VOLUME XXXI

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS 76252 MARCH 22, 1968

NUMBER 18

Very few Americans are inclined to disagree with the principal topic of President Johnson's speech at Minneapolis Monday. Nothing was ever more evident than the fact that our country needs a massive dose of austerity. After the nation's long spree of reckless spending it is high time for belt tightening to undo some of the tremendous harm that has already been done and at the same time avoid even greater troubles ahead.

Many people felt that way on the subject for years, and they welcomed the remarks indicating that the administration finally sees the light. However, one point still isn't quite clear. Who is supposed to become austere? Will it be just us people, or will the administration also do its part?

To our way of thinking the first essential in this very urgent undertaking is a balanced budget. At a time like this it is absurd to think of anything else. With our national debt already past $350 billion and our monetary system in serious trouble, surely a responsible government can find ways to trim several billions of its huge spending plans.

By this we don't mean cutting off just three or four billion. The government needs to realize that it has strained its credit to the limit and it needs to live within its income from now on, just like an individual has to do when his credit runs out.

LBJ has suggested that he's for a slash of 3 or 4 billion on condition that his proposed 10 per cent income tax boost be adopted. A better way to financial recovery is to make ends meet first and then apply the tax increase to reducing the debt.

Let the administration eliminate its pork barrel operations and reduce its huge payroll, and forget about its new ventures in socialism. Let it, in short, abandon the Santa Claus schemes by which it seeks to buy votes with tax money. And in the bargain let it show more diligence in stopping huge losses in graft and waste.

It might be noted that these suggestions cannot even be classed as austere, unless it's austere to eliminate extravagance. Rather, such changes would be plain fiscal responsibility. Nevertheless that would be a welcome start toward recovery. And you can bet a grateful public would welcome the austerity recommended for its part in the recovery.

It's high time too for some other changes of policy, which likewise need not be classed as austerity. Most urgent of those is an acceptance of responsibility in industrial relations in order to hold the line on wages and prices.

There has been talk of controls, a step which could become necessary if we as a people fail to exercise judgment and conscience. But the thought does not fit in a nation of intelligent free people. Leaders of industry and labor, encouraged by government, should admit that strikes and constantly rising wages and prices hurt everyone, including those who get their demands. At the same time they hurt the over-all economy.

A good example is the copper workers' strike which has just ended. Months of idleness caused a shortage which had to be offset by imports — at the very time when the country was making a big issue of its unfavorable balance of trade, and the economic strain it causes. Experts on the subject can doubtless point to many strikes which have hurt us in that way.

Many such foreign expenditures, including huge sums of foreign aid in a futile effort to buy friendship abroad, led to the big gold rush which alarmed our country the past few weeks. People over there with lots of our money were getting worried about its value. And justly so. Our fiscal policies shook their confidence as well as our own. They could hardly be blamed for rushing to convert the paper of questionable value into gold, a commodity of real value.

While their concern was understandable, another side of their attitude is regrettable. Some of the foreign governments which were most greedy, especially France, owe us billions in old debts. It seems to us that if they were so anxious to dispose of the money they could have applied it on obligations. They could have returned a favor to a former benefactor instead

Wettest First Quarter

More Rain!

A long wet winter is still hanging on at Muenster. And how! After some ten weeks during which the soil surface of some areas never got dry, the past few days brought more rain — 2.79 inches of it, which is a lot on land that is already saturated. The result was that practically all of the rain drained away filling ponds to the brim and lakes well over the level of draw down tubes. Streams were gushing but still well under control as the rainfall spread over a three day period and flow was further retarded by detention reservoirs.

For farmers it is a continuing headache. Arrival of spring Wednesday pointed up the fact that they are far behind in their field work. Top dressing on grain crops, bermuda planting and tillage for spring planting are all over due. Likewise, feed lots are a horrible mess, admittedly the worst ever in this area. Even gravelled and rocky surfaces are breaking through and turning into ponds of mud. Those conditions are explained by the official record. This first quarter is the wettest ever on the city's record which was started in 1946. The measure to now is 11.74. Next wettest was 9.50 in 1946 and 9.47 in 1961. Average for the quarter for the past ten years is slightly over 5.5 inches. The total is in special contrast with last year's which measured only 2.48 inches. Included in the three months is 4.67 in January, the second wettest on record topped only by 4.86 in 1949. Also included is the wettest March, measuring 5.36 and topping the previous high of 5.23 in 1961.

Project Show of Muenster FFA Set Next Tuesday

About 45 head of livestock are expected next Tuesday for the Muenster FFA Chapter's annual project show to be held in the chapter's pens at Muenster High School — that is, if the weather permits.

Edgar Dyer, chapter adviser, said this week that the boys have about 45 project animals and all will be there if weather is nice. But rain and cold can reduce the number or possibly even cancel the show. He said there is no point in risking sickness from exposure, especially when fewer people are there.

Nevertheless, he said, the show plans are definite at this time. Animals will be judged at 1 p.m. by Jim Rogers, vocational ag teacher of Callisburg, and will be on display after that.

The list of expected animals includes 10 fat steers, 10 feeder calves, 5 beef heifers, 11 dairy heifers, 2 fat borrows, 2 gilts, 2 feeder pigs and 2 sheep.

Three days later some of the animals will go to the Cooke County Junior Fat Stock Show at Gainesville. That show, open to 4-H and FFA members, is made up exclusively of animals for slaughter, and all are sold the same day on the open market. Fat steers, fat borrows and sheep from the local FFA show will go to that show.

Guest Speakers

Guest speakers at Sacred Heart High religion classes Friday were two members of the National Staff of the High School Young Christian Students Movement — National President Jack Hayden, and Miss Scottie Gallagher, Program Director of YCS.

In each of the religion classes, Jack Hayden explained the three parts of the YCS social inquiry — observe, judge, act — and Miss Gallagher conducted an informal program determining the causes and effects of a current problem and the student decided what action could be taken to correct the issue.

The two National Staff members visited all Catholic high school students in the area. While here they were overnight guests of Dr. and Mrs. Martin Kralicke.

Hayden is from Newark, N. J. and Miss Gallagher is from Des Plaines, Ill.

Muenster 4-H Boys Display Six Champions at County Show

In the fat lamb class both Grand and Reserve Champions were projects of John Paclik of Gainesville. In the breeding ewe class Leon Bayer showed the Grand Champion and Roy Purcell of Gainesville showed the Reserve Champion. In the ram class Roy Purcell was

Volley Ball Teams Invited to Enter 1-Day Tournament

Another quickie volley ball tournament is on schedule for Muenster. Officers of Sacred Heart Alumni announced this week that they will sponsor the one-day show on Sunday, March 31, in Sacred Heart gym.

The intention, if possible, is to have an eight-game tournament in both ladies' and men's divisions and let the preliminary games divide into championship and consolation brackets. That would make a tournament of 20 games starting about 10 a.m. and running continuously until 8 to 9 p.m. Snacks and sandwiches will be available for players and fans who wish to stay. Teams that wish to enter are asked to notify Charles Bayer as soon as possible so that outside teams can be invited in case the schedule is not filled. Deadline date for entering has been set at March 27.

$28,680 Grant OK'd For Sewer Project

A federal grant of $28,680 has been authorized for Muenster's sewer plant expansion program. The welcome news was received here Monday in messages from Senator John Tower and Congressman Graham Purcell.

The funds are provided by the Federal Water Pollution and Control Administration and represents 30 per cent of the estimated cost of the project. The rest of the cost will be paid by the city.

Ted Henscheid Is Jaycee President

Ted Henscheid is the new president of the Muenster Jaycees. He was elected at the organization's meeting last Thursday night to succeed Francis (Butch) Fisher. Others elected on the brand new slate of officers are Dr. Larry Tisdale first vice-president; Herman Grewing second vice president; Robert Fisher, secretary; Gerald Hess, treasurer; Johnny Pagel, inter club director; Jerry Wimmer, Charles Bayer, Richard Pagel and Frank Hess, directors. Most of them were officers or directors last year, however none was re-elected to his former position.

Those officers and directors will be installed Saturday night of next week in the club's sixth annual installation and awards banquet. The awards will honor outstanding Jaycees of the past year and also the outstanding citizen of the year who is not a member. The latter award has been a special feature of the Jaycee banquet for several years.

Selection of the outstanding citizen will be made this weekend and will not be revealed until the banquet. People of the community have been invited to join in the selection by participating in a straw vote conducted the past several weeks at the three local food stores. The results of the poll will be considered in selecting the outstanding citizen.

John David Meurer, chairman of the straw vote, said Friday will be the last opportunity for casting a vote. The ballot boxes will be collected at closing time Friday night.

This means that work on the project is due to begin soon. Steve Mosler, water and sanitation superintendent, said that official authorization to proceed with the job will follow Monday's report and the city is expected to advertise for bids within 15 days after it is received. Award of a contract is due 15 days after that.

The project being planned is an oxidation ditch, often referred to as the race track type of sewage treatment plant. As explained by Mosler it is an addition for secondary treatment and does a more complete job of oxidizing than the present facilities. It meets the more rigid standards of purity demanded by anti-pollution regulations.

When the present plant was built it met the standards of the State Health Department. It has not lost any of its efficiency since then but requirements have been upped to a level it cannot reach. With the addition the plant's output should be better than the regulations call for.

TOO SIMPLE

In a recent speech, Senator Percy of Illinois was criticizing Alabama ex-Governor George Wallace, who is a candidate for President.
 "He has only cheap and easy solutions to the nation's race problems," Percy complained.
 Now you better shape up,

George, and start acting like a true-blue American politician. Get in there and complicate things and try to get everybody confused.

If some young black militants kill a few firemen and turn over police cars and rape a few women, you shouldn't advocate sending them to jail or bringing them to trial, or anything like that.

You should appoint an investigating committee to absolve them of any blame for their actions and find out if maybe the whole thing was caused by their mothers being scared by a white trouble-maker before they were born.

You better get with it, boy. You're still living in the past. You've gotta remember that in this Great Society, people can't be held accountable for the crimes they commit unless their skin is white.

I want my boy to have all the advantages I can give him

Such as having to earn his allowance by running errands, cutting lawns.

Such as getting good grades in school — getting them because he wants to, and because he knows what it would do to me if he didn't.

Such as being proud to be clean and neat and decent.

Such as standing up and standing proud when his country's flag goes by.

Such as addressing elder friends of his parents as "sir" and "ma'am".

Such as having to earn his own way in the world and knowing he has to prepare for it by hard work, hard study, and sacrificing some of the pleasures and ease his friends may get from too-indulgent parents.

These are the advantages I want my son to have, because these are the things which will make him self-respecting and self-reliant and successful. And that is the happiness I want him to have.

Primary Ballot To Poll Texans on Liquor-by-Drink

AUSTIN, Tex. —All those candidates for governor got a hefty bit of pressure off them when both the state Democratic and Republican executive committees decided to put the question of liquor-by-the-drink on the May 4 ballot. With increasing concern over liquor-law enforcement and the Texas Liquor Control Board, coupled with Gov. John Connally's push for liquor-by-the-drink, gubernatorial candidates have been pressured hard for their stand on the issue.

Now, with the question being put to the voters in a referendum, all the candidates have to say is that they will abide by the wishes of the voters.

Also on the ballot as referendums will be the question of pari-mutuel horse-race betting and the creation of a Texas Dairy Commission with the power to regulate and fix the price of milk and other dairy products.

Although none of the voters' answers to the three questions will be binding, the issues do assure a high turnout of the more than 4,000,000 registered voters. It will take an act of the Legislature to put any of them in effect. Ballots will merely say: "This proposition is only an expression of public opinion and has no force or effect as law."

Legislature directed the first primary vote on local option pari-mutuel gambling. Petitions signed by 119,000 voters called for voter opinion on creating a Texas Dairy Commission with power to regulate milk prices.

Both party leaders decided the liquor-by-the-drink issue is hot enough to warrant a check on that, too. This referendum will be the first opportunity Texas voters have had to express their opinions statewide since the repeal of prohibition in the 1930s.

ANARCHY NO SOLUTION

In a recent poll conducted on the Harvard campus, it was discovered that 25% of the senior students who responded said that they intend to leave the country or go to jail rather than serve in the armed forces. Approximately 60% stated that they would make determined effort to avoid military service.

If the doctrine that the individual should defend his country only in those wars he approved of and obey only those laws he liked should ever become widespread, the future of an orderly society protecting individual rights and freedoms would be dim indeed.

Indifference is the enemy of freedom

Being a good citizen of the United States is a difficult and demanding job. But, the rewards are worth all effort necessary to preserve our hard-won freedom. The key to this preservation is your participation in the political process of government and your use of the ballot box. The hand that marks the ballot controls the destiny of freedom and the free enterprise system. History has shown that when freedom is lost through carelessness and selfishness, it is seldom regained. Although freedom is God given, it is not free.

Cynthia Bindel, president, and Father Andrew led the opening and closing prayer.

Nowadays, if you get the D.T.'s you don't know whether to get a doctor and get cured—or get a guitar and get rich.

The perfect guest is one who says, "goodnight," and goes.

Fuhrmans, Millers Go to Dallas for Phone Convention

Muenster Telephone Corporation was represented at the annual Texas Telephone Association Convention by owners Alvin Fuhrman and William J. Miller and their wives.

Held at the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel March 10-12 it was the first joint Texas-Oklahoma Telephone Convention and Telephone Equipment Show, and observed the 90th anniversary of Texas' first telephone.

Fuhrman was one of the convention speakers discussing "Extended Area Service."

The two couples attended the Pioneer Luncheon—Fuhrman is a member of the Texas Chapter Independent Telephone Pioneers.

Ladies were entertained at a luncheon and antique style show while the men were in business sessions and the two groups joined for a banquet and dance.

Among friends the Muenster couples visited with during the convention were Mr. and Mrs. Jake Horn of Windthorst, formerly of Muenster. The Floyd Humperts and Clarence Wolfs of Windthorst also attended.

The meeting featured interesting displays of antique and modern telephone and other communications equipment.

The news is not to be confused with opinions about the news.

Car Care Program For HDC Meeting

Members of Muenster Home Demonstration Club held their March meeting Wednesday in the home of their president, Mrs. Bill Lutkenhaus with Mrs. Rudy Hellman as program leader.

At roll call, members told of an experience with their cars, either serious, comical or otherwise, to tie in with the program on "Your Automobile Dollars." Mrs. Hellman discussed types of car suitable for family size, hints on handling, safety precautions and general maintenance.

Mrs. Joe Hoening gave the county council report. Mrs. Henry Pick and Mrs. Paul Fisher told about visits to senior citizens and Mrs. Earl Robison and Mrs. Hellman volunteered for visits this month.

The group discussed plans to attend the district convention of home demonstration clubs in Honey Grove on April 9. A card of thanks was read from Travis State Hospital in Austin for a contribution received from the club.

The hostess served refreshments to 14 after adjournment.

"I want you to say this sentence after me — 'Robert gave Richard a rap in the ribs for roasting the rabbit too rare.'"

Kenneth Kaden of Gainesville, area camping adviser, was at the meeting to supply desired information on the activities, the boys' needs and features of various camps.

Scouts and parents agreed on the Texoma camp for their first choice, on the Possum Kingdom camp for second choice and a camp at Athens for third choice. Now Scoutmaster Ed Schneider is in the process of finding where reservations are still available and when.

Refreshments of doughnuts coffee and soft drinks were served after the meeting by Scout Mothers Mrs. Ed Schneider and Mrs. Herbert Miller.

TEXAS GOVERNOR John Connally is shown receiving the first sheet of 1968 Easter Seals from Myrtle Johnson, of Holland, near Temple, and Mr. Cazzie Pierce of Waco to kick off the 1968 Easter Seal Appeal in Texas. The Easter Seal Society in Texas helps support 21 treatment facilities where 11,390 children and 6,232 adults were provided treatment during 1967.

Needy Disabled Get Help Through Easter Seals

The Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas offers a variety of services to the physically disabled citizen of Cooke County, according to Mr. William Claunch Jr., the Easter Seal Representative for the county.

"The Texas Easter Seal Society can provide services to people and families who cannot afford to pay all or part of the cost involved. We can assist in paying for physical, occupational and speech and hearing therapy when it is prescribed by a medical doctor," he said.

"Should a family or individual have to travel to another town for therapy we can help defray traveling expenses when the family is unable to meet them."

"We can provide help to families in reaching the right person or agencies to receive help that the Easter Seal Society does not provide. This is very important when special testing, evaluation or hospitalization might be necessary. Also people are often eligible for services from public or private agencies but do not know the person, requirements, or place to get the help, perhaps the Easter Seal Society can help," he added.

Mr. Claunch urged anyone who might be able to benefit from the help provided by the Easter Seal Society to contact him at First State Bank, Gainesville, Texas 76240.

Easter Seal Services are available to any adult or child with a physical handicap. The 1968 Easter Seal Appeal will provide funds for a wide variety of educational projects and treatment services for Texans. The campaign will run through Easter Sunday, April 14.

Muenster Juniors Edge Saint Jo in Dual Track Meet

Seventh and eighth graders of Muenster Public School came home with the top score from a dual track meet at Saint Jo last Friday — but just barely. They made 69 points and the hosting youngsters made 67.

The race for individual honors was even closer, 17½ to 17¼, Ricky Wimmer being nudged out by Young of Saint Jo. And the honor for most first places went to Muenster by a count of 7 to 6.

The meet was the first action. Glenn Richardson's youngsters have had this season and follows limited practice. They did fine, he said, and with a few more weeks of work should make a good showing in the district meet at Saint Jo on April 11. They will also be in a junior practice meet at Valley View on April 6.

Point makers for Muenster last Friday were as follows:

440 relay, 1st, 53.8; Bobby Tuggle, Ricky Wimmer, Mike Trubenbach, Gene Sicking.

880 relay, 1st, 1:56.8; Ricky Wimmer, Bobby Tuggle, Gene Sicking, Henry Knabe.

880 yard run, Jim Endres 1st 2:35.

60 yd. high hurdles, Ricky Wimmer 1st, Mike Trubenbach tie for 2nd.

50 yard dash, Henry Knabe 2nd 6.2. He was barely nudged by Young who was also clocked at 6.2. Ricky Wimmer was third with 6.4.

100 yd. intermediate hurdles, Ricky Wimmer 1st 14.0; Bobby Tuggle 2nd, 15.0; Jerry Eckart 4th 15.2.

High jump, Mike Trubenbach 2nd, 4 ft. 10½ in.; Bobby Tuggle tie for 3rd, 4 ft. 6½ in. Chinning, Gene Sicking 1st, Ricky Wimmer 2nd.

Shot put, Henry Knabe 2nd, Jim Endres 3rd, Jerry Eckart 4th.

Discus, Jim Endres 1st, Mike Trubenbach 4th.

It's Not Too Late To Topdress Grain

"The Blackland farmer who has not yet topdressed his small grains may be fortunate."
 So says Joe E. Cole of Denton, agronomist with the Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University. (The prolonged rains have forced many producers beyond the usual date for topdressing small grains. For the same reason, small grains have not made much growth.)
 "And," Cole explained, "some of the topdressed nitrogen might have been lost because of the cold, wet soils."
 He says producers still have time in which to topdress. Concurring with him are Texas Agricultural Experiment Station personnel at Denton, McGregor and Temple.
 "The subsoil moisture is the best which most producers can remember, and they can use this much to their advantage."
 "Topdressing now with nitrogen (ammonium nitrate) should increase yields if the nitrogen is applied between now and the time the grain starts to joint," Cole explained.

LIVER ABSCESSSES
An Invisible Tax On Cattlemen

Every packing plant and many beef feedlots are constantly battling to produce as many healthy livers and as few condemned livers as possible. Beef liver as a variety meat has become an important staple in the diet of Americans, and thanks to the efforts of feedlot operators, packers and U. S. government inspectors, more than 27 million premium quality livers are processed annually.
 Another 4 1/2 million livers, however, are condemned annually at slaughter, primarily because of a disease complex few cattlemen ever see evidence of—except in the packing plant. It is estimated that rumenitis, or liver abscess complex, causes more than half of all condemned livers.
 As one western packer recently commented, "Every liver we lose is a $3.50 write-off for us, and if a feedlot shows a record of heavy losses, we in turn must dock subsequent cattle from the source. For us, liver condemnations are a very serious matter."

But, in addition to docking, cattlemen have found that animals with liver abscesses are less economical gainers and take extra feed to make a pound of gain. Evidence to this effect was recently turned up in University of Illinois studies along with another important fact. Medication, at a level of 70 milligrams per head daily with a broad-spectrum antibiotic, such as Aureomycin, does an excellent job of reducing the incidence of abscesses. In previous studies, at Colorado State University, results with 1,895 animals showed that Aureomycin reduced condemnations for liver abscesses by 70 per cent.
 Today some meat packers such as Monfort Packing Company at Greeley, Colorado, ask feedlot operators from whom they buy to include an antibiotic such as Aureomycin in their feeds.

 Today more and more meat packers are alerting cattle producers to the seriousness of the disease and of liver abscesses that mean a loss to the industry of 7 million dollars a year. One answer for cattlemen seems to be the use of continuous medication in the feed with a broad range antibiotic such as Aureomycin. It will pay off in bigger profits at marketing.

Thanks to effective feeding precautions that include the use of beef feeds containing Aureomycin, millions of healthy beef livers come off the packing plant processing line annually.

Auto Corrosion Loss In Billions!

DETROIT, MICHIGAN — The U. S. Department of Commerce reports that corrosion loss in the United States is estimated at $10-billion annually and, perhaps 50 per cent of this loss is in the automotive field. It appears this figure is on the rise.
 One of the contributing factors is 1968 vehicle body design. This, along with industrial fallout and air pollution, moist and salty coastal air, road chemicals, heated garages, snow and just plain water — the principal causes of rust and corrosion — points toward continuing rust problems for car and truck owners throughout the U. S.
 Although auto companies spend millions of dollars each year on rust preventives, an estimated 30 per cent of all buyers still get additional after-market rust protection for their cars and trucks.
 In the past few years, the manufacturers have stepped up their use of rust-inhibiting primers either with a spray application or dip. Use of galvanized steel, zinc and aluminum coatings have also increased. But, body design, in itself, an ever-changing necessity, aggravates the problem as certain design features are conducive to corrosion.
 Often those curving lines attractive to the eye lead to confined, poorly ventilated areas in which moisture and dirt can accumulate. And, it is now an accepted fact that most rust begins from the inside, rather than from the outside as had been the popularly accepted theory.
 Salt, either from the air in coastal regions or from deicing chemicals, has often been felt to be the principal culprit in speeding up rust destruction. However, recent studies, such as those conducted by the Ontario (Canada) Highway Department, are specifically reporting that "atmosphere pollution rather than salt is shaping up as the real villain in the rusting of automobiles."
 Over New York City alone, almost 600,000 tons of sulfur dioxide is in the air and a simple rain contributes to form dilute acid which accelerates the natural tendency of steel to rust. In fact, pure water itself has been found to be more corrosive than certain salt solutions.
 Heated garages, where solid ice or snow on a vehicle is turned into a liquid state in the melting process, also are rust inducing.
 Besides the obvious liability to a vehicle's looks and resale value, auto rust also is becoming an increasing safety problem. The Society of Automotive Engineers (SAE) has stated that salt spray rapidly deteriorates brake lines and steering apparatus, and some fleets report that 40 per cent of their brake lines are rust damaged after two years of service.
 The auto industry's advances in surface rust protectives, costly salt additives now in use by certain municipalities, and undercoating which reaches only 12 per cent of a vehicle's rust problem areas are all attempts to solve the rust dilemma.
 Still another, and probably the most complete of the rust-preventing activities, is after-market rustproofing.
 One firm (Ziebart Process Corp. of Detroit) uses patented equipment and strategically located access holes to get to the critical inside areas of a vehicle, such as doors and body panels, which are coated with factory-engineered and government-proven rust-preventive sealant for guaranteed protection.
 The City of Detroit, one of hundreds of municipalities using after-market rustproofing states: "For every dollar spent on rustproofing, the City saves $50." The growing number of after-market rustproofing users includes the U. S. Post Office Department, the U. S. Army and Navy, auto and truck fleets and individual car owners.
