VOLUME XXI

MUENSTER, COOKE COUNTY, TEXAS,

MAY 31, 1957

NUMBER 28

Through the good judgment of Chinese Nationalist leadership the regrettable troubles over the shooting incident in Formosa appear to be simmering down. For our sake as well as theirs all possible understanding and tolerance should be applied on both sides so as to effect the least possible damage to the alliance which is essential to Freedom's last stand against the forces of Communism in Asia.

The violent and destructive demonstration by the Chinese mob bears all the signs of typical efficient communist organization. The speed and the thoroughness by which the mob was provoked to fury and the even more remarkable speed by which the story was whipped into shape by the red propagandists suggests that the agents of Peking were ready and waiting to exploit the whole affair to its limit.

Most unfortunate of all is the fact that the whole mess is made up of a series of American boners. The soldier's wife, the soldier and the officers who sat in judgment at the court martial all fouled up in a big way.

The first fact to bear in mind is that the Peeping Tom could not have peeped if the wife had closed the curtains of her bathroom window. Next, the soldier was completely out of line when he deliberately murdered in retaliation for the "insult" which the offender obviously considered as an amusing incident. Finally, the officers' court strained its judgment to the utmost in acquitting the man.

There is only one point on which the Americans did not foul up. After all the mistakes and the final acquittal the man was free according to our law, regardless of whether justice had been violated. After that our forces owed him the protection to which a free man is entitled. They were correct in removing him from the reach of natives who still demanded his sentence.

Saddest of all is the possibility that the whole unfortunate case is a result of mutual resentment between American military personnel and natives. Communists went the limit in their propaganda tirade on this point, claiming the incident as proof that Americans have contempt for the lives of Orientals.

Unfortunately, the reds have something on which to base such charges. Too often there is ill feeling growing principally out of the extravagance of GIs in foreign lands. With their high rate of pay they are fabulously wealthy by comparison with the natives. Too often they have the poor taste to flaunt their financial superiority and bring on native resentment, after which it is only natural if resentment becomes mutual.

Our authorities could well afford to study the situation with a view to improving relations with the countries concerned. A step in that direction would be an official policy demanding that military personnel refrain from extravagance and luxury, if necessary, to defer a portion of their pay until their return to the states so that men of poor judgment cannot get out of line. Another step would be a similar attitude toward official spending. Conditions which military men set up for their own comfort and convenience are offensive to poverty stricken people. Natives can hardly avoid being resentful when foreigners move in and start living like kings.

Value of Dams on Elm Proven During Recent Wet Season

The Upper Elm-Red Soil Conservation District's system of flood prevention reservoirs on the Elm Creek watershed proved its worth during the recent heavy rains.

Landowners with highly productive bottomlands are singing the praises of the flood control measure which, they are certain has saved their crops from partial or total damage. Three of them are William Haverkamp, Ben Voth and Al Walter. They, along with many of their neighbors up and down the creek agree that the rains lately were at least as heavy as those which sent waters out of the creek

Student Program Features Closing Ceremony at MHS

Human traits, good and bad, were on display last Friday night in a special program presented by Muenster High School seniors as the feature of their graduating ceremonies.

The presentation, especially composed by the class sponsor, Mrs. H. H. Homsley, was entitled "The Key Spirits of Our Lives." Each of the students carried a large key symbolizing some trait in the average student's life. Virtues, symbolized by straight keys, were the traits that should be encouraged and developed. Vices, symbolized by bent keys, were the traits that should be suppressed. Each student explained the significance of his or her key, then presented it for display in the group which made up the key spirits of our lives.

The valedictory address by Margaret Milner and the salutatory by Pat Horn were parts of the feature presentation. Pat Cain was mistress of ceremonies.

Graduation diplomas were presented by B. J. Sicking, president of the school board and special awards were presented by Superintendent H. H. Homsley.

Special awards for excellence in subjects were given as follows: Margaret Milner received

Radio Tower Moved To N. Main Street

The most conspicuous structure in Muenster has a new location. Actually, it is beyond the city limits, directly up the center of North Main and about 300 yards farther into R. M. Zipper's pasture.

It is the 250 foot radio tower and antenna used jointly by the Cooke County Electric Cooperative and the Leo J. Haverkamp Well Service.

The tower was formerly located in the southeast part of town, near the Ready-Mix Concrete Plant. Moving it has gained 67 feet in elevation and has also reduced the volume of electrical interference.

Fred McDaniel, Motorola technician in charge of the installation, said Thursday morning that advantages of the new location are already apparent. Both range and clearness have been improved in transmission and reception.

The moving job was done by a crew of radio tower specialists.

NEWS OF SICK AND INJURED

Mrs. Herbert McDaniel underwent surgery Thursday at Majors Clinic in Nocona.

Mrs. Hank Walterscheid underwent surgery at Gainesville Sanitarium Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Clem Reiter was dismissed from Gainesville Sanitarium Tuesday evening following 10 days of treatment for stomach ulcers.

Word to relatives here this week reveals that John Swirczynski is showing improvement in an Oklahoma City hospital following a stroke a week earlier.

Our 2 for 1 Subscription Offer

Something different in operating procedure at the Enterprise is the 2 for 1 subscription offer introduced this week.

As we make the offer we hasten to explain that there are no mistakes and no catches in the ad appearing on page 8. It means just what it says. A subscriber renewing his or her subscription can send the Enterprise free for one year to a "new" subscriber in Cooke County.

To our way of thinking this is a good deal all around. The new subscriber gets to read our paper free for a year. Meanwhile we are confident that some of the new readers will want to keep reading . . . that some of the subscriptions will become renewals. That's the first part of our angle in this deal.

Our next purpose is to enhance the value of the Enterprise as an advertising medium. The more circulation it has, the more its advertising messages will reach . . . and the more inclined business people will be to place their ads in it.

This value to advertisers is the principal reason behind limiting free subscriptions to persons in Cooke County. They are the prospective customers of our advertisers, the ones who live within convenient distance of the stores mentioned.

Less important but still worth considering is the fact that mailing papers outside the county is more troublesome and more expensive . . . so, the free subscriptions will stay in the county.

That's the deal. We hope our subscribers by the hundreds will like it and will remember their friends, relatives and neighbors when renewing their subscriptions.

City Spraying Job For Insect Control Set for Next Week

The city wide trash clean-up scheduled . . . and rained out . . . last Saturday, was finally finished Wednesday, leaving the city in generally clean and orderly condition for the spray job which is due next week.

Next on City Manager Mosler's program is a weed mowing program along all the streets, then the spray job along the streets.

Spraying will also be done in alleys provided they are free of weeds, trash and obstructions. Mosler said the city will co-operate with property owners by striving to rid their areas of mosquitoes provided the persons will first do the necessary clean-up.

Muenster War Dead Honored Sunday in Prayer and Eulogy

Service men who failed to return from this country's wars were remembered in prayer and eulogy Sunday morning at Muenster's annual memorial service.

Choosing the text "Greater love hath no man . . ." Father Louis Deuster said these men have merited the special friendship of Almighty God and the special appreciation of us who remain to enjoy the blessings they fought and died for.

The deceased men were also honored with the traditional military service conducted by former service men in uniform. After the pastor's address six men fired a three volley rifle salute and Anthony Luke sounded taps. Ex-service men also carried the colors in the procession from church to the cemetery.

Services were held promptly after the 10 o'clock mass. As the crowd arrived at the cemetery it proceeded first to the crucifixion group at the center for special prayers led by Father Patrick Hannon. Next it moved to the service men's graves where Father Patrick again led in prayer and Father Louis spoke.

A group of small girls carried flowers for the deceased service men and placed them on the graves. Mothers of the deceased wore corsages which had been given by the Muenster VFW Auxiliary Post.

Lions Will Install Officers Tuesday

A special reminder to attend the installation of officers and the ladies night program was extended to all Muenster Lions this week by H. H. Homsley, chairman in charge of the event. The party, to be held at the city park, is scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday.

Homsley also announced an alternate location in case weather is unfavorable at the time. The other place is the Muenster High gymnasium.

Herman Fette Buys Sinclair Station

Herman "Pip" Fette is the new owner-manager of the Sinclair Station in Muenster. He took charge of the business Tuesday, completing his agreement with the Sinclair Company and also buying stock from the former owner, Ferd Luttmer. The new name for the business is "Pip's" Sinclair Station.

Bishop Gorman Presents Diplomas At SH Graduation

Bishop Thomas K. Gorman called on graduates of Sacred Heart school Sunday to "be doers of the word, and not hearers only." He was delivering the combined baccalaureate and commencement address in Sacred Heart church for the joint graduation of high school and elementary students.

In his sermon, based on the day's epistle by St. James, he appealed for action. He told graduates to give of themselves—their talents and knowledge—for God and their country. Pointing out that by education they have been taught to distinguish the true from the false and good from evil, he asked them to carry high ideals and honor with them into their chosen vocations and professions.

The fifty-seven boys and girls making up the two graduating classes — 20 high school seniors and 37 eighth graders — marched from the rectory to church for the 7 p.m. service. Members of the Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus served as an honor guard for His Excellency.

Bishop Gorman read the evening mass and distributed the diplomas before giving his address.

High school graduates are: Imogene Flusche, valedictorian, Jere Friske, salutatorian, Joan Hennigan, David Walter, Thomas Dankesreiter, Michael Fuhrmann, Norma Walterscheid, Joan Hacker, Carol Miller, Gerald Bindel, Leo Hess, Jerome Voth, Teresa Schad, Delphine Derichsweiler, Ethel Knabe, Virgil Henschel, Herbert Walterscheid, Kenneth Otto, Della Fette, Theresa Ann Haverkamp.

20 Graduate from Elementary Grades At Public School

The twenty elementary graduates of the Muenster public school were the program headliners for their commencement services last Thursday night.

In a special presentation directed by their class sponsor, Mrs. John Hosea, the youngsters appeared in separate speeches enumerating the characteristics which make up the "Stairway to the Star of Higher Education." Included in the program were the special messages of Valedictorian John Reiter and Salutatorian Norma June Jones.

Other events on the program were a vocal number "Stairway to the Stars," by Nancy Rathburn, invocation by Tim Hellman, benediction by Virginia Vogel, presentation of graduates by Mrs. Hosea and the presentation of diplomas by Superintendent H. H. Homsley. Members of the band played for the professional and recreational.

Parish Will Have Collection Sunday For Cemetery Fund

Next Sunday, June 2, will be semi-annual cemetery collection day for Sacred Heart parish.

Representatives of the Civic League and Garden Club, which sponsors the cemetery beautification and maintenance program, will be at the church doors accepting donations after all the services.

Until recent years one collection a year sufficed. But rising costs have made it impossible to finance a year of maintenance with one collection so the sponsors collect in May on a Sunday near Memorial Day and in November on All Souls' Day.

Club members urge a generous response because the size of the fund determines the appearance of the cemetery.

Swimming Pool To Open Saturday

Muenster's municipal swimming pool will open its 1957 season Saturday at 2 o'clock. City Manager Steve Mosler disclosed Wednesday afternoon as he started running water into the pool.

The pool is due to fill up some time Friday. At the same time the manager, L. B. Bruns, and his assistant, Dan Hamric, will be busy cleaning the premises, stocking their concession stand and making other necessary arrangements for the opening.

As in '56 the pool will be open from 2 to 9 p.m. every day of the week except Monday. That will be the day off for the management and also the day for giving the water whatever treatment it needs additional to the regular filtering and bromine treatment.

Admission charges again will be 15 cents and 35 cents.

A set of rules to govern behavior at the pool can be found elsewhere in this paper.

Co-op Paper Notes Local Record for Safety, Longevity

The exceptional records of service and safety by employees of the Cooke County Electric Cooperative Association were featured in this month's edition of "Texas Co-Op Power," a cooperative newspaper published monthly by the Texas Electric Cooperatives, Inc.

The article refers to the co-op organization as a "big happy family who think setting records is just a routine part of their work."

Longevity of service is the first of those records. "Although the co-op is only 19 years old its 19 employees have worked a total of 149 years, an average of almost 8 years."

A remarkable safety record is the co-op's other claim to distinction. At the time of the report it had a total of 316,723 man hours of work time without a lost time accident. Simultaneously the co-op has a record in driving safety . . . operation of its fleet of nine trucks since 1949 without an accident of any kind.

Accompanying the article are pictures of Manager M. D. Kaderiali, Office Manager Robert Gruber, Line Superintendent Leo Sicking, Bookkeeper Jewel Otto, Order Clerk Herbie Herr, Billing Clerk Dorothy Kathman, Meter Tester Joe Sicking, Clerk Leona Eberhart, a group of maintenance men and the fleet of vehicles with the warehouse in the background.

Contractor Starts On Detention Dam At Edge of Town

Work on the new detention reservoir on the Brushy Elm tributary just west of town already has a well advanced look. Timber has been cleared in the pool area and dirt moving is under way.

Arnett and Duncan, Corsicana contractor moved equipment here during the latter part of last week and started the work early Monday.

The contract allows a maximum of six months for the project. The contractor hopes to complete it in about 60 working days.

John Hofbauer of Hereford spent several days of this week here with his brothers, Andy and Clem Hofbauer.

Harvest Weather Appears In Sight After Heavy Rains

Another delay in this community's harvest apparently was coming to a close Wednesday as some farmers were venturing into their fields and others were getting machinery in order while anxiously waiting to get on the land.

This area has had four days of clear, drying weather since the 3.11 inch rain ending last Saturday morning. That series of showers had started the preceding Thursday, calling a halt to harvesting activity that had just got off to a fair start. Even then many were hampered by excessive moisture from rains of the previous weeks.

The method of harvesting under way at this time is baling. Little if any of the grain is sufficiently matured to be ready for combines.

A fairly large percentage of the area's oats crop appears destined to go into bales this year, and early reports indicate that the yield will run high on some fields. The community average, however, will be much lower. Three kinds of damage have hit the crop. Some spots are drowned by standing water, some are stripped by army worms, some are knocked down too badly for good recovery by harvesting machines.

The army worms, which were causing most of the grief a week ago seem to have passed on about as suddenly as they appeared, either completing their cycle or being knocked out by a change in the weather.

The net result, it now appears, is that farmers will find some spots of good yield and some of poor yield . . . and some that will not be worth the trouble of harvesting.

In general early oats looks the best, some of it estimated at over 80 bushels per acre. Wheat, spring oats and barley are generally poor, though a few exceptions for those crops have been reported.

Corn, which usually thrives on rain, seems to be retarded by the excessive moisture.

The official moisture measure for the month now stands at 8.54 inches and the total for the year to date is 27.78 inches.

Three Projects on Summer Program At Baptist Church

Members of the First Baptist church are working on three projects in connection with the Town and Country Church Achievement and Recognition program and look forward to completing their goals before the contest closes August 1.

The improvement program calls for sidewalks around the church, painting woodwork on the outside of the building and stocking the church library.

Cecil Cain is chairman of the sidewalk and painting projects and expects to begin that work July 1, believing that by that date the necessary funds will be raised.

Mrs. Don Cooke is in charge of the library project. According to present plans, members will be asked to stock the library with books they can spare, on a loan basis, if they prefer. Anyone contributing books will have the understanding that should he move away from Muenster and want to take his books with him he may do so. Those with books to contribute either as a donation or on a loan basis are asked to contact Mrs. Cooke.

New Self-Dialing Gadget for Phones Being Developed

SAN MATEO, Calif. — Long fingernails and short memories may be in for an assist from a telephone dialing device being developed here.

Dialphone, a product of James Kilburg Corp., looks something like a small adding machine — except that it has no keys. To place a call, you turn a crank on the side of the 9½ by 7 inch machine until the name of the party to be called appears in a small viewing window. When you press a button, the Dialphone takes over and dials the correct number.

How does it work? The secret is a prepunched "memory" tape within the device. On the tape are printed the names — the machine can handle hundreds — that you may wish to call. Together with each name is a "number" — in the form of a series of tape perforations. As you turn the crank to line up a name in the viewing window, the proper number moves into place. Connected to the telephone and operated on conventional house current, the Dialphone translates the perforations into the electrical message needed to dial the desired number.

Wheelmen, Arise!

Listen for fresh overtones in the customary symphony of Spring this year, as the song of tires and the hum of spokes on the nation's cycle paths and budding byways usher in "Bicycle Month" — designated on your calendar, perhaps, as merely May.

This four-and-a-half weeks celebration by the chain-and-d-sprocket set will revolve about the eightieth birthday of the American bicycle, and the comment of President Eisenhower in setting up his Council on Youth Fitness that he would like to see more Americans riding bicycles.

In 1877, Col. Albert A. Pope, of Boston, commissioned the Weed Sewing Machine Co., of Hartford, Conn., to make him a bicycle — the first ever produced in America. It was delivered to him on May 19th — and marked the beginning of the "Columbia" which is still being manufactured, and the beginning of an industry dear to the hearts of four generations of American youth.

By way of celebrating this epochal event, TV and radio network shows will dramatize bicycles, there will be bike races pretty much all over the country, the Bicycle Institute of America will present an award to the "Bicycling Man-of-the-Year," and, of course, there will be a 1957 "American Bike Queen." She will make numerous appearances around the nation, suitably attired for pedaling and photographing.

In the nation's capital, Dr. Shane MacCarthy, executive director of President Eisenhower's Council on Youth Fitness, will lead a "mammoth bike jamboree," sponsored by the American Youth Hostels organization, and including cyclists from all parts of the eastern seaboard.

In its evolution, the American bicycle involved the application of some 7,500 patents during its first quarter-century — and many more since — to reach today's ultimate dream-wheel, which is known to the younger generation as the "middle-weight." For the benefit of those who have not ridden since plus-four days, we might explain that this is a hybrid of the best features of the lightweight racing wheel and the sturdy, knock-about, balloon-tired model. And so you'll be able to keep up your end of the conversation next May, you should know that it has a lightweight frame, multi-speed gear-shift and coaster brake and specially-designed tires, 1¾ inches in cross-section.

And just in case you might get the inspiration that a bike ride on a May morning could be more fun than push-ups on the bathroom floor, we should remind you that no one ever FORGETS how to ride!

Eyeglass lenses can be cleaned and kept clear by rubbing gently with dry soap, polishing with soft, dry cloth.

God will not seek thy race, nor will He ask thy birth. Alone He will demand of thee what hast thou done with the land that I gave thee. — Persian Proverb.

Doing nothing is the most tiresome job in the world because you can't quit and rest.

Elementary Pupil Operetta is Hit

In the public school elementary students' end-of-the-year dramatic presentation "Why the Garden Quarreled" a large audience discovered joyfully that the youngsters — some making their first stage appearances — can do operetta. The play was a solid hit.

Stand-out performances as leading characters were given by Maurice Kaderli, Mary Lou Martin, Angela Dern, Mark Hellman, Gayle Golden and Dickie Pagel.

Other members of the large cast contributed to a well-paced performance.

An audience favorite was an action song by Chris Cain, Terry Cason and Mike Hosea who as froggies were fascinating. Other students appeared as bees, sweet peas, raindrops, gardeners, butterflies, lilies, roses, pansies, marigolds, irises, rabbits, breezes, bachelor buttons, clover and jack-in-the-pulpit. Costumes were authentic.

The story opened while the garden was asleep and at the coming of dawn awakened, full of joy at the prospect of the arrival of the queen who would crown the fairest flower in the garden. These flowers were unkind to clover and jack-in-the-pulpit who came from the woods to plead for help in caring for the wild flowers. But the curtain closed on a scene of contentment.

Mrs. John Hosea, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Holland and Mrs. Bessie Miller directed the presentation with Jim Harris assisting with the musical score. Lou Rena Wolf played the piano accompaniment.

SWEET CHARITY FOR SUBVERSIVES

By John T. Flynn

There is one aspect of the charges which pop up at intervals against eminent gentlemen in high posts who may be suspected of being Red to which I would like to call attention. The latest of these disturbing incidents has to do with a high ranking diplomat who, until his death recently, was ambassador to Egypt of the Canadian government — the late Mr. Herbert Norman. About two months ago Ambassador Norman leaped from the roof of a building in Cairo, thus tragically ending his life. The tragic aspect of this suicide is rendered more deeply disturbing because of some of the facts about his life which have come to light.

The Senate Sub-Committee on Internal Security has been conducting over an extended period, an investigation into subversive activities and elements in this country. The investigation is under the direction of Judge Robert Morris, a highly respected former judge in New York who, at great sacrifice, resigned his post to direct this inquiry. Late in March — and quite incidentally — Judge Morris' committee turned up evidence connecting Ambassador Norman with certain communist activities. The committee was not hunting for evidence against him. It was looking into the activities of an American consular official who had close ties with Mr. Norman.

Mr. Lester Pearson, the Canadian Foreign Minister, immediately filed an angry protest with the American government. He was full of wrath and supported his angry protest with threats. His protests reached President Eisenhower. Mr. Eisenhower, of course, who is an easy target for this sort of thing, intervened with expressions of sorrow and apology. And, as one might surmise, all those elements that denounced Congressman Dies and Velde, Senators McCarran and McCarthy and others who fought the Reds, came promptly to the rescue before they could know anything of importance about this case, apologizing to Mr. Pearson for the "indiscretions of Judge Morris and the Senate committee."

All this recalls the case of Alger Hiss, who was indicted, tried by jury and convicted and sent to the penitentiary on a charge of perjury for denying his communist connections. Until that case was thoroughly aired in court before two juries, a large group of eminent dopes, including college presidents, editors and columnists, continued to proclaim his martyrdom and to denounce those "wicked" senators who exposed him. Now Foreign Minister Pearson denounces the "detractors of Ambassador Norman." Mr. Pearson was, however, forced to face a severe grilling in the Canadian Parliament. And he finally conceded that Norman perhaps had certain Red associations and connections some years ago. A member of Parliament demanded of Pearson that he answer plainly this question: Are the charges against Norman true or are they without basis in fact? Pearson refused to answer this question.

Now the facts are that Norman had been accused of communist connections as far back as 1951. At that time the Senate Internal Security Committee was taking testimony from a university professor whose facts, given under oath, have never been refuted. The professor testified that he knew Norman as a member of a communist study group in Columbia University. The witness said that all this was so well known that he was surprised he should be questioned about it. Indeed, the history of Norman's communist affiliations and activities takes up nearly 27 pages of testimony and reports about him over a period of years. One of the disturbing elements in these tragedies — and there have been many — is the fact that these seeds of treason are planted and nurtured in our universities.

Another disturbing feature in these investigations of subversives is the manner in which the White House — whether under Roosevelt, Truman or Eisenhower — inevitably turns up with a kind word for the accused. Let no one suppose that the activities of Reds, masquerading as loyal citizens, are not a serious menace. The record of their subversive accomplishments is terrifying. We need recall but one — Alger Hiss, now again in the news, who sat at President Roosevelt's elbow as a top adviser when the President was handing over most of Europe and Asia to his "good friend" Joe Stalin. Are we not justified in asking why President Eisenhower, as recently reported, has failed to seek guidance in this dark area from the man who knows most about it — J. Edgar Hoover, the respected head of the FBI?

Now there's a liquid water-proofer that you spray on hats, shoes or other clothing to protect them against sudden showers.

Pause For Reflection

... with James C. Ingebreten President, Spiritual Mobilization Sen. Mundt (Rep., N.D.), a member of the Special Senate Investigating Committee digging into union labor racketeering, reportedly said recently: "We should have legislation that insists that where a working man is forced to join a union he should have a free and open voice in the conduct of union affairs."

But why should a working man be forced to join a union in the first place? Can such compulsion be justified by any Christian or traditionally American standard? Is it Constitutional?

What good does it do to pile law on law if the foundation statute is unjust?

Sen. Goldwater (Rep., Ariz.) assertedly declares that, for his part, compulsory unionism is the breeder of all labor's troubles. And in my opinion he is right. Compulsory unionism not only deprives millions of people of their God-given and Constitutionally guaranteed freedom but provides for the men at the top such power and such access to huge funds as to practically guarantee that corruption will ensue.

Instead of more laws, what we need is repeal of those laws that make compulsory unionism legal. If unions had to rely for their continued existence on completely voluntary membership, who can doubt that there would be within them little indeed for a Senate Committee on racketeering to investigate?

To begin with, we had something over 500 million acres of tillable land in the United States. More than half of our farm land has been damaged by erosion.

What the Dead Sea Scrolls Mean

By Dr. E. H. Peters, Wayne State University, Detroit

TEN YEARS AGO, two Arab boys in search of a stray goat, entered a cave on the western shore of the Dead Sea and found several old clay jars. The contents of these jars caused some people to trumpet the end of Christianity.

"The Dead Sea scrolls offer a strong challenge to the Christian faith." "They prove Christianity is nothing more than an offshoot of a Jewish sect called the Essenes." These and other equally frightening statements are causing people to ask, "Just what is the story behind the Dead Sea scrolls?"

Arab Shepherd

THE LARGE jars found in the cave contained scrolls which date back to the first century B.C. After all kinds of tests, scholars have verified the age of these manuscripts and removed all possibility of a hoax.

The scrolls make up a whole library including parts of nearly every book of the Old Testament. Among them is a complete copy of the Book of Isaiah. This document is about 1000 years older than any Hebrew copy of a complete book of the Bible which we had until now.

THE BOOKS WERE the property of a Jewish religious party, active at the time of Christ, called the Essenes. One of the documents sets out the doctrines of this group. Several of their practices and teachings resemble those of the Christians. For this reason it was thought that the discovery offered a challenge to the Christian faith.

But where is the challenge? THE SIMILARITIES between Christian practices and those of the Essenes are to be expected since both arose out of the same background of the Old Testament. Christ Himself said that He came "not to destroy but to fulfill." The Christian faith is the flower of the Jewish religion.

Before the documents were carefully studied, many claimed that they denied the divinity of Christ and so destroyed Christianity. Especially was this seen in the writings of the Frenchman, Dupont-Sommer. But in a clarification in the Saturday Review of March 3, 1956, he says: "I believe that the Dead Sea scrolls do not deny the divinity of Jesus. In a general sense, viewed as a whole the originality of the Christian Church seems to me to remain unchallenged."

WE SHOULD BE grateful to archaeology for this discovery near the Dead Sea. Far from challenging Christianity, the scrolls serve to fill in our knowledge of the background and unique character of the revelation Christ brought to the world. By contrast with them, the incomparably richer message which is Christ's is more readily appreciated.

Value of Dams - - - channel in previous years. County Commissioner Earl Taylor has a similar opinion. He says that the dams prevented extensive road and bridge damage along the affected streams in his precinct.

An idea of what the dams did for Upper Elm can be derived from the stream's behavior farther along. Below Gainesville the stream got out of its channel. In the control area it moved along easily with plenty of channel space to spare.

About 6000 acres of rich bottomlands lie along the creek between the first reservoir and the point where the creek left its bank below Gainesville. Many of those acres would have been flooded if the run off water had not been checked. Below Gainesville the flooded area would have been far more extensive if Upper Elm water had been permitted to join that of other streams.

The floodwater storage capacity of the fourteen completed reservoirs is estimated at 10,609 acre feet. The volume actually held back during the series of rains must be figured as much higher because each reservoir was draining, at a controlled rate, during the entire time. Water levels raised and dropped during the weeks and they were high on at least two occasions.

Water reached the spillway level at only two dams. Grant's overflowed once, Duesman's twice. Other reservoirs had water crowding the spillway and still others had a few more feet of capacity at the high water stage. In each case the story was the same. Hundreds of acre feet of water were held back at each rain and its runoff extended from a few hours to a few days.

Many of the larger reservoirs are still discharging their surplus water, and, at the present rate of fall, will require several more days before reaching their permanent level. This fact is causing inconvenience to some farmers who need to cross the creek but it is still preferable to flood losses.

Through the heavy rains the flood control system has presented only one problem. Some reservoirs drain slowly, hence are slow to regain their control potential for the next rain. Some of the dams apparently could be improved by additional drainage capacity.

To feed the land before it gets hungry; to give it rest before it grows weary; to weed it well before it gets dirty — these are the marks of a good husbandman. —Gaelic Proverb.

Ponds are Popular With U. S. Farmers
Farmers built 87,430 farm ponds in 1956, more than in any other previous year, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced.

Previous high year was 1954 when farmers built 86,421 farm ponds. During the past six years the USDA's Soil Conservation Service has given technical assistance to farmers in building 425,521 farm ponds. In all, farmers have built 803,000 farm ponds with SCS technical help. The ponds average from one to two acres each.

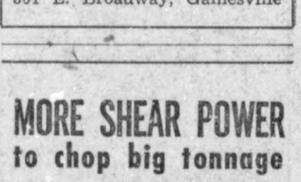

Most were built as part of a basic conservation plan farmers develop for their entire farm in cooperation with the nation's 2,726 soil conservation districts. Many pond builders received cost-sharing assistance through the department's agricultural conservation program. Ponds supply water for livestock, fire protection, small-scale irrigation, fish management, improvement of wildlife habitat, and recreation.

Farm ponds have been most popular in the southeastern, northeastern and midwestern states, according to SCS Administrator Donald A. Williams. Farmers in Texas, for example have built 14,534 farm ponds. Farmers have built 64,318 in Kentucky, 58,187 in Mississippi, 16,256 in Iowa, and 11,958 in Nebraska.

Priest Sponsored By Neus Will Have Mass at Lindsay

Rev. Robert W. Wilson of Fort Worth will celebrate a solemn mass in St. Peter's church at Lindsay on Sunday, June 2, at 4 p.m.

Present for the mass will be Mr. and Mrs. John Neu of Lindsay who through their generosity made the scholarship fund for seminary training possible for Father Wilson. The fund was started for the young seminarian by Mrs. and Mrs. Neu in 1951 and their efforts were rewarded with his ordination on May 25 in St. Patrick's Co-Cathedral, Fort Worth.

Ministers for the mass include Rev. Conrad Herda, pastor of St. Peter's; Rev. Thomas Tschope, chancellor of the Dallas-Fort Worth diocese and pastor of St. Augustine's church in Dallas, and Rev. Hubert Neu, a native of Lindsay and assistant pastor at St. Monica's church, Dallas.

Rev. Thomas Weinzapfel, pastor of St. Pius X parish in Dallas and business manager of the Texas Catholic, will deliver the sermon.

Carrying the chalice in the procession before the mass will be Margie Neu, a niece of Mr. and Mrs. Neu.

Following the mass, at about 6 p.m., a dinner will honor Father Wilson and the funds will go for the new St. Peter's High school.

Father Wilson attended St. Mary's grade school in Fort Worth and is a graduate of Lanier High school. He took one year of college and one year of philosophy at St. John's Seminary in San Antonio, and his final year of philosophy and four years of theology at Assumption Seminary, San Antonio.

Bible School Will Open With Parade Saturday Morning

Saturday will be registration day for Muenster's Vacation Bible School at the First Baptist church. But it will be more than that according to Rev. Billy Whitt, pastor, who said a parade is planned as the official opening event.

Registrations beginning at 8:30 a.m. are expected to be finished by 9 o'clock and the parade will form at church and proceed up Main Street. Bible school enrollees are being asked to bring their parents and all their friends with them to participate in the parade.

Classes will begin June 3 and continue through June 7. Hours each day are from 8:30 to 11 a.m. Students must attend at least three full sessions to be eligible for a diploma, Rev. Whitt said.

The day's program will include Bible study, craft work and fellowship. A commencement program will be held and hand-work will be displayed.

On the last day, Friday, the students will be asked to bring a picnic lunch and their swim suits. The closing event will be an outing at the city park.

Now there's an emergency spare tire for cars that can be rolled into a package the size of a football, inflated with a carbon dioxide cartridge.
