Nine Bar takes 1998 SH Ranch Rodeo title

by Janet Felderhoff

Despite a deluge of rain on Saturday and a surprise blanketing of snow of Sunday, Sacred Heart's Ranch Rodeo on March 7 and 8 was a success. Since it was held indoors at the McKamy Show Barn north of Muenster for the first time spectators stayed dry and warmer.

Nine Bar Ranch of Decatur won the two day event with an overall time of 2,41.68. Cowboys on the team were Jim Bob Little, Jim Tackett, David Riggs, and Jamie Stone. They competed on both days and also took third place with a time of 2,50.71.

Rocking Horse Ranch of Gainesville, J E Ranch of Whitesboro, and Y Bar Ranch of Aubrey.

Another first was the Buckaroo Ranch Rodeo at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday. This event drew interest from young cowboys and cowgirls. In the morning competition first place Benjamin Walterscheid and David Walterscheid of Big Time captured first place with a time of 34.62. Joelle Fuhrmann and Shannon Harman paired up for Double Trouble to take second place with 34.24. Coming in third were the Nike Cowboys Christopher Creed and Derek Murray with 35.85.

Outlaws Jon Ambrose of Muenster and Joseph Briceno of Gainesville took top honors in the afternoon event. Second place went to the Muenster team, Cowboy Up, with Nolan Hartman and Dylan Flusche. In third place were the Big Buckaroos, Mathew Flusche and Joe Hesse of Muenster.

"We plan to be bigger and better next year," said Charlotte Dangelmayr Ranch Rodeo co-chairman. "The Little Buckaroo Ranch Rodeo was fun for all ages and we plan to have it again next year. You could see the excitement on their faces (Buckaroos) and their eyes just sparkled. We had a good crowd even in Sunday's snow."

The teams who competed were also pleased with the Ranch Rodeo. Bill and Charlotte Dangelmayr's phone was ringing Monday with calls complimenting the rodeo and expressing wishes for an invitation next year.

During the rodeo, Chuck Bartush, on behalf of the Sacred Heart Home School Society, presented gifts of appreciation to Stan and Ron Austin of Austin Cattle Company for allowing them to use their cattle for the ranch rodeo.

Who will solve the murder mystery this Saturday???

by Janet Felderhoff

Things have gone awry at the charity fund raiser. Lush Bombaugh has been murdered. There are three suspects - his wife, a local woman of "high morals", and the local undertaker. Each of the suspects has a motive and a hidden past that will be uncovered as the evening unfolds.

The occasion is the Murder Mystery Dinner Theater sponsored by the Muenster Chamber of Commerce. "Charitable Case of Death" by John Broyles is the subject. The objective is to spend Saturday evening, March 21 being entertained as you enjoy a buffet Mexican dinner catered by Rohmer's Restaurant.

There is no stage and the characters will perform as they mingle with the audience. Members of the audience may become part of the dialogue.

A buffet will be served following the first Act. After Act II the audience will be allowed to question the suspects. Each table will be provided with a ballot and asked to name the murderer and the motive. If your table has the best sleuths and solves the mystery it will be awarded a prize.

Detective Dick Spade of the Cooke County Sheriff's Department will reveal the perpetrator in Act III.

"This play is in sitcom form with constant banter between actors and actors and the audience," remarked author John Broyles. "It is a melodrama without popcorn and stage." John Americas Productions has featured "Charitable Case of Death" since December.

Previously John Broyles was associated with a murder mystery troop in Dallas for about four years. They often performed at Dave and Buster's.

Tickets will be available until 5 p.m. Friday and includes a meal and beverage. No tickets will be sold at the door.

The Annual Cooke County Home & Lawn Show drew big crowds Saturday and Sunday to the Gainesville Civic Center. Muenster businesses participating were North Texas Communications Co.,

Muenster Memorial Hospital Home Care, Klement Ford of Muenster and Muenster Garden Center. The event is sponsored by KXGM Radio. Dave Fette Photos

Hamric seeks signatures to abolish Tax Code

Dan Hamric, customer relations coordinator of Muenster State Bank, was a guest speaker at the Muenster Chamber of Commerce Breakfast meeting March 11 at the Center Restaurant. He has been named the area coordinator of a national petition drive to abolish the federal tax code.

The Campaign to Abolish the IRS Code is dedicated to collecting a million signatures calling on Congress and the President to sunset the current tax system by Dec. 31, 2000, replacing it with a fairer and far simpler code. This campaign was launched by the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB).

Hamric told Chamber members that the campaign doesn't advocate any specific replacement for the current tax code, such as a flat tax or a national sales tax. "The petition merely calls on Congress to pull the plug on what we have now," he said. "The prospect of having no tax-raising mechanism in two years time will spark a serious national debate on how we should tax ourselves, and a consensus will arise from the debate."

The impetus behind the petition drive is the conviction that the current code is "beyond salvation," said Hamric. As area coordinator, it is Hamric's job to oversee the distribution of campaign petitions among local business owners and other community leaders.

People interested in signing the petition or otherwise participating in the campaign can drop by the Muenster State Bank. Additional information about The Campaign to Abolish the IRS Code is available toll-free at 1-888-NOT4IRS or online at www.not4irs.org.

Aaron Klement will be collecting new and used hardback books for the Muenster Public Library this Sunday, March 22, from 2 to 4 p.m. If you would like the Scout to pick up your books, call Aaron at 759-4579. This collection is Aaron's Eagle Scout project. Janie Hartman Photo

Businesses: beware of counterfeit checks

Muenster Police Chief Bob Stovall is warning Muenster businesses to be wary of anyone trying to cash Bank of America Travelers checks in $100 denominations. Several of the counterfeit checks have been passed in Muenster businesses lately. They look and feel authentic with only a slight variation in the color of the bird on the front.

Stovall asks that the Muenster Police Department be contacted immediately if someone tries to cash the checks in their place of business.

"Area businesses should take proper identification, especially on out of town checks," stressed Stovall. He noted that there had been several forgeries with stolen personalized checks in the past year and the last several months. With Germanfest coming and the large number of out of town people, businesses should be sure to take proper identifications, he said.

Rep. Finnell hopeful for Red River Boundary resolution

State Rep. Charles Finnell of the 68th House District recently expressed optimism regarding the work of the Red River boundary Commission and their ongoing efforts to establish a more permanent and dependable state boundary line that the ever-moving "south bank of the Red River," the existing boundary dating back to the Louisiana Purchase. Rep. Finnell, author of the state legislation originating the creation of the boundary commission in 1991 and again in 1995, (HCR128) is hopeful for success based on the outstanding labors of the Texas Commissioners appointed by Texas Gov.

George Bush, and their chairman, Bill Abney of Marshall.

"Our six appointed Texas Commissioners simply could not have been better suited for this task," Finnell stated. "With Mr. Abney's leadership, I foresee that this age-old controversy could well be settled by compromise between the two states by the year 2000 AD."

"It's very much in the interest of both states that the state line boundary be practical, historical, economical, easily identifiable and not be violative of landowners private boundary rights."

IRA deadline nears

Just a reminder that the deadline to make a contribution to your 1997 IRA is April 15, just a few weeks away.

With an IRA, not only can you defer taxes on your income, but you can also defer taxes on the return on your investments in the IRA. That can make quite a difference. For example, if you invest $2000 tax deferred for 30 years, earning an average annual return of 10%, your account will grow to $361,887. Even if you pay 28% taxes on your earnings, you'd still have $260,559.

Measure that against paying 28% tax on $2000 income. That leaves you with $1440 after taxes to invest. Suppose you invest that in a taxable investment earning 10%. Since it is taxable, your net return after 28% tax will be 7.2%. At the end of 30 years, you would have just $151,171.

As you can see, an IRA can be very worthwhile. And for tax year 1998, the new ROTH IRA may be even better for you. If you haven't made your 1997 contributions to an IRA, or if you are dissatisfied with the rate of return on your present IRA, give me a call.

ABBA guest speaker describes abortion money trail

EDITOR'S NOTE: Carol Everett is the author of "Blood Money - Getting Rich Off a Woman's Right to Choose," a detailed life story. As a speaker she travels the US educating her audiences about crisis pregnancies, drawing from her experiences as an abortion provider and consumer. She heads Life Network and the Heidi Group; named for the daughter she aborted in 1973, an experience that led her into the abortion industry.

"I've learned that any choice my God makes for me is better than any choice I make for myself... Everyone of you are here tonight because God brought you here... Life is always the answer." Carol Everett made those statements to a spellbound audience March 7 at ABBA Women's Center's annual fund-raiser held in St. Peter's Centennial Hall, Lindsay.

Everett went on to say that she gained that knowledge in 1983 when God took her to her knees in the middle of her own abortion clinic.

Prior to that, in 1973 (just two weeks after the supreme Court's decision legalizing abortion), "I killed my baby," Everett said. "I never dreamed I would be a murderer."

That action led her into the abortion industry and ownership interest in two clinics in the Dallas/Ft. Worth Metroplex. Her work in abortion clinics lasted for 6 years. Then 14 years ago she came to know Jesus Christ as her personal Savior. Her life was turned around and today her crusades are pro-life.

Her perspective is unique for it is one of an ex-insider now working full time in the pro-life movement; committed to safeguarding the health of women and their babies.

Complimenting her audience, Everett said, "I'm so glad you have a genuine concern for the world your children are growing up in. The family value system is here. I've seen it tonight."

Everett explained that she saw abortion as a means to become a millionaire.

Noting that her clients were between the ages of 13-18, Everett urged young people in the audience to, "Talk to your parents. They are your best friend."

"My mother is 75 and still tells me what to do," Everett said. "It makes me mad, but I know that she loves me and wants the best for me."

CAROL EVERETT

Emphasizing the need for good sex education, Everett said it must be education with high moral standards. In the realm of an abortionist, she said sex education was used as a wedge to separate child and parent.

Recounting her own experiences, Everett said the separation actually began in kindergarten with visits to the schools where they worked to gain the children's trust while at the same time questioning them about what their parents called their "private parts".

The beginning of the breakdown, she said, was evidenced on the playground when those children giggled, pointed, and began to call names.

In the fourth grade, Everett said masturbation and same sex relationships became the topic of discussion.

Children in the fifth grade were taught that their parents were "old fuddy-duddies. We'd get then to laugh about their parents," she said.

By the time those children were teenagers, Everett said she was passing out low-dose birth control pills because she knew it would produce a high pregnancy rate. She was sure of that because she said the pill only worked if it was taken at the same time every day and she knew "...teenagers never do anything at the same time every day."

When a girl found herself pregnant she also found Everett's card and dialed the number. She was greeted by a "counselor" trained in telemarketing abortions.

According to Everett, the telemarketing consisted of three things, all of which were based on fear. A caller was first "...reassured that we could take care of everything. No one needed to know," she said, least of all the parents.

Next the date of the girl's last period was put on a wheel which calculated how many weeks she was in to her pregnancy.

Lastly, Everett said that by identifying the feared pregnancy the abortion was reaffirmed and the young woman was again told that her parents didn't have to know.

Secrecy and fear, she said, were always used to convince them they were pregnant, even without an exam.

"My goal," Everett said, "was 3-5 abortions for every girl between the ages of 13-18." She remembered one girl having 9 abortions.

Abortion rates nationally range between $250 to $8,000. In Texas, Everett said the rates range from $250 to $4,000, with Saturday being the busiest day and producing 10-12 abortions per hour.

In her clinics two teams kept a virtual assembly line going. One team, she said, would prep while the other was performing an abortion. Switching back and forth her doctors could make $6,000 an hour.

Everett noted that an added benefit was that payment was made in cash at the end of the day. IRS reports were left to the person doing the abortion.

Everett was paid $25 per abortion for a monthly average of 500 abortions.

She had aspirations of having five clinics in the Dallas/Fort Worth area and to advertise in five states.

But that didn't happen. Doctors began to make mistakes, everyone began fighting among themselves, and CBS caught them attempting abortions on non-pregnant young girls.

A business manager was brought in who promised success but didn't say how much it would cost.

As it turned out the man was a preacher. Everett said, "He said he and his deacons had been praying... and there was one person in the clinic that God wanted out. That person would be gone in 30 days."

Everett said she prayed with the man but at the same time thought he must be crazy if he thought she was going to leave all that money. However, when she returned to her clinic things had changed. She found herself falling to her knees and praying. That was her turning point and in 27 days she had left the clinic and abortion behind her.

"I am responsible for 35,000 abortions, 19 maimings and one woman's death," Everett confessed.

According to Everett, there are 66 abortion clinics listed in Texas' yellow pages. While none are regulated, the 32 that are licensed report 98,000 abortions.

"These are not political, they are moral issues," Everett said as she challenged her audience to become involved with pro-life and to support the ABBA Women's Center, where it is reported that about 80 percent of the women who come into the Center come to accept Christ as their Savior. "Ask God, 'What part do I play in stopping abortion?'" Everett said. "I believe God is watching."

From My Side of the Fence

by Ed Cler

In the early 30s, while still in my teens, we still threshed the old fashioned way - 12 to 13 hour days of hard work.

But we didn't think much about it - all our friends and neighbors did the same, and we all survived and managed to have some fun too.

One year, after finishing our two-week threshing run, and after checking out the machine, and putting it in its shed, we were faced with dis-assembling the bundle frames and storing them as well.

My Dad sent me to one of our neighbors to bring home one of the bundle wagons that, for one reason or another, had been left there.

As I was about to hitch the team to the wagon, a young lady who was working for the lady of the house, came out to ask me something about an older cousin of mine who had worked the harvest with us.

As she neared the wagon one of her charges, a boy of 5 or 6, ran out to see what was going on.

While the girl and I were talking, the kid climbed upon the wagon, and in an attempt to get a little attention interrupted with "She wantha kith you!" with a slight lisp. But finding himself ignored, he climbed up the rear standard of the bundle frame and hanging upside down, he decided he was going to have to put a little more oomph in his remarks in order to gain some attention. "She wantha kith you-th!"

With that said, he dropped to the ground and went running full tilt for the house with the red-faced girl in hot pursuit.

Frankly, it was a bit hard to suppress a grin as I drove the team and wagon out of the yard.

Giant robotic bugs invade the Fort Worth Zoo

Fly swatters? Don't bother! Insect repellent? Just makes them laugh! Run... don't walk! Incredibugs is coming! Sponsored by Delta Air Lines, Outdoor Systems and Quaker Oats, this special traveling exhibit landed at the Fort Worth Zoo on February 20 and continues through May 26, 1998.

As guests make their way into the Zoo's "backyard," they will discover that they've entered a different world - one where the insects are immense, the butterflies are behemoth and the people are the size of ants! Larger-than-life size mechanical bugs and butterflies, ranging from 8- to 16-foot tall, tower above and amaze adults and children alike! See an array of oversized creepy crawlies, including a tarantula, wasp, caterpillar, beetles and a dozen butterflies. All animated-robotic displays feature minute details that aren't always apparent to the naked eye, making this viewing a chance of a lifetime.

Fun, hands-on activities that focus on both the beautiful and creepy sides of the insect world are also a part of Incredibugs exhibit. Computer touch-screen games, puzzles and many other creative interactives are sure to educate as they entertain. Mechanic bugs and interactives provided by Creative Presentations and mechanic butterflies are from Dinamation International.

Plus, see hundreds of live butterflies on display in special walk-through, lush planted butterfly green house. Observe these beautiful bugs in a natural-habitat surrounding that's especially perfect for photographers. Those interested in enticing native butterflies into their own backyards will want to stop at the Incredibugs Butterfly Garden to learn what plants these winged wonders prefer with graphics explaining what type of butterflies each plant attracts.

Muenster High presents "Arsenic and Old Lace"

A special benefit performance of Muenster High School's UIL One Act Play, "Arsenic and Old Lace", will be given for the community in the MHS Auditorium on Monday, March 23, at 7:30 p.m. All proceeds from the play will be donated to the Cooke County ABBA (All Babies Born Alive) organization to further their good work to preserve the sanctity of human life. The cast and crew invite you to not only enjoy a night of wonderful entertainment, but also to support a worthy cause.

"Arsenic and Old Lace", written by Joseph Kesselring, set in the early 1940s, in the living room of the Brewster sisters, in Brooklyn, New York. It is the story of two charming and innocent old ladies who populate their cellar with the remains of lonely old men with the help of their nephew, who thinks he is Teddy Roosevelt. It is a love story, a murder mystery, and a horror story all rolled into one; however, above all else, it is a hilarious comedy. The play was popularized in the mid-1940s by the movie version featuring Cary Grant in the lead role. The movie was highly successful as the country was truly in need of comic relief after the many years of war.

The cast, under the direction of Irene Hartman, consists of the following students: Keisha Dill, Michael Grewing, Bryan Hudspeth, Raegan Koesler, Jim Stoffels, Lucas Hartman, Mendy Endres, Jeff Klement, Darren Hennigan, Casey Walterscheid, Craig Hartman, Aaron Klement, Jesse Luke, and John Flusche. Members of the stage crew are Kristin Dickerson, Kristine Hartman, Angela Russell, and Kelly Felderhoff.

A second performance will be given for the junior high and high school students on Tuesday, March 24, at 10 a.m., at MHS. In addition, on Wednesday, March 25, the company will perform in the Cruce Stark Auditorium, on the Grayson County College Campus, in Denison at the Zone B One Act Play competition. The students and their director invite all of you who would like to support them to attend their competition.

HP plotter donated to MISD by Cooke Co. Electric Co-op

After purchasing a new advanced plotter, Cooke County Electric Cooperative had a dilemma: what to do with the old one that is still useful. It was realized that Muenster ISD could put the plotter to use in its Computer Aided Drafting (CAD) Class and arrangements were made to donate the Hewlett Packard Plotter to the school.

"This is a very welcome addition to our classroom," commented Rudy Koesler, MISD CAD instructor. Jerry Admire, system engineer, Neil Hesse, engineering/operations technician, and Jeff Walterscheid, lineman, all helped with getting the plotter to Muenster High.

"The plotter can be used for several different purposes," noted Admire. "The Co-op used it to produce CAD drawings and maps, especially maps. The plotter cost the Co-op in the area of $10,000 several years ago when it was new, the plotter that is much faster cost about half that."

Through the generosity of specific businesses and individuals in our community, the following donations will enhance the total amount to be contributed to the American Cancer Society:

- Christi's Jewelry and Gifts of Muenster has donated a two-year, limited edition Seraphim Classic by Roman "Hope, Light in the Distance." The exclusive art treasure is dedicated to the fight against breast cancer. For every angel that is sold in the United States, a portion will be donated to the Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation.
- Harriet Scoggins of Muenster made and donated a beautiful handmade crocheted tablecloth, which can be viewed at Lora's Flowers and Gifts.

- Sisters of Muenster donated a gift basket containing a Ty "Princess (Di)" Bear, a 14k gold and pearl Tin Cup pearl necklace with matching earrings, and a bottle of Lady Primrose Tryst's fragrance.

Sponsors of the charity event are appealing for excellent community involvement. Prizes are quality items that anyone would be proud to have in their homes. Tickets (chances) for the Seraphim angel and crocheted tablecloth are available at Christi's Jewelry, Home Health Office in Muenster Hospital, Bayer's Kolonialwaren and Lora's Flowers and Gifts. Sisters offers the chances exclusively on the gift basket of the Ty Bear, the 14k Tin Cup Necklace and Earrings and the bottle of Tryst Fragrance.

Three special items being raffled to benefit the 3rd Annual Cooke County Relay For Life are a hand crocheted tablecloth, a Seraphim Angel and a gift basket containing a Princess Di Bear by TY, pearl necklace and earrings plus a bottle of perfume. Janie Hartman Photo

Sr. Roberta Hesse Mission Fund renamed at MSB

There has been a change in the name of the Sister Roberta Hesse Mission Fund Account. The reason for the change is to provide each donor with a tax receipt for donations of $250 or more per year. The account will be named the Sisters of St. Mary of Namur and is set up at Muenster State Bank. Checks should now be written to the above account. The nuns have assured her family that every dollar donated will go to Sister Roberta Hesse. Contributors of $250 or more will receive a tax receipt at the end of the year for income tax purposes.

NCTC Art Show changes

The annual NCTC Art Show to showcase young talent in area schools has been changed this year to highlight individual categories of grades rather than one large showing.

Throughout the month of March and into April, Gainesville residents will have the opportunity to see showings for 1st-3rd graders, 4th-6th graders, middle school students, and finally high school students at the Gainesville college campus.

Grades 1 through 3 will have their showing from March 24-27. Grades 4 through 6 will exhibit their works March 30 through April 3. Works from middle schools appear April 6-10. High school students work will be displayed from April 13-17.

The public is free to browse the materials and viewing hours are the same as campus hours.

"These events will take place in the NCTC Student Activity Center," said event curator and NCTC art instructor Mary Frances VanPelt.

"These shows feature the charming art work that only the very young can produce," said VanPelt. "We invite everyone to come and see how much talent we have in the area."

The individual shows will be judged and prizes awarded. Winning works will be displayed during NCTC's annual Art Show which opens Thursday, April 23 also in the Student Activity Center. There will be a special awards presentation at 4:30 p.m. on Sunday, April 26.

For more information about the upcoming art show or the art department at North Central Texas College, call Mary Frances VanPelt at 940-668-7731, ext. 329. For more information about NCTC and its offerings to Cooke, Denton and Montague Counties, look up <http://www.nctc.cc.tx.us> on the World Wide Web.

LIFE TEEN
"Daisy, Daisy," "Skip to My Lou," "When the Saints Go Marching In". What do these songs have in common? They were all sung at St. Richard's Villa! We had a lot of fun singing songs for our elderly, and they hated to see us go.

A week from this Sunday, that is March 29, we have our night on Pressures from 7-8:30 p.m. Where do they come from? Who applies them? How do we react? Are our reactions good or bad?

JELLY.
This weekend we are heading out to Shallowater for our annual A.M.F. (Ambassadors of the Flame of Mercy) Retreat. We will meet at 3 p.m. at the CC parking lot and we will be back by 6:30 p.m. on Sunday. So please, pray for us all on our Great Adventure.

Next Sunday, March 29, we will be going out to Felderhoff's from 1:15 to 6:45 for tons-of-fun and great food.

Green Tip

Fact: 90% of the world's drinking water comes from groundwater. Until recently, most groundwater had been left undisturbed by civilization. Tip: Don't let the water run unnecessarily while shaving and brushing your teeth.

TO THE VOTERS OF COOKE COUNTY

I would like to thank everyone who supported me in the March 10 Primary. I appreciate the phone calls, good wishes and anything which you did to support me in my campaign for District Clerk. There is still much to be done throughout the rest of the year before the Nov. 3 General Election. It is my goal to contact as many of you as I possibly can before the General Election. I believe in hard work and in doing things the right way. With over 20 years of county work experience, I believe I will bring to the District Clerk's office professionalism, integrity and knowledge. I will be a FULL-TIME WORKING DISTRICT CLERK. Together, we can make a difference.

Sincerely,
Kathy McGowan Ullmann

ADVANTAGE TIPS

How close is too close? by Will Primos
In the natural world of the wild turkey, the hens more frequently go to the Gobbler than the gobblers go to the hens. That's the way it is, no matter how much we turkey hunters wish it were the other way around.

Thankfully, gobblers can be enticed to seek out hens or what they think are hens. However, as the gobbler closes in, he's looking for the opportunity to stop and strut. Gobbling really is just for getting the hen's attention and warning off other gobblers. The visual strutting display is hard-core courtship.

For the camouflaged hunter, calling too much as the gobbler closes in can encourage him to stop and strut, thinking the hen is on the way. Back down on the calling so that he's still a bit uncertain about the hen's location. By the same token, getting too close to a roosted gobbler and calling too much can keep the bird up in the tree, waiting for the "hen" to show up.

4.5 acres needed to meet needs of individuals

County Agent's Report

by Craig Rosenbaum

Fertility test prior to breeding season

Consider the small amount spent on fertility testing bulls now as a cheap insurance policy rather than having several cows open after the breeding season. The industry's average cost for fertility testing bulls ranges from $30 to $50 per bull.

Overall, only 57.3 percent of operations that purchased, leased, or borrowed bulls for the last breeding season had a semen test performed on any of the newly introduced bulls, according to National Animal Health Monitoring Service data.

Your local veterinarian can perform an entire breeding soundness exam on your bulls. The veterinarian will look for any physical abnormalities or limitations of the bull.

The exam also includes taking an ejaculation from the bull. Sperm volume, color and overall appearance are noted. The sperm cells are then viewed under a microscope. Sperm motility is one of the most critical measures of the exam. Individual sperm characteristics are closely observed for any irregularities. Just remember, if your bull's fertility was fine last year, it doesn't necessarily mean his productivity is still guaranteed this year.

From: Dovers Feb. 1998

It takes an average of 4.5 acres (about the size of four football fields) to produce the products every one of us eats or uses during a year.

So how much of various products does a person use? Here's an idea:

- 616 lbs. paper
- 306 lbs. dairy products
- 193 lbs. vegetables
- 154 lbs. red meat
- 149 lbs. flour and cereal products
- 147 lbs. sugar and sweeteners
- 139 lbs. fruit and juice
- 86 lbs. potatoes
- 68 lbs. poultry
- 57 lbs. fats and oils
- 33 lbs. eggs
- 25 lbs. melons
- 16 lbs. fish
- 14 lbs. cotton
- 12 lbs. coffee, tea, and cocoa
- 5 lbs. wool

GREENBUGS IN WHEAT

For the past several years, we have conducted systemic insecticide result demonstrations on wheat for the control of greenbugs. Greenbugs are small soft bodied insects that have piercing and sucking mouth parts. They cause a severe amount of stress to wheat and can even kill fields if infestations are bad enough.

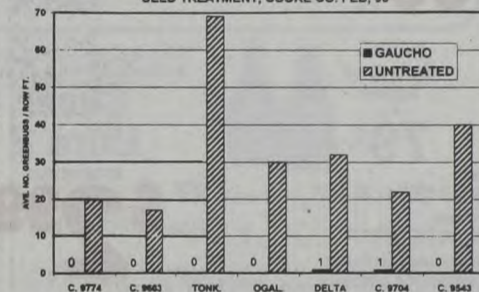

In 1995, a systemic insecticide called Gaucho was labeled by Gustafson, Inc. This insecticide is applied to wheat seed by a certified commercial treater. No grower applications can be used. The commercial treater in our area is J.H. Bayer and Sons at Muenster. Not only will the Gaucho eliminate plant death, it also has an effect on reducing the incidence of barley yellow dwarf virus. This virus is transmitted by insects including greenbugs.

Two demonstrations were held in the county this year on the Fuhrmann Brothers Farm north of Lindsay and the Schumacher Brothers Farm near Hood. Infestations of greenbugs were light compared to some years but numbers were still large enough to cause some plant stress. Dr. Allen Knutson, Extension Entomologist, took greenbug counts in February and found from 20 to 70 at three locations in each plot of untreated wheat. The treated wheat averaged 0 to 1 at the three random locations. The February counts should show no toxic levels of the insecticide in the wheat. The absence of the greenbugs is due to the high level of control last fall and winter and the lack of migrating greenbugs into the treated areas during the winter. Whatever the reason, the insecticide treated plots worked.

The following chart lists the various varieties and the Gaucho treated and untreated results.

Soybeans - average seed cost, $18.62 per acre. Cotton - average seedling rate, 14 lbs. per acre; average seedling cost, $9.85 per acre. Winter wheat - average seedling rate, 69 lbs. per acre; average seedling cost, $8.27 per acre.

Ag Week to celebrate U.S. ag's global role

With world population at 5.5 billion today, and expected to reach 7.9 billion by the year 2020, American agriculture must meet global needs for food and fiber now and in the future. National Agriculture Week, March 15-21, is focusing on the global challenges and opportunities for United States agriculture with the theme 'Growing Tomorrows'.

"There will continue to be more people in the world to feed and clothe, but American agriculture is up to the task," says Joyce Spicher, chairperson of the Agriculture Council of America, which coordinates Ag Week.

With rapid world population growth and increasing wealth in developing nations, it puts greater pressure on American farmers to turn out even higher crop yields. That means we'll be feeding new mouths while also feeding those who can afford to improve their diets.

Spicher says that technological advances are allowing American producers to increase production and quality. For example, through sophisticated global positioning systems that utilize military satellites, farmers can map a field and log data on everything from soil conditions to weed density. By using this technology, farmers can apply nutrients and crop protection products only where and when they are needed. These global positioning systems not only help growers maximize production efficiencies, but also insure that nothing is used that isn't needed.

From technology to innovative cultural practices, American agriculture is working hard with an eye to the future.

Cooke County Farm Bureau asks you to take time March 20 to celebrate American agriculture, an industry that is 'Growing Tomorrows'.

Dairy Farmers of America elect officers for new council Meeting in Arlington, the Southwest Area Council, one of six governing councils across the U.S. and part of the newly-formed Dairy Farmers of America (DFA), elected its slate of officers for 1998.

Elected chairman of the 17-member council, which represents 798 dairy farmers in New Mexico and Texas, was Calvin Buchanan of Decatur, Texas. Buchanan is a member of the corporate board of DFA and held the post of chairman of the former Associated Milk Producers, Inc., one of the four cooperatives that consolidated to form DFA. Buchanan, who milks 500 Holsteins and 250 Jersey cows on his 3,200-acre farm, is a voting delegate to the National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF) and is past president of the Texas Beef Industry Council.

The post of first vice chairman went to Neil Hoff of Windthorst, Texas, who milks 125 Holstein cows on his 210-acre farm. Hoff is a voting delegate to NMPF and a member of the Cattlemen's Beef Promotion and Research Board.

Elected second vice chairman of the council is Newell Cooper of Dublin, Texas, who milks 1,000 Holsteins on 500 acres. The post of treasurer of the council went to Wayne Palla of Clovis, New Mexico, who milks 1,900 Holsteins on 2,900 acres. Alva Carter of Portales, New Mexico, who milks 2,000 Holsteins on 4,000 acres in partnership with two sons, Alva Jr. and Alan was elected secretary.
