Tippie Succeeds Arnn as Head Man Of SCS Area 4

John W. "Dub" Tippie, head of the Muenster Soil Conservation Service work unit since 1959, is the new area conservationist to succeed John Arnn, who was recently promoted to assistant state conservationist. Tippie's new assignment was revealed Monday. Arnn's was announced last week. Tippie's successor will be appointed later.

Both promotions become effective on January 16, when Arnn begins working in the state SCS office at Temple. Tippie's new location is the Area 4 SCS office in the Federal Building at Gainesville. Included in Area 4 are Cooke, Grayson, Fannin and Montague counties and parts of Young, Jack and Wise Counties.

Tippie, a native of Oklahoma, has been working in the Soil Conservation Service since 1953. He was located in the Denton and Whitesboro offices before coming here as work unit conservationist. Arnn is a native of Childress and has been with SCS since 1937. Before coming to Gainesville he was located in Brownwood, Uvalde, Pleasanton, Victoria and Eagle Pass. This column heartily favors the President's good intentions, provided he is ready to dictate rather than dicker. That's because the reds are still convinced they will be the eventual winners and therefore aren't willing to concede an inch to us. Talks under such conditions are not fruitful. In fact, we're probably better off without them. To spend time on negotiations provides a lot of time during which the enemy can improve his position for later continuation of the fight. After a while we find out that little has been negotiated but plenty has been manipulated. It happened that way in Korea.

Frequent reports of treachery and atrocity indicate that the war is getting as dirty as the beastly mind of a communist can make it. The Cong murder children to terrorize villagers into submission, exploit women and children in carrying out surprise raids. It's a situation in which fair fighters are at a disadvantage. And it's even worse because our troops and the South Vietnamese are being forced to fight on a man to man basis against an enemy of unlimited manpower. The reds are the winners if they can manage to swap out with us, even if they have to give up two or three for each one of ours.

We can't afford that kind of war. Prudence demands that we use a method more favorable to ourselves. And reports seem to indicate that LBJ has such a plan in mind — that he's offering an opportunity to come and reason with him now or bear the consequence of the kind of rough stuff we can dish out.

As this thing is going now it would be extremely costly in human life to seek out the enemies and destroy them in South Vietnam. Very likely it's even impossible if they are allowed to continue infiltrating from North Vietnam. But there is a simple solution. To tell the aggressors of the North that their days are numbered unless they call their troops back home. If that warning is not heeded the only course remaining is to annihilate the source of trouble. We have the ability to do it, and also the right to do it. Furthermore common sense demands that we do it. Experience taught us in Korea that failure to do it would be a tragic mistake.

Of course there are some who are wailing now as they did then that a real offensive against the real enemy might trigger a big war. Possibly that's true. More likely it isn't. According to a sizeup of potential shown in this week's US News and World Report, the reds are far from ready for the show down. They would not dare to back up their bluffs.

In fact, the situation prompts us to wonder why more thought isn't given to plans to liberating the rest of Asia as well as South Vietnam. Chinese Nationalists have waited fifteen years for the chance to drive the red scourge from their homeland. They are dedicated, well trained, well equipped troops, often referred to as the best in Asia. They have been ready for years, and are believed to have a very good chance at success if given the opportunity to invade the mainland. The odds were no better for Franco when he returned and added volunteers by the thousands on his march of liberation in Spain.

So, who's worried about triggering a big war in Asia? Red Chinese, those making the biggest noise, know about the Nationalists and would

Auxiliary to VFW Maps Program for March of Dimes

Muenster VFW Auxiliary members at their December meeting Monday night mapped plans for the annual March of Dimes campaign they will sponsor again this year.

Mrs. Don Flusche is general chairman and all members are assistants. Principal events in connection with the drive are a church door collection on January 30, showing of the national chapter's new films at January meetings of the Public School Parent Teachers Association and Sacred Heart Home-School Society, and the placing of small banks in local business houses.

Three members, Mrs. Raymond Walterscheid, president, and Mmes. Norbert and Hank Walterscheid, attended the county's kick-off banquet at which time key workers were acquainted with campaign activity through films and talks. All funds collected in the March of Dimes are now used to fight birth defects.

Participation in the campaign is an honor roll requirement for January. The other is a contribution from the organization's treasury to the memorial chapel in Austin.

With the contribution goes the privilege of having a deceased veteran's name inscribed. The name submitted by the organization this year is that of Walter Becker.

In other business, Mrs. Arthur Felderhoff reported on the Americanism contest sponsored by the Auxiliary and other chairmen gave reports. Twenty members were present.

After adjournment, Mmes. Arthur Bayer and Danny Wilson were refreshment hostesses for a cold buffet and Mrs. G. D. Wylie won the door prize.

Enrollment Set Monday For Pre-School Program

A pre-school program for Muenster Public School has been approved under the Elementary Secondary Education Act passed by Congress in 1965.

Superintendent L. B. Bruns announced this week that an allotment has been approved for a three phase program headed by the pre-school class, which will be organized as soon as possible.

Enrollment of the pre-schoolers is set for next Monday, January 10, at 9 a.m. in the principal's office. Children eligible are those who were five years old on or before September 1, 1965 — those who will be qualified as first graders when the next school year starts.

Registration will be the same as for a first grader. A birth certificate or baptismal certificate is required as proof of age and a doctor's certificate is required to show that the usual examination was made of eyes, ears, nose and throat and usual immunization shots were given. Class assignments will be made after the registration, when the enrollment will indicate whether one or two classes will be set up.

Teacher of the pre-schoolers is a new member on the public school faculty. She is Mrs. Jim Christian, who has a master's degree from North Texas State University and has taught 27 years in Cooke County schools — at Hays, Myra, Era and Walnut Bend.

Felderhoff Loses Barn and Hay in New Year Blaze

A barn fire when the new year was only two hours old became the first item on the Muenster Fire Department's 1966 log.

It was on the Hubert Felderhoff farm about six miles northwest of town and was discovered by the Joe Knaufs. By the time firemen and others arrived it was well advanced and the firemen stood by to keep it from spreading. But that proved to be unnecessary. Grass surrounding it was so damp that burning cinders were unable to ignite it. Later a rain removed even a remote possibility of spreading.

The barn was a sheet metal quonset type structure filled with about 120 tons of prairie hay. Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Sacred Heart Sets Exam January 15 For H.S. Entrance

Eighth graders of Sacred Heart School will take high school entrance examinations Saturday of next week, January 15. All students who plan to attend Sacred Heart High School in 1966-67 are asked to report for the test.

Sister Geraldine, principal, said the exam is being given in all the parochial high schools of the Dallas-Fort Worth Diocese in order to get information for early planning of the next year's work. It has been very helpful to all the diocesan schools by revealing the approximate number to be expected in each class. It is not 100 per cent correct because some students change their minds before September. Even so the report on the exam can be helpful to a student enrolling in another school.

The public had an opportunity to see the first two films in Sacred Heart High gym on Tuesday and the other three in MHS auditorium Thursday.

SHH Observes Film Appreciation Week

Film Appreciation Week was observed at Sacred Heart High School this week with a series of films shown by Father Benedict.

The five films were entitled: Elements of the Film, Visual Language of the Film, The Nature of the Film Medium, Film As an Art, and War on Gobbledygook.

The public had an opportunity to see the first two films in Sacred Heart High gym on Tuesday and the other three in MHS auditorium Thursday.

A SPIRIT OF GOOD PUBLIC POLICY

The American Medical Association, as is generally known, opposed the medicare bill with all the resources at its command. It did this for just one reason, the reason being that the medical profession believes that the law and the philosophy behind it are basically unsound and threaten the high standards of medical practice that prevail in this country.

However, the AMA is definitely not taking a dog in the manger attitude. Instead, it is cooperating with the government in the hope that procedures and policies can be adopted so far as the administration of medicare is concerned that will make the best of matters.

A New York Times News Service dispatch quotes the director of the Social Security Administration's Bureau of Health Insurance as praising the AMA and other professional organizations for their cooperation in setting up technical panels and saying: "Physicians are not evidencing any change in view about the desirability of the legislation. But they are cooperating in a spirit of public policy and sound medical practice." In other words, while most doctors still are certain that medicare is a mistaken piece of legislation, they are taking a strongly constructive attitude in their relationship to it.

There is another aspect to all this. The AMA's president, Dr. James Z. Appel, stressed it when he said that the members of the Association "must take every action possible to preserve and strengthen the freedom of decision making by physicians, and to insure that the blame for the harmful effects of Medicare will not be placed upon our shoulders." Most physicians, as the record is demonstrating, will do all that they can to make medicare work to the benefit of the patient. But they are not responsible for the program's built-in defects and dangers.

IN A FREE SOCIETY

During the second session of Congress an all-out drive will be made to repeal section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartley Act — the section which authorizes the states to pass right-to-work laws. These laws say, in effect, that it is up to each individual worker to decide for himself whether he wishes to join a union or not, and that he cannot be compelled to do so on pain of losing his job.

The House voted to repeal 14(b) during the first session. But a determined group of Senators, representing both the parties, prevented action in the Senate.

We will soon know whether union political power is sufficient to abrogate a right which would seem absolutely basic in a free society. Strict laws forbid discrimination against workers on such grounds as race, creed, color and sex. But without right-to-work, the law supports, and to all intents and purposes enforces, discrimination of the most absolute kind against workers who for their own reasons do not wish to become union members.

A Congress which turns its back on the right-to-work principle has small regard for human freedom. It is not antipathetic to support freedom of choice.

DRAMATIZING A FRAUD

We're not imparting any new and startling information in pointing out that Communism is the greatest fraud ever perpetrated on mankind, but now and then something happens which dramatizes the fantastic extent of the swindle.

There was such a case in East Germany only a few weeks ago when Erich Apel, chief economic planner for that Communist country, committed suicide. And what caused Herr Apel to take this step? Even he, Communist that he was, could no longer condone the greedy plundering of his fellow-Germans by the rapacious Russians.

So, with his death, the world learned another lesson about the Communist system, which is supposed to end man's inhumanity to man and stop the exploitation of the oppressed.

What Apel was protesting was customary Soviet economic practice which bleeds every satellite of the USSR to build up the Marxist fatherland. In this case, Apel's death disclosed that East Germany was required to deliver the Soviets more than 50 percent of all its exports, but the Red bosses fixed the prices and these ranged from 15 to 30 percent less than the Germans could have gotten for their products if they had been permitted to sell them to anyone else. The other side of the coin was even worse. East Germany was required to buy from the Russians vast quantities of essential goods — coal, crude oil, pig iron, etc. — at fantastically high prices. Oil cost the Germans 84.5 percent more than current world prices; pig iron 36.1 more.

Think of this next time you read one of those magazine pieces telling how life in the Soviet Union is gradually becoming better. Think of it the next time you hear a college professor — not really a Communist, mind, only a Marxist — pontificate on the glories of Socialism as compared with capitalism. Give it some thought when you see some of those weirdies trudging around with their picket signs denouncing U.S. imperialism. Ponder it the next time you hear cackling in the UN which expresses the same idea.

And come to think of it, we haven't heard any protests in the UN on Herr Apel's sacrifice, although it was obviously made to call attention to Soviet imperialism. Nor have there been any teach-ins.

REALLY A BARGAIN

Rising prices bedevil great numbers of American families. Inflation has cut deeply into the dollar's purchasing power and continues to cut. Yet, there are essentials that all of us buy which can be regarded as bargains today. And one of them is food.

A publication of an eastern food chain system tells the story. In 1912, the average family had an income of $11 a week and spent 40 per cent of it on food. Today that average income exceeds $125 and only $25 of it goes for food — and it is more and better food.

Comparisons with other countries are revealing too. The American worker's food bill runs to about 19 per cent of his earnings. In England, the figure is 29 per cent; in France 31 per cent; in Italy 45 per cent — and in Russia, a staggering 53 per cent!

The productive power and efficiency of the American farmer must be given much of the credit for this. But other factors play a major role as well. That is the case with American retailing. Working on the mass distribution principle, typical retailers operate at a profit that is almost unbelievably low. The chain store publication points out that the average family spends $1,170 a year for its food — and the average retail profit on that sum is just $15. Yes — food is really a bargain.

precisely the same stuff that's peddled, without music, in The Worker and other Communist hate sheets.

It is regrettable that the American public is silly enough to make the proletarian warblers rich by thronging to their hootenannies, by buying their records, which can be found in every record shop, and by not protesting when TV networks foist them off on viewers. But since the public tolerates these red-throated warblers, we'd like to offer a few suggestions to the folksingers themselves—specifically some new subjects for their repertory.

How about a song telling of some poor devil shot down by Communist guards as he tried to escape through the Berlin wall? And how about a few tear-jerkers about Communist slave labor camps? We'd like to recommend, too, a few ditties about the Hungarian Freedom Fighters and how they were slaughtered by Krushchev's Mongolians. Surely these talented songbirds should be able to whip up a few verses about the poor wretches sent to the wall by Castro's execution squads. And we'd relish hearing a heart-throbbing describing kids in Saigon being blown to bits by Viet Cong grenades.

There's so much to sing about, if the wayward minstrels would get out of their all too familiar groove. However, they aren't likely to, and so we'll make another suggestion: Why not get in character, throw away the guitars and use balalaikas? And give us the pitch in Russia.

RUSSIAN ROULETTE

The solution to the ever growing national debt, the continuing balance of payment deficits, and the world lack of confidence in the dollar is a simple one. Every solvent family knows the answer: Quit spending more than you take in. But that, of course, would mean abandoning the fantasies of domestic and global Utopias. The medicine will have to be taken sooner or later. Why not now? Well, the answer to that is, our "leaders" hope that, by the time the crash actually comes, they will already have theirs and be out from under the gun.

KREMLINIZED FOLK MUSIC

We have nothing against folk-singers as such. Most of these minstrels do right well by the old, nostalgic ballads that everyone loves. However, there is a new school of folk-singers that we can very well do without. These are out-and-out propagandists who use the folk-song medium to put across musical versions of the Communist Party line.

It's easy to spot them, apart from their general appearance. They are people with a "message," insinuating certain points in the vocalizing and gee-tar plunking. The war in the faraway jungle is a wicked, wicked war and it's time we called for peace. Rich man hates poor and works him to death. White man hates black man and lynches him on a fiery cross. Black man will rise and wipe out exploiters. Generals and rich folks want to blow up the world with atomic bombs. Poor man does all the work, builds all the buildings, and gets nothing in return —

Show Barn, Scene Of Gala New Year Fete for 350 Teens

Colonial Acres' new show barn was the scene of a gala New Year Eve party, rivaling on a smaller scale, the big barn-warming of Nov. 23. It was the last big social event in the building for some time. Miss Cathy Medders was hostess for some 350 teenage friends for the watch party. In the receiving line with her were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Medders.

Thousands of red and white carnations were used in decorating the barn, the tables and buffet boards. Two thousand red and white balloons floated from the ceiling and were in clusters elsewhere throughout the building.

The Sheraton of Dallas catered the dinner featuring whole roast turkey, steamship rounds of beef, Virginia ham, fried chicken and all the trimmings. Tables and buffet boards adorned with carnations, were covered with green cloths and centered with candelabra holding white tapers.

The Abstracts, rock and roll band from Oklahoma City, played for dancing. At midnight the party took on a carnival air with all manner of noise makers including cow bells and horns, and confetti and paper hats for all the guests. And it was then the balloons were pierced with resounding pops.

The party ended social activity in the barn for some time. The portable dance floor is being picked up this week and Mr. and Mrs. Medders and ranch personnel are busy with plans for a horse show slated for Jan. 15.

Fishing will do a lot for a man, but it won't make him truthful.

Here's a Use for Old Eyeglasses

You can give to charity without spending a cent. Sound impossible? Well, it isn't. There is a charity called New Eyes for the Needy, Inc. located in Short Hills, N. J. which DOES NOT want your money. All it wants are your discarded eyeglasses, antique and costume jewelry and bits of scrap precious metal. For 33 years this unique charity has been working to improve the vision of the needy the world over. Over half a million people have been helped... without ever asking for a penny.

New Eyes is a volunteer, non-profit organization which provides eyeglasses for those in the United States who cannot afford them. With the nationwide help of countless individuals and service organizations it collects discarded eyeglasses, jewelry and pieces of precious metal. Each year some 752,000 carefully wrapped pairs of glasses and hundreds of pounds of jewelry find their way to New Eyes from every corner of the country.

What happens to the eyeglasses you give? Each pair is unwrapped, sorted and processed by volunteer help. There are 250 people who work hard each week to keep New Eyes going... and all are volunteers. The eyeglasses made of gold and silver are put in what is called "the melt", which means that they are taken to a New Jersey refinery and melted down for cash. The money thus realized is used by New Eyes to buy new prescription glasses and artificial eyes for needy people in the United States.

The good plastic framed glasses are tested and packaged for shipment overseas. Each pair is marked with its prescription by trained volunteers to be distributed to medical missionaries in many countries of the world. Last year 45,000 pairs of re-usable glasses and many artificial eyes were sent overseas. New Eyes also has a heavy demand from tropical countries for dark glasses which protect against the sun's glare. One delighted missionary in Pakistan discovered a bonus: he could use his as a mirror to spruce up after cycling through dusty villages.

Sound sweet? Mustang makes lots of nice sounds. Optional stereo-sonic tape is one. Another is money jingling in your pocket, thanks to Mustang Six's meager appetite for gasoline.

Friction In Your Diction

If you can read the following without mistakes in 15 seconds, your diction is well above average, and you should make a good radio announcer. "I bought a batch of baking powder and baked a batch of biscuits. I brought a big basket of biscuits back to the baker and baked a basket of big biscuits. Then I took the big basket of biscuits and the basket of big biscuits and mixed the big biscuits with the basket of biscuits that were next to the big basket and I brought the basket of biscuits and the biscuit mixer and the biscuit mixer and the box of mixed biscuits and the biscuit mixed back to the bakery and ordered a can of sardines."

Back to the Vietnamese issue, now's the time to pray that LBJ will make the most of his well known power of

for a Grand Re-Opening

We made a nice start Monday under our new ownership and management.

We had lots of buyers bidding top prices of a good market on a good run of cattle. We even had a good crowd of visitors, and we thank them for their interest.

We're looking forward to another good sale next Monday, and hope you'll bring your cattle.
