New Homes Feature Glass

PITTSBURGH, PA.—American home owners are showing an almost universal desire for more and bigger windows in their new dwellings. Particularly are they interested in the type that take up the entire wall of one room. Most homes now being built or planned include at least one of these large units. These windows not only add beauty to a house but also make heating easier by using the heat of the sun. They take less time to clean than small windows with the usual small panes.

unit of seven rooms with three bedrooms, a work and recreation room, living room, dining area, and a prefabricated utility and kitchen area. Windows range in size from the normal units in the bedrooms to the full-wall sliding panels facing the living area. These panels permit use of the social court as an integral part of the living quarters. The national trend in home building is toward this type of functional use of windows and large areas of glass.

MARY ALICE BERNAUER MARRIED SATURDAY TO SOUTH CAROLINA MAN

Miss Mary Alice Bernauer of this city and I. B. Fonville of Durham, S. C., were married in a quiet ceremony performed Saturday afternoon in Dallas.

Mr. Fonville is the son of Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Fonville, Sr., and was also recently discharged from the army after being on duty in the ETO.

More than six million dollars in new currency is printed each year by the Bureau of Printing and engraving.

First Prize Winner
Indicative of the new use of glass for homes is this design by architects Norman and Jean Fletcher which won first prize in the national "House For Cheerful Living" competition sponsored by Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Pittsburgh Corning companies. More than 900 architects competed. This design calls for an H-shaped urged to keep on saving them as during the war years, according to Mildred Chapman, County Home Dem. Agent.

Miss Chapman suggests that you buy only the fats and oils you need. Use fat-saving recipes. Make use of every possible ounce of "used" fats that you can. Use the bacon drippings and other fats of good flavor for seasoning.

Washington Notes

By Congressman Ed Gossett

Washington, D. C., April 26—
 The death of Chief Justice Stone of the U. S. Supreme Court is a great loss to the country. He is the 12th Justice to preside over that august tribunal in the more than 150 years history of the country.

The U. S. Supreme Court is the most powerful judicial body in the world. The story is told that a darky once asked the question "who do you appeal to when you lose your case in the Supreme Court." The answer was, "To Heaven."

One of the remaining Justices of the Court will be promoted to Chief Justice. Personally I feel the President should select the new Justice from the Southwestern area of the United States. Here, to fore a vast majority of the members of the Court have come from the Northeast. In 1944 I introduced a bill in Congress to require geographical distribution of the Justices. The bill provided that at least three of the Justices should come from the states west of the Mississippi and at least two of them from states east of the Mississippi and South of the Ohio River, roughly the "old South". Not only should the Court be well balanced as between the two great political parties of the country, but it should also be apportioned geographically.

This week the Senate is debating the controversial issue of the British loan. Just as a loan, all agree it would not be a sound proposition. Actually, it's a gigantic economic arrangement between the two countries. State and Treasury experts and other proponents of the loan argue that we secure many valuable concessions as part consideration for extending to the British the proposed three and three quarter billion dollars in credit. They argue that we get it back many times over. Others point out that through the so-called loan we keep the British on their feet, and secure a valuable ally in the matter of world security.

Opponents argue that we can't afford to make such a loan, that we need the money at home, that we'll never get it back, and that we are being out-traded by the British.

Contrary to common impression, the British did pay back 2 billion 24 million dollars of their World War I debt to us, that debt being 4 billion 227 millions. A great many conservative members of the British Parliament strongly condemn the loan, saying it's bad for the British. The London Times called it an economic Dunkirk. A Laborite Member of the House, Norman Smith, referred to it as "treatment given a defeated enemy." Conservation Member Rob. Boothby said, "This is our economic Munich." Lord Walton, in a bitter speech, called the approval of the British loan "an hour of degradation." "Today," said he, "we are surrendering our rights to the power of the dollar."

Certainly if the British were to back out on the agreement a lot of good folks in this country would be quite happy to call the whole thing off. Among American financiers opposing the loan are Bernard Baruch and Jesse Jones. Bitter editorials have appeared with such headings as "Uncle Sap" and "Global Santa Claus." Whatever we do, it should be determined by the sole measure of what is best for America. In my opinion the American Congress will give the question careful consideration on this basis only.

The OPA debate waxes more bitter. Here again passion, prejudice, and misinformation is running riot. The question of price controls is a fundamental one and should be decided on sound economic policy of what is best for our present as well as our future.

The majority of those who feel that we need some controls for still some time, also agree that a permanent regimentation such as OPA will lower American standards of living rather than increase such standards.

Thought She Needed Insurance
 "Yes, this is the Fidelity Insurance Company. What can we do for you, lady?"

"Well, I saw my husband talking to some red haired girl at the bus stop, and I want his fidelity insured."

Not His Choice
 "And are you really content to spend your life walking around the country begging?"
 "No, lady. Not at all. Many's the time I wished I had a car."

Quick Shift
 "What is heredity?"
 "Heredity is what we believe in until our children start proving it."

CLEAN UP MOSQUITO BREEDING PLACES TO PREVENT MALARIA

Austin, Texas.— Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer issued a warning against the danger of malaria following the heavy rainfall in Texas, which usually occurs during the spring and early summer months.

"Malaria will remain a major public health problem as long as breeding places are accessible to the female Anopheles mosquito," Dr. Cox said. "Every householder should make sure that there are no tin cans, broken bottles, or other types of rubbish on his premises that will hold water and offer breeding places to this enemy of good health."

Dr. Cox pointed out that in our practice of mosquito control, we are sometimes like the man who locked the stable door after the horse was already stolen; we are content to wait until all our premises are swarming with mosquitoes before we bring ourselves to active warfare against these recognized agents of malaria transmission.

Dr. Cox further stressed the importance of conserving the public health and preventing the spread of disease in our present crowded conditions, and he also emphasized the fact that malaria is one of the more debilitating diseases, often causing its victim to lose weeks or even months from his regular employment or from school attendance.

Said Dr. Cox: "The best cure for malaria is prevention. Make sure your premises are free from any stagnant waters, in which may breed the female Anopheles mosquito that transmits the disease."

Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Wilde were hosts in their home Saturday evening for a dinner party honoring their son, Ray Wilde, recently returned from overseas duty with the army, and a group of his pre-war buddies, most of whom also had overseas service during the war.

The delicious turkey dinner was served to Martin and Roman Klement, Ray Voth, Giles Lehner, Pat Hennigan, Herbie Herr Hubert Bezner, Lubbock, James Bezner of Lindsay and Ray Wilde and Misses Gladys and Laura Ice Wilde, Marcella Schmitz of Dallas, and Alice Sandmann of Lindsay.

Following the meal, informal diversion was enjoyed and the group played old records made before the war, and made new ones telling of their overseas experiences.

In seven out of ten fatal motor vehicle accidents, one or both drivers were violating a traffic law.

Expect State Wheat Harvest To Be Third Largest In History

Unless conditions grow worse, Texas farmers in 1946 should produce the third largest wheat crop in the state's history. Based upon April 1 conditions, the Crop Reporting Board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture forecast a yield of 59,940,000 bushels, according to a statement released by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics at Austin. If this yield is realized it will come from the largest acreage ever seeded in Texas.

The BAE statement points out, that final wheat harvest is dependent largely upon the state of the weather during April and May. In the important northwest wheat area, timely rains and snow provided sufficient surface moisture to bring the crop through the winter and early spring months with light losses of acreage. Notwithstanding, total rainfall for the season is below normal and soil moisture is deficient. Meanwhile, good general rains are needed to prevent further loss in acreage and yield.

In other wheat areas, however, rainfall generally had been adequate and the crop to April 1 had made good progress. Infestation of greenbugs have been reported in many areas, but the damage from this insect had not been excessive.

Assuming that current growing conditions continue, or improve, the yield forecast would be exceeded only by the record crop of 1944 and that of 1931.

STATE WILL FURNISH HATCHERY FISH FOR HOME RE-STOCKING

Farmers and others who depend upon state fish hatcheries for supplies to restock their home waters should place their applications direct with headquarters.

The procedure, says R. E. Callender, game management specialist for the A. and M. College Extension Service, is for the applicant to write to Marion Toole, Chief Aquatic Biologist, Game, Fish and Oyster Commission, Austin, for standard application forms. After filling out the forms they should be returned to the office of the commission. As a rule, Callender says, forms are not available at the offices of county agricultural agents, although it now is permissible for agents to submit names of those desiring fish. In that case the game commission will send forms to individuals named, provided accurate mailing addresses are given.

Callender also announces that a limited quantity of game preservative signs now are available.

SENIOR-JUNIOR BANQUET IS GALA AFFAIR SUNDAY

The annual Junior-Senior banquet for Sacred Heart High school students was a gala affair of Sunday evening. It was given in the parish hall and was attended by more than one hundred students and parents.

The delicious three-course meal was prepared by mothers of the Sophomore class and was served by the Sophomores at long tables prettily appointed and adorned with roses and candles. The entire hall was decorated with red roses, the class flower, and was festooned with red and gray crepe paper garlands, bring out the class colors.

Rev. Herman Laux, led the invocation, gave a short address and served as toastmaster during the dinner. Welcome was extended by Joe Weinzapfel Jr., and the response was given by Norbert Magee. The Juniors sang "The Bells of Saint Mary's" accompanied by Gerald Bayer on the accordion, and Arthur Endres gave an address. The closing number was "The Star Spangled Banner" by the assemblage.

A social hour followed the meal.

Shortage Of Cotton Seed Oil One Explanation Of Shortage In Cooking Fats

One-hundred and thirty-five million pounds reduction in cotton seed oil production during the first seven months of this season, compared with a year ago, is one reason that the President's famine relief committee had to urge Americans to reduce fats and oils consumption by 20 per cent, B. T. Haws, County Agent points out.

"Cottonseed oil production figures released by the Bureau of Census, following the appeal for reduced fats consumption, clearly show the critical need for increased cotton production in 1946 to supply cottonseed oil as well as cottonseed feed products to produce meat and animal fats."

McCormick-Deering Milker

America's 310,000 milking machine owners last year reported savings in time of 2½ hours a day—more than enough to plow, plant, cultivate and pick mechanically 100 acres of corn.
—Bureau of Agricultural Economics, U.S. D.A.

The saving in time reported above is one of the key reasons why America's milk production is holding its own so well in spite of farm help shortages.

If you are the fortunate owner of a McCormick-Deering Milker, we urge you to take the best possible care of it. When new parts are needed, insist on getting Genuine IHC Parts. Make our store your IHC Parts headquarters. If you need a new milker, ask us about the availability of new machines.

Soil Conservation Men Reorganize Districts To Facilitate Program

In meetings held at the Muenster State Bank Monday and Tuesday night of this week, participants in the local soil conservation movement reorganized districts for the purpose of facilitating their program.

The area directly east of Muenster comprising 41 participating farms now has four group leaders instead of one.

By this method J. W. Hess, chairman, disclosed, each leader has a smaller area to oversee and is able to give individual farms more attention.

Principal soil conservation practices here, he stated, are terracing and sodding channels and terrace outlets. Experience has shown that these methods check erosion, and provide additional grazing for livestock besides improving the appearance of the land.

For soil building the participants have been making extensive uses of legumes and lately have been supplementing with fertilizer. Al Hess reported at the meeting that he is now experimenting with fertilizer in a field of vetch and finds that the fertilized portion has at least twice as much yield as the other.

Comparable results are noted in crops which follow legume. Members cited cases in which portions of fields with plowed under sweet clover did much better than portions not planted in legumes.

MOOS OF THE MOMENT By Uncle Bob of the Kraft Dairy Farm Service

Here's a "Triple Play" that will Help Win the Milk Game

A baseball player would find it difficult to make a triple play in the field and hit a home run all at the same time. But that's an easy job for the dairy farmer who wants to win in the milk production game.

The unsatisfied demand for milk and still more milk makes it possible for such a dairyman to get several jobs done all at once. He can help supply the urgent national need for more milk by producing more milk per cow and more milk per acre through proved production practices. And in so doing make a greater income by reducing feed and labor costs.

The "triple play" in this case simply means following through on (1) a complete pasture and feed program, (2) all phases of sanitation and (3) all angles of herd care. The "home run" will be registered—and cheered—when at the year's end and the game is won we can all look back on a job well done.

Good Grass for this Summer

Sudan looks to be the best bet for emergency mid-summer forage. Planted now, it will give you excellent pasture in July and August. Second growth hay also makes very high grade pasture, to bring up your milk volume in the hot summer months.

If using your second crop hay land for pasture will run you short, soybeans can fill that gap. Soybeans rate very high in the hay column, running a close second to alfalfa in actual feed value.

These things will raise your production per cow and your production per acre, at a lower cost of operation. It has been proved without question that the more a cow produces the cheaper she is to own, since the return in milk dollars over feed dollars is larger with high producers than with low producers.

I'll talk at greater length about haymaking methods in my next column but at this time just want to suggest that you go over your haymaking equipment carefully and be sure it is in top condition. Repairs now may save a lot of trouble at haymaking time.

Cooling Milk Vital During Hot Weather

Hot weather is at hand and I am beginning to get reports of sour milk coming to milk plants. Such milk is a total loss and an added reason for cooling your milk as soon as possible after milking.

There is reason all through the year to get the body heat out of milk as quickly as possible, but it is most important in summer time, because those little old bacteria I've talked about so often multiply especially fast in hot weather, unless milk is cooled promptly.

Milk with a high bacteria count, or sour milk, is lost milk to the producer, the hauler and the consumer.

A cooling tank or a barrel cooler does the job well when there is a frequent change of water to get the body heat out of milk. Check your dairy plant fieldman or your county agent for help in building one of these or a larger, more elaborate tank.

Colleges Offer Some Fine New Bulletins

If your cows could look over my shoulder and see some of the new bulletins which I've received recently from the extension services, I'm sure they'd do all they could to induce you to get copies—and to use the material therein.

Here are the new ones: Bromegrass and Alfalfa. Circular 344, and Ladino Clover. Circular 367, Extension Service, University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis.

Bromegrass mixtures, Bulletin 496, Extension Service, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.

Liming Soils, Folder 137, Extension Service, University of Minnesota, St. Paul, Minn.

Selecting a Dairy Herd Sire, Bulletin 276, Extension Service, Michigan State College, East Lansing, Mich.

If you do not live in the state where the bulletin is published, better send a nickel along with your request for a copy. There usually is such a charge to non-residents of a state.

Jake Bezner and sons, Wilfred and Chief Petty Officer Lambert Bezner, were in Subiaco, Ark., last week to attend the annual alumni reunion. Lambert is getting his discharge at Norman Okla., and should be in shortly.

Hubert Bezner, a student at Texas Tech, Lubbock, was home for the weekend to visit his mother, Mrs. Joe Bezner and family and was at his cousin's Herbert Bezner's, wedding Monday. He was back at classes Tuesday.

The play "It's In the Bag", presented by members of the young men's and young ladies' societies of the parish drew a large crowd at both afternoon and evening performances Sunday. The play was directed by Robert Kupper.

He reported to Fort Sam Houston and will be stationed at Fort Sill, Okla. He holds the rank of master sergeant. On Thursday evening of last week

LINDSAY SCHOOL TATLER

Baccalaureate Service
Next Sunday, May 5, the high-school graduates and the eighth grade graduates will receive Holy Communion in a body at the 7:30 High Mass. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Pastor Rev. Conrad Herda, O.S.B. After the services the seniors will be honor guests of the Faculty for breakfast.

Introducing the Graduates
We have been told that some of the seniors did not recognize themselves in the description we gave of them. That just shows how good we consider them to be. You see, we have been studying American literature this year and we are imitating Washington Irving—write when the spirit moves you.

Now we present Lucille Fuhrmann—vivacious, peppy, energetic. She's an attractive character, has been voted best-all-around girl, and is a good student, though she frankly admits a dislike for study. Her favorite is history; her hobby, collecting souvenirs. Since music and dancing is her most enjoyable form of entertainment, she wishes to become a ballet dancer. However we doubt that she will. We think that the future holds something finer for our dark-eyed determined Lucille. Time will tell. We are sure the ticket to success will be her way of conducting herself on all occasions—never without her best manners.

No one, even if he were blind, could miss Billy Joe Metzler among the seniors—he's sure to be heard even if he isn't seen. Bill is famous—is it for his curly hair or for his jovial disposition? His good naturedness and keen sense of humor make him the type of fellow people like to have around. Bill has had the misfortune of missing one year of school, but he had enough ambition to return to finish his high school education. This ambitious spirit will be his passport to what ever he wants to do. His plans are to join the Merchant Marines sometime after graduation. Bill, serve Uncle Sam well!

Quiet unassuming, charming—this is the best description we can give for our general favorite Florence Zimmerer, who goes about without disturbing anyone. She knows how to study, to work and to play. Her favorite color is ice-blue. She loves sports, especially volley ball and soft ball. It gives her pleasure to do things for others. She seldom expresses her likes and dislikes, but everyone knows she could not be without her best friend—who? Her ambition is to continue her education after graduation. We like that idea, Florence.

By the time our readers see this in print we the high school students, will have enjoyed the days of taking the College Entrance examinations. Don't you envy our experience? We don't mind it. It's a good test of what we can do.

sufficient reason to contribute toward it whether or not we like the association's features and fees.

Russia, the bad actor of the UNO has been acting up so much lately that we've come to expect practically anything. But nothing quite as rank as the high handed policy it uncorked in objecting to Australia's proposal to investigate Franco Sapin before discrediting him.

Add two and two and draw your own conclusions. Russia persuades Poland to demand that Franco be kicked out, but puts up a terrific howl when someone wants to check into the facts in the case. What's the reason? Is Russia afraid the charge will not stand up? Or is she afraid the investigation will disclose her own shabby meddling in the Spanish affair?

At the same time Pravda, the Red propaganda sheet, complains because U.S. and Britain fail to recognize the Bulgarian government and threatens that this failure may reflect on results of the peace treaty.

How's that for gall? We're supposed to accept Russia's puppets—threatened if we don't—but we're supposed to discredit, on Russia's word only, any government she charges is Hitler's puppet.

Noting these developments we feel just a little easier when we hear of the army's plan for underground military and industrial installations "in case of another war". We'd feel better still if assured that the navy will hold back a few of the ships designated as atomic guinea pigs.

Mr. Hiatt at the hatchery tells us there are two reasons why he hatched only 1600 turkey eggs this season. A shortage of feed and a surplus of foxes.

Foxes, you know, were unheard of around here a few years ago. Then a few sportsmen decided it would be great fun to import a few and chase them with their hound packs. Result: the foxes increased and multiplied and a very important community enterprise went to the dogs—or the foxes. At one time we shipped out 13 car loads of dressed turkeys. This year we'll do well to ship 2 truck loads.
