

City Council addresses IESI increase and money requests

By Janet Felderhoff
 Recycling and once-a-week trash pickup reared its head again as the Muenster City Council quizzed IESI representatives on ways to reduce the cost of solid waste removal.

Chris Henderson and Randy DeLeon of IESI attended Monday night's City Council meeting to explain the Company's upcoming rate increases. According to Henderson, the commercial increase to the City will be 45¢ for residential and 3.32% for commercial.

City Administrator Stan Endres pointed out that it has been two years since IESI increased rates. At that time, the City absorbed the increase for residential and passed on the commercial or business rates.

City Administrator Stan Endres asked if there was a way to cut rates in the future. Henderson said that if they could get more communities involved in recycling, that might be an opportunity to lower the rates by having trash picked up once a week instead of twice weekly. There would be some setup costs such as purchase of carts.

Henderson said he could put together some figures to see what the cost difference would be.

The Council accepted the rate increase, but will wait until the budget workshop to talk about whether to pass the increase on to commercial and/or residential customers. The vote was unanimous 4-0. Alderman Greg Bohl was absent.

Endres and Alderman Joey Anderson were asked at the July meeting to come up with a fair agreement with property owners for extension of City water service to 839 North Ash Street. Putting in the proper size line, etc. is important to the City since that is a likely place to tie on to future water from Muenster Lake into the City and to service the Muenster Germanfest grounds which were annexed to the City this summer.

They proposed that the City lay an 8" pipe, but charge for a 2" pipe. To entice property owners in that area to be annexed into the City limits, the Council said that for all who took the offer, splitting the cost of a 2" line would be shared by all deciding to connect to the water line. Those who don't opt to participate in the water line extension will be required to pay the full estimated cost of the 2" line extension until the total cost is recovered. Annexation is included with water service. After the full cost is recovered, anybody else coming on the line will be charged a tap fee. The full cost of this extension is around $12,000.

Normally anyone requesting a water line extension is charged the full cost less the first 100 feet which the City pays. If two come in on one line, the City pays the first 200 feet, etc.

The Council approved the proposed offer. At the suggestion of Leo Lutkenhaus, an engineer will be consulted about future needs prior to beginning the project.

Six bid invitations were sent out seeking bids on installation of 1450' of water line with sand and a fire hydrant, digging out and hauling all trees and excess

New school year brings changes to Sacred Heart Catholic School

By Janet Felderhoff
 Classes begin on Thursday, Aug. 12 for students and teachers at Sacred Heart Catholic School. Fr. Kyle Walterscheid will be the celebrant for the Opening Mass on Thursday at 8 a.m. This Mass traditionally marks the beginning of each new school year.

There are a number of notable changes for the 2010-11 school year.

Dr. Rafael Rondon, SHCS principal, noted, "There will be several curricular changes this year. First, the kindergarten will be moved to the Montessori building so that we can begin the process of pursuing accreditation through the American Montessori Society. Second, the kindergarten and sixth grade will each be self-contained in a traditional classroom. Third, the Distinguished Achievement Program requirements for high school will be fully implemented. Fourth, Sacred Heart, along with the entire Diocese, will begin implementation of the Hartford Curriculum. These are just four of the many positive changes that will take place this year."

During the summer, classrooms received fresh coats of paint, floors were stripped and waxed, and windows were repaired and cleaned. Much of this labor was done by parents and Alumni and Supporters members.

"In addition to these improvements, we are in the process of finalizing our technology upgrades in the high school (with the support of the Margaret Schad Estate) and in our elementary school," explained Dr. Rondon. "Among these upgrades are a new computer lab in the high school, an updated computer lab in the elementary school, and three new servers to provide email and other technological services for our high school students. In addition to these technological improvements, we are in the process of updating our science lab. The new facilities will allow for dramatic improvements in learning environment at Sacred Heart."

Parents and students should note the following new regulations:

- All students and faculty will eat lunch in the cafeteria;
- Dress shoes will be required;
- No midterm or final exam exemptions.

Schedule changes include that Junior and Senior Science classes are lengthened to 60 minutes to accommodate dual credit offering

Muenster rated Exemplary

By Linda Flusche
 The Texas Education Agency released their 2010 Accountability Ratings late last week. Muenster schools and the overall picture for Cooke County schools looked positive.

Muenster High School and Muenster Elementary, both received Exemplary ratings. High School/Junior High Principal Sharon Browning commented, "I am ecstatic over the Exemplary rating for the Junior High/High School. With the great staff and students that we have on the Muenster JH/HS campus, the hard work has paid off in the highest rating that a district can receive. This rating is a testament to the total team work that takes place on our campus every day."

Lou Heers, MISD Elementary principal, said, "My staff and I knew in May from all the preliminary TAKS testing results that Muenster Elementary would probably be 'Exemplary'; however, it was great to see it stated on the TEA website last Friday afternoon. Striving for that 'Exemplary' rating is our goal each and every year. Being 'exemplary' is not an easy task to achieve. It takes a dedicated staff, dedicated students, and unwavering parental support. Muenster Elementary is blessed to have all three of these qualities."

Both Lindsay High and Elementary were rated Exemplary also. Other schools in the County and their ratings were: Era ISD, Exemplary; Gainesville ISD, Recognized; Valley View ISD, Recognized; Callisburg ISD, Recognized; Walnut Bend ISD, Recognized;

LONE STAR television series has filming in Muenster area

By Janet Felderhoff
 Muenster residents took a glimpse at what goes in to making a television series when scenes for an upcoming television drama were filmed here last Wednesday.

Lone Star's cast and crew arrived in town very early Wednesday morning with a retinue of about 93. Filming took place in The Center Restaurant, and in the afternoon moved north of Muenster to film wind generators on property owned by John Dave Fleitman.

J.B. Moranville, producer of Lone Star, reported that they are producing a one-hour straight drama. No car chases, gun fire, jumping off buildings, or crashing cars in this television drama.

"It's about a guy who has a wife in Houston and a wife in Midland and he sort of juggles his life in between the two places," explained Moranville. "He's a long-time con man. If you can imagine There Will Be Blood where Daniel Day-Lewis taught his kid how to scam people throughout his life, well it's the same kind of situation here where our character played by James Wolk had been brought up that way. His father, played by David Keith who was in An Officer and a Gentleman and a lot of other things, had them scamming all their lives. Now he's trying to go straight, but can't quite not be a con man. He's married to the daughter of a large oil company. He was not going to work there because he wanted to do it on his own, but the family talked him into the oil firm. He's got these little scams going on the side and doesn't know how to get out. He's constantly juggling everything. Two women, two lives, two cars, two cell phones, two wallets, two of everything!"

Also starring in the drama is Jon Voight who plays John Thatcher, owner of the oil company.

"We came to Dallas because this is the hot place to shoot, and I don't mean that in the weather way. We are taking advantage of tax incentives that are here," noted Moranville. "It's just gotten so expensive to shoot television shows and so we are hoping to get a break on

I-35/US 82 inter- change gets funding

After a massive cooperative effort by the Texas Department of Transportation and the City of Gainesville, the Texas Transportation Commission has granted $11.3 million of the $14.3 million needed to build a new interchange in Gainesville. The extra $3 million will come from TxDOT's Wichita Falls District funds.

The $11.3 million comes from ARRA (American Recovery and Reinvestment Act) money. TxDOT has experienced under bids on dozens of jobs around the State. This has left enough funds on the table to go ahead and let the I-35/US 82 interchange. This funding all comes after the City of Gainesville and TxDOT united to get this project let as quickly as possible.

"I'm pleased that as a result of cooperation between TxDOT and the leadership in Gainesville, an efficient use of transportation funds has been identified to creatively fund completion of this important project," said Congressman Michael Burgess, M.D. District 26.

The City of Gainesville is also pledging $56,000 in funding as well as Governor's Community Achievement Award (Keep Gainesville Beautiful) money for beautification. City Mayor Glenn Loch said, "The City is grateful that TxDOT Wichita Falls District Engineer Larry Tegtmeier committed $3 million of his discretionary maintenance funds to fill in the funding gap in order for this project to move forward."

The project is expected to let in September. Construction could begin as early as this winter. The job includes rebuilding all four ramps of the I-35/US 82 as a diamond interchange, widening the US 82 overpass of I-35, adding turnarounds on 82, building a turnaround at FM 51 for south to north traffic, and converting the frontage roads along I-35 to one-way.

The interchange will let in September 2010. Construction will start a few months later. The project should take two years to complete.

2010 Property Tax Rates in MUENSTER HOSPITAL

This notice concerns 2010 property tax rates for MUENSTER HOSPITAL. It presents information about three tax rates. Last year's tax rate is the actual rate the taxing unit used to determine property taxes last year. This year's effective tax rate would impose the same total taxes as last year if you compare properties taxed in both years. This year's rollback tax rate is the highest tax rate the taxing unit can set before taxpayers can start tax rollback procedures. In each case these rates are found by dividing the total amount of taxes by the tax base (the total value of taxable property) with adjustments as required by state law. The rates are given per $100 of property value.

Last year's tax rate:

Last year's operating taxes	$1,036,145
Last year's debt taxes	$0
Last year's total taxes	$1,036,145
Last year's tax base	$617,488,071
Last year's total tax rate	0.167800/$100

This year's effective tax rate:

Last year's adjusted taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property)	$1,036,144
÷ This year's adjusted tax base (after subtracting value of new property)	$570,777,507
= This year's effective tax rate	0.181500/$100

This year's rollback tax rate:

Last year's adjusted operating taxes (after subtracting taxes on lost property and adjusting for any transferred function, tax increment financing, state criminal justice mandate and/or enhanced indigent health care expenditures)	$1,036,144
÷ This year's adjusted tax base	$570,777,507
= This year's effective operating rate	0.181500/$100
x 1.08 = this year's maximum operating rate	0.196000/$100
+ This year's debt rate	0.000000/$100
= This year's rollback rate	0.196000/$100

Statement of Increase/Decrease

If MUENSTER HOSPITAL adopts a 2010 tax rate equal to the effective tax rate of 0.181500 per $100 of value, taxes would increase compared to 2009 taxes by $ 3,512.

This notice contains a summary of actual effective and rollback tax rates' calculations. You can inspect a copy of the full calculations at Name of person preparing this notice: Doug Smithson rocks. Rock cost was extra. Three bids were submitted. Fleitman Backhoe bid $21,280 and added a note that sand would be an extra $160 per load. G&H Backhoe's bid of $5.50 per foot totaled $7,975. Sicking Custom Digging bid $14,200. The low bid from G&H was accepted for the water line extension.

Muenster VFD Chief Herbie Knabe and Assistant Chief Bert Walterscheid approached the Council seeking additional reimbursement for the five local firefighters who attended the Fire Academy at Texas A&M.

According to Endres, in the past, each MVFD member attending the Academy was given $200 before attending classes and another $250 when they present their certificate of completion. He said that each councilman's packet contained a list of the actual expenses. It was more than $600 each.

Endres commented, "Each one of these guys, if they're self-employed, they are forgoing the week's wages because they're not getting any income and the ones who are employed are using a week's vacation. They are definitely having to sacrifice by going down there. The better trained our Fire Department is, the more it helps out on everybody's property insurance. The fire rates stay down lower because we have such a good fire department."

Walterscheid noted that they split two rooms five ways. They took two vehicles because his class was on campus and over at 6 p.m. and the others were five miles off campus with class ending at 5 p.m.

Knabe said that until the last two years, the City had paid the tuition. He applied for and received a grant through the Texas Forest Service. It paid the $590 per person tuition fees the past two years, saving the City that expense.

Mayor Pagel expressed concern over the $50 per person gas expense.

The Fire Department is well under budget in their spending this fiscal year. Anderson said he felt it was okay to cover their expense since the Department is under budget. Jack Flusche agreed that the City needs them to be trained. Knabe said that they received 32 hours of training. "These hours don't come easy," he explained. "We have 12-15 who are basic certified and three to five who are intermediate. We need a little help. It takes a lot of doing."

In a unanimous vote, the Council approved a total of $615 per fireman who attended the Fire Academy training this year.

A new addition is being built on the Muenster Museum and some roof repairs are to be done. According to Mayor Pagel, the total cost of the work is about $50,000. The Historical Commission has raised the rest of the money, he said. When the 2010 budget was made, $5,000 was budgeted for the Museum.

Administrator Endres commented, "The $5,000 was put in the budget when the budget was approved, but that still doesn't mean that you have to spend it. Before we write the check, the Council needs to approve it."

Alderman Jewel Otto, who is a member of the Historical Commission, commented that she hopes it doesn't cost $50,000, but feels that part of the roof will have to be replaced.

The Council approved giving the Museum $5,000 to help with the repairs.

Keep Muenster Beautiful (KMB) now uses the old Jaycee meeting room in the City Park for its meeting and as a storage area. The group is in the process of adding cabinets and shelving. The cost will be between $2,800 and $3,000. Since the City owns the building, KMB asked $1,000 from the City for assistance with the cost of the cabinets and shelving.

Alderman Jewel Otto remarked that KMB does a lot for the City and it is a City-owned building. The Council voted unanimously to give them $1,000 from the Germanfest Park Fund.

Cooke County Appraisal District's 2011 Budget came before the City Council for possible approval. The City's portion of the Appraisal Budget would be $4,868.91, a $41.86 increase from 2010. The Collection Budget for Muenster would be $1,339.03, a $5 increase from last year.

The CCAD now does both the appraisals and collections for Muenster. Until recently, Muenster did its own collection. Mayor Pagel asked how that was working. Endres said it is working out well. The budget was approved unanimously.

During his Administrator's report, Endres reminded the Council of the budget workshop scheduled for Monday, Aug. 16. He asked them each to discuss with him what their ideas are and what their department might need for the next year.

Endres said that if they keep the same tax rate as last year, the amount of taxes collected would be about the same. Apparently some property values dropped, but enough new property came in to bring it up.

City crews are busy on Oak and Walnut Streets between Fourth and Fifth Streets. Old sewer lines are being replaced. "It's been one heck of a job because it's really been rocky and really tight quarters. The guys are doing an outstanding job," Endres noted. Work is expected to be completed this week.

Endres added, "If you'd see some of the tree roots that went through some of those sewer lines you'd be amazed at how many there were." G&H used a backhoe to help dig through the many rocks.

The Mesquite Street drainage project is about 80% finished and should be completed by this month.

In other business, the City Council:

- Approved payment of bills totaling $118,330.27.
- Approved renewal of Texas Municipal League (TML) employee health insurance with re-rate that includes an approximate 4% increase. The increase amounts to $17.26 per employee.

taxes and so on. That's why we are here in Texas."

The search for a wind farm brought Lone Star cast and crew to Muenster. They learned about NextEra's Wind Farm near Muenster and drove here to check it out. They drove around and found an angle that they liked. They were introduced to landowner J.D. Fleitman who welcomed them to come and film.

"We try to pair locations so that we can get a full day's work in, so we had a scene that called for a coffee shop," said the producer. "So we shot there on the main drag there in Muenster."

According to Moranville, it takes eight days of shooting working 12 to 14 hours a day to produce one of the hour-long episodes. Moranville said the film then goes back to LA where it is edited and the music and sound effects added. The writers are in Los Angeles and send the script to Texas. He said that there are about 30 people in LA working on it also.

Moranville did the original Dynasty in the '80s and McGyver for seven years.

The producer remarked, "I've done a lot of television shows, and you always want to treat people well and to be invited back."

During the filming at the coffee shop done at The Center Restaurant owned by Dwayne and J.T. Pagel and Glenda Russell, things went longer than anticipated, running into the lunch hour.

Speaking of Dwayne, Moranville said, "He was very understanding. He was shuffling people to the other dining room so that he could continue to serve his regular people and still allow the time we needed."

Glenda Russell remarked of the event, "We were just real pleased that they chose us." She expressed amazement at how many vehicles were there. She said a security guard parked the vehicles, and the parking lot at Tony's across the highway was full from the Fina's cement to the other side of Tony's Tavern.

"They were just as friendly and nice," Russell said of the cast and crew. "All the equipment had to be turned off and total quiet, but when they weren't shooting, we could move around." She said she stood behind the producer and viewed the monitor screen to see what they were showing.

"It took from 5 (a.m.) to 1:30 and it'll probably be a minute or less," she said. "It just shows what all goes into the making of one show. It's just unreal how much goes into one little scene. They had us make some food for on the other tables. I can't wait to see what it is going to show. They had us turn all the lights off in the restaurant and they brought all the light in from outside with their big barrel lights and white and black boards."

Russell said that the people were very nice and took time to talk with them and pose for pictures.

John Dave Fleitman enjoyed having the group at his farm also. He said that there were about 100 people there and they cleaned up everything really nice when they were done.

Fleitman added, "Jon Voight was super nice. I was overwhelmed. I couldn't believe how nice he was. He came up and talked to us, thanked us for letting them come on the place and do the film." While they were talking, Jon was called to the make-up tent, but he told them to wait because he wasn't through talking to the Fleitmans.

Fleitman, his wife Patsy, brother Jerry Fleitman and his sons, and the Fleitman's son and daughter-in-law Doug and Vikei Fleitman were allowed to watch the filming, mingle with the cast and crew, lunch with them, and have their pictures made with them.

Filming at Fleitman's place began before sunrise. They filmed the sunrise with the wind turbines. He said that it was 11:30 that night before the crew pulled out.

Fleitman commented, "They put up air conditioned tents. They had a catering service come out there and you could not imagine how good of food it was. They had one whole table just full of salads. There were three different kinds of potatoes and they had a table full of desserts. They had lemonade and any kind of soft drinks you wanted. There were big, thick pork chops and chicken breasts and sauces."

Besides the wind turbines, Fleitman brought his cattle up to complete the scene for the filming. He expects that with all the filming, about eight to 10 minutes will be shown on television.

Lone Star is a one-hour drama that will air on Monday nights following House on FOX. The first episode will be on Sept. 20. The episode shot in Muenster is slated to air on Sept. 27.

Moranville said that they will do 13 episodes. Shooting began on July 27 and will go through Dec. 10 when they go home for Christmas. If the show is a hit, they will return after Christmas and shoot until April.

"We hopefully will be bringing a fair amount of money in the communities where we shoot - a good thing all the way around," said Moranville.

Also, "Student/Parent Orientations" are planned for those entering 7th/8th grades. Junior high will have a brief summary of schedules and the typical school day, as well as receive information concerning graduation plans for high school and what to expect the next five to six years.

Additionally, all seniors and parents should plan to attend the Senior Night on Aug. 16 in preparation for an exciting year.

Registration/Schedule Approval:
Counselor's Office
 Seniors - Aug. 9 from 8 a.m. to noon & 1 - 4 p.m.
 Juniors - Aug. 10 from 8

a.m. to noon & 1 - 4 p.m.
 Sophomores - Aug. 11 from 8 a.m. to noon & 1 - 4 p.m.
 Freshmen - Aug. 12 from 8 a.m. to noon & 1 - 4 p.m.

Student-Parent Orientation
 Senior Night - Aug. 16 at 6:30 p.m. in the Cafetorium
 7th/8th grade - Aug. 9 at 6 p.m. Cafetorium

If unable to attend the appointed time, please feel free to stop by the high school or call Kristi Schneider at 940-759-2282 ext. 602 or Sharon Browning at ext. 603.

School starts on Monday, Aug. 23, at 7:55 a.m. This is a new start time, so set those alarms early in order to have a positive start. Make sure everyone checks out the dress code that was mailed home with report cards in May or check the website for the posting.

Principal Sharon Browning remarked, "The staff and I are excited and ready to help the students have an extremely successful year."

Classic PB&J sandwiches banned from school lunch? Consider another butter

Nothing says kids' lunches more than peanut-butter-and-jelly sandwiches. But with more schools banning the lunchbox staple because of peanut allergy concerns, brown-bagging it has gotten a bit trickier.

Nutrition experts at UT Southwestern Medical Center say parents don't necessarily need to reach for the cold cuts.

"Spreads made from other nuts or seeds provide a nutritious alternative to peanut butter," said Joyce Barnett, a registered clinical dietitian at UT Southwestern. She recommends that parents give the following spreads a whirl:

Almond butter - This nut butter is high in protein and is a great source of potassium. Research has shown that almonds, which are tree nuts, can help reduce the risk of heart disease as well as total cholesterol levels;

Soy nut butter - Made from soybeans, soy nut butter generally has as much fiber as its peanut counterpart. It's free of peanuts and tree nuts, but children with soy allergies should avoid it;

Sunflower seed butter - Another spread created for kids with peanut allergies, sunflower butter is free of peanuts and tree nuts. A two-tablespoon serving provides more than one-third of a child's daily magnesium and vitamin E requirements.

Lunch Menu

AUG. 12 AND AUG. 13 SACRED HEART

Thurs. - Fiesta salad w/ trimmings, corn chips, refried beans, salsa, pineapple tidbits.

Fri. - Hamburgers w/trimmings, oven fries, fruit salad.

SH Religious Education classes to begin soon

Sacred Heart Church will begin Religious Education classes for public school children in grades K through 12 with an opening Mass on Wednesday, Aug. 25, at 7 p.m. in church. Parents are asked to accompany their children and sit as a family.

Registration forms are available at the entrances of Sacred Heart Church and on the parish website at <http://www.ntin.net/SacredHeart>. Classes meet on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 8 p.m., with Mass once a month.

Parents of kindergarten children or new families are especially urged to register now. Volunteer teachers and aides are needed for grades 5, 8, 10, and 11. For more information, call Barbara Rohmer at 759-2511, Ext. 16.

Rifle harmonics make the shot for Saturday morning; bring soap and towels

When you fire a precision rifle, several things occur. The barrel is forced to the rear as if a hammer has hit the end of the barrel's muzzle, creating "longitudinal" vibrations within the barrel. The rifle itself is forced to the rear, recoiling in the opposite direction of the bullet's movement through the barrel. This action creates a buckling effect where the barrel and receiver meet, producing "vertical" vibrations, an up and down whipping motion of the barrel. "Lateral" vibrations occur if there are any flaws in the shooter's position, the way the stock is attached to the receiver, or inconsistencies in the bolt or the round itself. Finally, a "torsional" vibration occurs as the barrel rifling applies spin to the bullet.

For a shot to be accurate, all of these actions must be consistent, everything has to be the same from shot to shot. When one factor changes, the harmonics occurring as the rifle is fired are different. For example, when I sling up tightly with my factory stock H-Bar AR in prone, the point of impact will drop around six inches at one hundred yards. This is why rifles with free-floated barrels, with the barrel only touching at the point where it locks into the receiver, are more accurate than those that are not free-floating.

Ammunition is a big factor. Fire the same weight bullet but from different manufacturers and you'll see differences in the point of impact. Switch from one bullet weight to another and you'll have significant shifts. Even shooting the same ammo but from a different lot number can change the point of impact.

Other factors can drastically affect the bullet's point of impact. Almost everyone has heard about not letting the barrel rest against an object while firing, but few people realize how much of a difference this makes. Let's look at a twenty-six inch barrel Remington 700 in .308 as an example. Firing a shot from sixty yards with the bottom of the barrel resting on an object, touching at a point approximately halfway between the end of the stock and muzzle, will generally throw the bullet's point of impact around six inches high, and normally a couple of inches to the right. As a general rule, the bullet will be thrown in the opposite direction from where the barrel is making contact. Six inches high and a few inches to the side is the difference between a good hit and disaster.

Working with precision rifles requires consistency, from both the rifle and the shooter. As long as you take care of it, and feed it good ammo, the rifle will do its job. Your job is to be as consistent as possible, as close to machine-like as possible, doing everything the same way for each shot. You may only have one chance, one shot. Make sure you know exactly where that bullet is going.

-- Tiger McKee, The Shooting Wire

Brush control options in fence lines

AgriLife Research economist: Manure provides higher returns than chemical fertilizers

No significant differences in corn yield were found between organic and chemical sources of nutrients, but a Texas AgriLife Research economist said manure generates higher economic returns than anhydrous ammonia.

Dr. Seong Park, AgriLife Research economist, recently had his research published in the Agronomy Journal. The work was from studies he conducted in the Oklahoma Panhandle while at Oklahoma State University and finalized while in his new position at Vernon.

The long-term experiment involved the use of pig and beef manure on irrigated corn fields, he said. The testing was conducted in part due to a rapid growth of animal population and density in that region, as well as the northern part of the Texas Panhandle.

Park said when swine manure, which is normally stored in open-air lagoon systems, is properly applied and the economics figured, the effluent can be used as manure with minimal environmental and nuisance concerns.

Animal manure, he said, benefits producers by reducing waste management costs and the need for chemical fertilizers because it contains multiple essential crop nutrients, according to previous research. Park said the key between animal manure transitioning from a cost (for disposal) to a benefit (as a fertilizer) is determined by agronomic and economic factors such as chemical fertilizer costs and equipment and labor needed to apply each.

Anhydrous ammonia was the most costly nitrogen source across all three equivalent nitrogen rates of 50, 150, and 450 pounds of nitrogen per acre, with costs of $30.86, $54.88, and $126.95 per acre, respectively.

He said the higher costs of anhydrous were due to the purchase price, which is not required normally with the use of beef and swine manure. Swine effluent had the lowest costs at $12.06, $17.98 and $34.51 per acre for the three application rates.

The lower costs for the swine effluent are associated with the ability to apply it through existing irrigation equipment, requiring only minimal purchase to pump from the lagoon to the center pivot, Park said.

Both the anhydrous and beef manure require the purchase of application machinery, he said, which adds a fixed cost. Because of that cost, beef manure application costs were higher than swine, at $30.52, $35.47, and $47.19 per acre, respectively at the same rate.

Beef manure, however, becomes a more economical choice if the crops are located away from the originating farm of either manure, Park said. While swine effluent has a lower breakeven price, it is too bulky to transport off-farm to other producers.

"The breakeven is figured by using the actual price of corn plus the cost of fertilizer," he said. "During this study, there was a widening margin in the breakeven between the animal manure-treated corn crops and anhydrous ammonia-treated corn crops, which generated an increased profitability for producers and increased the economic viability of marketing beef manure as a commercial fertilizer."

Park explained if beef manure averages $2.20 per ton with a shipping cost of 50 cents per mile, it can be profitably transported up to 29 miles from its point of origin in the Oklahoma and Texas panhandles and be competitive with high anhydrous ammonia prices, as experienced from 2005-2007.

Another benefit of animal manures is the improvement of soil properties such as micro nutrients and soil pH, Park said. Throughout his experiment, the beef manure and swine-effluent plots maintained higher soil pH levels than the corresponding anhydrous plots.

Additionally, continued application of anhydrous can lead to acidification and thus losses in productivity, he said. Appropriate nutrient-management practices should be implemented to prevent environmental damages.

Park also warned that site-specific conditions such as weather, animal waste management practices, and soil properties would need to be taken into consideration.

If you have fencing on your property, you will need to keep branches, trees, and weeds from growing up on fence lines. Why worry about cleaning out brush and weeds from fence lines? Along an electric fence, weeds and brush can short out the fence and allow the livestock to walk through. Removing brush and weeds also helps prolong the life of the fencing and reduces breakage. As trees grow through the fence, the wire can be stretched or may break when limbs fall. In addition to gaps in the fence that allow livestock to roam, loose wire can pose a physical hazard for livestock and equipment.

Clean fence lines can help prevent vehicle or equipment accidents by removing blind spots. Removing brush also reduces the fuel load along the fence line, thus limiting the amount of heat damage to the wire and posts during a fire. Cleaned out fence lines also serve as fireguards as wildfires move through. Your volunteer fire department will appreciate being able to easily drive around a property when putting out wildfires.

The challenge is to determine the best method for removing brush in your fence line. Options include mechanical, chemical, and cultural practices, or a combination of these.

Two of the most common mechanical methods of controlling brush in the fence line are a chainsaw and bulldozer. Chainsaws are good for selectively removing large trees and saplings without damage to the fence. One of the drawbacks of the chainsaw is that most tree and brush species will resprout from cut stumps. One trick to reduce the chances of resprouting is to use glyphosate (the active ingredient in Round-Up™) or a mixture of triclopyr (the active ingredient in Remedy™) and diesel or mineral oil to "paint" the stumps immediately after you cut them.

Depending on the amount of brush and trees, a bulldozer may be your best (and possibly your least expensive) option. Bulldozers or front-end loaders are usually used when you have decided to remove the section of fence and start over. One of the downsides of using large machinery is the amount of soil that is disturbed. You can unintentionally increase the chances of erosion on your property.

There are many chemical options available for brush and tree control. Glyphosate is a nonselective herbicide that may be used to kill a wide variety of weed and brush species during the growing season, but it has no soil residual and will require repeated applications. Glyphosate can be used to kill out weeds in the spring and summer, making it easier to return later to remove the trees and brush. Triclopyr mixed with mineral oil or diesel can also be used as basal bark treatment to selectively kill trees and brush. Apply this in a band around the base of the tree (up to a 6-inch trunk diameter). The downside of this option is that you will still need to remove the tree before it falls down on your fence. As with all chemicals, read and follow label directions.

There are fewer cultural practices for removing brush from fence lines. One that is often mentioned is the use of goats. This is usually not a good option as I have yet to see a truly "goat-proof" fence. Even with a sturdy enclosure, brush along the fence line will allow goats to climb and get over the fence. Prescribed fire is another option, but it can be very hard on wire, particularly galvanized wire, and it cannot be used with wooden fence posts.

Your fences didn't get overgrown in a day, and you definitely won't get them cleaned out in a day. Break the job into manageable sections and work on it a bit at a time.

TDA market recap

For the week ending July 31, feeder cattle price trends at Texas auctions were uneven, from $4 lower per hundredweight to $5 higher, with a few locations as much as $8 higher. Feeder cattle supplies remain tight, but lower fed cattle prices and higher grain markets pulled some locations lower. Fed cattle were $2 lower following a drop in wholesale beef prices.

Wheat prices rose on stronger-than-expected export sales and thoughts that a short crop in Europe and Canada will boost demand for U.S. wheat. Corn and grain sorghum followed wheat higher.

As for futures markets,

Farmers relax by doing hard work.

cotton, wheat, and corn were higher, while feeder cattle, fed cattle, and lumber were lower.

The corn crop was reported 38% mature and 3% harvested, both well behind normal. Most crops and pastures were reported in good to fair condition statewide.

Gardening problems

Many gardening problems, such as poor yield, poor quality, poor fertility, bitter fruit, sunscald, disease problems, and a dozen other things, can be related to poor or improper watering techniques. Many people see gardening as a form of relaxation, so it is not unusual for many gardens to be watered two, three, or more times a week. This can result in too much water being applied and cause poor root development.

Light, frequent waterings cause a concentration of roots in the top inch or two of soil. Undeveloped root systems do not pose any serious problem early in the season when the plants are relatively young and sufficient moisture is available. But, as the season progresses and moisture becomes scarce, the limited root system needs more frequent watering. Consequently, you may need to water several times a week just to keep the plants from wilting severely. This problem can be prevented by adequate early and mid-season watering.

Determine when to water the garden by examining the soil, not the plants. If the soil surface appears dry, scratch the surface to a depth of about an inch to determine if moisture is present. If the soil appears relatively dry, watering is necessary. If sufficient moisture is available an inch beneath the surface, wait a couple of days before watering. Another consideration is the type of soil in your garden. Obviously a light, sandy soil that drains quickly requires more frequent watering than a heavy soil which holds water. Therefore, check sandy soil more often than heavy clay soil.

When you do water, soak garden soil to a depth of at least six inches. If moisture is available at this depth, adequate moisture has been applied. After doing this several times, you learn by experience when adequate water has been applied. An inch or two of water applied once a week usually is sufficient for most vegetable or ornamental gardens.
