City tax payers who crowd their deadline were reminded this week that the deadline is starting to crowd them. Mrs. Arnold Henscheid, city secretary, said that the taxes must be paid on or before next Monday to avoid penalty for delinquency. The penalty charge is 3 per cent in February and increases to 12 per cent by the end of the year.

City tax still unpaid as of Wednesday is $5,457.38. The total assessed for 1965 was $24,286.51.

Schick Tests for Diphtheria Set At Public School

Children of the Muenster public school will receive their Schick tests next week. Superintendent L. B. Bruns said Wednesday that the materials are ordered and expected early next week and the tests will be given near the end of the week to all except those whose parents send in a written objection.

He said that the test is a free health service and will be administered under supervision of Dr. Kralicke. Its purpose is to discover whether a child is immune to diphtheria.

It is given by means of a small injection under the skin of the forearm and is examined for reaction several days later. If no effect is seen it is good news — the child is immune. If the reaction is positive the child should have a diphtheria shot.

Brun said he is asking for objections rather than approvals because it will cause less trouble to the parents. By that method very few people if any will bother with sending in a note.

If there are any objections they should be sent in at once.

"SET 'EM UP, TEACHER"

As every parent knows, kids learn the darnedest things in school these days. However, something new is being advocated in education that is likely to jar the hardest. One of these days a visitor to Public School 12 may overhear something like the following: "Set 'em up again, Miss Jones. I'm just, hic, getting relaxed, kid."

This sort of thing may come from recommendations made to the New York Academy of Sciences recently by a Harvard University psychiatrist, Dr. Morris Chafetz. The good professor advanced the idea that children should be taught to imbibe booze properly and that this kind of education could best be provided by our schools. Naturally.

Pointing out that alcohol is here to stay, and presumably on the theory that if you can't lick it you should join up with it, Dr. Chafetz said, "people must learn to develop a healthy attitude to it." If children can be given this healthy attitude, fortified with experience, the professor believes they will not degenerate into alcoholics.

The Chafetz plan would start the child on spirits in the elementary grades and would take him through college on a varied diet of alcoholic beverages. This would not only stop thirsts but would help the kids with their social behavior problems, according to Dr. Chafetz. However, the program is highly scientific, as is everything that originates on the Harvard campus. No straight shots of bourbon and no dry martinis would be served in the first or second grade. Presumably this would be for older men and women, in high school. At first the wine list for tiny tots would be restricted to sherry and — eek! — this fermented grape juice would be diluted with water. If the child did not take the pledge at this point he would presumably go on to more delectable products of grape and grain. Unfortunately Dr. Chafetz did not clarify many points in his preliminary pitch. Will teachers be expected to match drinks with their young charges? Will all those casks and cases rolled into our public schools be underwritten by federal aid to education? Will that other Harvard Professor, Kenneth Galbraith, endorse this as part of the public sector of the affluent society?

FEATHER MERCHANTS

The national stockpile is in the news again and Republicans, like the Democrats before them, are beginning to believe they may find in it a mine of political ammunition. Over the years the United States has bought and is banking vast quantities of some 95 strategic items, from castor oil to pillow feathers, to tide the nation over in case of several years of war.

A Senate investigation of the stockpile program in 1962 disclosed that stockpile purchases had been eminently profitable to friends of certain figures in the Eisenhower administration, but the subject was not delved into in depth because they had been and presumably continued to be, politically profitable to not a few congressmen as well.

Lead and zinc are two examples of commodities over-purchased in the past only to subsidize producers and stimulate a sluggish market.

Now President Johnson's threat to turn loose quantities of stockpiled aluminum to force back a price rise has made the stockpile a partisan issue again.

The Republicans can be expected to concentrate on the questionable use of the stockpile as an economic weapon. If it could be wielded against the aluminum industry, could it not also be held over the heads of the producers of any of the other commodities?

But there are other questions that need to be asked.

Speaking of feathers, we now have more than 7 million pounds of them, enough to make twice as many pillows as the Department of Defense estimates would be needed in a three-year war.

Rubber was originally to be stockpiled to a maximum of 130,000 tons. There are now 663,000 tons in storage.

The tungsten stockpile, set at 44 million pounds, has swollen to nearly 159 million pounds. Castor oil is even worse. This source of jet engine lubricant has an original objective of 2 million pounds. We are swimming in 175 million pounds of it.

All of these not only cost tremendous amounts of money to buy, but to store.

The problem is to reduce them to logical levels. They can't be dumped on the market without depressing prices. Giving them away to foreigners would do the same thing to are international market. Throwing them into the sea might cost as much as just letting them sit.

A RECORD BREAKING YEAR

The president of the Edison Electric Institute has reported on the experience of the electric utility industry in 1965. It is quite a story.

For the first time in history, total electric output exceeded the all-but-incredible figure of one trillion kilowatt-hours. At the same time, the average price per kilowatt-hour of residential service dropped to an all-time low.

In generating capability, the United States is estimated to have increased its lead over the Soviet Union to 139 million kilowatts.

tomers were served during the year, bringing the total to more than 65.5 million. Of these, investor-owned utilities were serving about 51.5 million at the year's end.

The investor-owned companies paid some $2.90 billion in taxes during 1965 — about $97 million more than in 1964. Almost 23 cents of every dollar received by these utilities goes for taxes — as compared with about three cents for government-owned or financed power agencies.

Notable progress was made in atomic power. Seven contracts were awarded during the year by investor-owned companies for the construction of large nuclear plants with a total capacity of almost 4.4 million kilowatts — about four times the capacity now installed in the 12 nuclear power plants in operation.

At the end of the year, the investment in plant and equipment by the investor-owned tax-paying companies came to more than $30 billion.

BOY SCOUT WEEK

During the week of February 7-13, the 56th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America will be observed by more than 5,665,000 boys and adult leaders in 143,300 Scout units throughout the United States. Scouting is a tremendous force for good in the lives of millions of boys, broadening horizons and creating an inbuilt sense of responsibility and duty that can never be forgotten in later life.

Today, over 93,000 organizations use Cub Scouting, Boy Scouting and Exploring as a part of their own youth program for boys 8 through 17. The national organization charters Scout units annually, and they are sponsored by religious groups, schools and PTA's, service clubs, fraternal orders, veterans, governmental groups, business and industry, labor unions and other civic and community organizations. In line with their Promise, "To help other people at all times," Scouts and leaders will undertake service projects for their sponsoring institutions during their anniversary week.

Every Scout takes the following Oath: "On my honor I will do my best — To do my duty to God and my country and to obey the Scout Law; To help other people at all times; To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight." Any boy who makes this Oath an important part of his formative years will grow to be a man of which his family, his community and his nation may justly be proud. The Boy Scouts of America deserve the recognition, support and thanks of all of us during their anniversary week.

GREAT SOCIETY DARTS

Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois the other day aimed a few darts at the Great Society. The velvet-voiced Illinoisan jibed at the Johnson administration for promoting "the politics of beautification while the crime rate is up 15 percent in one year."

He added, "The Great Society is here — and so is the highest cost of living in history — and the defoliated dollar."

But Dirksen's deepest thrust came when he cited, "the case of two brothers: one, valedictorian of his high school class, in Viet Nam under enemy fire at $78 a month his brother, a school dropout who assaulted his teacher, working in the poverty programs Youth Corps for $200 a month running a power mower on a golf course."

A dart like that last one can rally hurt — unless, of course, the hides of the recipients have grown too thick.

New S.S. Provision Has Extra Benefit For 72 Year Olds

Many persons age 72 or older who can qualify for social security payments under a recent change have not yet applied, according to Gus Jones, social security district manager in Sherman.

A little-known amendment allows persons now 72 or older to qualify for a special benefit with less credit than is required for regular benefits. For example, a man who was at least 76, or a woman who was at least 73, in 1965 has to have only about nine months of covered work credit. Also, a widow who was at least 72 in 1965, whose husband either died or became 65 in 1954 or earlier, is eligible if her husband had about nine months of covered work.

This special benefit is a flat $35 a month, Jones said. Wife's benefits of $17.50 a month are payable at age 72 to a woman whose husband is entitled under this provision, if she reaches 72 before 1969.

Jones advised these persons to get in touch with the Sherman social security office as soon as possible. They can apply for payments and enroll for Medicare at the same time.

For the convenience of persons in the Gainesville area who find it difficult to visit the Sherman office, Nat Houston, Field Representative from Sherman, is in Gainesville each Tuesday and Thursday, from 9:30 until noon. His office is in the Federal Building.

Some people grow with responsibility; others just swell.

Lecturing a group of farmers on the latest contributions of chemistry to agriculture, the young scientist declared: "The time is coming when a farmer will be able to carry all the fertilizer for an acre of ground in one pants pocket." "Sure," granted an old farmer, "and all the crop in the other."

Nuns in Reunion At OLL All Send Greetings to Kin

When Father Alcuin Kubis was in San Antonio last week to visit his sister, Sister Florence Marie at Our Lady of the Lake Convent, a group of nuns, former Muenster and Lindsay residents, got together for a reunion at the convent. And they all sent greetings back to relatives and friends. Sister Florence Marie, mother superior at Our Lady of the Lake, has in recent months become afflicted with muscular dystrophy and supervises her work from a wheelchair. It was to personally check on her condition that Father Alcuin made the trip.

Other nuns in the get-together were Sister Helen Margaret Schad, Sister Bernice Trachta, Sister Dorothy Therese Zimmerer, Sister Ramona Bezner, Sister Marie Fuhrmann, Sister Catherine Henry Fuhrmann and Sister Mary Rose Zimmerer. Also Bernadette Bezner of Lindsay an aspirant.

On his return to Muenster Thursday Father Alcuin brought Sister Margaret Rohmer and Sister Ann Theodore Wiesman along to visit relatives.

Loretta Schmitt in College Who's Who

Miss Loretta Schmitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al J. Schmitt, Muenster, was elected to the 1966 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

The announcement was made by Sister Mary Emella, dean of Women at Our Lady of the Lake College in San Antonio.

Miss Schmitt, a senior, is Vice-President of the Our Lady of the Lake Chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity. She was selected on the basis of her academic achievement, proven leadership, participation in student affairs, and potential contribution to her community, said Sister Emella.

A 1962 graduate of Sacred Heart High School, Miss Schmitt was class salutatorian. Since her Sophomore year at Our Lady of the Lake, she has been active in the Student National Education Association.

Kansans Here for Visits With Kin

Kansans Mr. and Mrs. Odello Koelzer of Baileyville started back home Thursday after a five day visit with relatives of the Hoenig, Koelzer and Flusche relationship. They stopped here enroute to Kansas after a vacation in California with relatives.

They were houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Hoenig and made calls on other relatives. One day they accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hoenig to Carrollton to visit the Rupert Hoenigs and from there they all went to Dallas to see the place of President Kennedy's assassination and do other sight-seeing.

On the way back to Muenster the two couples stopped to visit other cousins, the Raymond and Lawrence Zimmerers and Joe J. Neus at Lindsay and the Henry Henscheids. They also enjoyed a tour of Muenster Hospital and Colonial Acres Farm.

Cathy Medders Is Feted at Surprise On 16th Birthday

A surprise party observed the 16th birthday of Miss Cathy Medders on Jan. 15 when Cathy was home for the weekend. She admitted more or less expecting a surprise party when she came from Hockaday in Dallas. She also admitted being somewhat disappointed by Saturday night when there was no mention of a party and no party plans around the house.

It was then that the family told her they were going to have a family dinner party at the Caravan in Gainesville. When the Ernest Medders family arrived at the Caravan, thirty young people were waiting to greet Cathy with happy birthday wishes. They were all guests for dinner, complete with a decorated cake. After dinner there was dancing. The Abstracts, a rock and roll band from Oklahoma City, played. And Cathy admitted it was the most surprising surprise she ever had.

St. John's Parish Has Observance on 20th Anniversary

St. John's Parish of Valley View celebrated Thursday night in observance of its 20th anniversary. It was established in January 1946, when the first Catholic Church for the city was dedicated upon debt-free completion Jan. 3 with 15 families as parishioners.

Key speakers after a covered dish supper were the three pastors who have served the parish. Father William Botik was first pastor and helped build the rectory. Monsignor Thomas Weinzapfel was second pastor. Both are now in Dallas. Father Anthony Gajda, present pastor, has served the parish for the past 14 years. All three reviewed parish history.

The event also honored Mrs. Mary Schmitz who has been closely associated with the parish during the 20 years of its existence. She was recognized and there was a decorated cake for her. It was her 75th birthday. She was the first and only parish housekeeper. She still cooks and cleans for the pastor — some of the meals are in her home — and since the beginning she has done the church and pastor's laundry. In appreciation for her services, parishioners gave her an automatic clothes dryer as a birthday present.

In 1946 St. John's was a mission parish administered by Father Paul Charcut of Pilot Point and his assistant Father Botik who later became first pastor. Father Charcut supervised the building program but was unable to attend the anniversary observance.

Among former parishioners, or those who were married there, back for the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Walterscheid, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Walterscheid and sons Johnny and Doug, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hess and sons Charles and Kevin all of Muenster, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Bierschenk and son Joe Bob of Lindsay and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Kupper and son Joe of Dallas.

Four Year Old Is Birthday Honoree

Craig Walterscheid who was four years old Monday celebrated his birthday Sunday at a dinner party in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Walterscheid.

Gifts, a decorated cake and picture taking were other highlights of the day. Guests were Craig's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Pelzel of Pilot Point and Mrs. C. M. Walterscheid of Muenster; godparents Mrs. Don Weber of Pilot Point and Leo Lawson of Muenster and uncles, aunts and cousins Miss Virginia Pelzel, Don Weber and little Dana Weber of Pilot Point, Tommy and Conrad Walterscheid, Mrs. Leo Lawson and Jimmy Lawson of Muenster and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Marcus and five children of Dallas.

Craig had another celebration Monday at kindergarten. He attends Gainesville Day Nursery where birthday observance of the little ones is a tradition.

Miss Walterscheid
Mr. Grewing Marry
At Nuptial Mass

Miss Shirley Walterscheid and Herman Grewing pledged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony at Nuptial Mass in Sacred Heart Church Saturday at 4 p.m. Father Alcuin Kubis officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Harold Walterscheid and Mr. and Mrs. John Grewing.

Presented in marriage by her uncle, Charlie Stelzer of Fort Worth, the bride wore a floor length gown of white peau and Alencon lace. Lace formed the fitted bodice and extended over the shoulders onto the long petal point sleeves. The slender skirt was accented with a back bow and a zip-off lace-embroidered shallow-tail cathedral train. A crown of bridal jewels held her shoulder-length veil and she carried a purple-throated white orchid and feathered carnations.

For something old and borrowed she carried a lace and linen handkerchief belonging to her mother. Her jewelry was a white gold necklace with a diamond teardrop, a parting gift from the Fort Worth Press.

Her three attendants wore full length dresses of Montega blue Skinner satin identically designed with bell skirts, fitted bodices and elbow-length sleeves. Their veiled headpieces matched their dresses and they carried colonial bouquets of white carnations.

Mrs. Richard Grewing was matron of honor, Miss Kaye Dolle of Fort Worth and Miss Doris Grewing, bridegroom's sister, were bridesmaids.

Richard Grewing was his brother's best man, Johnny Brown of Sherman and the bride's brother, Lambert Walterscheid were groomsmen.

Another brother, Delbert Walterscheid of Rockwall, and a cousin, Jim Krahl of Gainesville, ushered.

Mrs. Dave Walterscheid was vocal soloist before Mass presenting "Panis Angelicus," and again after the ceremony singing "Mother at Your Feet," for the bride's presentation of the traditional bouquet at the Blessed Virgin's altar. Anthony Luke, church organist, was accompanist. He remained at the console to assist the men's choir in furnishing music for the Mass.

Wedding reception and a banquet catered by Rohmer's Catering Service were held in the Parish Hall. Some 200 relatives and friends were guests. Mrs. Delbert Walterscheid and Mrs. Walter Grewing presided at the bride's book. The wedding dance was in the VFW Hall.

When they return from their honeymoon the newlyweds will be at home at 733 North

Volley Ball Teams
Start Practice and Plan Tournament

Volleyball in Muenster for 1966 is beginning to shape up. As of this week three teams are organized and practicing and planning for coming tournaments.

Sacred Heart Alumni has a men's and a ladies' team and will again be host for the Muenster tournament in Sacred Heart gym, probably early in March. The date will be set soon after a meeting scheduled this week by representatives of the several North Texas towns which hosted tournaments in recent years. Main reason for their confab is to avoid conflicting tournament dates.

The third of the local teams organized is that sponsored by Muenster Mill.

Work Starts on
'67 Auto Tags as
'66 Sales Begins

HUNTSVILLE — The 1966 auto license plates will be new to millions of Texas motorists but they are already past history at the state penitentiary where work starts soon on the 1967 tags.

Inmate workers at the Huntsville unit Texas Department of Corrections, turned out the last of 13,270,698 plates for 1966 at 11:10 a.m. Dec. 29.

To fill that order it took 11 months, averaging around 82,000 plates daily for Texas cars and trucks plus special plates for the Texas Railroad Commission, Parks and Wildlife Commission and cotton bale tags for the state's prison system.

Work on the 1967 order — totaling about 14 million plates — is to start Feb. 1.

Roland Lucas, inspector for the State Highway Department, said that the 1966 production was the highest in history. In 1950 only 7,797,442 plates were needed to meet the state's needs.

The 1966 tags have white figures on a black background and are due to be placed on sale at county tax collectors' offices over the state Feb. 1.

Soil Conservation
Essay Contest
Closes February 1

Herold Skaggs Chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District, reminds all high school students in the district that time is running out on the 1966 Essay Writing Contest.

February 1st is the closing date and all entries should be mailed to Harold Skaggs, Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, Upper Elm-Red SCD, Route 1, Sherman, Texas, on or before that date.

This year's contest is the sixth in which the local SCD has participated. The approved subject, "Conservation: The Key to Plenty", is a challenging subject to discuss. Certainly the youth of the district have a precious stake in the conservation of the soil and should be vitally interested in the conservation of it. Unless the soil is cared for and protected some of the youth may not have land available to them when they reach maturity. Conservation is therefore the key to plenty.

The Upper Elm-Red SCD Board will grant incentive awards of $15 for the best essay, $10 second place essay and $5 for the third best essay on this subject. The essay should be written in the student's words as much as possible and confined to not over 300 words. The best group of essays will be entered in the state-wide contest sponsored by the Fort Worth Press where a $200 award is given for the best essay on the subject in the State of Texas.

In a torture test of various flooring materials, it was found that a woman shod in high fashion shoes can put a pressure of 3,500 pounds per square inch beneath one heel. An elephant develops only 50 to 100 pounds pressure per square inch beneath its foot.

Graham Purcell Seeks Re-Election As Congressman

(WASHINGTON, D. C.) — Congressman Graham Purcell, Democrat of the 13th Congressional District of Texas, announced today in Washington that he will be a candidate for reelection in the 1966 elections.

Purcell, who was first elected in a special election in January, 1962, was reelected to the post in November, 1962, and November, 1964.

"It has been a real privilege for me to represent the people of North Texas in the U.S. House of Representatives during the past four years," said Purcell, "and I look forward to continuing my service in this position as I announce my candidacy for reelection today."

Purcell continued, "My record shows strong support for the best possible defense program. When I announced my candidacy for reelection two years ago, I said, 'We must always be ready to face the Communist threat in any locality from a position of strength. I believe we will do this under the firm leadership of President Lyndon Johnson.' Because of the problem of Vietnam, this statement stands even stronger today."

Referring to the new Congressional District lines drawn by the Texas Legislature last year and recently upheld by a Federal Court in Houston, Purcell stated, "I am grateful for the opportunity to extend my activities into the representation of a large part of Dallas County. I believe there are many common interests between the citizens of the Dallas area and the citizens of the eighteen other counties in this Congressional District. All of us have the same objective, working toward all that is in the best interests of Texas and our Nation."

"In the complicated and fast moving world of today, there is no substitute for current experience. Knowledge of the present situation and personalities, along with tenure of service, is vital to effective service in the Congress. On the basis of my experience, my record in the Congress, and continued desire for public service, I offer my candidacy."

Two cows — one owned by Hi-Lo Farms and the other by Paul Fetsch — tied for honors in butterfat content. The two cows tested 4.0 per cent.

Vernon Friedrich led the association in herd average for the month. His cows produced an average of 1,360 pounds of milk and 47 pounds of butterfat to lead all others in the association. During the month, Friedrich milked 26 cows.

Eight herds were tested during the month and 93 cows produced 50 pounds or more of butterfat. Average pounds of butterfat per cow in the association was 37 and average pounds of milk per cow was 1,020.

Nine cows produced a ton or more of milk during the month. They are in herds owned by Peter Prescher, Hi-Lo Farms, Fisher, Richard Frasher and Fetsch.

"Just what's my trouble, Doc?" the patient asked. "I'm not too sure," he replied, "but if you were a building, you'd be condemned."

NOTES FROM

BY WALTER CHALUPNIK, CHIEF HORTICULTURIST
HODGES GARDENS, MARY, LOUISIANA

Notes for the Second Half of January

In my previous notes, I mentioned that popular Southern Indica and Kurume Azaleas "bloom about the same time." By "same time" I meant in our area, which is about the end of March. In areas closer to the Gulf the same varieties bloom one month earlier. There are some other Azaleas with an even larger spectrum of colors than Southern Indicas, which bloom later. Some bloom very late in the Spring and can prolong "Azalea time." We have a large collection of these "uncommon" Azaleas in Hodges Gardens. Why don't you try them?

Macranthas

Macrantha Azaleas are late blooming evergreen species from central and southern Japan. Although the plants and flowers are not as large as Southern Indicas, they are larger than Kurumes. They need several years to get established, but after they have been, will make a fine display usually about two weeks later than Indicas. They do best in full sun. They are supposed to be quite hardy, according to many sources, but our experience with them indicates that possibly the plants are hardy but not the buds. We have both single and double Macranthas.

White and Pink Gumpo Macranthas are very dwarf and have spreading bushes bearing large white or pink flowers. They bloom very late in June. Glenn Dale hybrids are cold hardy even in the middle Atlantic states and cover the blooming season from April to May in our area. They are the work of Mr. B. Y. Morrison, formerly head of the Division of Plant Exploration and Introduction USDA. He is now retired and lives at Pass Christian, Miss. No other Azaleas have such a wide range of parents used for hybridization. As a result they have a wide range of colors, including speckled picotees and striped ones, large sized to really tiny blooms, and are early, midseason and late bloomers. Varieties are too numerous for me to mention here. They are available through nurseries and garden centers and will make your Azalea garden so much nicer.

Wild Azaleas

In addition to cultivated Azaleas, there are some beautiful Azaleas called native or wild (if they live in their natural habitats). Ours are much admired by thousands of visitors. Some like Azaleas Canescens or rarer Azalea oblongifolia (white, blooms in May) are native to our area. Some belong to Alabama, Georgia and the middle Atlantic States. Azalea Alabamense is white with a green throat and has a spicy fragrance. Azalea Austrinum with very attractive, golden yellow flowers blooms a few weeks after our native pink A. canescens. The very late fascinating Azalea prunifolia, which blooms in July, has beautiful red flowers. Some can be purchased in nurseries in Louisiana or Texas while others can be obtained only in Georgia. If you want them, try to get them already grown in the nurseries. Please do not dig them out of the woods. In the first place, most of them will not survive, and secondly, if the practice of digging them in the fields continues, all of them will be extinct soon.

Tax Hike Due to Support Growth of State Colleges

AUSTIN, A substantial tax increase will be need next year to provide for fast growing colleges and universities.

Frank Erwin, chairman of the Committee for the Governing Board of Texas Colleges and Universities, estimates that higher-education expenditures will go up $100,000,000 for the coming biennium — above the present $432,000,000 budget. That's a hike of nearly 25 per cent.

Some authorities feel that increased expenditures for education will run closer to $170,000,000.

Erwin predicted that college-university enrollment will double by the early 1970's and admitted that the task of providing facilities for all appears virtually hopeless.

Texas, he said, must be as enthusiastic in support of new taxes for education as they were in backing increased appropriations last year.

Other sources said the higher education budget looming next year may reach $650,000,000. In that event about $500,000,000 may have to come from direct taxation.

Should an increase as large as now foreseen become necessary, pressure almost certainly would be removed to hike the $50 a semester tuition fee required at state institutions. In the past, however legislators have been quicker to raise taxes than tuitions.

Mouth Breathing Can Affect Child's Teeth and Health

Mouth breathing can affect your child's dental and physical health. Parents generally realize that some oral habits, such as thumb-sucking, when carried too far in the child's age, affect the teeth in such a way as to push them into abnormal positions. Thumb-sucking is only one of the so-called "bad" habits. Mouth breathing can also be detrimental to a child's health. It is often overlooked and undetected. The importance of proper attention for mouth breathers is stressed this winter during the 18th National Children's

Dental Health Week, sponsored Feb. 6-12 by the American Dental Association. Mouth breathing means that the individual has a habit of breathing through the mouth. When this occurs continuously, the gum tissues are irritated through the drying effects of the air. The tissues become inflamed, sometimes swollen and even painful. Mouth breathing can contribute to a different kind of tooth decay pattern than usually seen. The typical mouth breather shows large whitish soft spots around the gum line of the front teeth, the result of drying of the foreign material that collects about the necks of the teeth. A continual mouth breather often develops a change in the position of the teeth, or in other terms, may also develop a malocclusion.

When the child continually holds his mouth open, the muscular support of the tongue and lower lip are lost to the upper teeth. The teeth collapse toward the inside of the mouth thereby narrowing the dental arch. Often the front teeth will begin to protrude. When the child continually breathes through his mouth, the air does not pass through the nose, missing the important function that the nose plays in preparing the air for the lungs. As dry, dirty, cold air from the outside passes through the nose, the air is filtered by the hairs in the nose; it is warmed by the large mass of blood vessels that are inside the nose, and is humidified by the moisture that the nose contains. Mouth breathing usually will result in an increase in upper respiratory infections. The child will have more colds, or even suffer a more serious lung problem.

Not every child who breathes through his mouth should be considered a mouth breather, for many children have short upper lips and will keep their mouths open while breathing through their nose. Who then, becomes a mouth breather? Children with narrow faces have a tendency to have narrow airways or noses, easily closed off because of a minor cold. Some children will have enlarged adenoid or tonsil tissue, which normally grows in excess up to about 10 years of age and then diminishes in size. During this period, the airway may be obstructed by the tonsils. The child is forced to breathe through his mouth until he outgrows his enlarged tonsils. He develops a breathing habit not easily corrected. Mouth breathing is very common between the ages of 4-12 and is easily diagnosed by your physician or dentist. It should be corrected to prevent harmful dental and physical effects.

All on S.S. Rolls Will Get Forms to Apply for Medicare

Public welfare offices in the three counties served by the Sherman social security office will mail the necessary Medicare application forms to its old-age assistance recipients for them to complete, Gus Jones, district manager announced today. The applications will then be processed in his office.

"Nearly all of these elderly persons would automatically qualify for hospital benefits next July by filing an application," according to Jones. "The State Department of Public Welfare will provide an additional $3 a month for old-age recipients who sign up for optional medical part of the plan. This is to cover the $3 a month premium cost. The medical coverage will help meet the cost of doctor bills and other medical expenses for all those over 65 receiving assistance payments."

The Department of Public Welfare has advised that the present hospitalization coverage it provides through Blue Cross, for old-age assistance recipients, will end June 30, 1966. The Medicare program will take its place, Jones said. All other persons age 65 and over who have not applied for Medicare are advised to do so, Jones added. The Social Security District Office is located at 315 West Mulberry. Persons in the Gainesville area may contact Nat Houston, Field Representative from the Sherman office, any Tuesday or Thursday from 9:30 a.m. until noon, in the Federal Building in Gainesville. He will be glad to assist anyone who needs to file for Medicare or for other benefits available under the social security program.

FHA Fashion Show, MOD Film, Program At PTA Meeting

Members of Muenster Parent-Teachers Association enjoyed a double program at their January meeting Monday night in the school auditorium. They saw a style show and a film.

The homemaking class presented the fashion show, modeling garments made in class and as home projects. Thirty-two girls participated in the sewing classes and most of them made two garments.

They modeled A-line skirts and simple blouses, shifts and Empire dresses and tailored suits or coats. Rose Knabe gave the commentary.

Theme of the show was "Swing into Spring." The stage was transformed into a garden scene with a swing and lawn furniture. Mrs. Henry Weinzapfel, FHA Chapter Advisor, assisted the girls in staging the show.

The film was a March of Dimes feature from the National Foundation showing the work of the Foundation in fighting birth defects. It was shown by Muenster VFW Auxiliary members who are sponsoring the annual March of Dimes campaign in Muenster.

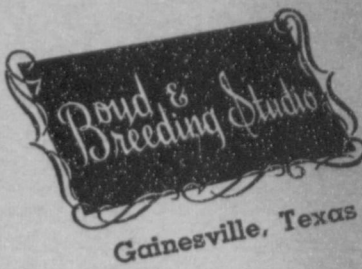

Business was brief and routine with reports and announcements. Tim Stormer, president, presided. Superintendent L. B. Bruns told about the pre-school classes which began this week and about the remedial reading program which will get under way soon.

PTA offered to buy new overhead projectors for classroom use after a report that projectors were needed.

Following business there was a social hour with punch and cookies served by the homemaking class to a large number of members.

Homecoming of Native Religious Shapes at Lindsay

A special program at Lindsay observing the centennial year of the Sisters of Divine Providence is snowballing into a major homecoming event.

The program was planned for Sunday, February 13, in the Lindsay school gym to honor the families of fifty five native sons and daughters now serving in the religious life as priests, brothers and sisters.

Mother Mary Amata of Our Lady of the Lake Convent responded with special permission to all home town nuns of Lindsay in the congregation of Divine Providence to attend the function. There are twenty seven of them.

With about half of its native religious already invited to the event, Lindsay decided to go all the way. It is sending invitations to all of the home town sisters, brothers and priests for the town's all time biggest religious homecoming.

Hosting organization for the special program will be the Teen Age Library Association headed by Dianne Zimmerer and assisted by Mrs. V. S. Payne and Mrs. Lambert Bezner. Mayor Joe Bezner will be master of ceremonies and will present the twenty one families who gave fifty five of their members into the service of God.

Also on the program will be folk songs, dances and choral reading by elementary school children. And refreshments will be served by high school students under direction of Misses Linda Hoelker and Paula Schmitz.

Pre-nuptial Fetes For Marcy Neu and Ray Wm. Bezner

Two social events honored Miss Marcy Neu and her fiancé, Ray William Bezner, who will marry Jan. 29.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bezner of Lindsay entertained in their home with an evening party. Couples were guests and games of Charades furnished entertainment. Refreshments were placed on a table covered with white linen using crystal appointments. This was decorated with feather flowers and firebirds in white and fuschia colors.

A host gift was presented. Mrs. Joe Bezner and daughters, Barbara and Mrs. Roy Morrisak, entertained for Miss Neu in their Lindsay home Sunday afternoon. A shower of lingerie gifts was presented the honoree and punch and cake were served to 15. The chosen colors decorated the refreshment table and the gifts were placed on another table under a pretty umbrella in these colors.

"It must be a positive delight to meet a man whom you feel you can trust," remarked a customer.

President Asks for Early Step-up in Postal Services

President Johnson today directed Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien to take steps to increase window service where needed in some 15,000 post offices, and to resume six-day-a-week parcel post delivery in 6,091 cities.

"A good, stable, dependable postal system is vital to the well being of the nation's economy," President Johnson said, in granting the Postmaster General authority to seek service improvement funds from Congress. "I want you to explore all the techniques available to modernize our postal service and make certain they are being used to provide the American people with the best postal system in the world at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayer." The Postmaster General said that the service improvement will be made as soon as Congress provides the funds — hopefully within next months.

Authority to make the postal service improvements was contained in a letter to the Postmaster General, replying to a proposal by Mr. O'Brien that such action be taken.

Under the Postmaster General's proposal, six-day parcel post delivery would be restored in 6,091 cities where delivery routes served by foot carriers are now receiving parcel post delivery only five days a week. One delivery day is skipped each week in these cities, though on routes served by mounted carriers, six-day parcel delivery has been maintained. Post Office window service on Saturdays — and, in cases, Sundays would be authorized on an as needed basis in nearly 15,000 post offices. Late-window-hour service would also be resumed on week nights, where needed.

Postmasters would be authorized to resume selling money orders on Saturdays as part of the window service restoration in these cities where money order sales have been curtailed.

Postmaster General O'Brien said that the service improvements would be a meaningful step in the President's program to upgrade the quality of Federal services.

Post Office window hours and parcel post delivery service were cut back by the Post Office Department as an economy measure in May 1964.

Notify Bruns if Child Was Missed In School Census

As the deadline approaches for the 1966 scholastic census, Superintendent L. B. Bruns reports this week that so far as he knows all contacts have been made and preparation for the final listing is under way.

If a family was not contacted up to now it has been missed, he said. He urgently asks that such a family notify him promptly. It's important to the school and the children, because each child missed means the loss of one per capita allotment of revenue from the state.

Brun also said a few parents can be helpful by signing and sending back their census forms immediately.

To these figures should be added untold hundreds of thousands more who may develop diabetes if they don't follow a balanced diet, keep their weight down and have periodic physical examinations by doctors to detect early changes in how their bodies use sugar.

Mouth Breathing Can Affect Child's Teeth and Health

Mouth breathing can affect your child's dental and physical health. Parents generally realize that some oral habits, such as thumb-sucking, when carried too far in the child's age, affect the teeth in such a way as to push them into abnormal positions. Thumb-sucking is only one of the so-called "bad" habits. Mouth breathing can also be detrimental to a child's health. It is often overlooked and undetected. The importance of proper attention for mouth breathers is stressed this winter during the 18th National Children's

Dental Health Week, sponsored Feb. 6-12 by the American Dental Association. Mouth breathing means that the individual has a habit of breathing through the mouth. When this occurs continuously, the gum tissues are irritated through the drying effects of the air. The tissues become inflamed, sometimes swollen and even painful.

Mouth breathing can contribute to a different kind of tooth decay pattern than usually seen. The typical mouth breather shows large whitish soft spots around the gum line of the front teeth, the result of drying of the foreign material that collects about the necks of the teeth. A continual mouth breather often develops a change in the position of the teeth, or in other terms, may also develop a malocclusion.

When the child continually holds his mouth open, the muscular support of the tongue and lower lip are lost to the upper teeth. The teeth collapse toward the inside of the mouth thereby narrowing the dental arch. Often the front teeth will begin to protrude.

When the child continually breathes through his mouth, the air does not pass through the nose, missing the important function that the nose plays in preparing the air for the lungs. As dry, dirty, cold air from the outside passes through the nose, the air is filtered by the hairs in the nose; it is warmed by the large mass of blood vessels that are inside the nose, and is humidified by the moisture that the nose contains. Mouth breathing usually will result in an increase in upper respiratory infections. The child will have more colds, or even suffer a more serious lung problem.

Not every child who breathes through his mouth should be considered a mouth breather, for many children have short upper lips and will keep their mouths open while breathing through their nose. Who then, becomes a mouth breather? Children with narrow faces have a tendency to have narrow airways or noses, easily closed off because of a minor cold. Some children will have enlarged adenoid or tonsil tissue, which normally grows in excess up to about 10 years of age and then diminishes in size. During this period, the airway may be obstructed by the tonsils. The child is forced to breathe through his mouth until he outgrows his enlarged tonsils. He develops a breathing habit not easily corrected. Mouth breathing is very common between the ages of 4-12 and is easily diagnosed by your physician or dentist. It should be corrected to prevent harmful dental and physical effects.

All on S.S. Rolls Will Get Forms to Apply for Medicare

Public welfare offices in the three counties served by the Sherman social security office will mail the necessary Medicare application forms to its old-age assistance recipients for them to complete, Gus Jones, district manager announced today. The applications will then be processed in his office. "Nearly all of these elderly persons would automatically qualify for hospital benefits next July by filing an application," according to Jones. "The State Department of Public Welfare will provide an additional $3 a month for old-age recipients who sign up for optional medical part of the plan. This is to cover the $3 a month premium cost. The medical coverage will help meet the cost of doctor bills and other medical expenses for all those over 65 receiving assistance payments."

The Department of Public Welfare has advised that the present hospitalization coverage it provides through Blue Cross, for old-age assistance recipients, will end June 30, 1966. The Medicare program will take its place, Jones said. All other persons age 65 and over who have not applied for Medicare are advised to do so, Jones added. The Social Security District Office is located at 315 West Mulberry.

Persons in the Gainesville area may contact Nat Houston, Field Representative from the Sherman office, any Tuesday or Thursday from 9:30 a.m. until noon, in the Federal Building in Gainesville. He will be glad to assist anyone who needs to file for Medicare or for other benefits available under the social security program.

FHA Fashion Show, MOD Film, Program At PTA Meeting

Members of Muenster Parent-Teachers Association enjoyed a double program at their January meeting Monday night in the school auditorium. They saw a style show and a film.

The homemaking class presented the fashion show, modeling garments made in class and as home projects. Thirty-two girls participated in the sewing classes and most of them made two garments.

They modeled A-line skirts and simple blouses, shifts and Empire dresses and tailored suits or coats. Rose Knabe gave the commentary.

Theme of the show was "Swing into Spring." The stage was transformed into a garden scene with a swing and lawn furniture. Mrs. Henry Weinzapfel, FHA Chapter Advisor, assisted the girls in staging the show.

The film was a March of Dimes feature from the National Foundation showing the work of the Foundation in fighting birth defects. It was shown by Muenster VFW Auxiliary members who are sponsoring the annual March of Dimes campaign in Muenster.

Business was brief and routine with reports and announcements. Tim Stormer, president, presided. Superintendent L. B. Brunts told about the pre-school classes which began this week and about the remedial reading program which will get under way soon.

PTA offered to buy new overhead projectors for classroom use after a report that projectors were needed.

Following business there was a social hour with punch and cookies served by the homemaking class to a large number of members.

Homecoming of Native Religious Shapes at Lindsay

A special program at Lindsay observing the centennial year of the Sisters of Divine Providence is snowballing into a major homecoming event.

The program was planned for Sunday, February 13, in the Lindsay school gym to honor the families of fifty five native sons and daughters now serving in the religious life as priests, brothers and sisters.

Mother Mary Amata of Our Lady of the Lake Convent responded with special permission to all home town nuns of Lindsay in the congregation of Divine Providence to attend the function. There are twenty seven of them.

With about half of its native religious already invited to the event, Lindsay decided to go all the way. It is sending invitations to all of the home town sisters, brothers and priests for the town's all time biggest religious homecoming.

Hosting organization for the special program will be the Teen Age Library Association headed by Dianne Zimmerman and assisted by Mrs. V. S. Payne and Mrs. Lambert Bezner. Mayor Joe Bezner will be master of ceremonies and will present the twenty one families who gave fifty five of their members into the service of God.

Also on the program will be folk songs, dances and choral reading by elementary school children. And refreshments will be served by high school students under direction of Misses Linda Hoelker and Paula Schmitz.

President Asks for Early Step-up in Postal Services

President Johnson today directed Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien to take steps to increase window service where needed in some 15,000 post offices, and to resume six-day-a-week parcel post delivery in 6,091 cities.

"A good, stable, dependable postal system is vital to the well being of the nation's economy," President Johnson said, in granting the Postmaster General authority to seek service improvement funds from Congress. "I want you to explore all the techniques available to modernize our postal service and make certain they are being used to provide the American people with the best postal system in the world at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayer."

The Postmaster General said that the service improvement will be made as soon as Congress provides the funds — hopefully within next months.

Authority to make the postal service improvements was contained in a letter to the Postmaster General, replying to a proposal by Mr. O'Brien that such action be taken.

Under the Postmaster General's proposal, six-day parcel post delivery would be restored in 6,091 cities where delivery routes served by foot carriers are now receiving parcel post delivery only five days a week. One delivery day is skipped each week in these cities, though on routes served by mounted carriers, six-day parcel delivery has been maintained. Post Office window service on Saturdays — and, in cases, Sundays would be authorized on an as needed basis in nearly 15,000 post offices. Late-window-hour service would also be resumed on week nights, where needed.

Postmasters would be authorized to resume selling money orders on Saturdays as part of the window service restoration in these cities where money order sales have been curtailed.

Postmaster General O'Brien said that the service improvements would be a meaningful step in the President's program to upgrade the quality of Federal services.

Post Office window hours and parcel post delivery service were cut back by the Post Office Department as an economy measure in May 1964.
