

City considers cutting curbside clutter

Janet Felderhoff

Muenster citizens who have complained over the years about things parked on City streets and lawns may soon get some action. At its July 1 regular meeting, the Muenster City Council discussed this problem as well as tree branches that hang low over streets causing problems.

Mayor Joey Anderson remarked, "This has come up a couple times during Council meeting discussion about automobiles, boats, trailers, campers, and other vehicles parked on City streets. It appears that some vehicles never seem to move. They have flat tires and just become permanent fixtures on the street. It's a hazard to people in the area whether it is traffic or kids. Many communities have ordinances controlling this."

City Administrator Stan Endres said that there is currently no ordinance that prohibits parking vehicles or other items in the street indefinitely. He noted receiving many calls about this over the years. "I think this needs to be brought up," he said. "I know there will be people in town who will be awful upset by it because that is where they park their camper or their trailer."

Endres produced a copy of the ordinance adopted by the Lindsay City Council regarding vehicles, trailers, etc. parked that are unable to operate under their own power. That ordinance prohibits parking such items on any public street, alley, or city right of way for a continuous period of time longer than 72 hours and provides penalties for violations.

Police Chief Mark Blankenship said, "There is an enormous amount of unregistered, unrunning vehicles on streets and in the yards, as well as RVs in the street. There are a few RVs parked in driveways that doesn't present a problem as far as traffic safety. But, anything on the street is a problem and there's quite a few. Probably more than a dozen at least of just RVs. There's other items as well as boats and utility trailers and vehicles that are inoperable."

Alderman Greg Bohl suggested a time period longer than 72 hours.

It was agreed that Endres should develop an ordinance to be considered at the August meeting.

Endres reported that he spoke with TxDOT about low hanging branches. TxDOT has no standards as to how high branches need to be trimmed. Their main concern is any branches that might block the view or stop signs at intersections.

He said the City has the right to trim trees that are hanging over the curb or in the right of way. It would be at the City's expense.

Bohl said that he has walked in the middle of the street in places where tree branches were so low that he couldn't walk under them without hitting his head on them.

The Council urges residents to check the trees on their property and trim them if needed. Low branches in some places are causing problems for the trash collection trucks.

A public hearing took place for the City-initiated rezoning of 16 tracts of land.

Nobody spoke for or against any of proposed rezones and the hearing was closed.

The City Council has been working to update its zoning map with the assistance of Karen Mitchell, an expert in city planning. She said, "During that time, there were several parcels that came to our attention that were operating, the Ford House for example, that it was

Muenster ISD sets $1.30 tax rate; adopts budget

There was nobody present to comment at the public hearing held by Muenster ISD Board of Trustees at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, June 26. The purpose of the public meeting was to give residents of the School District an opportunity to ask questions or make comments on the 2013-14 budget and proposed tax rate.

Board President Steve Trubenbach noted that there are currently 462 students enrolled for the 2013-14 school year. The District gets a little over $6,600 per student from the State. The only way that the District receives more State money is if the number of students increases.

Superintendent Clay Richerson explained, "Being Chapter 41 and subject to recapture, there are two levels. We are over that top level and everything over that goes directly back to the State. We don't keep any of it. The only way that we can gain revenue from the State is to gain students."

Richerson does anticipate an increase in the number since a number of out-of-district students have inquired about transferring to Muenster ISD. "Since they aren't living in the District, right now I'm not counting on them. If they show up the first week of school, then that will be good," he commented.

The State reimburses the same amount on an out-of-district student as it does for district students. Trubenbach added that some school districts charge for out-of-district students, but Muenster does not.

At 7 p.m., the special Board meeting opened with Board members Trubenbach, Richard Dangelmayr, Doug Hermes, Kim Walterscheid, and Neal Flusche present. Absent were Ben Bindel and Mel Walterscheid.

The proposed tax is $1.30 for the 2013-14 school year. That is with an M&O of $1.04 and INS at $0.26 to

S.H.Y. group experiences outdoor adventure and religious inspiration

Sacred Heart Youth (S.H.Y.) recently attended Steubenville On The Rockies Conference in Denver, Colorado. There were 13 teens and three chaperones making the trip.

Youth on the trip were Anthony Bayer, Kevin Flusche, Rosco Sprouse, Will Green, Ethan Henry, Jamie Proctor, James Cochran, Aaron Colmenero, Jacob Miller, Darian Peters, Catherine Fleitman, Samantha Palmer, and Katie Luttmr, and chaperones Debbie and Mary Cochran and SH Youth Minister Dan Aedo.

The group left Muenster on Tuesday, June 18. They visited St. Mary's Cathedral in Amarillo. Each morning and evening they had prayers from the Breviary, along with time for sharing and adoration.

On Thursday, everyone experienced the fun and excitement of zip lining and white water rafting on Clear Creek.

Friday morning took the group to visit the beautiful shrine of St. Francis Cabrini in the scenic mountains of Golden, Colorado. Then, they headed to Denver to begin the first evening of the Steubenville Conference. It offered plenty of excitement and music for the youth.

Chris Padgett, a theology professor at Franciscan University in Steubenville, was their host for the conference. His great sense of humor, as well as relevant Catholic teachings for the youth, was both inspiring and hilarious. Other speakers included Fr. Leo and Tammy Evard.

The youth were especially encouraged to avail themselves to the sacraments of Reconciliation and Eucharist, and to commit their lives in a more heartfelt and personal way to Christ.

On Sunday morning, they were privileged to have Archbishop Aquilo celebrate Mass. All the youth who attended expressed a deeper sense for the importance of their Catholic faith and a desire to live that faith more fully.

Asked if they would encourage other youth to attend the Steubenville Conference, Kevin Flusche replied, "Yes, cuz the talks really make you think and Eucharistic adoration is amazing, especially Deacon Ralph Poyo's talk about breaking from the chain of sin."

Catherine Fleitman said, "Absolutely. The experience of meeting other groups and feeling God's love through adoration is awesome. It's a lot of fun, too. Getting to sing, dance, have fun, and still share your faith with others is great. Experiencing God's love during the Eucharistic procession is life-changing."

Asked if the trip was what they expected, Jacob Miller remarked, "I don't believe you can ever really know what to expect. Because even though I knew what the conference is like, you never know how God is going to choose to touch you."

Katie Luttmr said, "Not really. I didn't expect it to touch me so deeply. If I had to not zoned properly for that. They did not go through the procedures that the other ones went through." Each of the parcels required an ordinance to rezone it properly.

Each ordinance was read and approved separately.

Those changed from R-1 Single Family District to I-1 Light Industrial were tracts occupied by Superior Mfg., Muenster Industrial Foundation, Germanfest, Universal Machining, Structures, and Doug Fleitman. Those changed from R-1 Single Family District to B-2 General Business were North Texas Dental, old AMPI lot, Walterscheid Appliances, Dollar General, Fleitman Sand & Gravel, Klement Ford, Doug Fleitman (two tracts), Triple G Well Service owned by Jim Grewing, and S & W Electric.

These were Ordinances 340 to 355, all of which were approved unanimously.

At the request of Endres, the City considered its employee uniform policy. He said that the City has always furnished its employees with uniforms, but there is no written policy. The City gives each police officer $200 twice a year for uniforms. The City purchases uniform shirts for the other City employees and reimburses them for the cost of their jeans. They pay $100 towards the purchase of steel toed work boots.

Endres said that the cost of good, steel-toed work boots is now about $165. These are purchased at Gehrig's Hardware.

The cost of five uniform work shirts, five pairs of jeans, and a pair of boots is about $400. He asked for a guideline as to what the policy is. The Council agreed to pay $165 toward the purchase of the boots, to purchase the uniform shirts, and to reimburse the cost of up to five jeans per year. Police officers will continue to receive $200 twice a year to purchase their uniforms.

Muenster Volunteer Fire Department requested approval to sell beer at its Annual BBQ fundraiser. This requires a temporary license and the City's approval is necessary to obtain a license.

The MVFD is considering holding the BBQ at a new location this year - the Heritage Park facility. MVFD Chief Herbie Knabe said they may move this year to try it. The Council approved the request for either location.

Police Chief Mark Blankenship presented his monthly report. He advised that there have been some counterfeit bills passed in Muenster. These are mainly $10 and a few $20s. They are being passed at all the convenience stores, gas stations, and fast food facilities. He said that Muenster has had about 10 bills in the last two weeks that they know of and Gainesville has had 30 plus bills passed.

Asked how to tell the difference, Chief Blankenship explained, "If you take a bill $10 and above, there is a number denomination on the bill. It's in the corner. It's yellow looking. On a good bill, if you look at it straight on, the number is yellow cast and if you turn the bill sideways and look at it, the number turns green. In fake bills, the color stays the same."

Blankenship added that Secret Service is working the case with them.

There were two bids received for street paving. Jagoe Public of Denton for a total of $191,230 and Bolen Construction for a total of $160,855. With Bolen's bid being about $30,000 less than Jagoe's, it was accepted by the City.

C.T. Beechum requested approval of an Eagle Scout project. He had already begun a project, but it was not accepted. Since he turns 18 in August, he must quickly find and complete a new Eagle Scout project before then. He asked about a project such as painting bleachers at the ballpark. The Council felt that might take too long. Gary Fisher suggested painting the light poles on either Main Street or Hwy. 82. The Council agreed this was a good project. Beechum chose Main Street. The City will assist with funds if needed.

Endres reported that the City crew has been busy the past three weeks working on the new sewer line at Muenster ISD. It has been a difficult project due to the ground which is very rocky with hard, compact, black dirt. Orr Construction and G&H Backhoe have been enlisted to assist with the project which needs to be finished before school resumes.

"I was just amazed to go up here and watch them," Endres remarked. "There are three different pieces of equipment going at the same time, plus dump trucks sitting there. For our small City crew that we have, I think that they are doing a wonderful job up there." He said that the job will cost more than it would had they contracted it out.

An air conditioner unit at the Library went out. A new unit at a cost of $5,120 with a five year warranty was installed by Hesse Schniederjan.

In other business conducted at the July 1 meeting, the Council:

- Approved spraying for mosquitoes two times this year. This was approved due to the many requests by residents. Administrator Endres was tasked with determining when to spray and making the arrangements. He will notify residents of the spray dates in the Muenster Enterprise so that they are aware of when it will occur.
- Approved a wage increase of $50 a month for City employee Cody Rico who recently took an exam and completed all requirements for a Class D Wastewater Treatment Operator.
- Approved preliminary plat for Lakeside Meadow Subdivision Unit II.
- Approved payment of monthly bills totaling $118,821.44.

DPS boosts DWI patrols for July 4th holiday

The Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) will increase DWI patrols for a 10-day period that includes the July 4th holiday. From June 28 - July 7, DPS troopers will focus DWI patrols in high-risk locations at times when alcohol-related crashes are most frequent.

"The Fourth of July is a time of celebration in our country, and we encourage Texans to enjoy and mark this holiday responsibly," said DPS Director Steven McCraw. "Impaired driving can quickly turn a time of celebration into a tragedy, so Texans should designate a sober driver or secure another form of transportation if they plan to drink alcohol. Our troopers will also be doing their part during the holiday by increasing their patrols to keep our roadways safe."

The increased patrols make the $1.30 tax rate. Flusche made the motion to approve the proposed rate and Hermes made the second. The Board voted unanimously to adopt the $1.30 rate.

Last year's INS rate was $0.21 and the M&O $1.04. This year's rollback rate is $1.3453.

Next unanimously approved as presented was the 2013-14 budget. It has expenditures of - Operation Fund $5,355,527; Food Services $185,315; and Debt Service $1,261,369 for a total of $6,802,211. Estimated Revenue was Operation Fund $4,922,922; Food Services $158,300; and Debt Service Fund $1,197,395 for a total of $6,278,617.

Verena Metzler 1932 - 2013

Funeral Mass for Verena Anna Henscheid Metzler, age 80 of Gainesville, was held Friday, June 28, 2013 at St. Peter's Catholic Church with Rev. Ken Robinson officiating. Burial followed in St. Peter's Cemetery under the direction of Geo. J. Carroll & Son Funeral Home. Rosary with visitation was held at the funeral home Thursday, June 27.

Verena was born Oct. 8, 1932, in Myra, the second child of Henry and Anna Flusche Henscheid. After graduating as Salutatorian from Sacred Heart High School in 1950, she worked for two years at Cooke County Electric Coop. During that time, she met Gerald Metzler and they were married on Oct. 28, 1952, a union that would last 55 years until Gerald's death in 2008. Verena and Gerald were members of St. Peter's Catholic Church in Lindsay.

In 1963, Verena and Gerald moved with their three sons from a small house in Gainesville to a new home in the country a few miles north of Lindsay on FM 1200. For 40+ years, Verena reared children, ran a household and farm, and cooked hardy meals for family, friends, and numerous hay haulers, not to mention helped Gerald and his brothers and wives operate Metzler Bros. Drive In. In addition to serving barbecue till 1996, Verena and Gerald raised cattle and chickens; harvested crops; grew gardens; and gathered and shelled pecans. In her spare time, Verena enjoyed traveling, reading, music, and dancing. One of her favorite destinations was Hot Springs, Arkansas, which she and Gerald visited every summer and fall for years, often hosting friends and family. After retiring in 1996, Verena continued to treat her children and grandchildren to delicious food, generous gifts, and unending hospitality. The family was always encouraged to visit anytime, eat and drink all they wanted, and stay for days - because her house was still their home. Verena would go out of her way to make a meal or a favorite dessert when she had visitors. Besides her unbeatable cooking, Verena will be remembered for her hard work, self-education, independent spirit, and example of faith and fortitude. She taught her family to pray for help with every problem in life, and inspired many by managing chronic health problems with little complaint.

Verena leaves behind children and their spouses Mark and Susan Metzler of Gainesville, Jerry and Glena Metzler of Gainesville, Roy and Sandy Metzler of

UNITED STATES SENATOR, TEXAS
TEXAS STAR TIMES

A day to reflect and recommit ourselves to America's founding ideals

As we celebrate the Fourth of July, I encourage all Texans to take a moment to reflect upon what was at stake in that Philadelphia meetinghouse some 237 years ago, when a group of revolutionaries gathered to indict a tyrant and declare their independence. The notion that this band of enlightened colonials would take a stand against the mightiest empire the world had ever known is bold and courageous in itself. That they would do so in the name of a radical, novel concept of liberty is astounding. And for us today, the heirs of their labors, it is humbling.

On that day in 1776, autocracy began its long retreat into history as a new conception of governance - one striving for freedom and self-rule - went on the march. Our founders recognized that liberty, endowed by our Creator, is the birthright of all mankind. Today, as we gather with friends and family, we give thanks for the sacrifices that countless Americans have made over the generations to guard this right and see to it that it is fully realized by all citizens.

As we mark this day, let us recommit ourselves to America's founding ideals. Our experiment in self-governance will always bring new challenges and fresh debates. At times, these debates will be loud and raucous as sincere ideologies clash. But, we must never lose sight of our common love of country and the fundamental truth that we are all each others' equal.

Texans are no strangers to the high cost of protecting the revolutionary ideals handed down to us by our founders. The Republic of Texas was born in a revolution of its own, and with over 100,000 members of our armed forces calling Texas home, our state has long been on the frontlines of liberty.

May God bless you and yours on this special day, and may He continue to bless Texas and the United States of America.

CASA's fears become reality as children are turned away

For almost a year, Court Appointed Special Advocates, a local non-profit organization with the mission of providing advocacy for abused and neglected children within the child welfare (CPS) system, has spread the word that the program is close to turning children away. Now, what CASA feared has become reality, as CASA is now turning children away because they lack sufficient volunteers and staff to meet the need.

According to CASA of North Texas' Director Vicki Robertson, "For 13 years, our CASA program has been one of only six CASA programs in the State that has consistently provided advocates for every child in our county who needs a CASA volunteer. Today, we're no longer in that group. We are truly at our capacity. We continue to recruit and train volunteers, but there simply haven't been enough volunteers to meet the increased number of children who need an advocate."

"We just swore in a group of five volunteers, which is wonderful, but we need 15 more today because children are coming into foster care every week. We simply don't have advocates for them and those of us on staff are covering all of the cases we're allowed to.

"It breaks my heart that in the past couple of weeks, we've had to turn away children because we simply don't have the manpower to give them what they need."

This local CASA program provides advocates for an average of 100 Cooke County children who have suffered abuse or neglect at such a level that it is necessary to take them from their homes and place them into the protective custody of the State (foster care). In 2013, this number has risen to 130 with no indication this trend will stop in the near future.

"I don't have to tell anyone in this county that there are problems with drugs here in this county," said Robertson. "When you read about an ugly raid for guns or drugs or other illegal behaviors, there is a good chance that children were living too close to those situations. The public rarely sees these victims, but they exist and more are entering foster care every day."

"I've said for years that Cooke County people truly care about one another. I've marveled for years at how Cooke County folks step up to help one another when they see a need. I think for us the problem is that folks just don't know how many kids are affected right now," said Robertson.

Being a CASA volunteer takes only a passion for the safety and well-being of CASA's children who come from some hard places and 10-15 hours a month, most of which can be made to fit into the volunteer's schedule. Every four months, hearings and case-related meetings are required, which are not set to the volunteer's schedule, so some flexibility is required. Beyond that, a person need only be over 21 with clear criminal and CPS backgrounds and have transportation.

Davis, Yosten receive honors at MSU

Two former North Central Texas College students received awards at Midwestern State University's Honors Banquet on April 26.

Isaac John Davis received the leadership award of Man of the Year. The award is given to students based on their character, leadership skills, service, and scholarship. Davis also received the President's Medal of Excellence from the Dillard College of Business Administration. Medal of Excellence winners have the highest grade point averages in their college. Davis graduated May 11 summa

"I run into people all of the time who say 'someday I'm going to get involved for CASA's kids'... I really hope that people who've thought that before will give strong consideration to getting involved now," remarked Robertson. Anyone interested in working for CASA's children, may contact the CASA office at 309 S. Commerce, Gainesville, by telephone at 940-665-2244, or check CASA websites at www.casant.org or www.becomeacasa.org.

cum laude with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree. Davis also was named Outstanding Junior Man in 2012.

Joshua Jared Yosten was named Outstanding Math Student of the Year. The award is nominated by the faculty. He graduated summa cum laude May 11 with a Bachelor of Science degree. Yosten also was Outstanding Math Student in 2012.

Both Davis and Yosten are from Muenster and are members of the Catholic Campus Ministry that received the James L. Stewart Service Award.

Marker dedication set for Montague Co. Poor Farm

The long-awaited State Historical Marker commemorating the Montague County Poor Farm arrived a few days ago. Plans are in progress to dedicate that marker on July 13 at 9:30 a.m. The marker will be placed at the Poor Farm Cemetery, which is County property and was one part of the historical poor farm.

The gathering will take place on the well-rocked parking area adjoining the site. The Poor Farm Cemetery can be reached by a short drive, 0.4 mile south from Montague on Hwy. 59 and then a west turn onto FM 455, 1.8 miles. Guests should turn north at the gate that once led to the County dump.

Any who wonder what the Poor Farm was all about, and all who would like to offer a measure of respect to its residents and workers, are invited to attend. The event is hosted under the direction of the Montague County Historical Commission. Montague County Judge Tommie Sappington will be on hand to address the group.

A free souvenir booklet is being published which contains the submitted essay and much of the available information on the county system from 1873 until 1939. Commissioner's Court proceedings, deeds, census records, and interviews from those who remembered are compiled to clarify what is known. The research gives a structure.

Avoid burns, scalding

Grilling can provide some tasty dishes, but it also can cause unexpected burns, scalding, and fires. To help avoid unintended consequences, physicians at UT Southwestern urge caution for those who are grilling as well as socializing.

"When you're smelling the barbecue, it's easy to forget that grills - both gas and charcoal - are still an open source of flame and a potential danger," says Dr. Brett Arnoldo, a burn surgeon at UT Southwestern.

Some common precautions to prevent burns include:

- Don't pour water directly on coals. Beware of steam that can rise up unexpectedly and scald.
- Use baking powder to help contain grease fires. Always have an extinguisher nearby in case flames get out of control or something else nearby catches fire.
- Keep charcoal fluid out of the reach of children and pets and away from any source of heat, including grills and fire pits. Never use gasoline as a source of ignition.

• Never leave a lit grill unattended and designate an area around the grill for children to avoid. Children and pets should remain at least three feet from a grill to help avoid burns or accidentally knocking over the grill. Don't lean directly over the grill. Be aware of clothing such as scarves, shirt tails, or apron strings that can catch fire when bending over. Consider flame-retardant oven mitts and long utensils to avoid burns.

• Never try to move a hot grill. Be sure to wait for coals to cool off before disposing.

Also remember to avoid toxic fumes from charcoal. Burning charcoal produces carbon monoxide, a colorless and odorless gas. Never burn charcoal indoors or in garages, tents, RVs, campers, or other enclosed spaces.

Weather Whys - Rainbows

Q: How are double rainbows formed?

A: A double rainbow - the correct term is secondary rainbow - occurs in the same way as the rainbow in front of it, but the only difference is that two reflections are coming from the same area of rainfall, said Brent McRoberts of Texas A&M University. "You need just the right angle to see two rainbows," he explained. "The secondary rainbow is always a little bit fainter in appearance because the sunlight is reflected internally twice by the same raindrop. Also, notice that the colors will always be reversed in a secondary rainbow. This is again caused by the way the light is reflecting off the raindrops."

Q: Is rain always needed to form a rainbow?

A: Yes it is required, says McRoberts. "For you to see a rainbow, the sun always has to be behind you and you must be facing an area of rainfall with the sun at your back," he adds. "When sunlight strikes the area of rainfall, the light is scattered from the raindrop and it produces colors of the spectrum, from light purple or violet to red. Raindrops lit up by sunlight produce a spectrum of colors caused by bending of the light, so a different angle to the rainbow can produce different colors to your eyes. You can create a rainbow yourself by taking a garden hose and turning it on, and with the sun at your back, create a water spray. If you look at the spray at just the right angle, you will see the spectrum of lights form - a rainbow. Areas of the country that have high amounts of rainfall, such as Hawaii and Florida, naturally will have the most rainbows."

sum up why this conference touched me, it'd be easy: Adoration." Jamie Proctor added, "No, I expected an old shriveled guy reading the Bible. Instead it was like a three-day concert about Jesus. It was awesome."

Jacob had attended the Steubenville conference previously. Asked why he came back, he said, "I really enjoyed the community and fellowship the first time. And so, I came back to experience that again and see how God would want to touch me in a new way."

Kevin said his favorite part of the trip was, "I got to make friends with lots of other youth that share my values."

Samantha Palmer stated, "They did a great job making the faith relate to young people specifically. The music, speakers, and sacraments together created an experience that was fun but touching at the same time.

"It was easy to make friends. And, you never felt embarrassed whether you were dancing, singing, or crying because you all knew you were there for the same reason."

Jamie said, "A lot of miracles happened during Adoration."

"It was a lot of fun, but you learn a lot about your faith at the same time. It made the mysterious spiritual part of the sacraments more real to me."

Jamie Cochran noted, "It made my faith seem more real, and something we should be young even now while we're young. The testimonies given by the speakers really gave me perspective on my own life. They were really inspiring."

Dave Campbell's football magazine hits newsstand

Dave Campbell's 2013 Texas Football Magazine hit the newsstands last week, featuring an Encore! picture of Texas A&M Aggie Johnny Manziel. But looking beyond the first 186 pages of college and four pages of NFL, one reaches the much awaited for High School Section that fills out the remaining 200 plus pages, starting with UIL Class 5A down to 6-man private school teams.

In District 8-1A D II, the Munday Moguls, defending State Champions, and #4 in the top 10, were picked to again lead the district. Munday lost "a whopping 18 starters to graduation," nine both ways, including Dee Paul.

The #7 ranked Hornets of Muenster follow with "10 returning lettermen and several on-field leaders. Coach Carney has sustained a winning tradition at Muenster, notching a 33-6 record over three seasons," the article added. The Hornets ended last season as Regional Semi-Finalist.

Defensive end Cole Walterscheid with 53 tackles, 24 for losses, and eight sacks "will continue to be an impact player on defense, while his 4.6 speed will give him the chance to be a force on offense." Walterscheid had 357 yards and five receiving touchdowns last season. Cole was also named to the Class A pre-season All-State Team.

Clint Sidwell, 683 yards and eight rushing TDs, "will carry the load again."

Other players listed were top juniors Collin Pagel and Brandon Hennigan, top sophomore Dalton Bartel, and other prospects Mason Binder, Jared Endres, and Garrett Miller.

"Muenster's defense - despite the graduation of LB Andy Flusche - should have plenty of grit left, especially with monster DE Cole Walterscheid coming off the edge."

The Electra Tigers, Bi-District Finalist, have nine starters returning, losing only three to graduation. With a veteran quarterback and pair of "explosive young running backs," the Tigers could be the "force in the far reaches of Wichita County."

With only one district win last season, the Perrin-Whitt Pirates will welcome back Pepper Raspberry, who was out with an injury

"The schedule is not going to be very forgiving for Coach Fanning's young Hornets, but the bright side is that his players are continually developing against some of the state's top competition," noted the article. Era will be led by QB Jacob Metzler and linebacker Jose De Los Santos.

The Petrolia Pirates round out the District with 12 lettermen and 16 starters returning. "Friday night jitters should be a thing of the past. While having to face a reigning state champ is a challenge, this team seems ready for the district race."

The Sacred Heart Tigers were picked to be the TAPPS Division III, District I champions this season. "With a good amount of starters (6) returning on each side of the ball, the Tigers expect another winning season."

"Smart and savvy QB (Kason) Reeves (1,699 yards, 17 TDs passing) was poised as a freshman and should improve with a year under his belt. (Isac) Walterscheid will see a lot of passes thrown his way." (Hayden) Schilling is the Tigers' leader on defense after proving himself as a sophomore."

Other players listed included Keith Metzler, Garrett Wheeler, Brady Endres, and Dylan Clure.

Fort Worth Lake County's Eagles will be pecking at the Tigers' heels after taking the district last season. A loss of a number of key starters will force the youth to carry the team.

Fort Worth Calvary Academy, third place pick, had no information in the publication.

Lubbock Christian, another Eagle team, returns six starters on defense "including a pair of rocks in the middle."

The Fort Worth Temple Christian Eagles have a new head coach taking over after a disappointing season.

Amarillo San Jacinto did not submit any information.

The Kennedale Fellowship Mustangs "went winless in district play last season, but that shouldn't be the case in 2013" as they bring back experience on both sides of the ball."

In District 7-1A D I, the Lindsay Knights are picked to lead the pack. "Graduation hit the Knights hard, but playoff-tested veterans do return at key positions."

Quarterback John Haverkamp started all 12 games last season. Mark Krahl "should thrive behind the blocking of Connor Pelzel." Elijah Walker and Justin Ott will lead the defense.

The Valley View Eagles will be led by Landon Boaz and quarterback Ethan McCollum on offense, and Michael Pounce, Austin French, and Kaleb Moses on defense.

Lacking depth is a concern with the Collinsville Pirates, but front line players are solid and have past season experience.

The district is rounded out by the Chico Dragons, Blue Ridge Tigers, and Trenton Tigers.

Also in the area, the Gainesville Leopards were picked the District 9-3A leaders over Krum, Decatur, Bridgeport, and Sanger.

In District 5-2A D I, the Bearcats of Whitesboro are number one, with the Callisburg Wildcats placed 5th.

The Saint Jo Panthers were placed in 2nd, behind Savoy and ahead of Irving Universal.

9U NC Mudcats finish 7th in the World Series

The NC Mudcats finished 7th out of 58 teams in the age nine and under (9U) division last weekend.

After a series of pool games last week, the Mudcats were placed in one of the top two brackets, Platinum South for the AAYBA World Series Tournament in Flower Mound. There was also a Platinum North bracket and then the brackets are Diamond South and North, Gold, Silver, and Bronze.

So, the team played the top "Majors" teams in the tournament, that they are two levels above the Mudcats "AA" status. This automatically made it a big challenge for the boys.

Wednesday, the Mudcats played the Stix BB Red, a majors team. They had a great game with only two errors, resulting in a 15-3 victory.

A baseball player from another team watching the Mudcats play, summed it up well: he turned around to another player while watching the Mudcats and yelled out, "This game is awesome!"

On Thursday, the Mudcats then faced the Xtreme Guns and again had a big victory of 8-1.

But on Friday, the Mudcats faced another majors team, the Dallas Patriots-Pittman, and lost a tough game 4-1.

Being a double elimination tournament, Saturday, the Mudcats played their last game against the Stix Black and lost 9-3.

The Mudcats ended up taking home 7th place in the Platinum South bracket or a tie for 7th in the overall Platinum bracket, as the Platinum South and North brackets don't play each other except for the first place teams.

The final result: the Mudcats finished 7th out of 58 teams in the 9U age bracket, with all the teams they competed against being based out of the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The Mudcats are done playing baseball for now and the players and coaches are going to take a break and enjoy some time off.

But, there is always next season.

FARM & RANCH

Soil quality tips shared with Blacklands farmers

Increasing soil organic matter, reducing tillage, and attention to axle loads were just a few of the tips a soil expert shared with Blacklands farmers at the recent Stiles Farm Field Day.

Dr. Mark McFarland, a regents professor and Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service state soil fertility specialist, provided an overview of soils in the Blacklands region and methods to maintain high soil quality.

McFarland said soil clods are important as they play a key role in the movement of air and water into a soil.

"These small, dime- to BB-size clods are critical because they change the porosity of the soil," he said.

"When soil particles come together and form clods, the spaces between the particles get larger. This allows a loam or clay soil to act more like a sand in terms of air and water movement into that soil."

He said this interaction of soil particles is "critical to our crops."

"When you look at a bare piece of ground and see a flat surface, that tells you that you don't have good soil surface structure," McFarland said. "It indicates that all the clods have fallen apart or been crushed. Now all of the sand, silt, and clay particles are acting as individuals."

McFarland said silt and sand particles have a round shape, but clay particles are flat. When clay comes loose from a clod and settles on the ground after a rainfall, it will layer to form a soil crust. Surface soil crusts can be major barriers to air and water movement into the soil.

"It's also a barrier to seedling emergence," he said. "So, you could have problems with crop stand establishment if surface soil structure is poor."

McFarland said the most important ingredient in a soil clod is organic matter.

Soil microbes decompose organic matter which forms humus. Humus is the glue of the soil; it sticks soil particles together to form clods. So, organic matter is critical to have good soil structure.

Crop residues provide organic matter, and crops that produce higher amounts of residue should be included in a rotation, especially following silage removal or low organic matter producing crops like cotton, he said.

"Organic amendments like compost and manure also can be good sources of organic matter," McFarland said. "When there is limited risk of depleting soil moisture, cover crops are an excellent way to boost soil organic matter levels."

And a legume cover crop, like clover, vetch, cowpeas, or medics, will fix nitrogen from the atmosphere for the next crop and could save farmers money over the long haul.

microbes. That's when part of the organic matter is lost from the soil as carbon dioxide."

McFarland said reducing tillage and leaving crop residue on the soil surface slows the decomposition process down. It also helps protect surface soil structure.

"When larger raindrops fall from the sky, they're coming down at about 30 feet per second. If they hit bare soil, it's like a hammer hitting the ground. You've seen the soil splash up high on your tractor tire. That impact can do a lot of damage to soil structure if it's not protected."

A good residue cover will intercept the raindrops, protect the soil surface, and get more infiltration with less evaporation, he said.

In general, McFarland said to limit trips across the field.

"The less time you spend in the field with that equipment, the better it is for your soil," he said. "Another thing to look at is using controlled traffic patterns; follow the same wheel tracks every time. That limits the percentage of the field that will see any compaction. And, try to reduce axle loads or increase the number of axles when possible to lower the compressive force on the soil. Our management can have major impacts on soil quality, and if we manage it well, it will pay us back in terms of a healthy soil and a productive crop."

Grasshoppers break out - but not as copiously as in 2011

After a dry winter, as expected, grasshoppers are becoming a problem, but they are not as severe or profuse as they were during the 2011 drought, according to a Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service expert.

"It's mid-summer and the grasshoppers have gotten bigger; they're now winged, so they're moving into other crops and orchards," said Dr. Allen Knutson, an AgriLife Extension entomologist, Dallas.

As they were in 2011, this year's grasshopper outbreaks are connected to drought conditions, he said. From July through the fall, grasshoppers deposit their eggs 0.5 to two inches below the soil surface. On an average year, fungus and other diseases take a toll on egg survival, thereby reducing the first generation grasshoppers that hatch in the spring.

But most of the fungi and diseases affecting egg survival depend upon moist conditions, so during a drought year, outbreaks are expected, Knutson said.

But the outbreaks this year - at least so far - have been spotty, he said.

"Though some areas have had good rains, which reduce grasshopper populations, others have not, and they'll still have problems," he said. "They are intense in some areas, while others don't have any."

More information on the current Texas drought and wildfire alerts can be found on the AgriLife Extension Agricultural Drought Task Force website at <http://agriflife.tamu.edu/drought/>.

When Roosters Crowed

From the Muenster Historical Commission Preserving the Past for the Future

Threshing meals

Grandpa use to say the greatest thing about threshing was the dinners. It was like having a Sunday dinner every noon for two or three weeks.

There would be competition among the women. The men were recognized for their fine field of oats, their good horses and equipment, but dinner was the opportunity for the women to prove their skills and be proud of what they did.

Plans were made out days ahead of time so shopping, seating, and a dozen other things had to be arranged. The day before called for baking bread, pies and/or cakes, house cleaning, churning, washing, and ironing.

On the big day, the wife rose early to get breakfast over. Than she dug and peeled potatoes, picked peas, beans and tomatoes from the garden. She would catch, pick and dress 6-8 roosters. She'd also mop the floor, fix lemonade or tea, set up a washtub in the yard with soap and towels and carry water to the house for drinking and dishwashing as the meal progressed. By mid morning she was ready to start cooking.

If flies were thick in the house, the blinds were pulled down a while before the meal and the flies driven out the door by waving a dishtowel. Dinner was served in shifts.

After the cooks ate, washed the dishes, and carried scrapes to the pig pen, they were through for the day... except for feeding the chickens, gathering eggs and doing the chores, as the husband was likely to be late. Then as darkness set in, the farm wife would serve her husband supper and do the dishes again.

The straw stack

Straw stacks dotted the countryside around Muenster after the threshing crews had gone. The straw from the thrashing machine was in circled stacks. There was always some oat or wheat grain left with the straw so the cattle ate from these stacks. The calves liked to run around and the cattle rub against the stack to brush off flies. This rubbing and eating at the base gave the stack a porch effect so the livestock often laid there in the winter to keep warm. The stakes finally got thin at the base and would fall, giving the animals a whole new supply of food.

USDA and EPA launch food waste challenge

Two government agencies are doing what they can to encourage Americans to waste less food.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) launched the U.S. Food Waste Challenge.

Food producers, processors, manufacturers, retailers, communities, and other government agencies are being asked to join the effort to reduce, reuse, and recycle food waste.

According to the USDA, in 2010, an estimated 133 billion pounds of foods from retail food stores, restaurants, and homes was wasted.

CLOSE CALL - Some Muenster teens had a scare last Thursday afternoon when returning home from a golf game. They were traveling south on FM 373 where road construction is ongoing. The road drops off in places where the ground has not yet been leveled up to the pavement. The vehicle's wheels went off, causing the driver to lose control. The pickup rolled. There were no serious injuries. Muenster VFD responded to the call.

Don't put a chill on summer fun

Summer is a wonderful time for outdoor activities with family and friends. For many people, a day at the beach, on the boat, or at a backyard barbecue will include drinking alcoholic beverages. But excessive drinking and summer activities don't mix. Drinking impairs both physical and mental abilities, and it also decreases inhibitions—which can lead to tragic consequences on the water, on the road, and in the great outdoors. In fact, research shows that half of all water recreation deaths of teens and adults involve the use of alcohol.

Swimmers can get in over their heads. Alcohol impairs judgment and increases risk-taking, a dangerous combination for swimmers. Even experienced swimmers may venture out farther than they should and not be able to make it back to shore, or they may not notice how chilled they're getting and develop hypothermia. Surfers could become over-confident and try to ride a wave beyond their abilities. Even around a pool, too much alcohol can have deadly consequences. Inebriated divers may collide with the diving board, or dive where the water is too shallow.

Boaters can lose their bearings. According to research funded by the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, alcohol may be involved in 60% of boating fatalities, including falling overboard. And a boat operator with a blood alcohol concentration (BAC) over 0.1% is 16 times more likely to be killed in a boating accident than an operator with zero BAC. According to the U.S. Coast Guard and the National Association of State Boating Law Administrators, alcohol can impair a boater's judgment, balance, vision, and reaction time. It can also increase fatigue and susceptibility to the effects of cold-water immersion. And if problems arise, intoxicated boaters are ill equipped to find solutions. For passengers, intoxication can lead to slips on deck, falls overboard, or accidents at the dock.

Drivers can go off course. The summer holidays are some of the most dangerous times of the year to be on the road. When on vacation, drivers may be traveling an unfamiliar route or hauling a boat or camper, with the distraction of pets and children in the car. Adding alcohol to the mix puts the lives of the driver and everyone in the car, as well as other people on the road, at risk.

Stay hydrated and stay healthy. Whether you're on the road or in the great outdoors, heat plus alcohol can equal trouble. Hot summer days cause fluid loss through perspiration, while alcohol causes fluid loss through increased urination. Together, they can quickly lead to dehydration or heat stroke.

But this doesn't have to happen. At parties, make at least every other drink a nonalcoholic one. If you're the host, be sure to provide plenty of cold, refreshing nonalcoholic drinks to keep your guests well hydrated. If you know you'll be driving, stay away from alcohol. And remember, there's no shame in taking a cab or sleeping on a friend's couch if you feel at all unsure if you should be driving.

Summer will end, but consequences can endure. You can have fun in the sun and still be safe. Avoiding beverages that cause mental and physical impairment while piloting a boat, driving a car, exploring the wilderness, and swimming or surfing is a good place to start. Be smart this summer—think before you drink, and make sure that you and your loved ones will be around to enjoy many summers to come.

Myths and Facts

MYTH: If you drink just beer or wine, you'll be fine.

FACT: It doesn't matter what type of alcohol you choose to consume—a drink is a drink. Your blood alcohol content is what determines how drunk you are.

MYTH: Drink coffee. Caffeine will sober you up.

FACT: Caffeine may help with drowsiness, but not with the effects of alcohol on decision-making or coordination. The body needs time to metabolize (break down) alcohol and then to return to normal. There are no quick ways to sober up—only time will help.

For more information on preventing problems with alcohol this summer, and tips on cutting back, visit <http://www.rethinkingdrinking.niaaa.nih.gov>.
