Streets discussed by City Council

Janet Felderhoff
News Editor

Repair of and parking on City streets were addressed by the Muenster City Council at the regular meeting held on Monday, June 2.

City Administrator Stan Endres reported that he presented two different proposals on street repairs. The difference was that Plan A consisted of Second Street being redone from Walnut to Mesquite (8,235 square yards) and Plan B has Second Street being redone from Walnut to Hickory (3,391 square yards). The other two projects are Third Street from Walnut to Sycamore (4,927 sq. yards) and Sycamore from Cross to Eddy (1,705 sq. yards). All three streets would be covered with tack oil and then with two inches of type D hot mix asphalt. There are also 21 locations scattered throughout the City for an approximate total of 1,226 square yards that will require tack oil and two inches of hot mix.

Only two companies, A-1 Asphalt and Bolen Construction, submitted bids. All proposals were higher than the amount budgeted this year for street repairs. Only Bolen bid on Proposal B which had the least square yardage. That proposal from Bolen was $180,995. The consensus was that Proposal A was out of reach this year, being way above the budget.

Endres said that there is about $177,000 remaining in the budget for paving and patching streets. To spend more, they would have to increase the budget.

Street Commissioner Greg Bohl wondered if Bolen might consider giving the City a deal on the paving projects for Proposal B by absorbing a portion of the cost. "I would hate to see an increase in the budget," he stated.

Bohl made a motion to counter to Bolen with Proposal B to match the City's budgeted amount of $177,000 for the entire job. The entire Council voted in favor of the motion. Endres agreed to contact Bolen.

Parking in the 100 block of Main Street is causing some problems. Bohl stated, "I've noticed that we've got some

Interior repairs begin at Sacred Heart Church

Pews were removed from Sacred Heart Catholic Church earlier this week, most loaded on trailers to be given to Fr. Kyle Walterscheid for the future St. John Paul II University Church in Denton. The need for floor repairs in the 60 year old Sacred Heart Church led to the purchase of new pews (instead of restoration). Church services will be held in the Community Center until the work is complete later this summer. Volunteer workers included Chris Dangelmayr and Daniel Hesse, pictured above.

Muenster High School graduates 36 seniors

Janet Felderhoff

Muenster High School's commencement exercise was held on Friday, May 30 at 7 p.m. in the Muenster Hornet Gymnasium. The 36 graduates processed in to "Pomp and Circumstance."

Members of the graduating Muenster High Class of 2014 were Hannah Rose Bayer, Kendi Isabel Bayer, Mason Edward Binder, Austin Price Creswell, Garrett Michael Dangelmayr, Jared Raymond Endres, Jace Chandler Fredrick, Eland Cole

Green, Ashley Nichole Hammer, Lawrence Dean Haverkamp, Darrell Joe Hermes, Clayton Arthur Hess, Erin Claire Hess, Sydney Leigh Huchton, David Bradley Hutson, Shelby Christine Klement, Madison Renee Knabe, Reagan Ashby Knightstep, Jori Ann Magee, Garrett Mac Miller, Colton Lynn Moseley, Eliska Nemcova, Abigail Dianne Pagel, Jaisal Prakash Patel, Jonathan Daniel Pierce, Jared Michael Porter, Makayla Rose Pumphrey, Mariah Ann Rocha, Adrien Marie Rohmer, Octavio Saldana III, Alyssa Jo Schinigo, Austin Henry Schroeder, Shelbi Lynn Sicking, Clint Parker Sidwell, Audrey Carroll Taylor Saavedra, and Cole Aaron Walterscheid.

Shelbi Sicking offered the invocation. Muenster High Principal Jason Atcheson introduced the Muenster ISD Board of Trustees and administration.

Austin Creswell introduced Salutatorian Hannah Bayer.

Hannah began by thanking every one for coming to their graduation. "We are a small class, but our hearts are large," she said.

"What we have been through has been hard. But we have always been told that God will not permit things to happen that He cannot bring good from....I feel that some of this good comes in the form of lessons we learn from what happens to us."

Hannah said that within the last few months, two of their classmates have lost parents. "I learned from their experiences that I must not take my parents and other loved ones for granted," she remarked. "And I have learned that each day with our loved ones is precious and I should make the most of them."

From another classmate Hannah learned the meaning of determination and hard work. She noted, "The life lesson she has taught me is one of the most important I will ever learn. She taught me that even the greatest obstacles can be overcome if I have the desire and determination to do it. And her experience has helped me to learn that the power of prayer should never be underestimated."

Hannah also said she learned that having fun can be a good thing. The value of competition in the class room as well as in sports motivated her to try harder because she didn't want to be left behind. They have also taught her the value of friendship. "When times get tough, as they will in all lives, friends are invaluable," said Hannah.

In conclusion Hannah noted, "Because of you, my classmates, the words to a chant that we heard often during our high school days, will always echo in my head and in my heart. WE, WE BELIEVE, WE BELIEVE THAT, WE BELIEVE THAT WE, WE BELIEVE THAT WE WILL WIN."

MISD Boards elects officers

Janet Felderhoff

Canvassing of votes from the May 10 School Board Election was the first order of business at the Wednesday, May 14 Muenster ISD Board of Trustees meeting. The Board approved the results.

Newly elected Board trustees Doug Hermes and Matt Sicking took their oaths of office with Notary Linda Flusche conducting the ceremony.

Election of officers took place. Neal Flusche nominated Steve Trubenbach for Board president and Mel Walterscheid nominated Neal Flusche for vice-president. Neal Flusche nominated Kim Walterscheid for secretary. All three were elected by proclamation.

FCCLA STAR event participants were recognized by FCCLA sponsor Joni Sturm. Bailey Anderle, Paige Saucer, and Megan Rohmer placed fourth place team overall in Chapter In Review. They medaled and received a plaque. Erin Schniederjan, Jenna Sicking, and Alaina Kubis did Chapter Service Project Manual and took first place. She commented, "We were so proud of them because they went in there with no experience. They were competing against schools of all classifications 5A down to 1A. They are also advancing to National competition and that's three in a row now." The senior team of Mariah Rocha and Makayla Pumphrey won third place team. Jori Magee served as State vice president of Peer Involvement this year. Sturm remarked, "I just wish more Muenster folk could have been there to see her leading the 3,000 kids in the delegation at the State meeting. She did a beautiful job. She did a very good job and received a letter of commendation from the State advisor about the good job that she did and how she represented Muenster this year."

Superintendent Clay Richerson reported that Muenster ISD will again be Chapter 41 for the 2014-15 school year.

Following an executive session, the Board approved Kristin McCoy as a certified teacher with a 10 month, one year probationary contract.

In other business the Board of Trustees:

- Approved the Texas Kids 1st Student Insurance at a price of $19,005 for the 2014-15 school year.
- Approved contact from TASB for Risk Management at a cost of $22,711 for 2014-15.
- Approved contract with Freeman, Shaperd, and Story for $23,000 as the financial auditors for the 2014-15.
- Approved student transfers at the discretion of the MISD Transfer Committee.
- Approved calendar for the 2014-15 school year.

booming business in Muenster which is fantastic. Everybody loves that, but with that comes some issues that we as City Council need to address. One of those is parking in the 100 block."

The problem is truck with trailers that park double on Main Street. This causes a hazard when a truck with a long trailer pulls along the curb and another pulls beside it. This causes Main Street to be narrower in that area and also causes a safety hazard for people who walk in and out between the vehicles. "The concern is that somebody will get hit by walking around vehicles when they start parking like that," noted Bohl. There is usually enough room on First Street for trucks with trailers to parallel park, said Bohl.

Stripping parking spots on Main Street would be a solution or putting up signage another.

Police Chief Mark Blankenship agreed that there is a parking problem there that has been ongoing since he's been in Muenster. He thought that signs and stripping would be necessary because of TxDOT rules.

Chief Blankenship said that they've attempted to address the problem a couple of times, but it is difficult because there is nothing designated there. He said that at times there is a problem with parking on the west side of the street by Ace Hardware. At times, the sidewalk will be blocked. The handicapped area in that location is also blocked at times.

Further discussion included the possibility of stripping more than just the 100 block of Main. Some felt it should be done all the way to the Catholic church.

Who would do the stripping was discussed. Muenster does not have the special paint required or the equipment.

The issue was tabled while Administrator Endres tries to locate a contractor and see what the cost might be to get the stripes done.

Mayor Anderson administered the oath of office to Aldermen Pat Stelzer, Jewel Otto, and Greg Bohl. Their current terms expired in May and all filed to serve another two-year term. Since nobody filed against them, the election was canceled and all will serve another term.

Betty Felderhoff will be honored for her many years of service as a volunteer at the Muenster Public Library. She began her service as a volunteer there in 1974. On June 21 from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Betty will be honored with a come and go reception at the Muenster Library where she continues to volunteer.

Otto remarked of Felderhoff, "She has been a faithful volunteer."

In gratitude for her service, the City Council proclaimed June 2, 2014 as Betty Felderhoff Recognition Day. The proclamation read in part, "Betty Felderhoff is a dedicated, hardworking, and loyal volunteer. The City of Muenster, its citizens, and the City Council would like to show its appreciation to Betty for her many hours of dedicated service."

"I, Joey Anderson, mayor of Muenster, do hereby recognize and declare June 2, 2014 as a day of recognition, dedication, and appreciation of Betty Felderhoff for all the hours she has given the City of Muenster through her work at the Muenster Library; and I call this observation to the attention of all our citizens."

The Council also approved a proclamation designating

June as Domestic Violence Awareness Month in Cooke County. Kelly Kirby, and Christine Weinzapfel attended the meeting to tell the Council about Abigail's Arms and the mission to educate people about domestic violence.

Fiore addressed the Council, "The 2013 Domestic Violence Awareness Month was a success. We know this because Abigail's Arms usually helps 30-35 new clients every month, but in June last year during Domestic Violence Awareness Month, we saw 53 new clients. Therefore, we know raising awareness is effective."

She then shared some successes that occurred from June 2013 to now. They included: trained 118 agents of change, the beginning level of volunteer training; had 56 agents become advocates, a training of more than 40 hours each; partnered with a professional life coaching program in training life coaches, that allows one-on-one interaction with clients; began Sexual Assault Response Team (SART); started office assistants volunteer program; started Balance of the Bully Program and visiting area schools to teach students to watch for warning signs, be careful when there is unhealthy relationships, skills on how to deal with bullies, and dating violence red flags; started a batterers intervention prevention program in Cooke County to provide group therapy for perpetrators; in 2014, moved staff into a 9,000 square foot shelter facility; in 2014, their staff and volunteers logged over 104 training hours in preparation of opening the Shelter.

Fiore noted that Abigail's Arms welcomed its first residential clients as of that day (Monday).

Mayor Anderson inquired about the cost of the new facility. Weinzapfel said the cost of the building was approximately $1.4 million. They raised and had in-kind donations totaling approximately $2 million. "The extra money is to get us going, get us started, get more programs on board so that we can help these clients as needed."

"We are completely debt free," remarked Fiore.

During his monthly report on the Police Department, Chief Blankenship said, "The City and the Police Department are aware of numerous locations in the City that have junk and trash in an unsightly and improper manner. Beginning Monday, we will start issuing citations for those locations and have them bring it to court. If they've cleared the problem before court, have them bring that evidence or have the Police Department recheck it and request leniency from the court. Asking time is over, we are going to start issuing citations." There are 15 to 20 places that need correction, he said.

Bohl said what is the most prevalent citation that he sees or hears. Blankenship said speeding was the most often abused problem and that it occurs more in the City than on Hwy. 82. Running stop signs is the next issue as people ignore them or forget they are there.

Administrator Endres said TxDOT Area Engineer Mike Hallum reported that they had done a traffic count on Hwy. 82 in Muenster. He said there was not enough traffic to justify another traffic light in Muenster on Hwy. 82. This was done at the Council's request because of concern by residents who have problems crossing the highway at certain times of the day.

Both the Texas Municipal League and the Greater Texoma Utility Authority reported recently on surveys done of water and sewer rates charged by various cities. Endres said that Muenster was below the state average on both water and sewer rates. In other business, the Council:

- Approved a pay increase of $50 a month as is normal for employee Jean Holder. He recently passed his test for a Class C ground water operator license,
- Approved payment of monthly bills totaling $134,669.90.

Walter "Duke" Fette 1941 - 2014

Walter "Duke" Fette, age 72 of Rockford, WA died May 28, 2014 at Fairfield Care in Fairfield, WA.

Duke is survived by his wife Ruthie Fette; brother Ron Fette; sisters Anna Grace (Bill) Tilger, Carol Fette, Pat (Larry) Wimmer, and Debbie (Doyle) Hess; along with numerous nieces and nephews, long-time family friends, and the Longhorn crew.

He was preceded in death by his brothers John and Ed Fette.

Duke was born in Muenster on Aug. 20, 1941. He graduated from Muenster High School on May 22, 1959. Shortly after he graduated, he decided to join the Navy on Dec. 10, 1959. After six years in the Navy, Duke hitchhiked to Airway Heights, WA in 1965. From there, he started working for his cousins, the Lehnertz brothers, at the Longhorn Barbecue. In the early 1980s, Duke moved to Rockford, where he loved to ride and train his horses. Eventually, Duke bought the Longhorn; he lived to work. Duke ran Longhorn Catering that ran from Idaho, Montana, and all over Washington.

He finally decided to retire in 2003, although retirement to Duke was enjoying every moment he could on his farm, whether it was stacking hay, riding his horses, tending to his cows, or even just enjoying the view from his John Deere Tractor. Duke enjoyed life everyday living in the country.

A celebration of Duke's life will be held at Spokane

Two men who posed as electric company employees robbed an elderly woman of her jewelry Friday morning. She wants people to be aware of the danger that could happen to others.

The woman had just returned from town when two men came to her door claiming she had a short in her wiring that was registering on the computer at the office and they were there to fix it.

One man put his hand on the breaker box and pretended he had received a shock. They told her it could cause a spark that would catch fire and possibly burn her house down. That was all she needed to hear to grant them access to her home.

Most people do not know that generally a fuse box will not shock you. Rarely does it happen that a wire may become worn and make contact.

The men went from room to room turning on lights and asking her if any lights were flickering. They then went into her attic. When the men came down, they were carrying a wire and claimed a mouse or squirrel ate through it. They said the problem had been fixed and left.

When she found the jewelry missing, she immediately thought of the two men. Since her electric provider was Cooke County Electric, the family called them to find out that the Electric Coop had no one in the area that day and they would never go into a customer's house.

Adam Taylor at the service center at Cooke County Electric said their servicemen do not go into the homes.

"Anything on the customer side of the meter is not our responsibility," Taylor said. "We have no way to check if there are problems in the member's home."

The Coop technicians always identify themselves and always have a uniform on with the company name on either a hat or shirt. The company logo will also be on the side of the truck.

"If in doubt, they can always shut and lock their door, call our office, and ask if we have anyone working there," Taylor advised. "The office will know."

Weather Whys - Sun

Q: Does being near so much water affect Florida's rate of sunshine?

A: It does have an effect, Brent McRoberts of Texas A&M University said, "Because of its southern location and the fact that much of the state is surrounded by water, it means that Florida gets a lot of rain, and of course, when it rains you won't have as much sunshine." Florida gets more thunderstorms than any other state. And because Florida is in the subtropics, the rays of sun it gets tend to be very strong, which is one reason why it ranks among the top five states in the incidence of skin cancer."

Sacred Heart School is proud to announce that Benjamin Ganzon, at right, and Danielle Hess, members of the seventh grade class, qualified for state recognition in the Duke University Talent Identification Program. These students demonstrated a high level of achievement on the ACT or SAT appropriate for their age and grade. The students were recognized at a presentation at the University of North Texas earlier in the spring.

Math, art, and fun equals kite flying

On Wednesday, May 21, students at Sacred Heart Catholic School took part in an integrated activity between three different classes - Katherine Putnam's first grade class, Laura Marshall's art class, and Barbara LaChance's high school geometry class.

First graders decorated plain, white kites in art class the previous week. Geometry students, who recently studied the properties of kites, constructed the decorated kites.

Then for the fun of seeing their projects work, the geometry students escorted the first graders out to the football field and helped them fly their kites.

This fun, end-of-year, activity was enjoyed by all.

GRADUATES

Valedictorian Sydney Huchton was introduced by Jaisel Patel.

Sydney thanked the parents of the Class of 2014, noting that there is no thank you big enough for all the support they have given over the years.

"This year was full of 'lasts' that we checked off as the year flew by," Sydney said. "It started with our last first day of school, then was followed by our last time as 'trashcan drummers' at our last football game, our last homecoming and last homecoming dance, our last time as game men at our last basketball game, our last prom, our last baseball game as the Diamond Dudes, or whatever you called yourselves, our last golf tournament, our last tests, our last Monday, and finally today.

"We will then move on to the next chapter of our lives. Some of us will continue into work force, some will join the military, and many of us will be freshmen all over again as college students. No matter which one of these we have chosen, our lives are about to change."

Sydney said that their appreciation for the good times has greatly increased because of the bad times they have endured, especially this year. She continued, "It wasn't even close to what we had planned or hoped for. It seemed as when we finally got back to our feet, something knocked us back to our knees. However, I'm not quite sure that, if I could, I would ask for a different one. This year has shaped and strengthened, not only each of us as individuals, but also the relationships we hold with one another, our family, our teachers, our coaches, and our friends.

"Continuing to move forward is a key part in the next chapter of our lives," Sydney remarked, "One of my favorite quotes says it perfectly, 'It isn't about how hard you can hit. It's about how hard you can get hit and keep moving forward. How much you can take and keep moving forward.' There will be times where giving up or just letting in will be the easiest option. It already has been, yet we choose the other option. We have overcome everything thrown our way so far. We have taken what life has given us and have accepted the strength it took to keep moving through it."

Dana Klement then introduced the guest speaker Muenster High Graduate 2007 Brad Endres. She explained that he received a Bachelor of Science in Athletic Training from the University of Texas at Austin and holds his Strength and Conditioning Specialist Certification through the National Strength and Conditioning Association. He worked as an intern for the New England Patriots during the 2009 summer camp and pre-season.

Brad was one of two athletic trainers from across the nation selected to take part in the Integrated Clinical Sports Medicine Residency with the New Hampshire Musculoskeletal Institute. As a Resident, he was the head athletic trainer at a local high school and participated in surgical and clinical medical rotations with over 20 different specialists. After completing his Residency, Brad came back to Texas and began working with the University of Texas football program as an intern athletic trainer for the 2013-14 football season.

Addressing the graduates, Brad noted that some would be going to college while others would find a job. He said, "I would be doing a grave disservice by not addressing both paths. Anyone who tells you one path is better than the other is wrong. Both paths start this evening. Both paths have the ability to dramatically improve the world. Both paths are equally important and valuable, so long as you push yourself to be better every day."

Brad then gave a 5-step crash course on how to survive your transition into the real world. They were, "Number one: Go to work and study. If you're in college, this means going to class. If you have a job, this means being on time and doing your best in the tricks of the trade from your supervisors. Number two: Go to work and study. I'm serious. You waste your time and money, excuse me... parents' money... by not being permitted to your job or studies. Number three: Get involved in something. This may be anything from a professional organization, fraternity, sorority, spirit group, intramurals, or volunteer work. Getting involved teaches you time management skills, keeps you from becoming bored, and helps introduce you to a great deal of new people. Number four: For those of you going to college, find an internship in your field of study. Very few majors allow for direct attainment of a job upon graduation. In order for you to gain a step on the rest of the competition, be proactive in searching out internships that allow you to gain experience as well as professional connections. Number five: Find out what you're passionate about early on.

"If you are not passionate about the work that you do, it may be nothing more than a job to you. With passion, a job transforms into a conviction, and this conviction will keep you going for the rest of your life."

Brad will soon begin a two-year mission with the Fellowship of Catholic University Students (FOCUS). It is a campus-based Catholic outreach organization that is present at 83 campuses in 34 states across the nation.

He said that after a few weeks of discernment, he continued to feel a pull towards being a missionary that he just couldn't come to peace with. He agreed to interview with FOCUS. It was the middle of football season, so he consulted with his boss about possibly joining FOCUS and taking time off.

Brad said, "He could tell I was worried that I would have to choose between my profession and my Faith. I honestly felt that by choosing graduate school, I was denying my call to follow Christ. By choosing FOCUS, I felt that I would be literally jumping off the mountain I had been climbing for the past six years and find myself back at the base. At the end of our conversation, he left me with advice that I will never forget. He looked at me and said the following words: 'Your legacy isn't made of the things you think you have or haven't done. It's made of the lives you've affected for either good or bad.' These words stuck with me, and are the primary reason I decided to join FOCUS.

"I have realized that all too often people take from this world, but very few give back to it.

"So in closing, I challenge each and every one of you graduates to start thinking about your legacy. Right now."

Counselor John Schneider conducted presentation of awards.

Diplomas were awarded by retired Muenster High Principal Sharon Browning and Board of Trustees President Steve Trubenbach.

Muenster ISD Superintendent Clay Richerson then officially presented the Class of 2014.

Adrien Rohmer gave the benediction, closing the graduation ceremony.

Game Warden Reports

Ruffled feathers

An Austin County game warden made contact with two hunters at a campsite after hearing a gunshot. The hunters claimed they did not see or shoot anything, but after the warden mentioned hearing a shot, the suspects changed their story and said they shot at a coyote with a shotgun. The warden looked around the area and found fresh dove feathers on a four-wheeler. The hunters were persistent that they only shot at the coyote. After further conversation, the hunter claimed he thought it was still dove season and admitted to shooting a dove. Citations were issued and the dove was seized.

Tag, you're it

A Polk County game warden filed a citation on a local man for killing a white-tailed buck in Polk County and tagging the deer with his wife's license. The man explained to the warden that he had already killed a buck in an adjacent county and thought that if he used his tag on the deer in Polk County, he would be "tagged out." The warden pointed out that he misunderstood the antler restriction bag limit and found that he was not "tagged out" after all. Citations and warnings were issued to the man and his wife for hunting/allowing to hunt under the license of another, failure to tag white-tailed deer, and failure to complete harvest log.

Too much fun can lead to A lot of problems

A Val Verde County game warden received a call after midnight from a concerned landowner who feared that a rowdy group of hunters, who had just left his hunting ranch without paying for a big game hunt, had also committed hunting violations. The warden was able to track the group to a local hotel through tips he received, but when he attempted to make contact with them he found that they had been kicked out of the hotel due to disorderly conduct. He was finally able to make contact with the group in the county jail, when they were being booked for discharging a weapon within the city limits and public intoxication.

After several interviews, another trip to the ranch for evidence collection, and 12 hours of investigation, the game warden found that the group had been too inebriated to shoot straight and had not been able to harvest any deer. Multiple citations for no hunting license and lack of hunter education certification were issued.

Economist finds EPA's analysis flawed

A new report from economist Dr. David Sundig finds the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) analysis of its proposed "Waters of the U.S." to be flawed. According to the American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF), the proposed rule is "rife with errors, lacks transparency, and would greatly expand strict federal control over land that was previously not regulated by the federal government."

The proposed EPA rule Sundig analyzed was published on the EPA's website in late March. It proposes the removal of the word "navigable" from the Clean Water Act, giving the EPA broader regulatory authority over the "waters of the U.S."

AFBF believes the change to the Clean Water Act allows the EPA to regulate waters like small, isolated wetlands, ephemeral drains and ditches.

Sundig, who is also a faculty member at the University of California-Berkeley, states in his report that the EPA systemically underestimates the impact the changes to the Clean Water Act will have on affected businesses and communities.

"The EPA's proposed waters of the U.S. rule is irreparably flawed from an economic standpoint," said American Farm Bureau Federation President Bob Stallman. "The rule is also an end run around Congress and two Supreme Court rulings, and in their official comments, farmers and ranchers across the nation are calling on EPA to ditch the rule."

AFBF has launched a

"Ditch the Rule" campaign encouraging farmers, ranchers, landowners, and business people to contact their legislators to let them know how they feel about the proposed rule. The farm organization is also encouraging its members to comment on the proposal during the open comment period.

Additional information about "Ditch the Rule" campaign and the EPA's proposal can be found at <http://ditchtherule.fb.org>.

Statement by Texas Railroad Commissioner David Porter on new EPA rule

The following statement can be attributed to Texas Railroad Commissioner David Porter on the new EPA rule for the regulation of CO2:

"President Obama has finally kept one of his promises. During his 2008 presidential campaign, Obama said electricity prices would 'necessarily skyrocket,' and his latest policy direction to the EPA will make good on that promise," Porter said. "These new carbon emission regulations are yet another example of his administration's war on fossil fuels and will undoubtedly cause Texas electricity rates to 'skyrocket.'"

AGRICULTURE MARKET SUMMARY

For the week ending May 31, feeder cattle prices reported by Texas auctions were mostly steady early in the week and then strengthened to end the period mostly $2 to $5 higher per hundredweight (cwt). Many locations noted light receipts as rain and muddy pastures limited cattle movement. Texas direct feeder cattle prices were steady. Limited supplies and strong demand continue to support the feeder cattle market. Fed cattle cash prices were 50 cents lower per cwt. Wholesale beef values were higher. Beef export sales for the week totaled 12,700 metric tons (MT), up 5% from the previous week and up 4% from the prior four-week average. Export shipments hit a new high for the marketing year at 16,400 MT, up 17% from the previous week and 23% higher than the average.

Wheat prices were lower following the rain on the U.S. Southern Plains. These rains will help some of the crop, but likely came too late to benefit much of the acreage in Texas. Harvest is underway in some areas, adding to already-burdensome world supplies. Export data was mixed. Weekly inspections came in lower than expected. Wheat exports sales for the 2013-14 marketing year were a negative 52,400 MT as cancellations outweighed new sales. Sales for the next marketing year of 531,500 MT were more than double both the previous week and the prior four-week average. Export shipments totaled 529,100 MT, up 4% from the previous week, but 10% below the average.

Corn and grain sorghum prices also were lower due to improving prospects for a large corn crop this year. There are some lingering concerns about planting delays in the eastern and northern Corn Belt, but overall planting progress caught up with the average pace. Growing conditions also have been favorable. Corn old-crop export sales totaled 621,300 MT, up 22% from the previous week and up 27% from the prior four-week average. New crop sales of 90,900 MT were up 46% from a week earlier and up 49% from the average. Export shipments totaling 1,210,200 MT were up 4% from the previous week and 1% higher than the average.

Changes in crop watering underway

Water is a valuable resource and with the prolonged drought well into its fourth year, many farmers are changing how they water their crops.

Several years ago, a farmer would use a center pivot irrigation unit to water an entire circle of one crop. Now, one type crop is planted under half the pivot with a more drought tolerant crop planted on the other half. Water is dispersed on the crop with the greatest moisture need with hopes for enough rainfall during the season for the other crop to harvest.

Farmers are also reducing tillage and leaving residue on the soil surface help conserve moisture and save soil. Installing subsurface drip irrigation systems, renozzled pivots, or changing planting patterns help stretch declining water sources.

Macho mudders

We've always thought those 10K fun runs were an oxymoron—we could never see the fun in it. Some Americans, however, have taken their weekend warrior mentality to another level. Each year, roughly 1.5 million people participate in obstacle races with names like Tough Mudder, Warrior Dash, and Spartan Race. They crawl through mud, climb walls, crawl underneath barbed wire, dodge live electrical wires, and wade through standing water all in an effort to have fun. Few, however, expect to spend the next week plagued by fever, vomiting, and diarrhea. That's what happened to 22 participants in a race in 2012 on a ranch in Nevada. Officials believe people were sickened when they swallowed muddy water contaminated by animal feces which left them infected with campylobacter coli.

Dung on the Range

If you're like us, you think the spat between Nevada rancher Cliven Bundy and the BLM was a narrow aversion of disaster. There's plenty of blame to go around, but now, with Bundy's 15 minutes of fame fading, we learn a tidbit that makes this whole affair even more ridiculous. It's about that desert tortoise that the BLM and the EPA are trying to protect. Most of us have made the assumption that removing cows from the desert range is an attempt to improve the tortoise's habitat. That assumption appears wrong, because the desert tortoise is a dung eater...as in cow pies. According to an article by Vernon Bostick published in Rangelands nearly a quarter-century ago, "The more animals using the range, the more dung, which makes more food available for tortoises." You can't make this stuff up!

SHCS 8th grade celebrates promotion

Friday, May 30, the eighth grade class from Sacred Heart Catholic School had their promotion ceremony in Sacred Heart Church following the 8 a.m. Mass. The class processed into Mass to the song "Glory and Praise to our God."

Sacred Heart Pastor Fr. Ken Robinson celebrated the Mass. Leslie Eddleman read the First Reading from Acts 18:9-18. The response "God Mounts His Throne to Shouts of Joy" was sung by Phillip and Brenda Flusche. The Gospel was from John 16:20-23. Rachel Hesse read the Prayers of the Faithful, and Dale Schilling and Kristopher Creed presented the gifts at the altar. The Communion song was "The Lord of the Dance," the commissioning song was "Go Make of All Disciples."

The promotion ceremony began with a dedication to their parents, teachers, and Fr. Ken. Roy Endres read the dedication to the congregation. Following the dedication, the students presented a long-stem red rose to their parents in appreciation for all they have done for them. Fr. Ken and Sacred Heart Principal Rafael Rondon presented each student with their promotion certificate.

Providing music were singers Phillip and Brenda Flusche, and Adria Flusche on piano. Extraordinary ministers of Communion were Jennifer Bayer, Gary Endres, Bob Hanson, Ricky and Ammie Hennigan, and Neil and Anne Hesse. Altar servers were Daniel Hesse, Ethan Muller, and Ian Kintz. Programs were handed out by Ruth Ann Eddleman, Rachel and Nathan Hesse, Dawson Jones, and Logan Muller.

Following the ceremony, a photo of the class was taken on the front steps of Sacred Heart Elementary, and a reception was held in the Community Center Cafeteria for the class, their parents, family, and friends. On display were many of the trophies awarded to the class during their junior high years.

Lexie Rivers, daughter of John and Sherry Rivers, was awarded 3rd Place, Division I, Poetry at the State level of the Catholic Daughters of the Americas Education Contest. She is seen here accepting her certificate and a $30 award from Regent Sharon Felderhoff. Lexie will be a 6th grader at Sacred Heart Catholic School in the Fall.

Police and quilter work together for abused boy

It's no secret that quilters take small bits of fabric and make beautiful quilts to keep loved ones warm. Recently, one quilter took on a mission to make a special quilt for a six year old we'll call 'Thomas' who's seen his share of tough times. Just last spring, Thomas found himself in foster care after severe physical abuse. Just before Christmas, he required immediate surgery to remove a brain tumor.

During his hospitalization, officers and a CPS investigator who'd all been involved when he required protection from his family visited Thomas. It was then that he said "when I grow up, I want to be a police officer and help people." Officers took that to heart, got busy, and made plans to help Thomas feel he's one of them. Officers from multiple departments from Dallas to Cooke counties showed up at the hospital and presented him with a plaque, making him an honorary deputy. They were allowed to give him a ride in the front car of a police procession.

Officers gathered police badges from many states and even a few foreign countries, more than 50 in all. It was Jennifer Matthews, a CPS investigator, who had the idea of making a quilt. But she wasn't a quilter. A random conversation led to a CASA volunteer finding Kay Marshall who agreed to make Thomas a quilt. She decided she'd go a step further and make him a Superman cape with the badges as well.

"Thomas loved the quilt," said Randy, his foster father. "He sleeps with the quilt every night."

"Thomas has been through so much over the last year. He is sort of a super kid, if you ask me," said Vicki Robertson, CASA's director.

Thomas will be in foster care at least a little longer as the grown ups who care about him (CPS, law enforcement, CASA, and others) work to make sure that he ends up in a safe and loving permanent home. Until then, he has good memories of his induction into the 'brotherhood' of law enforcement and a quilt to keep him warm and remind him that he is loved by many.
