Mayoroddities

To plan for the coming School Year, the subject of a Parent-Teachers Association is up for current discussion and earnest consideration. There are many reasons for joining such an organization. You may have a son or daughter, or perhaps you are a teacher, with many children in your charge. Or maybe you are just a citizen, someone who knows that this world will someday need new leaders — leaders who must be recruited from among the youngsters down the line. Whichever you are, there's a place for you in the P.T.A. Many reasons why you should be occupying that place right now.

In time of war, so many old-time basic values are in danger of being forgotten that it takes everything that every one of us can do to prevent our overlooking them. The P.T.A. stands guard over just such values. Children's needs won't wait. It doesn't take long to grow up. And growing up under unwholesome or undesirable conditions means tragedy to the child and loss to the nation. Many heads are better than one. In the P.T.A. all members pool their thinking in a common cause. We must do something about the increase in juvenile delinquency, the day care of war workers' children, and more than a dozen other pressing problems. Through the P.T.A. you can contribute your share in these very necessary activities. We want our boys and girls to grow into responsible adults. It's a good idea to let them see responsible adults from their own viewpoint, working together in the P.T.A. Remember that it is far easier to teach by example than by precept. The world needs to learn exactly what democracy is all about, needs to see it in action at close range. We know more about training children than we used to, and it makes a difference in our way of handling them. The P.T.A. brings you the latest and best information on child training.

We need a balance wheel for our activities, some means of keeping our sense of proportion when the current circumstances seem to obscure everything else. We want to do something practical so that we can go back to normal living. Nothing in the world is more essential than working for the welfare of childhood and youth, so that when the war is won we shall have a fine sturdy generation to carry on. Most of us have a more or less latent desire to do something to make the world a little bit better. Making the world better by rearing a better generation of children is the goal of the P.T.A. Membership offers each adult in the community an opportunity to: Build understanding and organized cooperation in home, school, and community relations, stimulate interest in community responsibility for the well-being of all children and youth, utilize the experiences of other communities in meeting local needs.

In conclusion most every one desires to promote the welfare of children and youth in home, school, church and community. Raise the standards of home life, secure adequate laws for the care and protection of children and youth. We must bring into closer relation the home and the school that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child. Such organization will develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, social and spiritual education. To reach a desirable goal every child is to have an opportunity to live a full life, satisfying to himself and useful to his community there-fore every adult must take an interest in good homes, sound health, safety, equalized educational opportunity, conservation of human values and natural resources. Vocational adjustment, constructive leisure-time activities, civic responsibility and an active spiritual faith.

REV. RICHARD BRIEF VISITOR

Rev. Father Richard Eveld, former assistant pastor here at Sacred Heart church, now at Refugio, Texas, was a brief visitor here Monday. He was enroute home after a visit in Arkansas, and stopped here for a few hours' visit with the local pastors. Not being able to see his many friends he asked that his best regards be extended to each and every one.

CORRECTION

In last week's issue of the Enterprise the list of survivors of Mrs. Henry Schmitzer were incorrectly given. Mrs. Alfred Schumacher was listed as Mrs. Alfred Schmitzer. This error escaped through two proof readings, and was not detected until the papers were off the press. The Enterprise makes this correction and lists again the surviving children of Mrs. Schmitzer as follows: Al and Joe Schmitzer of Denison; Mrs. William Fette, Kilgore, and Mrs. Alfred Schumacher, Wichita Falls.

NOTICE

The Board of Directors of the STATE BAR OF TEXAS, meeting at Dallas on June 29, 1945, has authorized the distribution of this Notice to the public to enlist cooperation in connection with the following matters:

Numerous complaints have been presented to the State Bar by citizens in this state in regard to various persons who are not licensed attorneys engaging in the practice of law. In some instances such unauthorized practice has resulted in expensive litigation and in considerable loss to individual citizens.

In order that the public may be fully advised and adequately protected we call attention to the fact that under the Statutes and court decisions of the State of Texas, the practice of law is limited to duly admitted and licensed attorneys; and all persons not members of the State Bar are prohibited from practicing law in this State. It is also unlawful for corporations to practice law.

The Supreme Court has expressly held in the case of Hexter Title and Abstract Company vs. Grievance Committee, 179 SW 2nd 946, that the preparation of the following instruments constitutes the practice of law:

(a) DEEDS conveying land in which the person drawing the instrument owns no interest and does not acquire an interest by such deeds.

(b) NOTES, MORTGAGES, and DEEDS OF TRUST in which he has no interest as borrower or lender.

(c) MECHANIC'S AND MATERIALMEN'S LIEN CONTRACTS to which he is not a party.

(d) RELEASES, TRANSFERS, SUBORDINATION AGREEMENTS or OTHER INSTRUMENTS AFFECTING THE TITLE TO REAL ESTATE or LIENS THEREON in which he does not own and is not acquiring an interest therein.

(e) OTHER INSTRUMENTS NECESSARY IN CONNECTION WITH PERFECTING TITLES.

The practice of law, so limited to duly admitted and licensed attorneys, also includes, among other things, the preparation of WILLS AND TRUST AGREEMENTS, the examination of ABSTRACTS and rendition of TITLE OPINIONS thereon, and ADVISING or COUNSELLING another as to his rights under the law. As stated by the Supreme Court in the Hexter case:

"The practice of law is a matter of vital interest to the public. The lawyer is primarily engaged in the protection and preservation of the liberties and property rights of the people and the administration of justice among them, which is one of the primary purposes of good government. As society has become more compact the law has necessarily become more complex, requiring increased skill in its application. The Legislature in recognition of this fact has from time to time increased the prelegal and legal attainments required for admission to the Bar—It is readily apparent that it would serve no useful purpose to require high standards of efficiency for members of the legal profession if those who have not attained these standards of efficiency are to be permitted to practice the arts of the profession — The State has a vital interest in the regulation of the practice of law for the benefit and protection of the people as a whole, and the legislation above referred to was adopted in furtherance of a wholesome public policy."

This notice is given in order that all parties (other than lawyers) who may have heretofore performed any of the acts above mentioned may be fully informed as to the laws so that they can avoid infraction thereof in the future. The use of printed forms in preparing instruments does not alter the situation, and anyone preparing instruments as above referred to is engaging in the practice of law even though printed forms are used.

If other information is desired in this connection, please communicate with the undersigned:

MOOS OF THE MOMENT

BY UNCLE BOB

of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

Even if you can't take a vacation, remember that your cows work pretty hard to help reach the national milk goal. They need a rest before freshening, to be sure they will be in good condition for next year's job.

Extension dairymen are uniformly recommending that a cow should be dry for six weeks at least before freshening. This permits the cow to rest for the important job ahead and gives her a chance to build up her weight.

Alabama points out it may take two weeks or more to dry off a dairy cow, if you do it right. Milk flow may be cut down by lengthening the time between milkings and by leaving a considerable quantity of milk in each quarter. They suggest that when the volume falls below a gallon per day, to stop milking.

The amount and kind of feed a cow gets in its dry time has a most important bearing on the milk volume when the animal goes back on the milking list. Since many cows will be freshening in the near future, this seems a good time to remind you to study up on proper feeding methods.

You'll get some valuable feeding suggestions from Bulletin B-69, Extension Service, Texas A & M College, College Station, Tex., and I suggest you send for a copy as soon as possible.

Part of the fun of working out in the hot sun is the great pleasure a fellow gets when he can quit and take a long drink of fresh, cold water right out of the well. Something like the guy who said he enjoyed hitting himself on the head with a hammer because it felt so good when he quit, I guess.

A lot of the pleasure in that drink of water is that it is fresh and clean. A cow wants clean, cool water too. It is mighty important to her, to you and to that same job the cow has I mentioned before—meeting the milk goal.

Stagnant water can be harmful in several ways. First of all the cows don't drink as much as they should, to keep at top production in hot summer months. Also stagnant, muddy water may contain harmful germs. Such water may cause milk to be rosey, too.

A water tank where you can keep a good supply of fresh water and where the cows can get at it whenever they want a drink is the best answer, if you do not have a clean stream or a clear pond or lake which provides good water for your dairy herd.

A fellow can put up with a skimpy serving of meat if he has healthy servings of fresh vegetables, a mound of potatoes and gravy and a good solid dessert. A cow feels much the same way. If your hay quality is not as high as you'd like, you can make up for this lack with corn silage.

Wisconsin says corn silage is right at the top when it comes to flavor and actual food value, if it is properly prepared. Corn silage can make the difference between good and poor health, if other feed is lacking in all the things a cow needs.

Most important is getting the silage put away at the right stage. If leaves have turned yellow and kernels are fully denting, such corn is past the right stage for silage. If kernels are still in the milk stage, the silage will be soggy and may not taste good to a cow.

Wisconsin recommends making corn silage when the kernels have just finished denting and when all or nearly all the leaves are green. It might be best to start making silage a few days before kernels have finished denting, since your job may last several days.

For a complete discussion of corn silage, you may want to get a copy of Circular 337, from the Extension Service, College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisc. It has a lot of helpful ideas.

main lines of POWER

Along the TP&L Company's Electric Power Transmission Lines in Texas, industrial development has forged ahead during the past 30 years. Along these "Main Lines of Power," Texas industries have poured vast quantities of war materials and supplies into the hopper for Victory. Training camps for every branch of the Armed Forces have been established along these same Main Lines of Power.

The first electric power transmission line in Texas was pioneered by the Texas Power & Light Company back in 1912. Today this Company's system of transmission and distribution lines blankets a 52-county area in North, East and Central Texas. The growth of these Main Lines of Power has spearheaded the growth of industry in this same area. Textile and dairy industries, geared to the agricultural resources, have led the way... while glass factories, refineries, cement mills, packing plants, paper mills, synthetic rubber plants, tire factories and dozens of other related industries have sprung up to utilize abundant raw materials.

Thus, the nation's demands for more and more war production found Texas and Texans ready to pitch in and do a great job. And, when Peace has been re-established, Texas and Texans will be ready to move forward with an upsurge of industrial development unparalleled anywhere in the nation.

Rich in raw materials and natural resources... ideal in climate... surrounded by active and growing markets... well supplied with intelligent labor... and abounding in Main Lines of Dependable and Low-Cost Electric Power so necessary to new and expanding industries... Texas faces the future with confidence and determination, planning the greatest job-making period in all her colorful history.

All this Company's resources, facilities, and manpower are now devoted to Victory. While plans for the future are important, and while those plans have their place in today's activities... they are not in any way hampering the all-out dedication of this Company to the job of helping to win the war!

NOTHING BUT TROUBLE
Oliver Hardy and Stan Laurel in "Nothing But Trouble" means Nothing But Fun! That daffy duo go to work as chief and butler in a wealthy home and become involved in a plot to murder a king, whom in the end, they rescue. Along the line they nearly poison a prince, mess up a royal reception, get arrested for kidnaping and get into a pack of other troubles. Laurel and Hardy, who go together like coffee and cream, ham and eggs, crackers and cheese are at their nuttiest—best in this M-G-M comedy playing at the Relax Theatre next Sunday and Monday. This popular team has made one hundred and seventy nine pictures. You've seen them before and you'll want to see them again.

Included on this Sunday-Monday program is also a short comedy and a very interesting Paramount 2-reeler in Technicolor entitled "Bonnie Lassie".

can criticize his methods, perhaps prove them unwise, but they cannot prove that his intentions were dishonorable.
But that doesn't seem to be the way the French court is operating. Apparently his guilt has been accepted as a foregone conclusion and the defendant is expected to prove his innocence. Stuff like that is repulsive to the American sense of fair play.

A popular man with the GI's nowadays is Senator Johnson of Colorado for his demand to release five million men from the armed services. His contention is that the army is hoarding man

Sugar Coupons Can't Be Choosey These Days

A sugar coupon can't be choosey these days. Homemakers who sometimes find only brown or confectioners' sugar on the grocery shelf have asked Miss Mildred Chapman, County Home Demonstration Agent whether these may be used in place of granulated sugar in recipes.

Miss Chapman points out that 1 pound of granulated sugar measures 2 1/6 cups; brown, 2 3/4 cups; and confectioners', 2 2/3 cups. In the quantities used in most recipes, however, these weight differences are not of great importance.
Either brown or confectioners' sugar may be used measure for measure for granulated sugar in puddings pie fillings and baked custards. With brown, the flavor will be delicate caramel and color somewhat darker. Since brown sugar custards have a tendency to curdle, baking at low temperature is important.

For plain or fruit flavored ice creams, powdered sugar may be used; and for chocolate, mocha, or butterscotch, brown sugar is satisfactory.

Because confectioners' sugar contains a small amount of cornstarch, it tends to make clear beverages, like tea, coffee, or fruit punch, cloudy, but is not noticeable in milk drinks. In beverages, the flavor of brown sugar is likely to be too strong for most people's taste. It can be used with chocolate flavored drinks.

When brown sugar is used in cakes, it is advisable to use a recipe especially planned for it, because sugar influences cake texture. Chocolate, spice, and fruit cakes are particularly well adapted to use of brown sugar. Since texture of cookies depends more on amount of sugar than kind, either brown or confectioners' sugar may be substituted for granulated in the same proportions.

Fair-Mindedness

The fair-minded man is never a snob. He exercises his right to choose his associates among those whose ideas and ideals are in sympathy with his own; but he does not assume that the rest of the world is wrong or inferior or foolish merely because it is not in agreement with him. Every man hears a different drum beat. The fair-minded man measures facts on honest scales and weighs folks as he finds them—not as he hopes they will be or thinks they ought to be.

power it will never be able to use. Transportation facilities are not adequate for moving that many to the combat zone and keeping them supplied.

His charge is worthy of investigation for at least three good reasons. We need more men in civilian life to carry on the tremendous job of production and transport. The taxpayer is entitled to a little relief from his gigantic burden, and it would help considerably to transfer several million men from the liability to the asset side of the tax balance sheet. And the soldier is entitled to consideration too. His duty to serve should end with his country's need of his services. He has a right to be his own boss and pursue his personal plans.

Very likely the senator is equally opposed to General Hershey's statement that selective service will have to continue drafting 100,000 men a month even after the Japs are out of the way and occupation forces have been set up in conquered countries. At a glance this looks like more hoarding of manpower—and a trace of the present tendency for war agencies to perpetuate themselves in power. OPA, for instance, insists that its services will be necessary for many years after the war. Likewise WLB and WPB insist that labor and industry will need their guiding hands for a long time. Maybe those fellows think they can kiddy the American public for years into believing war conditions still exist as depression created agencies convinced us that
