5 Trees Planted On Arbor Day at Muenster Schools

Since state supreme courts of California and Texas have ruled that property taxes are unequal and unconstitutional we're hearing a revival of proposals for the "value added tax," identified as the VAT method of raising revenue.

It's not a new method. Rather it has been in effect in some European countries for a number of years. It is applied by adding a tax to each stage of manufacture and distribution starting with the raw product and ending with sale to the consumer. For instance, there would be a tax on ore from the mine, on iron from the foundry, on an iron product from the factory, then from the distributor, the wholesaler and the retailer — assuming that the progression can be held to so few steps. With each step there would be a two fold increase, one being the business man's profit, the other the government's tax.

In effect it's a sizeable sales tax. The consumer in the end pays the total of all the VAT additions. And obviously it has merit or the Europeans would have got rid of it long ago. Likewise some of our own tax people seem to think it's a good idea. Most likely it would be a practical and fair way to raise revenue.

But little can be said in support of the idea that VAT become a means of raising federal revenue for school support — that is, as a substitute for local property tax, which has become illegal. A tragic result of it would be that the last bit of local control of schools would end and federal control would be increased. It would tend to separate children even farther from family and community control. Another problem is the ease by which the VAT rate can be upped whenever Washington bureaucrats want more money.

Within limits the idea seems good. It appears to be fair and practical as a way of collecting some of the tax needed by government. But as a substitute for property tax it is no better than the system it replaces.

First of all the property tax should not be condemned because it is unequal. Rather the legislators ought to put more effort into making it equal. Not the system but the people who apply it are at fault.

Nor should we go for the line that one group of people have to carry too much of the tax load. Abolition of property tax would go to the other extreme, allowing one group to carry too little of the tax load.

Every kind of tax we can imagine is discriminatory for or against someone. We can see that heirs of fortunes may live mostly on what they have and pay little income tax. We can imagine very frugal spenders paying comparatively little in sales taxes — or in VAT after its adoption. If property tax is outlawed we can imagine big property owners — actually very wealthy people — who get by with paying very little of any tax.

To this column's way of thinking, the courts goofed when they said ad valorem tax is unconstitutional. That could possibly be said of our application of it, but not the tax itself. And to get rid of it seems equivalent to junking a car because it won't start. Perhaps it only needs a bit of adjustment.

Property tax seems to be a necessary part of an over-all method that brings in adequate revenue and divides the tax burden fairly among the public. Rather than eliminate it the politicians should be working to establish equalization of rates as well as a proper level of rates. Let there be equalization among the ad valorem taxpayers and a reasonable division of the tax load among property and other sources.

Another irritating fact is the exemption enjoyed by some organizations. For instance foundations and church organizations which invest their surplus funds in business and compete with people who have to pay tax. Those organizations should be required to pay both income tax and property tax on those operations, just like the rest of us.

Federal, state and local tax collections have increased 181 percent since 1956, notes the National Association of Manufacturers. The NAM went on to say that in that year the total take was about $100 billion; in 1971, it's estimated at $281 billion.

Auxiliary Clears Debt on Project; Plans Heart Drive

Muenster Hospital Auxiliary members, meeting in regular monthly session for January Thursday night, learned that the recovery room bed for Muenster Hospital is now clear of debt, paid for in full at a cost of $562.60 and is in use at the hospital. This was the organization's major current project.

A report of donations in lieu of Christmas cards sponsored by the Auxiliary revealed a total of $518.00. This was Auxiliary-sponsored for the new bed.

Mrs. Roy Monday reported on the Stork Derby and thanked all who contributed to the shower of gifts for the first baby born in Muenster Hospital in 1972. Darrell Mullins and his parents Mr. and Mrs. Phil Mullins, were the winners and expressed thanks to all who participated. The little boy was born Jan. 6.

In other business the Auxiliary agreed to again sponsor the Heart Fund campaign, planning this year's contributions to come from church door collections at Sacred Heart and First Baptist Church instead of the customary members' march for donations.

Next benefit for the organization's treasury will be a dance in April.

For the program members saw a film released by the Heart Association, "The Better Odds for a Long Life." It was shown by David Bright, hospital administrator.

Mrs. Walter Grewing, president, presided for the meeting and Mrs. Richard Pagel won the door prize.

Muenster Teams Beat Lake Dallas Lose to P' Point Muenster High's basketball teams broke even in their activity of the past week. They took two from Lake Dallas last Friday night on the local court and lost both at Pilot Point Tuesday night.

Following the mid-season games last Friday MHS girls were tied with Frisco for first place, both having a 4-1 record. Other standings in the girls race were Pilot Point 3-2, Nocona 2-3, Sanger 2-3 and Lake Dallas 0-5.

The Hornets were fourth in the boys' standings with 2-3, and others were Nocona 5-0, Pilot Point 4-1, Sanger 3-2, Lake Dallas 1-4, Frisco 0-5.

In Friday's game the Hornets were tied 6-6 at the quarter, then gained to leads of 20-11 and 33-21 in the next two periods. Just before the third ended Doris Felderhoff was injured by a fall and was sidelined for the rest of the game. After scoring only 2 in the last period Muenster won 35-29. Felderhoff scored 23, Janet and Joyce Swirczynski and Dolly Bayer made 4 each.

The Hornets played one of their better games in turning away the fired up Falcons 72-67. With an 18-16 first quarter lead they gained 3 for a 36-31 half time lead and 2 more for a 53-46 third quarter, then lost 2 in the fourth for the final count of 72-67. Scorers were Jim Endres 24, Jerry Eckart 14, Tom Otto 14, Randy Wolf 10, Mark Lippe 8, Ronnie Felderhoff 2.

At Pilot Point the Muenster girls' system was stymied when the defense ganged up on Doris Felderhoff and cut her scoring to less than half, and the other forwards, apparently shaken by the maneuver, shot miserably. She made only 2 of 17 lay up shots in the first half. As a result Pilot Point gained by counts of 8-3, 15-9 and 26-15 before a fourth quarter surge to the 47-28 win. Doris Felderhoff scored 19, Joyce Swirczynski 5 and Dolly Bayer 4.

MHS boys played the Bearcats close in the first half and trailed 22-21, then had a miserable third quarter while the Bearcats took a 41-28 lead. Muenster gained in the fourth but it was too late. Final count was 56-47. MHS scorers were Jerry Eckart 11, Jim Endres 10, Tom Otto 10, Randy Wolf 10, Mark Lippe 4, Ronnie Felderhoff 2.

Friday's games will be with Sanger on the local court, and next Tuesday's with Frisco, also at Muenster.

If the students who protest capitalism in this country could be traded for the students in the Iron Curtain countries protesting Communism, maybe all sides could be satisfied.

Jaycees Receive Three Trophies at Regional Meeting

Muenster Jaycees came home with most of the honors from a regional visitation meeting at Gainesville Tuesday night.

With nineteen members present they won the regional travel trophy which is awarded on the basis of member-miles of travel to reach the meeting.

Next Dan Hamric was given the October-November trophy for heading the outstanding project of the region — which included the long period of negotiation to acquire a surplus military plane for the city park and the job of moving it to Muenster.

And Dennis Joseph Hess received the December-January award for heading another top project of the region. It was the sale of light bulbs to finance the purchase of Christmas gifts to handicapped children of Denton State School, and delivery of the gifts.

Muenster Boys Win Four Trophies at Wichita Tourney

Muenster's participation last week in the Sunrise Optimist boxing tournament in Wichita Falls was seriously hampered by the local flu epidemic. Nevertheless a token group of Muenster boys was there and four of them came home with trophies. Roger Haverkamp, Nicky Stoffels and Damian Walterscheid were winners and Keith Hess was a runner-up.

Directors of the Boys Club in session Monday night were lavish in their praise of Mike Stoffels for his outstanding work as coach and supervisor of the boys. Along with giving many hours of his time in teaching the boys and accompanying them to tournaments, Mike stresses the ideals of honesty, sportsmanship and fair play. His good work has been apparent in sportsmanship trophies won by the club and in the well managed tournament the week before in Sacred Heart gym.

Directors also discussed their hopes of buying an old school bus to carry the team to and from tournaments, thereby solving a troublesome and costly transportation problem. They are looking for a bus of acceptable condition but a price to fit their limited budget.

Muenster C of C Joins in Honoring Highway Engineer

The Muenster Chamber of Commerce, during the past weekend received a letter of appreciation from the L. B. Deans of Wichita Falls expressing appreciation for its participation in the retirement dinner given him on January 7 observing his retirement from the Texas Highway Department after 40 years of service. Mr. Deans is district engineer for the Highway Department, stationed at Wichita Falls.

Muenster was represented at the dinner by J. M. Weinzapfel, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce highway committee and director chairman of the Texas Good Roads Association for Senatorial District 9; Ernest Jaska, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; and Earl Taylor and Robert Bayer, Cooke County commissioners of Precincts 3 and 4. In behalf of the Muenster C of C, Weinzapfel presented a hand carved wooden plaque in appreciation of Deans' part in highway and FM road development in Cooke County.

The Deans' letter said "Every time we look at the beautiful hand carved plaque you and the citizens of Muenster presented to us, we will re-live the many years it has been our privilege to work with you on many projects."

Surviving are six brothers and four sisters.

Completion Near On Phone Company Improvement Job

Completion of the expansion and modernization job for Muenster Telephone Cooperation is in sight, according to a progress report this week by Alvin Fuhrman, manager and co-owner.

The principal job of plowing in about 180 miles of buried cable has been completed and splicing of wires is well advanced. After the cables are installed in sections they have to be connected by separately splicing all of the wires of one to the wires of the next one. All of that splicing is finished and tested in the Myra, Forestburg and Rosston areas and service has been cut over to the new lines.

Likewise installation of central office equipment is finished in the Muenster exchange and routine maintenance, including both old and new, has been finished.

Principal work remaining is splicing and testing the newly installed wires of the Muenster area. Three cable splicers are on the job joining about 600 pairs of wires a day. They are expected to finish in about six weeks.

Also remaining is a final inspection of workmanship and cleanup to be performed by the owners, a REA field engineer and the chief engineer of the project.

Imaginary Interview

Mr. Gerry Pratt, a West Coast newspaper columnist, reports an imaginary interview with an imaginary old man of the kind who ran businesses in the days when there was far less government interference with the individual and far more respect for government leaders. The old man reminded columnist Gerry Pratt that, "There was time before you were old enough to lick a stamp when I could mail a letter to New York for 2-cents and it cost me $10 to telephone there. Today, he says, the postage is eight cents and the telephone call is down to $1 after six p.m. They are both utilities, the post office and the telephone company. One is run by the government and the rate has gone up 400 percent. The other is private and the cost has gone down about 900 percent." The old man points out, "... the most inflationary cost in this country today is the cost of government."

Mr. Pratt's mythical old man also held strong views on the inconsistency of government: "... government sells the oil industry a billion dollars worth of oil leases in Alaska... then comes along and stalls for two years before it decides you can build a pipeline to get out the oil they sold you. They put $800 million into an SST then because it was going to make as much noise as a 747 they paid another $300 million not to finish the job." There is no end to examples such as these, and Mr. Pratt touches on only a few. But they explain why respect for government and confidence in government is disappearing as rapidly as the gold at Fort Knox.

Proposals for Sanity in '72

Congressman John Schmitz (R-Cal.) offers the following proposals for improving our country in 1972. We would do well to keep them in mind, and to work toward achieving them:

Strengthening our national defense.

Eager to "reorder priorities" so as to get more "free Federal money" for their favorite domestic projects, far too many people are still trying to pretend that this issue isn't there or will go away. Many others are still genuinely unaware of, or unwilling to believe the extent of our present military weakness, which I have amply documented in past news-letters. If we are too weak to deter a Soviet attack, then all the other activities of our government become utterly pointless. Protecting our country from enemies foreign and domestic is, after all, the primary duty of our Federal Government.

Knowing our enemy and dealing with him as an enemy

Woolly-headed optimists and secret or open sympathizers can say all they want about the "mellowing" of aggressive international communism, but the fact remains that there is no hard evidence whatever indicating any change in the Communists' fixed purpose of conquering the world, nor justifying any greater trust in their pledged word, in treaties and the like. Under these circumstances it is the height of folly to regard Communist governments as anything but our sworn enemies and to deal with them on any basis other than that. As everyone knows, our policy toward them has been shifting steadily in their favor, especially during the past year. This must stop.

Restoring freedom to our economy

The gigantic, superlatively productive trillion-dollar American economy today lies shackled in the grip of the tightest system of mandatory Federal controls ever imposed in the absence of declared war. Whether or not such controls may seem to work at first, all history shows that in the long run they cannot stop inflation, but can and will cut production and dislocate trade. This is at least implicitly recognized by apologists for the present controls, who keep insisting they will not last. They should be asked: When will the controls be removed? What will you do to help remove them?

Reducing Federal spending and the Federal deficit

Present projections indicate a deficit for the current fiscal year of $27 billion and more to come next year, with huge spending increases for many Federal programs and departments (but only a very small increase for defense). National bankruptcy lies at the end of this road which we are now travelling with express-train speed. There are other vital issues as well — curbing the power of the courts, especially with regard to the forced busing of school children to achieve racial balance; saving the lives of babies from the abortionists; trying to restore sanity to our welfare programs and many of our school systems, for example. But the four I have discussed in some detail are those for which Congress and the President are directly responsible, and on which they should be held to account.

Health Hints

FROM BLUE SHIELD

With January having been designated as "Alcoholism Information Month," each of us would do well to remember twelve people over the age of 18 is an alcoholic. The number of alcoholics in America is estimated at about 7,000,000 with many authorities placing the figure closer to 10,000,000. One in every eight Americans is a potential alcoholic.

Alcoholism is not an illness like measles or a cold which can be caught overnight. It is a slowly developing, progressive disease. There is no hard and fast line between casual drinking and alcohol dependency, nor between alcohol dependency and alcoholism.

While it is difficult to define exactly when a person has become alcohol dependent, there are warning signals with which anyone who drinks should become familiar. These include: the development of a firm and predictable drinking pattern and a distinguishable increase in the amount of alcohol consumed within this pattern.

In addition, there are a number of other signs to be on the look-out for with the increasing consumption of alcohol. These include the individual who:

- Used to have just one or two drinks to relax at the end of the day and now has three or four;
- Finds increasing pleasure in drinking at lunch and does it more frequently;

Freedom to Ridicule Religion

The Constitutional guarantee of freedom of religion is being interpreted somewhat perversely as freedom to ban prayer from American classrooms. The implication would seem to be that freedom of religion is only for certain times and places. It seems to be a rather unlimited freedom. The success of the rock opera "Jesus Christ Superstar" has led to the production of jockey shorts and bikinis bearing the image of Jesus. This is more than a question of bad taste and the cult of vulgarity. This is a clever attack on Christianity and its values.

The employment of ridicule and mockery to discredit the opponents of the Left is a traditional tactic. Law and order, the family, police, the military, the government and the Church are the standard targets of leftist ridicule, because these institutions impede their progress.

Newsweek, Nov. 8, reports that shops selling pot are inviting smokers to "turn on with Jesus," using "roach slips" portraying the Saviour in a crown of thorns or pipes in the form of a cross, with one arm for a bowl and another for the stem.

The Constitution does not guarantee freedom to attack religion; but it explicitly guarantees freedom for religion. It is paradoxical that American legislators have never attempted to limit the freedom of the anti-religious to attack and ridicule religion. On the other hand, they often seem to miss no opportunity to infringe on the right to practice religion, even if only in the form of an interdenominational prayer in our schools.

$3.76 Billion in '76 Is Goal Set by State Ag Leaders

A statewide program to increase Texas agricultural income by more than a billion dollars by 1976 was announced by Dr. John E. Hutchison, director, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, in January 1970.

This goal calls for $3.76 billion in total cash receipts by the end of the 1976 crop year, not including government payments. It was determined from projections by Extension specialists and individuals in the agricultural industry. A committee of agricultural economist with the Extension Service studied past production records and made projections for 1976 based on current trends and expected improvements in technology and marketing.

Texas presently accounts for about five percent of the total national agricultural cash receipts. To achieve the goal of "3.76 in '76", the state must claim almost 10 percent of the projected national increase in the coming years. Extension specialists and county agricultural agents are conducting meetings with Texas producers to help them with new advancements in technology and marketing in their respective areas.

Raise Indicated In Farm Bureau Insurance Rate

Directors of the Cooke County Farm Bureau at their January meeting were told to expect an increase of hospitalization rates.

M. B. Feaster told them that the Texas F B directors have been negotiating with Blue Cross and Blue Shield for several months in an effort to avoid the increase but now accept the hard fact that the rates will have to be revised upward. He added that they have the assurance of J. T. Woodson, state president, that increases will be within the guidelines of present price regulations.

J. T. Cole reminded the group that reports of screw worm infestation in Texas cattle have increased during the past year and suggested more alertness to the worms in this area. Any one who suspects the outbreak is advised to consult County Agent Neil Tibbets for the best procedure.

Lawrence Zimmerer and E. V. Fox reported on their attendance at a tax information meeting. They stressed the importance of keeping informed on this matter and recommended keeping records on a set of forms which is available in the county agent's office.

County Agent Neil Tibbets spoke briefly on the progress of the County Farm Bureau in the past 20 years. He also explained how his office can be of service to the FB, offered his cooperation, and thanked the organization for its support of the A&M Extension Service program in this county.

President Burney Almon told the directors that the county FB membership has increased by 12 in the past year.

Gas Co. Announces Improved Design Of Heating Unit

Lone Star Gas Co. has recently introduced an innovation in heating equipment, according to Neal Hall, vice president.
 The new equipment boasts solid state furnace controls that permit variation of the blower and the natural gas burner, providing continuous air movement and eliminating a build up of cold or hot air.
 Two systems operating together vary the speed of the blower that circulates air throughout the home. These systems also regulate the burner flame that produces the heat. When more heat is needed, the burner flame is higher; the blower speed faster. When less heat is needed, the burner flame is lower; the fan speed slower. These operations eliminate harsh on and off cycling of the heating systems, and variations in air temperatures are held to an absolute minimum. The blower is continuously activated, usually running at a very low speed. The increase to high speed, when necessary, is gradual and practically unnoticeable.
 "Because these systems use no more fuel than is necessary," Hall explained, "the consumer can normally expect lower natural gas bills. Minimum fuel usage is the result of the continuous air movement allowing the thermostat to make constant responses with the air temperature in the home. Cleaner air is also a result of the new equipment, since air moving through the blower at a low speed allows the filter more time to trap dust.
 "Since total year-round comfort is of prime importance to the homeowner," Hall continued, "the constant air circulation feature makes this heating system extremely compatible with natural gas cooling equipment."
 The heating equipment is currently available under two trade names from local natural gas appliance dealers.

Ermelo Lovegrass Proves Its Value For Winter Forage

Ermelo lovegrass did its "thing" during the recent ice, snow and subteen cold at the Al Felderhoff farm near Muenster.

Specifically, Felderhoff grazed his 43-head Angus herd on Ermelo lovegrass right through the wintry blast without opening a hay barn door.

The Cooke County cattleman has proof that two tons of the right kind of forage in the pasture is better than two tons of hay in the barn — particularly when it's 10 degrees above zero in January.

Felderhoff is using Ermelo lovegrass as part of the year-round Renner Pasture System developed and recommended to North Texas producers by Texas Research Foundation at Renner. The Felderhoff place is site of the 170-acre demonstration of the system that uses several improved forages.

Felderhoff's 43-head herd began grazing 20 acres of Ermelo lovegrass on last December 18, according to records kept on the project. The forage was fertilized with 67 pounds of nitrogen per acre in August to produce Felderhoff's "hay in the field."

"We're estimating that there's grazing for another 60 to 75 days in the pasture at two animals to the acre," said George Sultemeier, foundation agronomist who works with the operator in the demonstration. After 30 days on Ermelo, the cattle are in good condition with slick, shiny hair coats, Sultemeier said.

Through the ice and snow Mr. Felderhoff was able to maintain his cattle without having to put out hay or extra supplemental feed, thus increasing his costs, said the agronomist. The animals continue to eat about two pounds of 37 percent protein blocks per head daily, at a cost of eight to nine cents a day.

The Ermelo has the ability, with proper management, to produce during September, October and November, a large volume of acceptable forage for grazing as field cured forage. The species will carry a little green growth all during the winter, thus improving its protein content somewhat. Its upright growth and ability to stand rigid during snow and ice periods keeps Ermelo from deteriorating as winter progresses such as Bermuda grass will do.

Ermelo is in the system to provide early spring and spring green grazing and winter grazing as field cured forage. Other grasses in the system include Coastal Bermuda grass, DeSoto grass, and small grains.

This is the sixth year in the locally-sponsored educational project which is located two miles north of Muenster just off FM 373. Some 400 Cooke County firms and individuals are underwriting the project under Renner's supervision.

J. M. Weinzapfel, Ernest Jaska and Michael E. Sloan of Muenster and William E. Lewie, James A. Smoot, William Guite and J. B. Vaughan of Gainesville are local coordinators for the demonstration.

According to the newly published 1971 annual report of the Upper Elm-Red Soil and Water Conservation District some 7,000 acres of Ermelo love grass are now planted in the region.

These figures would indicate that many cowmen in the area got to sit out the raw, costly weather by having productive pastures of Ermelo lovegrass ready for winter grazing, said S. H. Whitehurst, the Foundation's director of Extension.

Capital punishment is when the government taxes you to get capital so that it can go into business in competition with you, and then taxes the profits on your business in order to pay its losses.

The Public Service Company of Colorado observes that it costs less than one cent to move a gallon of oil from Texas to New York — one fifth the charge for sending a postcard the same distance.

Possible to Work And Still Collect Social Security

"One of the most misunderstood parts of the social security program is the retirement test," Gus Jones manager of the Sherman social security office said today. "Most people do not realize you don't have to quit work altogether to draw monthly benefits."

"Under present law you can work and earn as much as $1680 in a year and receive full benefits for that year. However, if you earn over $1680 in a year then one dollar of benefits is withheld for every two dollars you earn up to $2880. If you earn over $2880, one dollar of social security benefit is withheld for every dollar over $2880." Jones further stated that even if your earnings exceed $1680 in a year you can still get a check for each month you don't earn $140 in gross wages nor perform substantial services in self-employment.

To figure your earnings count all earnings from wages and self-employment whether or not the income is covered by social security. Non-work income, however, does not count in determining yearly income. Examples of non-work income include interest on saving accounts, pensions, and investment income. The retirement test does not apply to anyone who is over 72 years old.

For more information about the retirement test and how it applies Jones suggests you contact your Sherman social security office. The Sherman social security office is located at 810 North Travis and is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday except national holidays. The telephone number is 893-4301.

A representative from the Sherman social security office may be contacted in Gainesville each Tuesday and Thursday from 9:30 to 12:00 noon at the Federal Building.

THE INFORMED CONSUMER

By Crawford C. Martin
Attorney General of Texas

"What can I do to get out of this contract? This gyp outfit came by and talked me into signing up with them, and I am really unhappy with the deal."

The Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office hears this plaintive plea all too often, but the sad truth of the matter is that there is not much anyone can do about a situation like this. When you put your signature on that dotted line, in the eyes of the law you've had it. It is almost impossible to "get out" of the contract as the many consumers contacting our office desire, and if consumers want to try to break the contract they need to get their own private attorney. This is not something which the Attorney General's Office can do for them.

If the above seems to put the consumer in hot water, remember we are talking about his plight after he has signed the contract. Happily, he does have options prior to signing on the dotted line. The informed consumer will, of course, always be wary when entering into a contract. This is the first rule of survival in the world of legal contracts and red tape. Anytime you are asked to sign an instrument in a business deal, you can be pretty sure that there is a reason and that the person asking you to sign is not just an autograph collector in the sense that that term is normally used. Any instrument may be a contract, so read it thoroughly . . . read every single word, even the small ones. Many times the small ones are the ones that cause you the most trouble later on. The second rule for survival then is to read every instrument carefully before you sign.

The third rule is that if you don't understand something you have been asked to sign, refuse to sign it. Don't take chances. Don't take the word of the person with whom you are dealing unless you know personally of his honesty and reliability. Even then take what he says with a grain of salt. You will be far better off if you get help from your own lawyer, from a legal aid agency, or from someone upon whom you can rely before you jump into any legal deal.

The next rule for survival would be to refuse to be rushed. Take your time and determine that the contract you are entering into is one by which you wish to be bound. If you have any doubt, do not sign the contract until you have fully resolved it. Remember, after you sign the contract you are bound. It is too late to back out of it then. You should also remember that it is what is written in the contract that counts and not what the salesman tells you. Often times the salesman will advise you to go ahead and sign the contract and if you decide to back out that he will tear it up. Many times the salesman "forgets" that he has said this and you are bound by the contract.

Be firm and don't be the victim of a fast talking salesman. Our office receives many letters informing us of contracts that were signed as a result of a "rush job" by the salesman much to the consumer's regret. If the purpose of the contract is legitimate and valid and the person with whom you are dealing is reliable, in nearly all cases the opportunity will be available in the morning the same as it is tonight. It is a good policy to refuse to enter into a contract which must be signed then or never.

Another rule to follow is never sign a contract just to get rid of a persistent salesman. Many times we get letters from people who sign a contract "just to get rid of that salesman" only to find out that they have obligated themselves to a legal and binding contract. You should never sign a contract until you know the total cost of the goods you are buying. Demand an itemized account of all charges. If the salesman refuses to give you one, refuse to sign the contract.

A cardinal rule in the area of contracts is never sign a contract which contains blank spaces "to be filled in later". Remember, the dishonest salesman can fill the blanks in any way he wants to after he has gone, and you have no way of proving that you did not agree to the terms that the salesman inserted. If a business deal is important enough to require a contract, it is important enough to fill out the contract completely before signing it. Under no circumstances should you be rushed into signing a contract with blank spaces.

A contract that reads "as is" means that there is no guarantee of any type given with the sale of the merchandise. If you believe you are getting a guarantee, be sure to get a copy of the guarantee in writing. Read and understand the guarantee. Know what is covered by the guarantee, who is to make the necessary repairs or replacement, the period for which the guarantee runs and other salient points.

Another rule to follow is don't be fooled or confused by legal double-talk. As pointed out above, it's what's on the paper that counts regardless of what the salesman says or promises. Even if he intends to keep his promises, his boss may not let him. He may not be around or he may say that there was a misunderstanding. It is virtually impossible to prove that the salesman made any oral promises. It is just a swearing match between you and the salesman and you have the burden of proof. Besides he has that contract with your signature on the dotted line to back him up.

Finally if you do sign on the dotted line, get a copy of the contract then. Don't wait for one to be mailed to you at a later date and once you get a copy of the contract keep it. It is for your protection if questions or difficulties arise at a later date.

Muenster B Teams Lose 6 of 7 Games

Muenster High's B teams have been busy, very busy, during the past several days but they have little to show for it on their season record. The boys had four straight losses and the girls lost two out of three.

Both teams were entered in a weekend B team tournament at Sanger and each played two games there. In addition the boys played Lake Dallas B Friday night before the regular district games. And both met Nocona here Monday night.

Girls at the tournament beat Sanger Freshmen 32-19 in the opener and were eliminated 36-17 by Nocona B in the next one. MHS was comfortably ahead all the way in the first one and uncomfortably behind all the way in the second. Leading scorers in the first were Becky Jaska 13 and Sandy Dittfurth 11. Next one Jaska and Dittfurth each made 5 and Mary Lou Fleitman 4.

Meeting Nocona here Monday night they did better. Trailing 7-5 at the first quarter they dropped back to a 17-9 half time score and played the next two periods almost even for the 28-19 loss at the end. Sandy Dittfurth with 10 and Paula Sicking with 7 were top scorers.

The boys at the tournament started with a 57-47 loss to Sanger's Freshmen. After three bad periods they trailed 45-26 then started clicking and gained 9 points in the last quarter for a loss of 57-47. Robert Johnson was top scorer with 23. Lyle Klement and Tom Hennigan each made 6.

Facing Whitesboro B in the next one they started with an 8-6 first quarter lead but dropped back the rest of the way, especially in the third when they were outscored 19-5. Final count was 49-30. Curtis Klement led the scoring with 11, Tom Hennigan made 8.

Schools Urged to Ask Lone Star Gas For Teaching Aids

If grades were given for contributing to the progress of education, Lone Star Gas Company would surely receive an "A."

As part of a continuing school aids program, Lone Star's community relations section provides literature, filmstrips, and films on a wide variety of topics to teachers and principals in schools throughout Texas and Oklahoma.

Heading the project is Jim Christian, manager, community relations, who said the purpose of Lone Star's school aids program is to "provide schools on our distribution system with helpful teaching materials on interesting and timely topics."

These teaching aids are made available to schools through the use of "A Guide To Information Resources," a booklet printed by Lone Star which catalogues all the available materials. From this catalogue the teacher can order the desired films and/or literature which are delivered to the school by Muenster Lone Star Gas Service Representative A. G. Lippe. Lone Star purchases many of the materials from the American Gas Association and other industry groups and provides them free of charge to the schools.

Each teaching aid is listed in the guide by grade level and subject area, with a brief synopsis following. Topics range from the film "Scientists Work Together," dealing with the working responsibilities of the scientists, for grades 4-6, to a booklet entitled "Advanced Experiments With Gas," for grades 10-12.

The most recent addition to Lone Star's school aids library is drug education materials. "We are vitally concerned about contemporary issues, such as the use and abuse of drugs," Christian said. "Through these films, filmstrips, and booklets we hope to generate a better understanding of drugs and, therefore, a better informed public," he explained. Written in an informative, factual manner, these drug materials are also used as presentations before a number of civic groups. In addition, Lone Star has school aids on other current topics such as ecology and pollution research.

Response to Lone Star's school aids program has been overwhelming. "A Guide To

Omar Burleson Seeks Re-Election To 17th District

Congressman Omar Burleson, who represents the 17th District of Texas in the United States House of Representatives, has announced for reelection. He has filed for a place on the ballot in the Democratic Primary Election on May 6, 1972.

By action of the Texas Legislature, which was required by law to redistrict the State following the 1970 census, Cooke County is now a part of the 17th Congressional District.

Burleson was elected to the 80th Congress from the 17th District and has been re-elected to each succeeding Congress. He is a member of the Ways and Means Committee, considered to be the most powerful and prestigious in the House.

Information Resources" was mailed to principals and school district superintendents in approximately 1,700 schools and colleges throughout Texas and Oklahoma. During the first two weeks, the guide was received in the schools, over 150 of the teachers and principals requested materials. Owing to the Texas law, effective September 1, 1971, which requires a drug curriculum for grades 5-12, the majority of the requests have been for the drug materials. Lone Star has sponsored an expanding school aids program since 1959.

123 Colleges Have Scholarship Plan Sponsored by GM

General Motors recently announced the continuation of its Scholarship Plan for the fall of 1972, beginning the eighteenth year of the Plan. Scholarships will be awarded by 123 participating colleges and universities to 135 outstanding secondary school graduates. The awards will be made to entering freshmen and may be renewed through the normal four undergraduate years for those with satisfactory records.

While the colleges have full discretion in the allocation of GM scholarships and in the selection of students, they have been asked to give preference to those applicants who look forward to careers in industry. For example, those institutions which offer programs in engineering are urged to select highly qualified young people who are interested in this field of study. Colleges which do not offer degrees in engineering are being asked to select students in business administration, economics, mathematics and science. Seniors at Muenster Public School may apply.

Of the colleges awarding scholarships in 1972, 72 are private and 51 are public institutions. Scholarship committees of these institutions review the student applicant's secondary school records, available entrance test scores, participation in extracurricular activities and leadership traits. Stipends range from $200 to $2,000 per year depending on demonstrated need. Private colleges receive an unrestricted grant-in-aid varying according to the tuition rate charged, from a minimum of $500 to a maximum of $800 per year for each scholarship. GM scholars must be citizens of the United States.

Interested students should see their counselor Mr. Fluker for a complete listing of the participating college, then apply directly to the institutions of their choice. No GM application is necessary.
