VOLUME XXXIII

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS 76252 JANUARY 24, 1969

NUMBER 9

The best wishes of this country and of many other countries were with Richard Nixon Monday as he became our 37th president. We of the United States confidently expect him to exercise the leadership by which we can overcome many social and economic ills that plagued our nation in recent years, and also to bring a successful and honorable conclusion to the Vietnam war. Meanwhile other nations are hoping that he will make wise use of this country's prestige and power in promoting harmony and stability in world affairs.

No previous American president has faced a bigger job. That fact is self evident because of the many complexities of our modern civilization and especially because of the special tensions created by problems of the past few years.

The problem uppermost in most people's mind is the war, which long ago became the most resented of our history. Until this one the public has strongly supported the government's stand in every conflict. But now it's different. Loyal people are frustrated, and critical of wasting lives and wealth in a winless fight. At the same time a subversive element in this country is openly cheering for the enemy and trying to sabotage our country's effort. To make matters worse we are trying to negotiate with a typical communist enemy, devoid of honor and dedicated to world domination.

Despite all that, our goal is unchanged. That is, to preserve the freedom and independence of South Vietnam while checking the spread of communism in Southeast Asia. To honor that commitment, in spite of treacherous, arbitrary negotiators over there and traitors at home, is our new president's first undertaking. We hope he'll be backed by the nation's confidence and prayers.

Domestic goals likewise present a big challenge. In many cases they involve undoing boners of past administrations. As regards inflation, the first requirement is to stop reckless spending and have government live within its means, even start paying off the national debt. As regards welfare, means should be taken to weed out the undeserving beneficiaries and grafting administrators. As regards law and order, there must be more prosecution and less solicitude for criminals. Regarding social security, a way must be found to phase out the socialism and gradually convert it into an insurance system as it was originally claimed to be.

Analysis of past elections have interpreted the outcomes as a mandates from the people to adopt certain policies. By the same reasoning the last one to can be definitely regarded as a mandate. Though Nixon's margin was small, the overall vote was a strong repudiation of prevailing policies.

He now comes into office as the leader of the entire nation, the majority of which voted for a change. To that majority the change means a sincere effort to revive traditional American virtues like hard work, thrift, self reliance, patriotism, loyalty, honesty, decency, respect toward God and authority and the rights of others. The goal those people yearn for is best expressed in our oath of allegiance: "One nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

To those who have not registered as voters in 1969: Better hurry! Time is running out. The deadline is January 31, only a week away.

We're aware, of course, that some people aren't particularly interested in the subject this time because this is an off year — no elections on the national, state or county level. However there will be local elections to choose our representatives on the city council, the school board and the hospital board. Perhaps also a special election on a bond issue. Though they don't come often we can never be sure that one of them will not happen this year.

Best policy is to be ready just in case this is one of those years. The same applies to the local election races. We never know when a hot contest will develop and those who took care of their voting eligibility will be glad they did.

Getting a registration certificate doesn't cost anything and requires very little effort. Just get an application blank

Jaycees Ask for Letters Opposing School Proposals

Muenster Jaycees at their regular meeting last Thursday night voted unanimously to oppose the county wide school consolidation program recommended by the Governor's Committee on Public School Education.

Members also agreed to send letters to their state senator and representative asking them to oppose the elimination of small schools and the ruinous consequence on small communities.

Jaycee President Ted Henscheid said the discussion pointed out principal objections to the big consolidated schools such as long bus rides, less parent-teacher contact, less participation in school activities, greater disciplinary and drop-out problems, and the bankruptcy of many families who are forced out of business in small towns.

Henscheid said the Jaycees also urge the rest of the community to oppose the county wide consolidation proposals and write their objections to their senator and representative and governor.

2 Muenster Men Have Applied for Master's at NTSU

Three new members were admitted at the meeting increasing the present roster to 30. They are Robert F. Klement, David Bayer and Ronnie Russell.

Sewer Plant Receives Official OK and Praise

Muenster's new sewer plant is nearing completion, has been approved for another payment of its federal grant, and has received an amended permit allowing disposal of its liquid into Elm Creek.

Those facts were revealed by Mayor Earl Fisher at the city council meeting Monday. He added that Joe Copeland and Robert Kyle of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration expressed praise as well as approval of the local job, and the city is now eligible for payment on 75 percent completion.

More praise of the project came from Paul Gregory, city engineer. The Muenster plant is the first of its kind designed by Gregory and comparatively new to the state and the nation.

The permit for disposal was received from the Texas Water Quality Board and specifies a much more rigid standard of purity than the previous permit.

Quality of the plant's discharge led to demands which brought about the improvements. Originally the plant satisfied state specifications but regulations on stream pollution have become much more rigid. Muenster was told it must meet the higher standard of purity.

Inquiries about plant design led to the city council's decision to build the oxidation ditch type of plant, also known as the race track. Several cities said they were highly pleased with it.

According to Sewer Superintendent Joe Mosier, Muenster's new plant is almost complete and will possibly be in use in three weeks. Still to be finished are a pump house and pit and installation of motors.

The plant gets its name from the fact that sewage is kept in motion in a big ditch. Oxidation by contact with air plus bacteria action provides the sewage treatment.

The ditch has an oval shape and a circumference of about 800 feet. Depth of the stream will be 4 to 4.5 feet and width will be about 25 feet. Volume of sewage in motion will be about a half million gallons.

Two 25 h.p. motors drive the stream-wide paddle wheels which keep sewage flowing at about 3 feet per second, fast enough to keep solids in suspension.

Sewage flows into the ditch continuously and is pumped out as it overflows a drainage gate. From there it goes to a clarifier where solids are allowed to settle out. Liquid from there is pumped into lagoons, solids are pumped back to the race track for further treatment.

Liquid in the lagoons is further purified by oxidation and bacteria action. When drained from the lagoons into the creek it is expected to exceed the state's standard of purity.

Contract for construction was awarded to Bayer Concrete on a low bid of $87,876.96. An engineering fee of about $11,000 plus other costs brings the total cost to about $100,000.

The federal grant to help finance the project is $28,680 and the balance is being paid by the city. That balance is partly paid by some $30,000 from the city's general fund and the remainder is raised by the issue of warrants.

Principal source of funds to redeem the warrants is the city sales tax adopted early last year and effective since July 1.

MOD Collection Scheduled Jan. 26 At Church Doors

Muenster's 1969 March of Dimes fund is expected to receive a big boost next Sunday, Jan. 26, when VFW Auxiliary members, sponsors of the campaign, accept voluntary contributions following services at Sacred Heart Church.

The annual church door collection is the fund's chief source of revenue.

Other contributions will come from school children, from canteens placed in local business houses, and from a benefit film sponsored by the CDA on Jan. 30.

Dimes folders were distributed to students at both schools this week and canteens are up in places of business.

Auxiliary members have issued a reminder that all funds collected in the drive are now used to fight birth defects and that help is available locally should it be needed.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Flusche and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Hesse represented the local VFW Post and Auxiliary at the county campaign's kickoff dinner meeting in Gainesville.

Kiddies Will Have Boxing Tournament Sponsored by JCs

A boxing tournament for youngsters 8 through 12 years of age is in the making under sponsorship of Muenster Jaycees. The event is scheduled for Sacred Heart gym on Sunday, February 16 with Gerald Hess and Charles Bayer as co-chairmen.

Application slips were distributed Tuesday among boys of the 8-12 ages at both schools and must be returned with a parent's signature by the boys who wish to participate. The application excuses the sponsors of liability in case of injury.

Awards will be presented to the winners, but the nature of awards has not been decided up to now.

SENTIMENTAL VISIT

On Monday, January 13, as he entered the final week of his residence in the White House, President Johnson made what was described as a sentimental visit to the AFL-CIO building just across Lafayette Square from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. He did not go empty-handed. He carried with him a polished plaque on which were mounted 100 pens which he had used in signing as many Great Society bills.

"I know of no living single group," said the President, "that I think has been more responsible for the advances that have been made in this field in the last five years than the AFL-CIO headed by George Meany..."

That in itself is a very interesting observation, since it is not a matter of record that any members of the Congress presented themselves to the voters as Labor Party representatives, or candidates of the AFL-CIO.

But even more interesting was President Johnson's observation that he and George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO, had met a total of 49 times over the past 62 months, either in the President's office or the family living quarters, and that they had further had telephone conversations an additional 82 times. And some of those telephone conversations were, in the President's words, "rather extended."

One wonders how many Cabinet Officers had as many as 131 intimate discussions with the President in the course of the 62 months.

Granted, the Presidency of the United States is the loneliest job in the world, and the Chief Executive has every right to choose his friends and advisers. Still, he is President of all the people, and there must be some businessmen and farmers — the head of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, or the National Association of Manufacturers, or the President of the American Farm Bureau Federation — who will notice in passing how their opinions were heard on the affairs of state somewhat less than 131 times in 62 months.

Informed estimates have been made that organized labor spent as much as $60 million in the campaign last fall to elect Hubert H. Humphrey. Lyndon Johnson has told us why.

RED GOAL STILL VIETNAM VICTORY

Shortly after the start of the Paris talks, Truong Chinh, number three man in the North Vietnamese politburo, gave a 23,000 word lecture to the Communist cadres in Hanoi. He said that North Vietnam's objective was to conquer South Vietnam and transform it into a "socialist society" using whatever "revolutionary violence" was necessary — purges, executions, torture, that sort of thing. Once that was accomplished the other states of Indochina — Laos and Cambodia — would have to be brought into the socialist sphere and then Hanoi would "bring liberation to the oppressed peoples" of the rest of Southeast Asia. Truong Chinh said military force and negotiation would be used alternately or simultaneously in this battle. He credited the "contradictions between the doves and the hawks in the American ruling class" with helping Hanoi in its objectives. It's all down there on paper, just as Mein Kampf was a generation or more ago. What it outlines is the domino theory.

Overeating

Don't continue to eat until you become stuffed and experience discomfort. Push yourself away from the table while you still feel slightly hungry. When eating a big meal, allow sufficient time between courses to assure proper digestion of your food. The average stomach has a capacity of about a quart and a half.

Ice Skating

Don't risk skating on frozen bodies of water until the crust is at least four inches deep. If possible, skate only in supervised areas, preferably on ice rinks not deeper than a foot or two. If you are planning to skate on a frozen lake, river or pond where the water is generally deep, make sure the ice is strong enough to support you. Also, skate with a companion as a safety precaution.

Carbon Monoxide

Check your car's exhaust system frequently for leaks. The risk of carbon monoxide poisoning from a faulty exhaust system is much greater during winter. Leave one of your car windows open slightly when driving an extended period of time. Above all, never allow the motor to run in any enclosed area, particularly a garage.

COMMON SENSE AT LEAST

Evidence is growing that common sense is beginning to enter the picture of firearms control. Rather than saddling the law-abiding citizen with onerous restrictions, a number of states are enacting measures imposing mandatory penalties for the misuse of firearms in crime, a step that has long been advocated by responsible groups and public officials.

Pennsylvania and Alaska enacted mandatory penalty laws in 1968. The Maryland Legislature will soon have before it a bill to impose a five-year sentence on every person convicted of a crime with a dangerous or deadly weapon. A similar proposal is expected to be before the 1969 Nevada Legislature. Another straw in the wind is the resolution adopted at the National Convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, urging increased sentences for crimes with firearms and opposing federal firearms registration.

These are constructive steps. And they are an encouraging contrast to the kind of extremism which holds that the cure for practically any problem lies in granting the federal government increased police powers over the affairs of nonlawbreakers. The American people have never taken kindly to this brand of oppression. So far as most citizens are concerned, it went out of style with the American Revolution.

YOUTH CRUSADES AGAINST LITTERBUGS

A Klamath Falls, Oregon, youth, 16-year-old high school junior Bill Manley, has launched his own fight against litter in his community. He sought and received permission from the Klamath Falls City Council to clean up the city. He has enlisted other high school boys and girls to assist him on weekends in gathering roadside debris, cleaning vacant lots and removing waste from the shores of Klamath Lake, adjacent to the city. According to a press report, "The work is being done without pay. He told county and city officials he is just interested in keeping things clean."

Young Mr. Manley, by stimulating the interest of youth in an anti-litterbug campaign around his community, could well start a national youth movement for cleaner cities. After all, it is the youth who will be living for many decades with the mess that litterbugs are creating around us today. The effort of this high school student and his helpers deserves the widest publicity and encouragement of fellow citizens.

WOODSHED JUDGMENT

The December issue of the Texas Police Journal has printed a heartening decision by District Judge Herman Jones, of Austin. It is much too long to quote in full here, but we thought it might refresh many readers if we submitted the following paragraphs:

"The Constitution and the laws of this state and nation have as one of their high purposes to safeguard the individuality, the diversity and the right of protest and dissent of each citizen... This is a day when it needs to be emphasized that these individual rights are not without limit and, further, that they carry with them a correlative duty to respect and honor the rights of others."

"Words like 'duty' and 'responsibility' seem to be in disrepute, but they are equally as significant as words like 'rights' and 'privileges.'"

"When an individual, in the exercise of his claimed rights, interferes with, disturbs or disrupts the legitimate pursuits of others, organized society must blow the whistle. It seems to me that this is exactly what has occurred in the case at bar."

"Society, acting through its legally authorized school of-officials, has determined that certain standards of decorum, orderliness, dignity and appearance should be maintained in the classrooms of our public schools to promote teaching and learning there..."

"The court required to determine only whether or not the regulations are so arbitrary, unreasonable and capricious as to be illegal, and thereby deprive plaintiff of his constitution and legal rights. It is the opinion of the court that they are not."

"It should be remembered that this young man is not required to trim his hair. But if he wishes to participate in the educational benefits afforded at McCallum High School, he shall trim his hair and comply with all other valid regulations of that school... Finally, while it may be improper from this place, I cannot close without making an observation that may serve no purpose other than to demonstrate how incredibly wide the current generation gap really is."

"If a little more than four decades ago, I had been sent home from school because my department or appearance did not comport with the decisions of the authorities of DeCatur High School, there is no punishment that could be dreamed up by the principal, the superintendent, the school board or the United Nations which I could even remember compared with the treatment my mother and dad would have dealt out to me in the woodshed. You may be sure there would have been no questions asked, no debating society, and my rights under the Constitution and laws of my state and nation would not have been the subject of discussion..."

Nationwide Rental Service Announces Gainesville Store

Householders, do-it-yourselfers, and businessmen in the Gainesville, Texas area will be able to rent everything from A(xes) to Z(xes) at low rental rates beginning January 31, 1969.

James Norman announced the grand opening of his A to Z Rental Center, 734 North Grand Avenue, Gainesville, January 31-February 9.

The center is the newest member of the nationwide, owner-operated A to Z Rental System. Refreshments will be served and there will be a grand prize for all to participate in.

They said the center will offer for rental practically all conceivable items used by businessmen and tradesmen, householders and apartment dwellers from axes (everyone knows what they are) to axes (an axlike tool for cutting roofing slate).

The rental outlet will offer such expected things as sanders, power drills and saws, painting equipment and scaffolding, staircars and furniture dollies, and plumber's and mechanic's tools.

However, they explained, human needs don't stop with these and neither will the rental inventory of the center.

Businessmen and contractors will be able to rent floor care equipment and tools of the trade from cement mixers to power generators.

The new establishment will offer yard and garden equipment and such home appliances and conveniences as rug shampooers, TV sets, and vacuum cleaners. Adult and children's furniture, including cribs and highchairs, will be provided along with sports equipment, banquet and party needs, and invalid and sickroom equipment.

The new rental center was established to meet community needs underscored by a simple economic fact, they noted. Everyone needs items from time to time that it just doesn't pay to buy because they won't be used with sufficient frequency or for long periods.

Hidden advantages of renting instead of buying, he added, include the elimination of storage when the item is not in use as well as avoiding maintenance of mechanical products.

Norman formerly was with National Supply and is a member of the Optimist Club as well as a Training Officer in the Coast Guard Auxiliary. Norman lives with his wife, Karla, and family at 507 South Dixon, Gainesville.

Size and Cost of Higher Education To Double by 1980

Top officials and legislators were told by the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University System that higher education will double in size and cost by 1980.
 Board laid its "blueprint for progress in higher education" before executives and lawmakers. Details include proposals for six new state colleges, 53 community junior college districts and additional medical-dental education facilities.

It is predicted by the Board that enrollments will grow from 375,000 in 1969 to 707,800 in 1980. Additional facilities will require $401.4 million in expenditures by 1980. Annual spending on educational programs will rise from $203.5 million to $404.2 million by 1975, study indicated. As a means of financing part of the $132 million cost of new senior colleges, the Board apparently will suggest an $80 million bond issue secured by the $18 a month student activity charge.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

Many landowners in the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District started their seedbed preparation last fall for grass planting. They knew, in order to obtain an adequate seedbed, early preparation was necessary.

By leaving the ground rough it stores moisture and by freezing and thawing mellows and settles the seedbed. Some fields may be too rough to plant now and a drag or harrow may be used to level the ground and kill any competition that may be there. This should be done now because planting time is here.

Having the seedbed in good condition at planting time gives farmers a better chance of getting a good stand of grass. It is like farming any crop — if the seedbed is prepared today and planted tomorrow, what would be the chances of the crop doing anything? Grass is the same way. It needs a good seedbed if a stand of grass is expected, states Arlin Naegeli, SCS technician at Muenster. Anyone desiring any technical assistance on grass planting should contact the Soil Conservation Service Office serving his area.

Broad Scope Of 4-H Projects Keep Youths Busy

Heading the list of the top 10 projects undertaken by the nation's three million 4-H youths are animal science, clothing, foods and plant science. Recent figures released by the Cooperative Extension Service show that youngsters also are very much interested in health and physical fitness.

In addition to animal and plant sciences, the application of scientific principles is a part of nearly all 4-H projects, says the Extension Service.

Recreation, engineering and safety are three more areas in which large numbers of 4-H members excel. Projects involving management and furnishings for the home show high enrollment, as does conservation.

Community service and personal development are a prime concern of today's 4-H'ers as well, judging from the more than 300,000 participating.

Most 4-H boys and girls spend their time on more than one project, as the survey shows. Boys may be involved in plant and animal sciences and engineering projects.

A girl may study plant science to make her horticultural project more meaningful. Or food science to get the most from her foods and nutrition projects. Overlapping areas are safety and conservation. Both affect the individual, the home, community and nation.

Specific programs—or projects—carried on under the 10 main categories have definite objectives that help develop skills and stimulate young minds to "clearer thinking," 4-H leaders point out.

For example, a youngster

Dairies Grow in Cows per herd and Unit Production

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 16 — The Texas dairy industry is growing, according to Dairy Herd Improvement Association figures for 1968.

The report, prepared by J. W. Davis, Extension dairy specialist with Texas A&M University, shows that the average dairy herd has almost doubled from the 57.5 average of 1968 to 97.4 cow years in 1968.

During the same period, the average milk yield per cow rose from 8,112 to 11,156 pounds per year.

The average yearly milk per herd more than doubled from 466,440 pounds to 1,086,594 pounds per year for the ten-year period, and the average daily milk per herd went from 1,278 to 2,976 pounds. Butterfat per herd increased from 19,550 to 39,837 pounds.

Butterfat per cow went from 340 to 409 lbs. per year during the 1958-68 decade, and the daily butterfat average went from 53.6 to 97.4 pounds.

The statistics for the ten years were tabulated from annual report of the DHIA's test year ending Sept. 30 1968. The comparisons are made to show the progress made through the DHIA, Davis pointed out.

Bobby J. Traweek, Dublin, had the high milk herd in 1968 with 45.3 cow years producing 16,475 pounds of milk and 593 pounds of fat. J. Chester Elliff of Tulia owned the high fat herd with 85.5 cow years producing 11,574 pounds of milk and 658 pounds of butterfat.

Davis said that of the cows on test in 1968, 78.9 percent were Holstein, 13.4 percent Jersey and 7.7 percent were other breeds.

The past statewide results are good yardsticks by which dairy producers can make their own comparisons. All records should be complete, accurate and used in making management decisions, the specialist stressed. Records can show the producer which cows to cull, how to make better decisions in management and breeding.

With the trend toward larger operations, the purchase of more feed and greater use of mechanical equipment, these records will play an even larger role, Davis added.

Multiple Birth Breed of Sheep Introduced in US

COLLEGE STATION — A breed of sheep from Finland, noted for producing multiple births, has just arrived in the United States and is in quarantine at Clifton, N. J.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has brought the sheep in from a flock introduced into Ireland in 1966 at the Agricultural Institute.

Finnish Landrace sheep usually produce an average of two to four lambs per lambing in contrast to one or two born to American domestic breeds, according to Dr. J. W. Bassett, associate professor of animal science at Texas A&M University.

Individuals sometimes produce six or seven at one time. The descendants of the flock from Ireland will be distributed to USDA Agricultural Research Stations in Beltsville, Md., Clay Center, Neb., and Dubois, Idaho for crossbreeding experiments. It is hoped that through crossing the Finnish Landrace with domestic breeds already in the U. S. lambing rates can be increased.

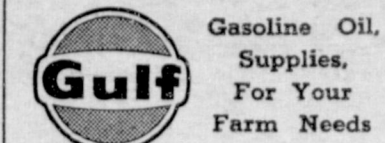

The sheep are now raised mainly for mutton and mature ewes average 100 to 130 pounds. The white-faced sheep are accustomed to cold climates but could be utilized in Texas, the A&M professor believes.

"We hope that in the near future Texas can receive some of these prolific sheep so we can do our own crossbreeding to see exactly how the breed can be used within the state," Bassett added.

Direct imports from Finland are not permitted because of the danger of foot-and-mouth disease coming into the country.

The international boundary line between the United States and Canada is crossed more often than any other in the world.

The problem of getting men to the moon is solved. Getting them to and from work in our cities will, of course, take a little longer.

Soil-cement can either be mixed directly on the job, or produced in a central plant and trucked to the job site. Soil-cement pavements are usually built five to eight inches thick.

Soil-cement was introduced as a low-cost paving material in 1935. Since that time, it has gained worldwide acceptance in the construction of roads, streets, dam facings, subbases and parking areas.

Many people own a part of TP&L

Texas Power & Light Company was organized in 1912 and continues to operate today as an investor-owned business. The investors are thousands of people like you and your neighbors who entrust their savings because they have confidence that such an investment will return a reasonable dividend.

Many of the owners of TP&L are direct shareholders. Many others are indirect owners through funds paid for life insurance policies and pension trusts which, in turn, have been invested in the securities of the electric utility business.

Investor ownership is a vital factor in America's free enterprise system. TP&L is proud to be a part of this system and to provide dependable, economical electric service throughout North, Central and East Texas.

MHS Teams Break Losing Streak in 30-B Competition

Charles Cash and his MHS teams marked up their first wins in the 30-B conference race Tuesday night as they breezed past the Lindsay teams. Up to then they lost double headers to Alvord, Slidell and Krum.

The past week's action included the Krum and Lindsay games plus a girls' B team game with Gainesville State School.

Hosting Lindsay Tuesday night the Hornets went on a 76-29 scoring spree and most of the team members got on the scoreboard. They took an early lead and gained in every period.

Point makers were John Monday 23, Dale Cash 16, Mike Hennigan 4, Tommy Henscheid 6, Bobby Bruns 6, Glenn Feldehoff 6, John Feldehoff 5, Mike Cason and Gery Cash 3 each, Carl Endres and Andy Knabe 2 each.

Lindsay scorers were A. J. Feldehoff 18, M. Moster 6, G. Beyer 5.

In the evening's opener, MHS girls took a 17-10 first period lead and gained 4 more points in the next three quarters. Scores were 26-18 at the half and 47-36 at the end. Debbie Cain hit 26 for MHS, Debbie Yosten 14 and Joan Monday 7. Sandmann led the Lindsay effort with 15, Hess made 10, Hellingner 6 and Hundt 5.

Games last Friday night on the MHS court with Krum were both decisive as the visiting boys won 80-52 and the girls 49-33. Muenster girls trailed 27-16 at the half and had a miserable third quarter ending 41-18. They got organized in the fourth and reduced Krum's lead by 7 points. The scorers were Debbie Cain 24, Debbie Yosten, Kathy Swirczynski 2, Joan Monday 1.

Hornets lost their game mostly in the first quarter, allowing Krum a 21-5 lead. In the remaining periods Krum gained slowly by counts of 42-20, 62-38 and 80-52. John Monday was high for Muenster with 27. Tommy Henscheid made 13, Dale Cash 10 and John Feldehoff 2.

The B game was featured by a lack of scoring on both sides. Muenster had less trouble and won 17-7. The scorers were Kathy Swirczynski and Shirley Dittfurth 6 each, Pam Waltescheid and Judy Agnell 2 each, Kristie Stormer 1.

Next games on schedule for MHS are Era, here, Friday night and Forestburg, there, Tuesday night.

When everyone is against you, the chances are you're wrong.

Parochial Teams Win 3 and Lose 2 In Week's Action

Two out of two was the record of Joe Wilkinson's Sacred Heart Tigettes for the past week, but Joe Feldehoff's Tigers had to settle for one out of three.
