Girl Scout Troop Resumes Meetings

Girl Scout Troop No. 89 met Thursday with Mrs. R. N. Fette, leader, in her home for the first meeting after the holiday recess.

In place of the usual games — outdoor activity was dispensed with on account of inclement weather — the girls were invited into the kitchen where they learned how to make "Smores" which were then served as refreshments. The dessert is a cookie sandwich made with graham crackers, chocolate bars and marshmallows, then toasted.

3rd Order Plans to Help Parish Needy

Principal business at a regular meeting of the Third Order of Saint Francis Sunday afternoon was explanation and discussion of plans made the preceding Tuesday night by officers of the fraternity when they met to make arrangements to take care of the needy of the parish.

Members will collect at the church doors next Sunday for the first charity on the list. Voluntary contributions will be accepted at each of the five services. A special committee composed of members has been named to administer the funds.

J. W. Hess, prefect, conducted the business. For the program, Mrs. Leo Henscheid read an article entitled "The Sky's the Limit," in which tertiaries were reminded to aim high in their ideals and way of life and to live the "now" and the "will-be." Mrs. J. W. Fisher concluded with a short reading on the Franciscan spirit.

Those present arranged a spiritual bouquet for Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Schoech as a golden wedding anniversary gift.

About fifty members attended the meeting in the parish hall following the monthly prayer service in church.

BOARDED HOARD — Mill workers in Fort Bragg, Calif., upon splitting a giant redwood log, found a nest of acorns in the heart of the tree. Company foresters theorize that about 100 years before Columbus discovered America, a forest fire burned several limbs off the redwood—then a young tree—and that a woodpecker subsequently created the nest by pecking out a hollow at the stump of one of the destroyed limbs. Nature later sealed the hole, containing the forgetful squirrel's hoard.

SELL-OUT . . . WITH OUR TAXES

The phony lure of free-money-from-Washington is enslaving the "sovereign" states, enticing local government into the unrelenting embrace of the federal octopus.

More than 50 different state and local programs now financed by federal grants-in-aid are not only profligate with everybody's tax money, but entail unconscionable loss in the rights and privileges of local government. In the field of relief alone, a troop of 3,000 federal employees from the US Bureau of Public Assistance fan out from ten regional offices to enforce on 65,000 non-federal relief workers conformity with a Government manual of 1,000 pages of rules and regulations!

How this particular swarm of federal locusts — as well as numerous others — devour both the substance and spirit of the states in the guise of distributing "free-money" to the destitute, the jobless and the chiselers, is revealed by former-Governor Alfred E. Driscoll, of New Jersey and Charles Stevenson in part two of "The Biggest Con Game in Politics" in the January issue of Reader's Digest.

In Washington State, the federals blocked investigation of fathers faking desertion so that their wives could collect aid for dependent children. New York was slapped down for making relief recipients sign statements of eligibility when receiving checks because this (said the Bureau) "may cause a reluctance to accept assistance."

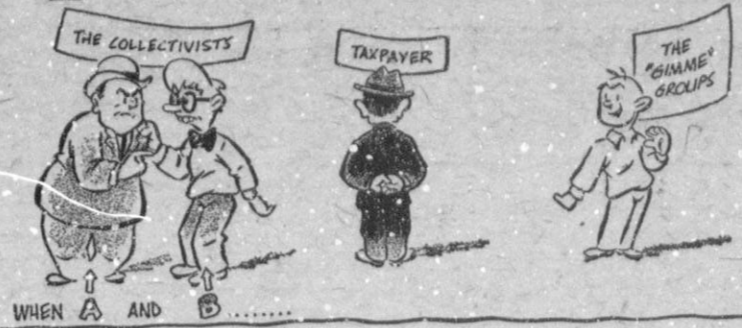

When Indiana opened its relief rolls to public inspection, the federals cut off the state's 21-million-a-year grant, which was recovered only through a special act of Congress. And in spite of the Congressional encouragement of such publicity, the Bureau is still demanding passage of "air-tight secrecy laws" by the states.

The writers warn, however, that Congress is not yet in the mood to curtail this federal encroachment on local government, since, at the last session, it "jumped the bill for government-by-grant to well over five billion for this fiscal year alone."

"Already," they point out, "a third of all US income is going into taxes, mostly federal. Our national debt has continued to expand until it is now twice as high as that of all the rest of the free world put together. Isn't it time," they ask, "to dispose of this myth of the magic free money that we pay a premium price for, first in our federal taxes; second, in forfeiture of our right to meet our responsibilities locally?"

You'd think our Congressmen would know the answer to that question. But, apparently, they must be told.

THE 14 NATO NATIONS, we are told, have followed the lead of the US and cut off "cultural exchanges" (visits of entertainment groups, etc.) with the USSR in protest against the Russian massacre and deportation of Hungarian freedom fighters. The US example might be more inspiring however, if we were to withdraw the Inaugural Ball invitations issued to Russian and Hungarian officials in Washington as "honored guests!"

Pause For Reflection

... with James C. Ingebreten President, Spiritual Mobilization
 "In the story of 'The Good Woman of Setzuan' (Bertolt Brecht shows how difficult it is to be good and happy at the same time," says Brooks Atkinson in a recent review of the Brecht play.

Well, however that may be, there is one thing certain — it is impossible to be bad and happy at the same time. Maybe it's time somebody wrote a play showing that.

The truth probably is that none of us is completely happy because none of us is completely good.

Jesus said, "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them." But how many of us do them — all of them — all of the time? The difficulty is in the being good — not in the being happy as a consequence of being good.

Why I Made "The Ten Commandments"

By Cecil B. deMille

A question often asked me is: "Why did you make 'The Ten Commandments'?" The cynical may think—to make money. Let me dispose of that right away. I shall receive no profit from the picture—that is, no financial profit. My share of the earnings will all go for charitable, religious, and educational purposes.

IF I HAD made "The Ten Commandments" for my personal monetary gain, I could not ask you to be interested in it. But I do ask your interest, because I believe deeply that The Ten Commandments given on Mount Sinai are not simply a collection of laws.

They are THE Law. They are the expression of the mind of God for His creatures. They are the charter and guide of human liberty, for there can be no liberty without the law.

SOME YEARS ago the modern world defined God as a "religious complex" and laughed at the Ten Commandments as old-fashioned. Then, through the laughter, came the shattering thunder of great world wars, each more terrible than the last—and a blood-drenched, bitter, divided world, no longer laughing, cries for a way out.

There is but one way out.

"I AM the Lord Thy God. Thou shalt have no other gods before me." We may never have bowed before a calf of gold, but we may still worship Gold. We may never have bent the knee before the graven image of Hathor, but there is also a graven image on a dollar bill.

"THOU SHALT not take the Name of the Lord thy God in vain." When I was a boy I thought that referred only to profanity. But we take the Name of God in vain whenever we mis-use the power of God or whenever we say to him, "Not THY will, but mine be done."

"REMEMBER the Sabbath day to keep it holy" fares none too well in the headlong rush of modern living. Mankind has coined countless proverbs and slogans about the value of time, but this Commandment reminds us that time belongs to God and that some of it should be set aside for Him.

And so it is with all the Commandments that govern and guide our relations with our fellow-men.

I HOPE that those who see our production will come from the theater not only entertained and filled with the sight of big spectacle, but filled with the spirit of truth—that it will bring to its audience a better understanding of the real meaning of the pattern of life that God has set down for us to follow—that it will make vivid to the human mind its close relationship to the mind of God.

Asking An Expert

A couple of sailors got into a discussion over the kind of animal a heifer was. One sailor claimed that the heifer belonged to the hog family, the other that it was a variety of sheep.

Finally, they called in Boatswain Bill. "Bill, wot's a heifer—is it a hog or a sheep?" they asked.

Boatswain Bill bit off a large chew reflectively, then said: "To tell the truth, mates, I dunno much about poultry."

TAX-MAN SAM SEZ

The tax folks say that thousands of us fail to send in a check for the tax we owe when we file our income tax returns. They think a lot of people read the instructions, check their records, figure their tax, check their arithmetic, get all their W-2's attached, but then fail to enclose their check. These fellows sure went to a lot of trouble to get tax right and then forget to enclose a check. Most of us know we have to pay the tax. Let's all save Uncle Sam time and money by putting in our checks with our tax return. Don't send in your check without identifying what the check is for. The tax office has thousands of payments. They have trouble finding who to credit the payment to when you don't attach the check to your return.

Morning Coffee is Fun for Neighbors

Neighbors south of town have formed a morning coffee club. After two get-togethers, one in December and one in January, the group decided it's so much fun and scheduled one for February.

Mrs. Herman Hartman started the entertaining with a coffee complimenting Col. and Mrs. Charles Taylor after they moved here on the former Henry Fette farm. Last week Mrs. Taylor responded with a coffee for eight neighbors. And then the group drafted Mrs. G. H. Hellman for the February hostess. Party hours are from 9 to 11.

The Dan Sweeneys Are Myra Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Sweeney and sons Sherman Dale and Patrick Shane spent last week in Myra as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Parker Fears. They are former residents of Myra.

Mr. Sweeney and his family are spending a leave in the United States until Feb. 2. They live in Tia Juana, Venezuela, S.A., where he is employed by Standard Oil Co.

Most of the leave time has been spent with their mothers, Mmes. Allen Sherman and E. W. Sweeney at Des Moines, Iowa, where the couple's two older children Madelen and Dan Allen are living with relatives and attending school. The Sweeneys and two boys went back to Iowa and will be there until they return to South America. They left Myra Thursday.

TAX-MAN SAM SEZ

The tax folks say that a lot of taxpayers file their income tax returns and don't attach their W-2's. The W-2 is the little form that your employer gives you in January every year to send in along with your tax return. This W-2 Form shows how much tax you have already paid.

Some taxpayers work in a lot of different places during the year and some of them have trouble trying to dig up all those little slips of paper. Internal Revenue requires all the W-2 forms. If you don't send them in with your tax return they will ask you for them. You save time by getting them before you file.

18.17 miles per gallon
on North America's toughest truck run!

That's the gas mileage reported by the Cameo Carrier after covering the entire length of the Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! All six new Task-Force trucks that made the run turned in top scores for performance and economy!

Supervised and certified by the AAA.

New Task-Force 57 Chevrolet Trucks

Six heavily loaded Chevy trucks ran all the way up the rugged Alcan Highway in less than 45 hours! That's cutting more than a full day off the normal running time! They ran right around the clock, stopping only to refuel. But the important fact about this run was that it proved new Chevy trucks through and through. The Alcan Highway is a supreme test of every truck component. Engines had to prove their power up high-climbing grades and through washouts. Frames and suspensions flexed their muscles over axle-deep ruts and miles of pounding gravel. "And not a single truck turned back or dropped out due to mechanical failure," states the official AAA report of the test. Every model proved its over-all economy by its ironclad ability to stay on the job! Stop by; we'll talk about it.

Choose your model from among Chevrolet's famous economy-proved Alcan Champs! Short-stroke V8's are standard in all heavyweight truck models and in many of the middleweights. They're loaded with modern features and built to take it!

George Bayer Herd Heads DHIA List For BF Production

George Bayer's herd is at the top of the list for butterfat production for the Cooke County Dairy Herd Improvement Association during December. The report, just released by the association, shows that the champs ran up an average of 45 pounds per cow for the month. The Bayer herd was third in milk production with 1205 pounds.

Highest milk producers in the association for December were the cows of Pete Prescher with 1240 pounds. They were third in butterfat production with 43 pounds.

Ben Davis' herd shared top honors with the Bayer and Prescher herds by being second in both butterfat and milk production with averages of 44 and 1224 pounds.

Heaviest milk producer of the 729 cows in the association during December was H. F. Schnie-derjan's No. 66 with 2360 pounds for a daily average of 9.1 gallons. Individual butterfat honors went to the Hoedebeck and Myers herd. Two of the cows tied for first place with 92 pounds each.

DHIA Supervisors Carl Kempplin and Jerry Vernon reported that milk production in the association averaged 902 pounds per cow and butterfat averaged 36 pounds per animal during December. A total of 151 cows produced 50 pounds or more of butterfat during the month.

The recently released state DHIA summary for November reveals that the Cooke county association was tops in the state in both milk and butterfat averages for that month. The local association posted an 840-pound milk average and a 32-pound butterfat average per cow.

roots are planted. Once established, the grass spreads rapidly by runners that take root at the joints.

PONDS

Earthen tanks to supply water for livestock continue to be dug by landowners in the Muenster-Saint Jo area. The tanks are located in pastures to supply water so that better grazing management practices can be carried out to improve the pasture and range grasses. Maximum grass production depends on the grasses receiving a rest from grazing animals during a part of the growing season. For that reason livestock must be rotated from pasture to pasture. Each pasture must have water readily available to insure even distribution of grazing and use.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

Are you running short of grass this year? Then maybe you need to get Coastal or Midland Bermuda grass established on your land. Technicians of the local soil conservation service point out that these improved hybrid strains of Bermuda will grow anywhere that common Bermuda grass grows and will produce up to five times the amount of forage produced by the common variety.

These hybrid Bermuda grasses have inbred ability to produce high yields of high protein forage when properly fertilized. Coverage yields at Stillwater Oklahoma Experiment Station for three years, 1949-51, were: Common Bermuda, 1914 pounds of dry forage per acre; Coastal, 5729 pounds; and Midland, 7157 pounds of dry forage per acre.

During 1955 a first year's planting of Coastal Bermuda grass on the Cunningham farm east of Gainesville made over 7000 pounds of air day forage in two cuttings.

According to local Soil Conservation Service personnel there are hundreds of acres of land in the Muenster-Saint Jo area of the Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District which can and should be growing this grass for improved grazing and to protect the soil from erosion.

Many landowners cooperating with the local soil conservation district have planted Coastal Bermuda in nursery plots so that they can produce their own roots for future plantings. Some of those who have made nursery plot plantings include Lonnie Young and Buddy Dunn at Dye Mound, Fred Hennigan and Derwood Carver at Bulcher, Roy Atteberry at Freemound and Richard Grewing of Muenster.

Coastal Bermuda grass is being planted around Muenster for pasture and waterways. Felderhoff Brothers planted about 25 acres of pasture to this grass last year and Paul Sicking and Herman Zimmerer have sodded waterways to this improved grass.

Landowners planning to plant Coastal Bermuda or common Bermuda this spring should have the seed bed well prepared early enough to catch any moisture that may come this winter. Having moisture in the soil insures a good stand of grass after the

Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Lyons had as their guest Wednesday night her cousin, Mrs. Frank C. Pierce of Laredo, after she had taken her husband to Temple for treatment of a heart ailment. Friday guest in the Lyons home was her brother A. F. Sapp of Phoenix, Ariz. He had spent a week at Duncan, Okla., in an effort to sell his house and other property there. Mr. and Mrs. Sapp moved to Arizona last August and intend to make their home there. Mr. Sapp also visited relatives in Duncan and Gainesville.

Doctor Nature

Some people have a peculiar opinion as to what chiropractic is, and to what extent and to what limits it can be applied to them. A common question is, "What can you Chiropractors do for a broken leg or an open wound?" The answer would be nothing. In a case like that we would refer the patient to a surgeon to set the break or stitch and dress the wound. If the dressings are kept clean and there is no interference to the nervous system, Chiropractor nature would then do the healing.

Dr. S. D. Brewer, Chiropractor

Sometimes the question arises, "What is nature?" The chiropractic contention is that nature is the force or energy which emanates from the brain. The nervous system transmits this energy to all parts of the body, controlling and regulating all bodily processes. Lack of this energy in any part of the body results in loss of function or disease.

Locating and releasing any interference with the flow of the forces of nature is the chiropractic objective. When this has been accomplished, then healing and recovery comes from within the body.

If your physical condition is not what you feel it should be, see a Chiropractor today. You, too, may have better health in the future.

(One of a series of articles presented in the interest of better health by Dr. S. Dale Brewer, whose office is located in suite 206 of the elevator-equipped Schad & Pulte building in Gainesville, telephone HO5-6101.)

trouble if they keep going.

One such effect was hinted by the president. If the public doesn't control its economy the government will have to impose regulations. It's hardly necessary to point out that control is attended by a corresponding loss of freedom. Another possibility is run-away inflation followed by a break-down of our economic system. That, incidentally, is what Russia predicts and what it is waiting for. Confident in the belief that America will then be taken over by the communists.

The advice given by the president is fine, but the mere mention of it is not enough. It should be taken up by every leader in government, by every other leader who has an influence on public thinking, by every industrialist and every labor leader. We probably can undo little of the harm that has already been done, but we can do something to prevent further damage.

As the first step in the right direction the administration might resolve to practice what it preaches. Only a few days after urging "self discipline" President Eisenhower has recommended the highest budget in the nation's history. Let's hope that the Congress will give stronger consideration to his first request and slash every unessential item from this gigantic want list. Reduced government spending can go far toward checking further inflation.
