VOLUME IX

MUENSTER, TEXAS, COOKE COUNTY, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1945

NUMBER 14

If it is true that an effective check on Germany is the first step toward establishing a lasting peace, the Big Three confab at Yalta was a huge success. The Henries are due to be tied down. What with an army of occupation plus plans to disband the Nazi party and remove or control war industry, the country will not have much opportunity to go on the war path again for many years.

All of which is fine as long as Germany is the only country that needs watching. But suppose some other nation goes on a rampage. The conference doesn't supply a very good answer to that problem. To assure a lasting peace we need a system whereby every nation including our own, can be observed and, when necessary, restrained by every other nation. There may be a time when one of our present allies is an aggressor. We may even want Germany's help to get another nation under control.

For that reason the ideal arrangement is one whereby every country, victor and vanquished alike, can be restored to normalcy as soon as possible. While demilitarizing the Reich we should be making plans to reduce the military strength of the allies as well. While demanding reparations we should do so with a view to leaving some inducement to men of vision and self respect. After the first bitter memories of the conflict fade away we hope to see all the powers drifting to such a status of equality that no one nation will be powerful enough to jeopardize world peace. Any time one should happen to get out of line other members of a world organization can over rule it in short order.

In connection with that theory it is well to remember that armament is not a requisite to safety. A man with a weapon has no margin of protection if his opponent is similarly armed. Actually he's better off if both he and the adversary are bare handed. They are less likely to fight, and if, in any instance, they do fight, the injuries sustained will probably be less serious.

The bitter experience we had scrapping our navy after the last war will probably discourage any willingness to expose our necks to treachery again. Nevertheless, that is the best solution, theoretically speaking. If all nations disarmed we wouldn't have to worry about war simply because there would be nothing to fight with.

This time, however, we ought to be careful not to let other nations "steer us for suckers. First of all we ought to see that they carry out their part of a disarmament agreement, and then we ought to maintain an efficient intelligence system to keep posted on every country's slightest departure from the agreement. Nations that have nothing to hide could not object to visits by representatives of foreign powers. Before the war we did not mind how many German and Jap tourists went sightseeing through our factories.

Of course this is all theoretical, but here is an idea of how a peace organization might have operated prior to the present war. An agent in Japan would have been refused admittance into the ship yards whereupon the league of nations would have sent out a group of investigators for a full report. If they were turned back the league would take forcible steps to see that the Japs were brought back into line. It can be made to work—without the carnage and expense of war. Germany and Italy as well would have been stopped in their tracks by an effective international organization with a method of discovering things and sufficient nerve to do something about it. No one country will continue its course of aggression when it knows a dozen others will take any necessary measures to check it.

The really desirable condition is to have that group of investigators and the international enforcement agency only as a safety factor. Let a friendly attitude among nations be our first guarantee of peace. Once people have an assurance that their neighbors do not hate them and are not plotting against them they get along quite well. The relation between Canada and the United States is an example. Other countries could do the same. If the peoples of Europe were not taught from childhood that neighbors across the border are liars and thieves and killers they might grow up with an attitude more conducive to peace.

If the organization for world peace will treat all nations fairly showing equal regard for large and small, victor and vanquished, we can expect a wholesome, peaceful and mutually helpful attitude. Without it we need not get very interested in plans to prevent war by force. Peace can't last unless it exists primarily in people's hearts.

Meet In Philippines
Muenster boys on duty in the Philippines recently had the pleasure of seeing each other and enjoyed exchanging accounts of happenings according to letters home. S-Sgt. Earl Lehnertz and Pfc. Harry Fisher got together somewhere on the islands, while in another sector of the same islands Pfc. Joe Sicking and Pfc. Lawrence Felderhoff also met and spent several hours together.

Eberhart, a paratrooper, already holds the Purple Heart with two oak leaf clusters for wounds received in Sicily, at Anzio, and in Italy.

Wednesday morning Mr. and Mrs. Eberhart received a letter written by their son from Paris, France, telling them "My leg is doing OK", but giving no further details. He noted as a P. S. "I have just been promoted to staff sergeant."

A new, modern 60-passenger bus has been purchased by the Muenster school district and was put on the road this week. This vehicle replaces the old grey bus on the north and west routes.

The new bus is equipped with heaters, defrosters and other conveniences. Billy Joe Miller is the driver.

Adolph Herr went to Ohio for the machine and drove it back. The local school district is serviced by four buses.

IN PHILIPPINES

Pfc. Tony Hacker, son of Frank Hacker, is on duty in the Philippine Islands as a member of an infantry division. He entered the army on July 10, 1944, and trained at Camp Walters, after which he was stationed at Fort Ord, Calif., until going overseas.

Ray Wilde Writes Of Activity On The British Isles

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wilde have a long, interesting letter from their son, Pfc. Ray Wilde, with the unit, attached to a medical unit, somewhere in the British Isles. Parts of the letter follow:

Hello Folks:
We really had a nice time yesterday. About 65 refugee children from all parts of the British Isles came out to visit our outfit. They were from 6 to 16 years old, both boys and girls. The first I knew that they had arrived was when one of the boys came in the barracks while I was sleeping and pulled my nose to awaken me, and did he laugh when I jumped.

You can't help feeling sorry for the kids when you hear their stories. Many of them have been here since 1940 and in that time usually haven't seen their fathers and very seldom their mothers. They are quite polite and bright, and can fire questions right and left at you about America. Most of what they know is from the movies.

They wanted to hear all about Texas: how many rustlers I had shot and if everybody wears a gun all the time. Cowboy movies are the big favorite. Most all of the films are from the U. S. and they really are a lot better than the British films.

People here are quite proud of their old buildings, and the common class doesn't have much. They start at one place and have to continue at it the rest of their lives. The son always follows in his father's footsteps in whatever work he does, regardless of how bad he might be at it. On the farms, the whole family lives off of one farm. If it happens that quite a few sons are born into the family it just means that they must crowd together more when they marry. However, this is more strictly true of the section in which I am stationed, rather than the British Isles in general. This is quite a backward country—I guess a lot like Arkansas.

Prices of houses and land are astoundingly high. I was telling about the prices in Texas and they couldn't believe it was so cheap. I have told before how small the cars are here and what small motor cars they have. Well, I learned that's because the taxes are so high on cars, and they run according to the size of the motor. But still there are a few big American cars here. There's one black 1940 Buick that really looks good among the Maytags. People ride very little. Everybody walks everywhere. It isn't unusual for the girls around here to walk two miles or more to see their Yank boy friends.

Talking of prices, one of the air force boys was here telling about London prices. People are paying five shillings (1.00) for one peach, and 15 shillings for one pound of grapes. It's just that they don't get certain things.

I am feeling fine and still taking it easy. We are going to have some big football and hockey games in afternoon. I really enjoy playing hockey but you should see my skinned up nose.

Greetings to everyone.
Love,
Ray

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tugler are the parents of a daughter, Brenda Sue, born at the local clinic on Feb. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cross of Era announce the birth of a son, Daniel, at the local clinic on Feb. 14.

Sgt. Jimmy Lehnertz Is Awarded Bronze Star And Citation

For meritorious achievement in Italy, Master Sergeant Jimmy Lehnertz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lehnertz, was awarded the Bronze Star and a citation in ceremonies held somewhere in Italy on January 17. The presentation was made by Brig. Gen. Hendrik during a colorful program featuring an Army Band and a Guard of Honor. One other member of Sgt. Lehnertz's company, a major whose home is in Cincinnati, was also honored with the same award.

The citation accompanying Jimmy's medal reads:

"For meritorious services in support of combat operations, from 28 March to 9 September 1944, in Italy. By his unceasing efforts and ability to overcome adverse conditions encountered in a rapidly changing combat situation, Master Sergeant Lehnertz maintained the motor equipment of his battalion at a high standard of efficiency. His exceptional qualities of leadership, superior technical ability and untiring devotion to his exacting duties were an inspiration to the men of his section, and his accomplishments enabled the effective operation of his organization's vehicles despite difficulties encountered in the rapid advance and the inavailability of spare parts and replacements."

Sgt. Lehnertz entered the army November 4, 1941, trained at Camp Wallace and Camp Hulien, was then at the desert training center, Indio, Calif., and went overseas in August 1942. As a member of Gen. George S. Patton's 7th Army troops, he was among the first U. S. soldiers to land at Casa Blanca. He has been actively engaged at Tunisia, Sicily and Italy since that time. Now serving with the 5th Army, he is a member of the Coast Artillery Corps (AAC).

During his training period he won medals for rifle and pistol shooting.

He is the oldest of the five sons of Mr. and Mrs. Lehnertz serving in the armed forces.

Made Invasion In Filipino Sailboat Writes Pfc. Becker

Mr. and Mrs. Flex Becker are in receipt of a letter from their son, Pvt. Walter Becker, which reads as follows:

"Guess you have been wondering what happened the last month. We were pretty busy chasing Nips all over this island, but that's about all we did. Had quite a bit of fun. Our company did something that I'll bet no other outfit ever did. We made an invasion in Filipino sailboats. We ate rice, raw fish, chickens, beef, roast pig, and all kinds of native foods. Some experience.

No, we haven't received our Christmas packages. We haven't been in one place long enough. We should get them here though. Anyway, we put up tents for the first time since October 1st. I received your December letters, the one from Jan. 8, and your Christmas card. All told, I received 24 letters yesterday. I can't answer all the letters, so I'll just write you and you can tell everybody that I'm OK."

I heard Ray Furhmann is getting a furlough. He should have left yesterday. He's lucky.

I had a letter from Earl Lehnertz. He was on the same island as I, before we moved. Maybe he'll come up here too. Also had a letter from Joe Sicking. He was here, too. Lawrence Felderhoff's outfit is also in the Philippine Islands.

This is all for now. Tell everybody hello."

Mrs. Eddie Magee came in from Muroc, Calif., Wednesday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wimmer.

U.S. Night Life Faces Midnight Curfew Decree

A midnight curfew decreed by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes will go into effect Monday on all night clubs, bars, road houses—all night life, public or private, from New York's gay spots to the hundreds of small juke box places in the nation's towns and villages.

Byrnes' "request", having the effect of an order and backed by the disciplinary powers of four war agencies, was directed Monday to "all places of entertainment".

The text of the Washington announcement said:

"Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion James F. Byrnes announced that he is requesting all places of entertainment to close by 12 o'clock midnight each day, effective Feb. 26. By closing at 12 is meant that patrons shall leave in time to permit full closing by that time."

Places of entertainment are intended to include all night clubs, sport arenas, theatres, dance halls, road houses, saloons, bars and other similar enterprises, whether public or private, excluding restaurants engaged exclusively in serving food.

The purpose of the request is primarily to save coal and electricity, but it will also be helpful in the fields of transportation, man power and other ways.

Unofficially it was thought the ODT could act against offenders by preventing delivery of supplies and by exercising taxicab and bus controls. The WPB could cut off power, fuel and materials. The OPA could halt rations and fuel oil.

Waterworks Men Of North Texas Meet At Gainesville

North Texas Waterworks association met Wednesday evening at Gainesville and heard a discussion on water chlorination. J. M. Van Gelder, chlorination expert of Wallace and Tiernan Company, Dallas, was the principal speaker.

The group engaged in a round table discussion of water meter repairs and problems of waterworks systems and how they have been solved. Jack Smith of Denton was program chairman.

The meeting was held in the White Rose cafe dining room and was attended by 22 persons. The next meeting will be held at the same place on March 14.

Attending from Muenster in addition to Mayor Weinzapfel were I. A. Schoech, city waterworks superintendent and city councilman; Ben Seyler, past mayor; Herbert Meurer, city attorney and J. A. Fisher, city councilman.

E. J. MOORE, 70, OF SAINT JO SUCCUMBS SUNDAY EVENING

E. J. Moore, 70, of Saint Jo, well known locally, died at his home Sunday evening following a long illness. Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and burial was in St. Jo cemetery.

Survivors in addition to the wife are one sister of Chillicothe, and several nephews and nieces.

A native of Tennessee, Mr. Moore had resided at Saint Jo for about 60 years. He farmed four miles east of that city and had lived at that place for some 35 years.

RedCross Drive Is Planned

Local Quota Is $1,200; Mrs. G.H. Hellman Is Named Local Chairman

A "kick-off" dinner was given Monday for the Cooke County Red Cross chapter's War fund committee in the junior high school cafeteria at Gainesville with William C. Robinson, chairman of the drive as principal speaker.

At this meeting, final plans for the drive, which is to get underway on March 1, were made. Attending from Muenster were Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Hellman, Mrs. Hellman is local chairman and is to be assisted with collecting by Mr. Hellman and Mrs. Jim Cook.

Muenster's quota, announced Wednesday, is $1,200, while the goal for Cooke county is set at $25,600. Mrs. Hellman and her assistants begin soliciting here on Saturday, March 3, and it is the hope of drive leaders that the campaign can be brought to a successful close on March 15.

Local solicitors will work both residential and rural districts, and as in the past, unanimous support is anticipated. In order to meet an expanding program, "giving as usual" is out of the question, just as "living as usual" is out of the question for the boys fighting this war, the chairman point out.

"While one dollar entitles a donor to membership, one dollar per person will not come near to making up the local purse", Mrs. Hellman stated, adding, "Let's all reach in our pocketbooks and give at least a five spot."

Billy Ray, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Hellman, is in a Fort Worth hospital since Sunday evening, suffering considerable pain in his left eye, which was injured several days previously. Doctors say there's a 50-50 chance of saving the eye.

The accident occurred in the Hellman dairy barn where the child was playing, but he made no mention of it until a few days later when his mother noticed swelling and inflamed condition.

Doctors at the hospital said the eye ball was punctured and performed an operation Monday and injected a substitute for the substance which had been lost from the white part of the eye. The bandages are to be removed in six days. His parents and his aunt, Mrs. Steve Fette and Mrs. Virginia Carter were with him for the operation and Mrs. Hellman and Mrs. Carter remained at his bedside. Mrs. Carter is a nurse.

NURSES DRAFT BILL APPROVED BY HOUSE MILITARY COMMITTEE

A nurses draft bill applicable to all unmarried graduate nurses between 20 and 44, both ages inclusive, was approved Tuesday by the house military committee.

The legislation is intended to meet President Roosevelt's request for a law to provide 20,000 nurses immediately for the army and the navy.

It provides for deferment of Veterans administration nurses and gives the War Manpower commission authority to order the deferment of any woman engaged in essential civilian nursing service.

The measure also requires the induction of graduate cadet nurses before non-cadets may be drafted. Cadet nurses may be deferred only on grounds of dependency, family relationship or physical disability.

While not specifically providing for the commission the bill requires that inducted nurses shall be assigned to duty in which their professional skill "will be used in accordance with military requirements."

Last Friday seemed to be red-letter day for our chemists. An observer, peeping through an open window, would have seen thirteen groups of chemists intently engaged in mixing chemicals not knowing what the result might be. We would have advised the observer to use a saphire screen to keep the odors from penetrating his sensitive olfactory nerves.

Especially noted were Laura Lee and Alfons. The acid was making a thorough job on the ferrous sulfide in producing the hydrogen sulfide, when all of a sudden Laura Lee exclaimed, "Sister, is hydrogen sulfide rotten egg gas?" We wonder what gave her that idea? Surely not the fragrant odor!

Sadie The Snooper
 As I was looking about the campus, I spied Alvin carrying Dolly's book from the lab. Was he just being the perfect gentleman, or could it have been that the book belonged to someone special? When asked what the three regular courts of the United States were, Thomas Otto replied, "Supreme, District, and Heaven". I missed Helen at choir practice. Where were you, Helen?

Henry has discovered a way to mix work and play at the same time. He holds a fishing pole in one hand and a book in the other. I bet he catches educated fish.

Arnold is still anxiously waiting a certain note. Do you think you'll ever get it, Arnie?

Mildred, I hope your picture will turn out O. K.

Most of the boys and girls have made numerous Lenten resolutions. I hope they will try to keep them.

Theresa Mae has been praying extra hard the last week. Do you think your dream will ever come true, Theresa?

I noticed that Billie's desk was out of line during the Algebra test Friday. Did you have anything to do with it, Alfons?

Someone should donate the seniors and juniors some erasers. There are about two in the entire room and do they travel. Maybe the scarcity is due to the rubber shortage.

"Tuffy" hopes that the scale on which she weighed was inaccurate. It surely must have weighed 65 pounds too much; for, after all, I know you couldn't weigh more than 100.

The post in the Sophomore room usually blocks the science Teacher's view, but she was thankful for it last week. Someone fell directly above her on the upstairs floor, making her wish there were two posts instead of one. Maybe that mistreated post is good for something after all.

Votes were cast on Monday by the student body to determine the best-liked subject taught in high school. The three highest were: Science—36, English—14, and History—10.

A JUNIOR: "Sister, when are we going to make "laughing gas" in the science lab?"
 SISTER: "It's not necessary, I think you're giddy enough."

MOOS OF THE MOMENT
 BY UNCLE BOB
 of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

Being the kind of a lazy fellow I am, I'd like to see someone come along who can teach cows how to milk themselves. But I don't think this is going to happen, so right now I'm interested in the best advance in milking methods that's been made in a couple of thousand years.

The new and improved way of milking is called the "correct milking method." It is faster, aids sanitation, has helped build volume and is a most important part of mastitis control.

The system calls for a few simple steps, as outlined by extension dairymen. First, wash teats and udder with a chlorine solution which feels quite warm when you put your hand in it. Next, take two full-hand squeezes of each teat, into a strip cup.

Start milking immediately. When teat cups crawl, pull them down part way, using the free hand to massage the udder. Remove machine as soon as milk ceases to flow. Leaving it on may cause injury.

In hand milking use full hand strokes and stop when the milk quits flowing. Milking takes about three minutes by machine and from four to seven minutes by hand.

Next, remove milker units and dip the teat cups into a chlorine solution before applying to next cow or, in hand milking, wash hands in warm, sudsy water.

I mentioned a short time ago that an article on this method of milking which appeared in the Kraftman has been reprinted and is now available. A lot of dairymen have already written in and asked for this reprint and I suggest you get an order in for your copy right away. Write Uncle Bob at 500 Pestigo Court, Chicago, 90, Ill., and ask for "How to Milk a Cow—and Why."

No doubt you have a bunch of educated cows, but I don't suppose they can write. If they could, and made out a list of the hay they like best, alfalfa would be at the top.

Hay and pasture are the foundation for your entire dairy feeding program. Now is the best time to make your hay plans for 1945 and even 1946.

I hope you will include at least an acre of alfalfa per cow. Illinois figures 25 pounds of high quality alfalfa hay will furnish all the protein required to produce about 30 pounds of 4 per cent milk.

Alfalfa will give your cows all the calcium they need. In winter it is the best source of Vitamins A and D. If you don't have alfalfa, look to some of the other legumes, such as the clovers, soybeans, lespedeza or good mixed hay.

Valuable suggestions for planning your hay program will be found in USDA Farmers' Bulletin 1626, Extension Bulletin 217, Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., and Extension Circular 122, Mississippi State College, Miss.*

An ancient story in my collection is about a man who was marvelling at a friend, who he said, ran ten miles and then jumped over a six foot fence. "Yeah, but look at the long start he had," said the party he was telling this to.

The start your calves get is about the most important thing in their whole lives. If they are troubled with scours, colds, ringworm or other things which bother young stock, it may cut down their milk production in later years.

Scours generally results from indigestion. Improper feeding, drinking too fast, cold milk, sour milk and dirty utensils or dirty feeding troughs can cause scours.

You will get a lot of help on treating scours from a veterinarian and from the following bulletins: Extension Bulletin 377, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo., Extension Bulletin B-104, Texas A. & M. College, College Station, Texas, and Extension Circular 308, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisc.*

*NOTE: There usually is a 5c charge for pamphlets mailed to non-residents of a state, but possibly your own state has a free pamphlet on the same subject. Ask your county agent.

Washington Notes

By Congressman Ed Gossett

Washington, D. C. Feb. 17.—Dramatic events on the many war fronts this week dwarf all domestic news. Still, it's a bold official who will predict just when the end of hostilities will come. Here's how some of the higher ranking military men have guessed in the past. Said Admiral Halsey on New Year's Day of 1943: "1943...will see the complete, absolute defeat of the Axis." Said General H. H. Arnold in February of 1943: "I have an appointment in Berlin a year from today." Said Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark in November of 1943: "It is my hope and belief that before (November 1944) the Battle of Europe will have terminated in a smashing victory." In December of 1943 General Eisenhower thought, "The Allies will win the European war in 1944." Under Secretary of War Patterson, in August of 1944, thought, "Victory over the Germans is not far off." And General Marshall wrote in the Army and Navy Journal for Dec. 7, 1944: "Before this statement is published, hostilities might have terminated in the European theater."

The fear of some Washington officials that the 50 German generals now prisoners of the Russians, headed by their prize officer, Field Marshal von Paulus, would be set up by the Russians to run Germany seems to have been cleared by the Big Three Crimean conference.

Eyebrows in Washington lifted this week with the report that new Secretary of State Stettinius on his visit to Moscow gave a Russian actress a 3,000 ruble ($240) bouquet of flowers. Notwithstanding Russian devotion to the opera, this doubtless to the vast majority of Russians was conclusive evidence of capitalistic extravagance. Stettinius, former chairman of the board of directors of U. S. Steel, is a rich man and this was simply change out of his own pocket.

Retiring Commissioner of Indian Affairs, John Collier, makes an interesting report. Since he took over the administration of Indian Affairs in 1933, and secured adoption of Collier's Reorganization Act by Congress in 1934, the income of Indians has increased 300 per cent, their death rate has decreased 15 per cent, and their population has increased since 1900 53 per cent. The population is now 377,000. Historians estimate the Indian population of America was never more than about 900,000.

Reports indicate France is going through her worst winter. Only 30 per cent of the national industrial equipment is usable due to shortage of raw materials. The best hotels are without light or heat. Even French troops lack blankets and overcoats.

The Pacific Coast longshoremen are still working on a 6-hour day, and get time and a half or double time for overtime. San Francisco operators contend that one-third of the present force of longshoremen could do the present job more quickly than all are now doing if they would really work at it.

Petroleum Administrator Ikes estimates that military needs require at least 27,000 new oil wells during 1945.

The war has given strong impetus to long-range weather forecasting. The U. S. Weather Bureau eventually expects to make regular forecasts over a 10-day period, and to plot general trends over longer periods. This will be of great benefit to farmers, vegetable and fruit growers and cattlemen, as well as to industry and trade, aviation, shipping, railroads, public utilities, and the public in general.

Before the war the U. S. had only a few hundred aviation weather stations. Now Army Air forces alone operates observation stations all over the world, manned by G. I. s. Some of these stations are in lonely spots with almost no human contacts. These boys are refuting Mark Twain's remark that nobody does anything about the weather. While they don't control it, they do report the kind to be expected.

At this time Washingtonians would welcome some sunny weather. Recently we have had a few days of springlike, cloud filtered sunshines which made farm reared desk workers here long for the pleasure of walking barefoot over freshly plowed earth.

Among visitors to my office this week were Ray Pokery of Wichita Falls, in the Merchant Marine Service, Frank B. Heath of Wichita Falls and S. K. Campson of Decatur, stationed at Fort Belvoir. Major Charley Smith of Vernon, Captain W. Kilne McGee of Wichita Falls, Private H. T. Cardwell, Jr. of Vernon and his wife of Graham, stationed at Fort Meade, and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Remington of Newcastle.

Man's Weakness

James T. Managhan, ace writer of inspirational copy, believes that laziness is man's greatest weakness. In his little book, "Push", he vigorously attacks the habit of laziness. He points out that almost all other negative qualities are due to laziness.

"Laziness and you conquer fear" he writes. "It's easy to see that you can't be afraid, you can't worry, while you are busy doing other things. Conquer laziness and you conquer procrastination, for when you are keyed up to do all things and to do them promptly, you just can't bring yourself to put things off. A world of time is at your disposal and your life released for the happy work of producing. Conquer laziness and your inferiority complex disappears overnight. The man who is full of action cares nothing for excusing himself, explaining his action, finding fault with others. The busy man is the happy man, the Superior Man."

"Goodbye to fear, to sensitiveness, to worry, to inertia, to procrastination, to all inferior feeling, once you have conquered laziness. And when you bid laziness a final farewell, the world suddenly will discover you and say: 'Here is Somebody.'"
