

Fangman fatally injured in ATV collision last Friday

By Janet Felderhoff
Clayton Fangman, age 16 of Muenster, was killed in a 4-wheeler accident around 6:15 p.m. on Friday, July 20. Department of Public Safety Trooper Mark Tackett reported that DPS troopers responded to the crash which took place north of Lindsay. Tackett indicated that Fangman and another youth were riding ATVs eastbound on F.M. 1199 when the two vehicles collided. Precinct #4 Justice of the Peace Jason Brinkley was called to the scene and pronounced Fangman's death. Judge Brinkley reported that another minor was directly behind Fangman on another 4-wheeler. Fangman was attempting to break suddenly and enter a ditch when he was struck from behind by the other 4-wheeler. This caused Fangman's 4-wheeler to roll, throwing him from it in the process. Fangman was killed on impact with the roadway from injuries sustained to his head. The other minor was not injured. Neither were wearing helmets.

The driver of this car damaged utility poles and totaled his vehicle, but escaped injury. He was arrested after leaving the accident scene. Linda Flusche photo

Commissioners propose FY 2013 budget & tax rate

By Janet Felderhoff
Cooke County Commissioners Court failed to produce a unanimous decision when it approved a proposed budget during the Monday, July 23 meeting. The proposed budget for FY 2012-13 passed by a vote of 3-2. Commissioners Leon Klement and Al Smith cast the nay votes. Commissioners Gary Hollowell and B.C. Lemmons and County Judge John Roane voted in favor.

Smith declined to say why he voted against the proposed budget. Klement stated he was against the 4% employee salary increase. He favored the 3% raise. There were three proposed budgets being considered. The difference in them was employee salary increases of 3%, 4%, and 5%. Commissioner Klement changed a line item in his budget. Instead of $120,000 for gravel, he asked for $150,000. Chief Appraiser Doug Smithson of the Cooke County Appraisal District spoke to the Court on this year's property valuations. He said, "This year, things were good. Values were up compared to what we thought it was going to be." Some values were down, but the oil and gas more than made up for the difference. Last year's tax rate was .467 and the effective rate is .4465 this year. The effective tax rate is the rate required to garner the amount of taxes from the previous year. Smithson said that the sales tax rate is up and when

Sleepy driver wipes out poles

By Janet Felderhoff
Parts of Muenster were without electricity for a time Monday morning due to a one-vehicle crash at the intersection of Hwy. 82 and Main Street. According to Muenster Police Chief Mark Blankenship, the property damage resulting from the accident ranged between $3,000 and $4,000. The driver sustained no injuries. Chief Blankenship said that Robert Norton, age 43 of Denton, was driving westbound on Hwy. 82 around 10:30 a.m. when the accident occurred. He noted that an eyewitness, who was behind Norton, saw the vehicle ease off the roadway hitting poles. It is thought that the driver fell asleep. Following the accident, Norton abandoned his vehicle and began walking west. He was arrested at Second Street and Maple Street for leaving the scene of an accident. Damaged in the crash was a power pole, Keep Muenster Beautiful lamp, TxDOT signs, and a corner of the old Endres building.

Polls open Tuesday

By Janet Felderhoff
Friday, July 27 is the last day to vote early in the 2012 Primary Run-Off Elections. Cooke County voters may do so at the Courthouse Annex located across the street from the Cooke County Courthouse between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Texas Secretary of State Hope Andrade stated, "Every election is important and an opportunity for Texas voters to exercise their voice in setting the course for the future of our great state." Voters who participated in the May 29 Primary Elections must vote in the same party's run-off election in which they voted in May. Voters who did not cast a ballot in the Primary Elections may vote in either party's run-off election. Andrade added that photo identification as required in Senate Bill 14 will not be required in Early Voting or on Election Day. To cast a ballot during Early Voting or on Election Day, voters should present their voter registration

MMH Board agrees on comment policy

By Janet Felderhoff
There is now an official procedure to follow for getting on the agenda to make a public comment during the Muenster Hospital District Board meetings. Discussion on the topic took place at previous Board meetings, but was not adopted until the Tuesday, July 17 meeting. At the request of Board President Ronnie Weinzapfel, the agenda item was not voted on until after the executive session. I think the Board needs to hear what Alex Fuller (District's legal counsel) has to say, and then we will make a decision after that," commented Weinzapfel. "It needs to be done legally." Speakers will be requested to sign up to make a comment on a speaker sign up sheet. The District may, in its sole discretion, set reasonable limits on the number, frequency, and length of

Local firemen fight grass fires

By Janet Felderhoff
Lack of rain and torrid summer temperatures have set the scene for fire danger. Muenster Volunteer Fire Department responded to a number of calls to grass fires in the past week. Most notable to Muenster residents was a grass fire on Monday, July 23. The fire burned about 47 acres just southwest of Muenster on the Luke farm on CR 300. It caused a lot of smoke in town. According to Muenster Fire Chief Herbie Knabe, a rotary hay cutter sparked the blaze. That fire nearly resulted in the evacuation of the residents at Muenster Health and Rehabilitation. The facility was notified to be prepared to move people as the fire was heading in that direction. Assisting Muenster on that call were Saint Jo, Lindsay, and Myra Volunteer Fire Departments. On Thursday, July 19, there was another fire near the Luke property and Butch Fisher property. The fire burned about 1 1/2 acres. The cause is unknown. Muenster and Myra VFDs responded. A hot torch sparked the

Hunter retires from County

By Janet Felderhoff
Cooke County Commissioner Court accepted the resignation of County Treasurer Judy Hunter. She plans to retire as of Aug. 31, 2012. Hunter wrote in part, "This was not an easy decision to make, but due to health reasons, I believe that this is in the best interest of our constituents, and my family, and I." She recommended that the Court appoint her assistant Patty Brennan to fill her unexpired term. Hunter completed 25 years of service in the County Auditors office in January 2012. County Fire Marshall Ray Fletcher recommended that the County institute a county-wide burn ban. His report on the Keetch-Byram Drought Index (KBDI) showed a high of 691 in the southwest portion of the County and a low of 501 in some small areas. The overall KBDI is 600. "But it is not just the KBDI," Fletcher noted. "The soil moisture is obviously much drier than we would prefer...We've been fortunate that we haven't had an extremely windy day with low humidity. When that day does get here, if things haven't changed, we are going to see some dramatic fires." He said that there is beginning to be fires from welding and cutting fires as well as fires that people don't keep an eye on. Commissioner B.C. Lem-

From the Desk of
Clay Richerson
Muenster ISD superintendent

Last month, the Muenster ISD Board of Trustees adopted the 2012-13 Budget. The budget was adopted as a balanced budget. The Board also discussed the 2012-13 Proposed Tax Rate and had a public meeting on the budget and proposed tax rate. The proposed tax rate for the 2012-13 school year Maintenance and Operation is $1.04, and the Interest in Sinking (debt) is $0.21. Last year's rates were $1.04 and $0.23.

Before the Bond election in March of 2011, using the appraised values at that time, the Interest in Sinking projections for the 2012-13 school year was $0.29, and $0.31 for 2013-14. What happened? Early appraised values for oil and gas increased over $90 million dollars from the previous year. The increase in values will generate enough funds at $0.21 to pay Muenster ISD's bond debt; therefore MISD's Board of Trustees is proposing a lower Interest in Sinking rate. The Tax Rate must be approved by Aug. 31.

If you have any questions, please call Clay Richerson, superintendent, at 759-2282.

Police Notes
from Muenster Chief of Police
Mark Blankenship

The first half of July resulted in two ARREST AND BOOKING of persons into the Cooke County Detention Center. There have been 36 CALLS FOR SERVICE responded to by the Police Department and as a result of those, four INCIDENT REPORTS have been generated and 21 CITATIONS have been issued.

As a reminder, it is an offense to use FIREWORKS within the city limits of Muenster. Also, as the heat of summer builds and the vegetation begins to dry out, fire danger is a potential problem.

Be a good neighbor and report any SUSPICIOUS ACTIVITY in your neighborhood. A crime-free environment is all of our responsibility.

it is up, the property tax rate goes down. The vote was a unanimous 5-0 when Judge Roane called for a vote on a proposed tax rate of .4520. On Thursday, Aug. 16 at 10 a.m. in the Commissioners Courtroom, the Court will hold a public hearing on the proposed budget. At that same time, the first of two public hearings takes place for the 2013 proposed tax rate. The second hearing is at 10 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 27 in the Commissioners Courtroom.

Clayton Fangman 1995 - 2012

Mass of Resurrection for Clayton Wayne Fangman, age 16 of Muenster, was celebrated at 10 a.m., Tuesday, July 24 at Sacred Heart Catholic Church Community Center in Muenster. Burial was in Sacred Heart Cemetery in Muenster. Services were officiated by Rev. Kyle Walterscheid and directed by McCoy Funeral Home of Muenster.

Clayton died as the result of an accident on Friday, July 20, 2012.
Born Aug. 8, 1995 in Gainesville, Clayton was one of the two children of Frank and Rhonda Fangman. He lived in Muenster all his life and attended Muenster Public School, having completed his junior year. He was an athlete, participating in football and baseball.

Clayton had a passion for hunting and fishing, especially with his father. He enjoyed times spent outdoors with his grandfathers on the farms. He will always be remembered for his winning smile and great personality, and will always be in the hearts of all who knew him.

Clayton is survived by his parents Frank and Rhonda Fangman of Muenster; his sister Natalie Fangman of Muenster; grandparents Wayne and Mary Kay Trubenbach of Muenster and Winston and Rosemary Fangman of Lindsay. He is also survived by several aunts, uncles, cousins, and a host of friends.

Assisting during the funeral Mass were altar servers Claire Schneider, Allie Walterscheid, and Brad Bezner. Bridget Anderle gave the First Reading. The Second Reading was given by Misty Hartman. Kim Hess read the Prayers of the Faithful. Offertory Gifts were brought up by Bridget Anderle. Serving as Eucharistic ministers were Valerie and Lonnie Henschel, Kristi Schneider, Kelly Huston, Lillian Hess, Mitch Creed, Chloe Schneider, Andi Hess, and Tudor Klement.

Music ministers were Doug Yosten, Jim Endres, Diane Grewing, Christi Klement, and Linda Flusche. Sacred songs included "Pilgrim Song," "The Lord Is My Light and My Salvation," "Only In God," "Softly and Tenderly," "Seek Ye First," "This Alone," "Songs of the Angels," and "I Am The Resurrection."

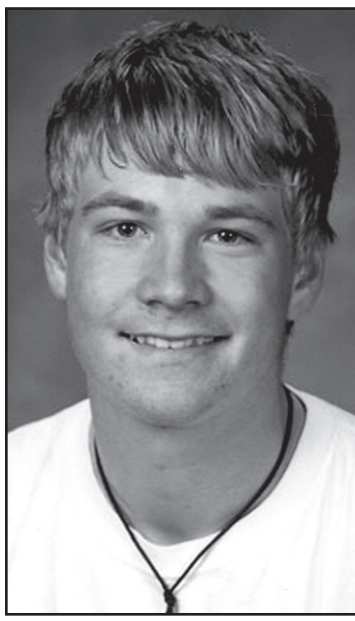

Cody Anderle gave the eulogy. He stated, in part, "Everybody that knew Clayton, loved him... the quiet and reserved Clayton or the mischievous boy who always had a smile on his face, he was a person who was very approachable... always had his friends' best interests in mind..."

"Clayton's smile! Oh what a smile! It was the kind that could touch anyone very deeply with just one simple glance... Clayton was a friend to all... taught us how powerful a smile can be, a friend can be, a son can be, a brother can be, and a grandson can be..."

During Mass, fellow football players in their jerseys and classmates processed in with the family and sat together as a group in honor of Clayton.

Pallbearers were Sam Hellinger, Nathan Martin, Cody Anderle, Justin Anderle, Darrell Hermes, and David Hutson. Honorary pallbearers were Jeff Klement and Jay Reed.

A Rosary service was held at 7 p.m. on Monday, July 23 in the Community Center. Following the service, family and friends gathered at the football field at Muenster ISD and released lighted, paper lanterns in memory of Clayton.

Clemens Reiter 1930 - 2012

Funeral services for Clemens Reynold "Rinks" Reiter were held Saturday, July 21 at the Midway Cemetery in Hawley, Texas at 10 a.m. with Keith Clifton officiating. A visitation was held Friday, July 20 at North's Memorial Chapel in Abilene from 5 to 7 p.m.

Clemens died at the age of 82 on July 18, 2012 at his home.

Born April 8, 1930 to Clemens Christopher and Frances Hoedebecke Reiter in Hereford, he moved with his family to Muenster in 1932. After graduating from Sacred Heart School in 1948, he served in the Air Force for six years. He then went back to school, graduating from North Texas College in Denton. He worked as an oil geophysicist until retirement. He worked in many of the states and also worked for two years each in Honduras and Greece. Following retirement, he raised miniature ponies and Brittany dogs to sell.

Clemens married Lucille Antonette Fagan on June 24, 1971 and lived in Hawley since that time.

Survivors include his wife Lucy; son Steve; two grandchildren; sister Mary Ann Arendt of Lindsay; and two brothers Bob Reiter of Post and Basil Reiter of Benson, Maryland.

He was preceded in death by his parents, sisters Elizabeth Reiter and Beatrice Knabe, and brother Leon Reiter.

Clyde Muller 1935 - 2012

Clyde Thomas Muller died Wednesday, July 18, 2012 at the age of 77. Mass of Christian Burial was held Saturday, July 21 at St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Catholic Church in Keller. Burial was in Bluebonnet Hills Memorial Park in Colleyville. Visitation was held July 20 at Shannon Rufe Snow Funeral Chapel.

Pallbearers were his grandsons Kyle Lain, Kevin Lain, Matt Brouse, Sam Brouse, Brandon Hoffman, and Austin Muller.

Presenting the gifts during Mass were his granddaughters Amber Hoffman, Rachel Lain, Bekah Brouse, Amy Muller, Ashley Muller, and Caitlin Hoffman.

Clyde was born April 21, 1935 in Muenster to Matthew and Angeline Muller. He had a very large and close-knit family. Clyde married Helen Hacker of Muenster on June 25, 1960. They moved to Bedford in 1967 where they raised their children. He retired from Menasco in 1997 after 30 years as a lab technician. He had currently been working for his daughter Renee's business Stitches for Fitness. Clyde was blessed to have the love and friendship of his fiancée Gloria Becker of Muenster for the past 15 years.

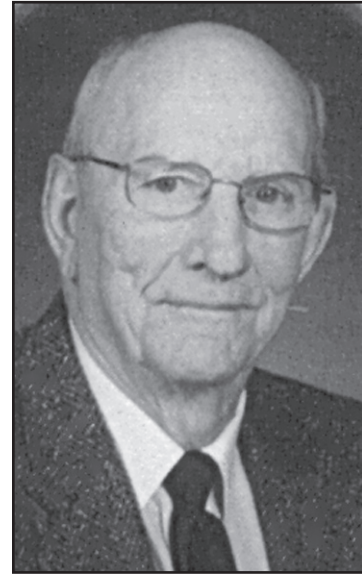

Clyde loved to fish, hunt, camp, and play the German card game Sheephead with his brothers and sisters. Mostly, he loved spending time with all his family and Gloria's family, including children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren. His first great-grandson was born in May of this year. Clyde was a regular at all his grandchildren's school and sporting activities. He was so much fun to be with that all his grandkids' friends enjoyed having him around and even nicknamed him "Old Salt."

He loved every minute of every day and never met a stranger. He lived his life as the best example of how we should live and care for each other.

Survivors include include Gloria Becker and family of Muenster; son Dale Muller of Alvarado; daughters and sons-in-law Debbie and David Lain, Vickie and Monty Brouse, and Renee and Scott Hoffman, all of North Richland Hills; six grandsons, six granddaughters, and one great-grandson; sisters and brother-in-law Jake Gehrig of Muenster and Jeanette and Pete Hellinger of Lindsay; brother and sister-in-law Donnie and Norma Muller of Denton; and many nieces, nephews, and friends.

He was preceded in death by his loving wife of 35 years, Helen Muller, in 1995; sisters Juanita Knabe, Rosalee Sturges, Eva Walterscheid, and Bertha Muller; and brother Arnie Muller.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests donations be made to Meals on Wheels of Tarrant County.

Springer and McKnight face off for Republican State representative nomination

Four candidates entered the race for the Republican nomination to State Representative, District 68. That race narrowed to two when results came in from the May 29 Primary. Trent McKnight of Throckmorton and Drew Springer of Muenster garnered the most votes, but neither got enough to be declared the winner. That race will be decided on July 31 with the Primary Run-Off.

Each candidate agreed to a written question and answer interview. The questions and their responses follow.

What are your qualifications for this position?

McKnight - As a lifelong rancher and businessman in Throckmorton, with bachelors and masters degrees in Economics and Politics, I am well qualified to meet the demands faced by rural Texas at our state's capitol.

I am past National President of the Future Farmers of America, regional director of the Texas Forts Trail, and former member of the Brazos River Authority. I have also served as an Agricultural Advisor to the U.S. Military in Iraq, to the United Nations in Africa, and Chairman of the USDA Beginning Farmers and Ranchers Committee.

Rural Texas, however, is my passion. Five years ago, I founded an organization and raised over five million dollars in my hometown for beautification and economic development purposes. We have torn down 45 blighted houses, crushed 150 cars, rebuilt the city swimming pool, and rebuilt crumbling infrastructure downtown. I want to see all rural communities thrive, and I am committed to that action.

Springer - I have real life/business experience and strong moral values.

I've been married for 21 years to Lydia Walterscheid and we've raised three kids here in Muenster. I'm active in the community as a volunteer fireman, member of Sacred Heart finance council, and have volunteered with almost every organization in town including the Booster Club, the Jaycees, the Knights of Columbus, and others. I know what it's like to make a mortgage and utility payment, to worry about healthcare for my children, to do a family budget at the kitchen table, and I'm the only one running who has had life experiences like you.

I worked during high school to buy my own car, a lesson I have taught my sons. I graduated UNT in 1988 with an Accounting degree and started with a railcar company where I worked my way up to a company controller, director of budgeting ($1 billion a year), Vice President of Leasing and Management with over 80,000 railcars, to eventually running three companies and having over 1,000 employees. Eight years ago, I joined my father in the financial service industry representing a leading agricultural company. I have been paid a pay check and I have paid thousands a paycheck.

Also, I know life starts at conception and has to be protected and that marriage is between one man and one woman. These two core beliefs are why I was endorsed by David Isbell over my opponent's other beliefs.

What is the biggest issue concerning the office you are running for today?

McKnight - I am a common sense conservative who believes in less government and lower taxes. I am pro-family and pro-life. The greatest concern for me, however, is the lack of rural representation in Austin.

Out of 150 House Districts in Texas, only two are totally rural. House District 68 is one of those rural districts. We must have a representative who understands our rural and agricultural issues. We must help the urban representatives understand why rural Texas is important to them.

Trent McKnight

Drew Springer

Rural Texans provide the food, fiber, and energy necessary for a healthy economy in Texas. Without these producers in rural Texas, the entire state will suffer. We need an advocate for rural and agricultural issues now more than ever in Austin.

Springer - Protecting rural Texas and the values we love. Texas was founded on hard work and limited government. We need an education system that works for us, one that offers vocational education for the students not going to college. Our kids need the opportunity to learn a skill that will be valuable to their rural community and give them the opportunity to stay in the town they grew up in rather than having to leave for the big city. Our schools need more local control, where the school board we elect can hold administrators accountable and they can hold the staff accountable. Washington and Austin run far too much of the daily activities and we need to allow our teachers to teach.

We have to create a strong environment for business in rural Texas. This is done best by reducing costly/unnecessary regulations that cost small companies (the majority of this district) unfairly more than the big companies of the urban area. We must keep taxes on businesses low or reduce them so companies can compete fairly against other states and countries. We need to create that local skilled workforce so businesses can expand when the opportunities arise.

Equally important is protecting our water from being taken by the big cities, and keeping it clean for generations to come. Ground water districts need to have the ability to look at

To the Editor

Dear Editor:

On Tuesday, July 31, there is an important runoff election for state representative in House District 68. Voters are encouraged to research the candidates and assess who will be the strongest supporter of public schools. Education finance will be a top priority in the 2013 legislative session, and rural schools need an advocate in Austin.

If there is no one to stand up for our schools at the Capitol, then the big city legislators will push for consolidation of school districts, eliminate finance formulas that help rural schools, or enact other programs harmful to our small town schools.

Your next state representative will be selected on July 31, not in November.

Your vote is critical in this election.

what is being sold/transferred so there is adequate supply for existing domestic and agricultural use.

Finally, as part of protecting our traditional beliefs, we must defend our Christian values of Pro-Life and traditional marriage. They have been under assault and the state government that rewards people for avoiding marriage and cheating the system must be stopped.

If elected, what do you hope to accomplish?

McKnight - Water, jobs, and schools are my top campaign priorities. We must continue to develop more water resources to meet the demands of a growing population. Texas will double in population by 2060. Leaders must take action today to insure that we have enough water to meet our agricultural, industrial, and municipal demand for tomorrow. We must also continue to strengthen our laws to protect a landowner's right to the water beneath his or her surface.

Public schools are in a financial bind in Texas. The entire finance system must be overhauled and rural Texas must have a seat at the table. We must maintain our independence as rural schools and run our rural schools the way we deem necessary. We must continue to promote career and technical education programs such as FFA for our students. Not all students plan to go to college, and we must make sure that our schools equip them with the necessary skills and trades to be productive citizens out of high school.

I am committed to rural programs that bring and create jobs for rural Texas. We don't want our hometowns to be large, but we do want them to thrive with opportunity. I am dedicated to this outcome.

Springer - I will represent the entire district and our rural values and needs. Additionally, I will make sure Muenster and the surrounding communities have that special attention that always comes from a local state representative, someone that can address local issues with schools, ranches, and businesses. I will attend various local events (it is a rare day to see Hardcastle in our area) and help promote local businesses to the rest of the state. I want to be known as the representative that didn't add 50 new laws for you to follow but the one that eliminates thousands for worthless regulations and that makes your life easier with the freedom we desire. I will work to greatly reduce the unfunded mandates that saddle our schools and communities. I will use my business background to let the other 149 representatives know that HD 68 is not just the most rural district in the state but one of the most productive districts for the state's bottom line. We produce over 20% of the state's agriculture, over 20% of its energy, and other businesses as well. We may be few in head count per acre but we drive the state. And in driving Texas, we produce the revenue that keeps the state moving. Our unique rural needs deserve to be met. We don't want hand-outs; we want the services we have paid for and we want the federal and state governments to get out of our way so we can prosper, for ourselves, and for generations to follow.

Sepanski and Ortega marry in Bronx, New York

Lauren Sepanski and Lorenzo Ortega were united in the Sacrament of Holy Matrimony in a Nuptial Mass at 11 a.m. on Monday, May 19, 2012, in The Blue Chapel at Fordham University in Bronx, New York. Celebrant was Father Martin Chase, S.J.

The bride is the daughter of Linda and Robert Sepanski of Muenster and the granddaughter of Imelda Rohmer and the late Arnold Rohmer and the late Hattie and Gus Sepanski.

The groom is the son of Drs. Victor and Arlene Ortega of Cortlandt Manor, New York, and the grandson of Amparo and Armando Del Rosario of Manila, Philippines, and Victoria and Santiago Ortega of Iriga City, Philippines.

Participants in the liturgy included the bride's sister Sara Sepanski proclaiming the First Reading, Jeremiah 31:31-32. Joanna Ortega, sister of the groom, read the Responsorial Psalm, taken from Psalm 148. Proclaiming the Second Reading, 1 Corinthians 12:31; 13:1-8a, was the bride's sister Kathryn Voth. The couple chose Matthew 22:35-40 for the Gospel reading. Prayers of the Faithful were read by the parents of the bride and groom.

Presenting the Offertory Gifts were the groom's brother Joaquin and his uncle Emmanuel Ortega. Christi Onion, Godmother of the bride, served as Eucharistic minister.

Honored to be witnesses for the exchange of vows were the couple's grandmothers Imelda Rohmer and Victoria Ortega.

For her dress, the bride chose a Boho-chic design in natural lace.

After Mass, the fifth-generation Italian restaurant Ann & Tony's, on Little Italy's Arthur Avenue, opened its doors exclusively for the reception. The selected five-course meal offered a choice of three main entrees.

The two-tiered chocolate marble wedding cake with vanilla buttercream frosting was embellished with pearls, with a yellow rose cascading off each tier. The cake held the porcelain bride and groom topper that had adorned the cake of the bride's grandparents Imelda and Arnold Rohmer on their wedding day 66 years ago.

After the reception, festivities continued with an after-glow party at the residence of the bride's cousin

Nicole McClendon in New York City.

A 2008 graduate of Sacred Heart Catholic School, Lauren graduated from Fordham University on May 19, 2012, with a B.A. in American Studies.

Graduating from Hendrick Hudson High School in Montrose, New York, in 2006, Lorenzo received his B.A. in International Political Economy from Fordham University in 2010 and his M.A. in International Political Economy and Development from Fordham on May 19, 2012.

The couple is now residing in Austin with future plans to pursue their doctoral studies.

Karissa Reiter graduates

Karissa Michelle Reiter graduated from Texas State University in San Marcos in the May ceremonies. Karissa received a Bachelor of Science in Biology with three minors, including Chemistry, Psychology, and Honors. Of the 8,000 graduates this spring, only 125 graduated through the Honors College.

As part of the University Honors Program, Karissa produced a thesis focused on creating recipes from the scientific effects of food on the mind and body. She was one of two students chosen by the University to present her research at the International Neuroscience Symposium held in Chicago, Illinois in March of this year.

As a result of her research, she was asked to be a part of a joint research grant between Texas State University and the University of Texas at Austin focusing on researching the use of omega 3 oils to prevent postpartum depression in place of prescription medications beginning this summer. Karissa accepted the invitation and has returned to Texas State University to do graduate work toward a Master's degree in Nutrition and to be a part of the omega 3 research project.

During her years at Texas State University, Karissa was very active serving in various clubs on campus including president of the Pre-Optometry Students Club for three years. She was a tutor on campus through the Slack Program for four years.

One of Karissa's favorite activities in college was being a member of the Texas State University track team for four years. She was on the 800 meter team continuously throughout her college career. She was also a member of the Texas State cross country team during this time.

A reception for Karissa was held at Grin's Restaurant in San Marcos following the graduation ceremony.

In attendance at Karissa's graduation were her parents Lloyd and Mary Reiter of Lindsay, and siblings Travis and Chisam Reiter. Her brother Austin was studying abroad in New Zealand for the semester and was unable to attend. Relatives who attended included Paul and LuAnn Kubis, Charlie and Peggy DiStefano, Paul, Susan, Mitchell, and Blake Reiter all of Houston. Karissa's Godparents Don and Kim Wiese and daughter Christina also attended. Several friends including Megan McFarland, Kara Maple, Amilee Green, and Jamie Carverry were in attendance.

Karissa is the granddaughter of Julius and Marcella Metzler of Lindsay and the late Wilfred and Polly Reiter.

Muenster FCCLA earns Silver at Nationals

Muenster ISD's FCCLA (Family, Career, and Community Leaders of America) organization sent a STAR (Students Taking Action with Recognition) Events team consisting of three juniors Shelby Klement, Mariah Rocha, and Jori Magee to Orlando, Florida for the FCCLA National Leadership Conference. Their hard work paid off with a silver medal for their presentation 'Teens with Dreams. Muenster's FCCLA Chapter Advisor Joni Sturm, Texas State FCCLA's VP of Competitive Events officer, and Muenster ISD Senior Brooke Walterscheid, and the mothers of the teammates accompanied the ladies on their trip.

The first day they arrived, July 7, was their only free day of vacation and they enjoyed one of Orlando's attraction sites known as Universal Studios: Islands of Adventure. They spent the rest of their time attending meetings, competing, and brushing up on their education for FCCLA.

On Tuesday, July 10, the team presented a manual they designed for the FACTS (Families Acting for Community Traffic Safety) program over teen driving, a competition in which they had previously placed first at the Region and State meetings. Their event was Chapter Service Project Manual and the service project, titled Teens with Dreams, was hosted in November at Muenster ISD. At the National Meeting, the girls proudly received silver medals for their presentation.

In preparation for the National Conference, the team had a bake sale during Germanfest to raise money, which they couldn't have done without the help of their families, friends, and Fischer's Meat Market. The community and school donated to and supported this accomplishment.

This was the first time Muenster FCCLA had a team to qualify for national competition and look forward to another trip next year as the FCCLA will be accepting new members to its chapter this fall. Attaining this accomplishment will help them tremendously as they apply for college scholarships in the near future. They hope to inspire other members to take on the challenges of STAR Events and to set goals for the new horizons to come.

Dill competes for Saint Jo Rodeo Queen honor

Paige Dill, 17 year old daughter of Kris and Marsha Dill of Lindsay, is competing for the title of Saint Jo Rodeo Queen. Paige is a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church and is a junior at Sacred Heart Catholic High School in Muenster. She has attended many Pro-Life activities, including the March for Life in Washington D.C. She loves playing and helping with her eight siblings and riding their horses every chance she gets.

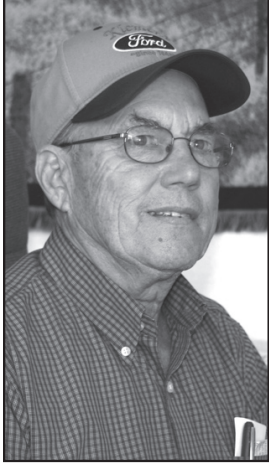

She and her family are current members of The Gainesville Riding Club and she was the 2006 Rodeo Princess for the Gainesville Chamber Rodeo. She is active in 4-H, has held the office of president of the Lindsay club, and has participated in projects such as Dairy Judging, Horse Judging, Calf Scramble, and Horse Shows. Paige also rode as a pivot with the Midnight Mustang drill team in the Gainesville Rodeo.

You can help Paige attain her dream of Saint Jo Rodeo Queen by purchasing a ticket from her. The rodeo is scheduled for Aug. 3 and 4. Call 940-736-7102 for tickets.

A Sacred Heart Parish Mission will take place this Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in Sacred Heart Community Center. Fr. Ron Boudreaux, pictured above, from Montserrat Retreat House in Lake Dallas will discuss "What Does God Want From Me?" Make plans to attend and give your faith a summer boost!

Busy couple teams up for CASA kids

Philip Miller is not someone folks would assume would have the time to be an advocate for abused and neglected children. He's an American Airline Pilot who is out of the country frequently. Yet he and his wife Marilyn have made the time to be a consistent presence in the life of one child who came into the child welfare system due to abuse or neglect. They are CASA volunteer advocates.

CASA Advocates (known as Court Appointed Special Advocates or CASA volunteers) are everyday people who make the time and volunteer to get involved in looking out for the best interests of abused and neglected children who find themselves in the child welfare system.

The letter below is their CASA story. "We were near to being empty nesters when we noticed an announcement in the newspaper with the little girl beside the trash bag asking the question 'is she waiting for you?' We had been actively involved in our children's lives, so we contacted the CASA office to get information about how we might help children in need. We were surprised to learn just how many children experience abuse and neglect right here in our county and how devastating the effects of drug and alcohol abuse by parents can be for children. CASA's kids are in difficult situations that they didn't cause and they can't fix. We decided we wanted to get involved in hopes we could make a difference for them.

"After we completed training, we were appointed to a case involving a very special little one. Due to circumstances beyond his control, he's had a tough time bonding, which is so important for every child. Through outings to the park and special activities, we have developed a close relationship with him.

"Over the last 14 months, he's been in five different homes and four different schools. The most difficult thing in this time has been seeing the emotions that he's experienced - especially when he had to be removed from a parent's care a second time. It was tough to see his disappointment he felt. The adjustments have been very difficult for him.

"We've had the privilege to support and encourage him. Every child needs to know how special they are. We love being able to help him to see just how special he is. We will continue to be an active part of his life until he finds a safe, loving, and forever family."

The Millers are one of three couples who currently act as advocates for the abused and neglected children CASA of North Texas serves. CASA is a Cooke County United Way Agency.

To be a CASA volunteer, one must be over the age of 21, have a clear CPS background and clean criminal history, and have about 10 to 15 hours a month to devote to working a case. Most of the time required is easily worked around the volunteer's schedule, with the exception of court hearings and meetings that are scheduled well in advance and occur only every few months. Thirty-three hours of initial training and 12 hours of annual in-service training are required, which CASA provides. Beyond that, the only requirement is a commitment to remain with a case through the time it closes, which could be as long as 18-24 months.

Today, there are 18 Cooke County children who need a CASA volunteer. If you'd like to be there for a child in the same way that the Millers have, please contact the CASA office at 940-665-2244 or email sbutler@casant.org.

FIRE

blaze on an oil lease near CR 424 on July 18. Chief Knabe noted that the people involved were taking precautions and had water available in the event of a fire. They were unable to contain the flames without the aid of the fire department. Flames blackened about an acre.

A couple of acres burned on Fetsch property along CR 428 on July 17. Knabe said a fuse on a power line ignited that fire.

Chief Knabe remarked that already this year, three fires on the western side of Cooke County were sparked by a rotary hay cutter.

Lawn mowers have the potential to ignite grass fires also. He said that about two weeks ago, there was a grass fire started by a lawn mower hitting a rock.

Caution is urged when doing anything outdoors that could result in a fire.

ons said he's close, but not yet ready to see a burn ban. County Judge John Roane favored the ban and made a motion to instate the ban. He got only silence and the motion died for lack of a second.

The Court agreed to continue charging an optional $10 fee to the current registration fees collected by the Cooke County Tax Assessor Collector. The fee must be approved each year. Of the $10, 97% goes to Cooke County and 3% goes to the State for printing of the fee, said Tax Assessor Collector Billie Jean Knight

In other business conducted at the July 23 meeting, Commissioners Court:

- Declared July 21-28 as Rodeo Gainesville Week.
- Approved Phase II of the architect contract for EMS Station I.

- Approved new rates for medical, dental, and basic life insurance through Texas Association of Counties (TAC) Health and Employees Benefits Pool. Commissioner Al Smith noted that it is becoming prohibitive in cost for the employees to take out the insurance for their families.

- Approved the renewal of the non-fiduciary agreement between Abigail's Arms and Cooke County Sheriff's Office, to provide mutual aid and support to victims of violence.

- Approved donations to the Cooke County Library in the amount of $25 for research from Donald Tayloe, $100 in memory of Essie McWilliams from Todd and Lynn McWilliams, and $14 from Evelyn Thornhill.

- Approved the 2013 Holiday Schedule.

- Approved the annual renewal of the Health Services Agreement between Cooke County and Robert R. McLeRoy, M.D., Lake Kiowa Medical Clinic to begin Aug. 11, 2012 through Aug. 11, 2013.

- Accepted a monetary donation in the amount of $55,000 for the paving of CR158 and CR159.

POLICY

presentation by each speaker. Speakers may be interrupted by the Board chairman at his or her discretion if the chair deems the comments to be inappropriate or inflammatory. The District will not discriminate among speakers for or against a particular point of view. A member of the public is permitted to raise a topic that has not been included in the notice for the meeting, but any discussion of the subject shall be limited to a proposal to place the subject on the agenda for future meetings.

It also noted that if, at a meeting of the District, a member of the public or of the District inquires about a subject for which notice has not been given as required by the Act, the prior notice provisions of the Act do not apply to:

(2) the manner in which the recording is conducted.

Also, approved following the executive session. President Weinzapfel announced that a special committee had been formed to establish incentive goals for Administrator Kent to accomplish during Fiscal Year 2013 ending June 30, 2013. Members of that committee are the three Board officers Weinzapfel, Don Richardson, and John Aytes along with Bob Ambrose. Ambrose agreed to consult with Board member Mary Del Olmo to bring her thoughts to the committee. Only four members are allowed on a committee to avoid forming a quorum of the Board.

Administrator Michael

Kent explained that over the past year, 63 employees did not visit the MMH Family Clinic and 59 did use it. To reward employees covered by health insurance for utilizing services offered at MMH's Family Health Clinic and at the Hospital, and to increase revenues in those specific service areas, the Board adopted a new policy.

The new policy waives the co-pay up to the current co-pay rate of the Muenster Hospital District insurance plan for Muenster Hospital District employees and insured dependents if the staff utilizes the services offered at either of those places.

In the Administrator's report, Kent said that the Muenster Pharmacy is accepting all insurance companies at this time. There are minor problems with Medicaid PBM, but all other Medicaid claims are working.

Work began on the installation of a new generator on July 16. Kent anticipates its completion in three weeks.

The first Wound Care Clinic took place on July 12 with two patients. More are scheduled for the next clinic.

The Board approved June Bad Debt Write Off totaling $46,357.58.

Line choice critical in summertime

Observers wonder why tournament angler Todd Faircloth often has three or four rods lying on his boat deck, each rigged with the same lure, but what they don't realize is that while the lures are alike, the veteran Yamaha Pro has rigged them with different types and weights of lines. As bass begin moving deeper and tighter to summer cover, Faircloth knows choosing the proper line for the conditions he's fishing can be critical to his success.

"Few issues today confuse bass fishermen more than line choices," says Faircloth, "especially since now we have to pick not only the line weight but also the line type, too. Years ago, all we had was monofilament, but today we also have braided and fluorocarbon lines, and I use all three types practically every day.

"Each line has distinct characteristics, so over the years I've determined which lines I like best for the types of fishing I do. I spent a lot of time on the water comparing lines, and I think it's something every serious bass fisherman needs to do."

Perhaps the hardest fishing line decision Faircloth made was to stop using monofilament. He'd been fishing that line for more than two decades, but now he uses mono only when he's making short casts to specific shallow targets like docks and brush, or underneath overhanging tree limbs and branches.

"With that type of fishing, I use a topwater popping plug almost exclusively," the Yamaha Pro continues, "and because I'm making short casts in fairly open water and want a lot of lure action, I tie the popper with a loop knot that works best with monofilament line. I also need more stretch in the line to absorb my hook-set at close range, and 15-pound monofilament provides that better than fluorocarbon or braided line, neither of which have much stretch at all."

While braided line does not stretch, it does offer other advantages Faircloth likes when he's flipping plastic worms and creature baits into heavy vegetation. Braided lines are extremely strong despite their small diameter, and will literally cut through hydracinths and hydrilla if a big bass runs after being hooked. Even though he uses 50-pound test braid, the line is also very sensitive, so Faircloth feels strikes easier.

"I also use braided line when I'm fishing lipless crankbaits, because I can make longer casts to cover more water," he adds, "and since this type of line has no stretch, I will usually get a good hookset even when a bass hits at the end of one of those long casts."

"I also like braided line with the lipless crankbaits because I normally fish them right over the top of shallow vegetation, and if the lure gets snagged, I can rip it free and just keep reeling. I use 30-pound braid, too, so it isn't going to break."

Make adjustments to catch more fish

I was fishing recently with my friends John Peterson and Chip Leer. John and Chip are both outstanding multi-species anglers. On this day, we were chasing largemouth bass. The events of that day reminded me what successful anglers need to do to catch fish on a regular basis. Here's how our morning on the water went.

We were fishing a natural lake that has clear water and a small river coming in and going out. The lake has an excellent population of largemouth bass.

We started out fishing the deeper reeds with spinnerbaits and swimming jigs. The bass are usually in areas like that on that lake this time of the year. Today a few were: In fact, Chip caught a nice one on his third cast. However, action wasn't as good as we thought it should have been. We caught a few bass in the deeper reeds, but not many. We checked the shallow reeds, caught none and didn't see much for signs of life from bass or baitfish. We kept moving.

Next we tried some shallow sloppy cover near where the river came in. We threw Jaw-Breaker spoons mostly, as Jaw-Breakers are excellent spoons in the slop. They stay on top well and slither through the vegetation. We had a couple blow-ups on the spoons, but nothing too serious. We started scratching our heads trying to figure out what our next move should be. We decided to make a short trip up the river. We didn't know if they would be there, and none of us had been up that river before. However, we knew they weren't where we thought they would be, and when that happens it's usually a good idea to try something different. The trip up the river was different, and it was productive. Big time productive!

The river was only about 30 feet wide, six feet in the deepest, and had some color in the water. There were cut-banks and shoreline cover. We caught a bass right away, and after that the action was good. Not fast, but good, certainly much better than we had been experiencing out on the lake.

We continued to throw spinnerbaits and spoons. We were working the baits with the current. Some spinnerbaits don't work well when fished with the current, but the hardware on Reed-Runner spinnerbaits enable the blade to turn even when they're worked slowly or when worked with the current.

We caught fish from the middle of the river and some attacked our baits from the cover of the cut-banks. We continued upstream until the water got too shallow to float our boat.

Why were the bass in the river and not out on the lake locations where they were supposed to be? The river water was warmer by about five degrees, that might have been the reason.

The water had a little more color to it, which contributed to the warmer water and also reduced light penetration. That could also be a reason.

Or, maybe, the bass just didn't know they were supposed to be somewhere else. Oftentimes fish are pretty predictable and behave the way they are expected to. Sometimes though, they just do things differently than we think they will. Outstanding anglers like John Peterson and Chip Leer know that when you're not catching them in a certain place or on a particular bait, you need to go somewhere else or try a different style of bait. If you keep that in mind, you'll catch more fish more often.

-- Bob Jensen, The Fishing Wire

For essentially all his other types of fishing, including using jigs, deep diving crankbaits, Texas and Carolina rigs, and even drop-shots, the Yamaha Pro prefers fluorocarbon line. Fluorocarbon is extremely sensitive, has less stretch than monofilament, and is practically invisible under water. Since fluorocarbon also sinks, crankbaits dive slightly deeper, and plastic worms are easier to keep on the bottom.

"This is when people see me with several rods rigged with the same lure," laughs Faircloth, "because I'm using different line weights to determine which performs best for that particular type of fishing. Normally, I use 15-pound test fluorocarbon most often, but in deeper water with smaller lures and finesse-style presentations I will go as light as 6-pound line, while in heavy cover I may use 25-pound line. There is a lot of difference between 6, 8, and 10-pound fluorocarbon line, so I rig them all to see which I prefer under the conditions I'm fishing."

"Fluorocarbon line had been in use in saltwater fishing for a number of years before it was introduced in bass fishing," concludes the Yamaha Pro, "and honestly, I was not impressed with the first fluorocarbon lines I tried. Since then, manufacturers have made a lot of improvements in them, and today these lines are a critical part of my fishing."

FARM & RANCH

As drought, heat show importance of Risk Management Programs, ASA calls on House to pass Farm Bill

As worsening drought conditions continue to envelop more than half of the United States, the American Soybean Association (ASA) is pointing to the Farm Bill currently stalled and awaiting debate by the full House of Representatives as an essential means of ensuring the continued coverage of American farmland through crop insurance and risk management, as well as disaster assistance programs.

"As conditions deteriorate throughout much of rural America and the outlook for farmers becomes bleaker and bleaker, we are reminded that farming is subject to so many elements and risks outside of the farmer's control. This further emphasizes the need for programs to help farmers manage risks in order to stay viable and plant next year," said ASA President Steve Wellman, a soybean farmer from Syracuse, Neb.

Currently, 85% of soybean acres in the United States are covered by crop insurance, however Wellman says that it should not be misconstrued as a profit center for farmers. "Just as when homeowners insurance replaces valuables following a flood or a fire, crop insurance only covers farmers in the event of a significant loss," he said. "These policies often have deductibles or loss levels at 25% or more. They aren't there to turn a profit; they exist to help farmers survive and keep farming."

Wellman added that the current conditions point directly to the benefits provided by revenue-based risk management programs. "Revenue-based risk management tools that complement crop insurance ensure that farmers who suffer a crop loss—and accompanying revenue loss—receive the assistance they need to remain viable," he said. "In contrast, a target price-based program would provide no assistance to farmers affected by the drought since it would activate only if prices are low and then only on actual production."

"For these reasons and countless others," Wellman said, "ASA calls on Speaker Boehner and House leadership to schedule floor time to consider and pass a farm bill so that it can be conferred with the Senate and a new farm bill can be enacted this year."

Additionally, Wellman, who is also a cow-calf producer, noted the importance of the bill's disaster assistance provisions to American livestock producers, who are tied closely to soybean farmers. "Our colleagues in the livestock industry, who depend on soybeans as a steady source of protein-rich feed, are facing an extremely difficult challenge," he said. "The disaster assistance provisions in the farm bill will provide these key soy allies with the disaster assistance they need this year."

"The policies that the House and Senate Agriculture Committees worked to include in the farm bill will help farmers deal with the drought, the heat and the galaxy of other real-world risks that agriculture faces," added Wellman. "It is imperative that the House acts immediately on the farm bill so that these programs can continue to benefit American agriculture."

House Agriculture passes FARRM in committee

The House Agriculture Committee soared through the commodity title and, as expected, spent the most time debating amendments in the nutrition title. In the end, nearly 100 amendments were considered, and the measure passed 35-11. NSP staff and representatives remained highly engaged during the process both on Capitol Hill and at home, working to ensure the best policy options for sorghum producers were met. All-in-all, NSP is extremely pleased with the bill and released the following statement commending its passage:

National Sorghum Producers praises action taken by the House Agriculture Committee to mark up and pass the Federal Agriculture Reform and Risk Management Act (2012 Farm Bill) by a vote of 35-11.

"NSP is very pleased with the hard work and leadership provided by Chairman Lucas and Ranking Member Peterson to pass a very good farm bill out of committee," said J.B. Stewart, NSP Legislative Committee chairman. "We hope Congress will build on this momentum and move this critical policy forward to enactment as soon as possible."

"Today marked an important step forward in the development of the next farm bill," said House Agriculture Committee Chairman Frank Lucas (R-Okla.).

FARRM eliminates farm program direct payments, as did the version of the farm bill approved by the Senate last month. The House Agriculture Committee's bill cuts $12 billion more from food stamps than the Senate bill. It also includes a number of crop insurance programs for farmers affected by bad weather and natural disasters, as does the Senate version.

The bill achieves substantial budget savings but maintains balanced and solid protection for America's farmers and ranchers.

County Agent's Report

Grasshoppers

Nearly everyone with rural property, those who are trying to maintain a landscape, and those with crops or pastures, are forced with making the decision to chemically treat for grasshoppers or to let them eat everything in sight!

Home yards and gardens in rural areas that are surrounded by range or pastures are subject to invasion by grasshoppers from those areas. Irrigated yards and gardens are very attractive to grasshoppers during the heat of the dry summer months.

The best way to control grasshoppers in this situation is to prevent them from ever entering the yard. That can best be accomplished by treating the surrounding range and pasture lands. If preventative control is not possible, the best alternative is to make a border treatment around the yard and garden. Generally, grasshoppers move across areas in 'jumps' as they search for suitable food.

A homeowner can slow or block their movement by treating all vegetation in a band or border perimeter around the yard and/or garden with an insecticide. Border treatments that are wider provide more effective control. Directly spraying the plants that need to be protected will provide a last line of defense.

However, none of the insecticides will totally prevent damage from large grasshoppers because they have to do some feeding to pick up enough insecticide to die. Additionally, even the pesticides with the longest lasting residues will have to be sprayed at three-to four day intervals when large numbers of large grasshoppers are constantly invading a landscape.

Esfenvalerate, Cyfluthrin, and Lambda-cyhalothrin are some of the more effective active ingredients to control grasshoppers. Using products that contain one of these ingredients will help homeowners achieve the best control.

In pastures and cropland, there is no doubt that economic damage is occurring in numerous locations. Texas A&M Grasshopper control publication E-209, lists a grasshopper infestation of 15 hoppers per square yard in a field as severe. I have walked across many fields recently where the grasshoppers appear to be five times that!

If a producer is interested in seeing what options they have for chemically protecting what forage they have left, they can consult the publication I mentioned earlier at <https://agrilife-bookstore.org/>. Then simply type E-209 into your search.

The infestation level has many wondering what they can do to try to minimize next year's invasion. They can start with summer weed control in fallow fields. This accomplishes two objectives: (1) if eggs are already in the field, there will be nothing for small nymphs to feed on when eggs hatch; and (2) fields will not be attractive to egg-laying adults since there is nothing on which to feed. Eliminate tall grass and weeds from around those plants you wish to protect (e.g., crops, trees, and gardens). This reduces food sources so grasshoppers are not attracted to these areas, exposes grasshoppers to greater predation from birds, etc., and makes these areas less attractive for egg laying.

Hopefully, next year these insects will not be such a problem!

THE NEW GAINESVILLE LIVESTOCK AUCTION, LLC.

www.gainesvillevivestock.info

Sold at Friday's sale July 20 there were 1165 cattle sold, compared to 2145 the previous sale. Sold at Tuesday's sale July 17 were 329 Goats, 233 Sheep, and 295 Hogs, compared to last week - 326 goats, 99 sheep, and 329 hogs.

Calf market steady on worked and vaccinated calves. Fleishy bull and heifer calves that's not been worked, 3-5 lower due to the heat causing major health issues starting them. Look for the market to follow to the cattle futures in upcoming weeks. Higher corn means cheaper calves. I highly suggest working your calves to try and make them the most appealing when you bring them to sale.
