work, Cooke County received word from FEMA that it should get some grant money to help with road and bridge repair needed after flooding that occurred last spring. It was announced durng the regular meeting of Commissioners Court held Monday. Emergency Management Coordinator Ray Fletcher explained that after the flooding, a Disaster Declaracame to Cooke County and did a damage assessment. They determined the severity of the damage and the need of funding for repairs. They met with the Commissioners regarding the damaged roads and bridges. Commissioners had to prepare and submit to FEMA estimated damages, how much time would be spent making repairs, cost of gravel, etc. to make needed repairs, and so forth. Project worksheets (PW) are prepared and sent through channels for approval and finally sent back to the County for its review and approval of them. Then FEMA gives the states the grant money to be managed. Three of the County's nine PWs are to this point. Fletcher noted that once the County gives its approval, it should start generating the payment process. It is not known how long it will take before the County gets the

MISD teachers reported as 100% Highly Qualified

Janet Felderhoff News Editor

During its regular monthly meeting held Wednesday, Nov. 11, Muenster ISD's Board of Trustees heard a report from Elementary Principal Lou Heers. She noted that the 2015-16 annual survey of highly qualified teachers and paraprofessionals had been completed and reported to TEA (Texas Education Agency).

The report said that the teachers in "core academic subject areas" at Muenster Elementary and Muenster Junior High/ High School are 100% Highly Qualified for the 2015-16 school year. Also, the paraprofessionals at MISD meet the 100% Qualified Paraprofessional requirements. Principal Heers concluded that these highly qualified requirements for teachers (in core subject areas) and paraprofessionals were also 100% met last school year,

Each year, the Muenster Public Library has a fundraiser via mailed letters to the townspeople asking for donations. This year, the Library really needs your help.

When the "wise" Texas legislators cut four billion dollars from the public schools, they did not stop there. State funding was also cut from all the libraries and each year, the state funding is less and grants are very hard to secure. While all of the libraries have suffered, small town libraries suffer more ... to the extent that some of them eventually close. We do not want that to happen in our town! The libraries in the larger cities have large corporations and corporate donors and Many other resources similar to how the PBS channel gets its funding. Our Library has to rely mainly on the people in our town.

Although technology appears to be replacing the need of a hard cover book, it is not a true picture. The Library offers more than books ...it has computers, wi-fi, e-books and a place for children to come for story hour and begin an early childhood love of books. Our town is unique with a high senior population who love to read. The Library is thankful for any size of donation, small or

Those who walk just after sunrise or right before sunset, should also be aware that the sun's glare makes it difficult at times for drivers to see pedestrians or bicyclists. It would be wise for bicyclists and pedestrians to not be out at these times, or if they must, to take extra precautions to stay safe.

The UNT Police Department issued this advice for pedestrians:

Pedestrian Safety - Best Practices

Cross streets safely. Cross at a corner, using traffic signals and crosswalks. Try to make eye contact with oncoming motorists and bicyclists before indicating your intention of crossing in front of them. Do not assume that because you can see the driver, the driver can see you. Cross the street at marked

Dr. Rafael "Ralf" Rondon 1968 - 2015

'Ralf" Francisco Rondon on Saturday, Nov. 21 in Sacred Heart Catholic Church of Muenster. Con-celebrating Mass were Most Reverend Bishop Michael Olson, Rev. Ken Robinson, Rev. Gary Picou, Rev. Phil Petta, Very Rev. Jack McCone, and Rev. Tom Craig. Burial followed in Sacred Heart Cemetery. Rosay and vigil were held at 6 p.m., Friday, Nov. 20 at Sacred Heart Church. Dr. Rondon died Monday, Nov. 16, 2015. Services were under the direction of Scott Funeral Home of Muenster.

Dr. Rafael "Ralf" Francisco Rondon was born Feb. 14, 1968 in Glendale, CA, the son of Alfredo C. Rondon and Isabel C. Lorie, both of whom emigrated from Cuba. Ralf was raised in both Miami, FL and Fort Myers, FL. He graduated valedictorian of his high school. Ralf attended the Florida International University where he received a Bachelor of Arts in Philosophy. He then attended the University of Oklahoma and received his Doctorate of Philosophy. During his time in Memphis, he received a Masters of Arts in Catholic Studies and a Master of Science in Educational Leadership from Christian Brothers University.

for less than $50. The Texas Access to Justice Commission has created the Transfer on Death Deed Kit, a set of do-it-yourself forms for preparing a transfer on death deed, a new and inexpensive way for people to transfer title to real property upon their death.

Established by the 84th Texas Legislature, a transfer on death deed bypasses the probate process, which can be lengthy and costly. It functions similarly to an insurance policy, 401K plan, or payable on death account, where the asset passes to a named beneficiary upon the owner's death. It also allows the owner to keep the exact same rights to the property that they've always had while they are alive. They can get the property tax exemption, use it as collateral on a loan, or sell the property as they like.

The same is true for family home may be the only real asset they have, but the most common way to transfer title in Texas is often financially beyond their reach," said Harry Reasoner, Chair of the Texas Access to Justice Commission. "Many cannot afford to have a will prepared to properly transfer title to the property after they die, and even if a will exists, their heirs may not be able to afford to probate the will."

Failure to transfer clear title to property is a significant problem for low-income homeowners. The homes are often informally passed down to a family member, risking loss when clear title cannot be shown.

When a natural disaster strikes and a property has been informally handed the people living there can- erty owner dies. The Kit is efits because they cannot org.

Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Nathan Hecht commented, "While it is always best to have a lawyer, millions of Texans cannot afford one. The transfer on death deed is a useful tool for low-income Texans to transfer clear title to property. It will help keep families in homes, which benefits the communities in which we live by keeping people off the street and reducing blight."

The Transfer on Death Deed Kit includes forms and instructions for completing a transfer-on-death deed as well as a revocation form in the event that someone wants to cancel or change the transfer on death deed, and an affidavit of death that down through generations, must be filed when the propnot qualify for FEMA ben- available on TexasLawHelp.

Understanding true thankfulness

By Daris Howard

The beautiful, gray-haired lady, Molla, smiled as she busily put the Thanksgiving meal on the table. She seemed vibrant for her age. A student of mine, who was her granddaughter, smiled at my question as to how old Molla was.

"Grandma thinks she is about 94 years old, but she's not really sure."

"How could someone not know their age?" I asked.

She told me that when her grandmother was a small girl, she had lived high in the mountains and deep in the backwoods in a state in the east. When she was about five years old, a wealthy farmer approached her parents about selling her to him to be his servant. They agreed.

I was shocked. sold her? You mean, like a

"It still happens more than you think," my student replied

As a girl, Molla worked 16 to 18 hours per day, hard work, both in the house and out on the farm. She was not allowed to go to school, and was treated very much as a slave, with extremely harsh punishment for anything

Weather Whys - Texas cold

Q: When did the worst period of cold weather occur in

A: The record was more than 100 years ago, says Texas A&M University's John Nielsen-Gammon, who also serves as the state climatologist. "On Feb. 12, 1899, both Texas and Oklahoma had its coldest weather ever," he reports. "On that day, all of Oklahoma was below minus-10 degrees, while one-half of Texas was below zero. Galveston Bay had areas of ice in it. Most cold waves in Texas aren't that bad because the cold air tends to move east quickly, but on this particular day the air mass was so cold and large that there was little that Mother Nature could do to prevent it.'

Hornets win Area battle over Bulldogs 48-14 Advance to the Regional round against Hubbard

The Muenster Hornets brought home the Region 3 2A Division 2 Area Championship last Friday night with a big 48-14 victory over the Iola Bulldogs. "It was a great effort and an outstanding performance by the Hornets who played a really good game," commented Coach Brady Carney. "From the offensive standpoint, we have to give quarterback Blayne Jones credit for a good night of throwing the ball." Jones completed 13 of 21 passes for 285 yards and three touchdowns. "But not just Blayne," Coach continued. "But the receivers and blockers that executed really well offensively again." Carney also credited the first team defense for giving up only one score - an early breakaway in the 1st quarter. Otherwise, the Hornets contained their running Coach Carney also gave credit to the Hornet special teams members of Jones and Bryce Herr for kicking and punting the ball away from Iola's main return runner and to Dalton Bartel who had a season-high carry of 20 runs.

Chase Deeken took the opening kick to the Hornet 38 yard line. The first play was a false start penalty against Muenster. Dalton Bartel picked up a quick 26 yards. With a minute off the clock, Blayne Jones completed a pass to Trace Klement for a 43 yard touchdown. Bryce Herr added the PAT for a 7-0 Hornet lead.

The Bulldogs gained only 3 yards and punted. From their 10 yard line, runs by Bartel, Jones, Klement, and Parker McGrew moved the ball to the Iola 8 yard line. A field goal attempt was no good, but a defensive personal foul gave Muenster a 1st and goal on the 4 yard line. Bartel picked up a yard, with Klement scoring from the 3. With 5:34 on the clock, Herr added the point after for a 14-0 Hornet lead.

Dr. Judd: Be careful treating protozoan parasite in cattle red blood cells of animals could be fatal to certain cattle if not treated appropriately.

Anaplasmosis is a protozoan parasite that is transmitted to cattle by ticks, biting insects, or contaminated instruments like dehorners and ear tagging tools.

The parasite resides in red blood cells. When an animal's body recognizes those cells as abnormal, it destroys the cell, which leads to anemia

"Anemia can be detected by noticing the color around the eyes to be paler than normal," Dr. Bob Judd, host of Texas Vet News on the Texas Farm Bureau (TFB) Radio Network, said.

Due to anemia, infected cattle also have high heart rates and rapid breathing and are usually weak and lethargic, generally do not have an appetite; and become dehydrated.

There are several different stages of the disease.

The incubation stage usually lasts four to eight weeks.

After that, clinical signs appear. That's the time when treatment can be effective. Most cattle are treated with long-acting tetracycline prod-

Treatment can be difficult because these cattle may be anemic before treatment.

The stress of running them into a chute for treatment can cause some of them to not survive the treatment process.

Because they have decreased red blood cells, many of them do not have enough oxygen transport to their

"So you have to be very careful handling these cattle to prevent them from dying while you are attempting to treat them," Judd said.

For the cattle that survive treatment, it usually takes two to three months for them to recover. It is common for cows that are pregnant to abort during this time. Some cattle that survive that are not treated with antibiotics remain carriers and can be a source of infection for the rest of the herd. Dr. Judd's full report can be heard here: http://www.

Cage-free eggs. Sounds good. But is it really better for the chickens that lay them?

Maybe if you believe in live free and die hard.

Cage-free eggs are the new A parasite that lives in the rage. Driven by consumer perception that cage-free chickens are happier and healthier, McDonald's, Starbucks, Costco and, most recently, Panera Bread will require suppliers to go cage-free over the next

That leaves the egg industry—worth $10 billion a year—

struggling to figure out how to shift from confined hen laying to cage-free.

It's not as simple as turning chickens loose. Cage-free doesn't mean problem-free.

As reported by the Associated Press, University of California researchers recently published a comparison study of different housing systems.

Among their findings:

Cage-free barns lost 13% of hens. Caged systems had a 5% mortality rate.

More chickens suffered from fractured breast bones because they attempt to fly inside barns. Cannibalism increased among some breeds in cage-free

The study also notes that cage-free chickens produced between 5% and 10% fewer eggs while farmers' costs were 23% higher.

That could be why cage-free eggs can be twice as expensive

Just goes to show that there are costs associated with buzzwords and feel-good marketing schemes—that may or may not benefit the animals involved.

Egg growers will adjust. Consumers' demands will be met. They will get their cage-free eggs. No matter what the cost to the chicken. Or the pocketbook.

Don't Mess With Turkey!Texas, that is. Of all the asinine, publicity-seeking ideas from PETA, this one was about as appealing as a barefoot walk through a chicken coop. The folks at PETA asked the folks in Turkey, Texas, to change the town's name to Tofurkey for one day—Thanksgiving. As an incentive, PETA is offering to serve the entire town "a vegan feast." To which the 410 townsfolk basically responded "tophoey!"

"Slaughter Trucks?"

It's a new term to us, and likely a new term to anybody with a CDL that makes their living transporting livestock. But more than 8,000 misguided souls have signed a petition at Change.org asking Walmart CEO C. Douglas McMillon to "stop selling toy slaughter trucks in Walmart stores." Those toy "slaughter trucks" are what most of us would call toy livestock transport trucks, mini versions of the ones that roll down the highways of America. Walmart is selling an "ERTL Big Farm 1:32 Peterbilt Model 579 semi with livestock trailer" for $34.99. But somebody using the online name "Vegan Oso" started the petition and claims, "normalizing the enslavement and murder of animals to kids is not OK. If you want give your opinion, you can visit the Change.org petition and leave a comment, or you can visit Walmart's Facebook page and tell Mr. McMillon to keep selling the toys and for him to tell Vegan Oso that calling livestock transports "slaughter trucks" is an insult to the responsible, professional drivers who work hard to help put food on America's tables. Kissing Bugs

The Dallas Morning News and local NBC5 television released a joint investigation this week about the invasion of Chagas disease in Texas. The disease is caused by a tropical parasite—Trypanosoma cruzi—and is spread by the dimesize kissing bug, which lives in rats' nests, wood piles, or even cracks in houses. According to the published report, the bugs "earned their name by biting us around our eyes and mouth. They poop where they eat, and when you rub the irritated bite, you rub the poop—and the parasite—into your skin." The parasite may linger in the body for two decades before causing symptoms, which can include sudden death. Experts believe an estimated 300,000 Americans have Chagas disease, including one in every 6,500 Texas blood donors. The Pan American Health Organization says 8 to 11 million people are infected worldwide. Nov. 18, 2015

Thanksgiving meal prices continue to drop to chew on this Thanksgiving as food prices continue to drop. A traditional, Texasstyle Thanksgiving dinner for 10 will cost $46.48 this year, down 31 cents from last year, according to the special Texas Farm Bureau (TFB) Thanksgiving Meal Report.

The survey records the cost of 10 holiday staplesincluding turkey, stuffing, sweet potatoes, cranberry sauce, and pecan pie. The 2015 report shows the average cost of this year's holiday dinner declined from $46.79 last year.

It's the second consecutive year for lower prices during the holiday season.

"Preparing large holiday meals can be expensive," said Texas Farm Bureau (TFB) President Russell W. Boening. "But this year, Texans can budget a little less for the traditional Thanksgiving Despite reports suggesting a decrease in turkey supplies due to avian influenza earlier this year, Texas shoppers shouldn't feel the pinch at the cash register. Survey shoppers found the price of a 16-pound, frozen, self-basting, young tom turkey to be just under last year's price.

The one-cent per-pound decrease can be attributed to lower fuel and grain prices.

In addition to the turkey, eight other items decreased in price: whole milk (down 13.28%); 9-inch pie shells, frozen (down 7.3%); green beans, frozen (down 7.19%); cubed stuffing, herb seasoning (down 5.97%); whipping cream (down 4.62%); brown and serve rolls, 12 per package (down 3.35%); sweet potatoes, fresh (down 1.06%); and cranberry sauce, jellied (down .72%).
