Rodgers advises caution

by Janet Felderhoff
Chief Deputy Dick Rodgers of Cooke County Sheriff's Department Crime Stoppers asks area residents to be especially cautions during the holidays. "Don't leave your Christmas gifts out in the open," he cautious. "When shopping conceal packages in the trunk or take a blanket or something to put over them.
Don't leave your purse where it can be seen in the car."
Rodgers noted that recently there have been suspects who grab purses from cars in parking lots, drive down the road a ways, use the credit cards and dispose of them in a matter of hours. He said that it is that time of year and there

Montague Counties.

Shoppers should be more cautious, warned Rodgers. When leaving shopping areas, especially after hours, they should be aware of those walking near them. should note the description of those persons and what they are wearing. Recently purse snatchers have gone beyond strong arming their intended victims. Now some carry small caliber handguns. "Especially women shopping alone should pay close attention to those around them," Rodgers stressed. "We don't want anyone to get hurt."

County may update jury draw system

by Janet Felderhoff Recent mandates by the tate could cause some problems for those whose esponsibility it is to draw jury courts in Cooke County that equire the service of a jury

The county clerk's office fraws for the county court using a computer in their office. Since the new nandates, neither of the two computers in the county clerk's office comply with the requirements. At a cost of $1140, one of the two could be updated to meet the

Stenholm accepting intern applications

Congressman Charles Stenholm is now accepting applications from college students and educators interested in participating in the 1997 Washington, D.C. Internship Program.

Completed applications must be submitted in person or postmarked by January 10, 1997, to be considered.

Interns are selected to work in the Congressman's office from month intervals in June or July. Interns are involved in the daily operation of the Congressman's office and will assist the legislative staff and help research constituent inquiries.

The internship program is open to college students from the 17th Congressional district, or those attending college inside the district, and teachers and administrators. The interns are paid a $1,000 stipend to apply toward basic living and travel expenses.

Intern applications and information can be obtained by contacting Elaine Talley in the Abilene district office at 915-673-7221, or by writing: Mr. Raymond McDaniel, Jr. Chairman, Intern selection Committee, P.O. Box 543, Abilene, Texas 79604.

Applications are due by January 10, 1997. They will be forwarded to the Selection Committee who will notify finalists by February 21, 1997. Interviews will be held in Abilene on March 15, 1997 and selections will be made at that requirements. A new computer meeting the requirements would cost $1600.

County Clerk Evelyn Walterscheid said that at budget time it was thought that the computers were in compliance and so the additional expense wasn't allowed for in the 1996-97 budget. If an upgrade is made or another computer purchased an amendment will have to be made to the budget.

Another solution would be to use a computer in another office in the courthouse. Currently when a jury is needed for a JP court, one of the JP's clerks must go the district clerk's office and use that computer.

To draw for a jury each office uses a special code to go on line with a state office in Austin. The names are of Cooke County residents who are registered by driver's license or voter's registration. District Clerk Pat Payne and County Clerk Evelyn Walterscheid both asked commissioners to consider another solution because the process with because the process with Austin is time consuming. To use a computer in another office ties up a clerk for most of a day, said Walterscheid. It also ties up the other office's computer. It would be best to have a computer in each office capable of drawing the jury names.

Commissioners voted 5-0 to have the countries Information.

Commissioners voted 5-0 to have the county's Information Technology Committee make a suggestion after studying the situation.

Elsa Naeger, Margery Tittsworth, and Ruth Dowdy, three representatives of a group interested in building a health center at North Central Texas College (NCTC), requested funding information from Commissioners Court for the project. The proposed center would include an indoor Olympic size pool, they said.

Dr. Glasscock of NCTC is assisting them with ways to find grant funding. He is also checking on size and expense information.

Commissioners Court advised them to return when the project gains momentum and the county would consider passing a resolution supporting the project. Also the budget is set for the 1996-97 year and they could not support it financially this fiscal year.

Approval was granted to Commissioner Virgil Hess, at his request, to close a portion of CR 432 and to remove the Mountain Creek bridge located Please See COUNTY, Page 2

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

In reality his letter is addressed to the people of Cooke County in an effort to explain Initiative and Referendum (I&R for short).

What is I&R? It allows the people of a state to participate directly in the legislative process. Initiative enables citizens to bypass the legislature by placing proposed statutes and, in some states, constitutional amendments on the ballot. Referendum provides for a popular vote on laws that have been enacted by the legislature. Together they are a powerful tool for returning power to the people.

To quote a part of my letter from Governor George W. Bush. These reforms would make government more responsive to the people of Texas and stimulate public involvement in state issues. Initiative and Referendum also provide a vehicle for the public to express its will when special interests and political insiders block the legislative process. Texans want to have their voices heard, and Initiative and Referendum will help in that effort.

State Senator Jane Nelson of Flower Mound has made it a ton prigitly to will appear to the people of Flower Mound has made it a ten prigitly to will appear to the people.

State Senator Jane Nelson of Flower Mound has made it a top priority to win I&R power for the people of Texas. She introduced I&R in 1993 and 1995. In 1995 the bill got farther than expected along that portion. When FM 373 was extended due to the building of the Taovayas Bridge, the new highway went around and cut off a small section of CR432 near Bulcher. "I have a 140 foot bridge that crosses Mountain Creek and I sure don't want to have to repair or replace that bridge," Hess said "All that it services is one small tank farm belonging to Koch Oil."

All property owners will have access to the highway and agreed to the closing. The road will become private and they can put in a gate if they wish. Already people have been using the road as a place to dump trash.

In September of this year as a Texas Silver Haired Legislator I presented a resolution supporting Senator Jane Nelson's efforts on I&R that made the top 10 in priority and will go to the state legislature when it convenes in January. Your signatures on these petitions represent support for that action and are the grass roots support that Senator says is so badly needed if we expect to see that issue on the ballot next November.

You will find petitions at all school districts in Cooke County and in Valley View at Sloans Grocery, the JP office, and MFM Feed Mill. At Gainesville at Barnes Bros. New service for military retirees living in N. Texas

TAPS Public Transportation System is beginning a new service to Sheppard Air Force Base for those military retirees or active duty in the area who depend upon the facility for medical and other services. Beginning November 13 and the second Wednesday each month thereafter, a TAPS bus will depart the TAPS Regional Transit Center on Texoma Parkway at 8:30 a.m., make enroute stops at the Wal-Mart parking lot in Gainesville at 9:00 a.m., the Carpenters Shop Senior Center in Nocona at 10:00 a.m. and arrive at Sheppard AFB at 11:00 a.m. The return trip to Sherman-Denison will depart the base at 13:00 p.m., but the time may be later if appointments and business at the base require. The TAPS bus can make multiple stops at any location on the base. Retirees living in other communities along the U.S. Hwy. 82 route can also access the bus by calling ahead to schedule a stop. Military I.D. cards will be required for base entry. The general public is also welcome to use the service to travel along the route or to Wichita Falls, but civilians will not be able to enter the base unless sponsored. Round-trip fares for the service will be $15 from Sherman-Denison, $10 from Gainesville and $5 per person from Nocona. Connections from Bonham are rom Gainesville and $5 per person from Nocona. Connections from Bonham are also available.

The once a month trip is being added to TAPS existing service to the VA Medical Center in Bonham which operates on the first Wednesday each month to provide transportation for Veterans who depend upon the Bonham facility for medical and other needs. TAPS is adding the service to Sheppard AFB because TAPS recently added Montague and Clay counties, between Gainesville and Wichita Falls, to their service area and because the military retiree population of North Texas is dependent upon Sheppard as more and more military bases are closed. The TAPS bus is equipped for those with disabilities, including wheelchair capability. Because TAPS operates a demandresponse transit system, anyone wanting to schedule a ride or needing more information on either Sheppard or Bonham VA service should call TAPS at 892-5257 or toll-free 1-800-256-0911. A call at least the day before is required to insure a seat will be available.

From My Side of the Fence FEETE by Ed Cler FEETE Fe

Our glib-tongued President, among others, reports our deficit for the fiscal year ended 9-30-96 as $108 billion, which is far from the truth.

I have often wondered why Clinton and some of our other politicians feel that they must mask the truth about our deficit. Why not just tell the public how much more we are going in debt each year.

According to published reports, the real deficit for the last fiscal year is $247 billion. That is the amount that must be borrowed from the public to finance the shortage.

It is senseless to report the deficit at $108 billion when an additional $139 billion was taken from trust fund surpluses, all of which must eventually be replaced.

Clinton uses this ruse to try and hoodwink us into believing he has lessened spending.

tell the truth, no such thas happened.

There are a number reasons why less mone needed now than in years p. For one, the savings and mess that, because government bailouts, cosmany billions, is not an an expense. Also the collaps the Soviet Communist Regmade the expenditure of more billions unnecessary in umber of reasons.

Our government has alreborrowed $1.4 trillion f various trust funds to mask size of our indebtedness.

It seems to me that all c would be better served if simple truth was reporteus, so that all would know true extent of indebtedness, and perhap would be taken more seriou even by our representative Washington.

The Majesty Of Christmas will be performed once each night (twice each night on Saturdays) at the Music Mill Amphitheater. A limited engagement, the show will run through Dec. 23.

Other shows featured at Holiday in the Park include: "Santa Country," "Purrs, Paws and Santa Claws," "Have Yourself A Looney Tunes

Six Flags guests can also stroll through Santa's Village where the spirit of the holidays is around every corner. Santa's Workshop offers kids of all ages the chance to marvel at the craftsmanship of Elves in an exhibition of Christmas crafts and toys. Children can create their own Christmas crafts with the help of Mrs. Claus at Kris Kringle's Krafts. And it wouldn't be a complete visit without visiting Santa Claus,

LIBERTY TOURNAMENT
Tigers 56, Oakridge 89
Sacred Heart was outnatched in the first round of tournament play. "We struggled offensively and had 31 turnovers," commented Coach John Nasche. "We have to protect the ball better than that if we plan on winning at basketball." The Tigers were led by Paul Swirczynski in scoring and rebounding, with 23 points and 10 rebounds. Matthew Fuhrmann added 11, Jon Grewing 10, Waylon Hess 5, Duncan Campbell 4, and Lucien Gehrig 3.

After given a bye, the Tigers next tournament action was for consolation against TAPPS class 3A Grace Prep. "They ripped up the Tiger Defense. At times we played excellent defense," said Coach Nasche. "As a whole we have to be more consistent on the defensive end. We can't keep giving up 70-90 points a game and expect to win." Jon Grewing led Sacred Heart with 15 points. Matthew Fuhrmann and Paul Swirczynski each added 9. Two apiece were dropped in by Patrick Miller and Waylon Hess and a free throw by Jonathan Knabe.

"These steps will lead us toward district play and a possible playoff spot. It will take a lot of work." Shane Sparkman put in 17 points, Steven Reiter 14 and Jake Luke 10. Bryan Hudspeth added 9 with Eric Miller and Scott Hermes 7 apiece. Aaron Klement scored 3 and Bryan Miller 2.

Three Hornets were named All-Tournament: Eric Miller, Shane Sparkman and Corey Anderle. "All of our guys played well and any of 6 players could have easily been selected. Grain prices take dive after high summer prices dive after this summer's high prices.

Grain markets are taking a dive after this summer's high

The high grain prices earlier this year prompted foreign growers to plant more land. Their bumper crops are decreasing demand for U.S. grain exports, helping send U.S. crop prices down and reviving old trade tensions, the Wall Street Journal reports.

The price received in October by U.S. corn farmers sank 18 percent from September to $2.91 a bushel, partly because the harvest underway in the Midwest is bigger than forecast. Some traders have increased their corn harvest estimates by 8 percent to about 9.2 billion bushels, a 25 percent bigger crop than last year's.

A harvest of that size would replenish the U.S. stored-corn supply, which was 426 million bushels on Sept. 1, the lowest level in two decades. Some analysts say there will be

Grain traders and economists disagree over whether corn prices are headed back toward the low $2-per bushel level of the early 1990s. Corn farmers are expected to plant near their full capacity next spring. With good weather, that could generate a record crop of more than 10.1 billion bushels, which could lift stockpiles to the levels they were in the early 1990s.

However, some analysts speculate that corn will settle at a higher price than earlier in the decade because demand is stronger now-in part because the United States exports more corn-fed meat. David Nelson, an agribusiness analyst at NatWest Securities Corp., says U.S. farm level price for corn might stabilize around $2.85 a bushel for the rest of the 1990s.

Tour visits six ranches

The annual Extension Bus Tour led by Cooke County Agent Craig Rosenbaum and Tarrant County Agent John South included six planned tour stops. Highlights of the tour included the 165,000 acre Pitchfork Ranch near Guthrie, Texas; The E.C. Cattle Company Ranch in Santo, TX, where a catered chuckwagon meal was served. At the Woodbury Ranch in Milsap TX, thoroughbred horses and trained dogs were demonstrated. The Buzz Thorp Ranch in Throckmorton held working horse and trained dog shows. The Matthews Ranch differences were noted in relation to mortality.

The researchers concluded that the weather damage did not significantly alter the nutritional value of sorghum. Weathered milo, which was severely sprouted and field damaged, had approximately the same feeding value for poultry as undamaged milo.

In the dairy feeding trials done at a dairy at Goldthwaite, one group of 200 head of lactating Holstein cows were fed No. 2 steam-flaked sorghum while another group of 200 cows was fed sprouted sorghum. Researchers concluded that the sprouted sorghum was equivalent to the No. 2 sorghum in nutritional value.

COUNTY WHEAT SITUATION

Fall rains are causing a few problems in our county wheat fields. Soils are super saturated. We should start to see some forage reduction due to the wet soils. When we have extremely wet soils, we have a lack of oxygen in the soils and poor nutrient uptake by the small grain plant roots. This past week, we saw several fields showing nitrogen stress which appears as a yellowing to the Heavy rains at the wrong time can play havoe with grain sorghum to sprout in the field, causing the sorghum to sprout in the head. Although concern has been expressed about the nutritional quality of weather damaged sorghum, research has shown the nutritional quality of the grain is not significantly affected.

Research done by Texas A&M University poultry scientists showed that feeding weather-damaged milo to poultry produced no significant adverse effects on body weight or feed conversion. Additional research was done to determine the feeding value of sprouted sorghum when fed to lactating dairy cows.

The dairy trial showed that sprouted sorghum was equivalent to No. 2 sorghum when fed to dairy cows.

No. 2 sorghum was equivalent to No. 2 sorghum when fed to dairy cows.

In the Texas A&M research, diets containing varying levels of weather-damaged milo were fed to broilers, turkeys and laying hens. There were no significant differences in body weight or feed conversions of broilers fed diets containing either No. 2, No 3, No. 4 or sample grade sorghum.

Turkey poults fed diets in which 0, 33, 67 and 100 percent elevator run weathered grain sorghum was used to replace No. 2 milo performed equally well, indicating that weathered milo had substantially the same feeding value as No. 2 grade grain sorghum.

Egg production, albumin height, shell thickness, and mortality were not significantly affected during five 28-day feeding periods when laying diets were fed in which 33, 67 and 100 percent of the milo was replaced with elevator run weather-damaged milo. Sight improvements were noted for albumen height and shell thickness. No differences were noted in relation to mortality.

The researchers concluded that the weather damage did not signifi-tional value.

More wheat export competition

The USDA pegs the 1996 U.S. all wheat crop at 2.282 billion bushel - up 99 million bushel from 1995. The 1996-97 world wheat crop, estimated at 581 million tons, is nearly 45 million tons larger than 95-96. The world wheat crop is the second highest on record.

The $4.86 first quarter U.S. average farm price was 79 cents above the 95-96 first quarter price. First quarter domestic wheat use climbed 19 percent from last year. Summer export demand was strong, but softer as foreign competitors began selling more wheat.

The USDA forecasts the season average farm wheat price at $4.10 to $4.70. Increase of foreign competition and favorable planting conditions nation wide for the 1997 winter wheat and sagging corn and soybean price prospects should apply downward pressure on wheat prices ahead.

Heavy feeders pressure fed cattle prices

High 1995 crop grain prices and low feeder cattle prices encouraged cow-calf producers to keep '95 calves on forage as long as possible. As a result a surge of heavy weight yearlings began going into feedlots in August. Most needed only 90 to 100 day on feed, than began coming back out of the feedlots in November, pressuring feed cattle prices lower.

Putting more typical numbers of 1996 calves into feedlots, along with the holdover '95 calves may make a five to seven month general pressure on fed cattle prices, according to an article in the December '96 Texas Farmer-Stockman. But the worst should be over by the end of the 1997 first quarter.

There are three big unknowns that will determine the cattle market - how many calves, the winter weather and grain prices.

Tire pressure makes big difference in soil compaction and during periods of prolonged dry weather will tend to shed a crop.

I visited with several producers in the county this past week and their story is pretty much the same as many homeowners.

George Schmidlkofer, longtime pecan producer in Cooke County, told me that he would not make a pecan this year. George said it was so bad in his orchard located northeast of Gainesville that the crows have already given up and left.

Charles Bayer, of J.H. Bayer & Sons, normally harvested some 80,000 pounds of native pecans a year. Charles says that they are not even going to get the picker and shaker out of the barn this year.

Many homeowners experienced weevil problems this year. Some trees had a total loss from weevil damage. The wet fall did a good job in weevil hatching. The drought still remains our biggest problem on pecan production in the county. Hopefully next year will see a brighter picture for pecans in Cooke County. A tire pressure gauge is one of the simplest tools for avoiding soil compaction in muddy fields. With the not-softy weather lately, fall harvest with large equipment can cause rut damage to the fields. By regularly checking and adjusting tire pressure on tractors, combines and other implements, the farmer can reduce the threat of compaction (cutting ruts) and the need for costly deep tillage.

Tire inflation is a wide spread oversight. An estimated 75% of farm tires are over inflated for the loads imposed on them. After checking the recommended minimum pressure for tire configuration and operating load, the pressure could be reduced.

Check with the tire manufacturer for the loaded weight per axle. Do not go below the minimum load pressure. Also low pressure can cause faster tread wear if the equipment runs the road a lot.
