VOLUME IX

MUENSTER, TEXAS, COOKE COUNTY, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1945

NUMBER 43

A wirephoto from a Japanese prison camp shows a row of guards all bowing humbly while American prisoners file past them to freedom. The expression on the face of one liberated GI suggests that he could derive infinite satisfaction from taking the hypocritical bend out of the little sadist's back with a vicious uppercut.

If it should be disclosed that a few such incidents have taken place we could hardly blame the men. After years of torture and indignity all of them have acquired a fierce desire to deliver an impulsive punch in the snoot of the good old American fashion.

To our knowledge, however, none of that is going on. American soldiers, brought up in a tradition of order and fairness, are satisfied to see justice applied in a civilized way.

New evidence of barbarities is making the case against Japanese war criminals more conclusive every day. Their deeds are convicting them by the thousands. Within a few more weeks or months they are destined to learn that civilized mankind demands a penalty for such inhuman violation of its standards. The world has no use for criminals who stoop to murder and torture even during war. It wants them exterminated like any other vicious beasts.

Doubtless our courts and executioners will be saved the trouble of dealing with quite a number of the Nips. Considering their widespread inclination toward suicide, it is probable that they will even surpass the Germans, who are said to be killing themselves by the dozens. In addition to cheating the hangman, as the Nazi criminals are doing, the Nips have that silly religious incentive of seeking to atone for military failure by destruction of their worthless selves, which suits us fine. It saves us the trouble and expense of bringing them to justice.

Some notion of the economic stability of American workmen can be inferred from the remark made a few days ago by a former war plant employee. He states that he was amazed on several occasions to find a lineup of his former plant associates at the neighborhood bank cashing in their war bonds. Less than a month after they were given a job they had completely exhausted what little cash reserve they accumulated in three years of boom times.

To anyone schooled in the old standards of thrift and economy that predicament suggests the ultimate in something—either folly or presumption. Apparently the spendthrifts had the idea that their jobs, even though necessarily dependent on the war, would go on and on, or they belonged to that increasing horde who assume that the government is responsible for them as soon as their income is cut off.

Because of such people Washington now has to worry about special compensation to carry through the reconversion period. And taxpayers, many of whom got along and saved money on a much smaller income, are paying the bill.

The injustice of this arrangement is so obvious that a child can see it. No twist of logic will convince a little boy that he should share his earnings of a dollar a week with a brother who lost his job for two dollars a week. He reasons, and rightly, that the brother should have saved something while he had the chance.

There seems to be an awful lot of concern and no little resentment, over the fact that we have defeated the Japs but did not complete the job of giving them a thorough whipping. In other words we have won but have not broken the sullen defiant spirit that might rise again to give us a mess of trouble.

As we see it those fears are a bit premature. Just because the Nips, still laboring under the delusions caused by home propaganda—which, incidentally, seems to have been going on as usual since the surrender—have not awakened to realities, is no indication they cannot be convinced.

MacArthur isn't likely to put up with their foolishness for long. If the gracious emperor doesn't soon admit that he surrendered for reasons more tangible than to avoid further suffering Mac can be expected to demand a detailed report to the nation on what happened to the navy, the merchant fleet, the air force and home industry. Also an explanation that the army, though not yet annihilated, did not have a ghost of a chance against the mounting odds.

If that report isn't forthcoming or if it isn't sufficient the Japs will have another opportunity to learn where they stand when they (Continued on Page 4)

Large Group Pays Final Tribute To Joseph Danglmayr

Bishop A. Danglmayr officiated at his Father's Funeral

Hundreds of persons, including the largest number of clergy ever assembled in Sacred Heart church here, paid final tribute Thursday morning to Joseph Danglmayr, 81. The Most Rev. Augustine Danglmayr, Auxiliary Bishop of Dallas, officiated at his father's funeral. He sang the solemn pontifical requiem mass, assisted by Rev. J.M. Wiewel, Dallas, as master of ceremonies; Reverend Thomas Buerger, O.S.B., Muenster, assistant master of ceremonies; Very Rev. John T. Gulczynski, J.C.D., chancellor of the Dallas diocese, arch priest; Rev. John Walbe, O.S.B., Muenster, deacon; Rev. Thomas Weinzapfel, San Antonio, sub-deacon. Present in the sanctuary were His Excellency the Most Rev. Joseph P. Lynch, Bishop of Dallas and the Rt. Rev. Abbot Paul Nahlen, abbot of New Subiaco Abbey Ark.

The Most Rev. Bishop Lynch delivered the funeral address in the eloquent manner and the Rt. Rev. Abbot Paul officiated at the grave.

More than 50 members of the clergy were present including three monsignori, the Very Rev. W.J. Nold, Dallas; Very Rev. Patrick J.F. O'Beirne, Wichita Falls, and the Very Rev. Edward McCullough, Sherman. Also present was the Very Rev. Henry Felderhoff, Dean of Abilene.

Nuns present for the rites included Sister Antonius, superior of Saint Paul's hospital, and Sister Brendan, Dallas; Mother Benita, provincial of the Sisters of Saint Mary, with a group of nuns from Fort Worth; Sister Blaise, and an assemblage of young orphans from Saint Joseph's Orphanage, Dallas, and the superiors of Dunn Memorial Home with a group of boys, Dallas.

Serving as pallbearers were W. E. Ender, W.M. J. Schuch, J. M. Weinzapfel, Henry Wolf, Alphonso Koessler and Barney Voth. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of Mrs. Nick Miller.

Thus friends paid final respect to a man who was as much a part of Muenster as its wheat, wheat and cattle ranges. They knew him as a friend. He came to Muenster 52 years ago and when he died his home was on the same site of the place he settled on.

His was a full life, that of a pioneer, a farmer, wheat director. Born in Germany on Feb. 3, 1864, he came to America at the age of 17 with his parents, the late August and Maria Danglmayr, settling with them in Ohio where his father ran a sawmill for twenty years before returning to Germany.

In 1884 he left Ohio for Michigan, where he worked as a lumberjack for 11 years. In 1893 he made his first trip back to Germany to visit his aged mother; his father had died several years before. This journey brought him to Muenster, where he was to become an American citizen, he was looked upon as a deserter to the German army. At the very time he left Germany, at 17 years of age, he was up to take three years of training in the German army. He visited with his mother two weeks, and was always just one jump ahead of the German government until he crossed the line into Belgium. He returned to America, spent some time in Dakota and Oklahoma, then decided on Texas and having heard of the new colony of Muenster, came to (Continued on Page 4)

First Day Finds 440 Children In Local Schools

Parochial School Has Largest Enrollment In Its History

Muenster students, 440 of them returned to classes with the ringing of the school bell Tuesday morning for the first peace-time term in four years.

Enrollment at Sacred Heart school is the largest in the history of the institution, totaling 390. Of this number 305 are in the grade department and 85 in high school. Of the eleven teachers in charge, eight are in the elementary department and the remaining three divide the high school subjects among themselves.

Registration took place Friday and there was no school Monday so as not to conflict with the annual community shower given to honor the Sisters and an afternoon to offer the opportunity of teachers and parents to get acquainted.

At the public school registration took place Monday and classes also began officially on Tuesday. Enrollment is about the same as last year with some 40 in the grade school and the rest in the high department.

The four school buses are in operation and the class bells ring at 9. At the parochial school students first attend the children's mass.

Last year 305 registered on opening day at parish school, making an increase this term of 85 scholars. The public school's enrollment is smaller than that of last year when 77 attended classes on opening day. A number of that school's scholars transferred to other schools this year.

Improvements have been made at both institutions, the most outstanding changes being those at S.H. High which has undergone a complete remodeling and rebuilding. It was enlarged to provide model classrooms to accommodate 100 students. The enrollment this term tops that of any previous year.

RULES GIVEN FOR OVERSEAS CHRISTMAS GIFTS MAILING

Millions of Christmas gifts will go overseas again, this year to the armed forces. It will be especially difficult to deliver these gifts safely and on time, the Army and Navy point out, unless families of service men and women cooperate in starting them off right. The following rules are therefore suggested for mailing Christmas packages abroad.

1. If the soldier is enroute home, don't send him a Christmas package.
2. Use his latest address and be sure it's complete and accurate; name rank, serial number, organization unit, APO in care of Postmaster at port of embarkation. Address it — then check it.
3. Mail Christmas gifts overseas from September 15 to October 15. In the Army, this is the only time you can mail a parcel overseas without a written request from your soldier. But
4. If there's reason to believe he may move to a new location, it's safer to wait till you can mail your gift to the new address — even if this means asking him for a letter requesting your gift so that you can mail it after October 15.
5. Use a heavy box and strong cord. (Government-approved overseas boxes can be bought at The Enterprise office.)
6. Send only usable gifts like tinned dried fruit, canned luxury foods, razor blades, fountain pens, wallets, watches, etc.
7. Don't mail perishable foods, intoxicants, weapons, poisons, and all inflammable materials, including matches and lighter fluids.
8. Your package must not weigh over 5 pounds. It must not be more than 15 inches in length and 6 inches combined.

Navy gifts should be sent during the same period — from Sept. 15 to October 15. However, gifts destined for Navy, Marine or Coast Guard personnel may be sent throughout the year without a written request.

Mail Christmas cards any time, but seal them and put on first class postage.

Herbert and Alene Swirczynski of Dallas spent several days of last week here with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swirczynski and other relatives.

Rev. Father Thomas Is Named Pastor Of Rhineland Parish

Transfer Becomes Effective Oct. 1

Farewell Gatherings, Gifts Are Tribute To His Fine Record Here

All of Muenster and a large number of friends in other parts of Cooke county were saddened Sunday by the announcement that Rev. Thomas Buerger, O.S.B., pastor of Sacred Heart church, has been transferred from Muenster, the change to become effective October 1.

Father Thomas has been named pastor of the Rhineland, Texas, parish and will be succeeded here by Rev. Herman Laux, O.S.B., pastor of that parish. Rev. John Walbe, O.S.B., will remain here as assistant pastor.

The news of Father Thomas' transfer came as a shock and a disappointment to Sacred Heart parish. During his 36 months as pastor here he distinguished himself not only as a priest but also as a citizen and as a friend. Atomic energy stored up in his slight body was used constantly for the welfare of the church, school and parishioners, and he was recognized as a most active worker for parish welfare.

Father Thomas came to Muenster on Sept. 11, 1942, after spending nine and one half years in parish work at Paris, Ark., where he served as pastor of Saint Joseph's church. A native of Fort Smith, Ark., he attended primary school there, then went to Conception, Mo., and to Subiaco, Ark. He took his theological work at Subiaco Abbey and was ordained on May 22, 1922.

Many notable improvements in the parish are lasting monuments to his efforts here. Accomplished almost immediately after his arrival here was the task of installing proper heating facilities in the church. It was equipped with natural gas. Shortly thereafter a loud speaker system was installed.

KNIGHTS COLUMBUS PLAN PROGRAM AT MEETING WEDNESDAY

Muenster council Knights of Columbus, at a regular session Wednesday evening made an outline of the program for the coming year, which is expected to be an outstanding one, both in local activity and in fulfilling the work of the supreme council.

The council passed a resolution whereby all veterans and ex-servicemen, who are members, returning home will be given free use of the hall, plus the sum of ten dollars to be used for a party they might like to have. Also, after all veterans will have returned home a social affair will honor them, and the serviceman's emblem, presented by the supreme council, will be awarded each veteran in a ceremony, as a lasting recognition for his services in the armed forces.

Plans are being formulated to have a Columbus Day Celebration on Oct. 12. The program will include attendance at Mass in a body and group reception of the Eucharist followed by a Communion breakfast. Later in the day a picnic will be given for members and their families and festivities will be closed with a dance.

He supervised the building of an annex to the local Benedictine Sisters' residence, had the school playgrounds leveled and fitted with equipment, graveled the road from the church to the cemetery, planted shrubbery on the parish grounds and at the cemetery, supervised the collection of voluntary contributions for the erection of a $1286 soldiers' memorial monument, repaired the church with a new metal roof, and in March, this year, lowered the church tower.

Through his efforts Sacred Heart school was accredited by the Texas State Board of Education, final notification from the board having been received in July. He enlarged the high school building to take care of 100 students when formerly less than half that number could be accommodated.

He was most solicitous in his care for sick members of the parish, and is an eloquent speaker. His addresses at funerals were always comforting and inspiring, and his sermons were interesting and instructive. Based on the homiletic, dogmatic, liturgical, moral and catechetical, his sermons were delivered so as to be easily understood, bringing the lessons to everyday life.

One of his outstanding accomplishments was the introduction of the envelope budget system. He is an excellent financier and had the budget worked to such a degree that all repairs and parish improvements have been taken care of without extra collections or solicitations of funds.

Notable also are the growth of the two parish societies, Saint Joseph's Society, almost at a standstill three years ago, was revived and now boasts of more than 150 members. Saint Anne's Society grew from 100 to 235 members during the time he was the spiritual director.

During his pastorate the Father Frowin Memorial scholarship was completed. He was in charge of the collections and in May of the past year finished the fund and sent the $5,000 to Subiaco Abbey so that some worthy young man may study for the priesthood.

Almost all parish activity was under his direction and he was energetic in supervising all parish bazaars and other benefit affairs, and served as chaplain of the local Knights of Columbus council. He also gave moral and financial support to the Sacred Heart Youth Band.

During the 36 months he was pastor the new church fund grew from $41,000 to $110,000 and he was always a driving force behind local war bond campaigns and Red Cross drives. One ambition he does not see fulfilled, due to wartime conditions and restrictions, is to supervise the erection of the new church.

Father Thomas is a good mixer and non-Catholics were always welcomed and made to feel at home when attending church services. His sermon Sunday, in which he announced his forthcoming transfer, brought tears to the eyes of many, evidence of the love and esteem in which he is held, while the occasional falter in his own voice evidenced that he was reluctant to leave but that obedience to the wishes of his superiors is his first wish always. "Obedience," he said "is now verified in the one that has during these three years preached obedience."

Further evidence of his popularity and the love and respect in which he is held by the congregation is shown by the number of farewell gatherings given in his honor and the presentation of parting gifts.

He will leave next Monday for a week's visit with his mother at Fort Smith and then be back here for several days to help acquaint the new pastor with routine details. Father Herman will take over the parish officially on October 1. He is a native of Lindsay, a son of Mr. and Mrs. F.J. Laux of that city. He attended the Lindsay school and took his theological course at Subiaco Seminary. He was ordained on the 26th of May, 1938, and celebrated his first mass at Lindsay on June 5. Since being assigned to parish work he has been serving as pastor of the Rhineland church.

The volunteer fire department members are provoked over the many requests to deliberately burn off vacant lots, streets and alleys, at this time of the year, by those, that in the first place, should have kept the weeds and grass down during the spring and summer months. It is true at present it is a fire-hazard, that could develop into damage if permitted to get out of control.

In many cases when grass fires are started even intentionally, many do not realize how easy the flames damage flowers, shrubbery, trees, fences and buildings. Many flowers, shrubbery and trees have been cultivated, watered and cared for with much effort and sometimes at great expense, then in the slip of a moment untold damage is done by such fires. Few realize how a fire, ruins the root system of valuable grasses, destroys the turf and all of the fine mulch that has been produced by nature to hold the rains and protect the moisture and soil for a better fertile ground.

A "stitch in time" would be to prepare for better care early in the spring and summer on these vacant lots, than the urge to do all this burning in the autumn by the determined fire-bugs, that would not be necessary and would prevent such hazards. The members of the department expressed the opinion that many citizens do not realize that members are mostly all busy and responsibly employed and cannot afford to go out for burning grass and weeds just because someone was neglectful before-hand. While the members are faithful to their duties, they are associated only on a volunteer basis and are ready to sacrifice their time and ability when life and property are actually in danger or at stake. Their routine practices and attendance to regular meetings qualifies them to serve the citizenship in an efficient manner, under unusual conditions when duty calls them. The City Council makes an effort to show appreciation to them by supporting a pension fund that is growing annually coordinating with the Firemen's Disability and Retirement Law adopted by the 45th Legislature at regular session in 1937, which is under jurisdiction of the State Firemen's Pension Commissioner.

Further appreciation by the citizenship of our community will be shown when it is made possible to build our Municipal Building in which major provisions are planned to accommodate the volunteer fire department. Three storage places and exits for fire hose, ladder and service truck on the first floor are under consideration. Then on the second floor immediately above, recreation lounge, and meeting room will be the incentive for a good, faithful and active membership.

This now brings to mind a subject, to the planning and financing of a municipal building. In the past issues of this column a gradual lead up to this point has been discussed. Comments have been solicited and opinions requested as to location, size of improvements suggested and accommodations expected of such improvements. Up to now only one letter has been received and ideas expressed in person have been very limited. It is beginning to be assumed that SILENCE IS CONSENT, however that would be determined in a bond election to provide funds. One thing can be assured that all will have an opportunity to air themselves before such question shall be presented for final decision. Now as soon as the engineers have made their plans and specifications and the architects make suggestions with the usual sketches and drawings a general meeting will be an occasion of interest to every one concerned.

For your information the City Council assigned duties to each Alderman so that there may be responsibility centered on some individual with regard to the conduct of affairs of the City. J.A. Fisher is Street Commissioner, R. L. Schoech, Utilities Com., R. I. McNeley Fire Com., Andrew Hofbauer, Park Com., and H.G. Stelzer Sanitary Com. If you have any grievances or praise a discussion with them can lighten your heart to bring you in the mood to lend all possible cooperation for a bright future.

In the former game Mrs. Joe Horn scored high and Mrs. John Wieler low, for the members, while the guest high score award went to Mrs. John Hoffman and the consolation favor to Mrs. John Herr. In the paper and pencil games Miss Bertha Haverkamp received the high award and Miss Rose Marie Endres low. The 42 galloping prize was won by Mrs. John Mosman.

The hostesses served refreshments to 43 members and guests.

NEW TEXAS ALMANAC IS LARGEST EVER

The Enterprise has received a copy of the 1946 Texas Almanac, published by the Dallas News, through the courtesy of Ted Dealey, publisher of the News. The almanac has been issued since 1857 by the same company.

The new almanac is the largest ever, and in addition to valuable current information on Texas cities, towns, counties and the state's resources, there is much historical data in the new book. It is issued biennially.

A sailor traveling through the Texas Panhandle en route to a new assignment got into a conversation with an old settler and his son at the railroad station. "Looks as if we might have some rain," remarked the sailor. "I hope so," replied the native. "Not so much for myself as for the boy here. I've seen rain."

He: "What would you say if I told you I have come 1,000 miles through ice and snow with my dog team just to tell you I love you?"
She: "I'd say that was a lot of mush."

Laundry Window Sign: "We Do Not Tear Your Clothes with Machinery. We Do It Carefully by Hand."

Sign in a Scotch Church: "Those in the congregation who habitually drop buttons in the collection plate are asked to drop their own buttons and not those from the cushions in the pews."

Schad and son, Ed.

Joe Kupper accompanied by H. J. Fuhrmann of Muenster, went to Iowa last week for a visit with the former's daughter, Mrs. Adolph Fuhrmann and family at Bode and with other relatives in other cities.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Eugene Schmitz, son of Theo Schmitz of this city, to Miss Laveta Bond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G.G. Bond of Gainesville. The rites will take place at St. Mary's church, Gainesville, on September 25 at 8:30 in the morning.

SURPRISE PARTY HONORS MISS DOROTHY BEYER

A surprise birthday party was given Sunday, Sept. 9, to compliment Miss Dorothy Beyer on her 17th anniversary. The affair was held at the home of her mother, Mrs. Adam Beyer. Games and contests were enjoyed and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Beyer and Mrs. Frank Sandmann. Classmates of the honoree were guests.

SGT. GREGORY HUNDT, VETERAN OF ETO, ENDS FURLOUGH AT LINDSAY

S. Sgt. Gregory Hundt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hundt of Lindsay, left Friday to report for further orders at Fort Sam Houston Texas, after spending a 50 day furlough with his parents.

Sgt. Hundt, a veteran of the European campaign, arrived in the states on August 2. He wears the ETO ribbon with seven battle stars, the Good Conduct medal and a Presidential Unit citation.

He served as an aerial engineer on a C-47. Since going overseas in Oct. 1943, he was on duty in England for 15 months and then moved to France. He was a member of the 53rd Troop Carrier Wing which participated in the Normandy invasion on D-Day, the Southern France invasion, the resupply of Bastogne, and the Rhine jump. Besides these special events his regular duties consisted in flying in the C-47's to take ammunition and gasoline to the spearhead of General Patton's Third Army as it sped across France and Germany.

After the war in Europe was over he helped bring Russian slave laborers in France to Leipzig Germany, to be picked up there by Russian flyers, who took them home. On the return trip English and French prisoners were taken to their home countries. He entered the air corps in Nov. 1942.

The sergeant's brother, Sgt. Joe B. Hundt, arrived Sunday from Kingsman, Arizona, to spend a 15-day furlough at home, after which he will report to the air base at Las Vegas, Nevada. He has been in the air corps since Sept. 1942, and serves in the gunnery department.

"You've been watching me fish for three hours. Why don't you try it yourself?" "Ain't got the patience."

He had hard luck fishing, and on his way home he entered the fish market and said to the dealer, "Just stand there and throw me five of the biggest of those trout."

"How 'em? What for?" "So I can tell the family I caught 'em. I may be a poor fisherman, but I'm no liar."

begin complying with surrender terms. When they see their huge army disarmed and demobilized, their heavy industries torn down, and all outlying possessions taken from them they'll get a better idea of the thoroughness of their defeat. If they need any more evidence they can just look around and notice what kind of uniforms are policing their country.

Funeral--

He bought 196 acres of land west of the town. Known as Wheeler Mount, it is known that here the last white man was killed by Indians.

In 1896 he was married to Miss Theresa Muck, who had also immigrated from Europe, and to this union eight children were born, one of whom died in infancy.

From then until the time of his death he lived on the same place in happiness and contentment. Through progressive farming methods he acquired more land from year to year until he became one of the largest land owners in this sector. He was one of the original stockholders when the Muenster State Bank was organized in 1923 and served as one of the first directors. The first producing oil well in this community was brought in on his farm in September, 1926. He took active part in religious and civic affairs as long as his health permitted. By nature he was quiet, retiring and unassuming.

His death came on Tuesday, September 4, to end a long illness. For the past year he had been bedfast.

Survivors are his wife, four sons: The Most Rev. Augustine Danglmayr, Dallas; Joe, Albert and Herman Danglmayr, Muenster; three daughters: Mmes. Hubert and Tony Felderhoff and Bruno Fleitman, Muenster and 16 grandchildren.

SALTY O'ROURKE
You horse lovers—and you Al-an Ladd fans—here is a picture for you. See it at the Relax Theatre next Thursday-Friday, Sept. 20-21.

Salty O'Rourke is a thoroughbred racing picture from starting gate to finish line. Alan Ladd as a sun-toting tough-guy is at the head of the cast. Gail Russell plays the feminine lead. Alan—the lad with the lopsided grin—portrays a race horse owner who gets mixed up with the underworld thru a mistake made by his partner. Gail Russell as the pretty young school teacher almost upsets Ladd's plans to win the big race.

Others in the cast are: Stanley Clements, William Demarest, Spring Byington, Bruce Cabot, Rex Williams.

Salesman: "I've been trying to see you all week. When may I have an appointment?"

Manager: "Make a date with my secretary?"
Salesman: "I did, sir, and we had a grand time, but I still want to see you."

will triumph over the propaganda of these past several years. The Japs will realize they are whipped as soon as they have a good chance to come out of their coma.

As far as we are concerned, however, that isn't the really important thing. Even if the Japs should never wise up to the real score, we know what it is and we are in a position to see that it lasts for a long time. After their guns are melted down to plowshares and industries capable of making more guns are dismantled they won't be able to start another fight. With adequate supervision we will be able to make that condition prevail the next thirty to fifty years. By then we hope they will have outgrown their belligerent spirit.

It's so nice to hear that other countries are giving the United States a little recognition for her part in the victory over Japan. In a recent victory speech a Russian general said that the defeat of Japan was assured through the "friendly assistance" of United States, British, Soviet, French and Chinese forces. "We salute those who never lost faith in the Justice of our cause." A most gracious statement, coming from a power that was in the fight slightly more than a week.
