

City enforces Stage 4 Critical Water Shortage

By Janet Felderhoff
As of Wednesday, July 13, City residents will not be allowed to water with the use of hose-end sprinklers or permanently installed automatic sprinkler systems. Watering with handheld hoses, handheld buckets, or drip irrigation is allowed only between the hours of 6-10 a.m. and 8 p.m. to midnight on designated days. Use of water to fill, refill, or add to any indoor or outdoor swimming pools, wading pools, or jacuzzi type pools is prohibited.

Even numbered addresses are allowed to water between these hours on Tuesday and Saturday and odd numbers on Wednesday and Sunday. Again there is no watering on Monday, Thursday, and Friday.

Violators may be fined a minimum of $200 up to a maximum of $2,000.

The first week of water rationing in Muenster did not have the results the City hoped it would. Residents were put on schedules for outdoor watering in an attempt to alleviate the drain on water from the storage tanks.

Summer heat and lack of rain caused the average use of water to rise from 200,000 gallons per day to 650,000 per day over the July 4th weekend. This alarmed City officials because of the danger of not having enough water and pressure should there be an emergency such as a fire or major water leak. This past weekend with outdoor watering limited to twice a week, water use still rose to 900,000 gallons per day.

City Administrator Stan Endres reported that City crews spent the weekend working 24 hours non-stop as they attempted to maintain water levels on various tanks. He said they were constantly adjusting valves on the various water tanks.

Endres appealed to residents to use as little water as possible. "This is serious," he warned. "If the new water rationing schedule does not work, the City may have to eliminate outdoor watering."

As people use more and more water, the supply cannot be maintained to the ground storage tanks, so it comes from the water tower. It is extremely important to keep sufficient water in the water tower because that keeps the pressure high enough, something very important in fire fighting.

The local swimming pool is likely to be closed in the near future. Swimming lessons are being held this week and next. The City Council held an emergency meeting on Wednesday evening after press deadline to make that decision. It will be reported in next week's paper. Prior to that, you might call to check before heading to the City pool. That number is 759-4393.

Swim lessons began this week at the Muenster swimming pool, but whether the second week will happen depends on what takes place at a special called City Council meeting Wednesday. This decision will also impact numerous parties that are booked for the summer. The meeting regarding what to do about the City's serious water situation took place after press deadline and will be reported on next week. Pictured Wednesday morning during one class of swim lessons are, from left, Tye Sanders, Bert White, Rachel Hesse, and instructor Chloe Schneider.

Opening nears for movie theater

From The Lindsay Letter

The lights are on, the cameras are rolling, and the action is about to begin at the new DMAX Theater in Gainesville.

Phil Silva and Richard Klement, producers of the project, invited about 200 local "movers and shakers" to a sneak preview of the latest Gainesville attraction Sunday.

Silva told the audience his pre-production phase began about 10 years ago when he and Klement purchased the building site.

The duo appears to have kept the comfort of moviegoers in mind throughout the production process. Side entrances to each of the six auditoriums were designed to move people to the center of the theaters for the best viewing. Each aisle is slanted for wheelchair access and special seating is available for wheelchair patrons on the main levels. High back seats rock gently. Even the swirls of yellow, green, orange, blue, and purple carpet create an inviting tone and make the walking easier.

Klement and Silva have also insured the movie experience at DMAX will be state-of-the-art.

"For a town this size, this is one of the only theaters in the country to be all digital. Within five years no theater will be using 35 mm film," Silva said.

Although there are a few post-production tweaks to be made before it's a wrap and the doors officially open in a few days, the popcorn is ready and the posters of first-run coming attractions are displayed in the lobby.

"This is a great place for the kids and adults who enjoy movies to come," Mrs. Gary Holloway said. "Hopefully, the vacant restaurant next door will reopen where people can eat before taking in the movie."

To the best of County Judge John Roane's knowledge, there hasn't been a movie theater in Gainesville since the State Theater closed in the 1980s.

"It's long overdue," Roane said. "I hope people will support it."

Gainesville Mayor Jim Goldsworthy added he would like to see locals support the theater, rather than taking their money to Denton or Sherman.

County disaster declaration steps up local drought fire prevention efforts

By Janet Felderhoff
As the number of days without significant rainfall escalate and days with triple digit temperatures march onward with little relief in sight, Cooke County citizens must deal with the consequences. One of these is being more cautious about fire. The County was placed under an outdoor burn ban for unincorporated areas at the June 27 Commissioners Court meeting.

Cooke County Fire Marshal Ray Fletcher updated Commissioners Court at the Monday, July 11 meeting. According to the KBDI (Keetch-Byram Drought Index), the high in Cooke County is now 692, the low 399, and the overall is 595. It has been increasing at about 10 points a day said Fletcher. The 399 is a small area in the southwest part of the County. By KBDI standards, 600-700 puts an area in high fire danger and 700-800 is extreme fire danger.

The drought monitor shows about 2/3 of the County in the abnormally dry and the very northwest is in a drought area.

Fletcher noted, "We have had increasing fire activities." One was caused by a welder. Another fire near 216 burned 15 acres and came close to several homes.

Commissioners were considering a countywide disaster declaration and Fletcher said he supported that. A disaster declaration can be implemented at any time by the County Judge for seven days. It would expire after that time period unless approved by Commissioners Court. That declaration is good for 30 days and must be voted on and approved to be extended past 30 days. There is a disaster declaration that is good for 60 hours that bans fire works. It must be approved by the governor of the state and is the only way to ban fireworks. The seven and 30 day disaster declarations have restrictions on welding and outdoor cooking.

"The Governor has declared the State to be under a disaster declaration and has also done a wildfire disaster declaration for Texas," said Fletcher. Each individual county must declare its own disaster if necessary, noted Judge John Roane.

Precinct #3 Commissioner Al Smith expressed concern that people understand what a burn ban means and there are signs used to advise people when one is in place. There are no signs for a disaster declaration and people may get confused.

Precinct #4 Commissioner Leon Klement said that a burn ban does not stop Mother Nature. "A burn ban doesn't stop fires," he said. "It's to make everybody aware to please be careful."

After more discussion, Commissioners proclaimed a state of disaster for Cooke County with the County's Emergency Management Plan being implemented effective immediately to continue for 30 days unless extended by the Court.

By declaring a state of disaster, the following are required for anyone welding or cooking outdoors:

Welding/Hot Work requirements

a. All areas where welding, cutting, or grinding operations are being performed will be free of combustible materials for at least 25 feet in all directions.

b. A dedicated fire watch person will attend and monitor each welder, cutter, grinder, or any activity which causes sparks.

c. A minimum of 100 gallons of water with a capability to be sprayed or local continuous water source (charged garden hose) will be required at any site where above mentioned activities take place.

d. Each site will have the capability to provide emergency notifications.

Outdoor Cooking requirements

a. The cooking device is propane, natural gas, wood, or charcoal and has a complete and full enclosure that is utilized at all times.

b. The cooking device shall be clear of vegetation and/or combustible materials or debris for a 10' radius.

In accordance with Local Government Code 352.081(h), a person who knowingly or intentionally violates this order commits a Class C Misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of up to $500.

County Tax Assessor/Collector Billie Jean Knight asked the Court if it wished to continue collecting an optional Road & Bridge fee for the Texas Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) registration. It is $10 per vehicle. If they wish to continue, they must let them know by Aug. 15.

There is also an optional fee for child safety used to help pay crossing guards at schools. Not all schools have crossing guards, so most counties including Cooke, do not collect this fee. This money would go to the State.

Commissioners voted to continue collecting the $10 fee for Road & Bridge.

Judge Roane appointed a committee of himself, Commissioner Gary Holloway, and County Auditor Shelly Atteberry to select colors and decide uniformity of furniture for the Courthouse. Their decision will be final.

In other business, Commissioners Court:

- Approved Master Services Agreement and Statement of Work from Alexander Open Systems (AOS) for implementation of courthouse network infrastructure, server migration, and storage area network (SAN) at a cost of $144,000.

- Accepted insurance settlement in the amount of $23,379.14 on Cooke County Precinct #4 property that was damaged in the wind-storm that occurred May

- Approved request by EOG Resources, Inc. to bore under CR 343 in a location 2,175' north of FM 922. Disposal transfer line being proposed is a 10" poly pipe within a 16" steel casing and will be for transporting disposal water.

- Approved change orders for the Cooke County Courthouse Restoration Project that is a deduct or lesser amount.

- Approved surplus of two Motorola M1225 mobile radios to be donated to the Moss Lake VFD.

- Accepted the Texas Commission on the Arts Quarterly grants for $75 and $162 for the Cooke County Library.

- Approved indigent burial for Joe Bailey Peacock.

- Accepted a donation of $20 for the Cooke County Library for research from Kenneth Brow.

- Approved entering into an agreement with Precinct #1 Road & Bridge and Mary Mazingo Reeves to clean and shape ditches on CR 128.

- Ratified the County Judge's signature on the 2008 Homeland Security Grant adjustment form.

Agnes Klement 1908 - 2011

Agnes Klement

Mass of Christian Burial for Agnes Klement was held at Sacred Heart Catholic Church on Thursday, July 7 at 10 a.m. with Fr. Ken Robinson officiating. Burial was in Sacred Heart Cemetery under the direction of McCoy Funeral Home of Muenster. Agnes died at the age of 102 at her home on July 4, 2011.

Agnes Emma Bayer Klement was born on Oct. 8, 1908, the sixth of nine children born to John and Appolonia Bayer. Early childhood memories were of chopping weeds out of the cotton patch, picking cotton from dawn to dusk and then milking cows before finishing the day's work. She often rode on horseback to school, accompanied by a handsome lad with curly hair named Norbert Klement. When his father needed him to help in the fields, Norbert quit school. Agnes said school wasn't much fun without him and followed him shortly thereafter.

When her mother became terminally ill with cancer, Agnes nursed her until she died, and she continued to live at home to care for her younger brothers until Aug. 1, 1933, when she and Norbert married. They farmed some eight miles northwest of Muenster, then moved to a farm in the Wolf Ridge area, which would become part of Camp Howze during WWII. They then purchased and operated a grade A dairy farm until 1970 when they converted it to a beef cattle farm.

Their marriage began a life-long partnership of hard work, strong ethics, and enduring commitment. Agnes frequently recalled cooking three meals and snacks for neighbors who came to help thresh, getting up daily before dawn to begin the twice-daily chore of milking the cows, tending the chickens and newborn calves, and a somewhat endless list of necessities that helped keep the farm productive.

At retirement in 1983, Norbert and Agnes moved to town, into a new home built by his brother Ray. Agnes enjoyed the more relaxed lifestyle provided by city life. New friendships were formed and she found time to create the quilts and afghans that are treasured by her children and grandchildren. When Norbert became ill, she assumed the role of his loving and devoted caregiver until his death on Oct. 19, 1996.

Agnes continued to be interested in politics and modern day life, always ready to discuss Larry King's guests or Dr. Phil's most recent crises. As she neared the century mark, she did slow down a bit, but continued to be sharp of mind and wit, until an illness earlier this year began her gradual decline. As Muenster's oldest citizen, she was rather perplexed as to the reason she had been allowed to reach her advanced age, but none-the-less was always curious as to how the family planned to celebrate her next birthday! She was a lovely, hard-working, and caring lady.

Survivors are her daughters and their husbands, Norma and Larry Scott, and Shirley and Jim Otto; son and his wife Will and Julie Klement; 12 grandchildren; 23 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband; daughter Marcy Marr; great-grandchild Dusty Cain; parents; brothers Joe, Al, Frank, Martin, Johnny; and George; and sisters, Theresa Mages and Margaret Hartman.

Pallbearers were grandsons Michael and Jon Klement, Troy and Scott Cain, and Jimmy and Pat Marr.

During the funeral Mass, Scripture readers were Lori Otto and Greg Klement. Her great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren presented the Offertory Gifts. Chris and Mike Klement gave the eulogy. Altar servers were Alvin Hartman, Keith Bezner, and Michael Fleitman. Eucharistic Ministers were from the Bayer and Klement families.

Dwayne Pagel dies

Services are pending for Dwayne Pagel, age 62, of Muenster. Dwayne died unexpectedly on Wednesday, July 13, 2011. His complete obituary will be in next week's paper.

Reeves funeral Friday

Services for Joe Frank Reeves, 67, of Saint Jo will be Friday at 2 p.m. at the Church of Christ in Saint Jo. He died July 12, 2011 at Muenster Memorial Hospital.

Moisture lingers below average

Many are of the opinion that the first quarter of 2011 was one of the driest ever with a mere 2.13 inches of moisture since Dec. 31, 2010, and some of that fell as snow. Things did not improve much during the Spring with less than 10 inches falling in April and May, and just over an inch in June. Daytime temperatures in the triple digits are now the norm with no relief in sight. Already there have been more days in the triple digits than are usually seen all summer. The extreme heat and lack of rain is causing problems for farmers and ranchers as grass ceases to grow and water in stock ponds shrink. Muenster began water rationing on July 5 as people pour more water on lawns attempting to keep them alive. Carol Vogel keeps the official moisture and wind records for Muenster.

Letter to the Editor

Dear editor,
I admit it's a welcome change to see Enron Oil and Gas (EOG) offering the public any information at all on its Cooke County frac sand mine and processing facility. To my mind, though, EOG's article still leaves plenty of troubling questions unanswered:

- EOG said that it will recycle 90% of the 3,700 gallons of water that its facility will use each minute. Even if that figure is accurate, EOG will still need 370 gallons of makeup water per minute. If the facility runs 24/7, 365 days a year, as the air quality permit application says it will, that will add up to nearly 200 million gallons a year - almost twice as much as the entire city of Muenster uses.

- EOG tried to brush aside concerns about this pumping rate, saying that its wells will be tapping brackish water from below the Trinity Aquifer. If it's wrong about that, the county - which the Texas Water Development Board says is already using groundwater faster than nature replaces it - will be running out of clean water that much faster. If EOG's right, it will be pumping large quantities of salty water to the surface in the Trinity recharge zone. How much salt does that amount to, and how will EOG keep it from percolating down into the Trinity aquifer?

- In its press release, EOG said its facility will be creating 40 permanent local jobs - 10 less than it stated in its air quality permit application to TCEQ. Is one of those numbers wrong, or is the number of jobs just changing as time goes by? If EOG keeps dropping 10 jobs every three months, there will only be 20 local jobs left by the time the facility is scheduled to start operating in November. Meanwhile, where is the company based that's currently doing the construction at the mine site?

- EOG's published statement also talks about "enhancing the area's tax base and allowing new investment in our schools." The frac sand mine facility falls outside Muenster ISD, so Muenster's schools won't see a dime in tax revenue from it. It's true that the county could see an increase in property tax revenue - IF the increase in improvement value at the frac sand site makes up for the drop in the overall values of the surrounding properties.

Sincerely,
Wylie Harris

Wedding vows exchanged by Odell and Endres

Heather Odell of Gainesville, daughter of Ken and Donna Odell of Gainesville, and Kyle Endres of Muenster, son of Bob and Kenya Endres of Muenster, were united in Holy Matrimony on Saturday, June 18, 2011. The 2 p.m. double ring nuptial Mass took place in Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Muenster. Fr. Raymond McDaniel officiated.

Grandparents of the bride are Frances Schroeder and the late Lee Schroeder and the late Pete and Helen Odell. The bride graduated from Lindsay High School in 2007 and is currently attending the University of North Texas pursuing a BBA in Accounting. First State Bank employs her as a teller.

The groom is the grandson of Bobbie Hale of Muenster and the late Kenneth Hale and the late Donald and Dorothy Endres. He graduated from Muenster High School in 2004 and from North Central Texas College in 2007 with an Associate of Science degree. He works as a machinist for Thermadyne.

Escorted by her father, the bride processed into church as organist Isaac Davis played "Trumpet Voluntary." The bridal gown was a Maggie Sottero in ivory taffeta with a strapless, sweetheart neckline embellished with bead work and a ruched waistline that flowed into the skirt. Layers of tulle with a taffeta gathered overlay made the skirt. The tulle skirt had floral lace embellishment with beading. She wore a pearl-trimmed veil, hand-made by Doris Koesler, friend of the couple. The bride wore blue heels for "something blue." She carried a bouquet of fresh orange roses and white calla lilies with pearl details tied with a brown ribbon base. Her grandmother Helen's rosary was entwined in the bouquet and carried for the old and new something borrowed was a pearl necklace and bracelet from her grandmother Frances.

Ivory pew bows marked the family pews in church. Roger and Elizabeth Dieter were vocalists for the Mass and ceremony.

Readings during Mass were given by groom's aunt and his cousin Kyla and Stephanie Henscheid. Mark and Sandy Erwin, bride's Godparents, and Danny and Donna Schmitt, groom's Godparents, presented Offertory Gifts. Serving as Eucharistic ministers were Chuck Koesler, Marilyn Sandmann, Tim Schneider, Kristi Schneider, and Jordan Henscheid, family and friends of the couple. Neal Fleitman, Brad Bezner, and Nick Dieter, all of Lindsay and family friends of the bride, assisted Fr. McDaniel as Mass servers.

ATTENDANTS
Members of the bridal party entered as "Canon In D" was played. Becky Martinez of Lindsay, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. City Of Muenster

OOPS!!!

Our apologies to Eric and Jayna Walterscheid and family. In the Keep Muenster Beautiful Yard of the Month cutline, it listed their last name as Biffle, not Walterscheid.

The family of Agnes Klement thanks the residents of Muenster for the care, love, and affection they gave to our mother through the years. When Edgar Dyer was still with us, he was always available to help mother deal with problems that arose around her home and yard. Edward and Ceona Pick took excellent care of the farm they leased from our mother over the years. Betty Kralicke was a frequent visitor, often stopping by to deliver the paper to Mother, check on her health, or pass the afternoons with a game of cards. Pat Vosten and Della Schmitt could often be found at the house, making sure their aunt was receiving all the care and attention she needed. We can't thank these neighbors, friends, and family members enough for their kindness and support.

Our sincere appreciation is extended to Father Ken for the spiritual care and guidance he gave our mother. His visits were the highlight of her day. Father Ken's comments and the beautiful music provided by Christy, Diane, and Isaac made her funeral Mass so comforting to us. And, thanks to the generous donations of food, the Catholic Daughters prepared a wonderful lunch that we could enjoy with family and friends.

In addition to these individuals, we would also like to thank Unlimited Care of North Texas, Dr. Stephen Jones, the staff of Muenster Hospital and Muenster Home Health Care.

May God Bless Each of You!

Lindsay High is back on top!

With the announcement that Lindsay High School is the 2010-11 winner of the 1A UIL Lone Star Cup, the school is back on top after their four-consecutive Lone Star Cup streak was snapped last year. Lindsay has returned as the Class 1A Champions, garnering 70 points for the school year. Helping to earn this honor were the Lady Knights as State Semi-Finalists in Softball and State Runners-up in Track and Field. Lindsay High also earned State Runners-up in Academics.

The UIL Lone Star Cup recognizes five high schools (one in each of the five UIL classifications) based on their overall team achievement in a variety of sanctioned athletic and academic championships. All UIL member high schools in good standing are included in the competition for the Lone Star Cup.

ing this award, Coach Cody Bounds commented, "It's such a tribute to the kids and the great work they do. They take special pride in participating in so many UIL activities and excelling in them. Everyone, including the superintendent, the principal, teachers, and students focus on the goal of winning the Cup." The coach concluded that many schools don't even realize that the Lone Star Cup exists, but Lindsay students strive toward this honor. It is especially important to the seniors.

In Class 1A, Lindsay was followed by Shiner with 62 points, Mart with 50 points, and Albany with 48 points. Falls City, Martin's Mill, and Thrall all tied for fifth place with 46 points each.

Conroe The Woodlands took 1st in the 5A division with 114 points, followed by Southlake Carroll with 101 and Lewisville Marcus with 70. In the 4A division, Boerne Champion was 1st with 88 points, followed by Waco Midway with 84. Denton Ryan and Friendswood tied for 3rd with 78 points each.

3A Lucas Lovejoy's 118 took 1st, with Argyle taking 2nd with 88 points. Abilene Wylie was 3rd with 76 points. In the 2A division, 1st was Cameron Yoe with 82 points, Tatum was 2nd with 64, and Wall was 3rd with 60 points.

Texas launches mandatory boater education and additional safety measures

A new state law from the recent legislative session will require mandatory boater education for more people in Texas starting Sept. 1, a move supporters say will save lives and make crowded waters safer.

According to a legislative report by the state's Advisory Panel on Boating Safety, the primary cause of boating deaths nationally is drowning, with 543 in 2009, of which 385 were not wearing life jackets, usually in rough weather or on hazardous water.

Changes to Texas laws targeting boating safety include: mandatory boating safety education certification for anyone born on or after Sept. 1, 1993 to operate a vessel with a motor of more than 15 horsepower or a wind-blown vessel measuring more than 14 feet in length. While all boaters are encouraged to take boating safety education, those born before Sept. 1, 1993, are exempt from required certification.

Previously, only 13 to 17 year olds were required to complete a boating safety course to operate a vessel without adult supervision.

Texas' state-approved boater education course is available as a one-day, classroom training, as a home-study course, or as an online course at www.boat-ed.com. The course takes about six hours to complete. Costs range from $13 for classroom course to about $25 for the home-study course. Information about boater education, including schedules of upcoming classroom courses, is available at http://www.tpwd.state.tx.us/learning/boater_education/.

Boaters falling under the boater education requirement will be required to carry a valid ID and documentation of having taken and passed a boater education course. Failure to meet the requirements is a Class C misdemeanor, and violators have 90 days to complete a boater education course to have the charges dismissed.

The 82nd Texas Legislature during its regular session clarified the definition of a vessel to encompass such craft as stand-up paddle craft, kayaks, and canoes. In Texas public waters, everyone onboard a vessel that measures less than 26-feet in length must have a life jacket available and kids under 13 must wear one.

County DHIA donates to Fair Association building fund

The Cooke County Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA), represented by President Billy Kupper, presented a check totaling $1,618.15 to Cooke County Fair Association at the Fair Association's Bar-B-Que benefit event on June 11. The money will be used to help with the rebuilding of the County Fair Barn facility for the benefit of the youth and for ag-related activities in the County.

The Cooke County DHIA was established more than 50 years ago for the purpose of record keeping for area milk producers. Thirty plus dairymen were enrolled in its testing program and had their cows' production records, breeding records, and pedigree identification updated monthly. These records were used by the dairymen to make better management decisions and also by state and national data processing centers.

A small per-cow fee was kept at the local level and through frugal management by DHIA Treasurer Kenny Klement over the years, the fees grew and are now being donated since DHIA is no longer active in the milk testing program.

Weed science lags behind

While invasive plant species continue to grow like weeds - costing millions of dollars in damage and control attempts - the field of weed science is not keeping pace. There is demand for further knowledge of herbicide persistence, movement, and toxicity in the environment, and the biology and ecology of weeds. But the number of weed science researchers, educators, and Extension agents are few.

A new study in the April-June issue of the journal Weed Technology gauges the numbers of faculty and courses devoted to each of three plant pest disciplines - weed science, entomology, and plant pathology - at 76 U.S. land-grant universities. The authors found that the current university faculties of weed scientists are insufficient to meet a growing need.

The study found that compared to weed scientists, there are more than four times as many entomologists and three times as many plant pathologists at the 76 universities studied. There are five times as many undergraduate entomology courses and two-and-a-half times as many plant pathology courses as those in weed science. This may lead to reduced availability for training opportunities for weed scientists compared to other disciplines.

Seminar focuses on improving stocker operations

The Samuel Roberts Noble Foundation will host a Winter Pasture/Stocker Cattle Seminar from 1 to 5 p.m., Tuesday, July 26, at the Noble Foundation Kruse Auditorium.

Stocker cattle production is the primary agricultural industry in the Southern Great Plains. Noble Foundation agricultural consultants and invited speakers will provide attendees with information about stocker health and nutrition, forage production and management, market outlook, and an owner's perspective on managing a successful stocker operation.

"This seminar is a great opportunity for producers to brush up on management techniques for their operations," said Clay Wright, Noble Foundation livestock consultant. "As input costs continue to creep up, it is more important than ever to be as efficient as possible to ensure the vitality of our cattle and our operations."

There is no registration fee, but preregistration is encouraged. For additional information or to register, call Tracy Cumbie at 580.224.6411 or register online at www.noble.org/agevents.

County Agent's Report

Drought Happens - Got a Plan?

In a recent meeting with several Texas AgriLife Extension Service personnel, Dr. Ron Gill, Extension beef cattle specialist, suggested that cattlemen need to quit planning for drought management. Instead, they need to plan for when it does rain. Of course, Dr. Gill didn't mean that we don't need to worry about coping with the effects of drought. What he did mean is drought is a sure thing in Texas; we should plan accordingly. In effect, we should continuously assume that we will be in a drought, and that if we do receive "normal" precipitation, then some strategy can be implemented that will capture income from the excess forage.

We obviously don't have a drought every year, but we do have a drought quite often. It is part of the climate. If we always had as much rain as we hoped for, we would not have the same native vegetation, but instead we would be more like East Texas or Louisiana.

When drought does occur, the effect can be devastating to the health of the cow herd, the health of the pastures, and finances of the producer. Therefore, not stocking pastures to capacity makes for good management. Stocking rates should be based on poor forage production years; not good forage production years. Instead of planning for early destocking, or planning so that enough hay is on hand, it may be profitable, contentious, and certainly wise to plan to make hay, run stockers, or graze dormant forage when the rainfall is adequate.

Making this change would mean shifting one's philosophy so that a producer changes their business strategy from one of maximizing profit, to one of minimizing risk. The effect of the latter strategy, could actually lead to the increase of the first. Three benefits could be realized by this approach:

- 1.) Minimizing stress on the cow herd - easily providing plentiful, nutritious forage;
- 2.) Minimizing stress on pastures - resulting in fewer weeds, better root systems, reduced erosion, and more forage on a yearly basis;
- 3.) Increasing the diversity of business enterprises - adding stockers or hay should lead to positive returns.

Hopefully, these benefits will show up where it matters most - in the bank. If nothing else, they may reduce the level of stress for the producer. Adjusting business management because things are going well is certainly less stressful than adjustments caused by hard times.

Mexican drug war affects tick inspections

For about the past year, Mexican cattle have been examined at a temporary inspection site in Laredo before being cleared for shipment to the rest of Texas and beyond - part of an effort to eradicate a fever tick infestation that has plagued ranchers along the border for more than a century.

The tick carries an anemia-causing parasite that preys on cattle blood cells and spreads bovine babesiosis, which causes fever, paralysis, and often leads to death if left untreated.

Until last year, the inspections took place in Mexico, and ticked cattle were kept from the U.S. But a ruthless battle between the Gulf and Los Zetas cartels in the northern Mexican state of Tamaulipas forced those inspection sites to close in March 2010.

"It's become too dangerous for the veterinarians to conduct their inspections on the cattle that are going to be imported into Texas from Mexico," said Roland Garcia, a Texas Ranger commissioned by the Department of Public Safety and the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association. "That's why these temporary pens in Laredo and Pharr have been established. I don't know how long 'temporary' could be. It depends on how things settle out in Mexico."
